One more anecdote—to show that the man had a kind heart, and, though living handsomely himself, could feel for others less fortunate. Candidates for honours in Greats generally read for three terms previously to the examination with a private tutor, vulgo a "coach." Johnson was very anxious that one of his pupils should not lose this advantage, while the shabbiness of the young man's clothes and the solitariness of the life he led argued that there might be a difficulty in the way. Johnson, in the most delicate manner, offered to pay for the extra tuition needed. The offer was accepted; but, in a couple of months, the cheque so generously given was returned. The transaction was a pleasant one to both parties.

Johnson, the type of a good tutor, may seem to have been described too much by negatives—by what he was not. The positive side of his character might have been best divined by any one who had heard him quoting the "Golden Year," and emphasising, with all the accent of conviction, the lines which sum up the moral of the piece:—

> But well I know
> That unto him who works, and feels he works,
> This same great year is ever at the door.

He was a worker. And therefore happy? Not altogether. There lay the merit of the rule of life he imposed on himself. To a young barrister, weary of waiting for briefs and thinking of turning schoolmaster, he wrote: "Don't go in for tuition. It's heart-breaking work."

To toil without pleasure, and to toil bravely and well—surely this has in it something of the heroic.

---

Mr. Edmund Yates will preside at the festival of the Newsvenders' Benevolent and Provident Institution, to be held at Willis's Rooms, on Friday, March 4 next; and Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P., will preside at the anniversary festival of the Asylum for Idiots, at the Albion, on Tuesday, March 22.

Various devices have been suggested to prevent that form of forgery which effects its purpose by using a genuine cheque, but so altering the words and figures as to make it payable for a larger amount than the drawer intended. Some forgers are expert chemists, and they have discovered liquids by which every portion of the writing upon a cheque can be obliterated, and thus a cheque for a few pounds may be changed into one for as many hundreds. Mr. Nesbit, a distinguished chemist, has, it seems, hit upon a means by which such frauds will be rendered impossible. To remove ink either an acid or an alkaline solution must be employed. Mr. Nesbit proposes to print cheques in two colours; so that if the solvent employed by the forger be alkaline, one of the colours will disappear, if it be acid the other colour will vanish; and in either case the cheque will be so disfigured as to be no longer presentable.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

PROVENCAL LITERATURE.

Mr. Francis Hueffer began his second lecture on the Troubadours, on Thursday, the 3rd inst., by stating that they were not only the earliest poets of the Middle Ages, but were and have remained absolutely unsurpassed as metrical artists; since in the variety and richness of their rhymes, and the complicated and harmonious structure of their stanzas, they have been imitated by Dante, Petrarch, and even modern poets, including Mr. Swinburne. The Provençal poetry was essentially lyrical; and the Troubadours were Court poets, and disdained ballads. The North of France was the birth country and chief seat of epic poetry; and the "chanson de geste," the "roman," and the "fabliaux" frequently have the consummate grace of narrative; and in them monologues and dialogues frequently express the feelings of the poet under a fictitious name. The Troubadours, on the contrary, utter the intensity of their feelings in their own persons, sometimes in a monotonous manner. Epic poetry, however, was not entirely neglected by them; as Mr. Hueffer showed by referring to two classes of Provençal epics, the Carlovingian and Arthurian cycles, and describing their literary peculiarities. The popular epic was sung to a monotonous tune, while the artistic was recited; and in each the structure of the verse and the style differed, of which Mr. Hueffer gave details. "Giraut de Rossillo" was specially considered as an example of the popular epic, and "Flamenca" was cited as a masterpiece of the artistic epic, termed "nova," which in all essential points corresponded to our "novel," since there is in it a plot, worked up to a climax, illumined by clearly drawn characters and psychological observations. It might well be termed "a novel" with a purpose. In "Flamenca," this was the punishment of jealousy. Of this tale, Mr. Hueffer gave an interesting analysis. In the latter part of the lecture, he commented on the popular lyric poetry of the time, which existed in three forms, the "pastorela," the "balada" or dance song, and the "alba" or morning song, the most charming of all—illustrated by examples. Finally, he discussed the two great divisions of the artistic poetry of the Troubadours, the "Canzo"—treating of love only—and the "Sirventes"—the subjects of which were unlimited, being either personal, social, political, moral, or religious. In conclusion, Mr. Hueffer read a pathetic complaint by Bertram de Born, for the death of his friend, Prince Henry, the eldest son of our King Henry II.

COLONIAL ORGANISMS.

Dr. Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E., in the beginning of his discourse at the evening meeting on the 4th inst., referred to the development, directly or indirectly, of every animal from an ovum or egg, and of every plant from a germ or seed. He then described the development of the gregarina, a minute speck of protoplasm, existing in the body of the earthworm and similar animals, which, after various changes, breaks up into spindle-shape masses inclosed in a cyst, which finally bursts, when the segments become separate gregarinæ. There is thus a temporary development of a compound or colonial state. Similar changes occur in the amœbæ, very low protozoa; and a like process of segmentation takes place in the development from the egg of the higher animals. The foraminifera are also colonial, since the shells of these minute protozoa exhibit a division into chambers, each occupied by a unit, organically connected with its neighbours, from which it was produced by budding. The volvox globator, sponges, hydræ, and some other animals were also described as colonial in their development. The philosophy of biology, Dr. Wilson said, leads us to define an individual structurally as a being whose parts and organs are so closely connected that any separation means disintegration of the individual as a whole. Physiologically, an individual animal or plant is the total development of a single egg or seed. The separate units formed by segmentation are termed zoöids; but a new personality does not enter into the life-cycle of any individual until a new egg or seed is produced. Dr. Wilson's remarks were illustrated by diagrams; and, finally, the following conclusions were given as resulting from his study of colonial organisms:—1. The original condition of organisms is colonial: of this the universal segmentation of the egg is a proof, supported by the development of new forms, as in gregarinæ. 2. The lower we proceed in the scale of being, the more marked is the tendency to form colonial organisms. 3. The arrest of development by causing an organism to cease progression at a segregated stage tends to produce a "compound" and "colonial" constitution. 4. The plant world is colonial in its highest types. Plant development has not proceeded towards any marked increase of individuality over the colonial nature of lower forms; and a tree is in many respects as markedly colonial as a volvox. 5. The highest animals exhibit lingering traces of an originally colonial nature in their histological composition. 6. The tendency of life development is towards concentration and the conversion of the colony into the true individual.

THE AMAZONS IN GREEK SCULPTURE.

Professor Sidney Colvin, M.A., gave his second lecture on Saturday last, the 5th inst. Before commencing on the noble casts and fine diagrams with which his lecture was illustrated, he referred to a large chart of Greek art, divided by chronological periods, and by the nature of the process, sculpture and painting, and again subdivided according to the material employed. He then proceeded to consider the statues of Amazons "in the round." Passing over the few unimportant ones in bronze (at Naples, &c.), he characterised the class of life-sized marble statues of Amazons, standing in various postures, which, judging by analogy, were copies made at Rome between B.C. 100 and A.D. 150, of bronze originals, executed by Greek artists between 460 and 420 B.C., the greatest art period. In respect to these, reference was made to Pliny's account of the statues of Amazons, the work of Polycletus, Pheidias, and others, placed in the Temple of Diana at Ephesus, whither, it is said, the defeated Amazons fled for refuge. Referring to the specimens before him, including one Amazon at rest and another fatigued by wounds, the Professor commented on various details of hair and dress, compared with those of the statues of Artemis or Diana, whom the Amazons greatly resembled, although of less slender and maiden-like build. Continuous remarks were made on the numerous illustrations, classified into three distinct, well-defined groups, copies of originals in museums at Rome, Berlin, Oxford, Florence, Lansdowne House, and other places. In reference to a fine statue of an armed Amazon leaning on a spear, Professor Colvin adduced reasons for believing the original artist to have been Strongylion, a pupil of Myron, one of whose famous works, "The Trojan Horse," is dated 415 B.C., and another, an Amazon, was the favourite statue of Nero. These identifications, the Professor said, do not affect our appreciation of the meaning and beauty of the scattered marbles of our museums—repetitions by Roman handicraftsmen of the masterpieces, in which the greatest Greek sculptors realised the several types of these imagined enemies of their ancestors.

THE RED BLOOD-CORPUSCLES.

Professor E. A. Schafer's third lecture on the Blood, given on Tuesday, the 8th instant, was devoted to the structure of the red corpuscles of mammals and amphibid, illustrated by photographs magnified and exhibited on a screen, by specimens under microscopes, and by experiments. He showed how human blood, previously opaque, became transparent when mixed with water, the colouring matter in the disk-like corpuscles being dissolved out; and also commented on effects produced on these corpuscles by the action of acids, by freezing, and by the electric shock, the blood corpuscle being thereby broken up, and the colouring matter dispersed. A similar result is produced by mingling the blood of different kinds of animals, such as that of sheep and dogs. The structure of the blood-corpuscles of frogs, and the effects produced on them by various re-agents, was next considered and fully illustrated. An account was then given of the experiments of Dr. Roberts, of Manchester, made to separate blood into two parts, the colouring matter (hæmoglobin) and the colourless part (the stroma). After describing the structure of the animal and vegetable cell, with its cell-wall and nucleus (now termed protoplasm), the Professor recapitulated the arguments for and against the theory that the blood-corpuscle is a cell with a membranous envelope. In conclusion, reference was made to the notion that these corpuscles resemble the semi-living bodies, termed zooids. In the notice of last week's lecture, Mrs. Ernest Hart's remarkable paper on "The Micronumeric Numeration of the Blood Corpuscles," in the January number of the Quarterly Journal of Microscopical Science, should have been mentioned.

---

Mr. Francis Hueffer will give his concluding lecture on the Troubadours on Monday next, the 11th inst. On Thursday next Professor Ernst Pauer will give the first of two lectures on the History of Drawing-room Music, with Musical Illustrations. On Friday evening next Sir John Lubbock will give a discourse on Fruits and Seeds; and on Saturday next Mr. R. Stuart Poole, of the British Museum, will give the first of four lectures on Ancient Egypt in its Comparative Relations.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN WARS.

Four months of desultory and indecisive warfare on the frontier of rugged Basutoland have already cost the Cape Colony a million of money. It began in the middle of September, but was deliberately occasioned, in spite of all warnings and remonstrances since the previous March, by the Colonial Government forcing on its decree to take away from the loyal and peaceful Basutos their cheap and clumsy muskets, which they had only used in the British service. The Queen's Government in England, and Sir Garnet Wolseley before he left South Africa, as well as most of the resident magistrates and Government agents in Basutoland, and all the French Protestant missionaries, had in vain expressed their strong disapprobation of this measure. It was resented and resisted by the Basutos, as seeming to put them in a position of servile inferiority, compared with other native populations dwelling under the British Protectorate. The immediate responsibility for this perverse course taken by the Capetown Government rests with the "Colonial Secretary" or Prime Minister there, Mr. Gordon Sprigg, who acted, however, in this and other measures of native "policy," under the encouragement of Sir Bartle Frere. The fact is, that, within four years past, since the arrival of Sir Bartle Frere as Governor of the Cape and High Commissioner in South Africa, the British authorities, Colonial and Imperial, have gone to war against nearly every native tribe, from the Cape to the farthest limits of the Transvaal and Zululand. The Galekas, the Gaikas, the Tambookies, the Pondos, the Zulus, the Bapedi, the Basutos, and others, have in turn been harried with ubiquitous hostilities, costing certainly not less than twenty thousand lives, and an aggregate expenditure that probably approaches ten millions sterling. To crown all, while the Colonial Government is still engaged in its Basuto war, and has likewise to deal with an insurrection of various Kaffir tribes to the east, which is a secondary effect of this war, the Imperial Government now finds itself obliged to send an army to conquer the Dutch Republicans in the Transvaal, and may possibly be led into a subsequent conflict with the Orange Free State. All these unhappy contests, which involve an amount of waste, of human misery, and of bitter animosity between the different races, that cannot be computed, have been the result of an arbitrary and aggressive policy, adopted four or five years ago. Its aim was to coerce all the diverse populations, natives and colonists, of South Africa into a political unity, which should be ruled by a small circle of official persons at Capetown—a bureaucratic dominion extending across some 1500 miles of territory, with nearly half a million European subjects (at least two thirds of them Dutch) and at least two million natives. The scheme of a Confederation, devised by Lord Carnarvon with the best intentions, and calculated to save our Colonial Office here a great deal of trouble, had been rejected by the colonists of different provinces, whose particular interests could never agree. An alternative was therefore sought in setting on foot a series of military conquests, the exigencies of which should compel all these to submit as a practical necessity to some form of union. This is the grand political idea to which the peace of South Africa, almost unbroken during a quarter of a century before, has been sacrificed by an ambitious speculative statesmanship. There appears no small danger, at the present crisis, of a revolution quite the opposite way, attended perhaps with still worse disasters.

The incidents of the Basuto campaign, though it continues to employ a very large number of colonial troops, under several able and experienced commanders, have been of so little consequence that we need scarcely dwell further upon them. Colonel Mansfield Clarke, C.B., with Lieut.-Colonel Carrington, C.M.G. at Mafeteng, and Lieut.-Colonel Bayley, C.M.G. at Maseru, each of the two latter commanding one wing of the Cape Mounted Rifles (a new colonial corps) with yeomanry cavalry, volunteers, Burgher Militia, and native levies, have made some local impression on the enemy, but have been unable to get far into the mountainous country. The fighting has been mostly in the neighbourhoods of Mafeteng and Masern, the British stations on the frontier, which is, by-the-way, not the British colonial frontier, but that of the Dutch Orange Free State. It remains to be seen how long the Dutchmen will consent, by the persuasion of President Brand, to tolerate the movements of English colonial troops over their border, now that the Cape Colony, jealous of their kindred friendship for the Transvaal Dutchmen, has forbidden the import of ammunition, according to treaty, from Port Elizabeth into the Free State. Maseru, with the British Residency, the dwelling of Colonel C. D. Griffith, Government Agent for Basutoland, has been described in former Numbers of this Journal. We gave some views of it in our publication of Dec. 11, with an account of the Basuto attack there on Oct. 10, when the church and school-house, and one of the stores, were burnt at night by the enemy, but the fortified Residency and other houses withstood the attack. Colonel Bayly's force then came to Maseru, and made good its defence, on Oct. 28, against a more formidable attack, which was repulsed so decidedly that the place has since been considered quite safe. The two Views of Maseru which we now publish are, one of the Residency, with the three conical hills that overlook it, from the crests of which the Basutos kept up a hot fire; the other, a view of Litlasa's or Lethlasu's Cave, which is near the top of a rugged hill or cliff, 1200 ft. high, two miles south-south-west of the Residency. This cavern, partly natural, partly artificial, is 40 ft. high, and its interior was spacious enough to shelter three hundred of the Basuto warriors, some of their wounded, and some horses. It was occupied by them many days, while they besieged Maseru. These two Sketches were drawn for the Illustrated London News by Lieutenant W. Nelson, an officer of the Native Levies under Commandant W. J. Nettelton, forming part of Colonel Bayly's forces at Maseru. Mr. W. Nelson was killed in the action of Oct. 28; and we have received from Commandant Nettelton a letter, dated Maseru, Nov. 10, inclosing the two Sketches, which were found among Mr. Nelson's papers, with a note showing that Mr. Nelson meant to send them to us. We had, in fact, received earlier communications from Mr. Nelson, when he was in Natal and Zululand, to which a reply had been sent from this office. Commandant Nettelton, who served through the Zulu War, commanding a regiment of Native Infantry, under Lord Chelmsford, feels a kind and friendly wish, as a brother soldier, to find out some of Mr. Nelson's family in England, and to inform them of the circumstances of his death. He has written to Lord Chelmsford upon the subject; and, if any of our present readers know anything of Mr. Nelson, they may communicate with us. We have in our possession, from Commandant Nettelton, the official certificates of Mr. Nelson's discharge, on June 25, 1878, from the Natal Mounted Police, and also from the Frontier Light Horse, with a very good character. He was at that time twenty-three years of age. All that was known, in South Africa, of his connections, was a rumour that he was "a grandson of the late Bishop of Lincoln."

Another of our Illustrations, connected with this Basuto War, is the large engraving that fills the two middle pages of this week's Supplement. It is from a photograph, supplied by Messrs. J. and H. Pocock, proprietors of the Oudtshoorn Courant, representing a hundred and fifty Burghers of the Oudtshoorn district, under Captain Ferreira, mustering or halting opposite the Queen's Hotel, in order to start "for the front;" which in that case, on Nov. 20, meant a journey of six or seven hundred miles for them, going first to King William's Town, partly by sea, and thence proceeding inland. Mr. G. C. Bayne, the Resident Magistrate at Oudtshoorn, addressed to them a few words of encouragement. The whole number of Burghers summoned for service at that time was three thousand, from the entire Cape Colony, the Western and Eastern Provinces. It is not, perhaps, generally known in Europe, and it can scarcely be an inviting circumstance to emigrants, that the existing laws of the Cape Colony, with regard to compulsory military service, are more severe than those of despotic monarchies in the Old World. By an Act of the Colonial Legislature, passed in 1878, every man, English, Dutch, French, or German, between the ages of eighteen and thirty, is liable to be drawn for active service in the first class; and every man from thirty to fifty in the second class, not excepting married men with families. To find a substitute may cost from £100 to £200 or £300, according to the season, and the state of the harvest, or of local trade and business. We hear of the manager of a branch bank having been sent to prison for inability to obtain a substitute. The standing forces of the Colony are composed of the Cape Mounted Rifles, about 650 effectives, who were mostly of the old Frontier Armed and Mounted Police, and must not be mistaken for the Queen's crack regiment of "Cape Mounted Rifles," disbanded many years ago; three regiments of Mounted Yeomanry, two thousand volunteer infantry, and two batteries of volunteer artillery. They are not to have the assistance of any troops belonging to the Imperial Government, either for the Basuto War, or for the operations against insurgents in Kaffirland; indeed, there is but one regiment or battalion of the Queen's troops in the Colony; and that is in garrison at Capetown.

Under these circumstances, as the resources of the Colonial Government, both in men and money, are limited, there is some probability that it will soon desist from the Basuto War, and allow the new Governor, Sir Hercules Robinson, to present the case to her Majesty's Government for pacific mediation. It has been distinctly laid down by Lord Kimberley, that no confiscation of the lands of the Basutos will be permitted; and he has intimated that, if the Colony asks the Imperial Government for military aid, the entire rule and administration of Kaffirland will be taken away from the Capetown officials, and will henceforth be conducted, as it formerly was, by the officers of the Imperial Government. We should rejoice in such a consummation, for the sake of the poor ill-used native races, who will never get just and fair usage from a Government representing the mere colonists of any section, and least of all from the Eastern Province, which has recently gained political ascendancy. In the meantime, there are symptoms of a Dutch sectional movement among the people of the Cape Colony, deeply affected by the forcible suppression of their kinsmen's Free State in the Transvaal. The Dutchmen of the Burgher Militia serving in Basutoland have recently taken to refusing to fight, even on the very battle-field. This happened on the 14th ult., when, in an action fought by Colonel Carrington, 950 Burghers moved off the field; and it was all that his remaining force could do, in an obstinate fight of five hours, to defeat the enemy upon that occasion.

In the eastern or south-eastern Kaffir districts, extending from the Kei River, beyond King William's Town, all round the coast region to Natal, there seems a better prospect just now of tranquillity being restored. Several local and tribal revolts have taken place, since the Basuto War became known, and two or three of the English officials have been killed at their posts. The most disturbed parts have been Tembuland, the district of the Tambookies, and that of the Pondomise, St. John's Territory, with adjacent portions of Pondoland and of Griqualand East, situated to the south of Basutoland. These districts were "annexed" to the Cape Colony by Governor Sir Bartle Frere, in a very summary manner, immediately after the termination of his Gaika and Galeka War, in June, 1878. He was determined to abolish the feudal powers of all the Kaffir hereditary chiefs over their tribes and clans, whose social organisation is like that of the Scottish Highland clans in ancient times. Sir Bartle thought, like an Indian Government official, he could effect this change all at once, by a stroke of the pen, and substitute the domestic authority of British magistrates, without any regard to cherished native traditions. In this direction, as in many others, his policy has utterly failed to secure the peaceful and loyal submission of the native people in South Africa. There is however, an apparent likelihood of their being presently subdued. We learn that Umquikela, the Pondo Chief, who is a lazy drunkard, has "disapproved the action of his people;" that Commandant Frost has had a successful engagement in Tembuland; and that Umditshwa, Chief of the Pondomise, has surrendered with eight hundred men. In reading, also, of the "capture" of twenty thousand oxen and ten thousand sheep, by the gallant Colonial troops, who expect their share of this "loot," we are inclined to pity the miserable Kaffir population, thus deprived of their cattle, their only means of subsistence. This melancholy consideration is strengthened by the deplorable accounts of starvation among the Zulus, since the war in their country the year before last. All our South African warfare is, in a great degree, an affair of taking the cattle from the hostile nation, and so depriving them of their livelihood. As the late Captain T. J. Lucas has said of it, "Well may a Kaffir war be called the snob of all wars in this world!"

THE CENTRE OF KAFFIRLAND.

The region of South Africa which is most properly called Kaffirland, or sometimes Kaffraria, extends along the south-east coast, that of the Indian Ocean, from the Great Kei River to the province of Natal. Its inland boundary, separating it from Basutoland and from a north-eastern part of the Cape Colony, is formed by the mountain ranges that ascend from the coast-lands to the high interior table-land, and that here take the names of Gatberg and Drakenberg, continuing the latter name along the western frontier of Natal. The population of this territory, which is above two hundred miles long and one hundred miles broad, are the true Kaffirs, from whom the Zulus and the Basutos should be carefully distinguished. One district, however, called East Griqualand, partly comprised within the geographical limits above defined, is inhabited by a mixed race, some of whom are of Hottentot blood, and others are descendants of the emancipated slaves removed from the old colony. The principal Kaffir tribes, whose common characteristic in language is the use of the prefix "Ama" to denote the collective identity of a nation in its plural name, are the Amaxosa, consisting mainly of the Galekas and the Gaikas, dwelling near the Kei River; the Tembus, or Tambookies; the Bomvanas, the Pondos, and the Pondomise, with one or two of less importance. The Fingoes are not a tribe, but a collection of refugees or liberated prisoners from different broken tribes; and there is a section of "Emigrant Tambookies," who have been located, as the Fingoes were likewise, in particular districts under a British Protectorate. The aggregate numbers of these tribes amount to nearly half a million; they are all pastoral folk, having plenty of oxen and living comfortably in time of peace. During a quarter of a century preceding the Kaffir War that began in October, 1877, they had given little or no trouble either to the Cape Colony or to the British Government. The occasion of that war, it may be recollected, was a chance quarrel at a wedding feast between some Galekas and a party of Fingoes; but Sir Bartle Frere thought fit to summon the Great Galeka chief, Kreli, the head of all Kaffirdom, to appear before him as a vassal. Kreli did not comply, and war ensued at once, which lasted till June of the following year. Its result was the formal annexation of all Kaffirland to the Cape Colony.

The centre of this region, geographically, is the Umtata station, or town, a village of huts with a few European officials or settlers, on the Umtata river, between the Tembu and the Pondomise districts. It is about equidistant from the more civilised border of the Cape Colony, about King William's Town and Queenstown, and from the southern frontier of Natal. We publish four rather interesting views of the Umtata settlement, from photographs by Messrs. Dersley and Morley. One of them represents a modest-looking temporary church, styled the Pro-Cathedral of St. John's, Umtata. This was opened by Bishop Callaway on June 24, 1877. At that date, we are told, Umtata contained a small undenominational chapel, a little dwelling-house, and a small iron warehouse for storing the property of the new English Church Mission. In the suburbs there were ten or a dozen houses belonging to farmers and traders, including, of course, an hotel-keeper. A troop of the Frontier Armed and Mounted Police, with their Inspector, occupied patrol-tents in the middle of the city. The Parsonage Hut was built in August of that year. It now forms one of a group of buildings, increasing as rapidly as means will permit, and forming the Central Station of the Diocese of St. John's. In the next Illustration we show the Residence of Major Elliot, C.M.G., the chief magistrate of Tembuland. This is a unique specimen of the developed Kaffir style of architecture, very picturesque and cool, with grounds adjoining which promise in a few years to improve the appearance of the whole town. His territory includes some magistracies, with a population of 100,000 natives, besides that of St. John's River in Pondoland. The Umtata Falls are situated about three miles below the village. They are little over 50 feet in height. A piece of level ground below is in great request for picnics and school-feasts. Umtata and its Church Mission have suffered very severely from the war that has been raging since last October all over Kaffirland.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

The unhappy conflict with the Dutch Republicans of the Transvaal, which is likely to be attended with serious political complications in the other South African provinces, has this week cost further useless bloodshed, notwithstanding the efforts that are made, both in the Orange Free State and by the Dutch subjects of her Majesty in the Cape Colony, to bring about a pacific settlement.

Sir George Pomeroy Colley, the Commander-in-Chief, and Governor of Natal, after his repulse by the Boers at Laing's Neck on Friday, the 28th ult., remained with a thousand regular troops in his fortified camp on the road, eighteen miles north of Newcastle, until last Tuesday. But, on Monday last, he found that a large force of the Boers had got upon the road between his position and the town of Newcastle, in Natal, intercepting the mails, the waggon convoys, and ambulances conveying the wounded to hospital. There was much firing on the road ten miles from Newcastle, and the ambulances were captured; the Boers seized the draught animals, and made prisoners of the British wounded. Newcastle having no forces to defend it but a hundred invalid soldiers, who had been left behind in Sir George Colley's advance, there was great apparent danger that the town, and the military stores there, would fall into the enemy's hands. For this reason, on Tuesday morning, Sir George Colley resolved upon a fresh movement, not pursuing his former line of advance towards the Transvaal frontier, but returning to cross the Ingogo River, which he had left, on the 27th ult., four miles in rear of his encampment at Hatley's Hotel. His aim was now to attack and disperse that detached body of the enemy which had got between him and Newcastle. Its strength had been estimated the day before at three hundred men, but it may well have been doubled or trebled, or even more, during the night, as the Boers are well mounted, familiar with the mountain roads, and can travel with great rapidity.

The following despatch from Sir George Colley, written apparently on Tuesday night, after fighting six hours, was received at the War Office, and published on Wednesday morning:—

"Communication between this and Newcastle having been interrupted by Boers, I moved out this morning with five companies of the 60th Rifles, two field and two mountain guns, and a detachment of mounted men to patrol the road, leaving two mountain guns and one company of Rifles on a commanding point on this side of the Ingogo. I crossed the river with the remainder of the troops. On the rising ridge beyond the Ingogo the enemy showed in considerable force. I seized the plateau, and was immediately vigorously attacked on all sides by the Boers, who received very large reinforcements during the day. The attack was maintained from 12.15 p.m. till nearly 6 p.m., but was repulsed at all points. The Boers drew off towards sunset, and I brought in the force. Captain Macgregor, staff; Captain Greer, R.A.; and Lieutenants Garrett and O'Connell, 60th, are killed. Lieutenants Parsons, A. D. Pixley, Haworth, and Thistlethwayte, 60th, are wounded. About 150 men are killed and wounded. The Boer loss, judging by the nature of the attack and the number of the wounded seen being carried away, must have been very heavy."

It appears from this despatch that on Tuesday evening Sir George Colley was still in his camp at Hatley's, eighteen miles from Newcastle; but whether the road behind him was effectually cleared seems to be more than doubtful, and the safety of Newcastle was by no means assured. Very large reinforcements, however, will be moving up this week from Pietermaritzburg, and from Durban, where troops are now landing; so that it is impossible but that the next British advance, in full force, will make its way over the frontier despite all opposition. The relief of Sir Owen Lanyon and the British garrison at Pretoria, as well as at Wesselstroom and Standerton, may be expected with equal certainty; but it is not improbable that the garrison at the fort at Potchefstroom may be compelled to surrender.

Sir George Colley had sent an ultimatum to the Boers, calling upon the insurgents to lay down their arms on Jan. 23. Commandant Joubert forwarded it to the Boer Government, which sent a reply on the 29th ult. from Heidelberg. The Boers decline to accede to Sir George Colley's request while called insurgents and accused of misleading innocent people. They emphatically repeat their willingness to comply with the wishes of the Imperial Government regarding confederation, and declare they will be satisfied with the rescinding of annexation and the restoration of the Republic under a protectorate; the British flag to be hoisted once a year. Should these terms be rejected, they must submit to their fate; but "the Lord will provide."

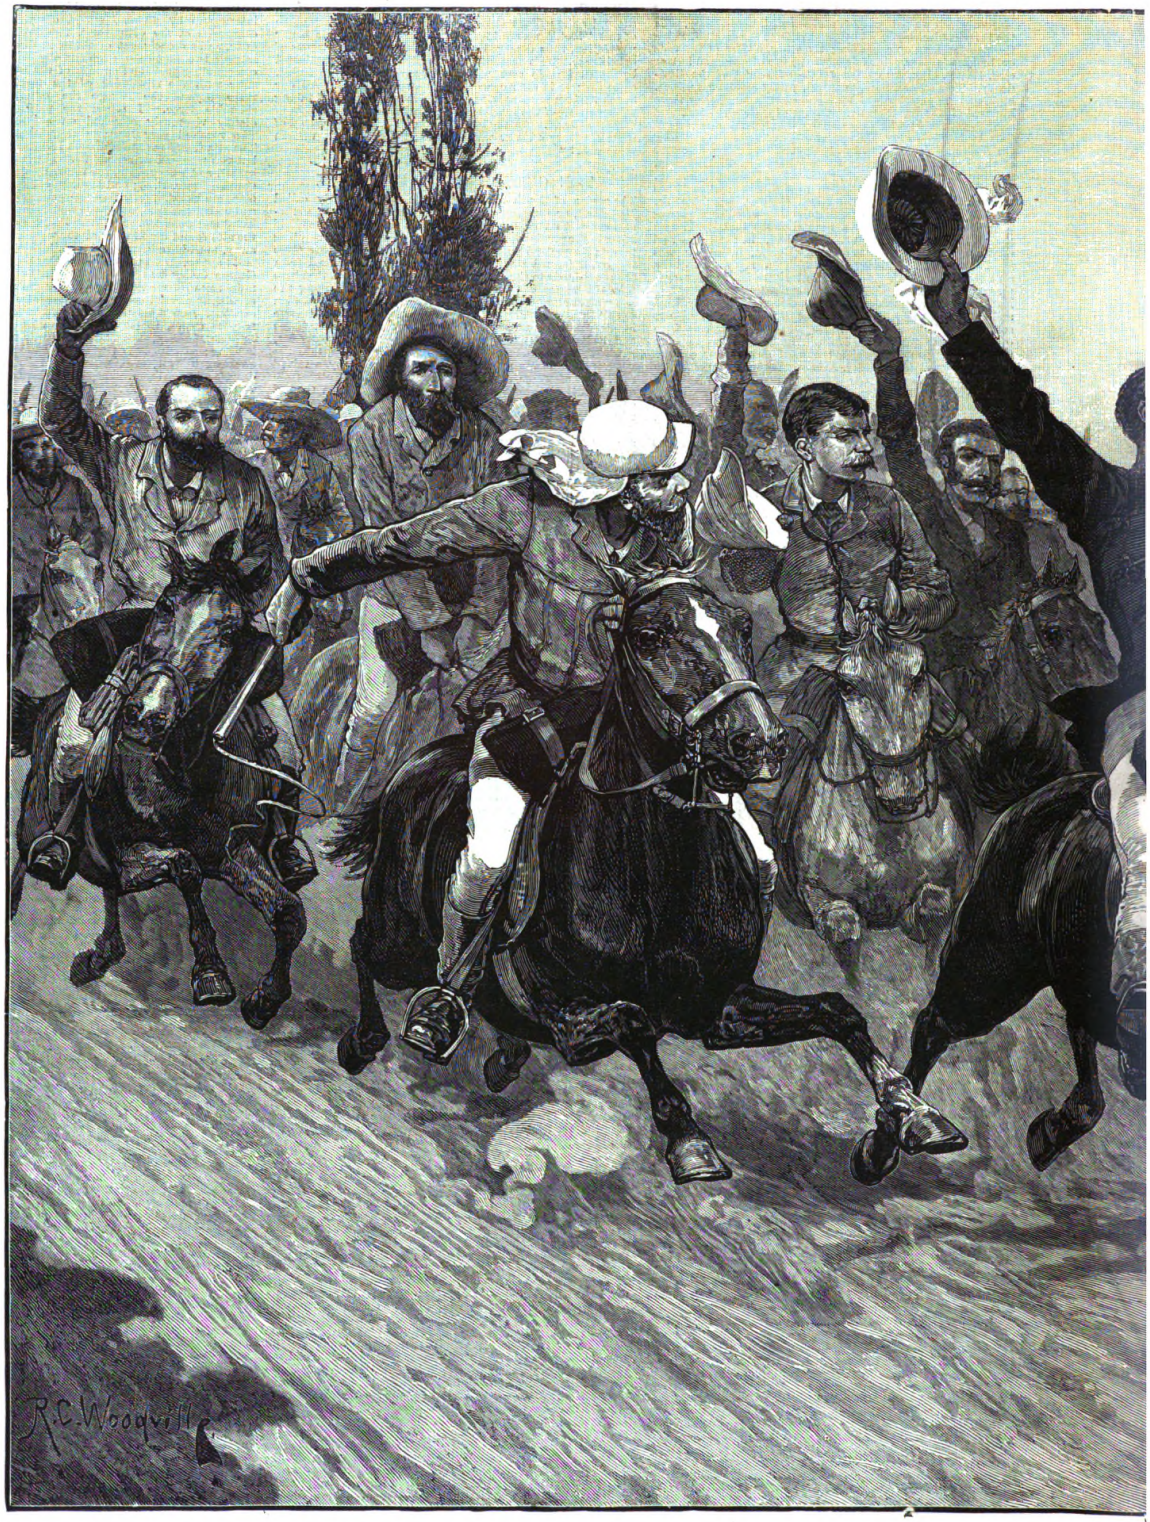
The Dutch people in the Western Province of Cape Colony have adopted the following resolutions in the meetings held at Paarl and Stellenbosch in favour of the Transvaal Boers:—

"This meeting deeply regrets that, owing to the British forces having fired the first shot, a collision with the Boers has taken place. This meeting considers the impending struggle one for principle and rights granted to the Boers, and of which they have been unjustly deprived; it regrets that the Imperial Government has refused to entertain the request to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the true condition of affairs, misrepresentations of which have constantly been made." They further declare that "the enforcement of British rule in the Transvaal by forcible measures will be the ruin of that country, and will lead to the estrangement of local subjects in this colony." They hold that "the only solution of the present difficulty is the restoration of independence to the Transvaal under reasonable conditions," and they desire that the Colonial Administration shall remain neutral. Similar resolutions have been adopted in several other districts.

In the Portuguese Chamber on Saturday a motion was brought forward and adjourned proposing that the Portuguese Government should mediate between the British Government and the Boers.

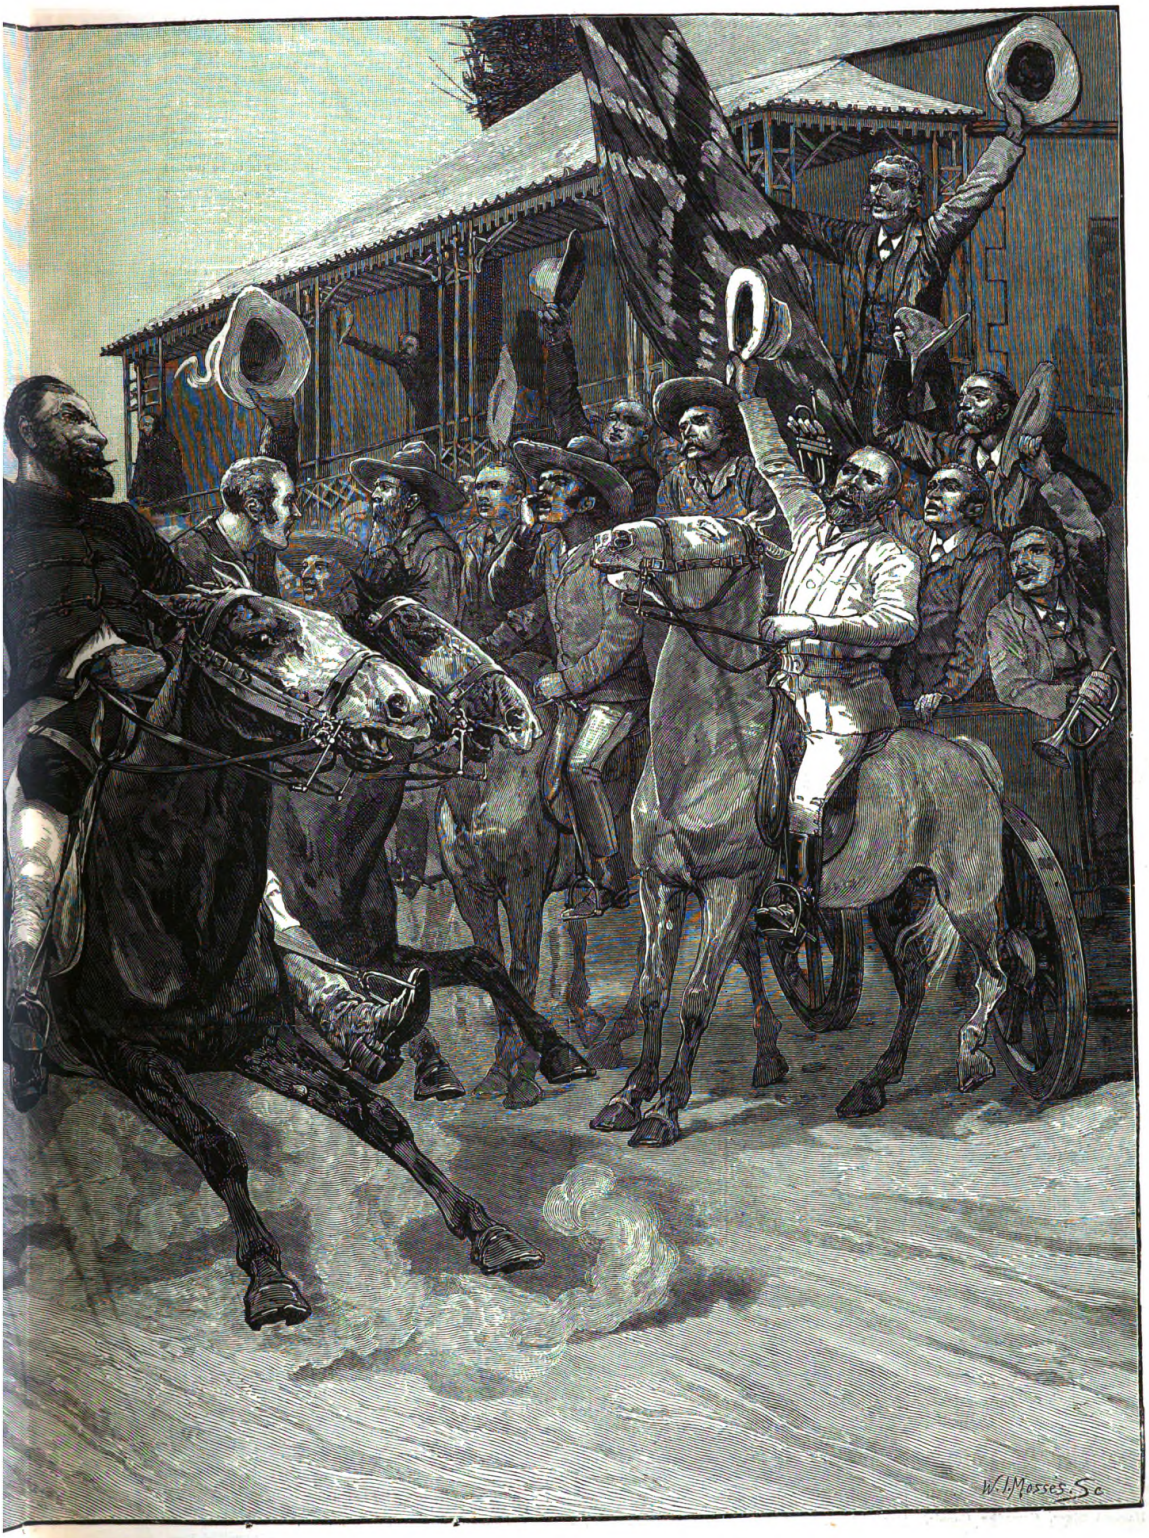
A deputation waited on the Metropolitan Board of Works yesterday week to present a memorial, urging the board to oppose the scheme of the Great Eastern Railway Company to make a branch line from Chingford to High Beech, through Epping Forest. It was argued that this line would destroy and disfigure seventy acres of this magnificent recreation-ground, and that no further railway accommodation was required. The memorial was referred to the Works and General Purposes Committee.

A practical question, of great importance to British commercial and other interests in the East, is ably discussed by Mr. Harold A. Perry, M.A., barrister-at-law, Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. His pamphlet on "The Future of Justice in Egypt," published by Mr. P. S. King, of Westminster, is the result of personal observations during two visits to Egypt on professional business, and of a close and accurate study of recent affairs in that country. It should be remembered that the International or Mixed European and Egyptian tribunals, which were established in 1876 for a probationary term of five years, have lost their powers in this month of February, 1881. Much of the security for all foreign dealing, public or private, with the Khedive's dominions will now depend on the principles to be adopted in reconstituting this part of the judicial system. It has been referred to a Committee, including the European Consuls-General and some of the Judges of the Mixed Tribunals, presided over by the Egyptian Prime Minister. Mr. Harold Perry supplies a clear and succinct narrative of the history, since 1867, of the attempts that have been made to procure an efficient and trustworthy judicature for cases involving the interests of foreigners in Egypt. It is a very useful contribution to our knowledge of a part of "the Eastern Question" that specially concerns England. He shows the persistent unwillingness of the Khedive's Government, in spite of the efforts of Nubar Pasha some years ago, to admit of this independent jurisdiction exercising full and free powers for the protection of Europeans against the abuses still rife in the Government administration. He warns us that an endeavour is now made by that Government to introduce changes in the constitution and procedure of the Mixed Tribunals, which would fatally defeat their original good purpose. On the other hand, he suggests a few valuable amendments and reforms, which might ultimately be extended, with the experience of their safe and beneficial working, to the whole judicial system of Egypt, and to the relief of many sore grievances endured by the poorest class of the people. Mr. Harold Perry, in passing, breaks a lance with a French writer, M. Gabriel Charmes, who rather insidiously attacked the Mixed Tribunals in the Revue des Deux Mondes of last November. But there is no reason, we hope, why legitimate French interests should not harmonise with British interests to bring about a satisfactory establishment upon this ground.



THE BASUTO WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA: DEPARTURE

FROM A PHOTOGRAPH BY J. AND H. POC



E OF BURGHERS FROM OUDTSHOORN FOR THE FRONT.

POCOCK, OF OUDTSHOORN.—SEE PAGE 162.

OBITUARY.

LORD ORMATHWAITE.

The Right Hon. John Benn-Walsh, Lord Ormathwaite, of Ormathwaite Cumberland, and a Baronet, died on the 3rd inst., at Warfield Park, Bracknell, in his eighty-third year. He was born Dec. 9, 1798, the only son of Sir John Benn-Walsh, first Baronet of Ormathwaite, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Mr. Joseph Fowke, of Bexley, and was educated at Eton, and at Christchurch, Oxford. He succeeded his father as second Baronet in 1825, and sat in the House of Commons in the Conservative interest from 1830 to 1834 and from 1838 to 1840, and for Radnor from 1840 to 1868. In the latter year, on April 16, he was raised to the Peerage as Baron Ormathwaite. He held the office of Lord Lieutenant of Radnorshire from 1842 to 1875. He married, Nov. 9, 1825, Jane, youngest daughter of George Henry, sixth Earl of Stamford and Warrington, and by her (who died June 22, 1877) had issue. The eldest son, Arthur, now second Lord Ormathwaite, Lord Lieutenant of Radnorshire, and late M.P. for that county, was born April 14, 1827, and married, July 20, 1858, Lady Katherine Emily Anne, daughter of Henry, seventh Duke of Beaufort, K.G., and has issue.

SIR R. G. MACDONNELL.

Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell, K.C.M.G., C.B., LL.D., died on the 5th inst., at Hyères, in the South of France. He was born Sept. 3, 1814, the son of the Rev. Richard MacDonnell, D.D., formerly Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, by Jane, his wife, second daughter of the Very Rev. Richard Graves, Dean of Ardagh; was educated in the University of Dublin, where he graduated in 1835; and was called to the Irish Bar in 1838, and to the English in 1840. From 1843 to 1847 he acted as Chief Justice of Gambia, and in 1847, entering the Colonial Service, was nominated to the governorship of Gambia, which he held until 1852. His subsequent appointments were Governor of St. Lucia, 1852; of St. Vincent, 1852-5; of South Australia, 1855-63; of Nova Scotia, 1864-5; and of Hong-Kong, 1865-72. In 1871 the honorary degree of LL.D. was conferred on him by Trinity College, as well as the Knight-Commandership of St. Michael and St. George by his Sovereign. He had been made C.B. in 1852, and had received the honour of knighthood in 1855. Sir Richard married Blanche Anne, daughter of Mr. Francis Skurray, of Brighton, but had no issue.

SIR H. W. PARKER.

Sir William Henry Watson Parker, K.C.M.G., J.P. for Surrey, died on the 2nd inst., at his residence, Stawell House, Richmond, Surrey. He was born in 1808, the youngest son of the late Mr. Thomas Watson Parker, of Lewisham, Kent, by Mary, his wife, daughter and heiress of Mr. John Carnell, of Correndon. From 1838 to 1846 he was private secretary to Sir George Gipps, Governor of New South Wales; from 1846 to 1855 Crown Nominee of the Legislative Council and Chairman of Committees of the whole Council; from 1856 to 1857 First Minister and Principal Secretary at the first institution of responsible Government; and from 1856 to 1860 a member of the Executive Council. After his return to England he unsuccessfully contested Greenwich. He married, 1843, Emmeline Emily, youngest daughter of Mr. John Macarthur, of Paramatta, and of Camden Park, New South Wales.

MAJOR CARTWRIGHT, M.P.

Mr. Fairfax William Cartwright, M.P. for South Northamptonshire, J.P. and D.L., died on the 2nd inst., at 7, New Burlington-street. He was born May 14, 1823, the elder son of the late General William Cartwright, of Flore House, near Weedon, by Mary Anne, his wife, daughter and heiress of Mr. Henry Jones, and was grandson of Lieutenant-Colonel Ralph William Cartwright, of Aynhoe, M.P. for Northamptonshire, by Emma, his wife, daughter of Cornwallis, Viscount Hawarden. Mr. William Cornwallis Cartwright, of Aynhoe, M.P. for Oxfordshire, is first cousin of the deceased gentleman. Mr. Fairfax Cartwright was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated in 1844, and was subsequently a Fellow of All Souls' College. He served for some time in the Austrian army, and also as Major in the 2nd Hussars, British German Legion. He was first elected for South Northamptonshire on the Conservative interest in 1868. His brother, Captain Aubrey Agar Cartwright, fell at Inkerman.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Mr. John Gould, F.R.S., the distinguished ornithologist, on the 3rd inst., in his seventy-seventh year.

Mr. Philip Patton Blyth, J.P. and D.L., on the 31st ult., at 20, Brunswick-square, Brighton, aged seventy-seven.

Major-General J. C. P. Prescott, on the 31st ult. He was son of the Rev. J. Prescott, Vicar of Dunston and Rector of North Somercotes, Lincolnshire.

Mr. Durwent Moultrie Coleridge, eldest son of the Rev. Derwent Coleridge, late Rector of Hanwell, Middlesex, on Dec. 5, at Sydney, New South Wales, aged fifty-one.

John Davidson, M.D., C.B., Inspector-General R.N., Hon. Physician to the Queen, on the 31st ult., at Bosworth Lodge, Willesden-lane, aged sixty-three.

Major William Henry Hingeston, Commanding 58th Regiment, on the 29th ult., at Laing's Neck, South Africa, aged forty-two. He was only surviving son of the late Mr. John Hingeston, of Lyme Regis, Dorset.

Mr. Arthur O'Shaughnessy, the author of "An Epic of Women," "Music and Moonlight," and other poetical works, on the 29th ult., in the thirty-fifth year of his age, from an attack of inflammation of the lungs.

Mr. William White, a well-known chemist and mineralist. He was youngest son of Mr. J. White, J.P. and D.L., of Merton Hall, Yorkshire, and was the author of several works on chemistry and on the subject of mining.

Captain Claude Bettington, C.M.G., on Dec. 29, at Elmina, on the Gold Coast. He was the second son of Mr. Albemarle Bettington, formerly Indian Civil Service. He served some time as a volunteer in New Zealand and in the late Zulu War, being present at the battle of Ulundi.

Lieutenant Robert Hamond Elwes, Grenadier Guards, A.D.C. to Sir G. Pomeroy Colley, killed in the battle at Laing's Neck, South Africa. He was born in 1856, the elder son of the late Robert Elwes, Esq., of Congham House, Norfolk, by Mary Frances, his wife, daughter of the Rev. Richard Lucas, Rector of Edith Weston, Rutlandshire, and succeeded his father in 1878.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

W H (Adderbury).—The announcement of check has no signification, and no penalty is incurred by the player who utters it. The same rule applies to the word checkmate. Your opponent's pretension that he was entitled to remove your best man from the board was simply preposterous.

J P (Barcelona).—The nearest approach to what you require will be found in Staunton's "Chessplayers' Handbook," published by H. G. Bohn, York-street, Covent-garden, London. The price is five shillings. As regards the openings, the book is obsolete.

J A (Penzance).—The solution referred to in your letter appeared last week.

W J E.—The solutions of the supplementary problems shall be published in future.

W W (Canterbury).—Neat enough, and if correct it shall have a diagram.

W P (Cape Town).—The variations arising on Black's moves in the solution of a problem should be indicated, but they need not be set forth in detail.

S G C (Humberstone).—We have not found the problem you inquired about. Can you furnish us with a more definite date than "fifteen or sixteen years ago"?

G M (Eton).—The diagram has been returned to you, as requested.

ANY AMATEUR desirous of playing a game by correspondence may address M. Bordas, 157, Rue de Rennes, Paris.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1920 and 1921 received from W Pocock of Cape Town, and of No. 1925 from Rev John Wills, Portland, U.S.A.

CORRECT SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1926 received from James Atkinson, J A Shumacke, Orima, and Emile Frau.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1927 received from James Atkinson, W J Eggleston, J Bumstead, John Perkins, Emile Frau, T Chaloner, and H Stebbing.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1928 received from H B J Perez Ventoso, Lulu, E P Vulliamy, Shadforth, East Marden, R H Brooks, W Hillier, D W Keil, L Falcon, C Darragh, A Old Hand, Ben Nevis, I. Baltger, J. Sharswood, J W Waugh, E Sharswood, E Casella (Paris), C S Cole, E Elsbury, A M Colborne, S Lowndes, Aaron Harper, N S Harris, F Ferris, M O'Halloran, R Jessop, C Oswald, Jupiter Junior, Josiah Ainsworth, H H Noyes, Ben Nevis, H Blacklock, O F (Ghent), T Greenbank, G W Law, James Dobson, J A Schmucke, Julia Short, Cant, S Jenkinson, D W (Guernsey), Lily and Comrade, Norman Rumbelow, Portobello, Sidmouth, E L G, Snatch, C Wood, J Tucker, G A (Shoeburyness), Semaj, J W W, Frank Littleley, Hereward, H Stebbing, A Elsworth, W F H (Swansea), J J Hewitt, Penzance Drawing-room Players, A C (Staines), T H Lee-Warner, W Scott, W J Eggleston, Omega (Windsor), E Louden, Dr F St, J A Brown, John Perkins, Joaquin Palazie, and Theodor Willink.

SOLUTIONS OF THE "HERMIT'S" PROBLEM received from A C and W J Eggleston.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1927.

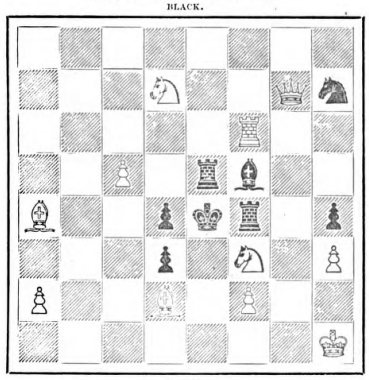
| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. R to Q 5th | K takes R |
| 2. P to K 4th | Any move |
| 3. B mates. | |

SOLUTION OF THE HERMIT'S PROBLEM.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. Q to R 8th | P to R 4th* |
| 2. K to Kt 2nd | K or P moves |
| 3. Q mates | |

*If 1. P to Kt 4th (ch), then 2. K to B 4th, &c.

PROBLEM No. 1930.
By W. R. Coz and G. H. McLennan.
BLACK.



WHITE.
White to play, and mate in three moves.

A smart Affair between Mr. DREW ROBERTS and Mr. C, of the Dublin Chess Club.
(Evans's Gambit.)

| WHITE (Mr. R.) | BLACK (Mr. C.) | WHITE (Mr. R.) | BLACK (Mr. C.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th | 12. B to K Kt 5th | Q to K sq |
| 2. Kt to K B 3rd | Kt to Q B 3rd | 13. R to K 4th | B takes R |
| 3. B to B 4th | B to B 4th | 14. Q to Kt sq | B to B 6th |
| 4. P to Q Kt 4th | B takes Kt P | | |
| 5. P to Q B 3rd | B to R 4th | | |
| 6. Castles | Kt to K B 3rd | | |
| 7. P to Q 4th | P takes P | | |
| 8. P to K 5th | Kt to K 5th | | |

His only chance of meeting the attack White is preparing; i. to bring the Q Kt around to K Kt 3rd by way of K 2nd; but he is, apparently, unconscious of the impending coup.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | 15. R to R 4th | P to K Kt 3rd |
| | | 16. Q takes P (ch) | |

He should have advanced the P to Q 4th at once. That move is essential to the development of his game, and White never affords him another opportunity of making it.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 9. Q to Kt 3rd | Cast'es | | P takes Q |
| 10. R to K sq | Kt takes Q B P | 17. B to B 6th | |
| 11. Kt takes Kt | B takes Kt | White mates next move. | |

A capital finish to a cleverly played game.

Played between Mr. MONCK, of Dublin, and Mr. STEVENS, of Coventry, by correspondence.
(Double Gambit.)

| WHITE (Mr. M.) | BLACK (Mr. S.) | WHITE (Mr. M.) | BLACK (Mr. S.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th | 17. R to Kt 3rd | |
| 2. B to B 4th | B to B 4th | | |
| 3. P to Q Kt 4th | B takes P | This line of play was recommended by the late Herr Lowenthal. | |
| 4. P to K B 4th | P to Q 4th | | |
| 5. P takes Q P | P to K 5th | 18. | Kt to Q 2nd |
| 6. Kt to K 2nd | Kt to K B 3rd | 19. P to Q B 4th | |
| 7. P to Q B 3rd | B to Q B 4th | | |
| 8. P to Q 4th | P tks P (en pas.) | A mistake which gives the second player an immediate advantage. | |
| 9. Q takes P | Castles | 20. | P takes P |
| 10. R to R 3rd | B takes B | 21. R takes P | P to B 6th |
| 11. Kt takes B | B to Kt 5th | 22. R takes Kt | Q takes Kt |
| 12. Castles (K R) | B takes Kt | 23. R to Q B 7th | Q R to B sq |
| 13. Q takes B | Kt takes P | 24. Q to Kt 7th | R takes R |
| 14. Q to B 3rd | P to Q B 3rd | 25. Q takes R | Q to Kt 3rd |
| 15. Q R to Kt sq | | 26. Q to B 4 h | P to B 7th |
| Up to this point the moves in this game are identical with those in the first of the match, played in 1859, between Messrs. Morphy and Mongredien. | | 27. Q to Kt 3rd | R to Q sq |
| | | He has nothing better to do. If 27. Q to K 2nd, then 27. P Queens, &c. | |
| 15. | Q to R 4th | | |
| Mr. Morphy, who was second player in the game referred to above, here moved the Q to K 2nd. | | 27. | Q takes Q |
| | | 28. P takes Q | R to Q sth, and White resigned. |
| 16. B takes Kt | P takes B | | |

Mr. James Mason, the celebrated American chessplayer, conducted sixteen games against the same number of adversaries at the City Club on Monday last. The play, which attracted a large number of spectators, resulted in Mr. Mason winning all the games save one.

On the 29th ult. matches were played by several of the suburban clubs. Greenwich defeated Excelsior with a score of five games to two and two draws, and Bermondsey drew a match against Kentish Town, each side scoring four.

A statement is going the round of the American chess press to the effect that the famous "Essay on Chess," which appeared in the Craftsman (London, Sept. 15, 1735), was written by the Rev. Louis Ron, a Dutch clergyman settled in New York at that time. As Ron's work on the subject of chess, together with the circumstances which led him to undertake it, are fully described in the book of the first American Chess Congress, it is surprising that it should be confounded with either the Craftsman Essay or the ponderous "Letter" which that sally provoked. There is no evidence that Ron ever saw the Essay. What he did see was Lord Hervey's answer to it, which was published a week later in pamphlet form, and what he wrote he called "Critical Remarks on the Letter, &c." All the Craftsman papers were written by one "Caleb D'Anvers, of Gray's inn, Esquire," and they were collected and published, with a portrait of the author, by R. Francklin, of Russell-street, Covent-garden, in the year 1737.

The second number of the British Chess Magazine (John Watkinson, Fairfield, Huddersfield), and the Chessplayers' Chronicle (W. Morgan, 23, Great Queen-street), contain, as usual, a good selection of games and problems. Both magazines deserve the support of all chessplayers.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Sept. 8, 1870) of Señora Dona Catalina Barron de Escandon, formerly of No. 12, Callejon de Betlemitas, but late of No. 9, Calle de San Francisco, both in the city of Mexico, who died on June 13 last, was proved in London on the 25th ult. by Señor Don Pablo Escandon y Barron, the son, the personal estate in England being sworn under £300,000. The testatrix gives full discretion to her husband, who is named as executor, as to her funeral, and the alms and suffrages for her soul, and beseeches him to avoid ostentatious expense and worldly pomp, preferring works of charity and true beneficence, but gives legacies of one silver dollar to such as may be deemed obligatory and pious. She bequeaths such an amount as belongs to it, according to law, to the fund for the formation of public libraries; legacies to her servants, at the discretion of her executor; and the remainder of the one fifth part of her property to her husband, who, however, predeceased her. The residue of her property is to be divided between all her children.

The will (dated May 28, 1873) with five codicils (dated May 28, 1873; Feb. 16, 1877; April 5, 1878; and July 8 and Nov. 28, 1879) of Mr. Thomas James Marriott, formerly of No. 23, Rood-lane, but late of Manor House, Perry-hill, Forest-hill, who died on Dec. 11 last, was proved on the 27th ult. by Arthur William Marriott and Frederick John Marriott, the sons, and Henry Reid, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £160,000. The testator devises his freehold properties in the counties of Northampton and Warwick to his son Arthur William; and there are bequests to his other children, and legacies to his indoor and outdoor servants. The residue of his real and personal estate he leaves to his five children, Arthur William, Frederick John, Herbert Mayo, Caroline Constance, and Frances.

The will (dated Oct. 10, 1879) of Miss Margaret Vavasor Durell, late of No. 35, Saint Giles-street, Oxford, who died on Sept. 20 last, was proved on the 20th ult. by David John Vavasor Durell, the nephew, and Miss Jane Louisa Durell, the niece, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £90,000. The testatrix bequeaths £500 each to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, the Incorporated Church Building Society, the Society for Promoting the Employment of Additional Curates, the Corporation of the Sons of the Clergy, and the Friend of the Clergy Corporation; £300 to the Radcliffe Infirmary, Oxford; her furniture and household effects (except plate) between her nieces Jane Louisa Durell and Elizabeth Charlotte Durell; £300 to her niece Mrs. Louisa Vavasor Livingstone; and £2000 to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Maria Durell. The residue of her property is to be divided between her said nephew and nieces and her nephew, the Rev. John Vavasor Durell.

The will (dated Aug. 6, 1878) of Mr. Herbert Flower, late of Ragdale Hall, Leicestershire, who died on Dec. 30 last at Berkeley-square, was proved on the 28th ult. by Arthur Flower, the brother, and William Leslie, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £70,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife, Mrs. Agnes Flower, £500 and all his household furniture and effects; to his brothers Horace and Lewis his hunters, but should he not have any at his decease then he gives them £500 each; to his sister, Clara Brand, £500; to his executors £500 each; to the Cheyne Hospital, £200; and to his servant, Richard Line, if in his service at his decease, £50. The residue of his real and personal estate is to be held upon trust, if he leaves children, and, so long as there shall be a possibility of any child attaining twenty-one, to pay the income to his wife for life, and at her decease to his children, as she shall by deed or will appoint. If he does not leave any child, then his wife is to have the income of two thirds of his property for life, with an absolute power of appointment over £20,000 thereof; and, subject thereto, the residue is given to his brothers, Arthur, Horace, and Lewis.

The will (dated Jan. 5, 1874) of Mrs. Mary Ann Cubitt, late of Denbies, Dorking, who died on Nov. 19 last, was proved on the 17th ult. by the Right Hon. George Cubitt, the son, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £60,000. The testatrix leaves various pictures by Pickersgill, Landseer, David Roberts, Creswick, and others, to be made heirlooms to go with the mansion house at Denbies; and she exercises the powers of appointment given to her by her late husband, George Cubitt, in favour of her children, grandchildren, and a niece. There are some legacies to her children, and the residue of her real and personal property she gives to her said son George.

The will (dated Sept. 17, 1877) with two codicils (dated July 3 and Nov. 1, 1880) of the Rev. Charles Edmund Ruck Keene, late of Swyncombe Park, Oxford, who died on Dec. 12 last, was proved on the 13th ult. by Edmund Ruck Keene and the Rev. Benjamin Ruck Keene, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. The testator makes special provision for his four daughters, and the bequests to his sons include the gift of a considerable part of his large properties in New Zealand to his son George. To his grandson, Harry Arthur Ruck Keene, he bequeaths £500; to his faithful servants, William Beauchamp, an annuity of £40, and to Harriet Duffield, one of £20. The residue of his property, real and personal, is to be divided between his children. The family estates devolve on his eldest son, Edmund.

The will (dated Jan. 22, 1850) with three codicils (dated July 13, 1858; May 15, 1874; and May 25, 1877) of Mr. Ramon Alvarez, formerly of No. 61, Frith-street, Soho, but late of Dunedin Villa, Landsdowne-road, Croydon, who died on Dec. 16 last, was proved on the 21st ult. by Mrs. Mary Alvarez, the widow, and Mrs. Ramona Blinkhorn, the daughter, the surviving executrixes, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator bequeaths his household furniture and effects to his wife; £8000 East India stock upon trust for his said daughter, and the residue of his personal estate upon trust for his wife for life, and then for his said daughter, Mrs. Blinkhorn.

Mr. George Singleton Tudor, of Park House, Lapley, has been appointed by the Prince of Wales Grand Master of the province of Staffordshire.

Early on Monday morning a disastrous explosion took place at Whitfield Colliery, the property of the Chatterly Iron and Coal Company, near Chell, North Staffordshire. About twenty men are believed to be killed.

Steps were taken on Monday at Manchester to form a Court of Commercial Arbitration for the settlement of Trade disputes, which, it is urged, are rarely understood by the Judges who try them in the Law Courts. The local Chamber of Commerce will form the nucleus of the new Court.

At a meeting of the Goldsmiths' and Silversmiths' Free Trade Association last Saturday, it was unanimously resolved to oppose any alteration of the hall-marking laws which shall not provide for perfect freedom of trade in the precious metals, and the severance of the compulsory connection between the Goldsmiths' Company and the crafts.

SOUND INVESTMENTS.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY OF CANADA.

—Notwithstanding the exceptional severity of the weather in Canada, the traffic receipts of this Railway continue very satisfactory, and in this respect the Grand Trunk exhibits a marked contrast to English Railways, which have suffered heavily. The concurrent growth of the new Chicago Line, as demonstrated by the weekly traffic, now published for the first time, must also be very gratifying to shareholders in the Grand Trunk Company, when it is remembered that they are the absolute proprietors of no less than £357,000 1st Mortgage Bonds out of a total of £1,260,000, £100,000 2nd Mortgage Bonds out of a total of £820,000, and £1,182,000 of Ordinary Stock out of a total of £1,356,000 in that Railway. To a careful observer of what is now going on in the development of American and Canadian Railways, the importance of this possession of the Grand Trunk can scarcely be over-estimated. The new line is practically in its infancy (in deed, the station in Chicago is not yet fully working), and when passenger-traffic is secured in the spring and summer it is reasonable to expect that the present increases will be much surpassed.

The 6 per cent interest on the 1st and 2nd Preferences of the Grand Trunk being now provided for and the 3rd Preference earning a dividend, the whole reversionary value of this Chicago Extension practically belongs to the holders of 3rd Preference and Ordinary Stocks. Totally irrespective of this, however, the position of the Grand Trunk Line itself is daily improving, and the half-yearly Report to be issued next month cannot fail to be highly satisfactory to the proprietors. The outlook at present is so very cheerful that it seems inevitable that all the Stocks of this railway must considerably advance in value during the present year. There is, of course, the greatest margin for a rise in the 3rd Preference and Ordinary Stocks.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS.

—The Great Western of Canada and Grand Trunk Companies.—Manifestations of concerted action amongst large and influential Shareholders of the Great Western of Canada have been recently exhibited, having for their object that closer alliance of their Railway with the Grand Trunk, which I have so frequently advocated. Although I wish this movement every success, and shall advise everyone to support it, still it is not my intention again to take a prominent position in advancing it, as success is certain now that so large a measure of support is derived from those who formerly opposed my recommendations.

Shareholders in both Companies need keep in view one only of the many advantages to be derived from a fusion—viz., that a saving of no less a sum than £200,000 per annum will be immediately effected. Supposing this to be equally divided between the two Companies, it would represent increased dividends of 1¼ per cent on Grand Trunk 3rd Preferences and 1¼ per cent on Great Western of Canada Ordinary Shares, and this would, of course, justify an advance of fully 20 per cent in both Securities.

PHILADELPHIA AND READING

RAILROAD.—During the past month the issue of Deferred Income Bonds for 24,000,000 dols. has been offered to the Shareand Bond holders, and the subscriptions thereto have reached the enormous total of 74,000,000 dols. This triumph has been achieved in spite of a vast amount of opposition, reputed to be on behalf of a section of the Proprietors. The more, however, the merits of the scheme are considered, the more impossible it is to believe that anyone really interested in the progress of the property could consistently oppose it. It at once removes the incubus of the floating debt, and easily paves the way for the successful introduction of the Five per Cent Bonds to consolidate prior and heavier charges. Under these circumstances, it is surprising that the price of the Ordinary Shares should now be 10 per cent lower than a year ago, when the floating debt was a matter of so much anxiety, and when neither the Railway nor Coal properties were anything like as prosperous as at the present time. The current earnings of the Company are such that if continued throughout the year, as may be reasonably anticipated, there would be sufficient to pay a dividend of 6 per cent on the Ordinary and 6 per cent on the New Deferred Income Bonds. Both these Stocks, the Ordinary and Deferred, must therefore be regarded as exceptionally cheap and attractive investments. The President's lucid exposition of the affairs of the Company, as contained in the pamphlet issued on the 1st inst., and the report of to-day's meeting, should be carefully studied by all who are interested in the property.

NEW YORK, PENNSYLVANIA, AND OHIO (ATLANTIC AND GREAT WESTERN) RAILROAD.

The success which has attended the financial proposals of the Philadelphia and Reading Company, and the certainty that that line will shortly assume a position of great influence, give additional point to my remarks last month on the future of the Atlantic and Great Western property, if due advantage be taken of the new connections now for the first time offered to that long-suffering Corporation. The Map accompanying my Circular showed the valuable outlet to the seaboard, secured via the Philadelphia and Reading and New Jersey Central systems, emancipating the line from the Erie Company, which, by its unfair dealing in the past, rendered the through rates on the Atlantic and Great Western about the lowest on the American continent. In the Report of the Trustees, just issued, it is shown that had the average rate of fifteen years ago been obtained in 1879, "the gross income of the Atlantic and Great Western for that year would have been upwards of thirteen millions of dollars, instead of less than four and a half millions, and the net income have not only sufficed to pay full interest on its bonded indebtedness, but have yielded a handsome return on its common stock." A much closer approximation to so desirable a result may be realised if independent connections are secured, and the Bondholders should give their earnest attention to electing a proper management. I am glad to see that a suggestion I made that the Hon. Cecil Raikes should be selected as one of the "voting Trustees." It is most important that the Proprietors should insist on this or some equally good appointments being made. With skilful management, the line should yield results satisfactory to all concerned; but Proprietors must bestir themselves to secure it. The First Mortgage Bonds must, under any circumstances, receive a dividend in cash and stock, which will at least be equal to 7 per cent on the present investment; but the opening of the new extensions already referred to will presently greatly enhance the value of the other Mortgages as well as the Ordinary Stock.

ATLANTIC, MISSISSIPPI, AND OHIO.

The near approach of Feb. 10 (the day fixed for the sale of the Railway) is causing a steady investment demand for these Bonds. Those who have purchased during the past twelve months at prices ranging from 90 upwards must now see that, notwithstanding adverse criticisms which prevailed for a time, my recommendations were based upon sound and accurate views as to the absolute value of the property. Including two interim cent, the rise in value to the present time is no less than 31 per payments on account of overdue coupons amounting to 4 per cent.

MEXICAN RAILWAY.

— The traffic receipts for the month of December, showing an increase of £14,600, are the highest in the history of the Company. Those of January and ensuing months are likely to be equally favourable.

LONDON, CHATHAM, AND DOVER

RAILWAY.—One great goal has at length been reached in the announcement of the full dividend for the past half year on the Preference Stock. It may suit the purposes of some to regard the progress and achievements of this Railway as insignificant, but small though they be, they demonstrate the working of an almost infallible rule that a railway once emerged from financial difficulties will, under skilful management, advance in a steady arithmetical progression. Such has been the very marked experience of this Railway, and it is very gratifying that my early anticipations as to its progress are being so steadily realised.

PERUVIAN STOCKS.

—After the prolonged troubles and anxieties of recent years, holders of Peruvian Bonds must welcome the opportunity now afforded for placing their interests in the care of the Committee presided over by Sir Henry Tyler, which is regarded with so much confidence. Unanimous support is essential to success, as the Chilian Government, in honourably recognising the Peruvian Bondholders, stipulate that they will only accept the claims of those who deposit their Bonds. It is therefore manifestly to the interest of every holder to send in his bonds immediately to Messrs. Martin and Co., the bankers, and so avoid the risk of being shut out from the benefits which Chilian adoption will confer upon them.

COAL AND IRON COMPANIES.

—It is but natural, after such a long period of depression in the Coal and Iron trades, that the signs of revival recently indicated should attract inquiries to these properties from that large class of the investing public who have a vivid recollection of the enormous profits realised in former years. They cannot, however, be too careful in the selections they now make. There are, no doubt, many of these enterprises which are well worth attention, but at the present moment there are two which have more prominently come under my notice—viz., the Rhymney and the Llynvi and Tondu Coal and Iron Companies, investments in both of which I strongly recommend. It is my intention shortly to issue a special circular with reference to these two undertakings after I have personally inspected the respective properties. I should have had my promise earlier but for the severity of the weather. Meanwhile the 7 per Cent Debentures of the Rhymney and the 7 per Cent Preference Shares of the Llynvi and Tondu are well worth buying. The principal market for the latter is in Manchester.

TRAMWAYS.

—The reports for the past half-year already issued show a greatly improved position of affairs. The dividends declared yield 5 and 6 per cent to present investors, purchases being now entitled also to the full dividend for the past half-year, which is included in the quotations. All the following quotations this month are well worth buying—viz., Bordeaux, Germany, Calais, Birkenhead (Preference), Provincial, Wolverhampton, Tramways and General Works and Aberdeen.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TELEGRAPH.

The recent Report announcing an available balance sufficient to pay a small dividend on the Deferred stock has been regarded with favour, as it was feared the severe competition of last year would have told more heavily against the revenue. I still think it a great matter for regret that the published Balance Sheets do not exhibit the absolute Reserve Funds of the Company, which have been expended for years in new cables. With the enormous expansion of business between America and Europe, this Company must be greatly benefited, and it is felt by the Proprietors as a gross injustice that they should be kept in ignorance as to the weekly traffics, while adverse speculators take good care that everything which may be thought to be detrimental to the Company (whether true or false) should obtain the widest publicity. The miserable collapse of the injunction to restrain the payment of dividends is only what might have been expected.

CANADIAN COPPER AND SULPHUR

COMPANY.—The latest advices from Canada fully confirm the previous announcements as to the value of the discoveries made. It would appear that the more the properties are opened out the richer they become. The £1 fully-paid shares at the present price of £2 10s. must be regarded as a cheap speculative investment.

JOINT-STOCK BANKS.

—With this Circular I publish my half-yearly analysis of the Joint-stock Banks of London. The figures are unusually interesting, and will repay careful study. At the present moment the most noticeable feature, perhaps, is the strengthened position of the three bankswho recently registered Limited as compared with those who still remain Unlimited. This is exhibited, both in respect of the estimation of the public and the Proprietors, by the increase in Deposit and Current Accounts and the greatly enhanced value of the shares.

INDIAN GOLD MINES.

—During the past month the meetings of the South Indian, Indian Glenrock, and Indian Phœnix Companies have been held, and in every instance the most encouraging and hopeful statements have been made as to the position and prospects of those undertakings. That section of the public who formerly invested in Mines have been so frequently victimised that they have held aloof from these Indian properties, as the scepticism born of bitter experience made them fear a repetition of those new ventures. The fresh class of mining investors, as represented in these Indian Companies, seem now, however, to have the promise of a rich reward in store for them. The detailed reports presented from the respective properties, and the minute explanations given at the Meetings referred to, justify the anticipation of considerably advanced prices for the shares of all three Companies at an early date.

With this Circular I inclose a Prospectus of the Indian Trevelyan Gold Mining Company, a new undertaking, in which I have the greatest confidence. As it is likely the small number of shares for disposal will quickly subscribed for, early application should be made, in order to secure an allotment.

From Mr. WILLIAM ABBOTT'S Circular for February.

10, Tokenhouse-yard, London E.C.

FLORIMEL OF PALM.

A white and delicious bond is the first attribute of beauty and civilisation. "The hand," says Sir Charles Bell in the "Bridgewater Treatise," "distinguishes man from the brute: he is proud of it, for in polite society it is an index not only of the body but of the mind."

The Florimel of Palm being rubbed over the skin is to be removed with a little water, then dried with a soft towel. Once being will convince the most sceptical that, if daily applied, too much cannot be said in favour of Florimel of Palm for rendering the skin or hands white, delicate, soft, and fair.

Sold in Jars, 2s. 6d. each.

PIESSE and LUBIN, 2, New Bond-street, London.

May be obtained of any Chemist or Perfumer in the world.

TURKISH PASTILS.

"Through all my travels in the East I never exhibited me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghiles at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour to the whole breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.

In Boxes, 2s., by post, 2s. 2d.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.

PIESSE and LUBIN'S delightful perfume of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without the least impliquante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, and which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling off, and is the most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 3s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the most beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d., and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 to 95, City-road, E.C., London. Finaud and Meyer, 37, Boulevard de Strasbourg, Paris; 31, Graben, Vienna; 44, Rue des Longs Chariots, Brussels.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S

WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER

THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore any hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and completely removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald heads where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.

SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Registered).

OETZMANN and CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,

NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

CARPETS,

FLOOR-CLOTHS, LINOLEUMS,

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE,

DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE,

BED-ROOM FURNITURE,

BEDSTEADS, BEDDING,

DRAPERY, LINENS, &c.,

FURNISHING IRONMONGERY,

ELECTRO-PLATE and CUTLERY,

KITCHEN REQUISITES,

CHINA, GLASS,

PICTURES, BRONZES, &c.,

CLOCKS, LAMPS, &c.

PIANOS,

ARTISTIC PAPERHANGINGS,

PAINTING, DECORATING, &c.,

GAS-FITTINGS, &c.,

REMOVALS by ROAD, RAIL, or SEA.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.

SHIPPING DEPARTMENT.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE,

THE BEST FURNISHING GUIDE EXTANT.

GRATIS and POST-FREE,

OETZMANN and CO.,

67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, LONDON.

ELKINGTON and CO., MANUFACTURING SILVERSMITHS PATENTEES OF THE ELECTRO-PLATE.

ELKINGTON and CO. CAUTION PURCHASERS AGAINST CHEAP AND INFERIOR IMITATIONS. Illustrated Catalogues, post-free. ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-st.; or 39, Cornhill, E.C., City.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequal cut value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 6l. 6s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free. 453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS, DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES, CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS POST-FREE.

CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA. GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS. Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

FARROW and JACKSON, the largest and best Makers of IRON WINE BINS, SODA-WATER RACKS, BAR FITTINGS, SEALING-WAX, and every Article for the Trade in or Connoisseurship of Wines, 18, GREAT TOWER-STREET; & 19, HAYMARKET; 91, MANSELL-STREET, LONDON. Agents in Paris, N. EDARD, 26, RUE DU DRAGON.

TURKEY CARPETS.

TRELOAR and SON,

NO. 69, LUDGATE-HILL.

The Importers beg to call attention to the following List, and will be pleased to quote a price for Turkey Carpets of any size from their extensive stock.

TURKEY CARPETS.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 8ft. 10in. by 6ft. 11in. | .. | £3 | 2 6 |
| 9ft. 0in. by 6ft. 10in. | .. | 3 | 5 6 |
| 10ft. 0in. by 6ft. 2in. | .. | 3 | 5 5 |
| 10ft. 4in. by 7ft. 2in. | .. | 5 | 12 6 |
| 13ft. 10in. by 11ft. 8in. | .. | 13 | 12 6 |
| 17ft. 0in. by 9ft. 10in. | .. | 13 | 17 6 |
| 18ft. 8in. by 14ft. 1in. | .. | 21 | 0 0 |
| 19ft. 11in. by 14ft. 8in. | .. | 25 | 0 0 |

Shipments every few days.

TRELOAR and SON, (Estab. 1832.) No. 69, LUDGATE-HILL.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS, THE GREAT REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM. Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

DR. DE JONGH'S (KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM, KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR)

LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL.

THE PUREST. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS. THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE. Proved by thirty years' medical experience to be THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL which produces the full curative effects in CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D., Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL, Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.

"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the wasting forms of pulmonary Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients prefaced they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

DR. HUNTER SEMPLE, Physician Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest.

"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by DR. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found DR. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."

JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S., Late Staff Surg., Army, Prof. of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration; The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.

SOLE CONSIGNEES, ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

COLDS CURED BY DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.

ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.

IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d., a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "lozenges" are now sold by most respectable Chemists in the country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depôt, 33, Farringdon-road, London.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. A purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—ALLANS' MEDICINE COMPANY, 426, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

"THEY HAVE NO EQUAL."

This is the universal opinion of everybody who has tried DR. SCOTT'S BILLIOUS and LIVER PILLS, for bilious and liver complaints, indigestion, wind, spasms, foul breath, nervous depression, irritability, headache, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, heartburn, giddiness, dizziness of the eyes, &c. Being as mild and tonic in their action as they are certain in their curative effects.—Prepared by W. Lambert, 173, Seymour-place, London, W., in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d., and sold by all Chemists. The genuine are in square green packages. Take no other.

HOOPING COUGH. ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.

THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.

Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

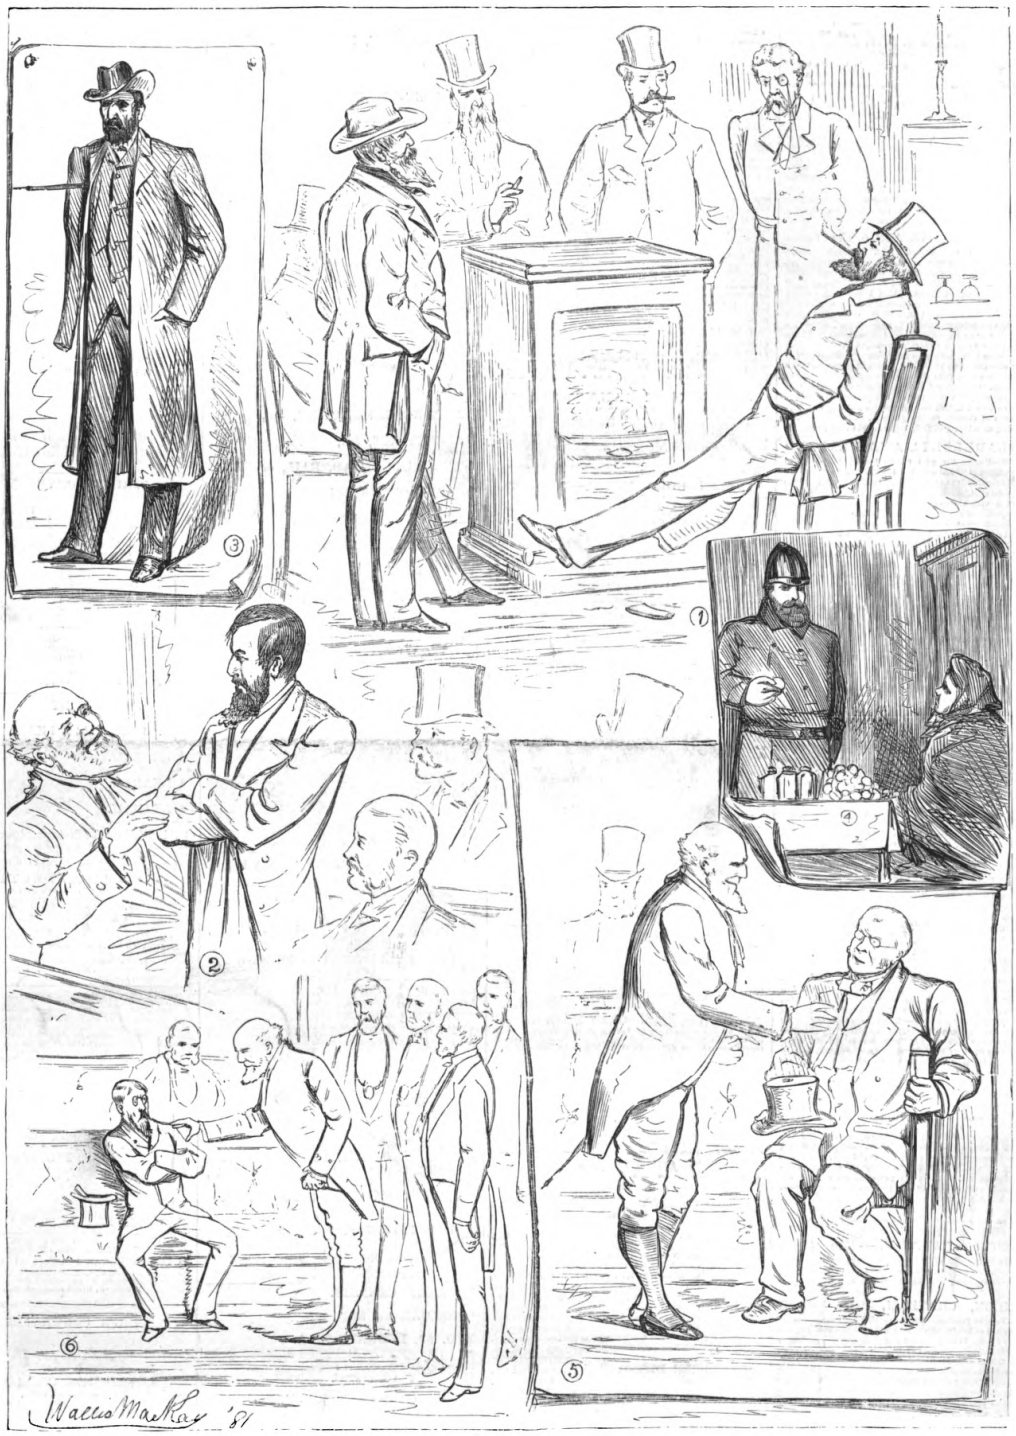
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge at once gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE, UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON. 2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included. Sold by all Chemists and Druggists. Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 20, Queen-street, London, E.C.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.



1. A Consultation in the Smoking-room: Radical Members "on the situation."
2. Mr Dillon defying the authority of the Chair.
3. Michael Davitt.
4. "An All-Night Sitting:" Sketch in Westminster Hall.
5. The Rev. Isaac Nelson induced to withdraw.
6. Mr. Healy submitting to "superior force."

SUSPENSION OF THE IRISH PARTY: SKETCHES IN AND ABOUT THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.—SEE PAGE 154.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2179.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1881. WITH SUPPLEMENT | SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½D.

THE WAR IN THE TRANSVAAL.

SEE PAGE 174.

HOW THE BOERS BECOME GOOD MARKSMEN.

BIRTHS.

On the 10th inst., at Hungershall Park Tunbridge Wells, the wife of Major-General Parkinson, of a daughter.

On the 11th ult., at Pietermaritzburg, Natal, South Africa, the wife of Sydney Albert Ayre, of Bristol, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On Dec. 1, 1880, at Guayacan, Chili, Robert William Leighton, to Mary Agnes, second daughter of Mr. Thomas Francis, of Guayacan, Coquimbo, Chili.

On the 9th inst., at All Saints', Clapham Park, by the Rev. C. J. Ord, William Frank, youngest son of the late John Girvan, of Clapham Park, to Louisa Christina Rynie, only daughter of the late F. W. Engle, of Frankfort. No cards.

On the 12th inst., at the Cathedral, Shanghai, by the Right Rev. Bishop Moule, Robert, eldest son of T. Dunman, Esq., of Bournemouth, late Chief Commissioner of Police of the Straits Settlements, to H. Edith, second surviving daughter of W. Nugent Coates, Esq., Fernleigh, Croydon.

DEATHS.

On the 15th ult., at Surinam, Pauline, beloved wife of Julius Barnett, of Surin am Kutch, Guiana.

On the 10th inst., at her residence, Villa Bianca, Bath, in her 81st year, Eliza Marian Prendergast, eldest daughter of the late Francis Prendergast, Esq., of Dublin, for many years Registrar of the Court of Chancery in Ireland.

On the 12th inst., at Half Moon-street, Piccadilly, London, Lucy Carpenter, widow of the late John Carpenter, Esq., of Mount Tavy, Tavistock, Devon, aged 74.

On the 11th inst., at Farham Lodge, Ballybrack, county Dublin, aged 76, the Rev. Decimus Wm. Preston, M.A., son of the late William Preston, Judge of Appeal, and the Hon. Frances Dorothea Preston, daughter of John Evans, fifth Lord Carbery.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING FEB. 26.

SUNDAY, FEB. 20.

Sexagesima.
Princess Louise of Wales born, 1867.
Pope Leo XIII. elected, 1878.
Morning Lessons: Gen. iii.; Matt. xxvii. 27—57. Evening Lessons: Gen. vi. or viii.; Rom. iv.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. Canon Barry; 3 p.m., Rev. B. F. Smith.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Baker, Master of Merchant Taylors' School; 3.15 p.m., Bishop Piers Claughton; 7 p.m., the Bishop of Carlisle.
St. James's, noon, probably Rev. Dr. H. Montagu Butler.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Henry Geary.

MONDAY, FEB. 21.

The Prince of Wales's Levée, St. James's, 2 p.m.
Moon's last quarter, 7.30 p.m.
Asiatic Society, 4 p.m. (Rev. John Cain on the Kois or Ghond Tribes of Central India).
London Institution, 5 p.m. (Mr. J. E. Hodgson on Art among the Ancient Greeks).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Surveyors' Institution, 8 p.m.
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Mr. G. E. Street on the Development of Styles of Architecture).
Victoria Institute, 8 p.m. (Dr. J. P. Thompson on Implements of the Stone Age; Mr. J. E. Howard on the Caves of South Devon).
United Service Institution, 8.30 p.m. (Mr. W. H. White on Pumping Arrangements of Modern Warships).
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture 8 p.m. (Mr. E. Rigg on Watchmaking).
Royal School of Mines, noon (Mr. Warington W. Smyth, first of forty lectures on Mineralogy).

TUESDAY, FEB. 22.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Anthropological Institute, 8 p.m.
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. (Mr. M. an Ende on Girder Bridges).
Colonial Institute, 8 p.m. (Sir Bartle Frere on the Union of the Various Portions of British South Africa).
Medical and Chirurgical Society, 8.30, West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m.
Gresham Lectures, 6 p.m. (Rev. E. Ledger on Astronomy; and on the 23rd, 24th, and 25th).
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. R. N. Cust on the Languages of South Africa).

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 23.

Geological Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. T. V. Holmes on the Permian, Triassic, and Liassic Rocks of the Carlisle Basin; Professor W. J. Sollas on the Astroconia Granti from Canada).
Royal Society of Literature, 8 p.m. (Mr. W. A. Barrett on the Fathers of English Church Music).
Hunterian Society, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m.
Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society, annual festival, Willis's Rooms, the Duke of Connaught in the chair.
English Cart-Horse Society Show, Agricultural Hall (three days).
Margate Dog Show (two days).

THURSDAY, FEB. 24.

St. Matthias, Apostle and Martyr.
Cambridge term divides at midnight.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor E. Fauer on the History of Drawing-room Music).
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Society of Antiquaries, 8.30 p.m.
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Captain Abney on One Aspect of Colour).
Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Mr. G. E. Street on Thirteenth-Century Architecture—Italy).
Telegraph Engineers' Society, 8 p.m. (Lieutenant P. Cardew on the Application of Electric Dynamic Machines to Railway Rolling Stock; Mr. E. B. Bright on the Development of Electricity on Spinning Wool and Hair).
Philharmonic Society: first concert, St. James's Hall, 8 p.m.
Middlesex Hospital, quarterly court, noon.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. G. Barkman on Deep-Sea Investigation).

FRIDAY, FEB. 25.

The Queen's Drawingroom, Buckingham Palace, 3 p.m.
Hare-hunting ends.
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Captain S. Long on the Tactics of Naval Blockade).
Clinical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Royal Institution, 8 p.m. (Dr. J. S. Burdon-Sanderson on Excitability in Plants, 9 p.m.).
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
Milliners' and Dressmakers' Provident Institution, anniversary, 7 p.m.

SATURDAY, FEB. 26.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. R. S. Poole on Ancient Egypt).
Botanic Society, 3.45 p.m.
Ladies' Sanitary Association, 5.30 p.m. (Dr. B. W. Richardson on Food Economics).

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| DAY. | DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected. | Temperature in the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 P.M. | Minimum, read at 10 P.M. | WIND. General Direction. | Movement in miles in 24 hours. | Rain in 24 hours, ending 10 A.M. next morning. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inches | ° | ° | % | 0–10 | ° | ° | | Miles. | In. |
| 6 | 29·193 | 31·7 | 26·8 | 76 | 4 | 40·2 | 31·3 | NNW. NW. | 232 | 0·069 |
| 7 | 29·706 | 32·9 | 31·4 | 95 | 10 | 45·7 | 29·2 | NNW. E. | 431 | 0·405* |
| 8 | 29·286 | 45·8 | 35·5 | 70 | 6 | 50·0 | 42·0 | WSW. NNW. | 697 | 0·000 |
| 9 | 29·847 | 42·7 | 35·2 | 77 | 7 | 45·6 | 40·5 | WNW. NNW. ESE. | 341 | 0·420 |
| 10 | 28·334 | 41·1 | 35·2 | 82 | 8 | 51·0 | 40·2 | SW. WSW. | 866 | 0·135 |
| 11 | 29·422 | 35·2 | 29·8 | 77 | 8 | 42·0 | 34·9 | SW. S. SW. | 358 | 0·040 |
| 12 | 30·025 | 35·1 | 29·8 | 74 | 4 | 41·0 | 30·8 | NW. NNW. | 220 | 0·000 |

* Rain and snow.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected .. | 29·870 | 29·97 | 29·200 | 29·718 | 29·070 | 29·088 | 30·020 |
| Temperature of Air .. | 35·9 | 35·9 | 40·1 | 42·8 | 40·1 | 32·2 | 31·2 |
| Temperature of Evaporation .. | 31·2 | 32·1 | 41·0 | 39·2 | 47·7 | 37·6 | 31·1 |
| Direction of Wind .. .. .. | NW. | SSE. | WSW. | NNW. | SW. | NNE. | NNW. |

MR. WALTER BACHE'S PIANOFORTE RECITAL (Tenth Season), ST. JAMES'S HALL, TUESDAY, MARCH 1, at Half-past Three o'clock precisely (to conclude at a quarter past Five). Vocalist, Miss Orridge. Stalls, 6s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co., 84, New Bond-street; Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street; A. Hays, 4, Royal Exchange Buildings, and 25, Old Bond-street; Austin's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall, 28, Piccadilly.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy THE CUP, at 7.45.—Mrs. Ellen Terry, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss. THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 9.30.—Mr. Irving. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram. THE CUP every Saturday Morning.

WITH

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

of SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26,

WILL BE GIVEN

A LARGE COLOURED HUNTING PICTURE,

ENTITLED

THINNING THE FIELD,

From a Painting by J. Sturgess.

Price of the Number and Plate, Sixpence; by Post, Sixpence-halfpenny.

OFFICE, 198, STRAND, W.C.

Now ready,

VOL. 77, ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

Elegantly Bound, Cloth Gilt, price 20s.; in Paper Covers, 15s.
Cases for binding ... ... ... ... 2s. 6d.
Portfolios to hold Half a Year's Numbers ... ... 4s. 6d.
Reading Cases for Single Number ... ... ... 2s. 6d.
Office: 198, Strand.

ROYAL ACADEMY of ARTS.—The EXHIBITION of WORKS by the OLD MASTERS and by DECEASED MASTERS of the BRITISH SCHOOL, including a Collection of Drawings by John Flaxman, R.A., is NOW OPEN Daily from Nine till Seven, One Shilling. Catalogue, Sixpence; or, bound in cloth, with Pencil, One Shilling. Season Tickets, Five Shillings. N.B. The Exhibition is lighted at dusk.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER COLOURS. The FIFTEENTH WINTER EXHIBITION is NOW OPEN from Ten till Six. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d.
Gallery, 53, Pall-mall, S.W. H. F. PHILLIPS, Secretary.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM;" "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

OLD BOND-STREET GALLERIES.—Messrs. THOS. AGNEW and SON'S ANNUAL EXHIBITION of high class WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS by Living and Deceased Masters, now open from Ten till Five daily. Admission, including Catalogues, 1s.—39, Old Bond-street, Piccadilly.

ROYAL ASYLUM OF ST. ANNE'S SOCIETY'S SCHOOLS, affording a Home, Education, and Clothing to the Children of Parents who have moved in a superior station of Life, Orphans or not, of any nation. The ANNUAL FESTIVAL will be held at WILLIS'S ROOMS, St. James's, on FEB. 25, 1881, H.R.H. the DUKE of CONNAUGHT, K.G., in the Chair, supported by the Lord Mayor, M.P., and the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex.
SUBSCRIPTIONS and DONATIONS are earnestly SOLICITED for the Building Fund, and will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, Sir C. H. Mills, Bart., M.P., 67, Lombard-street; the Bankers, Messrs. Barclay, Bevan, and Co., 54, Lombard-street; or by E. H. EVANS, Secretary.
Office, 28, Gracechurch-street, E.C.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT, THE TURQUOISE RING, by G. W. Godfrey, Music by Lionel Benson. Last week of A MUSICAL FAMILY, by Mr. Corney Grain; and last week of A MERRY CHRISTMAS, by Arthur Law. Music by King Hall. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at Eight, Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s.

BRIGHTON. — PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 10.0 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.45 p.m.; also from Victoria on Sundays at 10.45 a.m., and from Brighton on Sundays at 5.30 p.m.
EVERY SUNDAY.—A Cheap First-Class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY SATURDAY, Cheap First-Class Trains from Victoria at 10.45 and 11.55 a.m., and London Bridge at 9.30 a.m. and 12.0 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon, for Return Tickets—First Class, Half-a-Guinea, including admission to the Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion Picture Gallery, Palace, and Grounds; available to return by any Train the same day, except the 5.45 p.m. Pullman Car Train.
(By order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1881.

The present political crisis is, we will not say unexampled, but it certainly throws upon the Cabinet a weight and variety of responsibilities, and, we may add, upon the British public cogent reasons for self-restraint and forbearance greater than has been felt for many years past. It would seem as if action in every part of the world turned out just the reverse of what we both intend and wish. Nowhere do we find ground for complete satisfaction. We want to confer a lasting benefit upon Ireland, and we are compelled to preface remedial legislation by stringent arts of coercion. We want to gain the confidence and ensure the prosperity of her Majesty's subjects in South Africa, and the very position in which we have placed the Colonial Governments there has been turned against us with an obvious view of defeating our good intentions. We want to keep clear of "little wars" with savage or semi-savage foes—and lo! we are threatened with new Ashantee hostilities. We should be glad to get out of Afghanistan without any breach of national honour, but it is even at this moment doubtful, notwithstanding the obvious and declared decision of the Government, whether we shall be able to give complete effect to the policy we have resolved upon. It is comparatively easy to get many threads into a tangle. It is far more difficult and demands a far greater force of patience to disentangle them. The reversal of a policy that has been steadily prosecuted for some years is not so easy as quick but by no means profound thinkers are apt to imagine. They who undertake the task in obedience to the call of the nation, and who understand all that the task comprehends or should comprehend, are sure of encountering hosts of practical difficulties which must be trying not only to their temper, but to their capacity. So it is just now. Her Majesty's Ministers resemble men who have to cut their way from a dangerous to a safer and more salubrious region, through a dense jungle. Legions of obstruction, not necessarily meant to retard their progress, have to be removed. They are the growth—we might almost call them the natural growth—of influences which have been at work within a few years past. They are the outcome of wrong principles for the adoption of which no one in particular, and no political party in particular, can be held exclusively or culpably answerable; but the effect is that it takes a long time and asks for great labour to get rid of intervening difficulties; and the disposition of mind in which they are to be encountered should be largely tinctured by caution, foresight, and indomitable patience.

The country has not immediately reached all the advantage which it had expected from the new rules of Parliamentary debate. There appears to be a more definite prospect than heretofore of the exclusion, throughout the present Session, of almost every other legislative change save such as may relate to that portion of her Majesty's Dominions which lies on the other side of St. George's Channel. Ireland is likely enough to engross nearly the whole of the attention of the House of Commons during the present year. Of course, Financial arrangements must be made, and must occupy some considerable proportion of the time of the House. But, looking to the slow progress of the coercive measures and to the discussions which will necessarily arise upon the details of the promised Land Bill, there would seem to be but scant probability of the English and Scotch measures recommended in the Speech from the Throne at the commencement of the Session being placed upon the Statute Book before the prorogation. We must make up our minds, we fear, to this result. If it should have the effect of clearing the Parliamentary programme for some time to come of Irish business deemed to be "urgent," it will not be impossible to acquiesce in the disappointing exigency of the occasion. The British people will, we cannot doubt, await, not willingly indeed, but with measured dissatisfaction, till the stage is cleared for action in relation to Imperial reforms contemplated at the General Election. From all that appears to the contrary, they are practising, with admirable persistency, the grace of self-denial which, though sorely tried, is not yet worn out. We will not, we do not, anticipate its sudden collapse. It would prove—and thoughtful people of all classes are aware that it would prove—a serious misfortune to the country should continued provocation be successful in rousing the British mind to headstrong indignation. This, however, is the less likely, because the opposition offered to the Coercion Bills by the Home-Rule Members is not now obviously made for purposes of obstruction. It may be, and, in some individual cases, no doubt, is the dictate of patriotism, mistaken as we cannot help thinking that patriotism is in the course which it has decided to take. The motive, whatever be the legitimate means by which it would make itself felt, is not only respectable, but respected, and there will be a general preference of the substantial freedom of debate which yet remains to the House, to any further authoritative interference with it, which may possibly save some time now, but which would certainly be followed, no long while hence, by grave political embarrassments.

But it is not only Imperial legislation, but Imperial rule, which taxes what we may call the staying power of the British people. That affair in the Transvaal is beyond measure vexing. We have to do what we could wish were not to be done in order to gain a point which in the end we are far from willing to yield. Valuable lives are being sacrificed in a conflict which can end only in one way. In taking the steps which are deemed absolutely essential to the vindication of our national honour and supremacy, we are creating wide discontents, and, perhaps, not far distant difficulties, the upshot of which we shrink from considering. The actual state of affairs in South Africa is, here and there, enlivened by a ray of hope. But the perils which beset the domination of the English-speaking class in that part of the world, are neither few nor of trifling moment. To say nothing of the actual and sanguinary struggle going on in the Transvaal, there are also to be apprehended some outbreak of sympathetic aggression on the part of the Orange Free State, the certain disaffection of Colonists of Dutch descent all over the country, the censure of Hollanders and their kin nearer home, and that general political confusion and distrust which act as a fatal blight of the prosperity and tranquillity of the territories where they prevail. Perhaps the lesson now being read to us, harsh as it sounds during the process, may serve to impress upon the British mind some considerations which it has been too apt to forget. Self-respect—more easily than we have thought—has slidden into self-esteem, and self-esteem has claimed and exercised rights incompatible with some of those which belong equally to other nations. Our tone might have been less self-asserting, and our action less aggressive, without in any way impairing the manliness or vigour of our policy. A man with whom everyone quarrels should search for the cause of the phenomenon at home as well as abroad—at home even more than abroad. Colonial troubles are in many cases only the echoes of Imperial high-handedness. There is even now some tendency to assume an overbearing mien where English rights are judged of in competition with other people's rights. It is a habit we have got into—easily enough accounted for, but not easily justified. All this, in so far as it is true, tends to enforce moderation of temper in the view of immediate disappointments and foreseen difficulties. We must accept, as best we may, the troublesome affairs which environ us. They will assume a lighter aspect to hope, than they do to indignation; and we must learn to judge those to whom we have committed the responsibility of reducing something like chaos to order, by standards of comparison drawn from the better, and not the coarser, qualities of human nature.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

It seems only yesterday; but it must be in reality more than five-and-thirty years ago since that, at the old Princess's Theatre, I saw a burlesque extravaganza, written by Albert Smith, and called "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp." In one of the scenes Paul Bedford, who was the Wicked Magician, said to Miss Emma Stanley (or it might have been vice versâ), on some matter referring to a letter, "I 'll write in black and white;" to which the other made answer, "Don't. If you do, your letter in the post will sure be re(a)d." This not very subtle pun was received every night with a roar of indignant approbation. There was tremendous excitement just then about the opening of the letters of political refugees in England (notably the correspondence of the late Joseph Mazzini, by order of the then Secretary of State for the Home Department, Sir James Graham, of Netherby). Mr. Punch took the popular or anti-letter-opening side in the controversy which arose from those indefensible proceedings on the part of the Home Secretary, and in one of John Leech's cartoons exhibited Sir James, covered with mud, as "Peel's Dirty Little Boy."

And now, lo! in the year 1881, with an advanced Liberal Administration in power, the Home Secretary again claims to exercise (if he see fit so to do) the right which he undoubtedly possesses under the Act of Parliament of spying into the private correspondence of politically suspected persons. It is a very sorry trade; and to hear of its being carried on must be to the majority of right-thinking Englishmen simply detestable. I suppose, however, that, under existing and lamentably exceptional circumstances, it is inevitable that Sir William Harcourt should be confirmed in the statutory powers of inquisitorial investigation vested in him.

But I read in a leading article on the question in a morning contemporary—"The British Government, it was stated, considering the extent to which British interests were involved in the maintenance of peace, issued, on their own judgment, but not at the suggestion of any foreign Power, a warrant to open and detain M. Mazzini's letters. Neither the letters themselves nor any facts in them likely to compromise any person were communicated to any foreign Power; but with these reserves the information was used so as to help in the prevention of insurrectionary expeditions." Unless my political memory plays me wofully false, the foregoing is not by any means an accurate statement. The British Government, if I rightly remember, opened M. Mazzini's correspondence at the direct instigation and solicitation, of the then Neapolitan Minister. The information gathered from the letters thus tampered with was communicated to the abominably despotic Government of the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies (long since satisfactorily "squelched"), and that information led directly to the arrest, trial, and judicial murder of the two brave and patriotic sons of Admiral Bandiera. The letter-opening cases thus materially differ. Sir James Graham was willingly lending a helping hand to a foreign tyrant of the most loathsome order. Sir William Harcourt is only intent on combating domestic conspiracy. But he had best open as few private letters as possible. In my time, I have heard the British Lion roar, in his most significant manner, only twice: once when authority proposed to deprive him of his Sunday beer: the second time when authority tried to lock him out of Hyde Park. The suspicion that his letters were being systematically tampered with in a "Chambre Noire" of the General Post Office would be just the thing to make him roar again, and somewhat formidably.

"A Briton" writes, in terms slightly too complimentary to be quoted textually, to ask me to "dig up" out of my vocabulary, and offer to the public, an English word as a substitute for the French term "clôture," which the Press has lately thrust upon its readers. "I think," adds "A Briton," "you would be doing our language a signal service by using your influence in stemming the tide of foreign words which is threatening to submerge the Saxon individuality of our national tongue."

As it happens, there is no necessity for digging deeply into any vocabulary in order to find an accepted English word as a substitute for "clôture." Turn up any English dictionary of repute, and you will find the word "closure." I find it in the "Library Dictionary" (Collins, London and Glasgow, 1871). "Closure, act of shutting or closing; that which closes or shuts; that which incloses or confines; end, conclusion." Then turn up Mrs. Cowden Clarke's "Complete Concordance to Shakspeare" (London, Bickers, 1879), and you will find that the Bard of All Time uses "closure" in the sense both of inclosing and of ending. In "Richard III.," act iii., scene 3, we read:—

> O, Pomfret, Pomfret! O, thou bloody prison!
> Within the guilty closure of thy walls,
> Richard the Second here was hack'd to death.

In "Titus Andronicus," act v., scene 1, occurs "closure" in the sense of conclusion or "clôture."

> The poor remainder of Andronici
> Will, hand in hand, all headlong cast us down,
> And on the ragged stones beat forth our brains,
> And make a mutual closure of our house.

"Closure" should surely be good enough for the politicians in or out of Parliament. Unfortunately for the strong "Saxon" sympathies of "A Briton," the good old English and Shakspercan word "closure" is obviously derived from the Latin clausura—claudere, to shut. And does not "A Briton," while pleading the "Saxon" cause, use many words of manifestly foreign derivation. He writes "vocabulary"—why not "word-book"? "substitute," why not "other" or "same meaning"? "signal service," why not "strong help"? "language," why not "speech"? "individuality" (which is scarcely a legitimate English word at all), why not "self-likeness"? "submerge," why not "drown"? "national," why not "folks"? An immense amount of nonsense is talked and written every year about the "Saxon individuality" of that curiously compound speech, the modern English language. Do the panegyrists of "the well of English undefiled" wish that our schoolmasters should exercise their scholars in the Saxon monk Cädmön, or of Adhelm of Malmesbury; or are we to accept as a model for English writing in the Victorian era the English of Chaucer, of which one third is French; and which nine out of ten tolerably educated young Englishmen and Englishwomen are unable to read without the use of a glossary? Only tell us what example we are to follow (I am pleading on behalf of my juniors: myself am past praying for) and we will strive to follow it. Only, it is hard to be hanged for breaking the law, when that law has not been laid down.

An esteemed friend, writing from New Orleans, under date of the twenty-fifth of January, tells me that the Crescent City had been thrown into a frenzy of delight in consequence of a heavy snowstorm. Such an event as snow "lying" had not been known in the pleasant capital of Louisiana for five-and-twenty years. The male population, high and low, of the city improved the opportunity by turning out into the streets and organising snow-balling tournaments; the children of the public schools mustered in their hundreds—it might almost be said in their thousands, since the vast majority of American boys and girls attend the common schools—in Lafayette-square; and the balconies were thronged with ladies who, with their own dainty hands, flung icy pellets at their male acquaintances on the side-walk below. It was the Carnival of Rome transplanted (a little before its time) to the shores of the Mississippi, with snow-balls instead of confetti for pelting purposes.

My correspondent (an enthusiastic Southerner) describes as exquisitely beautiful the spectacle of the snow garlanding and festooning the tropical vegetation in the public squares and gardened villas (they remind you of the villas of old Pompeii) of New Orleans. The oranges, smiling golden in the midst of an environment of snow, looked like "delicious confections of Hesperidan fruit and ice-cream," and each dark green leaf of the magnolia formed a cup for snow, reminding one of the magnolia's own beauteous flowers in full bloom. Well; what is one man's meat is another man's poison. At precisely the time when the hospitable and simple-minded folk of Louisiana were exulting in unwonted snow, we were grumbling our sorest and inveighing our fiercest against the scandalous apathy and carelessness of the metropolitan vestries in allowing the streets to remain barricaded by snow.

The exultation of the New Orleanists did not, unfortunately, last very long. Within the last few days the Atlantic cable has brought us the unpleasant intelligence that the waters of the Mississippi, swollen by a sudden thaw and lashed to fury by a storm, have broken through the embankment called the Levee at New Orleans, and laid five hundred "squares" or insulæ of the city under water. I have since heard that the inundation is subsiding, and that fifteen thousand labourers have been set to work to mend the broken-down Levee. That protection against inundation is, indeed, always needed, seeing that the entire site of the city of New Orleans is itself below the level of the Mississippi. It is a pity that the town cannot be raised bodily, as Chicago was, by means of jack-screws. But then the city on Lake Michigan has some foundations. The city of Manon L'Escaut and the Chevalier Desgrieux has none. Dig from two to three feet deep, and the soil reached is semi-fluid. If you die in New Orleans, you cannot be buried there. Your remains must be deposited above ground in one of a series of brick or stone cells superposed on each other to a height of eight or ten feet. Each cell holds one coffin, and the narrow entrance to the receptacle is hermetically sealed so soon as the funereal rites are over. The popular name for these curious "columbaria" is at once ghastly and droll. They are called "ovens."

The new "Falstaff Club" to be soon opened in the historic edifice once known as "Evans's," in the Piazzas, Covent Garden, is in steady course of organisation, and, carefully and appreciatively managed, will prove, I hope, a brilliant social success. On Tuesday a largely attended meeting was held of the Honorary Provisional Committee of the Club; Sir E. J. Reed, K.C.B., F.R.S., M.P. (who is one of the Trustees), in the chair. The Provincial Committee proceeded to elect a Working Committee; among the members of which I note the names—adequately representative of "Society," Science, Art, Letters, Music, and the Drama—of Lord Crawford and Balcarres, Lord Londesborough, Colonel Farquharson of Invercauld, Lord Alfred Paget, Colonel Keate, R.A., Major Wallace Carpenter, Captain Clarkson, Captain Marcward, R.N., Captain Percy Hewitt, Major de Winton, Mr. Wentworth Cole, the Hon. Lewis Wingfield, Mr. John Hollingshead, Mr. Barry Sullivan, Mr. Charles Kelly, Mr. John Radcliff, Mr. Wilhelm Ganz, and Mr. Phil Morris, A.R.A. Ten more gentlemen, representing the interests of music, literature, science, and art, will be speedily added to the Working Committee.

A better locality for the new club (applications for membership of which already exceed six hundred) than the Piazzas, Covent Garden, and the fine old mansion which was once the town house of Admiral Russell, of Cape La Hogue fame, it would be difficult to select. The grand music-hall, so long known as "Evans's," is to be fitted with a new stage and proscenium, and will serve as a theatre in which the club, à l'instar of the celebrated "Cercle des Mirlitons" at Paris, propose to give occasional amateur dramatic performances, concerts, and other entertainments of an artistic and festive kind. To some of these symposia members will be allowed to introduce—with the sanction and with the strictest scrutiny of the committee—the ladies of their family or their friendly circle. Several Dragons, I believe (trained by Argus of the Hundred Eyes, a former Grand Inquisitor of the Holy Office), and many ex-Lady Patronesses of Almack's will watch over the unimpeachability of the arrangements made for the occasional invitation of ladies to the Falstaff Club. Similar Draconian precautions are taken by the committees of the great clubs of New York and San Francisco, in the festivities of which ladies, from time to time, mingle without the slightest inconvenience arising.

In the current number of Temple Bar there is one of the tenderest and most touching of prose idylls that I have read for a very long time. It is called "Poor Miss Brackenthorpe," and is from the accomplished pen of Lady Lindsay, of Balcarres, the authoress, among other pleasant contributions to literature, of that charming art-story, "Lisa's Love." "Poor Miss Brackenthorpe" is only the story of an inoffensive little old maid who once in her life and during a few fleeting hours revels in the day-dream of being loved. It is but a day-dream, more 's the pity, and leaves nothing behind but a poor bouquet of faded flowers. "But who," asks Lady Lindsay, "can sympathise with a romantic heart that is no longer young?" I must venture to point out that this savours slightly of begging the question. Everybody, at least, who reads "Poor Miss Brackenthorpe" must sympathise with the romantic heart (although it is no longer young) of that lorn spinster. Cruel only to be kind, Lady Lindsay kills "poor Miss Brackenthorpe," within a year of her disappointment, by heart disease.

But if no one grieved, no one benefited, for poor Miss Brackenthorpe had but little property to will away. A friend in New South Wales received a quaint old ring, the Greys a silver teapot, a cousin in Hampshire a few other trifling legacies. One of the said cousin's daughters, a happy-faced girl of eighteen, became the possessor of the spinster's little writing-desk, an old-fashioned thing of rosewood. It was empty of all papers, except a few unimportant notes; but one day as the girl lifted the lid somewhat roughly a secret spring gave way, and an inner drawer was suddenly disclosed. Within the drawer lay a bunch of withered wild flowers, so dried up that they crackled and fell to pieces at the first touch. Tied to them was a piece of paper, whereon was written in bold manly characters:

"For Miss Brackenthorpe; a peace-offering."

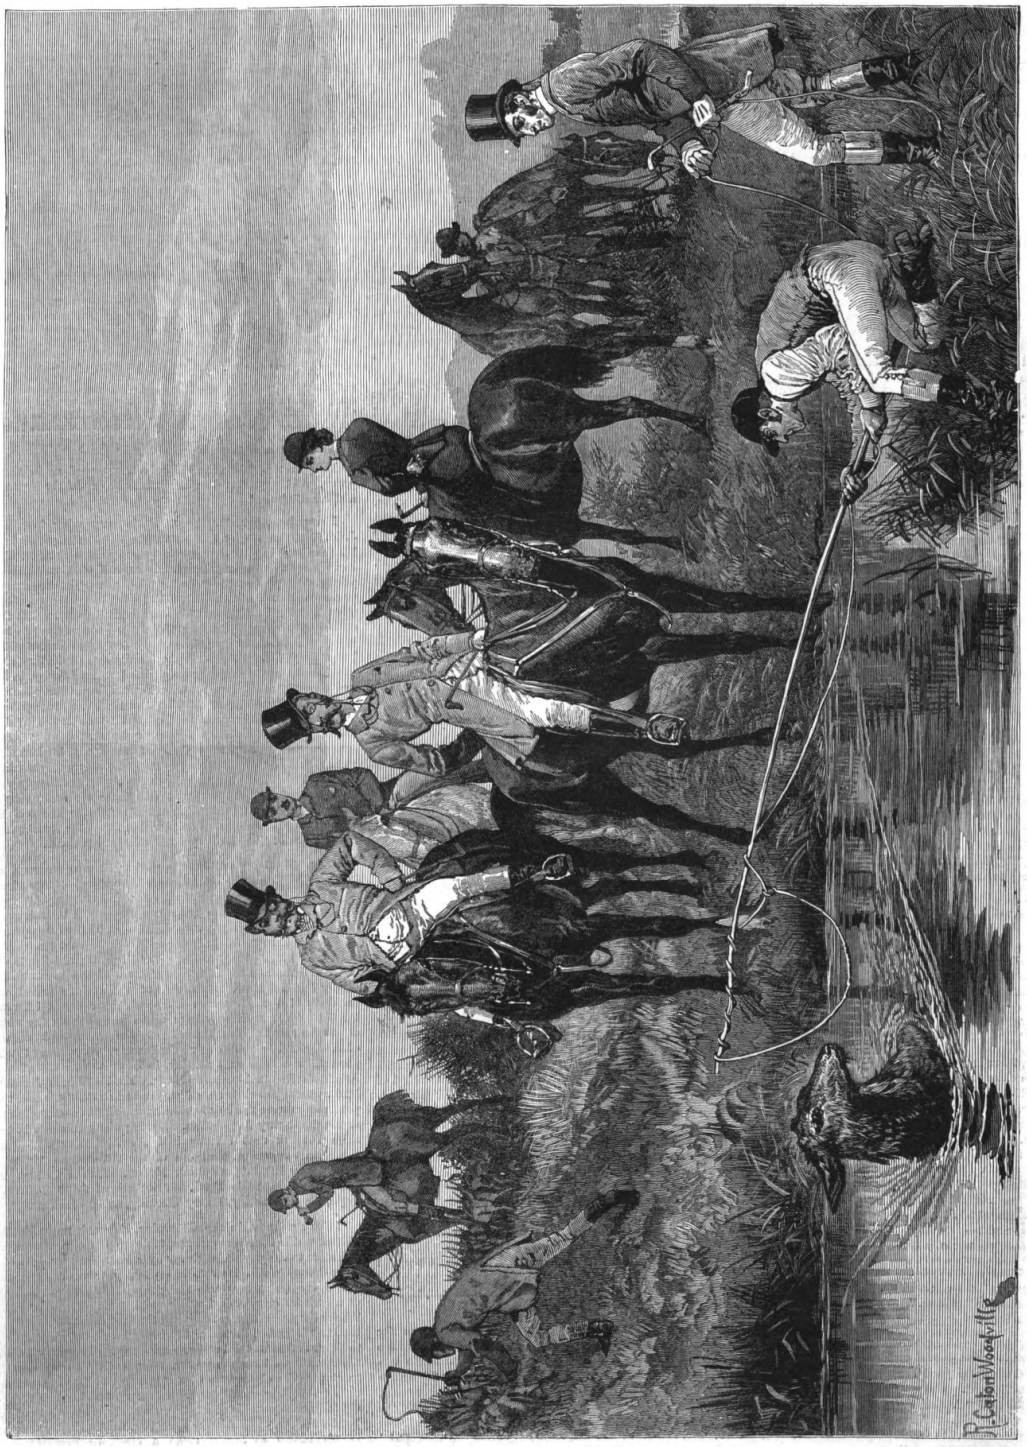
Do you remember the silky lock, wrapped up in tissue paper, that was found in the escritoire of Swift? "Only a Woman's hair."

I saw the other day the mezzotint engraving from Mr. J. M. Whistler's very noble full-length sitting portrait of Thomas Carlyle. The portrait is among the very finest that Mr. Whistler has ever painted. It is full of breadth, simplicity, and quiet strength, and is wholly devoid of eccentricity or mannerism. The original picture is in the possession of Mr. Graves, of Pall-mall; and I should be glad to learn that this striking yet refined presentment of the Sage of Chelsea had been acquired either by the National Portrait Gallery, of which he was one of the trustees, or the University of Edinburgh, of which he had been Lord Rector, or the London Library, in the Presidency of which he succeeded the late Lord Clarendon. I should be sorry to learn that the Americans had snapped up and carried off in triumph to the land where Ralph Waldo Emerson first made the writings of the author of "Sartor Resartus" known the finest effigy of the Sage of Chelsea that pictorial art has produced. His rugged and strongly marked features lent themselves, on the other hand, excellently well to the purposes of the camera; and there are some simply wonderful photographs of him extant: notably the one by Elliot and Fry, an engraving of which forms the frontispiece to the "Sartor" in the People's Edition of his works.

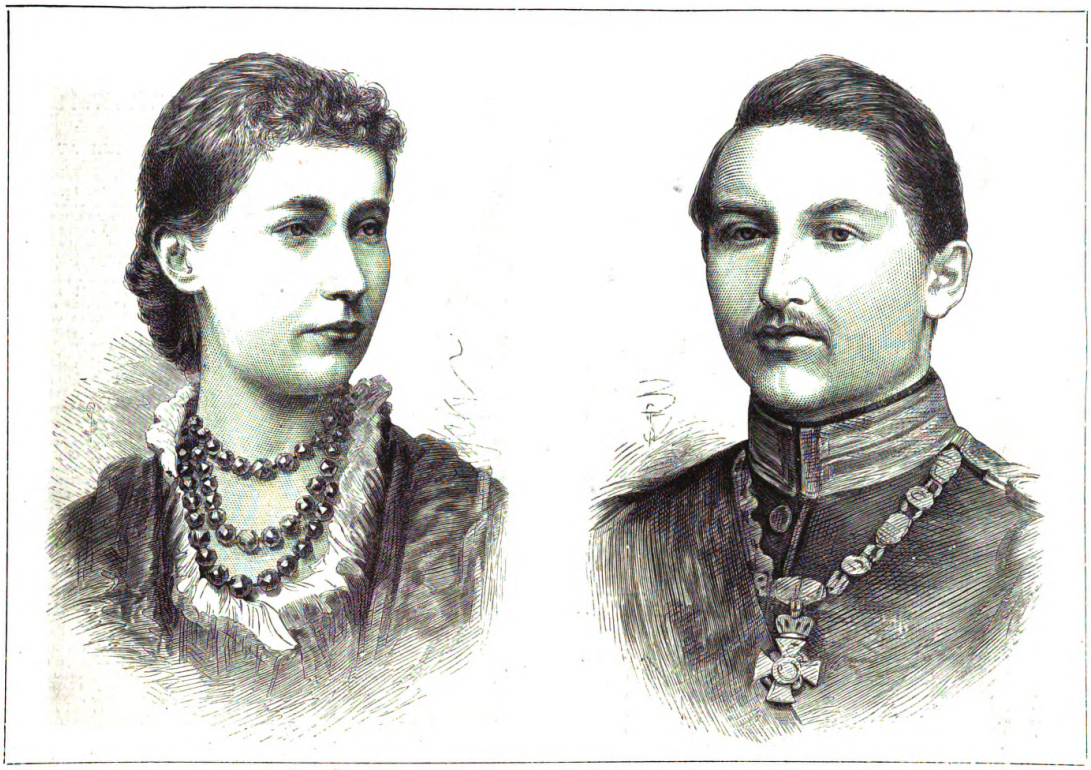
There has been within the past week a conference of English authors and publishers on the subject of American copyright; nay, to judge from a somewhat cloudy paragraph in the Times, there have been two Copyright Conferences. One of these meetings was attended, I read, by Lord Houghton, Sir Charles Trevelyan, Dr. William Smith, Messrs. Browning, Wilkie Collins, Froude, Anthony Trollope, Charles Reade, G. O. Trevelyan, and some representatives of the great book-selling firms. Most, if not all, of the authors named are members of the Athenæum Club; and, for aught I know, the Conference itself may have taken place within the walls of the august establishment at the south-east corner of Pall-mall. The other Conference, at which I was present, was held on Saturday last, at the rooms of the Asiatic Society in Albemarle-street. Mr. McCullagh Torrens, M.P., was in the chair; and, so far as I could make out, the proceedings were more or less under the auspices of the International Literary Association. Among the gentlemen in the room I think that I recognised Sir Alexander Galt (the Canadian Statesman, and son of the well-known "Blackwood" novelist, John Galt), Messrs. William Gilbert, R. Bagster, G. Manville Fenn, H. Sutherland Edwards, James Payn, George Bentley, Henry Vizetelly, and John Maxwell.

I took no part in the discussion, although an incidental remark which I made across the table to the chairman with reference to the shameless piracy by a New York publisher of some letters which I wrote home last year from the United States crept somehow into the papers. Whether anything of a definite or practical nature will come of the Draught Treaty for providing for a copyright between Great Britain and the United States, I am sure I do not know; but I am disposed to think that it will not come to anything. I doubt whether the Americans have the power, even if they have the will, to enforce the observance of a "Hands off!" policy among their publishing countrymen. I fear that not all the Copyright Treaties possible of execution would discourage Mr. Mac Vanderdecken, of Hoshkosh, Michigan, from pirating George Eliot's novels at fifteen cents a copy, or deter Messrs. Horseleech Brothers, of Potawotamie City, in the State of Iowcyou, from issuing a contraband edition of Mr. Edwin Arnold's "Light of Asia" at ten cents. The English author stands to the average American publisher (that there are some honourable exceptions I frankly admit) in about the same relation that the Irish landlord stands towards his tenant—to the tenant's thinking. The former has no rights which the latter feels bound to respect.

G. A. S.



OUT WITH THE STAGHOUNDS: CAPTURE OF THE DEER.—SEE PAGE 174.



PRINCESS VICTORIA OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN. PRINCE FREDERICK WILLIAM OF PRUSSIA.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN.—See Page 174.

COMBERMERE ABBEY, CHESHIRE, THE TEMPORARY RESIDENCE OF THE EMPRESS OF AUSTRIA.—SEE PAGE 174.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Feb. 15.

In the course of the debate on M. Naquet's Divorce Bill, M. Henri Brisson, with an emphasis which Joseph Prudhomme, Calino, or Guibollard would not have disowned, let fall this phrase—"The re-establishment of divorce would compromise the Republic!" M. Brisson would have been nearer the truth if he had substituted "the forthcoming general elections" for the word "Republic." The Divorce Bill was rejected because it is not imperiously demanded by the majority in the country, and because, if it had been adopted, the clerical party would have made capital out of it amongst the peasants. In France, village households know neither divorce nor separation; in case of incompatibility of temperament blows and cuffs take the place of lawyers and special pleaders. It will probably be years before France will accept the maxim of Erasmus: marriage must be respected as long as it is only a purgatory, and broken as soon as it becomes a hell. M. Emile Zola has favoured us with his opinion on the question. He thinks that the best thing for a married couple to do is to make the best of it. "That depends entirely upon the man and the woman. They must learn to tolerate each other; the cohabitation of two human creatures being most often disagreeable. Life is sad; stupidity and villany exist everywhere. Therefore, we ought to be content with our lot, and to try to improve it as much as possible, to remember above all things that suffering is the same right and left, and that there is consequently no real advantage in attempting to obtain perfect felicity elsewhere." The Parisian lawyers are not of M. Zola's opinion. Indeed, since the rejection of M. Naquet's bill the Palais de Justice is full of gloomy and disappointed men, whose dreams of fortune have been cruelly broken by the negative vote of the Deputies.

Messrs. Parnell, Egan, Biggar, Dillon, Harris, and some other Irish members, arrived in Paris on Sunday morning. Mr. Parnell has been interviewed as to the object of his visit. It is to make Paris the financial centre of the Irish Land League and to install Mr. Patrick Egan as treasurer. Mr. Parnell also intends to warn the French press against the English telegrams which are drawn up by the enemies of the Land League, and to ask them to accept contradictory despatches which Mr. Parnell himself will send. At present, French public opinion has not pronounced either for or against the Irish agitators; the question at issue is not understood. In the account of one of the interviews published in the French papers, Mr. Parnell, when asked if he intended to see Gambetta, replied: "Why should I? He is our enemy. He has dined with the Prince of Wales!"

A committee has been elected for the organisation of the proposed fête in honour of Victor Hugo's eightieth birthday, on Sunday, Feb. 27. The committee, while trusting largely to private initiative and appealing to the Parisians at large for advice and aid, has decided that invitations shall be sent to the departments, so as to give the fête a national character; that a gilded laurel-tree, inscribed with the titles of the poet's works, shall be presented to Victo Hugo; that the cortège shall be formed at the Arc de Triomphe, and thence shall defile past the poet's house in the Avenue d'Eylau, throwing flowers, palm-leaves, and olive-branches. In the afternoon a grand literary matinée, under the presidency of Louis Blanc, will take place at the Trocadéro in honour of Victor Hugo; a commemorative medal will be struck, &c. If the idea of this celebration be only taken up by the Parisian public as it undoubtedly will be, the Victor Hugo fête will be a most imposing and touching ceremony.

There have been so many plays produced during the past week that one almost felt inclined to hire a man, and so see them by proxy, as Nestor Roqueplan, whenever he travelled, used to send his valet Désiré to see the sights of the place and give him an account of them. The most important novelty is Offenbach's posthumous piece, "Les Contes d'Hoffmann," which was produced with a brilliant success at the Opéra-Comique on Friday. The score is one of the most charming and artistic that Offenbach ever wrote. It is full of variety, of grace, of energy, of poetry. It is a work, maturely reflected, on which Offenbach had been engaged for years, and in which he has placed his whole artist's soul. In some parts of the third act we see what Offenbach might have become as a serious composer if the necessity of living had not forced him to invent operetta. Next in point of success amongst the theatrical novelties comes "Phryné," a charming three-act comedy, or rather fantasie, by M. Henri Meilhac, which was produced at the Gymnase last night. The only things Greek in the piece are the costumes. The wit is of the purest modern Parisian quality, and the characters, in spite of their Greek names, are to be met on the boulevards any day. An agreeable comedy, "Madame de Navaret," by MM. Nus and de Courcy, now being played at the Vaudeville, deserves mention; it is honest and pleasing, two qualities not common in these days of naturalism, when more than ever the demi-monde has invaded the stage.

The Princess de la Moskowa died last Wednesday. This lady's name has often been mentioned of late. The reader may remember that it was through her refusing to pay some bills signed by her granddaughter, Madame Friedmann de Friedland, that the latter and her husband are now in prison. The Princess de la Moskowa was a daughter of the famous banker, Jacques Laffitte, who owed his fortune to the fact of having picked up a pin in presence of the banker of whom he had just requested employment. The wife of Jacques Laffitte went mad before she gave birth to her daughter the Princess de la Moskowa, who owed her title to her husband, the eldest son of Marshal Ney. The Princess lived in the hotel in the Rue Laffitte which was given to her father by national subscription. Of late years she had become eccentric in her habits and miserly beyond all measure; finally, she refused to let the shops in the buildings which she owned except by the week, in order to receive her rent as quickly as possible. She herself lived in a paltry suite of rooms in the Laffitte Mansion. At night she used to amuse herself by playing bezique with the wife of her door-porter. The immense fortune of the Princess de la Moskowa passes into the hands of her daughter, Madame Lemoyne, formerly Duchesse de Persigny.

The Senate and the Chamber have not caused any violent emotion in the public mind since my last letter. The sittings of both Houses have been devoted to business rather than to party discussion. It is worthy of notice that the twenty-third initiative committee has refused to take into consideration the bill presented by M. Talandier and twenty-three of his colleagues of the Extreme Left with a view to abrogating the law of 1849, which allows the Government to expel foreigners from French territory by a simple administrative measure. The committee believe the law of 1849 to be of the highest utility, and guaranteed against abuse by the control of the press and of public opinion. The Minister of the Interior is of the opinion of the committee, and so, for the present at least, resident foreigners will do well to refrain from interfering in the private affairs of France.

T. C.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

A hope of the speedy cessation of this wretched conflict, in which victory can bring neither profit nor honour to the British political and military administration in South Africa, has arisen during the past week. It was stated by the Daily News on Wednesday last that on Monday night a despatch reached the Colonial Office from Sir George Colley announcing that he had received overtures of peace from the Boers. The Cabinet Council which met on Tuesday afternoon was engaged in considering these proposals, on which a despatch was within a few hours forwarded to the High Commissioner. According to the Standard, her Majesty's Government is willing to grant the Boers of the Transvaal complete local independence. Mr. Brand, President of the Orange Free State, telegraphed on Monday to Mr. Donald Currie, as follows:—"On Wednesday night I sent off an express to Krüger, Pretorius, and Joubert, informing them of Lord Kimberley's telegram of the 8th through Sir George Colley. They will have received my letter only yesterday, and I hope they have written to High Commissioner Sir George Colley before to-day or to-morrow, and I cannot expect answer before Wednesday or Thursday. The Volksraad (Free State) meets on Thursday. I do not know what the Transvaal people will do, but I hope a peaceful settlement will soon be made, for a war between any part of the white people of South Africa is a thing dreadful to be contemplated."

A deputation from Amsterdam has arrived in London with the object of presenting a petition to the Queen, signed by 10,300 Dutchmen in Holland, praying for the restoration of the independence of the Transvaal. Sir Henry Ponsonby has informed them that any application with reference to public affairs can only be brought before her Majesty's notice by a responsible Minister. He suggests that the proper course would be for the deputation to address themselves to the Netherlands Minister.

An address to the King of the Belgians in favour of the Transvaal Boers is being signed by the Flemish population of Belgium. It reminds the King of the interest taken by his Majesty in Central and South African affairs, his reception in 1876 of President Burgers, and the conclusion of a treaty of commerce between Belgium and the Transvaal Republic, in consequence of which Consuls were mutually appointed. The address says that nobody is better situated than the King to bring about a reconciliation between England and the Transvaal, as nobody has done more for Africa or is more respected by the Court and people of England. The King is, therefore, requested to make use of the means which will appear to him best suited for bringing about a cessation of the war.

An international Conference is shortly to be held of the Transvaal Independence Committee, at which the English, Dutch, Swiss, German, and Portuguese Committees will be represented. The English Committee have made arrangements for holding a public meeting on Monday next, in the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street. A resolution will be proposed at the meeting declaring the annexation of the Transvaal to be unjust and impolitic, deprecating the present war to force English rule upon an unwilling people, and advising that the war be stopped at once.

We learn by telegrams from the seat of war that the Boers have taken up position at Biggarsberg, thirty miles south of Newcastle, to intercept the troops advancing from Natal. The 2nd battalion of the 60th Regiment had encamped in a favourable position at Biggarsberg, and was awaiting the 92nd and 97th Regiments. Fighting was expected upon the arrival of Sir Evelyn Wood, who had gone up from Pietermaritzburg. A telegram received at the War Office from Sir George Colley states that the wounded are generally progressing satisfactorily, but, the wounds being severe, some deaths must occur.

A further report has been received in Natal from Sir W. Owen Lanyon, the Administrator at Pretoria, dated Jan. 14. It repeats the statements already published, that a successful attack was made on Jan. 6 by Colonel Gildea with 400 men on the langer on Reman's river, and that the Boers twice fired on the troops after hoisting the white flag. Major Montagu, at Standerton, reports under date of Jan. 30 that the position is safe, and that he can hold out for two months if necessary.

War Office and Admiralty officials received orders on Saturday to prepare for the dispatch of reinforcements to the Transvaal. The following have been selected:—The 11th Hussars (Prince Albert's Own), the 14th Hussars (King's Own), officers and men of the Royal Artillery to the number of 160, 700 infantry from various regiments, and contingents from the Army Service Corps and Army Hospital Corps.

From the Cape Colony, we have news of a seven days' truce being granted to the Basutos. Sir Hercules Robinson has prevailed on the Colonial Government to promise them generous treatment.

Our Illustration of the Transvaal for this week represents two Boers using their skill with the rifle to kill the "bles-bok," a common species of antelope in their country.

OUT WITH THE STAGHOUNDS—CAPTURE OF THE DEER.

For stag-hunting in England there are twelve packs of hounds, headed by "Her Majesty's," whose first meet is Slough, when sportsmen come from Paddington by "special," and all sorts of folk are out, on horseback, foot, and wheels, to see the deer uncarted and watch the start. Bloodhounds were formerly used for deer, as we see in the opening of "The Lady of the Lake;" but foxhounds of a large breed have now replaced them. In Scotland, where they fall to the rifle instead of the hound, deer are "driven," as described in "Waverley," and in Cooper's "Smuggler," and at greater length by Scrope; and one memorable drive has become historical—namely, the one detailed by Barclay, as given by the Earl of Athol for the amusement of Queen Mary, in 1563, when 360 deer, five wolves, and some roes were, in one day, slain! In olden days this hunting of the stag was so much thought of—the pursuit being then limited to "the upper ten"—that those who illegally followed it were liable, in the reign of King John, and under the Forest Charter, to be punished with the pillory, fine, and imprisonment, even to being "sent to the Plantations for the term of seven years;" and, as though such punishment was not sufficient, it was—owing to the action of "The Waltham Blacks"—increased to a death penalty by George I. Luckily, however, those days are over, and men are at liberty now to follow the stag as freely as fox and otter. Stag-hunting is of two kinds, good and bad, according as the deer is wild or tame. The sport in the former case being confined, for the most part, to these two packs only, the Devon and Somerset—on the Quantock hills, and in the Forest of Exmoor; and in the latter, to the rest of them—to the other ten packs—when the poor tame stag, with his horns removed, for the sake of the hounds, is taken to the meet, and let out of a cart, to give what sport he can, which, beyond the gallop, is not often much, as the same deer being saved at the end of each run—to be repeatedly hunted becomes so used to his flight that he shows no fear, so goes leisurely when he can. When pressed, however, he will run through sheep, or, if water be handy, will swim up stream, when the scent will be carried below where he went in, and thus the hounds be foiled. But should the pack be too close when he gains the stream, he will "take soil" and stand at bay, when the hounds by the whips are at once drawn off, and he is noosed and safely hobbled by the yeoman prickers or verderers, if the pack is "the Queen's," and with other packs by the huntsman, as we see in the Engraving that we give this week.

THE ROYAL WEDDING AT BERLIN.

The nuptials of Prince Frederick William, eldest son of the Imperial Crown Prince of Prussia and Germany and of the Princess Royal of Great Britain, with Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg, will be celebrated at Berlin on Sunday, the 27th inst. Our Special Artist, Mr. W. Simpson, has arrived in the Prussian Capital, and will furnish this journal with a series of Illustrations of the wedding ceremony and the attendant festivities. In the meantime, we give the Portraits of the princely bride and Royal bridegroom, who are both connected by family relationship with the Royal House of Great Britain. Princess Victoria, who was born on Oct. 22, 1858, is the eldest child of Prince Frederick of Augustenburg, titular Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, who claimed to be King of Denmark upon the death of King Frederick VII., in 1863, but whose claim was superseded by that of Prince Christian, son of the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg, now reigning as King Christian IX., who had married the daughter of King Christian VIII. of Denmark. Prince Frederick of Augustenburg, who married a daughter of the late Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, and has several children besides Princess Victoria, is brother to his Royal Highness Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, the husband of her Royal Highness Princess Helena of Great Britain; so that the bride, upon this interesting occasion, stands in the relation, by marriage and adoption, of grand-niece to her Majesty Queen Victoria; while the bridegroom is her Majesty's grandson. He was born on Jan. 27, 1859.

Our Portrait of Prince Frederick William is from a photograph by Hermann, Court photographer, of Potsdam; and that of Princess Victoria of Augustenburg, from one by Mr. A. Bassano, of Old Bond-street, London.

COMBERMERE ABBEY, CHESHIRE.

Her Majesty the Empress of Austria, who has, on two or three former occasions, come to England or Ireland and stayed a few weeks, to enjoy the sport of riding after a first-rate pack of foxhounds, arrived in this country on Wednesday last. We present a View of the mansion of Viscount Combermere, in Cheshire, which is the temporary residence of her Majesty during the English hunting season. Combermere Abbey is situated within the county boundary of Cheshire, but only four miles and a half from the Shropshire town of Whitchurch; it is about twelve miles south-west of Crewe, the well-known junction of the London and North-Western Railway, and eight miles from Nantwich. The town of Whitchurch has a few gabled black-and-white old houses, and many old stable-yards that can be seen through slate-coloured folding-doors. These betoken old coaching days, for Whitchurch was a great coaching centre. In the parish church the body of the "mighty Talbot," who figures in "Henry VI.," was lately uncovered in the chancel-tomb where he was laid. This was done during some restorations, and the compact figure, and high, broad brow, and the indications of severe handling, made his remains very interesting. The inevitable massive queen Anne Mansions, with quoining, Dutch bricks, and stone window-dressings, appear in Whitchurch, and cause one to wonder what could have brought them to such a country town.

The road to Combermere Abbey from Whitchurch is very pleasant; it is over undulating ground, and in some parts well shaded with trees. Just before we turn the road that leads to the lodge we skirt round Oss Mere, one of the Cheshire lakes, that have led to much speculation; but this is small as compared with Combermere, which is one of the largest. It seems now to be generally received that these lakes are the result of the disintegration and disappearance in some form or other of salt-mines. Some geologic condition in past ages has reduced the rock-salt to the condition of wet sugar; and the triassic formation over it has either forced it up in brine-springs, as we now see in Michigan, or else the brine has formed through faults in the strata at some lower level. The crust falls in, and a hollow is formed, which becomes a lake. The very conditions spoken of may be studied now at Northwich, where human industry has greatly aided the operation of Nature, and it now seems almost possible that this important town—the centre of the salt district—may at some future period be the bottom of a deep lake. Combermere Lake is very beautiful, and shaped like a horseshoe. Lysons calls it three quarters of a mile long; but if we take a line through the middle, and measure from extremity to extremity, it is not less than a mile and a quarter. It contains probably some of the largest pike in England, and in places it is of very great depth. The abbey, as will be seen, is something of the Strawberry-hill type; but it is a real abbey, and was founded by Cistercian monks early in the thirteenth century, and part of the old foundation yet remains inside the building, more especially in the library, which was the refectory. There is abundant evidence to show that the lake is now very much as it was when the abbey was founded. At the dissolution of monasteries it was granted to the Cotton family, who were raised to the Peerage for the services of Field Marshal Lord Combermere, the father of the present owner.

Our View of Combermere Abbey is from a Sketch by Mr. Alfred Rimmer, of Chester.

The Middlesex Yeomanry Cavalry regimental ball was held on Thursday at St. James's Hall, under the patronage of Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Harfield and officers of the regiment.

At the Lord Mayor of Dublin's banquet, given in the Mansion House on Tuesday night, the Lord Lieutenant was present. In proposing the toast of "The Lord Lieutenant and Prosperity to Ireland," the Lord Mayor avoided any political allusions; and, in replying, his Excellency also refrained from commenting, except in a few general terms, upon the public affairs of Ireland. He described himself as professing moderate Whig principles, and regretted that in Ireland there were too few of that description. As to coercion, some have declared that it should have been introduced long ago, and some were of opinion that it was not needed. His Excellency did not, however, enter into a close discussion of the question. He saw and welcomed the signs of returning prosperity in the country. The usual loyal toasts were heartily received, and his Excellency's remarks were cordially applauded.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

Mr. Edwin Booth's Lear, which I witnessed at the Princess's on Monday last, was a superb performance. I had seen Macready in the part at the Haymarket, at the old Princess's Theatre, and at the old Surrey, ever so many years ago. Mr. Phelps in this part I never saw. The tragedy itself is one to admire and to wonder at, and to learn by heart. It is full, to repletion, of unapproachable majesty, philosophy, and pathos; but it is not very well adapted for representation on the modern stage. To fit it to the requirements of our age it has to be cut and carved about, to the inevitable and deplorable mutilation of the Shaksperean magnificent text. Where, for example, on Monday night was Lear's apostrophe to the "naked beadle" and the "I pardon that man his life. What was his crime, &c.?"). And the whole play has to be not only "Rowdlerised" but "Colley-Cibberised" in a manner most painful to the Shaksperean student. The horrible "out vile jelly" scene in which the eyes of the unhappy Gloster are plucked out and stamped upon by Cornwall, assisted by Regan; the same wolfish dame subsequently stabbing the servant who protests against the outrage, is as necessarily omitted from Mr. Booth's version of the play, as it was from those of Macready, of Phelps, and of the elder Kean. It is a wholly "unactable" scene, yet, to read it, none can deny its wonderful dramatic power. The eye-plucking incident gives the last finishing touch to the fiendish character of Regan. The scene in which Kent is ordered into the stocks by Cornwall and Regan is retained; but the "situation" to modern eyes is an embarrassing and equivocal one. To a Shaksperean audience it would sound as thoroughly a natural proceeding as the whipping of the pretended blind cripple by the beadle in the Second Part of "Henry VI.;" but an Oxford-street audience in 1881 have lost what Corporal Nym would have called the "humour" of stocks and whipping-posts; and the pit and gallery on Monday scarcely knew whether to laugh at Lear's faithful old servitor with his ankles in the bilboes, or to sympathise with him for the unmerited degradation which he was undergoing at the hands of the brutal Cornwall, and Regan the She-Wolf.

In the earlier portions of the play, it struck me that Mr. Booth was reserving himself (as he reserved himself in Richelieu) for grander and more arduous efforts which were to come. Lear is, with the exception of Othello, perhaps, the most exhausting of all the leading characters in the Shaksperean repertory. From first to last, outburst follows outburst of the most vehement declamation. The passionate repudiation of Cordelia in the first act almost amounts to a malediction; and the ungratefully-treated father has subsequently to curse in no stinted terms of anathema both Goneril and Regan. The scene on the heath in the storm with the Fool and that inscrutable Tom o' Bedlam, the disguised Edmund, demands a long-continued course of sustained declamation and high-pitched invective; and the final catastrophe, when Lear strives to restore the strangled Cordelia to life, and, his heart-strings cracking, dies at last in the sheer agony of despair, necessitates a manifestation of much physical as well as artistic force. The purely mad scene, when Lear, fantastically bewrayed and plucking at straws, electrifies his audience with the strident shout "Aye! every inch a king," is also most onerous to the actor; and, indeed, safe in the few colloquies with the Fool, which afforded Mr. Booth the opportunity, while listening to the caustic banter of his Jester, of illustrating all the qualities of gentle good humour and placability with which he is so richly endowed, Lear is scarcely ever in a state of quiescence. He has no lengthened soliloquies, no intervals of measured and respectful dialogue; When he is not downright crazy he is in a violent passion—quarrelling either with Kent, or with his daughters and his sons-in-law. It is as though the astounding genius of the poet had contemplated the portrayal of a storm of human passion concurrent with, and as furious as, the physical tempest which rages, and shrieks, and roars on the Kentish heath.

While rendering with the broadest and boldest touches the imperious and irritable character of the king (who would appear normally to have been a very impulsive and impetuous personage, possibly rash and foolhardy in his youth, and in his old age sadly deficient in judgment) it cannot in fairness be said that Mr. Booth's vehemence of elocution ever degenerated into positive ranting. If, now and again, he made the whole house re-echo with some sonorous climax of invective or of imprecation, the occasion was so justifiable, and he had so skilfully led up from crescendo to crescendo, that the final thunder-clap of voice and action came naturally upon the house, and satisfied the expectation of a passionate peroration without jarring on the nerves as they are jarred upon when passions are torn to tatters by really "ranting" actors. Among the minor touches of pure art, the most conspicuous were the passages in which Lear expressed, not only by words, but by mien and gesture, his miserable consciousness that he was tottering on the narrow border-line between reason and unreason. The despairing persuasion that he was going mad, his piteous admission that he might not be altogether in his right mind, his utter raving access of delirium, his strange foregatherings and mutterings and moanings with the simulated Tom o' Bedlam; Lear's restoration to reason, and his exquisite pathetic recognition of Cordelia, with his final agonised lament over her dead body, were all rendered with astonishing truth, nerve, and absence of exaggeration. In such earlier scenes with the Fool I hold him to be fully equal to Macready. There was something beautifully touching in the manifestation of his affection for the Jester, whom he has not seen "for two whole days." In the storm scene I think Mr. Booth was better in his converse with Mad Tom than with the Fool.

The last-named character (which also, to my thinking, should always be played by an arch, graceful girl, who, if she has been favoured by Nature with good looks, should be instructed not to look too pretty) fell to the lot of Mr. F. Charles, an experienced and painstaking actor. He sang very carefully and not untuneably the snatches of song apportioned to him, and, on the whole, did his best. The character of the sturdily-faithful Kent was perfectly safe in the strong, able hands of Mr. John Ryder. Mr. William Redmund was not altogether without merit as Edmund; but as the simulated Tom o' Bedlam he made a great deal too much noise, and thrust himself altogether into undue prominence. Miss Dolores Drummond, Miss Violet Temple, and Miss Maud Milton were, respectively, the General, the Regan, and the Cordelia. Of them, and of the rest of the "cast," it were more charitable to say nothing. I know no pleasanter task than that of praising actors, and I refrain from "naming names," while regretting the general inefficiency of the performers by whom Mr. Booth was surrounded; because, perhaps, it was not altogether their own fault that they were put into parts unsuited to and above their capacity. The stage management was, throughout, excellent. G. A. S.

Mr. Charles Malcolm Wood, Deputy Chief Constable, has been elected Chief Constable of Manchester.

MUSIC.

The Crystal Palace concert of last Saturday afternoon brought forward (for the first time here) a pianoforte concerto by Herr Ignaz Brüll, by whom the solo portion was executed. The work is devoid of special interest, both in subject and treatment, and has little value beyond that of serving as a vehicle for the display of mechanical dexterity. In its execution, and in that of unaccompanied solos by himself, by Chopin and Brahms, Herr Brüll proved himself a highly skilled pianist. Another novelty was some ballet-music from Herr Anton Rubinstein's opera, "Nero." The pieces—entitled, respectively, "The Warriors," "The Bacchantes," and "The Jugglers and Buffoons"—are vigorous and energetic in style, and would doubtless be still more effective with the intended stage action. The concert opened with Schubert's second symphony (in B flat)—a charming work, which had once before been given at these concerts—and included a fine performance of Beethoven's third "Leonora" overture, the grandest of the four which he wrote for his opera "Fidelio," and the greatest of all operatic preludes. Mr. Sims Reeves's son, Mr. Herbert Reeves, made his first appearance at these concerts, and was very successful in his refined and intellectual delivery of the air, "Refrain thy voice" (from Mr. Sullivan's "Light of the World"), Schubert's "Ave Maria," and the aria "Forma celeste," from Gounod's "Cinq Mars."

The Sacred Harmonic Society's third concert of the forty-ninth season, yesterday (Friday) week, included the first performance in London of Mr. Arthur Sullivan's sacred musical drama, "The Martyr of Antioch." The work was commissioned for, and produced at, the Leeds Festival in October last year. Having on that occasion, and again when given at a Crystal Palace concert in December, spoken of its characteristics and merits, we may now briefly mention its latest rendering at St. James's Hall. The principal solo vocalists were, as before, Mrs. Osgood, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd; and Mr. F. King. Again Margaret's Hymn (Mrs. Osgood), Julia's air "Io Pean" (Madame Patey—with chorus), and Olybius's airs, "Come, Margarita," and "See what Olybius' love" (Mr. Lloyd), were among the most effective pieces, as were the opening choruses for the Sun worshippers, the funeral anthem, and the evening song of the maidens. The chorus-singing displayed the same improvement as at the previous concerts given since the society's removal from Exeter Hall to St. James's Hall. Mr. Sullivan conducted the performance of his cantata, which was followed by a fine rendering of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," directed by Sir Michael Costa; the solo singers in this case having been Miss A. Marriott, Mrs. Suter, and Mr. E. Lloyd. Sir M. Costa's "Naaman" is to be given at the Society's next concert, on March 4.

The Popular Concert of Saturday afternoon brought back Herr Jean Becker as leading violinist, and Miss Dora Schirmacher as solo pianist, the gentleman having again appeared at the concert of Monday evening, when Mdlle. Krebs was the pianist. The only specialty calling for notice was the first performance here on Monday of a sonata by Herr Rüntgen for piano and violoncello—a weak production that was not deserving of the fine rendering which it received from Mdlle. Krebs and Signor Piatti. The lady also played, with great effect, three sonatas by Scarlatti. The vocal music at each concert was effectively sung—on Saturday by Mr. E. Lloyd, on Monday by Mr. Thorndike. At next Monday's concert Herr Joachim is to appear.

The musical commemoration of Burns's birthday at St. James's Hall last Saturday evening (postponed from Jan. 25) included a performance of the late Howard Glover's cantata, "Tam o'Shanter," in which Mr. Sims Reeves sang the important and predominant tenor solos with fine effect; having, in the second part of the programme, declaimed the Highland war song, "The Macgregors' Gathering," with such admirable emphasis as to call forth an enthusiastic demonstration. Mr. Reeves's son, Mr. Herbert Reeves, also contributed to the miscellaneous selection, as did Misses A. Ross and Thorndike, Madame Patey, Mr. F. Boyle, Mr. W. Clifford, and Mr. Santley. An effective choir of about one hundred voices co-operated in the cantata, and also sang some part-songs. Mr. F. Meen presided at the harmonium, Mr. H. Parker at the pianoforte, and Mr. W. Putnam at the harp—Mr. Parker, Mr. Sidney Naylor, and Mr. F. A. Bridge having acted as conductors.

Last week's London Ballad Concert included successful renderings of the following new pieces:—Mr. Blumenthal's "Her King" (by Madame Antoinette Sterling), Mrs. Ronald's "The Old Log Cabin" (by Mr. Santley), and Herr Henschel's "Sing, Heigh! ho!" (by Miss C. Samuell). The second part of the programme consisted of a selection of popular old English music. Besides the artists already named, Miss M. Davies, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Maas, Mr. Maybrick, and the members of the South London Choral Association contributed to the performances.——The programme of this week's concert included various favourite Irish songs and ballads.

The 143rd anniversary festival of the Royal Society of Musicians, which took place at St. James's Hall on Thursday week, passed off with great success, under the presidency of the Duke of Connaught, by whom, and by Prince Leopold, Earl Beauchamp, Sir Frederick Leighton, and the American Minister, appropriate speeches were made. The proceedings of the evening included some effective musical performances, the solo vocalists having been Mesdames Leonora Braham and M. Cummings, and Mr. Burgon, and the instrumentalists, Lady Benedict (pianoforte) and Mr. J. T. Carrodus (violin), the South London Choral Association having contributed some very good part-singing. The donations amounted to £1600.

The second of Mr. Sims Reeves's Ballad Concerts, at St. James's Hall, took place on Tuesday evening; and, like the first, included his own fine singing, and effective performances by his son, Mr. Herbert Reeves, Miss Minnie Hauk, and other eminent artists—effective instrumental solos having been played by Signor Piatti (violoncello) and Mr. Sydney Smith (pianoforte). The members of the London Vocal Union again contributed some good part-singing. The third concert takes place next Tuesday evening.

We have already given an outline of the arrangements for Mr. Kuhe's eleventh annual Brighton Festival, which opened on Tuesday evening with an effective performance of Mr. Arthur Sullivan's "The Martyr of Antioch," and a selection of sacred pieces. Mr. Sullivan conducted his own work, the sole singers in which were, as previously, Mrs. Osgood, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. F. King, and Mr. Cross. The following proceedings must be referred to next week.

Professor G. A. Macfarren's oratorio "St. John the Baptist" was announced for performance at the fifth concert of the tenth season of the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society, on Thursday evening, with Mesdames Sherrington and Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. F. King as the solo vocalists.

The Florentine Quartet party, headed by Herr Jean Becker, announced a concert of chamber music on Tuesday evening, at the Royal Academy of Music. The programme included M. Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Quartet in B flat, Beethoven's String Trio in C minor, pianoforte solos executed by Mdlle. Jeanne Becker, and other instrumental pieces, besides lieder sung by Herr Max Friedlander.

Mr. Arthur Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch" is to be performed by the Highgate Choral Society on Shrove Tuesday, March 1. Mr. Worsley Staniforth will be the conductor.

The Triennial Norwich Musical Festival will be held, this year, on Tuesday, Oct. 11, and three following days, under the presidency of the Prince of Wales. Among the novelties, the chief will be a sacred cantata by Mr. Cowen, a cantata by Sir Julius Benedict, and a symphonic piece by Mr. J. F. Barnett. The other principal works to be given will be Handel's "Messiah," Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," Mr. Sullivan's sacred cantata, "The Martyr of Antioch," Berlioz's "Faust" music, and Mendelssohn's music to "Athalie." Sir J. Benedict having resigned the office of conductor—which he filled during several past festivals—will be succeeded by Mr. Randegger.

THE COURT.

Parkhurst was visited last Saturday by her Majesty, who was received at the barrack by Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir Henry Ponsonby, and Colonel Barry Drew, commanding the 14th Regiment (Prince of Wales's Own), the regiment, which was drawn up in line, receiving the Queen with a Royal salute. Her Majesty inspected the regiment, and some evolutions were gone through, after which the Queen, who was accompanied by Princess Beatrice, drove through Newport on her return to Osborne. The Royal dinner party included the Empress Eugénie, Princess Beatrice, the Duchess of Roxburghe, Madame d'Arcos, Mdlle. Rouher, the Duc de Bassano, Lieutenant-General Gardiner, Colonel the Hon. H. Byng, and Captain Edwards.

Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice attended Divine service at Whippingham church on Saturday, when the Rev. Dr. Farrar, Canon of Westminster, preached the sermon; the Rev. Canon Prothero assisting in the service. The Empress Eugénie visited the Queen. Canon Farrar dined with the Royal family.

On Monday her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, drove to Osborne Cottage and took leave of the Empress Eugénie. Princess Beatrice accompanied the Empress to Trinity Pier, whence Lieutenant-General Gardiner attended her Majesty on board the Alberta to Stokes Bay. The Royal dinner party included Lady Cowell, Mrs. Prothero, the Right Hon. Sir Henry Ponsonby, Colonel Barry Drew, commanding the 14th (Prince of Wales's Own) Regiment, and Captain Carter, R.N., commanding her Majesty's ship Hector. Miss Prothero was received by the Queen in the evening. The officers of the detachment at East Cowes, Captain B. Firman and Lieutenant Crofton, 14th Regiment, were also invited, and were presented to her Majesty.

The Lord Chancellor had an audience of and dined with the Queen previous to the departure of the Court from Osborne.

Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice have arrived at Windsor Castle.

George Albert Edward Alexander Byng, Esq., has been appointed Page of Honour to her Majesty, vice the Hon. Francis Hay, resigned; the Rev. John Llewelyn Davies, Rector of Christ Church, Marylebone, Honorary Chaplain to the Queen, is now Chaplain in Ordinary to her Majesty; and the Hon. and Rev. Edward Carr Glyn, Vicar of Kensington, and the Rev. Arthur Lewis Babington Peile, Vicar of Holy Trinity Church, Ventnor, Isle of Wight, are appointed Honorary Chaplains to her Majesty.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales went out yesterday week with the Queen's Buckhounds in the Berkshire country. His Royal Highness, who was accompanied by the Earl of Cork, Lord Carrington, and Lord C. Beresford, went to Windsor by the half-past ten train. From the terminus the Prince and his party drove in her Majesty's "Sefton" to the White Hart, Winkfield, some five miles distant, where his Royal Highness was received by a large field. After the hunt, the Prince lunched with Colonel Duncombe and the officers of the 1st Life Guards, at the Spital Cavalry Barracks, returning to London in the afternoon. The Princess of Wales went to last Saturday's Popular Concert at St. James's Hall. The Princess was present at an evening party given by Earl and Countess Spencer at Spencer House. Their Royal Highnesses, with their daughters, attended Divine service on Sunday. Princess Christian and the Duke of Edinburgh visited their Royal Highnesses at Marlborough House on Monday. The Prince and Princess have been making a tour of the metropolitan theatres, among those visited being the Lyceum, the Haymarket, the Prince of Wales's, and the Globe; their Royal Highnesses have also inspected the winter Exhibition of Old Masters at Burlington House, being conducted over it by Sir Frederick Leighton; and they were present at the Earl of Dunmore's orchestral concert at Aberdeen House, Argyll-street.

The Prince has consented to become President of the Norwich Musical Festival.

The Duke of Edinburgh yesterday week distributed, at Ramsgate, the medals granted by the Life-Boat Institution to the crews of the life-boats who so remarkably distinguished themselves in the late gale.

The Duke of Connaught and the Duke of Cambridge were present at the banquet given to Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Roberts by the Lord Mayor on Monday evening at the Mansion House.

The Empress of Austria, travelling as Countess Hohenembs, has arrived at Combermere Abbey.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

Twelve months (including Christmas Number), £1 9s. 3d.
Six months, 14s. Christmas Half-Year, 15s. 3d.
Three months, 7s. Christmas Quarter, 8s. 3d.

Copies will be supplied direct from the Office to any part of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands, for any period, at the rate of 6½d. for each Number, paid in advance.

ABROAD.

The yearly subscription abroad is 36s. 4d. (on thin paper, 32s.), with the following exceptions:—

To Aden, Borneo, Ceylon, India, Java, Labuan, Mozambique Penang, Philippine Islands, Sarawak, Singapore, and Zanzibar, 41s. (thin paper, 34s.)

To the Hawaiian Islands, Madagascar (except St. Mary), and Paraguay, 45s. (on thin paper, 36s. 4d.)

Subscribers are specially advised to order the thick paper edition, the appearance of the engravings in the thin paper copies being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication, irrespective of the departure of the mails.

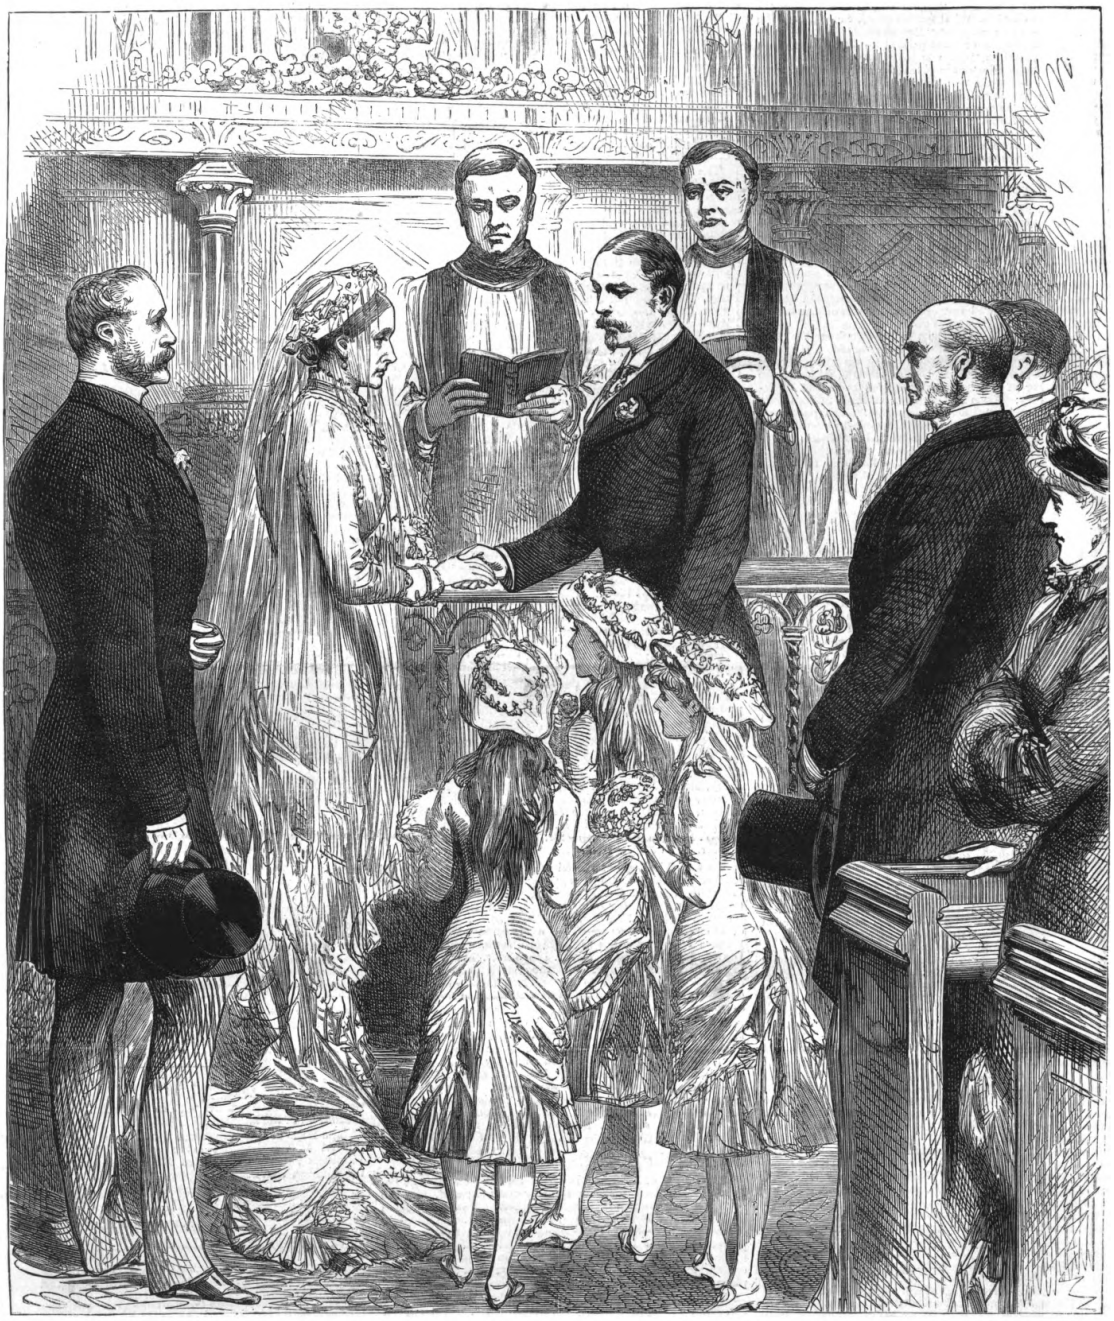
Subscriptions must be paid in advance, direct to the Publishing Office, 198, Strand, in English money; by cheque crossed the Union Bank of London; or by Post-Office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to George C. Leighton, of 198, Strand, London.



MARRIAGE OF BARONESS BURDETT-COUTTS AND MR. W. ASHMEAD-BARTLETT, ON SATURDAY LAST.—SEE PAGE 186.

A MOONLIGHT NIGHT AT CHELSEA: A REMINISCENCE OF THOMAS CARLYLE.—SEE PAGE 180.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Ashton, John Francis, late Curate of Tysoe; Curate of Hallow.
Bamford, F.; Vicar of Temple Guiting.
Beckiris, H. W., Vicar of Nuneaton; Honorary Canon in Worcester Cathedral.
Benwell, Henry Frederick; Curate of Thirsk.
Bradshaw, W. E., Curate of St. John-the-Evangelist, Hornsey; Incumbent of Bailliesto n, N.B.
Butler, Arthur; Minister of St. Margaret's Church, Olton.
Chevalier, W. A. C., Curate; Rector of St. Peter's, Cheeseh ill, Winchester.
Cooke, D., Vicar of Holy Trinity, Brompton; Honorary Canon of Rochester.
Davies, John Llewelyn; Rector of Christ Church, Marylebone, Honorary Chaplain; Chaplain in Ordinary to Her Majesty.
Edwards, J. W. G.; Vicar of St. Botolph's, Knottingley.
Glyn, E. C.; Vicar of Kensington; Honorary Chaplain to Her Majesty.
Goddard, T. W.; Vicar of Ilitteswell, Leicestershire.
Holland, W. L., Chaplain at Riga, late Vicar of St. Peter's, Bishop Auckland; Rector of Cornhill.
Horwood, T. G.; Vicar of Tetbury.
Malone, S. L'Estrange, Mus. Bac.; Chaplain to the Lord Primate of Ireland and Vicar Choral of Armagh Cathedral; Minor Canon of Worcester Cathedral.
Morris, L. R.; Perpetual Curate of Birdsall.
Peile, Arthur Lewis Babington, Vicar of Holy Trinity, Ventnor, Isle of Wight; Honorary Chaplain to her Majesty.
Robins, Arthur, Chaplain to the Queen, Rector of Holy Trinity, Windsor, and Chaplain to her Majesty's Household Troops at Windsor; Honorary Chaplain to the Prince of Wales.
St. John, M. W. F.; Vicar of Kempsford.
Sheringham, Canon; Archdeacon of Gloucester.
Slade, Robert Trim; Perpetual Curate of Thorpe Hesley.
Sunderland, James, Curate; Vicar of Eggington, Diocese of Ely.
Wood, F. J., Senior Curate of the Leeds Parish Church; Perpetual Curate of Headingly, near Leeds.—Guardian.

The Earl of Eldon has subscribed £500 towards the Newcastle Bishopric Fund.

The Bishop of London recently held a service in the small chapel at London House for the admission for the first time of the master of a merchant-ship to the office of lay reader.

A new chapel, which has been erected at the Winchester Training College as a memorial to the late Bishop Utterton, has been consecrated by Bishop Harold Browne.

An enthusiastic meeting has been held in St. Matthias's School, South Kensington, to take steps for the erection of a new church in Philbeach-gardens, Earl's Court, of which the Rev. H. Westall is the Vicar designate.

Mr. O. E. Coope, M.P. for Middlesex, laid the memorial-stone of a new church at Brentwood on Monday. The church is to accommodate 1000 worshippers, and will cost £8000. About half this has been raised, Mr. Coope contributing £2000.

A new church, dedicated to St. Paul, was opened at Bournemouth on Tuesday, the consecration being performed by the Bishop of Winchester. The church is from designs by Mr. A. H. Parker.

The Lord Mayor, accompanied by Mr. Alderman and Sheriff Fowler, M.P., Mr. Sheriff Waterlow, the Under-Sheriff of the City, and other civic officials, on Sunday attended Divine service at St. Peter-on-Cornhill, where a large congregation had assembled to hear the Rev. Canon Fleming preach on behalf of the Bishop of Pretoria's special fund for assisting the Anglican Church in the Transvaal.

Dean Stanley preached at both the morning and afternoon service on Sunday at Westminster Abbey. In the morning the annual sermon was delivered to the Corps of Commissionaires, who, after the annual inspection at Westminster Hall, marched in a body to the abbey. In the afternoon the Dean gave an address in memory of the late Sub-Dean, the Rev. Lord John Thynne.

A meeting of the board of management of the Bishop of London's Fund was held at 40a, Pall-mall, on Tuesday afternoon—the Bishop of London in the chair. The seventeenth report of the executive committee was read and adopted; and, on the recommendation of the sub-committee of nine, it was resolved to appropriate two fifths of the income during the current year to living agents, and the remaining three fifths to material objects.

The interesting little fifteenth-century church of Flax Bourton, near Bristol (which contains also a rich chancel arch and south doorway of the later Norman period), has been reopened for Divine service after extensive reparations, and the addition of a north aisle, organ-chamber, and vestry. All the windows have been reglazed, and painted glass inserted as a memorial in the east window, the gift of Mrs. Crook. Among the principal contributors were Mr. Antony Gibbs, Sir Greville Smythe, the Rev. R. N. Wood (the Vicar), and Mr. Mardaunt.

At St. Jude's, South Kensington, collections were made on Sunday in aid of the maintenance and extension of the Consumption Hospital at Brompton. The Rev. Dr. Forrest, the Vicar, preached in the morning a most impressive sermon; and in the afternoon the senior Curate, the Rev. W. Smale, earnestly pleaded for the charity. At the close of his sermon in the evening Dr. Forrest alluded with thankfulness to the liberal collection in the morning (about £160), and made a touching appeal for further help, especially to those who were not at the earlier service, asking particularly for annual subscriptions. The church was, as usual, crowded at all the services; and, as a result of the earnest and eloquent appeals made, the collections amounted to £275, including £43 new annual subscriptions.

The pretty little parish church of Chetwynd, Newport, Salop, consists of a nave and chancel, tower and spire, and south aisle, the latter being connected with the nave by an arcade of four Gothic arches resting on pillars of Devonshire marble, with enriched capitals in freestone. The east window, of three lights, was erected by Mr. Burton Borough, the patron of the living, as a memorial to his late mother. Another two-light window on the south side has the following inscription:—"This window is placed in memory of John Charles Gawen Roberts-Gawen, Admiral of her Majesty's Fleet, by his grateful and affectionate daughter, Elizabeth C. Burton Borough, of Chetwynd Park. He died Nov. 21, A.D. 1874." The greater portion of the improvements and alterations have been carried out by the munificence of Mr. Burton Borough.

The Royal Navy List, for 1881, is published by Witherby and Co., High Holborn and Cornhill. It is a complete and very useful record of all particulars concerning the personal rank, services, and position of Naval officers, the organisation of departments, the equipment and distribution of the several squadrons on active service, and the naval establishments at home. It is, in short, an effective companion to Hart's "Army List."

The forty-first annual publication of Dod's "Peerage, Baronetage, and Knightage," for 1881, provides a ready means of getting accurate information respecting all ladies and gentlemen of "the titled classes." This work differs from Burke's "Peerage and Baronetage," inasmuch as it does not give an account of genealogies beyond the parentage of living persons of title; or of children, except the heirs presumptive. For most practical purposes, however, as for corresponding with such persons, or for any reference to them in social intercourse, it will be found perfectly convenient, and its authority is fully recognised.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

A loyal popular manifestation occurred on Sunday evening during the performance at the Apollo Theatre, Rome, when the Royal Hymn was demanded and enthusiastically applauded, and cheers were given for the King and Queen and the House of Savoy.

The Popolo Romano states that the revenue returns for last month show an increase of 6,000,000 lire as compared with the same period of last year, and are 2,000,000 lire in excess of the Budget estimates.

On Monday the Chamber of Deputies continued the discussion on the bill for the abolition of the forced currency.

HOLLAND.

The Second Chamber of the States General has been summoned to meet on March 1.

The Grand Orient Masonic Lodge, at which the Grand Master, Prince Frederick, presides, has resolved to send an address to the Grand Orient of England in favour of Transvaal independence.

GERMANY.

The Reichstag was opened on Tuesday, by Count Stolberg-Wernigerode, the representative of the Imperial Chancellor. He said that among the European Powers there was not only complete concurrence in the wish to maintain peace, and no difference of views existed in principle concerning the essential objects of the negotiations pending between them. It is stated that the speech has produced a favourable impression in Berlin, owing to the peaceful tendency of its allusions.

At Saturday's sitting of the Federal Council the Imperial budget of revenue for next year was finally drawn up. The receipts from customs duties were set down at 188,250,000 marks, and the revenue from the tobacco tax at 4,578,000 marks. The sum to be made over to the several States from the Imperial revenue was fixed at 66,657,000 marks. In order to establish an equilibrium between revenue and expenditure a loan of 53,369,221 marks has to be raised.

At a state ball at Berlin last week the Emperor presented Colonel the Hon. Paul Methuen, British Military Attaché, with the silver medal for saving life, in recognition of his having a few days ago, at great personal risk, gallantly jumped into a canal and rescued a would-be suicide from death.

The population of Prussia, as ascertained at the Census taken on Dec. 1 last, amounts to 27,260,331. At the previous Census, in 1875, it numbered 25,742,404.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Empress and suite left Vienna at half-past twelve o'clock on Monday afternoon for England. Her Majesty was accompanied by the Emperor to the railway station.

The Crown Prince Rudolph, with his suite, started on the 9th on his journey to the East. The Emperor accompanied his Imperial Highness to the railway station, and took leave of him there. The yacht Miramar, with the Crown Prince on board, was obliged through stress of weather to put into Zante, the voyage being resumed on Sunday night.

Of thirteen Socialists tried at the Vienna assizes, one was sentenced to four years' imprisonment, with hard labour, another to six months' imprisonment, and the rest were acquitted.

RUSSIA.

General Skobeleff, according to an official despatch dated from Askabad, has issued a proclamation, in answer to which the Tekkes are actually returning to their homes. A provisional Government with a national representation, has been established. The despatch adds that it has been ascertained that 6400 bodies have been buried in Denzil Tepe, and that about 8000 people perished during the seige; 2000 were cut down by the Russian troops in the pursuit from Geok Tepe.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily News, telegraphing on Sunday night about Dostoyeffsky, the author of "Buried Alive; or, Ten Years' Penal Servitude in Siberia," says:—"Yesterday his remains were borne to the Church of St. Alexander Nevsky amidst extraordinary demonstrations of respect. Sixty-four deputations, represented institutions, schools, and societies attended, each b aring a wreath of laurel interspersed with flowers. On the coffin were deposited floral wreaths sent by the Grand Duchess Alexandra Josephina, wife of the Grand Duke Constantine, and the Princess of Oldenburg. Twenty thousand people at least took part as spectators or walked in procession extending over a mile, throughout which, by special desire of the relatives, order was observed without the intervention of the police. The Emperor grants a pension of 2000 roubles a year to the widow, and provides for the education of the children."

TURKEY.

Mr. Goschen arrived at Constantinople on Sunday morning, and had a private audience of the Sultan the same afternoon.

Yesterday week the sum of 32,000 liras was paid into the Ottoman Bank as a first instalment of the East Roumelian tribute due to the Porte.

GREECE.

The Chamber of Deputies on Monday read the bill a third time granting a provisional credit for February. M. Mavromichaelis, the Minister of War, submitted a bill to the Chamber for the provisional organisation of a National Guard, to consist of men aged from thirty to forty, who will garrison the various forts, military stations, and strategical points in the country. The bill empowers the Ministry to fill up gaps in the regular army from the National Guard if necessary.

By a Royal decree, all Greek sailors up to the age of twenty-six have been called out for active service.

AMERICA.

The Senate and House of Representatives held a joint sitting last week to count the Presidential election votes. General Garfield and Mr. Arthur were declared duly elected President and Vice-President respectively.

The Foreign Relations Committee of the House have agreed to report a bill for the payment, with interest, of the East Florida claims growing out of the Treaty of 1819 with Spain.

The Territories Committee of the Senate recommend the creation of a new territory, to be called Pembina Territory, consisting of the northern half of Dakota.

The Senate has passed the Postal Appropriation Bill, after rejecting by thirty-four votes against fourteen the amendment proposed by the Post Office Committee granting 1,000,000 dols. for subsidies to American iron steam-ships.

Mr. Fernando Wood, member of Congress for New York City, died on Sunday night at Hot Springs, Arkansas, whither he had gone seeking restoration to health, aged seventy-one.

There have been heavy snowstorms in Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Missouri, in which States the railways are blocked at several points. Storms and floods are stated to be general throughout the United States and Canada.

Large meetings of Land League sympathisers have been held in Boston, Jersey City, and elsewhere in the States; and the New York State Assembly, the West Virginia Legislature, and that of Colorado have passed resolutions expressing sympathy with the Irish people. Mr. Parnell's mother last week addressed a Land League meeting at Brooklyn, and afterwards organised a woman's branch of the League.

CANADA.

The Dominion Senate has read the Pacific Railway Bill the third time.

The Supreme Court in Ottawa has unseated the following members of the Dominion House of Commons:—Mr. Ferreault, of Charevoix, and Mr. Larue, of Bellechase, the latter being disqualified.

The Nova Scotia Legislature has been convoked for March 3.

The Opposition in the New Brunswick Legislature demand the abolition of the Legislative Council and the curtailment of the expenses of the Executive.

Eighty-six thousand immigrants arrived in Canada during the past year, of whom 39,000 settled in the Dominion, the remainder proceeding to the United states.

The reports circulated a short time ago respecting an alleged wholesale emigration from Canada to the United States have recently formed the substance of an inquiry by the Dominion Government, and the discussion that has taken place in the House of Commons at Ottawa on the matter proves conclusively that the absurd story of what was called the Canadian exodus is without any foundation in fact. It is mentioned in the report that since 1873 the immigration into Canada from the United States exceeded 10,000 per annum.

Meetings have been held at Montreal and Quebec, at which resolutions condemning the Irish Coercion Bill were enthusiastically adopted.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

The Honourable Mr. James Watson, Colonial Treasurer, made his financial statement on the 9th inst. in the Legislative Assembly at Sydney.

He stated that it afforded him great satisfaction to be in a position to congratulate the House and the country on the present state of financial prosperity—a prosperity, too, which was not confined to the public revenue alone, but which permeated the whole community, and promised to be of long continuance. He asserted, without fear of contradiction, that there was abundant employment for every one inclined to work, that trade and commerce were in a flourishing condition, and that the prospects of agriculturists and graziers had been considerably improved by the fertilising rains with which the colony had recently been blessed.

He then reviewed the accounts of the last two years, in doing which he showed that the revenue last year had exceeded that of 1879 by £130,000, and that, notwithstanding the large special appropriation for public works out of the surpluses of former years, there still remained a surplus of £350,000 to the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund on Dec. 31 last. Several sources of income had proved far more productive than had been anticipated, notably the railways, which yielded £1,590,000, or £80,000 in excess of his estimate. He estimated the expenditure this year at £5,252,000, and the revenue at £5,440,000, which, if realised, would leave a balance at the close of this year of £288,000; and this, together with the surplus at the close of last year, would amount to a gross surplus of £638,000. The increase of expenditure proposed this year as compared with last was only £100,000, and was chiefly accounted for by the amount required to carry out the provisions of the Public Instruction Law of last Session.

In consequence of the productiveness of the existing sources of income there was no necessity at present for any increase of taxation: "but," he said, "it might be desirable as soon as other urgent questions had been disposed of that a complete revision of our system of taxation should be effected, in order to bring it more in harmony with economic principles."

The revenue from Jan 1 to Feb 8 this year was £154,000 in excess of the corresponding period last year, which the Treasurer thought a sure indication that the estimates of revenue this year would be fully realised. The railways last year yielded 4¼ per cent on the capital invested, and it was anticipated that this year they would be still more productive. Six hundred and seventy-nine miles of railway extension had been authorised, the greater part of which was now under construction, while for the remainder the plans were being completed. Surveys for a further extension of the lines had been made in various parts of the colony, and estimates for their construction were in preparation, and would be shortly submitted to Parliament for consideration. The large cash balances to the credit of the Government had enabled them to make advances on the loan account to the extent of £1,800,000. No new loan would be placed in the London market for several months, as money was plentiful in the colony. It might be considered expedient to raise a loan in the local market to the amount of £500,000 or £600,000.

Mr. Watson, in conclusion, said: "It may be confidently asserted that our financial, moral, educational, and social position at the present time will compare favourably with that of any colony of the British Empire."

At the late B.A. Examination of the University of Bombay, Chhaganlál Harilál Pandiá, of Elphinston College, was pronounced to be the winner of the Cobden Club silver medal for Political Economy.

Lieutenant-General the Hon. Arthur Edward Hardinge, C.B., Equerry to the Queen, has been appointed to succeed Lieutenant-General Warre, C.B., as Commander-in-Chief of the Bombay Army.

A Calcutta telegram in the Times states that an outbreak among the European prisoners in Rangoon Gaol occurred on the 5th inst., due to discontent about the food. The prisoners defied the gaol authorities, and it became necessary to call in the military guard to restore order. A Daily News telegram says that martial law has been proclaimed at Mandalay.

THE SILENT MEMBER.

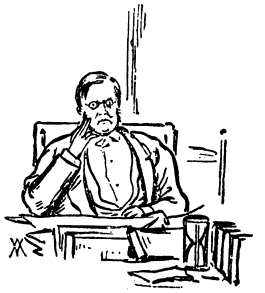
Times have changed since quite a galaxy of Royal Highnesses used not unseldom to foregather in the House of Lords for the ante-prandial entertainment supplied by the Earl of Beaconsfield. The prevailing legislative dulness has, however, not hindered the Prince of Wales from dropping in occasionally this Session. H.R.H. occupied his usual seat on the neutral cross-bench whilst the Earl of Camperdown was thereabouts, on the 10th inst., that there had been a violation of neutrality on the part of the Orange Free State. The Earl of Kimberley having calmed the fears of the noble Lord, and Earl Granville having been adroitly diplomatic in returning Earl Delawarr a hopeful answer regarding the Greek Frontier difficulty, the Prince left the House, pausing in passing the Secretary for the Colonies to question him, not improbably with respect to the latest tidings from the seat of war in the Transvaal. Lord Rowton, too, will now and then haunt the Chamber, hover like a youthful spectre above the ex-Premier, and vanish. Noble Lords on the Opposition side are loth to leave Candahar. They return to it again and again. Not content with his forthcoming resolution in favour of the retention of that Afghan fortress, Lord Lytton on Tuesday had a bout with the foils with the Duke of Argyll, explained that the alleged "great military expedition" in 1876 was simply undertaken to punish some recalcitrant tribes, and roused his Grace thereby to hurl a fiery retort, which Lord Beaconsfield did not fail to make capital out of, although Earl Granville's "last word" relative to springing a mine without notice may be said to have put his colleague in countenance again. An equally smart and skilful exchange of views followed respecting the delicate negotiations going on with the President of the Orange Free State, Earl Cadogan (who had the previous day put a barbed question regarding the Boer memorial to Mr. Gladstone) pointing out the awkwardness of sending communications having for their aim the restoration of peace with the Boers when our troops had so recently suffered from the disaster at Laing's Neck. Lord Kimberley rested his defence of the action of the Ministry on the ground that the communication to President Brand stipulated that "if armed opposition at once ceases, her Majesty's Government will frame a scheme." Whereupon Lord Beaconsfield rejoined, not without reason under the peculiar circumstances of the case, that "to enter into negotiations when you are waging war unsuccessfully is a very perilous process." There was, indeed, about this effective little speech that Palmerstonian ring to which the noble Earl has studiously endeavoured to pitch his key of late years.

Mr. Parnell's followers were not to be silenced because their chief had taken French leave, proving himself almost as conspicuous by his absence as by his presence. Apart from the inevitable loquacity, garrulity, deluge of words, call it what you will, of the Milesian members, there was little of note to call for comment in the lively discussion sprung upon the Lower House on the 10th inst. by Mr. Arthur O'Connor, who gravely demanded that the printer and publisher of Mr. Edmund Yates's vivacious journal, the World, should be called to the bar to answer for the publication of what the hon. member called "a gross calumny." The passage complained of intimated that the Land League members were in receipt of "fifteen guineas a week" from the League. A bevy of Home-Rulers indignantly denied the truth of the allegation. In his best and lightest manner, Mr. Gladstone poured oil on the troubled waters by remarking that he and his colleagues "are liberally paid by the State for such services as they render;" and, further, that O'Connell was never ashamed to confess "he was the paid servant of the people of Ireland." But it was reserved for that Constitutional guardian of the House, Mr. C. N. Newdegate (here limned to the life) to fall with crushing effect upon the wailing Home Rulers. The hon. member for North Warwickshire, rising with a dignity of manner acquired by a lifetime of service in Parliament, twitted the susceptible members sitting below him with their ultra-sensitiveness. His voice rising to its utmost compass, his arm uplifted to be brought down with emphasis at the end of his crowning sentence, Mr. Newdegate thundered forth the clinching argument that the complainants were answered by the old French proverb, "Qui s'excuse s'accuse!" Cheerfully did the hon. member take the laughter that greeted this sally. Nor was he cast down by Mr. Gray's repudiation of the idea that the epidermis of Irish members was "as pachydermatous as his own." Eventually, the St. George's Channel is stormy in a row up ended with Mr. A. O'Connor's prudent withdrawal of a motion which it was a waste of public time to make.

The Protection of Property and Person in Ireland Bill has continued to monopolise the greater part of the time of the House. Mr. Justin M'Carthy faithfully discharging the duties of Home-Rule leader while Mr. Parnell has been holiday-making, or reorganising the Land League in Paris. Something of the business-like sharpness, fine edged by Scottish hardness and lack of sympathy, shown by the punctilious Chairman of Committees, the Right Hon. Dr. Lyon Playfair, C.B. and LL.D., will be found indicated in the accompanying sketch. But no portrait would do justice to the tone of asperity with which Dr. Playfair checked Mr. O'Sullivan in his relation of the indignities he had to endure in gaol when arrested, innocent as he was, in 1867. The erudite Chairman's voice accorded sympathy to the hon. and stalwart member for County Limerick, but his manner dryly and sternly called him to the point. It is the question, stoutly maintained Mr. Joseph Cowen, who has abated not a jot of his unqualified hostility to the Irish Peace Preservation Bill, for such the Ministerial measure really is, object to it as strenuously as crotchety Radicals may. It was on the 10th inst. that this incident occurred. Thereafter, Mr. Pugh's amendment, which sought to restrict the Lord Lieutenant's power of arrest to cases substantiated by the "affidavit of not less than two witnesses," was negatived by a majority of 89—149 to 60 votes. The next evening Mr. Forster so far yielded to Mr. Dillwyn's amendment adverse to the retrospective action of the measure that he would limit its application as regards the past to Oct. 1 last. This the hon. member for Swansea was ready to accept. But the Home-Rulers insisted on dividing, with the result that Mr. Dillwyn's amendment was rejected by a majority of 132—193 to 61. Mr. Gray then made a vain effort to alter the date to Feb. 1. Hibernian excitement carried away Mr. A. M. Sullivan, and led him to cast reflections upon the Dublin Castle officials, whom Mr. Forster vindicated with natural warmth. This ebullition sprang from Mr. O'Donnell's motion to exclude "high treason" from the list of offences—a motion lost by 225 votes to 49. "By a large majority" (to quote the Hon. Bardwell Slote), varying from 189 to 73, Mr. Forster defended the various amendments offered on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. But it would be tedious to refer to each closely contested point. We shall have had enough of the Emerald Isle before the Session is over.



The Transvaal War, and the repeated repulses of Sir George Colley, have been uppermost in the minds of the generality of members. Each Ministerial statement, therefore, of the Secretary for War with respect to the campaign against the Boers has been listened to with deep interest. Mr. Childers (sketched as he blandly delivers an official explanation at the table of the House) is the personification of a perfunctory Minister. He is not to be moved from his natural state of suave equanimity by a mere outcry against an alteration of regimental tartans, or a war in the Transvaal. It was in his bland chairman-of-companies manner that Mr. Childers, on the 11th inst., assured Colonel Stanley that, upon receiving news of Sir George Colley's reverse at Ingogo, he had at once telegraphed offering further reinforcements. The House was more reassured to learn that, without awaiting a reply, arrangements had been made to send out "a considerable force of infantry, cavalry, and artillery." On Monday we were further glad to hear that this "considerable force" would not be reduced, albeit Sir George Colley had "wired" that a less number of troops would suffice. The House had also the satisfaction of knowing at the same time that Pretoria and the other beleaguered garrisons were still holding out.

The legal debate on the 10th inst. remains to be referred to briefly. Interest in Mr. H. H. Fowler's motion to rescind the Order in Council terminating the offices of the Lord Chief Justice and Lord Chief Baron was discounted to those who had heard the Lord Chancellor earlier in the evening explain to Lord Denman that by far the greater number of Judges agreed in the desirability of the change. But in the Commons the Opposition was in arms against the innovation, which Sir Henry James ably contended was decided upon in the interests of the public. An almost equally distinguished legal luminary, Sir Hardinge Giffard, readily offered abundant reasons for the retention of the offices. From the front Opposition bench there also rose the late Home Secretary, Sir Richard Cross, who, albeit presumably more familiar with Quarter Sessions than the London Courts of Law, yet rigidly and with characteristic positiveness insisted on his right to discuss the question as a "law reformer," in which capacity he vigorously supported the motion. Sir William Harcourt having condescended to lower himself to the level of poor humanity by confessing there were some Judges whom he had "feared," an interval for unconscious buffoonery was allowed to another hon. member; and the motion was then negatived by 178 votes to 110.

Last Saturday evening the annual dinner in aid of the French Hospital and Dispensary took place at Willis's Rooms—M. Challemel-Lacour, the French Ambassador, in the chair. A list of subscriptions amounting to £2000 was announced.——Count Münster has promised to preside at the anniversary dinner of the German Hospital, Dalston, on May 3.

At the weekly meeting of the School Board for London yesterday week—Sir Charles Reed, M.P., presiding—Mr. Buxton, the vice-chairman, moved the adoption of more stringent rules of debate than those existing. The proposition gave rise to a debate which lasted the greater portion of the sitting.——The estimate of expenditure from March 25, 1881, to March 25, 1882, was circulated among the members. This is expected to amount to £724,870, as against a total for this year of £653,364, or an increase of £71,506. For the current year it was estimated that there had been an average attendance of children of 196,704, at a cost of 34s. 3d. per child.

In London 2819 births and 1633 deaths were registered last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 118, whereas the deaths were 229 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 52 from smallpox, 20 from measles, 28 from scarlet fever, 17 from diphtheria, 25 from whooping-cough, 9 from enteric fever, 1 from an undefined form of continued fever, and 10 from diarrhœa; thus 162 deaths were referred to these diseases, being 90 below the corrected average number in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The fatal cases of smallpox, which had been 42, 52, and 54 in the three preceding weeks, were again 52 last week. The number of smallpox patients in the Metropolitan Asylum Hospitals, which had steadily increased in the fifteen preceding weeks, from 77 to 617, further rose last week to 683. The fatal cases of scarlet fever, which had been 45 and 38 in the two previous weeks, further declined to 28 last week. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had been 617, 702, and 606 in the three preceding weeks, further declined to 408 last week, and were 127 below the corrected average number in the corresponding week of the last ten years: 269 were attributed to bronchitis, and 91 to pneumonia. A gentlewoman, whose age was stated to be 103 years, died in Kensington on the 7th inst.; and the widow of a labourer died on the 2nd inst., in the Poplar Sick Asylum, at the reputed age of 100 years. Different forms of violence caused 67 deaths.

HOME NEWS.

There are 209 private bills being promoted in Parliament this Session.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat at Liverpool from the United States and Canada last week showed a large decrease on those of the preceding week.

Mr. Gladstone has, we understand, granted £50 from the Royal Bounty Fund to Mrs. William Henry Turner, in consideration of her late husband's services to historical research.

The anniversary meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society was held last week at the society's rooms, Burlington-House, under the presidency of Mr. J. R. Hind.

Subject to the approval of the War Office authorities, Brighton will be recommended at the next special meeting of the commanding officers of the metropolitan volunteer corps as the site of the Easter field-day.

The Masters of the Bench of the Inner Temple have awarded pupil scholarships of 100 guineas each to the following students:—Common Law, Mr. R. F. M'Millan; Equity, Mr. T. B. Napier; Real Property Law, Mr. W. Baxter.

The public office at St. Martin's-le-Grand (old building), which used to close at eight p.m., is now open until ten p.m., both for postal and telegraph business; and the office in Fleet-street, opposite Fetter-lane, is open until midnight.

The Queen's Westminster Volunteers have received the announcement of the resignation by the Duke of Westminster, K.G., of the command of the regiment, which he has held during the past twenty-one years.

The award of Mr. Hinde Palmer, Q.C., M.P., has been received in reference to the dispute between the Durham Coalowners' Association and the Durham Miners' Association. The umpire's award is entirely in favour of the workmen.

The Corps of Commissionaires had their anniversary parade in Westminster Hall on Sunday, and celebrated the twenty-first year of their existence by attending a service at Westminster Abbey, where Dean Stanley preached a special sermon.

The Metropolitan Board of Works has resolved, by a majority of twenty to eleven, to present a petition to the House of Commons against the bill of the Great Eastern Railway Company, which proposes to run a line through Epping Forest.

During January eighty vessels left the Mersey with 4087 passengers, of whom 2146 were English, 59 Scotch, 330 Irish, 962 foreign, and of the remaining 290 the nationalities were not stated. The figures show a decrease on those who sailed in December of 1156, and of 260 compared with the number in the month of January last year.

The bequest of Mr. Webb, of Shoreditch, for the education of six poor children belonging to that parish at Christ's Hospital Schools, having increased in value until it is now of the annual worth of £1350, the Shoreditch Charity Trustees have decided to ask the authorities of Christ's Hospital to increase the number of children from Shoreditch in proportion to such increase of value of the property bequeathed.

With reference to the statement that St. Catherine's Lighthouse, in the Isle of Wight, is in immediate danger of falling into the sea, owing to the slipping of land close around it, Lloyd's correspondent at St. Catherine's states that he has ascertained there is no foundation whatever for such a statement. Moreover, the lighthouse stands less than 200 feet above the sea-level, not 800 feet, as was stated.

Recently a lady and gentleman announced a gift of £130,000 to found a college in Dundee. At a meeting of the Dundee High School subscribers on Monday ex-Provost Robertson announced that a citizen intended setting apart £30,000 of his fortune to render the High School an intermediate educational institution between the public schools and the proposed college, besides establishing a separate bursary fund.

The biennial discourse in memory of John Hunter was delivered on Monday, which was the anniversary of the birth of this great anatomist, in the theatre of the Royal College of Surgeons, by Mr. Luther Holden, late president of the college. The large theatre was crowded with members and visitors. In the evening the President and Council entertained a large and distinguished party at dinner in the library of the college.

A gentleman who has had lentil soup served at his table daily for two years gives, in the Globe, the following recipe for its preparation:—Take 1 lb. of split Egyptian lentils; put this quantity into one gallon of boiling water, add a small onion or two and a carrot sliced. Simmer gently for three hours, stir frequently, throw in pepper and salt to taste. The result is a gallon of excellent soup, at a cost of 3d. or 4d.

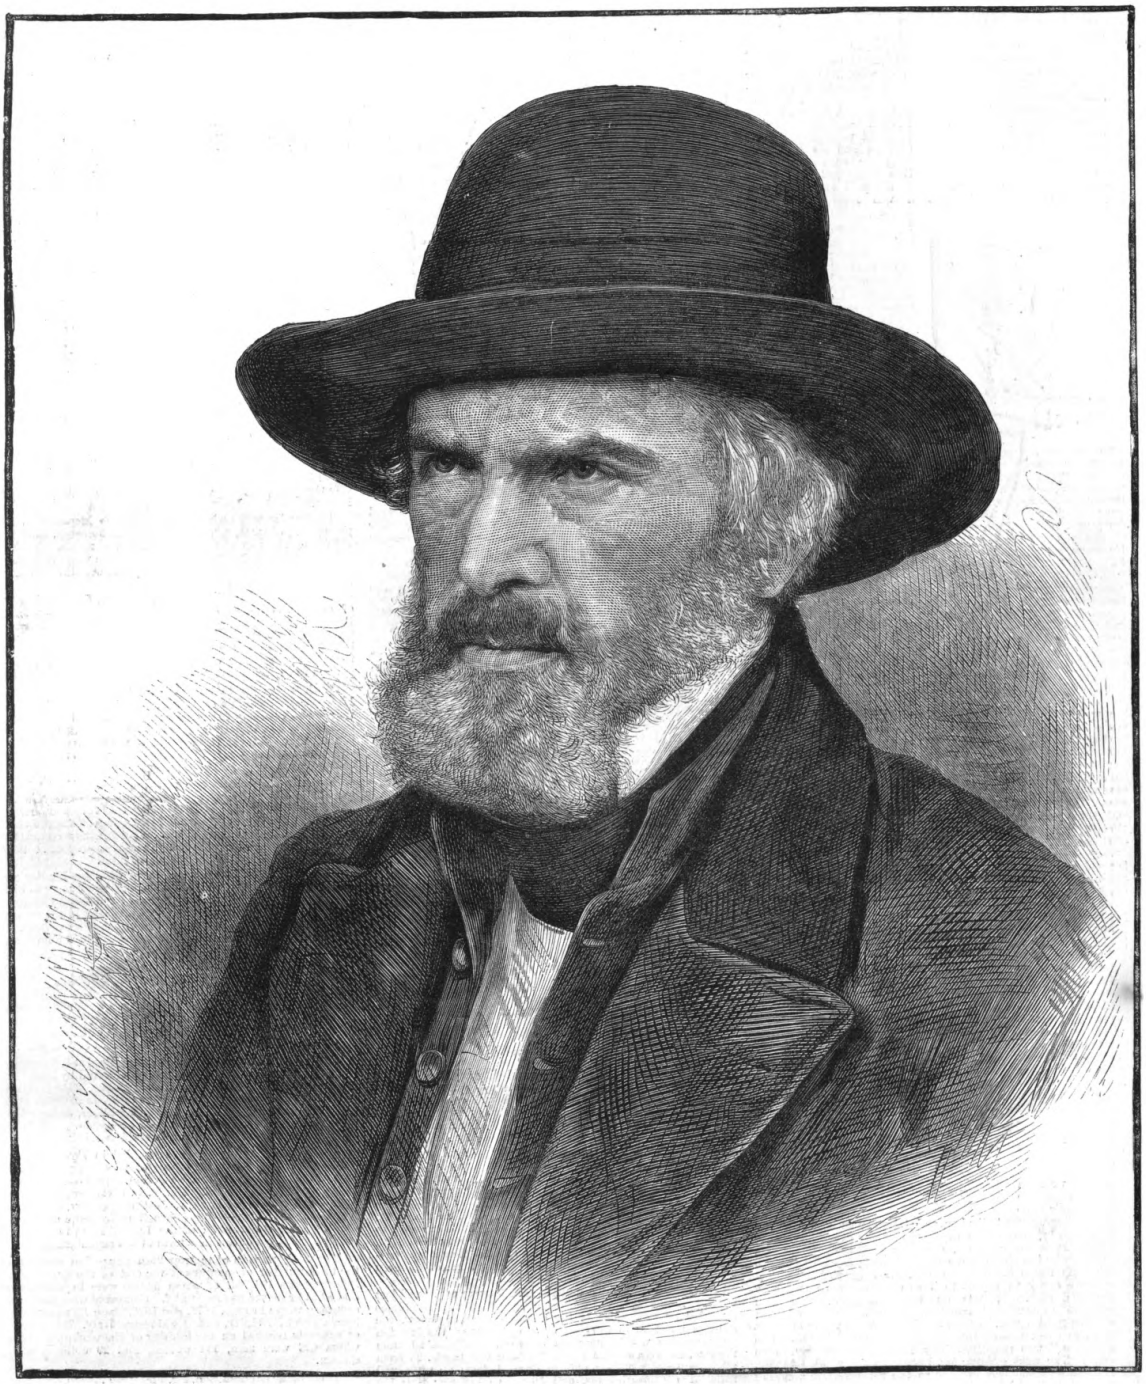
Last month 14 tons 13 cwt. of fish were seized at Billingsgate, as unfit for human food. The whole of it arrived by land. The fish numbered 3820, including 300 haddocks, 2940 herrings, 10 lobsters, 170 plaice, and 400 whiting; and, in addition, there were 3 bags of cockles and 2 of periwinkles, 34 barrels of oysters, and 10 boxes and 2 barrels of sprats. This is the smallest seizure recorded for some considerable time.

Several thousand persons assembled in Hyde Park on Sunday afternoon for the purpose of protesting against the application of coercion to Ireland under existing circumstances. Amongst the speakers were Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P.; the Rev. Isaac Nelson, M.P.; Mr. Justin M'Carthy, M.P.; and Mr. Redmond, M.P.——Miss Parnell addressed a meeting at Claremorris, last Saturday, of the Ladies' Land League, and stated the objects of this new form of the organisation.

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism states that the total number of paupers at the end of the first week in February was 104,764, of whom 53,960 were in workhouses and 52,514 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1880, 1879, and 1878, these figures show an increase of 875, 11,979, and 18,048 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 743, of whom 603 were men, 111 women, and 29 children under sixteen.

There being no opposition, Mr. Pickering Phipps, of Collingtree, Northampton, was on Monday declared the duly-elected member for the Southern Division of Northamptonshire. The seat was rendered vacant by the death of Major F. W. Cartwright.——A petition has been lodged at the offices of the Court of Common Pleas against the return of Mr. Francis Sharpe Powell as member for Wigan. The petition alleges bribery, treating, and undue influence, but the seat is not claimed on behalf of the defeated candidate.

A meeting was held at the Mansion House on Tuesday, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, to advocate increased support for the St. John's Ambulance Association—a society which was started with the intention of spreading information as to the preliminary treatment of the sick and wounded before the arrival of regular medical aid. Resolutions in favour of the work of the society were passed; among the speakers being Sir Edward Lechmere, M.P., Major Duncan, Mr. John Furley, the Earl of Glasgow, Mr. Edward Howley Palmer, Dr. Hardwicke, Viscount Templetown, and Sir Edward Perrott.



THE LATE THOMAS CARLYLE.

FROM A PHOTOGRAPH BY VERNON HEATH, TAKEN IN 1862.

THOMAS CARLYLE.

On Thursday of last week the mortal remains of Thomas Carlyle were buried at Ecclefechan, his native village, near Dumfries. The body was brought from London the night before, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Carlyle, Mr. Froude, Professor Tyndall, and Mr. W. H. Lecky. It was met at Ecclefechan station before noon by the relatives of the author, a brother and two sisters, with their families. A procession of six mourning coaches followed the hearse to the churchyard. About two hundred of the peasantry and children of the neighbourhood were collected near the gates, and nearly a hundred persons surrounded the grave. The plain coffin was inscribed simply with the name and the dates of birth and death. On it were laid wreaths of white flowers. The deceased was buried in profound silence and under the soft sunshine which had succeeded the snows of the preceding night and the morning's shower. The bell of the Board School tower tolled as the hearse drove up, but presently that ceased, and the impressive stillness was unbroken. In this and the neighbouring graveyard many of the Carlyle family are buried; no other name there so often meets the eye, though at present no one of the family resides in the village. In the inclosure where the body of Thomas Carlyle was buried there is a marble slab which bears the following inscription:—"Erected to the memory of Janet Carlyle, spouse to James Carlyle, mason, in Ecclefechan, who died Sept. 11, 1792, in the twenty-fifth year of her age. Also Janet Carlyle, daughter of James Carlyle and Margaret Aitken, who died at Ecclefechan, Jan. 27, 1801, aged seventeen months; also Margaret, their daughter. She died June 22, 1830, aged twenty-seven; and the above James Carlyle, born at Brownknowe, August, 1738, died at Scotsbrig, on Jan. 23, 1832; and here also now rests Margaret Aitken, his second wife, born at Whitestanes, Kirkmahoe, in September, 1771; died at Scotsbrig, on Christmas Day, 1853. She brought him nine children, whereof four sons and three daughters survive, gratefully reverent of such a father and such a mother."

This inscription was composed by the late Thomas Carlyle to the memory of his father and mother, of his sisters Janet and Margaret, and of his father's first wife; or he furnished, at least, that part of the inscription which records the deaths of his father, James Carlyle, in 1832, and of his mother, Margaret, the second wife of James Carlyle, in 1853. About ten years ago Mr. Carlyle had this family grave inclosed, as is shown in our Illustration, by a low wall and a high iron railing. In September, 1879, his brother, Dr. John Carlyle, M.D., who had formerly resided at Florence, and was known as a translator of Dante, died at Dumfries, and was buried in the same grave; but his name has not yet been added to those inscribed there.

The usual custom of the Scottish Church is not to read any part of the funeral religious service at the open grave, as in England; but prayers are said either in the private house, or in the church building, with some reading of the Scriptures, before going to the place of burial. No formal service, therefore, would be expected to be performed in the village churchyard upon this occasion. Those present, of course, stood with bare heads, in an attitude of reverence, but in silence, while the body of their departed friend was lowered into the grave. The coffin, an oak one, with the simple inscription on a brass plate, "Thomas Carlyle, born Dec. 4, 1795; died Feb. 5, 1881," was let down by the hands of relatives only. Several wreaths of flowers were placed upon it, and the mourners left the graveside. The chief mourner was Mr. James Carlyle, senior, a farmer in Newlands, the deceased's brother, and the other relatives present were Mr. James Carlyle, junior, of Newlands; Mr. John Carlyle, farmer, of Pingle; Mr. James Carlyle, junior, farmer, of Craigenputtoch; Mr. Alexander Carlyle, London; Mr. J. C. Austin, farmer, of Gill; Mr. John Aitken, of Dumfries; and Mr. Hoggan, farmer, of Gillbrae, nephews; Mr. Aitken, of Dumfries, brother-in-law, Mr. Alex. Welsh, of Liverpool, a cousin of the late Mrs. Carlyle; and Mr. R. Carlyle, of Waterbeck, a distant relative. Among the few others present were Mr. Froude, Professor Tyndall, Professor Lecky, and Captain Henry Watt, of Liverpool; Mrs. Alexander Carlyle, the niece, who was the companion of Carlyle's widowed years, and her sister, Miss Aitken, from Dumfries, were also present, but did not accompany the funeral in the churchyard.

Ecclefechan is a small straggling village of some eight hundred inhabitants, about sixteen miles east of the town of Dumfries. There are few signs of progress in the village, which has not grown in size, nor is it likely to do so. The house in which Carlyle was born is a two-storey whitewashed dwelling, at the foot of the village, and forms one of the tenements of the same size, divided by a covered archway. A mile and a half from the village, and nearer to Lockerbie, is the small farm of Millhall, to which the family removed a few years after the birth of Thomas Carlyle. Ecclefechan was originally the name of a parish as well as of a village, but this and the other small parish of Luce have for two centuries been conjoined with the parish of Hoddom, and there is now no place of worship at the old churchyard in which Carlyle is interred. It presents, like most of the country churchyards of Scotland, a rough and somewhat uncared-for appearance.

The late Mr. Carlyle was accustomed to visit his native place every summer, though his constant residence was in London from 1833 to the day of his death. Before coming to London, he dwelt some years at Craigenputtoch, a farm which was his wife's property, fifteen miles to the north-west of Dumfries, which is described in one of his letters to Goethe; and it was there he wrote "Sartor Resartus." Mrs. Carlyle, whom he married in 1826, and who died in 1866, was, as we have mentioned, a daughter of Dr. John Welsh, M.D., of Haddington, near Edinburgh. It was at first expected, as we stated last week, that Carlyle would be buried at Haddington, where his wife was interred nearly seven years ago; but this plan was changed, that he might be laid with his father and mother, his brother and sisters, in the Carlyle family grave at Ecclefechan.

CHEYNE-ROW, CHELSEA, WHERE THOMAS CARLYLE LIVED.

BURIAL-PLACE OF THOMAS CARLYLE, AT ECCLEFECHAN, DUMFRIES.

The house at Chelsea, in which this great author lived so long as forty-seven years, has often attracted the respectful curiosity of those visitors to London who had a taste for the current biographical anecdotes of contemporary men of letters. It stands in a retired and rather obscure situation, Great Cheyne-row, at the back of the west side of Oakley-street, and very near the Thames Embankment. It used formerly to be No. 5, but is now reckoned No. 24, Cheyne-row, and the back of a new block of Model Dwellings rises directly opposite its front door and windows. It is said that Carlyle would never hear of removing to another house, and he was much averse to any change of his domestic or personal habits. He might often be seen, on a fine moonlight evening in summer, attired in his long overcoat and soft felt hat, with an old-fashioned clay pipe in his mouth, lounging for half an hour on the Chelsea Thames Embankment. A Sketch of the illustrious man, as he would appear at such times, is now presented to our readers, who will regard it, we are sure, in the spirit of reverent sympathy due to his age, his character and genius.

The Portrait of Carlyle, engraved for this week's publication, is from a photograph taken by Mr. Vernon Heath, of Piccadilly, who writes the following note upon it:—

"In October of 1862, the Lady Ashburton of that time invited me to the Grange to meet Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle. Carlyle was then in the height of his vigour and power, and both he and his wife impressed me deeply. Indeed, I shall never forget the conversations of that week, for all who knew Lord and Lady Ashburton knew how charming and perfect everything they said and did was—a week, too, that became still more memorable for the reason that, towards its close, Bishop Wilberforce joined the party. Just think what it was to hear Carlyle and the Bishop in argument!—and that was my good fortune. There was one wet morning we amused ourselves with my camera, and it was then this portrait was taken."

It is announced by Mr. Froude, in a letter of his to the Times of Monday last, that Carlyle's biographical sketches of his own father, of Edward Irving, of Jeffrey, and part of a memoir of Mrs. Carlyle, will shortly be published. There is also a large collection of private letters. Mr. Froude was appointed by Carlyle, ten years ago, to take charge of these literary materials after Carlyle's death.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

THE AMAZONS IN GREEK SCULPTURE AND PAINTING.

Professor Sidney Colvin devoted his third lecture, given on Wednesday, the 9th inst., to a rapid survey of the various ways in which the Greek sculptors dealt with their favourite myth by works of relief—a mode in which they could treat the subject with much greater freedom than in sculpture "in the round." His illustrations, casts, photographs, and diagrams related to the three great Amazon fights with Herakles, Theseus, and Achilles. He first commented on those found in temple decorations, especially the metopes and friezes; dilating on many interesting details discoverable in some very fine casts of works, now in the British Museum, brought from the Temple of Apollo Epicurius at Bassæ, near Phigaleia, erected by the architect of the Parthenon, about 425 B.C., a typical achievement of the first great Athenian School. Some remains of the frieze of the Mausoleum, second-rate work, brought from Halicarnassus by Mr. C. T. Newton, were next considered; and also others, still more inferior, brought from the temple of Artemis, at Magnesia, on the Maander, and now in the Louvre. The Professor next commented on the Amazonian decorations of Sarcophagi, a later kind of art of which many examples are found, belonging to Roman times, a few perhaps dating from the second or third century B.C. Some examples of these were represented in large diagrams; and in them the episode of Penthesilea often occurs. The expression of these legends in the so-called "Bronzes of Siris" was noticed; and, in conclusion, remarks were made on some enlarged drawings of reliefs, executed on gems and precious stones, and their relations to their prototypes.

Professor Colvin in his fourth and concluding lecture, given on Saturday last, the 12th inst., commented on the treatment of the myth of the Amazons by Greek painters in two modes, panel and mural or wall-paintings, and painting on vases. Specimens of the former kind have been preserved only in the remains of Pompeii and Herculaneum, and in some subterranean Etruscan tombs. Among these reference was made to the records of the paintings by Polygnotus and others in the temple of Theseus at Athens, and of Zeus at Olympus; and an accurate water-colour copy was exhibited of, perhaps, the very best preserved example of Etrusco-Greek painting, dating about A.D. 300, on a sarcophagus now at Florence. Vase painting was characterised as a comparatively humble branch of decorative design, yet which, from the preservation of so many thousand specimens in tombs, is of the utmost importance in the study of ancient graphic art. Referring to a series of fine diagrams, much enlarged copies of paintings on vases of various times now placed in the British Museum, and at Paris, Munich, St. Petersburg, and other places, Professor Colvin pointed out the representations of various incidents in the legends of the Amazons, with curious details of person, action, and dress. These included single Scythian-like figures, fights of Amazons with griffins—very common in vase-painting—the stories of Herakles, Theseus, and Achilles, and the affecting episode of the death of Penthesilea. In relation to this last event, the Professor concluded his course by reading extracts from the ancient Greek poem by Quintus Smyrnæus.

THE TROUBADOURS AND THEIR WORKS.

Mr. Francis Hueffer, in his third lecture, on Thursday, the 10th inst., gave biographical sketches of some of the more eminent Troubadours, with metrical extracts from their works. Beginning with the "Sirventes," poems which included all subjects except love, he characterised Bertran de Born, the intimate friend of the rebellious sons of our Henry II., as the very prototype of the warlike Troubadour, wielding with equal force the lyre and the sword, ferocious yet not wanting in tenderness, a true friend and a truer hater. On account of his base conduct towards Henry II. Dante placed him in the ninth pit of hell, carrying his head severed from his body. After giving some details of his wild career, in which his character appears as a psychological problem, Mr. Hueffer cited from a MS. chronicle of the time the graphic account of the King's pardoning Bertran, when his prisoner, on his expressing his grief at the death of his friend, the young prince Henry. Bertran died at an advanced age in a monastery. An account was next given of the "Monk of Montaudon," highly celebrated for his gay and satiric verses on the events of his day, which were received with much leniency on account of his position in the cloister. For his genius and talents he was permitted to arrange his life as a Troubadour, in conformity with the directions of Alfonso, King of Aragon; and thus he became master of the revels at the Court of Puy-Sainte Marie, yet afterwards was appointed Prior of Villa Franca. His poems were of a very varied nature, and his sharp castigation of contemporary poets is very amusing. Eventually the writers of "Sirventes," became severe reprovers of the moral evils of their time and of the decay of Christian piety. In treating of the canzo, or love-song, Mr. Hueffer specially commented on the life and poems of Folquet, of Marseilles, and of the only lady Troubadour whose works have come down to us, the beautiful Countess Beatrice de Die, who expressed in melodious verse her unrequited love for Rambaut, the ruler of Aurenga or Orange.

THE CRUSADE AGAINST THE ALBIGEOIS.

Mr. Francis Hueffer began his fourth and concluding lecture on the Troubadours on Monday last, the 14th inst., by describing the thirteenth century as an epoch of religious revolution. The domination of Rome was resisted, heresy abounded, the vices of the clergy were satirised, and translations of the Bible into the popular languages demanded. The south of France was eminent for its wealth and independent spirit. Its chief sect, the Albigeois or Albigenses, named from Albi, in Toulouse, had little in common with the Waldenses or Vaudois, save opposition to Rome. They appear to have been a form of the great Manichean heresy, which spread from the East over all Europe, under the name Cathari, or "Pure." They rejected the mass, transubstantiation, and veneration of saints, professing entire subjection to the Bible, and especially to the New Testament. They are said to have been vegetarians, and opposed to marriage and capital punishment; and their enemies admitted the purity of their lives. By way of illustration, Mr. Hueffer read extracts from a singular poem by a Bishop, "The Tale of a Heretic." The sect flourished for a time. In 1204 Guillabert de Castres, an eminent teacher, had amongst his followers illustrious nobles; ladies of high rank surrendered to God and the Gospel; and the gallant Raimon VI., Count of Toulouse, became the heroic champion of national and religious freedom, though still professedly orthodox. In 1207 Pope Innocent III. preached a crusade against the Provençal heretics, and amongst the leaders of the sacred army was Simon de Montfort, father of the Earl of Leicester, chief in our "War of the Barons." Many interesting details were given of the crusade, which lasted fifteen years, desolating the finest provinces of France, especially of the decisive Battle of Muret, when Peter of Aragon perished, with the flower of his chivalry. The Church triumphed; and Raimon died with a broken heart and ruined fortunes; his territories eventually were annexed to the Crown; the north of France became supreme, and the "langue d'oc" was degraded to a patois. In extracts from the "Song of the Crusade" against the Albigeois, the author, William of Tudela, was shown to be very outspoken respecting the atrocities committed by the orthodox victors. In this great conflict, Mr. Hueffer adduced evidence to show that the Troubadours were faithful warriors in the cause of truth, free thought, and toleration, very few being found on the side of the Pope; and one of these, through shame, hid himself in a monastery.

THE DISTANCES OF THE STARS.

Professor Robert S. Ball, LL.D., F.R.S., Astronomer Royal for Ireland, began his discourse at the weekly evening meeting on the 11th instant by stating that forty years ago the distance of the star 61 Cygni was determined by Bessel, a discovery which was characterised by Sir John Herschel as "the greatest and most glorious triumph which practical astronomy has ever witnessed." Several attempts have been since made to investigate the parallax of 61 Cygni anew, with the view of confirming or correcting Bessel's results. Struve found that the distance, instead of being sixty billions of miles, as stated by Bessel, was not more than forty billions of miles; and Struve's result has been confirmed by other investigations, among which the observations made by the lecturer at Dunsink Observatory were described. The star Groombridge 1830 has a proper motion of seven seconds per annum, and a parallax of one tenth of a second. Its actual velocity must be, therefore, about 200 miles per second. Newcomb has shown that unless the mass of our sidereal system be much greater than is usually supposed, Groombridge 1830 cannot belong to our star system. The Professor said that he had been engaged for some years at Dunsink in a systematic search for stars which have an appreciable parallax, and some hundreds of stars have been examined. The star Groombridge 1618 was studied in two series of observations, and the result seems to show that this star has a parallax of one third of a second. From the distance of this star, the earth's orbit would appear about as large as a penny piece seven miles off. The connection between the considerations as to the distances of the stars and their proper motions was discussed, and it was pointed out that in very ancient geological times the stars now seen were probably too remote to be visible from the earth. The possible connection between parallax research and the problems of the nature of space was alluded to, and it was shown that if space be hyperbolic the observed parallax is smaller than the true parallax, while the converse must be the case if space be elliptic. If the defect of a triangle is ever to be measured, the Professor, in concluding, said that it must apparently be by parallax observation.

Dr. J. S. Burdon-Sanderson will on Friday evening next give a discourse on Excitability in Plants and Animals.

The Council of the Iron and Steel Institute have decided to hold their annual meeting at the Civil Engineers' rooms, Westminster, on May 4, and the two next days, under the presidency of Mr. Josiah Smith, of Barrow.

By order of the London Financial Association, the Alexandra Palace and grounds, 163 acres in extent, were yesterday week offered for sale at the Mart, Tokenhouse-yard. The property was, however, not sold, and it remains to be disposed of by private contract. The whole of the property was first put up in one lot. A bid of £200,000 was made. This was followed by one of £100,000, and there being no advance, the auctioneer withdrew the lot and stated that it would be offered in seven separate lots. Lot 1, consisting of the palace, park, and grounds, and comprising 163 acres, was then put up. The bidding commenced at £180,000 and ended at £199,000, when it was declared not sold. Lots 2 and 3 were not offered. Lot 4, comprising 11 acres 2 roods 22 perches, was bought in at £13,400. Lot 5, consisting of 35 acres 1 rood 36 perches of building land, was withdrawn at £30,000. Lot 6, 108 acres and a house, was bought in at £66,000; and lot 7, 47 acres, was withdrawn when the bidding failed to exceed £12,000.

FINE ARTS.

WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS AT MESSRS. AGNEWS'.

The present collection at the Old Bond-street Galleries does not fall short of, if it does not surpass, its predecessors. The examples are in the great majority of instances "important"—that is, large in scale and carried to completion. And although mere size, and even finish, form by no means an invariable test of relative merit, it often happens that they convey a new and higher impression of a given artist's ability. This is the case as regards some of the comparatively less-known and younger artists represented here. For instance, we do not remember to have before seen from Messrs. Edwin Ellis, T. B. Hardy, S. P. Jackson, T. Pyne, and H. A. Harper, such admirable drawings as those here. Mr. W. Wyld, whose reputation is greater in Paris than in London, and Mr. Andrew MacCallum, whom we have seldom seen of late in water-colours, are also well represented. By M. E. Lambert there are two cat-subjects almost, if not quite, as admirable as his oil-pictures. But among the works of more novel interest, perhaps, the most noteworthy is "Scots Guards Returning from Exercise in Hyde Park," by the celebrated French military painter, M. Détaille. The figure-draughtsmanship, and the varied and racy characterisation of the soldiers' faces are worthy of all praise. M. Détaille has recorded the scene with almost photographic exactitude, and must be held exempt from the charge—that may be brought almost always with justice against French artists' pictures of English people—of either repeating French types or launching into caricature.

The examples of many of the celebrities of the day are often so fully illustrative that anything like adequate criticism or description would take us far beyond our narrow limits this week. It must suffice to say that by Sir John Gilbert there is a large and capital example of the genial painter's art—a scene from the "Winter's Tale," where the pedlar Autolycus offers his wares to a crowd of lads and lasses. By Mr. Millais there is a version of "The Black Brunswicker;" by Mr. F. Goodall, a very pretty version of "The Swing;" by Mr. Briton Rivière, a replica of "All that was left of the 'Homeward Bound';" together with important examples of L. Haghe, E. Duncan, F. Tayler, Birket Foster (to whom nearly an entire screen is devoted), and many of the leading artists of both societies. A series of drawings of birds of gay plumage by Mr. Marks should also not be overlooked. Mr. Marks paints these creatures (which seem to have somehow been unduly overlooked by artists) not only with the scientific accuracy of an ornithologist, but also with a fine instinct and feeling for their decorative value, to say nothing of the many droll and quaint analogies to human beings that he finds in them or educes from them.

The examples of the deceased masters of water-colours, in which this exhibition is rich, opens an historical field into which we cannot now enter. We must be content with saying that there are two splendid Copley Fieldings, lovely George Barretts, good drawings by Stanfield and David Roberts, samples of W. Hunt and D. Cox, and no less than nine Turners, of not very different periods of his middle time, marked by his usual mannerisms, all apparently faded—owing to the use of the siennas and other fugitive vegetable colours. But to this probably two or three of the more poetical ones owe an additional and more dreamlike charm.

HANOVER GALLERY.

In a water-colour exhibition just opened at this gallery there are several drawings of mark, including, however, some by A. W. Hunt, Briton Rivière, Alma-Tadema, A. C. Gow, and others, which, having been publicly shown before, it is not incumbent on us to review. Few of the works are "important" as regards magnitude or elaboration, nevertheless a fair average of merit obtains in the gallery. The following are new to us:—A tripartite frame, the sequential subjects of which are entitled the "Tragedy of an Honest Wife," by Mr. Alma-Tadema. In the first compartment is a variation of the marriage scene of the artist's principal Academy picture of last year. In the second, the hapless Galeswintha lies stark dead after strangulation by her atrocious lord. The third represents a pretended miracle at her tomb as the moonish legends of Gregory of Tours. The painter's technical skill and thoroughness are well sustained in all three. "A Puritan" is a clever, spirited figure by Seymour Lucas. A small drawing of a lady engaged "Embroidering" (which gives the title) is a good, even noble, sample of Mr. J. D. Linton's single-figure costume studies. Despite the ever-recurring black shadows, there are fine mellow harmonies in the colouring; the dress falls to the figure in more natural folds than usual; and there are few painters who could render a face so true in character and aspect. Excellent qualities will likewise be found in "Michael Lambourne, from 'Kenilworth,'" though neither the model nor costume are very favourable for pictorial effect. "The Empty Spindle," by R. W. Macbeth, has pathos, and is marked by unwonted care and modesty of execution. "An Artist's Holiday," by E. J. Gregory, showing a painter sketching from nature as a lady sleeps in a hammock, has artistic qualities of a refined and rare kind. Mr. Alfred Parsons has made a further advance in two or three water-colours; there is nothing here more brilliantly true to outdoor effect than the "Valley of the Kennet." Good and pleasant work will also be found under the names of E. Bale, W. Pilsbury, J. E. Grace, J. W. North, J. Scott, J. Orrock, C. Green, G. Clausen, F. Tayler, H. Herkomer, W. J. Wainwright, and others.

Among works in black and white is another series of drawings and sketches by the artists of Punch, which, it need not be said, have lost sometimes more than they have gained in the process of engraving. Lastly, by Mr. R. C. Woodville (to whom this Journal is indebted for so many recent illustrations) there are fourteen sketches in Albania and Montenegro, which will convey a high impression of this artist's powers. For quickness and accuracy of observation in seizing the salient characteristics of a people or features of a country, and action or expression in all their momentary variety; for daring in dealing with difficult foreshortening and exceptional effects of lighting; and for amazing spirit and certainty of hand, we know of few, if any, to compare with this gifted young painter.

The Old Masters Exhibition at the Royal Academy will, till its close, on Saturday, March 12, be lighted at dusk, and remain open till seven p.m. every evening.

At a meeting of the Royal Scottish Academy, held on the 10th inst. in Edinburgh, Mr. W. F. Vallance, A.R.S.A., was elected an Academician, in room of the late Mr. Charles Lees, treasurer to the Academy.

Mr. Thomas Sewell Robins, a painter of considerable merit, died last year. The public will have an opportunity of seeing some of the best of Mr. Robins's works at the rooms of Messrs. Christie, Manson, and Woods from the 23rd to the 25th of this month, for which days the sale is fixed.

THE PEABODY FUND.

The sixteenth annual report of the trustees of the Peabody Donation Fund has been published. The net gain of the year from rents and interest has been £25,276, and on land sold at Chelsea, £1503, making in the whole £26,779. The sum given and bequeathed by Mr. Peabody was, in 1862, £150,000; in 1866, £100,000; in 1868, £100,000; and in 1873, £150,000—making a total of £500,000; to which has been added money received for rent and interest, £250,697—making the total fund on Dec. 31 last £750,697. Of this amount there was spent to the end of 1880 the sum of £594,197. The trustees have provided for the artisan and labouring poor of London 5170 rooms, exclusive of bath-rooms, laundries, and washhouses. These rooms comprise 2355 separate dwellings, which are occupied by 9899 individuals. The trustees hope that before the close of the present year they will have provided additional accommodation for 760 families, or upwards of 3500 individuals. The average rent of each dwelling was 4s. 4¾d. per week, and of each room 1s. 11¼d. The list of tenants shows that, amongst others, there were benefiting by the trust 84 charwomen, 5 coalheavers, 7 firemen, 14 lamplighters, 14 mustard-makers, 125 police constables, and 8 scripture-readers.

Lord Dufferin has granted to his Irish tenantry a reduction of 15 per cent in their rents.

The great danger to which torpedo-boats are exposed by shot from machine guns has been met by a most simple, and at the same time practical, appliance—viz., the patent self-adjusting rivet-hole and leak stopper, invented by Mr. J. W. Wood, the collector of customs at Harwich, previously adopted by the Admiralty for general service in the Navy, and now, in a modified form, specially adapted for torpedo service, by means of which the holes made by shot from machine guns, while the craft are rushing through the water at a speed of about twenty-four knots an hour, can be effectively stopped almost as quickly as they are made.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, and CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

MR. WILLIAM BLACK'S New Novel, SUNRISE, is ready (in 3 vols., 31s. 6d.)

THE STORY OF A SOLDIER'S LIFE; or, Peace, War, and Mutiny. By Lieutenant-General ALEXANDER EWART, C.B., Aide-de-camp to the Queen from 1859 to 1872. In 2 vols., demy 8vo, with Two Chromolithographs, cloth extra, price 28s.

NICE AND HER NEIGHBOURS. By the Rev. Canon HOLE, Author of "A Book about Roses," "A Little Tour in Ireland," &c. With many charming Illustrations of the Scenery in and around Nice. Square 8vo, cloth extra, gilt edges, price 16s.

THE STORY OF A MOUNTAIN. By E. RECLUS, Author of the "Nouvelle Géographie Universelle," "The Earth," &c. Translated by Bertha News. Square 8vo. With many Illustrations. Cloth extra, gilt edges, price 7s. 6d.

WEBER. By Sir JULIUS BENEDICT. Dedicated by permission to her Majesty the Queen. New Volume of the BIOGRAPHIES of the GREAT MUSICIANS. Edited by Francis Hueffer. Small post 8vo, cloth extra, price 3s.

SCHUBERT. By H. F. FROST. New Volume of the BIOGRAPHIES of the GREAT MUSICIANS. Edited by Francis Hueffer. Small post 8vo, cloth extra, price 3s.

Also now ready, small post 8vo, cloth extra, 3s.,

WAGNER. By FRANCIS HUEFFER, Editor of the "Great Musicians" Series.

Also now ready, small post 8vo, cloth extra, 3s.,

ROSSINI, and the MODERN ITALIAN SCHOOL. By H. SUTHERLAND EDWARDS.

London: SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, SEARLE, and RIVINGTON, Crown-buildings, 188, Fleet-street, E.C.

THOMAS CARLYLE'S WORKS.
PEOPLE'S EDITION.
In 37 vols., small crown 8vo, price 3s. each, cloth.

| | |
|---|---|
| SARTOR RESARTUS. | CRITICAL AND MISCELLANEOUS ESSAYS. 7 vols. |
| THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. 3 vols. | LIFE OF SCHILLER. |
| LIFE OF JOHN STERLING. | FREDERICK THE GREAT. |
| OLIVER CROMWELL'S LETTERS AND SPEECHES. 5 vols. | 10 vols. |
| ON HEROES AND HERO-WORSHIP. | TRANSLATIONS. FROM MUSÄUS. TIECK. AND RICHTER. 2 vols. |
| PAST AND PRESENT. | THE EARLY KINGS OF NORWAY: also an Essay on the Portraits of John Knox. With General Index. |
| LATTER-DAY PAMPHLETS. | |
| WILHELM MEISTER. 3 vols. | |

THOMAS CARLYLE'S WORKS.
LIBRARY EDITION.
Thirty-four vols., demy 8vo, £15.
Volumes sold separately.

THOMAS CARLYLE'S WORKS.
CHEAP AND UNIFORM EDITION.
In Twenty-three Vols., crown 8vo, £7 5s.
Volumes sold separately.

CHAPMAN and HALL, Limited, 193, Piccadilly.

FOUR NEW NOVELS.

QUEENIE'S WHIM. By the Author of "Nellie's Memories." 3 vols.
HIRAM GREG. By J. CROWTHER HIRST. 3 vols.
THE MYSTERIES OF HERON DYKE. By the Author of "In the Days of Old." 3 vols.
A CHILD OF NATURE. By ROBERT BUCHANAN. 3 vols. [Immediately.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

A BOOK FOR MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.
Second Edition now ready, price 3s.; post-free, 3s. 6d.,
WHAT GIRLS CAN DO. A Book for Mothers and Daughters. By PHILLIS BROWNE, Author of "A Year's Cookery," &c.
"Miss Brown gives many practical hints on all kinds of work, whether they be undertaken for duty, necessity, or pleasure."—The Times.
"The book contains every information necessary to make the home of the young girl happy through her own means."—Court Journal.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

KATE GREENAWAY'S ILLUSTRATIONS.
97th Thousand, now ready, price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 2d.,
LITTLE FOLKS' PAINTING BOOK. A Series of Outline Illustrations, by KATE GREENAWAY, adapted for Water-Colour Painting, with Descriptive Stories and Verses.
"A charming series of outline engravings."—Court Journal.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

GEORGE ELIOT once said—"Deism seems to me the most incoherent of all systems; but to Christianity I feel no objection, but its want of evidence." Can that want be supplied? Read

A NEW BASIS OF BELIEF IN IMMORTALITY. By JOHN S. FARMER.
Price 2s.; post-free, 2s. 6d.
"One of the calmest and weightiest arguments ever issued."—Christian World.
London: E. W. ALLEN, 11, Ave Maria-lane, E.C.

4to, elegantly bound, £2 2s. net cash,

DRAWINGS OF ANCIENT EMBROIDERY. Thirty Specimens of great beauty and interest selected by Mrs. Barker in the highest style of Chromo-Lithography. Edited by W. BUTTERFIELD, Esq., Architect. A very limited number still unsubscribed for.
"So painstaking was the author that the method of working is admirably shown, and it is quite practicable to work from such illustration. The book is one of the handsomest, most interesting, and, in these days of decorative revival, most useful which the season has produced."—Queen.
H. SOTHERAN and Co., 36, Piccadilly.

A New Edition, imp. 8vo, £2 2s. net cash,

KERAMIC ART OF JAPAN. By G. A. AUDSLEY and J. L. BOWES. Beautifully Illustrated, and with increased number of Marks and Monograms.
"The plates in this new edition are executed in the same careful manner, and with the same rich effect, which so surprised and pleased all who saw the original work. The chief improvement made in the text, is in that relating to the Keramic Art itself, and to our knowledge of the Potters' Marks."—Scotsman.
H. SOTHERAN and Co., 36, Piccadilly.

POTTERY PAINTING: A Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, Head Master of Art-School, South Kensington. Second Edition, price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 1d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W.

Now ready, 1 vol., 8vo, with Illustrations, 15s.,

OUR HOLIDAY IN THE EAST. By Mrs. GEORGE SUMNER. Edited by the Rev. G. H. Sumner, Hon. Canon of Winchester.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

MISS BRADDON'S RECENT NOVEL.
Cheap New Edition, price 6s., cloth gilt, Frontispiece, &c.,
JUST AS I AM. The Recent Novel. By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret," &c.
London: J. and R. MAXWELL, Shoe-lane, E.C.

NEW NOVELS AT ALL LIBRARIES. Each in 1 Vol.
"Miss Drew's book is charming."—Examiner.
LUTANISTE OF ST. JACOBI'S. By CATHARINE DREW.

"Gracefully and pleasantly told."—Morning Advertiser.
MY IMPERIALIST NEIGHBOUR. By HENRIETTA A. DUFF.

MARCUS WARD and Co., 67, Chandos-street, Charing-cross, London, W.C.

THE NAMES UPON THE SNOW. New Song. By Mrs. ARTHUR GOODEVE.
Sung by Madame Patey
London: PATEY and WILLIS, Great Marlborough-street.

EVERYONE THEIR OWN GARDENER.
SUTTON'S AMATEUR'S GUIDE, the best work on gardening extant. A Lady writes:—"From your beautiful Amateur's Guide I have made a labouring lad a most excellent gardener." First Edition 20,000, now ready. Is. at the Booksellis; or, post-free for 15 stamps, from SUTTON and SONS,
the Queen's Seedsmen, Reading.

POTATO PLANTING.—The GARDENER'S MAGAZINE of Saturday, Feb. 19, will contain VALUABLE PAPERS on POTATO PLANTING, together with a synoptical list of 300 VARIETIES of POTATOES Grown on Mr. Hibberd's Trial Grounds from the year 1870 to present time. This list affords an immense amount of useful information in respect of the CHARACTERS OF THE VARIOUS SORTS, as to relative LIABILITY TO DISEASE, and also as to their requirements in respect of soil and climate, and their TABLE QUALITY, &c. The GARDENER'S MAGAZINE is published weekly, price Twopence (specimen copy, post-free, 2½d.). Office, 11, Ave Maria-lane, London; and sold by all Newsagents.

JUST PUBLISHED, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on these distressing complaints and their complete cure. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

Third Edition, 1s., post-free,
THE new ELECTROLYTIC TREATMENT of CANCER and of Simple Tumours. By G. EDGELOW, M.D.—NELSON and Co., 25, Duke-street, Grosvenor-square, W.

Second Edition, price 4s. 6d., to be had of all Booksellers,
RESPIRATORY DISEASES, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., and their Specific Cure, by Dr. JOHN FRANCIS CHURCHILL'S Discoveries of the Hypophosphites and Inhalants.
J. W. KOLCKMANN, No. 2, Langham-place, London.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
London: G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND
(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Head Office—Auckland.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £350,000.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and eighty-two other towns and districts throughout the colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £20 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application.
F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

SUN FIRE OFFICE.
Threadneedle-street, E.C., Charing-cross, S.W.
Oxford-street (corner of Vere-street), W.
Established 1710.
Home and Foreign Insurances Effected.
Sum Insured in 1879, £367,492,661.
FRANCIS B. RELTON, Secretary.

PROVIDE AGAINST ACCIDENTS!
ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN.—A fixed sum in case of Death by Accident, and a Weekly Allowance in the event of Injury, may be secured by a policy of the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY, the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, Chairman. £1,850,000 have been paid as compensation. West-End Office, 3, Grand Hotel Buildings, Charing-cross; and 64, Cornhill, London.—WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

THE PASTURES AND WHEAT-FIELDS OF THE NORTH-WEST.—Cheap and Fertile Lands in Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, and Washington, with healthy climates, railroad facilities, and assured growth of value, adjacent to the NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD AGENCY, 20, Water-street, Liverpool.

DUFFRYN, GLAMORGANSHIRE.—To be LET on LEASE, FURNISHED, or to be SOLD, this Large COUNTRY HOUSE, six miles from Cardiff, in the Vale of Glamorgan. Entrance Lodge and Bed-rooms; Stabling for seventeen horses; pleasure-grounds, seven acres; Pleasure and other Shooting over 2000 acres in a ring fence. And with it, or separately, Sea-side Villa, pleasantly situated at Monkstone, also Furnished, with 100 acres of the best Partridge-shooting in the county. Rent, on Lease, Duffryn, 700 guineas; Monkstone, 150 guineas.—Apply to Messrs. LUMLEY, 81, James's-street, London; or to Messrs. Bradley and Son, Cowbridge, S. Wales.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!—250 richly coloured embossed SCRAPS, Flowers, Fruit, Birds, &c., price 9s. 2d., post-free to all parts.
GEO. L. SPALDING and CO., Fine-Art Importers, Ipswich.

HEAL and SON.
BED-ROOM FURNITURE.
DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.
DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE.
HEAL and SON,
195 to 198,
TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD, W.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED. J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—H. Newgate-street, E.C.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 2s., 3s. 6d., 5s., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY. (KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 20s. and 28s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

SCRAPS for SCREENS and SCRAP-BOOKS (Coloured).—Immense variety of Flowers, Figures Birds, and Landscapes, from 1s. per sheet; 1 doz. assorted, 10s. 6d.
London: WM. BARNARD, 110, Edgware-road.

ONE SHILLING.—AIDE MÉMOIRE; or, Artificial Memory.—New and guaranteed System by which anyone may commit to memory Speeches, Sermons, Facts, Dates, Figures, Names, Cards at Whist, &c., without the trouble and labour of repetition or study, no matter how imperfect the natural memory may be. A true friend and help to the most retentive; an invaluable and perfect substitute for those who have weak or defective memories; indispensable to everyone. Return, post-free, 14 stamps.—G. T. KEMP, 20, Grosvenor-road, South Norwood, London.

BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER makes bread, cake, pastry, puddings, &c., light, sweet, and digestible. Sold in 1d., 2d., 6d., 1s., 2s. 6d., and 5s. packages. Four Gold Medals awarded.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS
ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Sole Manufacturer,
J. E. PRATT,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester, Established 50 years," PEARLY WHITE and SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rosy brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are the results of the use of this matchless Dentrifice. Pots, 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists.

SHIRLEY'S NEURALGIC CRYSTAL cures at once, by outward application, Neuralgia in the Head and Limbs.

SHIRLEY'S NEURALGIC CRYSTAL.—Invaluable for Nervous Headaches. To be simply rubbed over the affected part. The highest testimonials received. Of the sole Maker, J. G. SHIRLEY, 2, Westbourne-grove, London, and all Chemists. Price 2s.; post, 2s. 3d.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or Anti-Catarrh Snuffing-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Agent for London, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "lozenges" are now sold by most respectable chemists in this country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hoarse cough," or a "slight cold," or bronchial affection cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp affixed to each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depôt, 35, Farringdon-road, London.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge soon gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

"I CAN HIGHLY RECOMMEND DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS for all Throat Irritation and Chest Diseases." (Signed) J. SWAIN, M.P.S., 249, Mill-street, Liverpool. They taste pleasantly. Price 1s. 1½d.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

STOCK-TAKING SALE.
SILKS.
3000 Lengths of Rich Brocaded Silks, at 2s. 6d. per yard.
200 Pieces of Sky and Tilk all Gros Grains, at 2s. 6d. per yard; usual price, 4s. 6d. to 5s. 9d.
280 Boxes of Striped Silk Velvets, in all colours, 3s. 9d. per yard.
300 Boxes of Coloured Brocaded Silk Velvets, from 5s. 11d. per yard, specially rich.
200 Boxes of Black Brocaded Silk Velvets, from 5s. 11d. to 7s. 11d. per yard.
The accumulation of Oddments in Silks, Satins, Velvets, Brocades, and Damasses will be cleared out at nominal prices, previous to Stock-Taking.
SILK COSTUMES.
Special Silk Costumes, various styles, 5os. 6d.
Evening Silk or Satin Costumes, trimmed Brocade, 5 guineas.
French Model and other rich Costumes in Plush, Brocade, Velvet, and Satin de Lyon, 7½ to 14 guineas.
Black Satin Walking Costumes (new styles), 78s. 6d.
150 Black satin Walking Skirts (very cheap), 18s. 9d.

PETER ROBINSON'S, OXFORD-STREET.

STOCK-TAKING SALE.
DRESSES.
Useful fabrics for Winter and Early Spring Dresses, from 9d. to 1s. 3d. per yard.
300 pieces of All-Wool French Beiges, at 7½d. per yard.
Fine French Cashmeres and Merinos, White, Black, and all Colours, 1s. 11d. per yard.
Figured Cashmir, all wool, double width, 1s. 6d. per yard; usual price, 2s. 6d.
Rich Coloured Damasse Velvet Velveteens, 40 inches, at 1s. 6d. per yard.
The New Black Velveteens, as advertised, at 2s.; very rich qualities, at 2s. 6d. to 3s. 3d. per yard.
French Cambrics, best quality, at 4½d. per yard.
Wool Serges, in every make and colour, 1s. per yard.
100 pieces of Wool and Silk Damasse Cashmere, at 1s. 9d. per yard, in elegant combinations of colour, and specially suitable for draping, &c.
A large quantity of Dress Fabrics, including rich Wool and Silk Damasse, Black and Coloured Grenadines, Alpacas, &c., greatly reduced.
SPECIALITIES IN BALL AND DINNER DRESSES.
"The Myrtle," in Tarlatan, Black, White, and all Colours, dancing length, 18s. 9d.; "The Rowena," a trained robe in Brussels Net, Black, White, and all Colours, 31s. 6d.
"The Dora," an elegant short Dress, in Madras Muslin, with Lace flounces and foundation of Satine, 42s. 6d.
"The Mercedes," a handsomely made trained Dress in Spanish Lace, richly trimmed with Satin and Lace, 4½ 18s. 6d.
"The Lilian," in Cashmere, all colours, prettily trimmed with Cream Lace, £2 18s. 6d.
Illustrations of these, and a variety of other styles, post-free.
STOCK-TAKING SALE.
Cash prices. Patterns free.
PETER ROBINSON,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

MOURNING.
MESSRS. JAY'S experienced DRESS-MAKERS and MILLINERS
Travel to any part of the Kingdom,
Free of expense to dressmaking.
They take with them dresses and millinery, besides Patterns of materials, at 1s. per yard and upwards,
all marked in plain figures, and at the same price as if purchased at
The Warehouse in Regent-street.
Reasonable estimates are also given for Household Mourning at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals at stated charges conducted in London or country.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

EVENING DRESSES, Black Net, Tulle, and Spanish Lace.—Messrs. JAY prepare for the season a variety of black Evening Dresses, which they can confidently recommend both for correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and prices postage free.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK KASHGAR CASIMERE; a mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season; perfectly fast-colour; will not shrink when wetted, and hangs most gracefully when made up in costumes. In various qualities, 36 in. wide, from 2s. 6d. to 8s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

TEENS that young ladies are in no hurry to get out of—"LOUIS" VELVET-TEENS.

THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
IS SIMPLY UNIQUE.
DO NOT BE INDUCED BY PERSUASION TO TAKE ANY OTHER.
AN EXTRA PROFIT TO YOUR LOSS
may be speciously made if you accept, under whatever name offered, an inferior quality of Velveteen.
"THE LOUIS"
has established its reputation so widely that even a slight inferiority would injure its repute, which constitutes
A TEST OF MERIT,
and guarantee of
UNSURPASSED QUALITY.
Be sure you find the words
THE "LOUIS VELVETEEN"
on every yard, or you have not the
GENUINE "LOUIS,"
notwithstanding all assertions to the contrary.
Wholesale London Agent, J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine LOUIS VELVETEEN can be obtained.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—A very cheap parcel of NEW HEATHER TWEEDS. Price 6½d. per yard (regular price 9½d.). Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

NOVELTIES for LADIES' MORNING DRESSES.—French Sateens, 8½d.; Pompadours, 7½d.; Prints, 5½d.; Linen Lawns, 9½d. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

MADAME ELLIOT makes up DRESSES stylishly and fits elegantly.—8, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street.

MADAME ELLIOT'S CORSETS, Splendid shape, French and English make, 5s. 6d., 8s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 15s., 20s., 30s., 42s. To avoid delay send size of waist and P.O.O. for the amount. Corsets changed if not approved. Corsets made to order.—8, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street.

ROUND SHOULDERS and STOOPING HABITS Cured by Dr. CHANDLER'S CHEST EXPANDING BRACE for both sexes. It assists growth, and produces a handsome figure. 10s. 6d. each.—66, Berners-st. Illustrations sent.

NEW MUSIC.

BERLIOZ'S FAUST. Price 7s. 6d.
Performed at St. James's Hall with great success.
HUNGARIAN MARCH, from same, arranged by Ch. Halle. 1s. 6d. net.
BALLET DES SYLPHES, from same, arranged as a Duet by Ch. Halle. 2s. net.
SERENADE, from same, sung by Mr. Santley. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera, by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| VOCAL SCORE | .. .. | 5s. |
| PIANOFORTE SOLO (arranged by Berthold Tours) | .. .. | 3s. |
| PIRATES OF PENZANCE WALTZ | .. .. D'Albert | 4s. |
| PIRATES OF PENZANCE LANCERS | .. .. D'Albert | 4s. |
| PIRATES OF PENZANCE QUADRILLE | .. .. D'Albert | 4s. |
| PIRATES OF PENZANCE POLKA | .. .. D'Albert | 4s. |
| PIRATES OF PENZANCE GALOP | .. .. D'Albert | 4s. |
| KUHE'S FANTASIA | .. .. | 4s. |
| BOYTON SMITH'S TWO FANTASIAS | .. .. each | 4s. |
| SMALLWOOD'S THREE EASY FANTASIAS | .. .. each | 3s. |
| FRED. GODFREY'S SELECTION (as played by all the Military Bands) for Pianoforte | .. .. | 4s. |
| HENRY FARMER'S FANTASIA for Pianoforte and Violin | .. .. | 4s. |
| THE POLICEMAN'S SONG AND CHORUS | .. .. | 6d. |
| I AM A PIRATE KING | .. .. | 4s. |
| THE MODERN MAJOR-GENERAL | .. .. | 4s. |
| POOR WANDERING ONE | .. .. | 4s. |
| AH! LEAVE ME NOT TO PINE ALONE. DUET | .. .. | 4s. |

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera, now being performed at the Strand Theatre with enormous success. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.

| | |
|---|---|
| Vocal Score | 8s. net. |
| Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture Songs, &c. .. .. .. .. | 4s. net. |
| Pianoforte Solo .. .. .. .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| John S. Hiller's Grand Selection for Pianoforte with ad lib. accompaniments for large or small orchestras .. .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Fred. Godfrey's Selection (as played by all the Military Bands) for Pianoforte .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Olivette Lancers. D'Albert .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Nearest and Dearest Waltz. D'Albert .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Olivette Waltz. D'Albert .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Olivette Quadrille. D'Albert .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Olivette Polka. D'Albert .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Torpedo Galop. D'Albert .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| Boyton Smith's Fantasia, introducing all the Favourite Airs, Solo or Duet .. .. | 2s. net. |

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| PORTIA WALTZ .. .. .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| CAN'T STOP! GALOP .. .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| DISTANT SHORE WALTZ .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |
| THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. .. | .. .. | 2s. 6d. net. |

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready, Volume II. of

CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

THE TURQUOISE RING. Now being performed at St. George's Hall. Words by E. W. Craigie; music by LIONEL S. BENSON.
The following are now ready:—
Where the purple violet grows. 2s. net.
What shall I do to win your heart? Duet. 2s. net.
The Alderman's song. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street, and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from £2s. Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from £20 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 35 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

PRACTICAL HARMONY. By W. S. ROCKSTRO. Price 2s.
This clear and systematic manual fully bears out its title, and will be found to save the Teacher and Student much time and perplexity. The plan of the work is the result of a full and perfect test during a long period of tuition.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., 6, New Burlington-street.

HINTS TO STUDENTS ON SINGING. By CIRO PINSUTI. It is surprising how much this book is asked after already; the master's pithy and thorough way of handling his subject can alone account for the demand.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE GREAT PIANOFORTE SCHOOL. By CARL CZERNY (pupil of Beethoven). Dedicated by gracious permission to the Queen. Complete in Four Vols., folio; 15s. net, each vol. A Supplementary Volume, 9s. It is a frank disclosure of all the writer knew.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

AGAIN TO MEET. Song. By E. PIERACCINI. In two keys, C and E flat. Post-free for 18 stamps each. "A song of human love, lasting to all eternity."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

J. PRIDHAM'S LATEST FANTASIAS for the PIANOFORTE. All post-free at half-price.

| | |
|---|---|
| England. 3s. | Gipsies' Festival. 4s. |
| Ireland. 3s. | Soldier's Dream. 4s. |
| Scotland. 3s. | Sailor's Farewell. 4s. |

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ABT'S (F.) LATEST VOCAL DUET, A FAREWELL. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps. "This duet is likely to become as great a favourite as any of its predecessors."—Queen.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THEO. MARZIALS' New Song, BUTTERCUP QUEEN. Written by Mrs. W. K. Clifford. "Will be particularly appreciated by those who are familiar with the compositions made popular by 'Claribel.'"—Land and Water. Post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 4s. each, paper covers; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges,

THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS. The most comprehensive Collection of Dramatic Music ever published, containing 190 celebrated Songs from the most renowned Operas, including many hitherto unknown in England. All with Italian and English words, in the original keys, without abbreviation or alteration.
1. THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM. Forty-one Songs for Soprano.
2. THE CONTRALTO ALBUM. Fifty Songs for Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto.
3. THE TENOR ALBUM. Fifty Songs.
4. THE BARITONE ALBUM. Forty-five Songs.
"A more useful publication than these collections of Italian melodies cannot be conceived."—Athenæum.
"A capital idea admirably carried out."—Illustrated Dramatic News. BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEYS' PROGRESSIVE EXERCISE-BOOK, a complete course of Progressive Exercises and Studies (146 in number), by Diabelli, Burgmüller, Herz, Kohler, Czerny, Clementi, Kalbrenner, Mazzinghi, Hummel, Cramer, Ravina, and Moscheles, intended to overcome every difficulty in the practice of every style of pianoforte playing. With portraits of Liszt, Halle, Rubinstein, and Von Bulow. Price 2s. 6d.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

This day, price, 4s.,

LILLIE'S COMPLETE MUSIC-BOOK, containing the First and Second Books in one Volume (122 pages), with Twenty-one Illustrations, being the most attractive and comprehensive publication for every pupil.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Just published. A Collection of

SONGS OF SCANDINAVIA AND NORTHERN EUROPE. Edited by KAPPEY. Containing Eighty-four Popular Ballads and National Songs of Russia, Poland, Finland, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Holland, all with English Words. Price 2s. 6d., paper covers; 4s., cloth, gilt edges.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

To be had of every musicseller in the United Kingdom.

THE CAVENDISH MUSIC-BOOKS. The cheapest and most popular musical serial published. Each book contains thirty-two pages of music, full size, price 1s. The only publication containing valuable copyright songs and pieces by the most eminent living composers, besides the best standard music. Forty Numbers are now published. A list of Contents gratis.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MOLLOY'S POPULAR BALLADS.
TWENTY-ONE. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling.
THE FIRST LOVE. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
THE KERRY DANCE. (9th Thousand.)
LONDON BRIDGE. (31st Thousand.)
Price 2s. each net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CHILDREN OF THE CITY. New Song by STEPHEN ADAMS; the Words by Weatherly. Sung by Madame Patey at the Ballad Concerts. This day, price 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MIGNONETTE. By SUCHET CHAMPION. Sung everywhere by Mr. Edward Lloyd. New Edition. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAIRLY CAUGHT. A great Success. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE MERCHANT OF CHEAPSIDE. Madame Patey's New Song. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung at the Ballad Concerts. Words by Weatherly. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

GEO. WOODS' VESPER ORGAN. No. 3, with two complete sets of reeds, five octaves, and knee swell, net £14.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES. From 20 to 200 Guineas, for Sale, Hire, or Three-Years' System.—295, Regent-street.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for FEBRUARY contains:—The King and "Parsifal"—Mr. Pepys the Musician, by F. Hueffer—The Father of the Symphony—The Great Composers: Schubert—Berlioz's "L'Enfance du Christ."—Two New Overtures by Brahms—Monday Popular Concerts—Conference on Organ Construction—Occasional Notes—Foreign and Country News—Reviews—Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual Subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for FEBRUARY contains:—"Aftermath." Part-Song, by T. S. DRUMMOND. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIOS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Engedi | .. Beethoven. | Israel in Egypt | .. Handel. |
| Mount of Olives | .. " | Judas Maccabæus | .. " |
| Jephthah | .. Carissimi | The Creation | .. Haydn. |
| Messiah | .. Handel. | The Redemption | .. Spohr. |

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S CANTATAS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| God goeth up | .. Bach. | Hear my Prayer | Mendelssohn. |
| Bride's Dream | .. " | The First Walpurgis night | .. " |
| My spirit was in heaviness | .. " | Midsummer Night's Dream | .. " |
| O light everlasting | .. " | Man is mortal | .. " |
| Bible with us | .. " | Christus | .. " |
| A stronghold sure | .. " | Lauda Sion | .. " |
| Ruins of Athens | .. Beethoven. | Ave Maria | .. " |
| Song of Inachus | .. Bennett. | Fair is the noon-tide Air | .. " |
| The Dream | .. Sir M. Costa. | Ave Maria | .. " |
| Spring's Message | .. Gade. | The Spirit's Song | .. Bell |
| " Niels W. Gade. | | The Transient and the Eternal | .. Romberg. |
| King's Daughter | .. " | Song of Miriam | .. F. Schubert. |
| Christmas Eve | .. " | Manfred | .. R. Schumann. |
| Nocturne | .. Goetz. | The Sun-worshipper | .. M. Smith. |
| The Soul's Aspiration | .. Gounod. | The North-east Wind | .. " |
| Acis and Galatea | .. Handel. | God, Thou art great | .. Spohr. |
| Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter (from "The Seasons") | .. Haydn. | The Christian Prayer | .. " |
| May Day | .. Macfarren. | Jubilee Cantata | .. C. M. v. Weber. |
| Lobgesang | .. Mendelssohn. | | |

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S MASSES, PSALMS, &c.
ONE SHILLING EACH.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Kaiser Mass | .. Adlgrs. | 114th Psalm | .. Mendelssohn. |
| Magnificat | .. Bach. | 115th Psalm | .. " |
| Mass in C | .. Beethoven. | 98th Psalm | .. " |
| Requiem (C minor) | Cherubini. | 91st Psalm | .. Meyerbeer. |
| Third Mass in A | .. " | First Mass | .. Mozart. |
| By the Waters of Babylon | .. Goetz. | Twelfth Mass | .. " |
| Messe Solennelle | .. Ch. Gounod. | Requiem Mass (Latin and English words) | .. " |
| Dettingen Te Deum | .. Handel. | Stabat Mater (Female Voices) | .. Pergolesi. |
| Utrecht Jubilate | .. " | Stabat Mater | .. Rossini. |
| O praise the Lord (Sixth Chandos Anthem) | .. " | Mass in G | .. Schubert. |
| First Mass (B flat) | .. Haydn. | Sacred Hymns | .. R. Schumann. |
| Second Mass (C) | .. " | Mass | .. F. Silas. |
| Third Mass (Imperial) | .. " | Mass (G) | .. C. M. Von Weber. |
| Te Deum (Latin and English Words) | .. " | Mass (E flat) | .. " |
| 42nd Psalm | .. Mendelssohn. | O Lord, Thou art my God, and Guide | .. S. S. Wesley. |
| 95th Psalm | .. " | | |

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, PIANOFORTE TUTOR.
Catalogue and all Particulars may be had from
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

Now ready,

THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST ("L'Enfance du Christ").
By HECTOR BERLIOZ.
Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Hallé. Price 5s. net, paper; 7s. net, bound.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272a, Regent-circus, London; and Cross-street and South King-street, Manchester.

THE BUGLER, in D, F, and G. By CIRO PINSUTI. Words by F. E. Weatherly. This very successful song has now reached the tenth edition.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee). Waltz. By OSCAR SEYDEL. "When she went back to the ball-room, Captain Winstanley followed her, and claimed his waltz. The band was just striking up the latest German melody, 'Weit von Dir,' a strain of drawing tenderness."—Vide Miss Braddon's "Vixen." Each of the above 2s. net.
B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

NEW MUSIC.

THE

LANGUAGE OF THE FLOWERS. Suite de Ballet.
Performed at Kuhe's Brighton Festival, Feb. 18, and also at the Orchestral Concerts, St. James's Hall.

| | |
|---|---|
| No. 1. DAISY. | No. 5. YELLOW JASMINE. |
| ,, 2. LILAC. | ,, 6. LILY OF THE VALLEY. |
| ,, 3. FERN. | |
| ,, 4. COLUMBINE | |

Arranged as Pianoforte Solos and Duets by the Composer, FREDERIC H. COWEN.
Solos, price 2s. each net; complete, 6s. net.
Duets, price 2s. 6d. each net; complete, 7s. 6d. net.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

MISTRESS PRUE. New Song. J. L. MOLLOY. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MISS ORRIDGE.

THE UNFINISHED SONG. FREDERIC H. COWEN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MR. SANTLEY.

THE VICAR'S SONG. From "The Sorcerer." Comic Opera. By W. S. Gilbert and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Sung by Mr. Santley at the London Ballad Concerts with enormous success. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MRS. OSGOOD.

THAT TRAITOR, LOVE. By J. L. ROECKEL. Words by Hugh Conway. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MADAME ANTOINETTE STERLING.

THE CHORISTER. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

JUST PUBLISHED.

QUEENIE GAVOTTE, for PIANO.
Price 4s. By J. T. MUSGRAVE.
"We have not met with so pretty a piece as that now before us, for it is very taking and graceful throughout, and some touches towards the close are even masterly."—Vide Truth.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

NOW READY.

LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES. By A. S. GATTY. Book 2, with Twenty-two Woodcuts, specially drawn by Mrs. John Collier. Price 4s. net; or, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt letters and edges, price 6s. net.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS, by B. TOURS.

LA COLOMBE ENTR'ACTE. CH. GOUNOD.

THE SWING SONG. CH. FONTAINE'S popular Pianoforte Piece.
Price 4s.; post-free 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

NEW EDITION.

TOY SYMPHONIES. By ROMBERG and HAYDN. As performed at the St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace under the direction of Henry Leslie and F. H. Cowen. Edited by J. M. Coward. Each post-free, 30 stamps, for Pianoforte and Toy Instruments. String Parts, 18 stamps each extra. A complete Set of Toy Instruments, properly tuned and regulated, price 2 guineas.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

NO. 3 NOW READY.

AMERICAN ORGAN JOURNAL. Edited by J. M. COWARD. Containing Popular Pieces by Arthur Sullivan, Henry Smart, and other popular Composers. Nos. 1, 2, and 3, price 3s. each; or, post-free, 18 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

GOLD MEDALS PARIS AND VIENNA.

MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.—The Cheapest and Best. Testimonials from 1000 Musicians. Unrivalled in tone and workmanship. Celebrated for perfect tuning. Elegant cases, new designs. May be had on hire or on the three-years' system of purchase. Liberal discount for cash. Catalogue post-free.

Economy Organ, price 8 gs.

Universal Organ, 13 stops, Knee Swell, Vox Humana, and Grand Organ, price 25 gs.

Chancel Organ, Venetian Organ, Swell, &c., price 36 gs.

ORGANS, with pedals, from 80 to 220 gs.

INDIAN MODELS, for extreme climates, from 36 gs.

ORCHESTRAL ORGAN, price 300 gs.

METZLER and CO., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

METZLER'S AMERICAN ORGUINETTE, The American Orguinette is a reed Musical Instrument, constructed somewhat on the principle of a barrel organ, and adapted to be automatically operated by simple sheets or strips of perforated paper, each sheet representing one or more tunes. There is no limit to either kind or quantity of music. You will play Hymn Tunes, Popular Airs, sets of Quadrilles, Polkas, Waltzes, Reels, and Hornpipes with a clearness, accuracy, and degree of execution which but few performers can equal. A mere child can play it.
Style A, with six tunes, £1 10s.
Style E, with attachment and six tunes, £2 10s.
Cabinet styles, with selection of Music, 12, 14, and 16 guineas.
Any description of Music 9d. a tune.
To be obtained of all Musicsellers, and
METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

IMPORTANT.
Owing to the great success of F. H. COWEN'S New Song,
THE CHILDREN'S HOME,
W. MORLEY, Jun., and CO. have much pleasure in announcing the purchase of Mr. Cowen's last Song,
THE WATCHMAN AND THE CHILD,
which will rank with his finest and most popular works.
Ready this day.
Keys for all Voices.

IN THE CLOISTERS. By ODOARDO BARRI. New Song.
"A song of uncommon beauty and merit, which will soon be equally popular with 'The Last Chord.' Of moderate compass, yet thoroughly vocal, its charming phrases must ensure success alike to the professional vocalist or amateur."—Review.
24 stamps each.
W. MORLEY, jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, London, N.

DANSES GROTESQUES, for Piano. Three Numbers. Price 4s. each. By ARTHUR H. JACKSON.
On Titlepage the following Portraits by E. J. Wheeler:—Mesdames A. Patti, C. Nilsson, and Miss Emma Thursby; Wagner, Rubinstein, Verdi, Offenbach, Willeinij, Joachim, Sims Reeves, Herbert Reeves, Santley, Arthur Sullivan, and W. H. Gilbert; also Artist, Composer, and Publisher.
STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER and Co., Music Publishers, 84, New Bond-street, London, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from Steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding keyboard for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 46 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
THE LATEST SUCCESS.

BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| VOCAL SCORE | .. .. .. .. | 2s. net. |
| SONGS | .. .. .. .. | 2s. net. |

ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net. Now ready.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
DANCE MUSIC, BILLEE TAYLOR, ready Orchestra, 2s.; Septet, 1s. 6d.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. Fourth Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

SUNG BY MISS AGNES LARKCOM.

COME IN AND SHUT THE DOOR. Music by J. G. CALLCOTT. In E flat, Soprano; in C, Mezzo-Soprano. 2s. net.

THE LOVE OF OLD. ROECKEL'S charming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming engagements. Post-free, 24 stamps.

PIANO DUETS.
C. REINECKE. Three Sonatas, Op. 139. Price 2s. net.

PIANO SOLOS.
W. KUHE. NEW SACRED TRANSCRIPTIONS.
Eli (Costa), Naaman (Costa). Price 2s. each net.
TH. LAUK. NEW PIECES.
Menuet, La Meunette, Bolero. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. ROUBIER. NEW PIECES.
Joyeuse Il union, Fête à Pianon, Parfait Bonheur. Price 4s. nd. each net.
FRANZ HITZ. NEW PIECES.
Cavatsage (Caprice). Lutin Rose, Le Regiment qui passe. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
JOYFUL MOMENTS. Ten Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. each net.
OUR FAVOURITES. Ten Moderately Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. 3d. each net.

THE PROGRESSIVE MUSIC SCHOOL.
Carefully Edited, Fingered, and Corrected from the Original Manuscripts by J. LEYBACH. First Series (very easy), 13 Numbers. Numbers 1 to 14, price 1s. 3d. each net. Number 15, price 1s. 6d. net.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.
S. JACOBY. Six Popular Airs (Easy). Price 1s. each net.
CH. TOURVILLE. Twelve Favourite Subjects (Moderate). Price 1s. 6d. each net.

H. FARMER. Popular Violin Solos (Brilliant), with Piano Accompaniment. Nine Numbers. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

SOMEBODY KNOWS. By SAINTON-DOLBY. Words by Edward Oxenford. Sung by Madame Enriquez with immense success, and always encored. Post-free, 24 stamps.—KEPPEL and Co., 221, Regent-street, London.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

PLEYEL, WOLFF, and CO.'S PIANOS.
EVERY DESCRIPTION of these CELEBRATED PIANOS for SALE or HIRE.
Special Models in Louis XVI. Style.
170, New Bond-street, W.

PLEYEL WOLFF and CO.'S BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO, with gold-covered strings, may be had in cloudwood, walnut, or rosewood cases. Carriage-free to towns where there are no agents.
170, New Bond-street, W.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative) price for cash. Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Carefully packed free, and sent to any part. Drawings gratis.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

BROADWOOD PIANO, 25 Guineas. Full-compass PIANOFORTE. Good condition, fine tone. Warranted new within three months.
At OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Tussaud's).

£35.—There is nothing in London—nor, is fact, in all England—to be compared to the elegantly Carved DRAWING-ROOM TRICHORD COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with Cabriole Truss Legs, which is sold for £35 by THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best overtures and airs. Prices 4d to £30. Snuff-boxes from 10s. to 40s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

ELKINGTON and CO.,
MANUFACTURING SILVERSMITHS.
PATENTEES OF THE ELECTRO-PLATE.

ELKINGTON and CO.
SUPPLY THE PUBLIC DIRECT.
PRICES TO SUIT ALL PURCHASERS.
Illustrated Catalogue post-free.
ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-st.; or 42, Moorgate-st., City.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES. SPECIALITÉ REPEATERS, CHRONOGRAPHS, &c. Special Workmen for Repairs.
London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 10s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

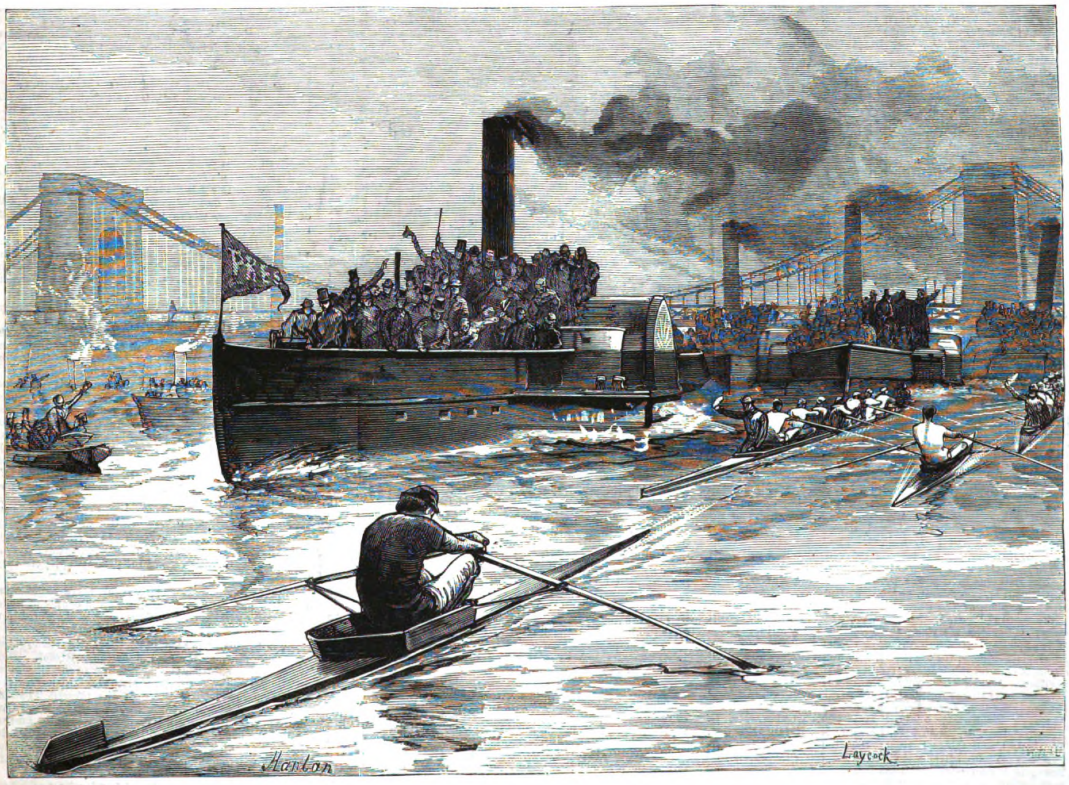
OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of 18-carat, accurate time-keepers, full jewelled. Ladies and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS. Mr. STREETER, 18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

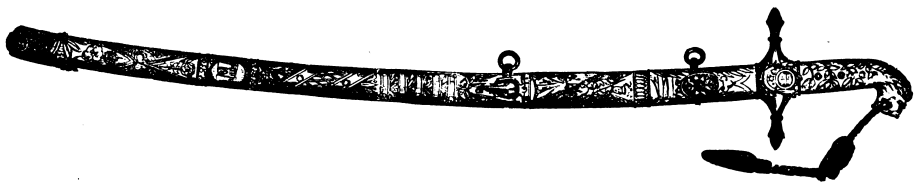
LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1881.

BARONESS BURDETT-COUTTS.

MR W. L. ASHMEAD BURDETT-COUTTS BARTLETT.—SEE PAGE 186.



SCULLING-RACE ON MONDAY LAST FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE WORLD, SKETCHED ABOVE HAMMERSMITH BRIDGE.—SEE PAGE 186.



SWORD OF HONOUR PRESENTED TO GENERAL SIR F. ROBERTS BY THE CITY OF LONDON.

GENERAL SIR F. ROBERTS.

On Monday last, the Corporation of the City of London presented their freedom, with a sword of honour, to this distinguished officer, in recognition of his late services in the Afghan War. The ceremony took place in the Guildhall Library. The Earl and Countess Lytton, Lady Roberts, Lady Cavagnari, Lord and Lady Chelmsford, General Sir S. Browne and Lady Browne, and many officers of the Army, were among the company present. The Lord Mayor, Alderman M'Arthur, M.P., with the Sheriffs, Aldermen, and Common Councillors, were in full civic state. Sir F. Roberts wore his military uniform, with the ribbon of the Order of the Bath and other decorations. The City Chamberlain, Mr. Benjamin Scott, addressed him with an elaborate recital of his past services and recent achievements, and proffered him the honorary citizenship of London. Sir F. Roberts spoke in reply, having first signed the roll of freemen, and accepted the sword of honour, the pattern of which is shown in our Illustration.

This sword was manufactured for the occasion by Messrs. Hunt and Roskell. The scabbard is of standard gold, and at the upper part, near the hilt of the sword, is decorated with representations in high relief of the Orders of the Bath, the Indian Empire, and the Victoria Cross, surrounded by branches of palm, and with the motto, "Palmam qui meruit ferat." Separated from these by a chased band are panels containing figures, in relief, emblematic of Justice and Mercy, Prudence and Speed, and below these, on either side of the scabbard, are heads of the Indian tiger and African elephant, forming bosses to which are attached the rings of the sword-belt. The ornamentation is continued in the form of tablets bearing the names of the principal engagements in which General Roberts has figured—viz., Delhi, Lucknow, Cawnpore, Umbeyla, Looshai, Abyssinia, Peiwar Kotal, Char-Asiab, Cabul, Candahar. The remainder of the scabbard is chased with the national emblems treated conventionally, the rose, shamrock, and thistle, together with the lotus, the serpent, and various palms, in allusion to India and Africa. Among these emblematic devices two panels are conspicuous: on the one is embossed the gateway of Eton, where General Roberts was educated in 1847; and on the other the gateway of Candahar, the scene of the General's latest exploit. The hilt of the sword is of ivory, terminating in a lion's head, and delicately carved with oak-leaves, emblems of Valour and Fortitude, and the cross-piece of gold bears on one side the arms and supporters of the City of London, and on the other the arms and supporters of General Roberts. The blade is decorated with appropriate engraved devices, and bears the proper record or inscription.

In the evening of the same day the Lord Mayor entertained Sir F. Roberts, with his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief, his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Mr. Childers, Secretary of State for War, and many noblemen and gentlemen, including Earl Lytton, Viscount Cranbrook, Lord Chelmsford, the Earl of Morley, Lord Enfield, Sir Garnet Wolseley, and others of note, at a grand banquet in the Mansion House. Sir F. Roberts, in returning thanks when they drank his health, made a powerful and impressive speech upon the necessity of army reform, condemning the short-service system, and the enlistment of mere boys to service in the Army abroad. He declared that it was requisite to have two separate and distinct armies, a sort of militia for home defence, and a foreign service army, which should ever be ready to take the field in any part of the world. It was impossible to model our military system after that of the great Continental Powers. Mr. Childers expressed his agreement with these views, to a great extent, and hoped that some reforms might be carried into effect.

MARRIAGE OF LADY BURDETT-COUTTS.

The Baroness Burdett-Coutts, so long and so well known as the munificent benefactress of the poorer classes in London, and as the liberal patroness of many charitable and benevolent institutions and missions for different objects of religious and philanthropic zeal, married Mr. William Lehmann Ashmead-Bartlett on Saturday last. The wedding ceremony took place at Christ Church, Down-street, Piccadilly, which is the nearest to her Ladyship's town-house. The bridegroom, accompanied by Mr. Lacaita, as his best man, and Mr. Bryant, arrived at the church precisely at half-past eleven, and was shortly afterwards followed by Baroness Burdett-Coutts. Her Ladyship was received by Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., her cousin, and her three bridesmaids, the Misses Burdett, daughters of Sir Francis, and Miss Maria Keppel, daughter of Admiral the Hon. Sir Henry and Lady Keppel. The bride wore a robe of ivory-white satin, her head being covered by a lace veil; and the bridesmaids wore cream-white dresses.

The religious service was performed by the Rev. William Cardall, M.A., incumbent, assisted by the Rev. Henry White, M.A., Chaplain of the Chapel Royal, Savoy, and Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen. Sir Francis Burdett gave his cousin away. After the marriage the wedding party adjourned to the residence of Mrs. Trevanion, elder sister of the Baroness, 10, Chester-square, for breakfast, which was limited to a small circle, Mrs. Trevanion being confined to her room by indisposition. Among those present were Sir Francis and Lady Burdett and Misses Burdett, Lady Sarah Lindsay, Admiral the Hon. Sir Henry and Lady Keppel and Miss Keppel, Sir Algernon Borthwick, Admiral and Mrs. Gordon, Mr. E. Ashmead-Bartlett, M.P., Mr. Lacaita, Mr. Bryant, the Rev. W. Cardall, and the Rev. Henry White.

Early in the afternoon, Mr. W. Ashmead-Bartlett and Baroness Burdett-Coutts left Charing-cross station by a special train, which consisted of a Royal saloon, with a first-class carriage and two brake-vans, for Headcorn, on their way to Ingleden, Ashford, Kent, Admiral Gordon's residence, where they purpose spending a short time in retirement. At Charing-cross the arrangements for the reception of the party were carried out by the station-master, barricades being put across the west side of the station, and the arrival of the party kept as private as possible. Soon after half-past three a crowd assembled within the station, but they were shut off from the departure platform by the barriers. The space in front of the train was covered with crimson cloth; and Sir E. Watkin, M.P., chairman of the company, the Rev. Henry White, of the Savoy Chapel, and Colonel Surtees were present. The bridal party arrived at the station at 3.40 in a carriage and pair, the servants wearing wedding favours. The Baroness was the first to alight. Sir Edward Watkin conducted her to the saloon, and stood for some minutes in conversation with her Ladyship. The train left the station punctually at the time appointed.

The Right Hon. Angela Georgina Burdett-Coutts, first Baroness Burdett-Coutts, was born April 21, 1814, being the youngest of the five daughters of Sir Francis Burdett, fifth Baronet, of Foremark Hall, near Repton, Derby, some time M.P. for Westminster, and a famous Radical politician, who died in 1844. He was the chief representative of an ancient and distinguished Warwickshire family, some of whose members, Knights and Lords of the Manor of Arrow, bore part in the wars of Edward III., and in the Wars of the Roses. Sir Francis Burdett, in 1793, married Sophia, daughter of Mr. Thomas Coutts, of London, banker, the founder of Coutts's private bank. He had one son, Robert, who became a Colonel in the Army, and succeeded to the baronetcy in 1844, but died unmarried in June, 1880, when his cousin, Lieutenant-Colonel Francis Burdett, late of the 17th Lancers, succeeded as seventh Baronet. The five daughters of Sir Francis Burdett, M.P., by his wife, Sophia, daughter of Thomas Coutts, are now to be mentioned. The eldest, Sophia Burdett, married the Hon. Robert Otway-Cave, M.P., but she and her husband died above thirty years ago, leaving no children. The second, Susannah, married Mr. John Bettesworth Trevanion, of Caerhayes, Cornwall, but was left a widow in 1840, and childless. The third, Joanna, died unmarried, in 1862. The fourth, Clara Maria, married, in 1830, the Rev. James Drummond-Money, who died in 1875, but has one son, Mr. Francis Burdett Money-Coutts, of Weybridge, Surrey, this lady and her son bearing the name of Coutts, in addition to Money, by Royal license. The fifth daughter, Angela Georgina Burdett, obtained the large personal and other property of her grandfather, Mr. Thomas Coutts, by will, at the death of his widow, Harriet (who was Miss Harriet Mellon, the actress, and who, after Mr. Coutts's death, married the Duke of St. Albans). Upon this event, in 1837, Miss Angela Burdett assumed, by Royal license, the additional surname of Coutts. As Miss Burdett-Coutts, she was known and greatly esteemed for the generous use that she made of her wealth, especially in London. In June, 1871, probably as a token of the Queen's regard for one so eminently kind and charitable, a Peerage was conferred upon this wealthy and popular lady. She is coheiress, with Mrs. Money-Coutts, of the ancient baronies of Scales, Latimer, and Badlesmere. Her residence at Holly Lodge, Highgate, and her town-house, 1, Stratton-street, Piccadilly, are as well known to Londoners as Coutts's banking-house in the Strand, of which she is still the principal proprietor. The extensive range of model dwellings for the poor, erected by her at Bethnal-green, and called Columbia-square, with the splendid adjoining structure of Columbia Market, though it has failed to be of the practical utility which she designed, will form a conspicuous monument of her benevolent intentions. These buildings and their history were described in our Journal some years ago. Lady Burdett-Coutts also built St. Stephen's Church and Schools, Westminster, and endowed the Colonial Bishoprics of Adelaide, Columbia, and Capetown; she established native girls' schools in Borneo; gave large bounties to the poor fishermen of the Hebrides, and of the west coast of Ireland; and bestowed certain annual sums on the industrial teaching of girls in the National Schools of London. She has been admitted to the freedom of the City of London, and of two or three Livery Companies.

The newly-married husband of this lady is a younger son of the late Mr. Ellis Bartlett, of Plymouth, by Sophia, daughter of the late Mr. John King Ashmead. His elder brother is Mr. Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, M.P. for Eye, who was born in 1848. Mr. W. Ashmead-Bartlett has, for some years past, it is understood, been accustomed to render active assistance to Lady Burdett-Coutts in the business of dispensing her extensive charitable gifts and loans; an office that was formerly discharged by the late Mr. W. H. Wills, sub-editor of Household Words and literary associate of the late Charles Dickens. It may be recollected, also, that Mr. W. Ashmead-Bartlett was engaged in Turkey, after the war and invasion of that country by Russia, in distributing relief to the distressed Mussulman population of Roumelia and Bulgaria. The London Gazette of Monday last contains an official announcement that he has now applied for and obtained Royal license to assume the name of Burdett-Coutts, and he will, therefore, in future be known as Mr. Burdett-Coutts-Bartlett.

Our Portraits of Lady Burdett-Coutts and her husband are from photographs; the former is one by the London Stereoscopic Company. That of Mr. W. L. A. Burdett-Coutts Bartlett was taken by Mr. Van der Weyde's Electric Light process, in Regent-street.

The annual general court of the governors and subscribers of the Jews' Hospital and Orphan Asylum was held on Sunday, at Norwood—Dr. Behrend in the chair. Sixteen boys and eight girls were elected, thus making the number of children in the institution 207. At the end of the proceedings the chairman presented a testimonial, consisting of a vote of thanks illuminated on vellum and handsomely framed, to Mr. Joseph Sebag, on his retirement from the office of treasurer, in which capacity he had served for ten years, having previously acted as president of the Jews' Orphan Asylum.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOAT-RACE ON THE THAMES.

The long-deferred race between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, and Elias C. Laycock, of Sydney, N.S.W., over the Thames championship course, from Putney to Mortlake, was at length brought to an issue on Monday afternoon last, and resulted, as was fully anticipated, in the very easy victory of the former, who secured a good lead at the start, was never headed, and paddled in an easy victor by four lengths, which he could have made considerably more if he had so wished. The match, which was postponed from Jan. 17 last, in consequence of the severe weather, was for the Sportsman Challenge Cup, a stake of £1000, and the Championship of England, which, of course, on this occasion included the title of "Champion of the World." As our readers are doubtless aware, the contest arose out of the defeat experienced by Trickett at the hands of Hanlan over the same course, in November last, at which time the Australian party were loud in their statements that the form displayed by their champion was too bad to be true; and his confrère, Laycock, continuing in such fine form, as his easy victory over the well-known Wallace Ross in the final heat of the Hop Bitters Regatta proved, they decided to have one more try to retrieve their lost laurels. The Canadian having been successful three times in succession, the Challenge Cup now becomes his own property, and he receives in addition a gold medal of the value of 25 guineas and the sum of £100. With regard to the race, Laycock rowed well and pluckily, but was evidently out-classed, and some time must elapse before we meet with a man who can lower Hanlan's colours whilst he is in his present form.

Though there was not much promise of sport at Bromley last week, and the weather was as bad as it could be, there was a very fair muster of spectators on each of the two days, as racing-men have been so long "frozen out" that they did not like to miss a meeting of any kind. The ground was in a fearful state, the horses sinking up to their fetlocks at every stride, and frequently having to gallop through miniature lakes. In spite of this, however, public form was generally vindicated, and the heavy weights had all the best of it, the style in which that very useful hunter The Owl carried 13 st. 6 lb. being most remarkable. Cynthia took a couple of events for Lord Marcus Beresford, who secured a bargain in the smart-looking Gordon, after he had disposed of a couple of opponents in a steeplechase. The course at Kempton Park was in far better order than at Bromley, and, as a natural consequence, there were larger fields for the various events. Nothing of much importance took place on Tuesday, and, on the following day, a thick fog interfered greatly with the pleasure of the spectators. There was a capital field of eleven for the Kempton Park Grand Hurdle Handicap, the chief race of the meeting, to which £500 was added. Bacchus (12 st. 6 lb.) was as good a favourite as anything; but, though he ran prominently for a long distance, his weight and the heavy ground stopped him before he reached the last hurdle, and a good finish between Scot Guard (10 st. 9 lb.) and Quadroon (11 st. 4 lb.) ended in favour of the former by half a length.

Her Majesty's staghounds met on Tuesday at Beaconsfield. There was a fair field, the chase being by way of Wooburn green, Hedsor, and Taplow to Cliveden, the seat of the Duke of Westminster, where it ended, the quarry having taken refuge in the Thames above Maidenhead Bridge.

The Duke of Rutland has decided not to hunt the Lincolnshire side of the Belvoir country after the close of the present season; and Mr. John Coupland has intimated that he will retire from the mastership of the Quorn hounds at the close of the season.

A very interesting billiard-match for £100 was played at the Royal Aquarium, Westminster, last week, between D. Richards and F. Shorter. The game was 1000 up, level, upon a championship table, and it was generally thought that Shorter, who is matched with Joseph Bennett for the championship, would win easily. During the early part of the contest he had a good deal of luck, and, as his opponent played in poor form, he held a long lead at one time, and, at the interval, was fully one hundred points in front. On resuming play, however, Richards rapidly made up his lost ground, and three successive breaks of 44, 40, and 50 took him well to the fore. The finish was very close and exciting, a 52—in which were ten consecutive spot strokes into the same pocket—made by Richards, being followed by a beautifully-played 62 from his opponent. This seemed to give Shorter some chance again, but he failed at an easy losing hazard just at a very critical point of the game, and was beaten by 74 points. Immediately on the conclusion of the game, Richards challenged the winner of the Bennett-Shorter match for the championship. To-day (Saturday) an American tournament, in which ten of the principal players are engaged, will be begun at the Aquarium.

After some months of paper war, there seems every chance of Jones and Beckwith bringing off a couple of matches, and the vexed question of the swimming championship will be at length set at rest.

A meeting of the council of the Yacht-Racing Association was held on Tuesday at the Langham Hotel. The meeting was called to consider the desirability of making an alteration in the measurement rule. Mr. W. Baden-Powell proposed the following rule in place of the present Thames rule:—"That the length be multiplied by the length and by the breadth and the product divided by 1200." In the absence of Mr. David MacIver, M.P., the proposal was seconded by the Marquis of Ailsa, and, after a long discussion, the council decided to recommend the proposal for adoption at the next general meeting, on March 1.

The annual ball of the Royal London Yacht Club took place yesterday week, at Willis's Rooms. There was a large and fashionable attendance, the company numbering over 300.

THE MAGAZINES.

SECOND NOTICE.

Macmillan's is not a very strong number. "The Portrait of a Lady," though clever and refined, as Mr. James's work usually is, is too thin for a serial publication where a strong interest needs to be maintained from month to month. Of the miscellaneous papers, the best is Mr. Spencer Walpole's reminiscence of his late colleague as Inspector of Fisheries, Mr. Frank Buckland, the popular naturalist, and evidently one of the most genial and quaintly eccentric of men. Mr. Thomas Hughes's paper of advice to young Englishmen about to settle at Rugby, Tennessee, is, no doubt, very salutary for such individuals, but scarcely proves that young Englishmen might not settle elsewhere with equal, or even greater, advantage. Mr. Saintsbury's review of Mr. Christie's life of Etienne Dolet is defective on every side but the literary, but on that side is very satisfactory.

The Contemporary Review leads off with an essay on "the moral influence of George Eliot," the whole significance of which is condensed into the designation of the writer as "one who knew her." For the glimpses we are allowed of George Eliot's own ideas, as expressed in her conversation, we are duly thankful, but they are merely plums in an otherwise insipid pudding. Mr. Poole's article on the new revision of the authorised version of the Scriptures resolves itself into a plea for more liberal encouragement to Semitic studies, said to flourish most bountifully on barren ground, and certainly unproductive in England. Mrs. Pfeiffer claims freedom for women and Mr. Haweis for clergymen, while Mr. Farrer investigates the failure in Ireland of that variety of freedom known as freedom of contract, and Mr. Buxton marshals the arguments for and against "the three F's" with his usual impartiality. Mr. Rae contributes an interesting account of the via media school of German economists, known as the Professorial or ex cathedra Socialists.

Fraser commences a new novel, "In Trust," which, if not of absorbing interest at present, is still clever and bright. Mr. Kebbel's critique on George Eliot's pictures of village life is somewhat one-sided, manifesting a disposition to exalt her humour above the deeper qualities of her genius, but is nevertheless valuable in calling attention to the special importance of her works as delineations of a state of society which, under the influence of railways and telegraphs, has passed away almost unobserved. Mr. Ernest Myers's remarks on Macaulay are a seasonable counterpoise to the unjust depreciation which the unbounded panegyric he received in his own day has called forth by an inevitable reaction. Macaulay's indefensible habit of deliberate exaggeration for the sake of effect has not only compromised his character for impartiality but impaired the authority due to his massive common-sense. "Alone in College, and what came of it," is a very amusing story, bordering upon the farcical. Professor Paley has collected many curious particulars about ancient Greek cookery, with recipes at the service of adventurous palates.

Among several excellent papers in the Atlantic Monthly perhaps the most generally interesting are the sketch of Washington society under the administration of General Taylor, Mr. Grant White's visit to London, a valuable account of co-operation in Germany, and an article on the present condition of American shipping, advocating the direct subsidising of it by Government. Miss Susan Coolidge's "In the Certosa" is a grave and moving piece of verse.

The illustrated publications of our American cousins have now attained such a character for excellence that, in comparing them with our own illustrated magazines, we cannot help feeling that we are being eclipsed by our Transatlantic brethren. Harper and Scribner are running a neck-and-neck race, and we only hope that in their eager desire to excel they will not rush into the region of extravagance and eccentricity. Scribner's Magazine and St. Nicholas for January and February are filled with carefully executed illustrations; but apparently the one thing aimed at by the engravers, and it is the only thing we can condemn, is fineness of execution. The engraver makes no distinction between a distant object and a near one—all alike are covered with beautifully fine lines, which have the effect of wrapping the subject in a more or less indistinct fog. A little bold execution in some of the foreground objects would make some of these American woodcuts absolutely perfect. In "Glimpses of Parisian Art" the facsimiles of artists' sketches are most interesting. Scribner contains other interesting articles, especially those on "English Theatres" and "Welsh Fairs." The description of an old Virginian town in the February number is capital, and the illustrations are equally good. Harper for February is full of interesting matter, literary and pictorial. Mr. Moncure Conway concludes his series of papers on the English Lakes, with their pretty illustrations; and there is a good article on "The Gospel History in Italian Painting;" but we may remark, in passing, that the fine and foggy style of engraving is ill suited to the productions of the old masters.

Parts 13 and 14 of the American Art-Review are very unequal. The wood engraving entitled "The Professor" is a really fine work of art; but the etching of a female head opposite page 68 is a vulgarity which would have been better omitted. Some of the illustrations to the articles on Antoine Joseph Wiertz, such as the "Genius of War" and "The Orphans," are about as bad and unpleasant as they can be. The account of this artist is interesting, and the literary contents of the numbers are quite as excellent as formerly.

The February number of the Art Journal is pleasant both to look at and to read. There is a gossipy article on "Old Battersea Bridge," by Mrs. Macquoid, with illustrations; and in "Natural History in its Relation to Art" the reader is amused with some comparisons between birds and animals as they exist in nature and as they are represented in art.

Mr. Justin M'Carthy's "Comet of a Season" continues to coruscate in the Gentleman's Magazine, and the present instalment contains one very striking portrait, the American, or pseudo-American, adventurer, Montana. "Our Garden Schools," by Dr. Richardson, is a valuable contribution to educational hygiene, and Dr. Andrew Wilson's sketch of the progressive development observable in the crustacean family illustrates the theory of evolution in a very telling way. Mr. Van Laun's demonstration that Gil Blas was really written and not stolen by Le Sage is triumphant; but an essay on "English Ethnology and English Genius" is vitiated throughout by the untenable assumption that the west of England is "more Celtic than Ireland."

Mr. D. C. Murray's "Joseph's Coat" in Belgravia has a remarkably clever prologue, which raises considerable expectations of the story to succeed. Nor is Mr. Mallock's "Romance of the Nineteenth Century" at all ineffective in amusing interest, although its general complexion is feverish and morbid. The remainder of the number is, for the most part, unusually good, including Mr. Haweis's account of a visit to Liszt, Mr. Lucy's amusing instances of mixed metaphors, and two singularly powerful stories, "The Plague-Smitten Ship," by J. M. Cobban, and Mr. T. Shairp's "Planty Banton."

Mrs. Riddell's new story in London Society, "The Senior Partner," promises to be in no way inferior to her highly successful "Mystery in Palace Gardens." There are some shrewd remarks in a paper entitled "How every man writes his own memoirs." The most important contributions to the Army and Navy Magazine is an able argument in favour of the retention of Candahar. The Antiquary and The Theatre are full of matter interesting to their respective classes of patrons.

Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin have issued the first part of a new serial publication, the Illustrated British Ballads, Old and New, to be completed in twenty-four parts, with several hundred original wood-engravings by leading artists. With unabated energy, judgment, and skill, this firm continue their numerous publications, among which are—the Magazine of Art (noticed in a previous number), Family Magazine, Old and New London, Technical Educator, Longfellow's Poetical Works, Science for All, Familiar Wild Flowers, an Illustrated Book of the Dog; the Royal Shakspere, well illustrated; and Part 16 of the National Gallery, with a coloured portrait of the late Thomas Carlyle.

Mr. William Black's Sunrise: A Tale of These Times, continues with increasing interest, the present Number being distinguished for power and pathos.

Good Words has another of Mr. Froude's remarkable letters, bearing the title of "Reminiscences of the High Church Revival of 1833"; and the second part of Mr. Blackmore's charming tale, entitled "Christowell." The Leisure Hour retains its distinctive features, with many improvements.

Among the other magazine and serial publications received are—the English edition of the American Wide Awake for February, with the opening chapters of a new novel by George Macdonald; the Portfolio, containing The Ferry, etched by R. W. Macbeth, and illustrations of Liverpool; Home, the Burlington, Sporting Mirror, Examples of Works of Art in the South Kensington Museum; Pathways of Palestine, with permanent photographs; Men of Mark, containing portraits of Sir H. C. Rawlinson, Mr. J. Fowler, and Mr. W. J. Orchardson, R.A.; the Month and Catholic Review, the sixth and last part of Heath's Gilpin's Forest Scenery, Universal Instructor, Tinsley's, St. James's, the Squire, Churchman, Antiquary, Science Gossip; and Monthly Parts of All the Year Round, Sunday at Home, Sunday Magazine, Gardeners' Magazine, Gardening Illustrated, Day of Rest, Boy's Own Paper, Girl's Own Paper, Young England, and Union Jack. The Fashion Books include Le Follet, the World of Fashion, Ladies' Gazette of Fashion, Myra's Journal, Myra's Mid-Monthly, Weldon's Ladies' Journal, and Illustrated Household Journal—the highest priced not being always the most practical.

OBITUARY.

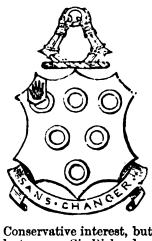
LORD JOHN THYNNE.

The Rev. Lord John Thynne, D.D., Sub-Dean and Canon of Westminster, died on the 9th inst., at the Cloisters, Westminster Abbey. He was born Nov. 7, 1798, the third son of Thomas, second Marquis of Bath, K.G., by Isabella Elizabeth, his wife, third daughter of George, fourth Viscount Torrington; was educated at Eton, and at St. John's College, Cambridge, and was for thirty years Incumbent of Walton-street-cum-Walton, Wiltshire, during which time he was appointed Sub-Dean of Lincoln. In July, 1831, he became Canon of Westminster, and in 1835 Sub-Dean, both of which preferments he held till his death, having declined the Deanery which had been offered to him by Sir Robert Peel. Lord John Thynne married, March 2, 1824, Anne Constantia, daughter of the Rev. Charles Cobbe Beresford, by whom, who died April 22, 1866, he had seven sons and two daughters. Of the former, the eldest, Francis John, is now of Haynes Park, Beds; the second is the Rev. Arthur Christopher Thynne, Rector of Kilkhampton, Cornwall. Of the daughters the elder is Marchioness of Headfort.

SIR R. C. MUSGRAVE, BART.

Sir Richard Courtenay Musgrave, eleventh Baronet, of Eden Hall, in the county of Cumberland, M.P. for the eastern division of that county, and Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of Westmorland, died on the 13th inst., at his town house, 17, Cavendish-square. He was born Aug. 21, 1838, the second son of Sir George Musgrave, tenth Baronet, by Charlotte, his wife, daughter of Sir James Graham, first Baronet, of Netherby, and succeeded his father Dec. 29, 1872, his elder brother having died previously. He received his education at Eton, and served for a time in the 71st Highlanders. In 1874 and 1876 he unsuccessfully contested East Cumberland in the Conservative interest, but was elected at the general election last year. Sir Richard married, Jan. 17, 1867, Adora Frances Olga, only daughter of Mr. Peter Wells (by Adora Julia, his wife, daughter of Sir John Lethbridge, Bart.), and leaves a young family of three sons and two daughters, of whom the eldest son and successor, now Sir Richard George Musgrave, twelfth Baronet, was born Oct. 11, 1872. The baronetcy was conferred at the institution of the order on Sir Richard Musgrave, K.B., whose only son, Sir Philip Musgrave, a staunch Royalist, was to have been raised to the Peerage as Baron Musgrave, of Hartley Castle, but the Patent was never completed. The curious relic—the old drinking-glass—called "The Luck of Eden Hall," on whose preservation the prosperity of the Musgraves is said to depend, is yet safe and sound, but



If that glass either break or fall,
Farewell the Luck of Eden Hall.

MR. BLOUNT, OF MAPLEDURHAM.

Mr. Michael Charles Blount, of Mapledurham, in the county of Oxford, the male representative of the very ancient and distinguished family of Blount, of Mapledurham, died on the 8th inst., aged sixty-one. He was eldest son of the late Mr. Michael Henry Mary Blount, of Mapledurham, J.P. and D.L., High sheriff of Oxfordshire in 1832, by Elizabeth Anne Mary, his wife, daughter of Robert Edward, tenth Lord Petre. The immediate founder of the Blounts of Mapledurham was Sir Michael Blount, Lieutenant of the Tower, who erected, about the year 1582, the fine Elizabethan mansion of Mapledurham, still remaining in the most perfect preservation. The Misses Blount, the friends of the poet Pope, were daughters of Lister Blount of Mapledurham, who died in 1710.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Mr. Murdo Mackenzie, of Ardross and Dundonnell, Ross-shire, J.P. and D.L., on the 8th inst., aged thirty-seven.

Captain and Brevet Major Joseph Ruscombe Poole, Royal Artillery, killed in action at Laing's Neck, South Africa, on the 28th ult., aged thirty-eight. He was second son of the late Mr. Gabriel Stone Poole, of South Brent, Somerset, by Maria, his wife, daughter of Sir Richard Westmacott.

The Rev. Francis Edward Durnford, M.A., Rector of Creeting, near Needham Market, Suffolk, Fellow of Eton College, in his sixty-sixth year.

Mr. Francis Willington, of Tamworth, in the county of Warwick, J.P., the direct descendant of the ancient family of Willington, of Hurley Hall and Umberleigh, on the 10th inst., aged eighty. He married, in 1825, Jane Anne, daughter of Henry Pye, M.P. for Berks, and Poet Laureate to George III.

General John Henry Francklyn, C.B., R.A., on the 12th inst., at his residence, the Wigwam, Forest Hill, in his seventieth year. He entered the army in 1831, and served in the Crimea in 1855 before Sebastopol. He became Colonel Commandant Royal Artillery in 1878.

Lady Carey (Emily Aubrey), wife of Sir Peter Stafford Carey, of Condie, Guernsey, Bailiff of that Island (formerly Recorder of Dartmouth and Professor of English Law in University College, London), on the 9th inst. She was daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel Richard Warren, Scots Guards, and was married to Sir Peter Carey in 1835.

Major-General Thomas James Maclachlan, late of the Royal Horse Artillery, last week, at Ramsgate. Born about the year 1829, he entered the Army as a Second Lieutenant in the Royal (late Bombay) Artillery. He served throughout the Central India Campaign of 1857-8 under Sir Hugh Rose. He retired in 1878 with the honorary rank of Major-General.

Mr. Edward William Leyborne Popham, of Littlecote, Wilts, and Hunstrete Park, in the county of Somerset, the representative of the ancient and distinguished family of Popham, of Littlecote, descended immediately from Sir John Popham, of Littlecote, Lord Chief Justice of England, temp. Queen Elizabeth, on the 24th ult., aged seventy-three.

Lady Amelia Eliza Montgomery, on the 5th inst., aged eighty-two. Her Ladyship was the eldest daughter of Thomas, fifth Earl of Macclesfield, by his first wife, the eldest daughter of Mr. Lewis Edwards, of Talgarth; was married in 1817 to Mr. William Montgomery, of Grey Abbey, county Down, and was left a widow in 1831. Her only child is the present Mr. Hugh Montgomery, of Grey Abbey.

The Hon. Horatio Nelson Sandys Hood, Commander R.N., at Shanghai, in his thirty-eighth year. He was second son of the present Viscount Bridport, by Lady Mary Hill, his wife, second daughter of Arthur, third Marquis of Downshire, and grandson of Samuel, Lord Bridport, by Lady Charlotte Mary Nelson, his wife, niece and heiress of the great Admiral, Lord Nelson. He married, Sept. 28, 1872, Isabella Emily, second daughter of Major Robert William Mundy.

Mr. Francis Tyssen-Amherst, barrister-at-law, member of the Legislative Assembly, Queensland, on Jan. 3, on board the P. and O. Company's steam-ship Bokhara, on his voyage home from Australia, in his thirty-ninth year. He was second son of Mr. William George Tyssen Daniel-Tyssen, of Didlington, Hackney, and Foulden Hall, and was only brother of Mr. William A. Tyssen-Amherst, of Didlington Hall, M.P. for West Norfolk.

Lady Louisa Le Poer-Trench, on the 7th inst., in Mountjoy-square, Dublin, in her eighty-fifth year. Her Ladyship was eldest daughter of Richard, second Earl of Clancarty, G.C.B., by Henrietta Margaret, his wife, second daughter of the Right Hon. John Staples, and was aunt of the present Earl of Clancarty. She was married, in 1830, to her cousin, the Rev. William Le Poer-Trench, son of Dr. Power Le Poer-Trench, Archbishop of Tuam.

Mr. Frederick Marcus Callaghan, late of the 60th Rifles and late Captain North Cork Militia, J.P., in the county of Cork, suddenly, on the 10th inst., at his residence, 15, Circus, Bath, aged fifty-eight. He was eldest son of the late Mr. Gerrard Callaghan, of Lotabeg, M.P. for Cork, and nephew of Daniel Callaghan, who also represented that city in Parliament. He leaves issue three sons and two daughters; the elder of the latter, Florence, wife of Mr. Hugh N. F. Bethell, nephew of the first Lord Westbury.

Lieutenant-Colonel Charles Hudson, late of the 10th Regiment, on the 12th inst., at his residence in Golborne-road, South Kensington, in the fifty-third year of his age. He served during the Kaffir wars of 1846-7 and 1851-3 on the Ordnance Staff, and was frequently thanked in general orders. He took part in the Crimean Campaign and was present at the several sorties, and the attack on the Redan in June 1855, when he was wounded by the bursting of a shell in the trenches. For his services in the Crimea he received a medal with clasp, and also the Turkish medal.

The Rev. Decimus William Preston, at his residence, Farnham Lodge, Ballybrack, in the county of Wicklow, on the 11th inst., in his seventy-sixth year, after a brief illness of one week. He was the youngest son of the late William Preston, Judge of Appeal, and the Hon. Frances Dorothea Preston, and grandson of John Evans, fifth Lord Carberry, and brother to the late Sir George Preston, of Dublin. He formerly was Rector of Tomregan, in the county of Cavan, and Rural Dean, and until lately was Rector of Ballycassidy, in the county of Fermanagh. He married, in 1839, Emily, daughter of the late General Alexander Armstrong, Royal Artillery, who survives him, and by whom he leaves five sons and three daughters. During his illness he was attended by his son, Surgeon-Major Preston, of the 66th Regiment, who but recently returned invalided from Affghanistan, having been desperately wounded at the battle of Maiwand, where he distinguished himself.

The Empress of Austria, travelling as Countess of Hohenembs, arrived at Dover on Wednesday morning, and proceeded by special train through London to Wrexbury, Cheshire, whence her Majesty and her suite drove to Combermere Abbey.

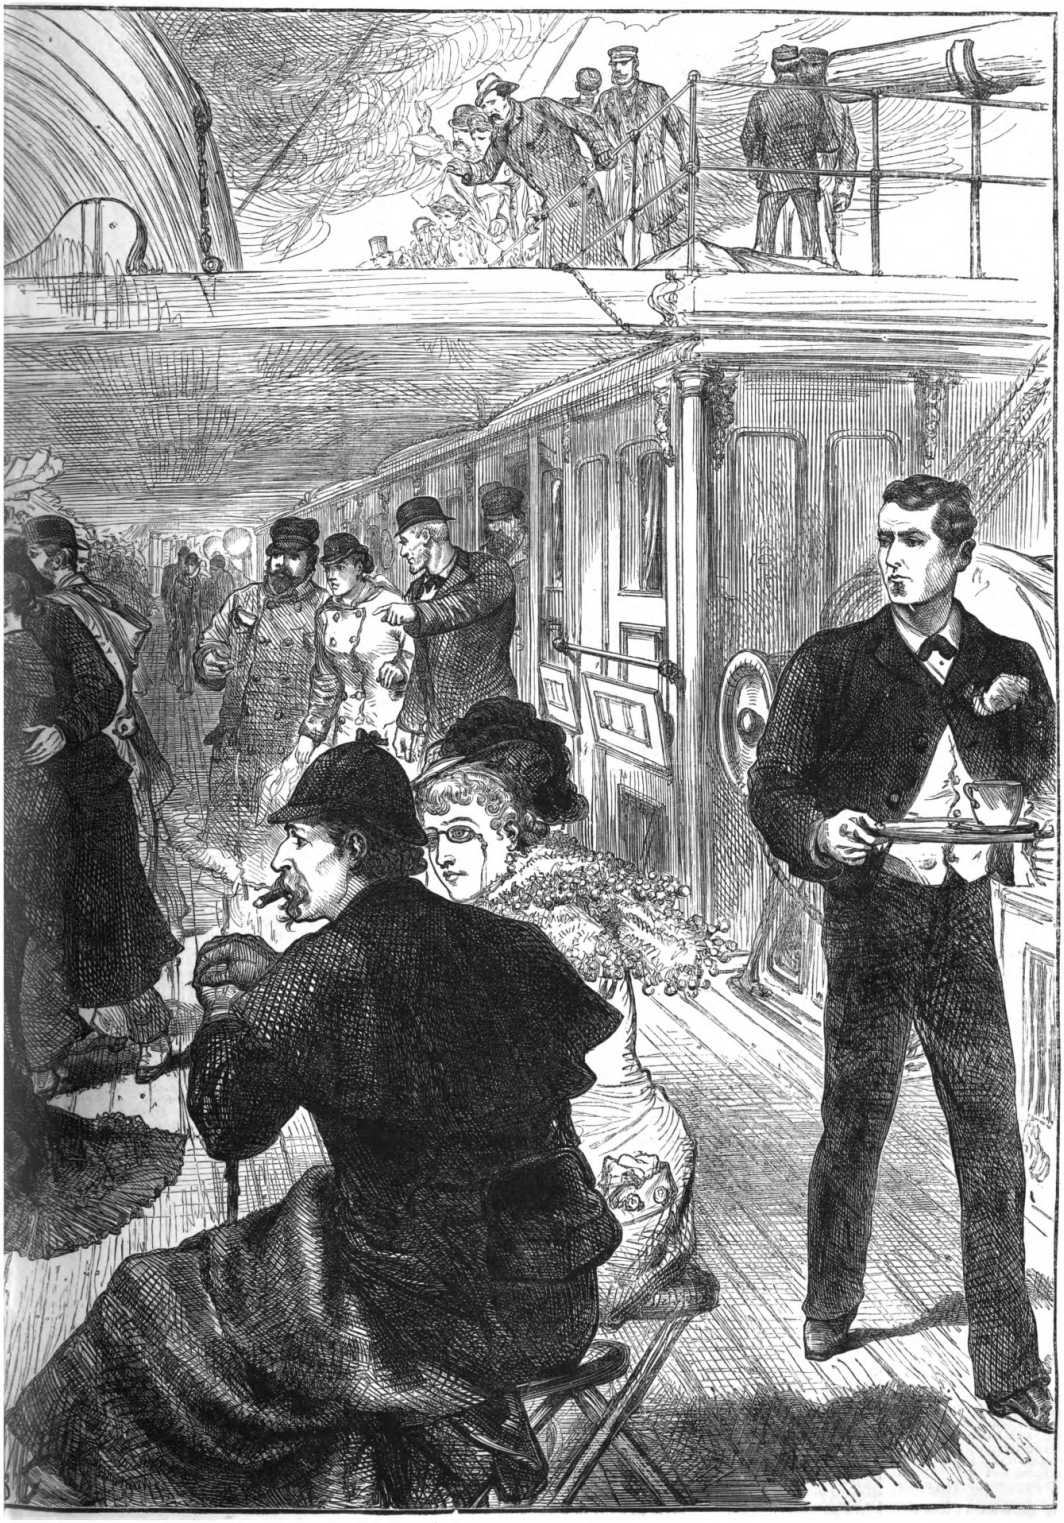
Sir Henry Bessemer was presented with the freedom of the Cutler's Company on Wednesday, and was subsequently entertained at a banquet, in recognition of his services to the cause of technical education which the company is endeavouring to promote.

The opening of the new north wing of University College was celebrated on Wednesday evening by a dinner in the College Library—the Earl of Kimberley, president of the institution, in the chair. Amongst the speakers were Viscount Sherbrooke, Professors Tyndall, Max-Müller, and Huxley, Sir F. Leighton, and Sir John Lubbock, M.P.

At the weekly meeting of the Land League in Dublin on Wednesday a letter was read from Mr. Parnell in reply to a series of resolutions requesting him to proceed at once to America in the interests of the league. The letter stated that Mr. Parnell had decided that it was his duty to remain in Ireland and in Parliament during the present crisis. He and other Irish members would be in their places to give every resistance which the forms of the House of Commons still permitted to the passage of the Coercion and Arms Bills.

DEPARTURE OF A CUNARD

SEE P.



AM-SHIP FROM LIVERPOOL.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated May 2, 1879) of Mr. Mark Firth, late of Oakbrook, Sheffield, merchant and manufacturer, who died on Nov. 28 last, was proved on the 15th ult., at the Wakefield district registry, by Charles Henry Firth, the brother, John Bradley Firth, the son, James Henry Barber, Barnard Platts Broomhead, and Samuel Roberts, jun., the executors, the personal estate, including leaseholds, being sworn under £600,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Catherine Gedling Firth, £1000, and his horses, carriages, farming stock, &c., and for life £2000 per annum (to be reduced to £600 per annum in the event of her marrying again); she is also to have the enjoyment of the Oakbrook and Moscar estates, with the furniture and effects, until July, 1893, when his youngest child attains twenty-one, if she so long remains a widow; to his son John Bradley, five shares in Thomas Firth and Sons and £85,000 in cash; to his son Mark, ten shares in Thomas Firth and Sons and certain house property in Sheffield; to his son Alfred, ten shares in Thomas Firth and Sons and the Page Hall estate; to his son Bernard Alexander three shares in Thomas Firth and Sons, the Abbey Dale estate, £15,500 railway stock, and £41,800 in cash; to his son Charles Henry Bramley, three shares in Thomas Firth and Sons, the Bramley and Coalbrook estates, £17,000 railway stock, and some other property; to each of his three younger daughters, Caroline Bradley, Rachel, and Helen Beatrice, £25,000 railway stock; to his said three daughters, in addition, and to his eldest daughter, Mrs. Sarah Bingham Taylor, £25,000 each in July, 1893; and to his executors, £250 each. The residue of his real and personal estate, at the said date, is to be divided between all his sons.

The will (dated Aug. 28, 1873) with four codicils (dated Nov. 25, 1874; Oct. 27, 1877; March 16, 1878; and July 26, 1880) of Mr. William Chapman, late of No. 16, St. James's-street, and of No. 54, Wimpole-street, banker, who died on the 5th ult., was proved on the 21st ult. by Thomas Palmer Chapman and the Ven. Frank Robert Chapman, Archdeacon of Sudbury, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator gives considerable legacies to, or upon trust for, his children, Thomas Palmer Chapman, Frank Robert Chapman, Edward Chapman, Mrs. Clara Crake, and Mrs. Jane Surtees, and the widow and children of his late son, William Chapman; and the residue of his real and personal estate to his two sons, Thomas Palmer and Frank Robert, in equal shares.

Probate of the will (dated Aug. 3, 1876) with two codicils (dated respectively Feb. 26, 1878, and Aug. 2, 1879) of Mr. David Wilson, late of No. 59, Queen's-gate, South Kensington, and 27, Brunswick-terrace, Brighton, has been granted to Alexander Calder, J. R. Worcester, and A. Kimber, three of the executors therein named, the personal estate in England (exclusive of the settlements made during the testator's lifetime) being sworn under £60,000, the greater part of the property appearing by the will to be in India and Ceylon. The testator, after referring to two settlements made by him in favour of certain of his children, and bequeathing certain legacies and annuities, gives sums of £5000 each to his ten grandchildren, to be held by trustees for their benefit, and directs the residue of his real and personal estate, both in England and abroad, to be sold, and the proceeds, subject to certain annuities and bequests, to be held upon trust for his children and their issue, in equal shares.

The will (dated May 6, 1880) of Mrs. Mary Ann Cross (George Eliot), the wife of Mr. John Walter Cross, late of No. 4, Cheyne-walk, Chelsea, who died on Dec. 22 last, was proved on the 9th inst. by Charles Lee Lewes, the sole executor, the personal estate, limited to the property she had a power of appointment over by virtue of a settlement (dated May 4, 1880) and under the will of Mrs. Mary Evarard, being sworn under £40,000. By the settlement referred to not only was the property she then possessed settled, but also any she might thereafter acquire by the exercise of her literary skill. The testatrix bequeaths £5000 to Miss Emily Clarke, £1000 to Vivian Byam Lewes, an annuity of £100 for her life to Mrs. Caroline Bray, and an annuity of £40 for her life to her housekeeper, Mrs. Mary Dowling. The sum of £12,500 is to be set aside, in the names of her executor and her husband as trustees, and the income paid to Mrs. Eliza Lewes, the widow of Herbert Arthur Lewes, for life or during widowhood, and on her death or second marriage, as to one moiety of the capital fund for her son, George Henry Lewes, and as to the other moiety for her daughter, Marian Lewes. As to the residue of her property, the testatrix gives the same to the said Charles Lee Lewes, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, absolutely.

The will (dated Nov. 14, 1876) of Mr. John Nash, late of Reigate, Surrey, who died on Nov. 24 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by John Lanison Nash and William Henry Nash, the sons, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. The testator, after bequeathing a few legacies, leaves the residue of his property upon trust for his three sons, John Lanison, William Henry, and Joseph.

The will (dated Feb. 13, 1863) of Miss Eloisa Heathcoat, of late of Bolham House, Tiverton, Devon, and of No. 122, Mare-street, Hackney, who died on Dec. 19 last, was proved on the 19th ult. by Sir John Heathcoat Heathcote-Amory, Bart., the nephew, the sole executor, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testatrix bequeaths legacies of £8000 to her sister, Mrs. Caroline Brewin; £6000 each to her said nephew, and her niece, Mrs. Sarah Ann Travers; and the residue of her property to her said sister.

The will (dated May 29, 1876) with two codicils (one bearing even date with the will, and the other July, 18, 1879) of Miss Emma Hussey, formerly of Upwood, Huntingdonshire, but late of No. 29, Brunswick-terrace, Brighton, who died on Nov. 23 last, was proved on the 22nd ult. by Richard Hussey Hussey, the brother, and the Rev. Spencer Richard Arthur Buller, the nephew, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The testatrix leaves legacies to her executors, and there are some specific bequests of pictures and jewellery. As to the residue of her property, she gives one third to her said brother, one third to her sister Eleanor, Lady St. John, and one third between her nephews, the said Spencer Richard Arthur Buller and Moubray Buller.

The will (dated June 9, 1874) with a codicil (dated June 11, 1880) of Dame Rebecca Constantin Elizabeth Harte Franks, formerly of Ibstone House, Tetsworth, Oxfordshire, but late of Stanstead House, near Bishops Stortford, who died on Nov. 22 last, was proved on the 1st inst. by Samuel Richard Brewis, George William Brewis, and Percy Robert Brewis, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £13,000. The testatrix leaves legacies to her children, two servants, and others; and exercises her power of appointment under her first husband's will over a sum of £20,000 in favour of her daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Frend and Mrs. Rebecca Isabella Young. The residue of her property she gives to her said three sons and two daughters.

The will (dated Sept. 20, 1875) of Mr. William Packe, late of No. 1, Cavendish-square, who died on Dec. 4 last, was proved on the 2nd inst. by Sir Edward Henry Scott, Bart., and Robert Ruthven Pym, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £3000.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

E T (Bath).—Please accept our best thanks for your letter and the game accompanying it. If we hear from the other side, the two shall appear together.

J T (Hildote).—Look again at No. 1929. There is certainly a solution to it.

L M P (Newport).—Please to describe your problem in a diagram.

W T W (Ipswich).—Black, in the position described, made a false move in capturing an adverse man by a move that cannot be legally made. The penalty is that he must, at the choice of his adversary (1), either move his own or take the adverse man legally, (2) forfeit his turn to move, or (3) play any other man legally movable which his adversary may select.

B L (Berlin).—We are much obliged for the "Hermit's" joke, and shall be glad to receive a report of the meeting in August.

W J E.—Thanks for your letter. We are always glad to read the criticisms of solvers on the problems appearing in this column, so do not hesitate to express your views.

A C (Staines).—In Mr. Taylor's problem, quoted in our issue of the 5th instant, the White Knights are placed at Q B 5th and Q 8th.

H S (Retford).—Please see answer to A C.

T G (Smethwick).—It is not forgotten, and it shall appear shortly.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1925 received from W Pocock, of Cape Town; of No. 1926 from J Tucker, of Mr. Taylor's Problem from H B, James Dobson, J G Heaton, Thomas Guest, Norman Rainbow, Joseph Paluzie, E L G, F G Parslow, C Saunders, T H Holdron, H B Noyes, W J Rudman, F Ferris, W Hillier, Joseph Ainsworth, R T Kemp, Aaron Harper, G W Law, S Farrant, R Ingersoll, L Sharswood, E Sharswood, F E Purchas, Earl Marden, R H Brooks, C Darragh, N S Harris, R J Vines, L L Greenaway, H K Awdry, and H Blacklock; of the Hermit of Tyrnau's Problem from F E Purchas, Thomas Guest, and E Bohnstedt.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1927 received from Orima, C T B, Thomas Guest, George Neser (Florence), E Bohnstedt, and B R Wood.

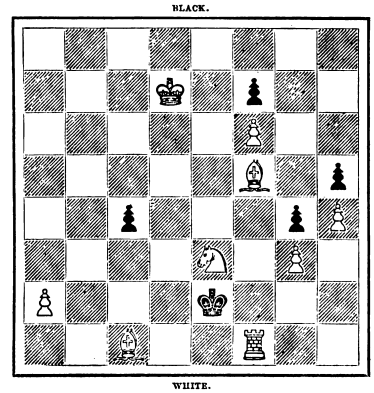
CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1928 received from F E Purchas, S G C, N M Carrig, Stuart Berkeley, Daniel See, R E, Emile Frau, C S Hockin, C L Hockin, J H Symington, Thomas Guest, W F Payne, J H Selkirk, M H Moorhouse, Joseph Paluzie, E Bohnstedt, and J Bumstead.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1929 received from H B, Lily and Comrade, Hereward, F E Purchas, Julia Short, N N Currie, J Alois Schuppler, Capt. F P Vulliamy, Gateshead-on-Tyne, D W (Guernsey), East Marden, H R, Portobello, Frank Ettinger, Norman Rumbelow, Emile Frau, Shadforth, Scout, James Dobson, R H Brooks, W Biddle, J H Symington, J W W, Bidmouth, J J Heaton, J Nepven, Pilmore, H F Jones, A C (Staines), W J Eggleston, Alpha, W T R, Thomas Guest, R J G, J Pares Ventoux, Lulu, Joseph Paluzie, H Stebbing, E Bohnstedt, W F Payne, W F H (Swansea), Dr F St. J A Green, C S Hockin, C Laxmore Hockin, C G Paynter, S Lennox, T H Holdron, H H Noyes, W J Rudman, F Ferris, W Hillier, R T Kemp, R Ingersoll, L Sharswood, Ernest Sharswood, L Falcon (Antwerp), An Old Hand, D W Keil, M O'Halloran, Ben Nevis, T Greenbank, C Oswald, N Nator, Otto Fulder (Ghent), C Darragh, Jupiter Junior, C S Cox, Edinburgh, J Templeton, R Gray, H Blacklock, W Warren, B L Dyke, Nerina, G L Mayne, H B Wood, E Li Green, and E Louden.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1928.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. R to K sq | Any move |
| 2. Mates accordingly. | |

PROBLEM No. 1931.
By W. GRIMSHAW.
BLACK.



WHITE.
White to play, and mate in four moves.

Two of eight Games played sans voir and concurrently by Mr. BLACKBURNE against eight members of the Manchester Chess Club.
(Allgaier Gambit.)

| WHITE (Mr. B.) | BLACK (Mr. A.) | WHITE (Mr. B.) | BLACK (Mr. A.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th | 13. P to Kt 3rd | B to K 3rd |
| 2. P to K B 4th | P takes P | 14. Q R to Kt sq | Q to K 2nd |
| 3. Kt to K B 3rd | P to K Kt 4th | 15. Castles | P to B 3rd |
| 4. P to K R 4th | P to Kt 5th | 16. Kt to Q 3rd | P to Kt 3rd |
| 5. Kt to B 5th | P to Q 4th | 17. Kt to B 2nd | Kt takes Kt |
| 6. P to Q 4th | Kt to K B 3rd | 18. Q takes Kt | Kt to Q 2nd |
| 7. Kt to Q B 3rd | B to Kt 5th | 19. B to Q 3rd | Kt to B sq |
| 8. B takes P | Kt takes P | 20. B to K B 6th | Q to Q 3rd |
| 9. B to Q 3rd | B takes Kt (ch) | 21. Q R to K sq | Castles |
| 10. P takes B | P to Q B 3rd | 22. B takes Kt | Q R takes B |
| 11. B to K 2nd | P to K B 4th | 23. R takes B | |
| 12. Q to K 3rd | B to Kt sq | Black resigned. | |

Board No. 5.—One of eight Games played at Manchester, Feb. 5.

| WHITE (J. H. B.) | BLACK (T. B. Wilson.) | WHITE (J. H. B.) | BLACK (T. B. Wilson.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 3rd | 20. P takes P | R to B 3rd |
| 2. P to Q 4th | P to Q 4th | 21. B takes P | P to B 3rd |
| 3. Q Kt to B 3rd | K Kt to B 3rd | 22. B to B 4th | R takes Kt |
| 4. B to K Kt 5th | P takes K P | 23. P takes R | Q takes P |
| 5. P takes P | B to K 2nd | 24. Kt to R 8th | Kt to Kt 2nd |
| 6. B takes Kt | B takes B | 25. Kt to B 4th | Q to Kt 4th |
| 7. K Kt to B 3rd | Castles | 26. Q to Q 2nd | K to B 2nd |
| 8. P to B 3rd | P to Q Kt 3rd | 27. R to B 8th | Q to B 3rd |
| 9. B to Q 3rd | P to K R 3rd | 28. P to K Kt 4th | P takes P |
| 10. Q to K 2nd | B to K 2nd | 29. B to Q 3rd (ch) | K to Kt sq |
| 11. Castles Q R | P to Q R 4th | 30. R takes R | Kt takes R |
| 12. P to K B 4th | P to K B 4th | 31. B to Kt 6th | Kt to B 6th |
| 13. Kt to Kt 3rd | Q to K sq | 32. B to B 7th (ch) | K to R sq |
| 14. Kt to K 5th | P to Q R 5th | 33. Q to Q 4th | Q takes Q |
| 15. P to K 5th | P to R 4th | 34. Kt to Kt 6th (ch) | K to R 2nd |
| 16. Kt to Kt 6th | R to B 2nd | 35. P takes Q | B to Kt 4th (ch) |
| 17. Q R to K sq | Kt to B 3rd | 36. K to B 2nd | Kt to Q 3rd |
| 18. B to B 4th | Kt to Q sq | 37. Kt to B 8th (ch) | K to B sq |
| 19. P to Q 6th | P to Kt 4th | 38. P to K 7th | Resigns. |

Mr. Blackburne's blindfold games rarely require explanatory notes, and the two which appear above can not be numbered among the exceptions. Although he was conducting six others at the same time, seeing none of the boards, these will be found instructive examples of his brilliant style of play, and we commend them to the attention of the student.

A match was played on the 11th inst. between the Bermondsey and Hackney Chess Clubs, nine players a side. It resulted in a draw, each club scoring 4½.

In the current number of that excellent American magazine, Frentano's Monthly, there are eighteen pages devoted to chess, the contents comprising light and entertaining articles in prose, a chess poem, problems, and a selection of good games. It is announced that Mr. Barnes, of New York, will henceforth conduct the game department. Mr. Allen continues his attention to the literature and problems. We quote one of the latter, contributed by Mr. G. E. Carpenter:—

White: K at K square; Q at K 8th; Kts at K 6th and Q R 4th; B at Q Kt 7th; Pawns at K R 4th and K B 6th. (Seven pieces.)
Black: K at K 4th; Pawn at K R 3rd. (Two pieces.)
White to play, and mate in three moves.

A new edition of the "Laws of Short Whist," by J. L. Baldwin, and a treatise on the game by the late James Clay, has been published by Messrs. De La Rue and Co. The treatise is well known to every whist-player possessing any pretentions to scientific skill, but there are many others who may be rescued from the impending doom of that "miserable old age" Talleyrand abhorred by a timely study of this little volume. In the Laws (the clause relating to the "trump card"), we observe it is stated that the dealer must take it into his hand before playing to the first lead. That may or may not be desirable; but it is not, with submission, a necessary proceeding, nor is it an usual one. The trump card must be taken up before the first trick is turned and quitted, or it is liable to be called; but we never saw the penalty enforced, although we have often witnessed a breach of the law.

COPYRIGHT.

A conference of English authors and publishers was held last Saturday, at 22, Albemarle-street, to consider the draught of a proposed international copyright treaty between the United States and Great Britain, together with the modifications and additions suggested by the British Government. Mr. M'Cullagh Torrens, M.P., presided. It was resolved, "That the draught of the proposed treaty submitted by the United States Minister to her Majesty's Government be accepted as a basis for negotiation, subject to the substitution of twelve months for three; that the provision requiring the manufacture of books to be in the country of publication be confined to the United States; that all prints or reprints of books by British authors which are published by or with the consent of the authors in the United States be freely admitted into the United Kingdom and into all parts of her Majesty's dominions." In the course of the discussion Mr. G. A. Sala said that Messrs. Harper had written to him some time ago offering him £5 for the privilege of publishing his last letters from America. They stated that they were unable to offer more, as they knew the letters were about to be pirated, but that the author would at least have the satisfaction of seeing them respectably printed. The letters were subsequently pirated by a publisher of New York, who had mutilated them most grossly.

At a meeting of the Royal Botanic Society, held last Saturday, Professor Bentley said that the tea-plant, although it had been cultivated in China for probably thousands of years, was in reality a native of India, and its many varieties had been derived by long culture from one common origin. The treatment under which the camellia japonica was now so generally grown would also suit the tea-plant, and as interesting varieties might be obtained with a little attention.

THE CUNARD ATLANTIC STEAM-SHIPS.

We were happy to learn at the beginning of this week that the Cunard Company's fine steam-ship Batavia, the fate of which had for some days been a subject of much anxiety, was quite safe after all; she had lost her propeller, and had been driven far to the southward by the late strong northerly winds; but was met by the steam-ship Columbia, of the Anchor Line, and was towed to Fayal, in the Azores, into which port she was taken on the 5th inst. There is a floating-dock and repairing factory at St. Michael's, where the spare propeller carried by the Batavia can be adjusted, after which she will come on to Liverpool. Her passengers may arrive in England, by the other steamers from the Azores, some time before the Cunard ship herself can be made ready to complete her interrupted voyage.

This recent adventure, we have considered, may give additional interest to our Illustrations, published this week, of the departure of a Cunard steam-ship from Liverpool. The great Company formed by Sir Samuel Cunard, of Halifax, with Messrs. Burns and MacIver, of Glasgow, and Mr. R. Napier, the eminent marine engineer, about forty years ago, has owned nearly a hundred and fifty ships; its fleet at one time being usually composed of about fifty, including those employed in the Atlantic Mail service, those of the Havre and Mediterranean service, and others plying between Halifax and Bermuda, and between several British and Irish ports. Its entire floating property may perhaps be valued at something like nine or ten millions sterling. Some of the finest ships in the world are to be found on its Atlantic Line; and no ships are more perfectly equipped, or maintained in better condition. Their historical exemption from disasters at sea has been the natural result of a care and foresight which has dealt equally with the largest questions and the minutest details, which has extended to every particular of construction, equipment, and service, and which, not content with seeing everything well done in the first instance, has secured the perpetual maintenance of the prescribed standard by incessant watchfulness and supervision. The ships of the Cunard Company have all been built in the Clyde, chiefly by the Messrs. Napier, and of late years by Messrs. J. and G. Thompson and others. The builders have no responsibility beyond that of following the plans and specifications which are delivered to them by the Company, and in which the most minute points of detail are provided for with a care and knowledge which are the results of an experience unequalled in its extent, and improved by constant study. The Batavia, which was built ten years ago, is an iron screw-steamer, of 2500 tons burden, and 450-horse power engines. The Aurania, now almost completed, is built entirely of steel, and is of 7000 tons burden; her engines will be of 8500-horse power.

Among other precautions regularly taken by the Cunard Company, it may here be mentioned that, on account of the danger of navigating the Mersey by insufficient light, the ships are never allowed to leave Liverpool in the afternoon or evening. They always sail in the morning; and, in consequence of the state of the tide, this often necessitates a very early departure. The crew, as well as everything in the ship, the working of the pumps, manning of the boats, the engines, steering and signalling apparatus, undergo a minute inspection, before each voyage, and no ship would be allowed to start if the smallest defect were found in these particulars. Thanks to such precautions, no loss of life, or of her Majesty's mails, has yet occurred in this vast carrying operation of a service which conveys about fifty thousand persons, during the year, to and fro between England and America. The rules for its navigation are also most judicious. It is some years since the increasing traffic directed the attention of the company to the risks that would be run if all vessels, both outward and homeward, were crowding along the most direct sailing track, a course which would render the occurrence of collisions a mere question of time. In order to avoid this danger, the company determined to lay down sailing lines which should not only keep the outward and the homeward bound vessels apart, but which should also keep both classes somewhat away from the ordinary highways of Atlantic navigation. The outward-bound steamers, from Queenstown to New York or Boston, cross the meridian of 50 deg. at 43 deg. latitude, or nothing to the north of 43 deg., while on the homeward passage they cross the same meridian at 42 deg. latitude, or nowhere to the north of 42 deg. Like express-trains, they may be said to run upon their own up and down lines, and to follow each other at intervals which are sufficient to ensure safety.

Our Illustrations of the scenes attending the ordinary embarkation of passengers at Liverpool for a voyage by the weekly Cunard steamer to Halifax, Boston, or New York will at once be recognised by those of our readers who have any acquaintance with the aspects of similar traffic at a great port of ocean steam navigation, as representing in a truthful and lively manner the sort of bustle there witnessed upon every similar occasion. The cabs and other vehicles, with anxious people inside, and with piles of luggage on the roof, continually drive up to the entrance of the landing-stage on the Mersey quay, where

(Continued on page 192.)

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse, "REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.

Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram

PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouses in "REGENT-STREET."

Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.

Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.

Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,

THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.

Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.

100 Pieces of handsome
BLACK BROCADED VELVETS,
os. 11d., 4s. 11d., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and 10s. 9d. per yard.
Black Velvets for trimming purposes, 3s. 11d. to 6s. 9d.
Black striped Velveta (best quality), 4s. 9½d. and 5s. 3d.
Black Brocaded Silks and Satins, 3s. 6d. to 6s. 11d.
Black silk Plush, for Costumes, from 4s. 11d. to 10s. 6d.
Black Silk-faced Satin, from 1s. 11d. to 5s. 6d.
Duchess Satin in Black and in White, 5s. 3d. to 12s. 6d.
Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets (all Silk), 3s. 11d. to 21s.
Satin de Lyons, in Black, 3s. 11d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d.

Dress Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets,
A Special Bargain,
16 Yards for 5s 9s.

Address for Patterns to
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast Pile Velveteen, at 3, 3½, 4, and 5 guineas.

39s. 6d.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 8½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 2½s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

ALL PURE FLAX.

| | | Per Doz. | | Per Doz. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| CHEAP | Children's .. | 2s. 6d. | Hemstitched, | |
| | Ladies' .. | 2s. 11d. | Ladies' .. | 4s. 11d. |
| | Gentlemen's.. | 4s. 11d. | Gentlemen's .. | 8s. 3d. |

Samples and Price-List post-free. POCKET "The Irish Cambrics of Messrs. Robinson and Cleaver have a world-wide fame." — The Queen. HANDKERCHIEFS.

ROBINSON and CLEAVER,
THE ROYAL IRISH LINEN WAREHOUSE,
BELFAST.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

EPPS'S COCOA. GRATEFUL and COMFORTING. "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.
Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

FARROW and JACKSON, the largest and best Makers of IRON WINE BINS, SODA-WATER RACKS, BAR FITTINGS, SEALING-WAX, and every Article for the Dealer in or Consumer of Wines, 18, GREAT TOWER-STREET; 9, HAYMARKET; 91, MANSELL-STREET, LONDON.
Agent in Paris, 2, NEW RUE DU DRAGON.

TURKEY CARPETS.
TRELOAR and SON,
No. 69, LUDGATE-HILL.
The importers beg to call attention to the following List, and will be pleased to quote a price for Turkey Carpets of any size from their extensive Stock.

TURKEY CARPETS.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 8ft. 10in. by 6ft. 11in. | .. | £5 | 2 6 |
| 9ft. 0in. by 6ft. 10in. | .. | 5 | 2 6 |
| 10ft. 0in. by 7ft. 2in. | .. | 5 | 5 5 |
| 10ft. 4in. by 6ft. 5in. | .. | 5 | 12 6 |
| 12ft. 10in. by 11ft. 8in. | .. | 13 | 12 6 |
| 17ft. 0in. by 9ft. 9in. | .. | 14 | 17 6 |
| 18ft. 8in. by 11ft. 1in. | .. | 21 | 0 0 |
| 19ft. 11in. by 14ft. 8in. | .. | 25 | 0 0 |

Shipments every few days.
TRELOAR and SON, (Estab. 1832.)
No. 69, LUDGATE-HILL.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES,
FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS, DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES, CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS POST-FREE.

CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

CURE FOR RHEUMATISM. £500 FORFEIT to any purchaser of a bottle of POWELL'S EMBROCATION if the Testimonials published in its favour and signed by
H.R.H. the DUKE D'AUMALE,
Right Hon. the late Earl of CLARENDON, K.G.,
Frances, Countess WALDEGRAVE,
Right Hon. the Countess of RADNOR,
Mrs. MARK WOOD,
Mrs. General LAWRENCE,
and many other eminent persons, are not genuine. The money refunded to any purchaser whose case this Embrocation will not reach. A Pamphlet with all particulars free to any address. POWELL'S RHEUMATIC EMBROCATION is sold by Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the World, in Bottles at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. JOHN M. RICHARDS, Sole Proprietor, Great Russell-street, London.

THE VOICE. — THE THROAT. — THE CHEST. — THE LUNGS. £500 FORFEIT.
TO PUBLIC SPEAKERS, CLERGYMEN, ACTORS, VOCALISTS, READERS.
£500 will be paid by the undersigned to any purchaser of a bottle of HANFORD'S BRONCHITINE if the TESTIMONIALS are not genuine which are published in its favour and signed by the most eminent CLERGYMEN, ACTORS, VOCALISTS, READERS, and PUBLIC SPEAKERS. The Use of the Medicine will also be refunded to any purchaser dissatisfied with its effect. Hanford's Bronchitine relieves all affections of the Throat and Vocal Organs without internal medicine of any sort. Pamphlet, with Testimonials, to any address. "HANFORD'S BRONCHITINE" is sold by Chemists (Chemists' Price, 2s. 9d. per Bottle, (but one size.) If not obtainable at nearest Chemist's, send Postal Order direct to me, inclosing P.O.O. JOHN M. RICHARDS, Great Russell-street-buildings, Great Russell-street, London.

FOOT. ANKLE. LIMB. — BEAUTY! GRACE! SYMMETRY! — HEALTH! ACTIVITY! VIGOUR! — WONDERFUL AS THE TELEPHONE AND ELECTRIC LIGHT. THE EDSON ELECTRIC GARTER.
THE MOST Ingenious Electric appliance.
Its use occasions no inconvenience.
Adapted to Grown Persons and Children.
Thousands now worn in England.
Hundreds of letters confirming our statements.
Every Pair of Garters tested by Galvanometer and warranted perfect.
They Develop the Limb, they Support the Limb, they Strengthen the Foot and Ankle, add Grace and Elasticity to the walk, give Great Ease and Comfort in Walking, Dancing, Riding, Sailing, Exercising, and Excite Healthful Circulation, put an End to Ill-shaped and Dwarfed Limbs and Ankles, Dispel Gout, Rheumatic, and Neuralgic Pains, Subdue all Cramps and Stiffness of Joints.
Wholly supersedes not only the costly Galvanic and Magnetic Appliances of the day, but every other form of Garter. Beautiful in appearance, Adjusted in a moment. Finished in Finest Silk and Cotton Fabric (usual Colours), with Steel and Buckle Clasps.
Price—In Rural Cotton Web, Ladies' or Gents' size, 2s. 6d.; in Silk, 3s. 6d. (by post, 3s. 8d. and 4s. 8d.); for Children up to eight years, Cotton Web, 2s.; in Silk, 3s. (by post, 3s. 2d. and 3s. 9d.).
Sent to any address on receipt of P.O.O., payable to J. EDSON.
THE ELECTRIC FABRIC CO., Sole Patentees (New Building), No. 1, Charlotte-st., Bedford-sq., London.
Edson's Electric Wristbands and Armlets, 2s. 6d. per pair; per post, 2s. 8d.

FLORIMEL OF PALM.
A white and delicate hand is the first attribute of beauty and civilisation. "The hand," says Sir Charles Bell in the "Bridgewater Treatise," "distinguishes man from the brute; be careful of it, for in polite society it is an index not only of the body but of the mind."
The Florimel of Palm being rubbed over the skin is to be removed with a little water, then dried with a soft towel. Once using will convince the most sceptical that, if daily applied, too much cannot be said in favour of Florimel of Palm for rendering the skin or hands white, delicate, soft, and fair.
Sold in Jars, 3s. 6d. each.
PIESSE and LUBIN, 2, New Bond-street, London.
May be obtained of any Chemist or Perfumer in the world.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghilés at Stambouli. After smoking a few myself I can testify that it is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, coat, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being too pungipants. Piesse and Lubin also have in demand, Dry Odour Bags, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET,
White Rose, Jockey Club, Eau Bouquet, Frangipanni, Opoponax, Chypre, Stephanotis, Moss Rose, New-mown Hay. Price 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle.

BREIDENBACH'S SACHETS in any of the above Odours. Price, Silk Bags, 1s.; Paper Envelopes, 1s. each.
The above articles can be obtained through all Chemists, Perfumers, Stores and Fancy Dealers in town and country.
BREIDENBACH and CO., Perfumers to the Queen, 157a, New Bond-street, London, W.

A MASS OF CURLS.—COX'S CURLING FLUID (protected by Proprietor's Signature) ensures Curly and Wavy Hair, also assists the Growth. Warranted harmless and certain. Will not stain or injure the finest hair. Beautifully scented. Has been in use by ladies of title for centuries. No curling tongs required. Regularly used two or three times a week will always keep the Hair Curly. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, carriage paid, free from observation, or order of your local Chemist, or send direct to the sole Agent for Great Britain, I. L. N. MARSHALL, Commission Agent, 35, St. Mary's-square, London, S.E.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glandules are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tainted smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and as pure as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

THE SKIN.—The glory of woman, the pride of man. It contains the delicate lines of beauty and constitutes all that we term "Loveliness;" yet how many thousands have their skins blemished by the use of the irritant soaps. Carbolic, Coal Tar, Glycerine, and the coarse coloured soaps, caustic with alkali and made of putrid fats. The more delicate the skin the quicker its ruin. The ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP is the purest, the whitest, and most purifying of all Soaps, by its purifying action taking away and preventing all pimples, blotches, and roughness. It is recommended by the entire Medical Profession as the most elegant preparation for the skin that is known. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s. THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP COMPANY, 283, Oxford-street, London.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

SOLD in TINS and TIN-LINED PACKETS ONLY, by ALL GROCERS.
STEAM MILLS, BRICK-LANE, LONDON.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Starch.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER."
Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 10s.; Households, for Bread making, 9s. 6d.; Whole Wheaten Flour (granulated) for Brown Bread, 8s. 8d.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat, Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Spilt Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d.; Barley Meal, per 56 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 1 lb. tin, 8d.; per 14 lb., 5s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained in Wood by wholesale merchants and dealers, direct from their respective distilleries.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, A LAXATIVE AND REFRE-HING FRUIT LOZENGE, UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Patent Medicine Vendors.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM," NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless: will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BUTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 488, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—HOUSES to be LET or SOLD.—TOWN and COUNTRY.—OETZMANN and CO. have always on their Register PRIVATE RESIDENCES, VILLAS, and MANSIONS in London and Suburbs and all parts of the Country. Particulars can be had free on personal application or by letter.—OETZMANN and CO., Complete House Furnishers, 67 to 79, Hampstead-road, near Tottenham-court-rd.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77, and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.—OETZMANN & CO.

"STANLEY" DINING-ROOM SUITE in solid carved Spanish Mahogany, upholstered in best marone leather, comprising a noble Couch, two Easy-chairs, and six Chairs, price 14 guineas. Quality guaranteed. A variety of other patterns on show, from 8 guineas to 30 guineas. Massive Mahogany Telescope Dining Tables, 4 feet by 4 feet, patent metallic screw, 2 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

ARTISTIC CANE WINDOW BLINDS and SCREENS.—These fashionable blinds can now be had from stock or made to order in any size or design; also Cane and Wicker Chairs, Ladies' Needlework Mounts, Flower Stands, &c., in colours or black and gold. Prices considerably below those usually charged for these goods. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

FLOOR CLOTH! FLOOR CLOTH! FLOOR CLOTH!—Well seasoned. Colours and designs to suit every style of furniture. An immense assortment for selection. Some clearing out at 1s. 6d. per square yard; best quality and newest designs, 2s. 6d. A quantity of squares, 2 yards by 2 yards, 3 by 3, and 4 by 4, and other useful sizes, very cheap. Quotations forwarded per post on receiving size of room or hall. Bordered Floor Cloth, for passage or stairs, from 8d. per yard.
OETZMANN and CO.

CURTAIN DEPARTMENT.—Handsome Damask, Rep, and Tapestry Curtains, from 25s. per pair, the largest, cheapest, and best assortment in London; Cretonne, ditto, from 1os. 6d. per pair; "Cyprus" ditto, all wool, 12s. per pair; Muslin and Lace Curtains, elegant designs, 3 yards long by 40 and 52 inches wide, 4s. 11d. per pair, worth 7s. 6d.; very handsome ditto, 4 yards long by 52 to 64 inches wide, 10s. 6d., worth 16s. 9d.; magnificent Guipure Lace Curtains, 4 yards long by 60 inches wide, 14s. 9d. per pair. Price-Lists and Patterns post-free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

KITCHEN REQUISITES.—OETZMANN and CO.'S TEN-POUND SET (illustrated, p. 24, page 304, in their "GUIDE TO HOUSE FURNISHING," sent post-free on application) includes Table, Chairs, Clock, &c., with the various Culinary Utensils and requisites, contains all the most useful articles required in every kitchen, each being of superior quality, and is the most practical selection extant. A writer upon domestic matters in "The Queen" Newspaper says of this set:—"Seems very complete and carefully selected with a view to utility and durability."—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.
OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desiring of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 279 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, INVITES INSPECTION of all that is new and beautiful in useful and ornamental CHINA and GLASS, including

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Dinner Services (Cottage), 50 pieces | .. | .. | 13 6 |
| Dinner Services for 12 persons (the prices) | .. | .. | 3 3 |
| China Dessert Services for 12 persons, Gilt, 18s., Ungilt | | | 14 0 |
| Gilt China Tea Services, 40 pieces, 12s. | .. | .. | 6 6 |
| China Breakfast Sets for 6 persons, 11s. | .. | for 4 persons | 7 0 |
| Toilet Services (for washstands), 6s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and | | | 2 2 |
| White Stone Jugs, "The Grecian," | | set of three | 2 2 |

All really excellent patterns.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Quart Decanters, ground cut glass, 5s. per pair .. | .. | plain 4 0 |
| Claret Decanters (with handle), 4s. each | .. | .. and 2 0 |
| Plain light Claret Glasses, well made, 6s. per doz. | .. | .. and 3 6 |
| Wine Glasses, plain or cut, Ports and Sherries, per doz. | | 1 9 |
| Engraved Wine Glasses | do. | do. 2 6 |
| Hock Glasses, ruby bowl, 6s. per doz. | .. | green bowl 3 0 |
| Tumblers, cut, 3s. 9d.; plain, 2s. 9d. | moulded, per doz. | 2 6 |
| Plain light Finger-Glasses, taper shape | .. | per doz. 6 6 |

Other articles proportionately cheap.
Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, LUDGATE-HILL. Established 1760.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 63s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogue post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

"A man who has the A B C Despatch Box will have no excuse for keeping his papers in disorder."—Athenæum.
A B C DESPATCH BOX, invented by JENNER and KNEWSTUB.—"Entities them to gratitude."—Times. Prices from 12s. 6d. The Empress Imperial Despatch Desk. The Indian Despatch Box. The In Memoriam Imperial Bag. The Bag of Bags. The Patent Jewel Case. The Sign Writing Case. The Carriage Writing Case, and all kinds of the best leather-work at the most moderate prices. Cash discount 10 per cent.—JENNER and KNEWSTUB, to the Queen, Wholesale, Retail, and for Exportation, 33, St. James's-street, and 66, Jermyn-street, S.W.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain sketch, 2s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 5s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 22s. Solid Gold Ring, hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 500 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 6d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 Note, embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 10s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS, ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES Engraved as above from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
HALL PICTURE-FRAMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 2s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on seals, 10s., &c. FOUR BROTHERS, Genealogists, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris 1878.

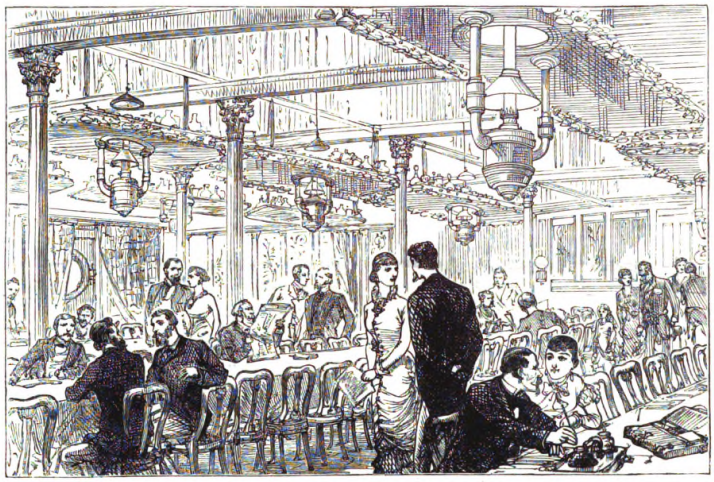
NOVELTIES IN JEWELLERY. New Styles for 1881: Gold, Silver, and Gem Jewellery of all kinds. New "Pig," "Mouse," &c.; Artificial Diamond Jewellery; Norwegian, Italian, and Mauresque Filigree Jewellery; Ladies' Watches, &c. Price-List, 250 Illustrations post-free.—Jewellery Depôt, 27, Cambridge-street, Hyde-park.

DEPARTURE OF A CUNARD STEAMER FROM LIVERPOOL.

PASSENGERS ARRIVING AT THE LANDING-STAGE.

GOING ON BOARD THE TENDER.

passengers have presently to go aboard the tender, by which they are soon conveyed to the noble Cunard steam-ship lying in the middle of the river. They are received at their coming on board the ship by one of her courteous and attentive officers, and are directed to their respective berths, readily obtaining whatever assistance they need. It is, of course, a troublesome little affair, but of great importance to their comfort during the next ten days, to get their portmanteaux, or travelling-bags, and other repertories of needful personal gear so arranged as to be easily accessible for daily or hourly convenience. But when this has been effected to their satisfaction, they can freely enjoy, in the handsome and spacious saloon, as much leisurely quiet, with opportunities for undisturbed family or social converse, as in the public room of a first-rate hotel on shore. We say nothing of the ample provision of meals and lesser refreshments, or of the prompt and agreeable manner in which they are served. In all these respects, as well as in the perfection of the ship's equipment, the skill of her officers and the discipline of her crew (whose preliminary muster, for official inspection, is shown in one Sketch), the Cunard Liner may, at least, compare to advantage with any other mail and passenger steamships in the world. ♪ Our large Engraving represents the scene on board one of these fine vessels in the Mersey at the moment when she begins to part company with the Liverpool steam-tender, and to pass, at first slowly, but with speed very soon increased, down the widening estuary to the open sea. There is always a feeling of solemnity in this moment of departure for an ocean voyage; but the friendly waving of good-by signals goes on till they are out of sight.



THE SALOON.

PASSENGERS COMING ON BOARD.

MUSTER OF THE CREW FOR INSPECTION.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2180.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1881. WITH SUPPLEMENT AND COLOURED PICTURE | SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

MEETING AT STAFFORD HOUSE TO PROTEST AGAINST THE CHANGE IN THE TARTANS OF THE HIGHLAND REGIMENTS.—SEE PAGE 198.

BIRTHS.

On the 19th inst., at Shortlands, Kent, the wife of Mr. Thomas Boucher, of a daughter.

On the 22nd inst., at 55, Manchester-street, W., the Viscountess Lewisham, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 15th inst., at the Church of St. Bartholomew, Winchester, by the Rev. J. Thurburn, Vicar, assisted by the Rev. J. Charles Cox, brother of the bridegroom, Henry Fisher Cox, of Shortlands, Kent, to Jane Thomson, daughter of the late Macgregor Laird.

On the 16th inst., at the parish church, Woodford, Essex, by the Rev. Albert Hughes, the Rector, cousin of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. A. Gray M'Itland, William Oldham Rew, eldest son of Henry Newton Rew, of Anerley Park, Anerley, to Lydia Mariquitchas, eldest daughter of the late Andrew Julien Case, formerly of New York, and eldest stepdaughter of Alfred A. Wheeley, of The Rookery, Woodford.

DEATH.

On the 18th inst., at her residence, Bath, Eliza, widow of the Hon. P. B. de Blaquiere, aged 83.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 5.

Sunday, Feb. 27.

Quinquagesima.
Morning Lessons: Gen. ix. 1—20; Mark iii. 13. Evening Lessons: Gen. xii. or xiii.; Rom. ix. 19.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Cadman; 3.15 p.m., Bishop Piers (Laughton); 7 p.m., Rev. T. M. Macdonald, Rector of Kersall Moor.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.
St. James's, noon, Rev. Francis Garden, the Sub-Dean.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Rev. W. F. Erskine Knollys; 3 p.m., Rev. Francis Garden, the Sub-Dean.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Dr. Stokoe, Head-Master of King's College School; 7 p.m., Hon. and Rev. G. W. Bourke, Rector of Pulborough, Chichester.

Monday, Feb. 28.

New moon, 11.32 a.m.
London Institution, 5 p.m.
British Architects' Institute, 8 p.m. (discussion on the existing Law of Light and Air).
Geographical Society, 8.30 p.m. (Sir R. Temple on the Frontier of Thibet).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Actuaries' Institute, 7 p.m.
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Mr. G. E. Street on Thirteenth - Century Architecture—France).
Merchant Seamens' Orphan Asylum, Snaresbrook, anniversary, City Terminus Hotel, 11 a.m.

Tuesday, March 1.

Shrove Tuesday.
St. David, Archbishop of Menevia.
Christian Knowledge Society, 2 p.m.
British Orphan Asylum, Slough, annual festival (the Duke of Connaught in the chair).
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Medical and Chirurgical Society, anniversary, 8 p.m.
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. (Discussion on Girder Bridges; Sir William Thomson on Tide Gauges, &c.).
Biblical Archæology Society, 8.30 p.m. (Rev Dr. Löwy on Ancient Jewish Writings on Ants; Professor E. Schrader on the Abydenus and the Book of Daniel).
Zoological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. R. N. Cust on the Languages of South Africa).
Royal Albert Hall, 8 p.m., Grand Welsh Festival.
Yacht-Racing Association, Langham Hotel, 5 p.m.

Wednesday, March 2.

Ash Wednesday. Beginning of Lent.
Pope Leo XIII. born, 1810.
Accession of Alexander II., Czar of Russia, 1855.
Cutlers' Hall Lecture.
Obstetrical Society, 8 p.m.
British Archæological Association, 8 p.m.
Entomological Society, 7 p.m.
Pharmaceutical Society, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Sir William Thomson on Lighthouse Characteristics).
Royal Albert Hall Choral Society, 8 p.m. (Handel's "Messiah").

Thursday, March 3.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Rev. W. Houghton on the Picture Origin of Cuneiform Characters).
Archæological Institute, 4 p.m.
Civil and Mechanical Engineers' Society, 7 p.m. (Mr. J. B. Walton on Steep Gradients versus Heavy Works).
Royal Academy, 8 p.m. (Mr. G. E. Street on Thirteenth - Century Architecture—England).
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Professor Ayrton on the Production of Electricity, postponed from Jan. 20).
Linnean Society, 8 p.m. (Papers by Mr. S. G. Shattock, Professor F. J. Bell, C. B. Clarke, and Rev. R. Boog Watson).
Dialectical Society, 8 p.m. (Mrs. Wolstenholme Elmy on the Criminal Code in its Relation to Women).
Chemical Society, 8 p.m.
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Society of Antiquaries, elections, 8.30 p.m.
Bach Choir, first concert, St. James's Hall, 8 p.m.
Pathological Society, 8.30 p.m.

Friday, March 4.

United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Sir William Thomson on his New Navigational Sounding - Machine and Depth-Gauge).
Royal Institution, 5 p.m. (Sir William Thomson on Elasticity as possibly a Mode of Motion, 9 p.m.).
Architectural Association, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. W. White on Cheap Churches).
Philological Society, 8 p.m.
Sacred Harmonic Society, 7.30 p.m. (Costa's "Naaman").
Newsvendors' Benevolent Institution, annual festival, Willis's Rooms.
Library Association, 8 p.m. (Mr. W. Brace on F. A. Ebert's View of a Librarian's Education).
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. M. Maclean on the Results of British Rule in India).
Lincolnshire Agricultural Society Horse Show.
Geologists' Association, 8 p.m.

Saturday, March 5.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. R. S. Poole on Ancient Egypt).
Royal Academy, Exhibition of Old Masters closed.
Ladies' Sanitary Association, 5.30 p.m. (Dr. B. W. Richardson on Blood and its Circulation).

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| DAY. | DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected. | Temperature of the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 p.m. | Minimum, read at 10 p.m. | WIND. General Direction. | Movement in 24 hours, read at 10 a.m. | Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 a.m. next morning. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inches. | ° | ° | p.c. | | ° | ° | | Miles. | In. |
| 13 | 29·953 | 35·8 | 27·8 | 75 | 10 | 40·3 | 27·5 | NNW. S. SE. | 295 | 0·000 |
| 14 | 29·687 | 37·9 | 31·6 | 88 | 10 | 41·0 | 35·9 | SE. NNE. | 329 | 0·336 |
| 15 | 29·767 | 34·9 | 33·4 | 91 | 9 | 44·0 | 34·8 | SE. | 114 | 0·030 |
| 16 | 29·880 | 36·0 | 35·3 | 98 | 7* | 44·0 | 33·0 | SE. | 63 | 0·005* |
| 17 | 29·992 | 36·9 | 36·4 | 98 | 10 | 41·6 | 34·0 | ESE. ENE. | 74 | 0·005* |
| 18 | 30·011 | 42·0 | 39·6 | 92 | 10 | 46·3 | 37·9 | E. SE. | 63 | 0·060 |
| 19 | 30·116 | 36·0 | 34·5 | 95 | 10 | 43·3 | 36·2 | NE. | † | 0·035 |

* Dew. † Instrument not working.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected .. | 30·005 | 29·735 | 29·761 | 29·901 | 29·912 | 30·008 | 30·139 |
| Temperature of Air .. .. | 36·2 | 36·2 | 36·1 | 35·6 | 36·4 | 42·1 | 37·7 |
| Temperature of Evaporation .. | 34·6 | 35·9 | 32·1 | 30·8 | 36·2 | 41·0 | 36·4 |
| Direction of Wind .. .. | NNW. | SE. | SE. | S. | ESE. | ENE. | NE. |

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 5.

| Sunday. | Monday. | Tuesday. | Wednesday. | Thursday. | Friday. | Saturday. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| M. h m 0 45 | A. h m 1 10 | M. h m 1 35 | A. h m 1 58 | M. h m 2 20 | A. h m 2 40 | M. h m 3 | A. h m 3 22 | M. h m 3 40 | A. h m 4 | M. h m 4 20 | A. h m 4 38 | M. h m 5 | A. h m 5 13 |

BRIGHTON. — PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 10.0 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.45 p.m.; also from Victoria on Sundays at 10.45 a.m., and from Brighton on Sundays at 5.30 p.m.
EVERY SUNDAY.—A Cheap First Class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY SATURDAY, Cheap First-Class Trains from Victoria at 10.5 and 11.50 a.m., and London Bridge at 9.30 a.m. and 12.0 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Fare—First Class, Half-a-crown (including admission to the Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion Picture Gallery, Palace, and Grounds), available to return by any Train the same day, except the 7.—a.m. Pullman Car Train.
(By order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

ROYAL ACADEMY of ARTS.—The EXHIBITION of WORKS by the OLD MASTERS and by DECEASED MASTERS of the BRITISH SCHOOL, including a Collection of Drawings by John Flaxman, R.A., is NOW OPEN Daily from Nine till Seven, One Shilling. Catalogues, sixpence; or, bound in cloth, with Pencil, One shilling. Season Tickets, Five shillings. N.B. The Exhibition is lighted at dusk.

OLD BOND-STREET GALLERIES.—Messrs. THOS. AGNEW and SONS'S ANNUAL EXHIBITION of high class WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS by Living and Deceased Masters, now open from Ten till Five daily. Admission, including Catalogues, 1s.—39, Old Bond-street, Piccadilly.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times and "THE ASCENSION." "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM." "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

MR. WALTER BACHE'S PIANOFORTE RECITAL (Tenth season), ST. JAMES'S HALL, TUESDAY, MARCH 1, at Half-past Three o'clock precisely (to conclude at a quarter past Five). Vocalist, Miss Orridge. Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Admission, 1s. Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co., 84, New Bond-street; Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street; A. Hays, 4, Royal Exchange Buildings, and 28, Old Bond-street; Austin's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall, 28, Piccadilly.

THE BACH CHOIR.—Patron, her Majesty the Queen. Musical Director and Conductor, Mr. Otto Goldschmidt. FIRST SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT, THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 3, at Eight o'Clock, ST. JAMES'S HALL. "Cantata, Ich hatte viel Bekümmernis" (J. Seb. Bach); Anthem (Eight Parts), "In Thee, O Lord," unpublished (W. S. Bennett); Gloria from Mozart's Solemn Mass, in D (a recitative); Requiem for Mignon (schumann); finale from "Loreley" (Mendelssohn), &c. Principal Vocalists—Mdlle. Bredemeier, Miss Hope Glenn, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Santley. Principal violin, Mr. J. T. Carrodus. Subscription for the Three Concerts, £1 11s. 6d., £1 1s., and £0 14s. Single Tickets, Stalls, 12s. 6d.; Balcony, 7s. 6d. Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co., 84, New Bond-street; Mitchell's Royal Library, 33, Old Bond-street; Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and Austin's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT, THE TURQUOISE RING, by G. W. Godfrey, Mus. Bac., and Lionel Benson. A New Musical Sketch, OUR INCOME TAX, by Mr. Corney Grain; and a New Second Piece, ALL AT SEA, by Arthur Law, Music by Corney Grain. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at Eight, Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s.

MASKELEYNE and COOKE.—IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.—Until further notice, the ENTERTAINMENT at the EGYPTIAN HALL will be given as follows:—EVERY AFTERNOON at Three; and on Tuesday Evening, Thursday Evening, and Saturday Evening at Eight, making SIX Morning and Three Evening Performances in each week. This alteration is made to meet the increasing demand for seats at the fashionable Matinées. For further particulars see Daily Papers. W. MORRIS, Manager.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP, at 7.0.—Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss. THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 9.30.—Mr. Irving. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram. THE CUP every Saturday Morning.

POSTAGE FOR FOREIGN PARTS THIS WEEK,

FEBRUARY 26, 1881.

The publication of the Thin Paper Edition of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS being for the present week suspended, subscribers will please to notice that copies of this Number forwarded abroad must be prepaid according to the following rates:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Africa, West Coast of | 2d | Gibraltar | 2d |
| Alexandria | 2d | Greece | 2d |
| Australia | 2d | Holland | 2d |
| Austria | 3d | India | 2d |
| Belgium | 2d | Italy | 2d |
| Brazil | 2d | Jamaica | 2d |
| Canada | 2d | Mauritius | 2d |
| Cape of Good Hope | 2d | New Zealand | 2d |
| China, viâ Brindisi | 2d | Norway | 2d |
| ,, viâ United States | 2d | Russia | 2d |
| Constantinople | 2d | Spain | 2d |
| Denmark | 2d | Sweden | 2d |
| France | 2d | Switzerland | 2d |
| Germany | 2d | United States | 2d |

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1881.

It is not without deep pain, nor altogether without a sense of relief verging close upon pleasure, that Englishmen will have witnessed the Parliamentary proceedings of the week just ended. Legislative coercion, in any shape, or applicable to any part of the Queen's Dominions, is an object which, in itself however necessary, is extremely disagreeable. We may be glad when the task has been performed, more especially so when there is almost immediately before us an end to be realised upon which our hearts have been set—a measure of enfranchisement, of conciliation, and, we cannot but hope, of life, activity, and prosperity to those of our compatriots destined to receive it at our hands. Nevertheless, we cannot but regret that the attitude of the Irish people has constrained Parliament to preface with a gruff reproof the kind and genial things which it longs to say to them. The fact is the more lamentable, inasmuch as it has only been by a wide deviation from its ordinary and traditional methods that the less genial part of its business has been transacted by the House of Commons. The feelings of the by-standers may have partaken in an appreciable degree of what we call the sentimental. They may even be condemned by the judgment of pure reason as comparatively frivolous. But be this as it may, the means by which the dispatch of "urgent" business has been effected are so novel, so seemingly arbitrary, so contrary to those with which we have been familiar in modern times, that we cannot but mourn over the cruel necessity that has imposed upon the Legislature so sad a duty. That necessity, however, has not been of its own making, nor its own seeking. It is the creation of a section of the Home-Rule Party which, not content with offering such opposition to the measures reluctantly brought in by the Liberal Government, in the usual way, strove to make all business in the House of Commons impossible, and to bring the dearest Institution of the British people into popular contempt. They have been worsted in their enterprise, but not without inflicting ghastly wounds upon their opponent. We have to thank them for having been compelled to have recourse to weapons of political warfare which we would fain have left untried and untouched; and if they have suffered in the struggle a considerable abridgment of their legislatorial privileges and powers, they suffer in common with the majority of the House, and they have themselves only to thank for it.

We are full of hope, however, that the mischief they have done to the framework of Parliamentary regulations is rather ephemeral than lasting. No doubt, the rules of Debate in the House of Commons have been and still are capable of great improvement. They were invented in times when the arbitrary temper of the Crown unscrupulously encroached upon the political liberties of the people. They were meant as an effective defence against the First Estate of the Realm. They favoured obstruction, or, perhaps we may more correctly say, they traced out the possibilities of obstruction, with a view to defeat, or at any rate to resist, the strategy of the Court of those days. They were not meant for the exigencies which now exist. Many of them are, to all intents and purposes, obsolete, and in the ordinary business of legislation from year to year some of them are even mischievous. But the revision of the rules of Debate which have obtained until now should be reserved for quieter times—that is to say, if such rules are to prevail in regard to the common business assigned to Parliament. We shall not always have to deal, it may be hoped, with an essentially and avowedly obstructive party. Exceptional excitement will, no doubt, be followed by exceptional calm. The doctrine of "urgency" bids fair, we think, to die out with the occasion which gave it birth. But, quite irrespective of that doctrine, the waste of public time resulting from our modo of securing the rights of minorities is (as anyone intimately conversant with Parliamentary practice knows) simply enormous. Coupled with an enlarged and yearly enlarging scope of public business, the machine, unless thoroughly overhauled, will, at no very distant time, come to a standstill, owing exclusively to its own cumbrousness. The rough and ready rules which have been recently forged with a view to frustrate organised obstruction must hereafter undergo searching revision, together with the whole system with which they are associated, and will, we are confident, give to no future Governments the unrestricted authority which, for very obvious reasons, have been given to this.

The Debates in the House of Lords, chiefly concerning Eastern Affairs, although far from copious, will doubtless prove useful. There, although the debating power of the Government may be fully equal to the defensive efforts imposed upon it, its adherents are largely outnumbered in votes. But public information and that accuracy of judgment which is based upon it are much indebted to the discussions which take place in the Upper House. We are getting to be more intimately acquainted with the springs of diplomatic action, both in regard to South Eastern Europe and to our Indian policy on the North-West Frontiers, than it is probable we should have done under present circumstances, through the medium of the Representative House. Several problems which will have to be solved within the present year are being made clearer by the discussions of the Peers. The general bearing of this or the other policy can by that means be more readily ascertained. At present, it may be said, affairs both here and all the world over are in a state of flux as to details. The public knows as yet but little of them. They are subject, of course, to all kinds of variation. But, on the whole, and in spite of the unlooked-for circumstances which successively crop up and awaken alarm, we cannot fail to observe with pleasure the progress—slow and intermittent though it be—of rightful aims in the general government of the Empire. We shall have to pay dearly for our mistakes, and especially for those of them which have been occasioned by indefensible ambition. But, if present Financial prospects hold good, we shall discharge our liabilities sooner than we had anticipated. A too roseate view of the future it would be foolish to take, and might easily prove illusory in the end. But things are working on towards amelioration; and every obstacle overcome—and many have been overcome—places us nearer to the enviable condition of having dull annals because we have no striking history.

At a meeting of the Faculty of Advocates, held yesterday week in the Parliament House, Edinburgh, Mr. A. S. Kinnear was unanimously elected Dean of Faculty, in the room of Lord Fraser, who held the office before his elevation to the Bench.

The state of Ireland being at this moment a topic of most anxious political discussion and inquiry, it is worth while to direct attention, though not for the first time, to the admirable compendium of Irish statistics, now in the thirty-eighth year of its annual publication, by Messrs. Alexander Thom and Co., of Dublin. We only wish that England, Scotland, and Wales were provided with any work so complete and precise in this kind of information as "Thom's Official Directory" is with reference to the sister island: besides which, it contains all the merely official and formal notices, lists, and catalogues, belonging to the United Kingdom in general, which are to be found in the best London almanacks; with a Peerage, Baronetage, and Knightage, Civil Service List, Clergy List, Army and Navy List, Law List, Parliamentary, Diplomatic, University, and other important branches of contemporary nomenclature. The County Directory of Ireland, with its minute local statistics of landed property, houses, and population, should be a store of knowledge especially valuable at this time for the investigation of those difficult questions now before the Legislature. The quantities and different kinds of agricultural produce and of live stock, the number and size of farms, the rental and valuation, are set forth in comparative tables extending over a series of past years. Fisheries, inland navigation, railways, banking deposits—in short, all the concerns that may serve to indicate the condition of material prosperity in every part of Ireland, are described with equal precision. It is a volume full of instruction, as well as a perfect Directory for Dublin and the whole country.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

I do not know whether the new edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica has yet reached the letter T. Owing to circumstances over which I have no control, I only possess the first volume of that colossal monument of contemporary erudition; and am thus in worse case than he who read in Hudibras the "Story of the Bear and the Fiddle," which is "Begun, but broke off in the middle." But when the Encyclopædia Britannica does come to T—if it have not already come there—I hope to find in it a tolerably exhaustive article on the subject of the Tartans of the Highland clans.

I have been terribly exercised about plaids and philibegs, sporrans and "skene-dhus," all the week. All my books of reference played me false in my quest for information touching the history and mystery of the Garb of old Gaul. Even the seldom-failing Chambers's Book of Days has no reference in its voluminous index either to "tartan" or to "plaid." So I was fain to repair to the reading-room of the British Museum, where the intelligence and courtesy of the officials soon indicated to me the whereabout of much Tartan lore. They brought me "The Scottish Gael," and the works of the learned Logan, and, in particular, two huge folios full of lithographic effigies, highly coloured, of the costumes of all the Highland septs. This is a work executed about five-and-thirty years ago by the late Mr. R. R. McIan. I think that we once had a little discussion in this column as to whether he was a Scot or a Welshman.

Mr. McIan was quite Highlander enough for me on the occasion of my visiting the Pantheon of Learning in Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury. I came back murmuring scraps of broken Gaelic; and that night, I fancy, I must have babbled of Glen Tilt. But what business, you may ask, was the antique "breacan" of mine? Why did I pore over the big books in the Museum reading-room until the fog forbade further study? It is true that the Electric Light speedily made the vast expanse lighter than an ordinary London day; but the Electric Light is to me a quivering light and a cold light. It makes my eyeballs throb; and I cannot read by it with comfort.

I wished to gather as much information as I could about the "breacan" or Highland dress, because I was going to a meeting of Highland Chiefs and others, to be held in the evening in the historic hall of Stafford House, under the auspices of the Duke of Sutherland, to protest against the threatened interference by the authorities of the War Office with the pattern of the tartans worn by our gallant Highland regiments—tartans which have been untampered with for more than a hundred years. Authority, bent on meddling and muddling, wishes to merge all the existing regimental tartans in one fantastic and unhistoric plaid, called the "Hunting Stuart," which, I am informed, was devised some twenty years ago by an amiable enthusiast known as the Comte d'Albanie, who fancied himself to be a lineal descendant of the unhappy Prince Charles Edward Stuart, the Young Pretender.

But the Scottish Chiefs very strongly object to the tartans of the kilted regiments being interfered with. In the hall of Stafford House I was aware of the Scottish Lion; and he wagged his tail and roared terribly. The Fiery Cross was borne round the hall, and I shook in my shoes. What business had I, a Saxon "pock-pudding," to be there? Dim reminiscences of "Rob Roy" arose; and I expected every moment to see Helen Macgregor make her appearance on the first-floor landing, and give orders (formidable female!) that every Sassenach present should be forthwith chopped to pieces with Highland claymores, bundled up in plaids, and flung into the ornamental water in St. James's Park. When Lord Archibald Campbell, in the peroration to an animated speech, drew his dirk, and, kissing that lethal weapon, swore to defend the tartan, I feared that the worst was coming, and that Culloden was about to be avenged on the bodies of the few Southrons "on hand." All, however, ended happily. It was unanimously and enthusiastically decided to present to her Majesty a petition against any alteration of the regimental tartans; and the proceedings came to a close by the playing of many pibrochs by the assembled pipers of numerous Princes and Chieftains, all clad, as were the majority of their feudal lords, in full and gorgeous Highland array. A curious spectacle in all its aspects. Would it not be better to refrain from wounding the national susceptibilities of a gallant people who have, in every quarter of the globe, heroically fought our battles, and to let the tartans alone?

I am very glad indeed to find that the Hot Food Supply Association, whose object is to sell to the labouring poor, notably those employed in the docks and in the factories round about eastern London, rations of hot, wholesome, well-cooked victuals, have made a practical beginning of their excellent and beneficent scheme. The Association commenced operations last Monday by sending ten trucks or barrows into the streets, all the barrows being provided with the necessary appliances, and fitted with an ingenious heating apparatus; and if the public come forward to help the enterprise in the outset (it should not be long ere it becomes self-supporting) the Association will be able to put fifty trucks, with a due contingent of "fourgons" or provision vans for the supply of the barrows, on the road.

Cocoa and coffee, bread-and-butter and cake, hot soup, not too highly peppered, and slices of tinned meats, are among the refreshments which, according to the accounts in the papers, the Hot Food Supply Association are selling just now. But I am an enthusiast in this matter (I do not see that there is much use in your being alive after you are fifty years of age if you are not enthusiastic about something or another); and I want the Association to try the experiment of offering to the labouring poor penny and twopenny rations of hot macaroni, prepared with dripping and grated cheese; of "polenta," or Indian corn porridge with dripping, and garnished with bits of meat; of "risotto" or boiled rice, accommodated with dripping and cheese and a little saffron; and especially of "kibobs," or "khubabs," à la Turque or à l'Indienne.

The recipe for cooking the first is simple enough. Get all the scraps and trimmings and "block ornaments" of fresh meat that you can from the butcher's shop. Classify the odds and ends of flesh, and impale them in penny, three-halfpenny, and twopenny bits, according to their size, on spits. Roast them over a clear charcoal fire (the Turks cook by preference in the open air). When your "kibobs" are "done" a golden brown, season them with salt, pepper, and finely-chopped onions. Serve on little wooden skewers, from which you can nibble the "kibobs" as easily as an American lady nibbles the hot-buttered green Indian corn from the cob.

Mem.: When I was at Constantinople during the Conference, just before the outbreak of the Russo-Turkish war, I was in wretched health; and the cuisine at the Hotel at Pera, where I lived, was even wretcheder. When I was hungry (which was seldom), I used to cross the Bridge of Boats over the Golden Horn into Stamboul, and eat "kibobs" off a skewer at one of the little cook-shops round about the Bezesteen. Turkish cookery is clean, wholesome, and palatable. After the "kibobs" I would have a pennyworth of sweetstuff (Turkish lollipops are delicious) and a cup of coffee; and the entire repast, including a lump of bread, never cost more than sevenpence-halfpenny. One did not save money, however, by patronising the Stamboul "slap-bang" shops; as the Perote hotel-keepers charge so much a day for board and lodging, whether the guest takes his meals at the table d'hôte or not.

"E. R.," writing from Ryde, observes, "I think you are hard on 'Atlas' in re the term 'bar sinister.' I grant that strictly it is a solecism to apply the term dexter or sinister to a Bar, which, being a diminutive of the fess, runs straight across the field: also that the device borne as a mark of illegitimacy is a Bâton, and not a Bar: nevertheless, 'Bar Sinister' is a term in general use to express a flaw in pedigree, and it is used continually in that sense, alike by those who do and by those who do not understand heraldry." I have no remembrance of being "hard" on "Atlas." I simply asked the question, "What is a Bar Sinister?" and I will tell my correspondent why I asked it. It happened that in the course of a letter to a next-door neighbour of mine I used the expression "Bar Sinister." Straightway did my neighbour, who is learned in heraldry as in most other arts and mysteries, bitterly rebuke me for the slip that I had made. It subsequently turned out that my neighbour had been reprehended for the self-same solecism by a member of the awful College of Arms itself:—A real live Herald, whom I once had the honour to gaze down upon, radiant in his tabard, and to wonder and tremble at in the Chapel of St. George, at Windsor, at the marriage of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught. Are the dicta of St. Benet's-hill, Doctors'-commons, to be gainsaid?

There has been, according to the Times, a terrible disquietude of the popular mind at Schaffhausen, in Switzerland, owing to the announcement that the authorities were about to propose to the Central Government of the canton to sell the famous Schaffhausen onyx, for which a rich collector (Mr. Burnand's "Colonel," I will be bound; or else some silver-mine plutocrat from Nevada, with a thousand dollars a minute) has offered a large sum. An energetic protest will, it is understood, be made against the proposal to dispose of so interesting a memento of Swiss history for the enrichment of a foreign museum.

Sell the Schaffhausen Onyx! As well one might propose to sell the Koh-i-noor or the Great Hoggarty Diamond! The precious agate in question, which is of Greek or Roman origin, is part of the spoil of that renowned battle of Grandson, in which, on the 3rd of March, 1476, the Helvetic troops so thoroughly beat Charles the Bold and all his Burgundians. Who has not read the story of the Swiss soldiers falling on their knees in prayer, as was the custom of their nation at the beginning of a battle, and receiving on their lances the charge of the Burgundian horse, who mistook their attitude of genuflection for one of submission? Sadly "sold" was Charles the Bold. He was compelled to fly for his life across the mountains, with only five followers, leaving his camp in the hands of the victorious Swiss. The "loot" included, besides over a hundred pieces of cannon, regalia, jewels, gold and silver, and rich hangings. "On that day gold and diamonds were dealt out to the Swiss by handfuls." I would I had been there.

In the House of Peers on Tuesday the Earl of Dunraven moved a resolution in favour of opening national museums and picture-galleries on Sundays. Earl Granville, the Earl of Rosebery, the Duke of Somerset, and Lord Thurlow spoke ably and eloquently in support of the motion. The Duke of Argyll, the Earl of Shaftesbury, and the Archbishop of Canterbury as ably and eloquently opposed it. As a matter of course, the resolution was rejected; although the smallness of the majority is somewhat surprising. It was only forty-one to thirty-four votes. To be sure, the House was a very thin one.

The entire question of Sunday opening and Sunday closing is as full of thorns and brambles as that celebrated hedge in the nursery rhyme into which (the hedge, not the rhyme) the gentleman who deemed himself "so wondrous wise" jumped, to the scratching out of both his eyes. Be assured that I do not intend to handle, here, the thorny Sunday question. I and my brethren in journalism have to beat out the question on a sterner threshing floor, where the hardest of knocks are given and taken.

Still, I may just note one minor point in the venerable Lord Shaftesbury's argument against the motion. "The Art-Galleries and Museums," remarked his Lordship, "had been accessible to the people of Paris for years; yet the people to whom those ennobling and enlightening influences were open were the very people who burnt the Hôtel de Ville and the Tuileries. So much did art and science by the opening of galleries and museums do for the cultivation of the minds of the people of Paris."

Thus the good Lord Shaftesbury. Per contrâ, observed the bold Lord Rosebery: "The burning of the Tuileries and the Hôtel de Ville had been referred to; but he had never heard that those who committed the crimes of the Commune were identified as habitual attendants at museums and galleries."

Mem.: I wonder whether either the Noble Lord who was for and the Noble Lord who was against the motion remembered a little poem, written by Victor Hugo shortly after the burning of the Art Library of the Louvre on that dreadful day in May, 1871. The bard, whose entry on his eightieth year all France, and, I may say, the whole lettered world, is about to celebrate, indignantly apostrophises an imaginary workman, whom he assumes to have been a participant in the crime of burning down the Louvre Library: "Wretch, dolt, monster, ogre, caitiff, Goth, Ostrogoth, Visigoth, Hun, Vandal, Philistine!" shrieks, in effect, the exasperated lyrist, "what have you done? what outrage have you not committed on civilisation?" To which the suppositious "proletarian" replies in just four words:—"Je ne sais pas lire." I can't read. Surely, the response is as pregnant with matter for cogitation as the cry of Sterne's starling, "I can't get out." It is ignorance that burns down libraries and museums.

But good luck, in any case, to the Duke of Somerset, who incidentally mentioned that "with regard to the library of the British Museum, that could not be conveniently opened on Sunday, as the proper attendants of the reading-room would have to be present, or the whole place would be in confusion. Moreover, the library was not a place for recreation so much as a place for study." That concluding sentence of his Grace of Somerset ought to be printed in letters of gold, and framed and glazed, and hung up in the vestibule of the Reading-Room.

When the late Sir Henry Ellis, the then Chief Librarian, gave me, more than thirty years ago, a ticket of admission to the Old Reading-Room, it seemed a place frequented by very severe students, indeed. The number of readers was comparatively few; and they were chiefly elderly, and given to whiteness or to baldness of poll. Stay; there was one wonderful old lady in a turban; and another in a black silk capuchon, beneath which only a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles were visible. There was a peculiarly musty, palæontological odour about the Old Reading-Room; and legends were current as to there being an insect peculiar to the place—the pediculus literarius, a cross between a bookworm and a scorpion. In this venerable company I felt so young that, at first, I felt ashamed to order any but old books—Dugdale's "Monasticon," Baker's "Chronicles," Selden's "Titles of Honour," Hooker's "Ecclesiastical Polity," Harrington's "Oceana"—good, sound, dry-asdust reading of that kind.

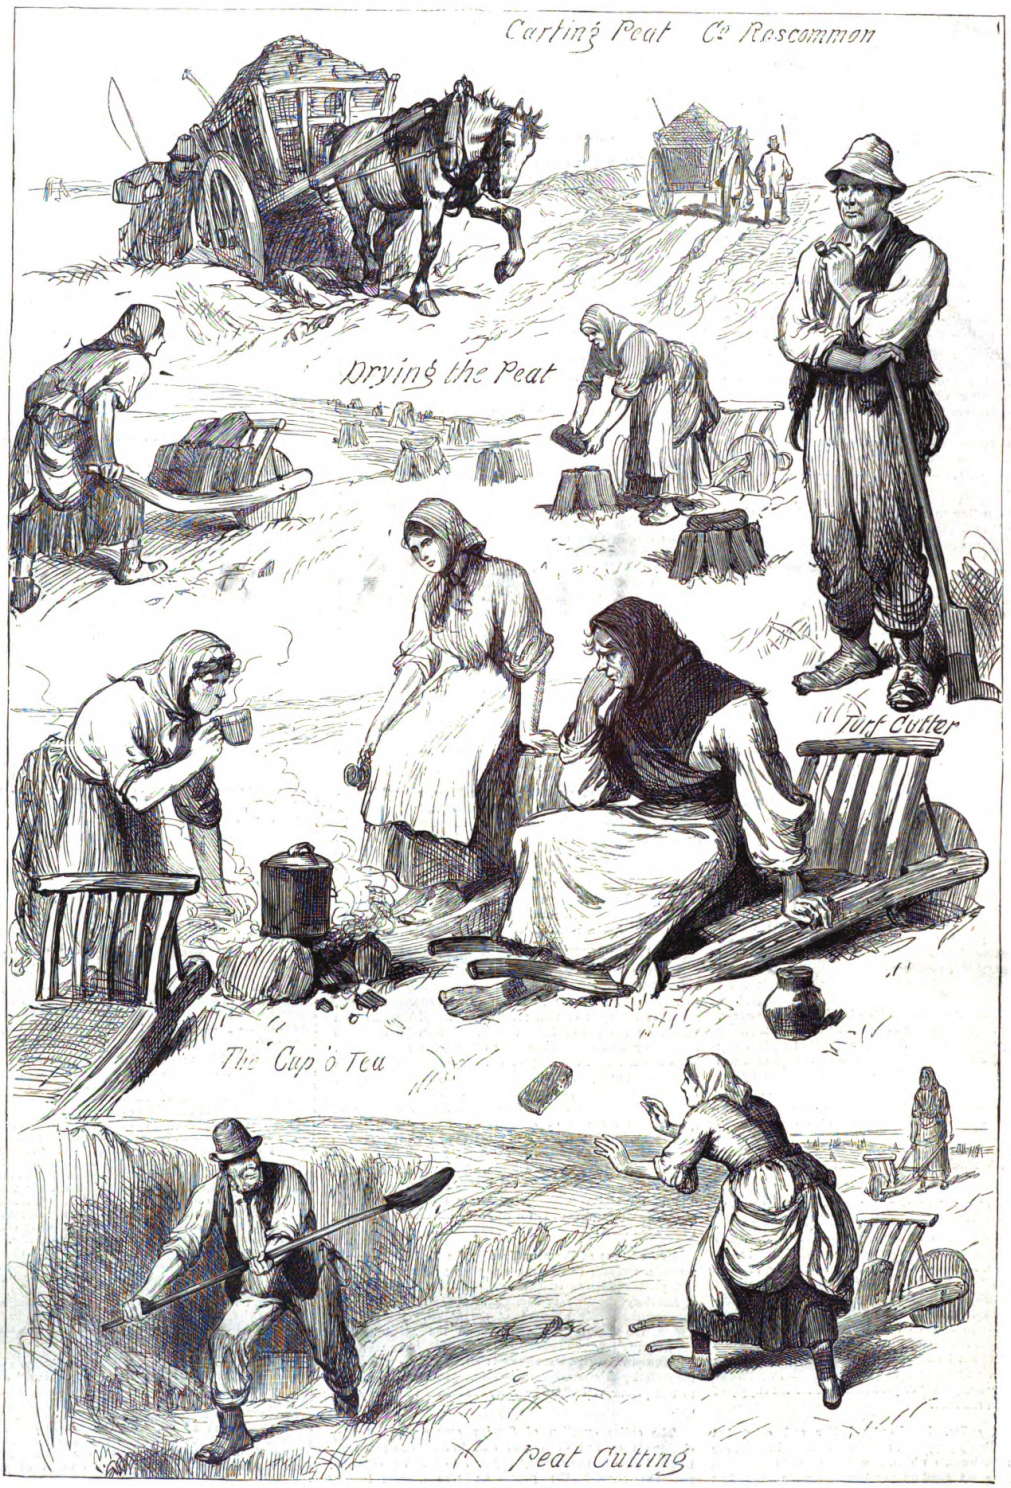
But when I went (as noted in another paragraph) to Great Russell-street a few days since I found the Reading-Room presenting quite a gay and festive appearance. The immense rotunda was so crowded with readers that it was with the greatest difficulty that a good-natured official could point out a vacant seat for me; and I found among my nearest neighbours young gentlemen—ay, and young ladies—dressed in the height of fashion. Surely, this must be a very studious age!

Yes; it must be exceedingly studious, seeing that at the recent presentation of commissions by the Duke of Cambridge to the outgoing gentlemen cadets of the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, prizes were given for proficiency in fortification and military drawings; in classics and riding; in mathematics and mechanics; in chemistry and physics; in drill exercises and gymnastics; in landscape drawing and military topography; in Italian, French, and German. And please remember that the average age of the cadets examined was nineteen years and six months. Otherwise his Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief did not seem to think that the general body of the cadets had been during the last term quite so industrious or quite so well behaved as they might have been: and he administered to these young gentlemen what is technically known as "a good wigging." There are good years and bad years in most public schools; but the good ones largely preponderate.

There should be a strong muster of Transatlantic, as well as of English, collectors at the approaching sale of the artistic and literary belongings of the late Tom Taylor, in the Great Rooms at Christie's. As bibliomaniacs and "fanciers" of chalcography the Americans are rapidly beating us out of the field. The engravings, drawings, and pictures belonging to the eminent scholar, dramatist, and critic deceased, are to be sold on Tuesday, March the Eighth; and the library (I should say a very rare and valuable one) will be brought to the hammer on Friday, March the Eleventh, and the day following. Multitudes of people who did not know Tom Taylor personally will be naturally anxious to know what manner of man he was in his scholarly and æsthetic nature; and in the majority of instances that which a man of taste collects is a tolerably sure index to what he is intellectually like. I mean, of course, systematic collection, extending over a long course of years. Sir Gorgius Midas goes down to Messrs. Vellum and Wholecalf and purchases a library en bloc: "Plenty of County Histories and Henecyclopædias, and sech like, with gilt hedges and hall that. D'ye 'ear? Hay?" But, while we revere Sir Gorgius for the sake of his millions, do we recognise him as a Collector? Scarcely, I think. Taste and culture cannot be purchased for cash, net.

Of what was Herr Teufelsdröckh's library composed? We have a glimpse of it in the "Characteristics" chapter of the "Sartor." "Of his boundless Learning and how all reading and literature in most known tongues from Sanconiathon to Doctor Lingard, from your Oriental Shasters and Talmuds and Korans, with Cassini's Siamese Fables and Laplace's Mécanique Céleste down to Robinson Crusoe and the Belfast Town and Country Almanack, are familiar to him, we shall say nothing." In that quiet touch of the Irish almanack is there not something subtly suggestive of the literary characteristics of Carlyle? "Which is the best fish sauce?" asked the gastronomic neophyte. "All sauces are good for fish," replied the gastronome, who was also a philosopher. Had Mr. Carlyle deigned to answer a question as to which were the books he chiefly read, he might have replied, "All books."

G. A. S.

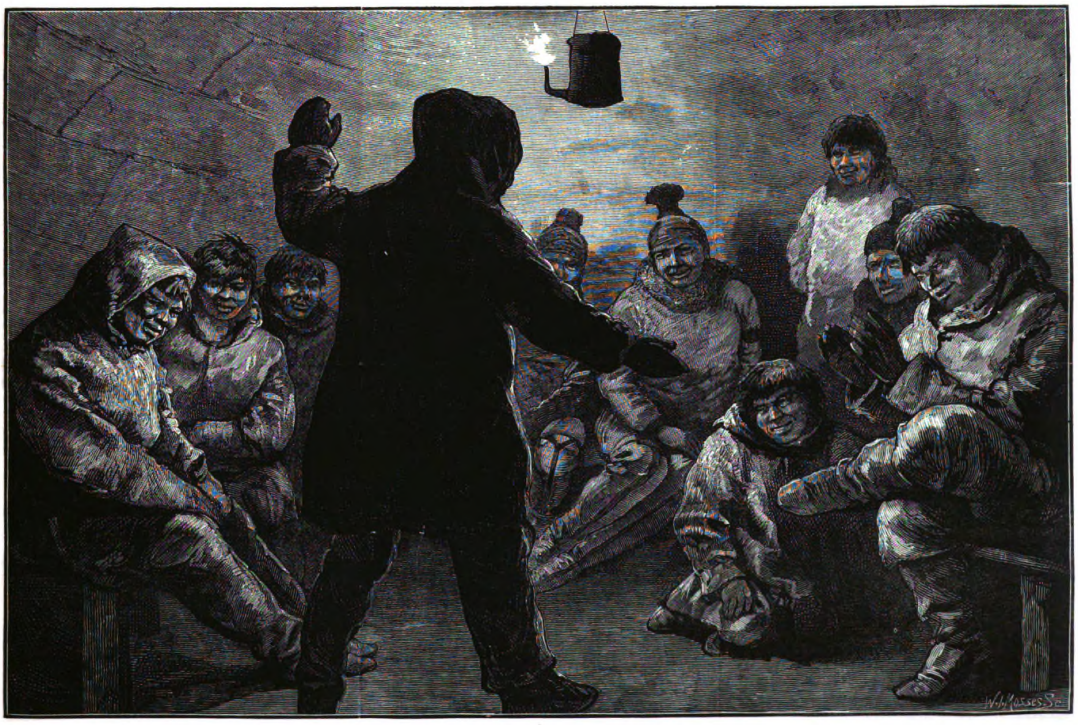


SKETCHES AMONG THE IRISH PEASANTRY: WINTER FUEL.—SEE PAGE 198.

THE AMERICAN FRANKLIN SEARCH EXPEDITION.

FROM SKETCHES BY MR. H. W. KLUTSCHAK.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

AN ARCTIC NIGHT'S LODGING.



KALANDI PLAY AMONG THE NETCHILLIK ESQUIMAUX.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Le cotillon—200 figures nouvelles! Demandez le Manuel du parfait Cotillonneur! The cotillon is the great topic of the day for the moment in Parisian high life. In spite of the changes of the Government, the cotillon leads society, and there will, I suppose, always be found leaders of society to lead the cotillon. But imagine the study which the science of the cotillon requires! Imagine the pitiless severity of the examining body, composed of matrons and maidens, light-footed and sharp-tongued! Yet even 200 new figures cannot daunt the gay young mondains or petits parfaits, as we now call the slaves of fashion who have been successively known as muscadins, incroyables, dandys, lions, gandins, cocodès, petits crevés, gommeux, poissons, &c. Paris is full of sounds of revelry and festivity. Cab-loads of conscripts with gaudily-painted numbers stuck in their caps, and their button-holes streaming with tricolor ribbons, parade the streets, singing, shouting, and laughing with a gaiety that owes more to paquette than to patriotism. The dress-makers and costumiers are busy as bees for the masked ball of Madame la Marquise X., the raout of the Duchesse de Z.: the bal villageois of Madame Adam, &c. The Parisian ladies have a perfect rage for disguise and travesty, a fact which has caused someone to predict that the bal de l'Opéra will never cease to exist for the simple reason that the blondes will always wish to see, were it only for one night, how they look with dark hair, and the brunettes will have the same desire to see if their eyes shine more brilliantly when set off by a perruque blonde. And the Victor Hugo fête? It will take place next Sunday; the committee of organisation daily receives encouragement from all sides, and the manifestation promises to prove a complete success.

People do not dance the cotillon with empty stomachs, and bals masqués are not incompatible with dinners and breakfast parties. M. Gambetta's breakfast parties, by-the-way, seem likely to become historical. It may seem heresy to say that the Parisians do not know how to dine. I should not myself dare to brave public opinion on that point, although having had some experience. Luckily, I find in the proof-sheets of "La Maison d'un Artiste," a new book by that delicate littérateur, indefatigable collector, and fin gourmet, Edmond de Goncourt, the following passage, which I recommend to the attention of Gallomaniacs:—"The Parisians dine on the architecture of set dishes, on damasked linen, sparkling glasses, on the flowers that decorate the table, on the white cravats of the servants: but on butter at thirty sous a pound, and on ordinary wine from the shop next door. . . . There are none but provincials or men of provincial origin who are capable of having what is called a gueule . . ., and of loving really delicate cooking, la cuisine que font seulement les femmes." M. de Goncourt's book will be published next week; and as it contains a description of the author's bibelots and art-collections, and a good deal of the autobiography of the collector himself, it will certainly be read with interest by all who, in spite of Punch and Mr. Barnard, take pleasure in matters concerning bibelots and objects of "bigotry and virtue."

Since Thursday the Senate has been occupied with the new Customs Tariff Bill. Within the limited space of this letter I cannot attempt even to analyse all the important votes that have been taken. As regards the tendency of those votes, I may say such a frenzy of protectionism has not been seen in a French Assembly since the Restoration. M. Pouyer-Quertier is leading the campaign against free trade, and up to the present he has been victorious. On Saturday the Senate quintupled the duties on horned cattle fixed by the Chamber, and doubled the duties on sheep. This decision is of the highest importance both to the town and country population. The matter, however, is not settled yet, and it is hardly likely that the Chamber, after having manifested comparatively Liberal sentiments, will agree to restore the legislation of 1822 at the bid of the Protectionist coalition in the Senate.

On the second reading, the Chamber of Deputies adopted the new Press Bill unanimously, less four votes. M. Bardoux's proposition relative to the re-establishment of the scrutin de liste was taken into consideration without discussion. Monday was a grand field-day for the Deputies. The mischief was caused by the despatches of Mr. Corbett to Lord Granville recently published in the Bluebook, and in one of which it was stated that the French Minister of War had promised to furnish the Greek Government with 30,000 rifles. An interpellation on this subject was put to the Government. M. Jules Ferry replied, and explained that the Greek Government had frequently entered into negotiations for the purchase of waste war material from France; but that the Government had thought it prudent to refuse. The main interest of the interpellation was, however, centred upon M. Gambetta's disclaimer against having influenced by his opinion any Cabinet, any Minister, or any public agent or functionary. The President of the Chamber protested against the electioneering manœuvres which tried to represent him as a central figure around whom were to be grouped the partisans of a policy of adventure, and against the seeking in his speeches for indications of a given line of policy. M. Gambetta's frank and lucid statement was loudly applauded, and the Chamber passed to the order of the day.

It is now little more than a fortnight since M. Proust interpellated the Ministry on its foreign policy. Of late, indeed, it seems to have become necessary to close every debate in the French Chamber by an interpellation which gives the Government an opportunity of varying ad infinitum the formulæ of pacific declarations. It does, indeed, seem strange that France cannot be allowed to work out her mission of peace and industry without being periodically interrupted by the gossip of the adepts in diplomacy—l'art d'embrouiller les cartes—and the cock-and-bull stories of the press. One sometimes feels inclined to share the opinion of Balzac, who, in his famous monograph on the Parisian press, said:—"Axiome: Si la presse n'existait pas, il ne faudrait pas l'inventer."

T. C.

SKETCHES OF THE IRISH PEASANTRY.

A quarter of a million Irish families, which will be a million Irish people, dwell in cabins with one room, not so comfortably as the South African Kaffirs, and not nearly so well fed, in a much less agreeable climate. This may or may not be their own fault, and we are not prepared to say that any Government or Parliament in England or Ireland could provide an effectual remedy; but it is a social condition which must be lamented in the case of so large a part of our fellow-subjects in the sister island. The Sketches of our own Artists, in the counties of Roscommon, Mayo, and Galway, published in this Journal during the past year and a half, supply many incidental illustrations of the uncouth and squalid aspect of rustic poverty in those western parts of Ireland. Those which fill a page of our publication this week are particularly occupied with one branch of rural and domestic life, among that class of the country people, which is apt to seem very peculiar when the English stranger comes into their neighbourhood. The absence of coal and the scarcity of wood might inflict yet more severe privation upon their wretched households, but for the abundance of bog-peat, which is frequently used by the peasantry as fuel, and which is also, to some extent, made an article of profitable trade. Our illustrations show different groups of men and women employed in cutting peat-turf, setting out the pieces to dry, in little stacks arranged so as to let the air pass through, and conveying them home in wheel-barrows or carts, to be stored up for winter consumption. It is some little compensation for the unproductive quality of the soil, in many extensive tracts of land, more especially in Connaught, that there is a great natural supply of this commodity, which serves to alleviate the misery of the poor in the winter season.

THE TARTAN.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held last week in the great hall of Stafford House, to protest against the changes in the tartans of our Highland regiments, contemplated by the War Office. The particular moment we have chosen for illustration is that in which Lord Archibald Campbell, with earnest action and voice quivering with emotion, swore upon his drawn dirk to preserve the tartan. As the weapon was passed round to be kissed by the Mac Intosh, who occupied the chair, the Duke of Sutherland, the Duke of Athole, Lord Elcho, Donald Currie, and others, the audience, who had watched the action of Lord Archibald silently, and with keen, wistful look, burst into an irrepressible shout of heartiest approbation.

Nor was this the only instance in which the perferridum ingenium Scotorum was specially called into play. Early in the evening a grand pibroch performance by eight lusty pipers, "all plaided and plumed in their tartan array," with the armorial bearings of their respective lords richly blazoned on their pipe-bannerets, warmed the hearts of the Scots; and when the fiery cross was brought into the hall just as the descriptive music of the pibroch was at its wildest, and passed swiftly from hand to hand, those hearts glowed and burned again like the blazing war-sign before them. For the fuller significance of this let the reader re-peruse "the Gathering" in Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake."

The pipers were those of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Sutherland, Lords Airlie, Middleton, Willoughby De Eresby, Archibald Campbell, and the Mac Intosh, the piper of his Grace of Sutherland acting very spiritedly the part of pipe-major.

And what was all this piping and cheering, and fiery-cross-carrying and dirk-swearing about? What did all those great lords and gallant gentlemen mean by gathering themselves together in this wise and nursing the war-flame? Were the Boers, or the Afghans, or the Russians literally at our door as well as metaphorically with threatening knocking? Or was a dismemberment of the Empire by our fellow-citizens in Erin's isle imminent? By no means. The subject which called forth such enthusiasm in the carrying of the resolutions moved, seconded, and spoken to by the Duke of Sutherland, Lord Elcho, the Duke of Athole, Donald Currie, M.P., S. Macliver, M.P., Captain George Cockburn, and Lord Archibald Campbell, was all about the tartan of our Highland regiments, which Mr. Childers proposes to change. The following petition, which was very numerously signed, will partly help our readers to an understanding of the position:—

"Nemo me impune lacessit."

"To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty.

"May it please your Majesty,—We, the undersigned, believing that we represent the national feeling of Scotland, humbly petition that the tartan dress hitherto worn by the various Highland regiments as distinctive of the districts in which they were raised, and in which dress they have fought with honour and glory in every part of the globe, be not changed, believing that such distinctive tartans add to the esprit de corps, and that such changes as are contemplated are contrary to the instincts of the true Highlander."

As this question, although a very burning one to every Highland heart, has not been very warmly taken up by the daily press, and is consequently but dimly understood by the general public, we purpose saying a few words in further elucidation of the subject.

Tartan is a crossed pattern of different colours woven both the warp and the weft way of the material. The pattern is always in squares, which are changed and interchanged as to colour, with lines more or less broad—sometimes single and sometimes grouped—running through it at right angles. The colours used are blue, green, red, yellow, white, and black, and in some instances these are modified and blended with a taste which is absolutely consummate. Every clan had its specific tartan, and some of the patterns are very ancient. Without entering into the question of that antiquity, it is sufficient for our purpose if we state here that the tartans identified with our Highland regiments, such as the Sutherland (93rd), the Gordon (92nd), and the McKenzie (78th), are at least as old as the regiments themselves, and intimately associated with the names of those who created them. Such regiments are representative of the clans from which they originally sprung, and to a clansman his tartan and his badge were dear to him as life itself. The late Hon. Mrs. Stewart McKenzie, of Seaforth (Sir Walter Scott's Lady of the Lake, by-the-by), would have looked very puzzled when the 78th were encamped, her guests for a week, on the lawn of Brahan Castle, after their return from the relief of Cawnpore, had they marched to Strath Conan in any other than the McKenzie tartan. She would not have known the regiment which her own father had raised in Kintail and the Lews; and so with the other regiments. The tartan embodies a clan name, and represents a district dear to Scottish story and Scottish song; and were it not so the regiments themselves have achieved historic renown, and it is their name and not their number by which they are famed, and that name is the name of their tartan.

This is what Mr. Childers proposes to do: to link together the 71st (McLeod's) and the 73rd (Perthshire); the 72nd (Duke of Albany's) and the 78th (Seaforth McKenzie); the 42nd (Black Watch) and the 79th (Cameronians), and attire all in uniform tartan, probably in what is called the Royal Stuart, and all on the score of saving a few pounds, which it is absolutely impossible can ever in any one year reach even a few hundreds. The officer, when he changes from one regiment to another, which has been done only twice during the last seven years, does not require an entire new uniform. A plaid and kilt or trews are all: the rest of the uniform ought to be the same; and if a council were called together of the commandants of Highland regiments a permanent pattern as to sporran, dirk, and other accoutrements, Lord Archibald Campbell informs me, would soon make it so.

But the Stuart tartan—the least historic, perhaps, of any—like several others, consists of two distinct patterns. Indeed I may say three: the Victoria, which is quite modern, and was invented by the Sobieski Stuarts; the Royal Stuart and the hunting Stuart. The first is mainly white, and could only be kept so at great cost and labour. It would be like bringing the days of pipeclay back again. The second is red, and that and the red coat together would make, according to Lord Elcho, the most palpable mark for a bullet which could be found in the whole chromatic range. The third is green in the "field," but it may be accepted generally that all "hunting" tartans are modern. The tartan worn by James III. of Scotland, in 1471, according to the accounts given in by his treasurer, the Bishop of Glasgow, was blue in colour: and I strongly suspect that whenever a King went hunting in the Highlands he wore the tartan peculiar to the clan among whom he sojourned. I do not believe the Royal Stuart goes so far back as Prince Charlie's time. I have a plaid in my possession which the Prince took from his own shoulders and gave to a lady of my kindred, and it is neither Royal Stuart nor hunting Stuart. The tartan of the Stewarts of Athole was almost as defiant and bellicose in the character of its scarlet as was that of their neighbours, the clan Donachie.

But that manufacturers were not always the creators of tartan, let us listen for a moment to a portion of Lord Archibald's instructive and fervid speech.

"The Highlanders of old did not wander to foreign lands, or borrow from foreign looms: their eyes were accustomed to seek the dyes that lay at the door. They took the blue hyacinth for the purple of their tartan. They took the blaeberry also for the same purpose. They used the alder bark for black, the willow for flesh tints. They sought their lovely crimsons and gorgeous yellows from the moss on the great grey rocks, called crotal, also another variety called crotal dubh, or black crotal. They used the plant called rue, which grows low in the sands, binding the same and preventing it from drifting in our Western isles, in such quantities, for their reds, that at last the plucking of this herb was forbidden, for it loosened the sands and spoiled the crops. General Stewart says he saw tartans 200 years old which still retained much of their original brightness. The cup moss—a crotal moss—was gathered in 1808 to the value of £500 in the Aberdeen district alone. With bullocks' blood and lime Highlanders could also dye tartan. I shall take care, gentlemen, that the Queen and Mr. Childers know we are in earnest in this matter. "And now," continued Lord Archibald, with the most touching impressiveness, unsheathing his dirk, "according to the good old Highland fashion I swear"—kissing the bared blade—"to preserve the tartan on my dirk. I will tell Mr. Childers why I take an interest in the 93rd Sutherland tartan. It is because my mother came from this house." With quivering lip and evidently much moved the emotion communicating itself to the audience, even in many instances to the shedding of tears—his Lordship resumed his seat, the dirk meantime being handed round and kissed by the various speakers, the action calling forth long and repeated cheers.

Such is the story of the regimental tartan: and if Mr. Childers is a wise man he will not hazard the popularity of his Chief down in the north by tampering with that which has not only a Scottish but an Imperial significance, and which is so intimately identified with all the warlike achievements of the island ever since we became an Empire.

On Wednesday at noon a deputation consisting of the Duke of Sutherland, the Mac Intosh, and Mr. Wright, waited on Mr. Childers at the War Office and presented the petition, which had attached to it upwards of 16,000 signatures.

J. F. R.

THE AMERICAN FRANKLIN SEARCH EXPEDITION.

Some Illustrations of the Arctic Region travels of Lieutenant Schwatka and his companions, in the expedition set on foot by the American Geographical Society of New York, to search for traces and relics of the fate of Sir John Franklin and the officers and crews of the Erebus and Terror, on the shores of King William's Land, thirty years after the date of their perishing in that desolate part of the earth, have appeared in our Journal since New Year's Day. It will be remembered that this party left New York in July, 1878, arrived by sea at Cape Daly, on the north coast of Hudson's Bay, and remained there during the winter; in April, 1879, they started on the overland journey, with sledges drawn by dogs and attended by Esquimaux Indians, to the shores of Simpson's Strait, which was crossed by them to King William's Land. The summer and autumn of 1879 were spent by them in local researches and topographical explorations, which also led to the discovery of the graves and mortal remains of Lieutenant Irving and other members of Sir John Franklin's party, the last of whom seems to have died in 1848. A return journey, occupying four winter months, brought the American Franklin Search party back to Cape Daly, in March, 1880, but it was not till August that they could get a vessel to bring them home to New York. One of the party, Mr. Henry W. Klutschak, of Prague, a Bohemian artist, made a series of sketches, and kept a journal, which he has placed at our disposal. It is by the aid of his pencil that we have been enabled to present the views of Arctic scenery, and the Illustrations of encamping, sledge-driving, and reindeer hunting, and of meetings with the Netchillik and other tribes of Esquimaux, as well as those of the simple tombs and monuments erected to mark the burial-places of one or two comrades of the lamented Franklin. We now give two more engravings of this interesting series, one of which represents "an Arctic Night's Lodging," namely, the peculiar sleeping arrangements, which served for two of the party, Mr. Klutschak and Mr. William Gilder, special correspondent of the New York Herald, on the night of Oct. 8, 1878, during a three-days' excursion apart from the rest of the expedition company, near their encampment on the north shore of Hudson's Bay. They found a place somewhat sheltered from the cold wind by a hillock of rising ground, built with loose stones two parallel walls, a couple of feet high, and spread between them a bed of soft moss, upon which they lay down, each man having first got into his sleeping-bag, made of skins and lined with several blankets, and having a close hood to pull over his head; a tarpaulin, secured by heavy stones, formed the roof stretching across from wall to wall. It was tolerably snug, after all, either to sleep or to smoke a pipe in this retreat, while the loaded rifles and the dogs were close at hand, in case of prowling bears or any other enemies, but of these little fear was there entertained. The second of the Illustrations engraved for this week is that of a social party of the Netchillik tribe, in the Simpson's Strait region, diverting themselves with the performance of a "Kalandi;" which is a sort of dramatic recital, a monologue entering into diverse parts successively, and telling a long story of comical and romantic personal adventures, with a degree of humorous fancy that affords much amusement to the simple audience. Dr. Henry Rink's interesting book of Esquimaux legends and traditions, which was noticed by us some time ago, would give the reader some idea of the subject-matter of this entertainment for the natives of the Arctic Region.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

There has occurred a smart passage of arms between an anonymous correspondent, whom the dramatic critic of the Daily News has taken under his sheltering wing, and the Hon. Lewis Wingfield, touching the strict historic accuracy of the costumes designed by that accomplished artist for the revival of "Masks and Faces" at the Haymarket. The leading members of the dramatis personæ are, by-the-way, both as to face, figure, and attire, admirably hit off in some tiny vignettes in this week's Punch. The battle between Mr. Wingfield and the protégé of the excellent and amiable critic of the Daily News would have been far fairer had the gentleman who objects to Peg Woffington's plush negligé and abundant diamonds, to the cut of Triplet's coat, and his wearing his hair au naturel instead of a wig, refrained from assuming the anonymous, or had he abandoned it when he returned to the charge after Mr. Wingfield's reply to his first series of objections. It is ill fighting with a Man in a Mask. To persons who mingle in theatrical circles, and who are behind the scenes of journalism, the name of the gentleman who so ably criticises the theatres in the Daily News is as well known as King Charles's statue at Charing-cross; but the name of Mr. Wingfield's anonymous assailant—or "Beggy," as the assailed one facetiously dubs his antagonist—may be the Man in the Moon, or Mokanna, the Veiled Prophet of Khorasan, or simply Molière's M. Josse, who, we all know, was an ostéreo—that is to say, a rival artist, jealous of what his brother draughtsman has done so well at the Haymarket.

The objections taken to Mr. Wingfield's accuracy do not amount to much. Triplet, forsooth, should have worn a wig. The exquisite who, in the music-room scene in Hogarth's "Marriage à la Mode," is sitting crosslegged, and sipping chocolate (?), wears no wig, but his own hair, in curl-papers. The Industrious Apprentice in the scene at church in "Industry and Idleness" wears his own natural locks. The Rake in the first tableau of "The Rake's Progress" wears his own hair. So do the undergraduates in the engraving of "Alma Mater." The objector asserts that at the period when the action of "Masks and Faces" is supposed to take place even beggars wore wigs. That may have been. "James Dalton, his Wigg Box," figures in one of the scenes in the lamentable history of Kate Hackabout; and Mr. James Dalton was a highwayman; but Eugene Aram, who was a poet and a scholar, as well as a murderer, did not wear a wig any more than Jack Sheppard, the noted housebreaker, had worn one, in the preceding generation. The frequency with which persons in all conditions of life during the first half of the eighteenth century wore their own hair, either curled or uncurled, powdered or unpowdered, is conclusively proved by, perhaps, the best English pun ever made. Is that your own hair (hare) or a wig? asked Swift of the porter, whom he accosted as the latter was carrying a dead hare in the street. If it had not been the frequent practice to wear the natural chevelure in lieu of a peruke the Dean's pun would have lost nine-tenths of its point.

The absence of hoops from the ladies' dresses in "Masks and Faces" is, perhaps, to be regretted; and the cut of Triplet's coat is, perhaps, a little too much like the "habit à la Française," or, in particular, the "frac mouchetê" in Enault's Collection, 1779; yet I am not prepared to state decisively that Mr. Wingfield may not be able to quote pictorial chapeau for Triplet's exiguous doublet. On the whole, I am inclined to believe that the costumes in "Masks and Faces" are, in the main, as correct in the way of chronology as they are certainly beautiful as artistic productions. Here and there may occur a solecism, due, not to the carelessness or the imperfect information of the draughtsman, but to the insuperable exigencies of stage requirements. I have not the slightest doubt, for example, that there are at least a dozen textile fabrics used in "Masks and Faces" which were unheard of a hundred and forty years ago—or forty years ago, for the matter of that. I have not the slightest doubt that the gentlemen actors wore braces—although, of course, I am open to correction in this particular. It is certain that Colley Cibber never wore braces—neither did those much later celebrities—Sir Joshua Reynolds and Dr. Samuel Johnson. Meanwhile, Tom Taylor and Charles Reade's sparkling and wholesome comedy pursues its triumphant career at the Haymarket; and the acting of Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, Mr. Arthur Cecil, Mr. Conway, Mr. Kemble, Mr. Dacre, Mr. Brookfield, Mr. Teesdale, Mr. Smedley, Mrs. Canninge, Miss Wade, and Miss Marion Terry continue to present us with an ensemble of thoroughly artistic excellence which has been rarely equalled since, in the year 1837, at this same Haymarket Theatre, I saw Sheridan Knowles's "Love Chase," with, if I remember aright, Mr. Strickland as Sir William Fondlove, Mr. Elton as Waller, Mr. Benjamin Webster as Wildrake, Mrs. Nisbett as Constance, Miss Vandenhoff as Lydia, and the incomparable Mrs. Glover as the Widow Green.

At Covent Garden Mr. Burnand's capital pantomime of "Valentine and Orson" has run its brilliant race to the concluding goal; and not until next Christmas can we hope to see, on these same boards, that most wondrous of pantomimic bears, Master Lauri. Perforce did surcease come to the successful career of "Valentine and Orson." On Saturday next the theatre being required for the immediate preparation of the Royal Italian Opera. May I venture to indulge in the hope that next December I shall be so fortunate as to gaze on Master Lauri's gambadoes as a baboon; or perhaps he will oblige as a gorilla? He is certainly one of the nimblest and gracefullest pantomimists I have ever seen, and reminds me very forcibly of the late George Wieland. Why does not some enterprising manager revive the "Diable Boiteux," and let Master Lauri play Asmodeus? Mr. George Conquest has played the part, I doubt it not, many a time and oft. The talented Vokes Family have migrated from "the Garden" to the Imperial Theatre, Westminster, for a short series of morning performances prior to their revisiting the United States, where they will have an enthusiastic welcome, and make multitudinous dollars. They commenced their round of après-midis at the Imperial with Buckstone's "Rough Diamond" and "Fun in a Fog," the last a creation "evoked" from the own inner and comic consciousness of the Vokeses themselves.

At Drury Lane the Funny Goose (who should be a gander) still waddles and quacks triumphantly, serenely contemptuous of the fact that the weather has been again detestable, and that all the children have gone home to school. "Under its present management Drury Lane maintains its reputation for producing the best and most successful pantomime of the year." That is what Mr. Augustus Harris says; and criticism must in the main say "Ditto to Mr. Burke"—or rather to Mr. Harris. How could a pantomime fail to be good and successful, when it is supported by such favourite artistes as Miss Kate Santley and little Addie Blanche, by such an irresistibly Funny Goose, and by the delightful little children of the National School of Dancing, so admirably trained by Madame Katti Lanner? After the run of the Pantomime at "the Lane" is to come, not precisely the Deluge, but a temporary reproduction of "the World," which will be followed by Sheridan Knowles's tragedy of "Virginius," introducing the celebrated American tragedian, Mr. John McCullough. And, at the end of May, the entire company of the Ducal Court Theatre of Meiningen are to make their appearance at Old Drury in Shakspeare's "Julius Cæsar," and will, during a six weeks' campaign, play several pieces in their répertoire. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has, it is understood, accorded his gracious patronage to these performances.

No; Shakspeare, just now, is certainly not "spelling bankruptcy." While at the Princess's that consummate tragedian Mr. Edwin Booth continues, in King Lear, to hold rapt audiences with his glittering eye, a steadily progressive success has been achieved at the New Sadler's Wells by "Macbeth"—Mr. Charles Warner playing the Macbeth, Mr. Hermann Vezin Macduff, and vice versâ on alternate nights, and Mrs. Crowe (Miss Kate Bateman) being the Lady Macbeth. I rejoice at the prosperity of the house under the management of Miss Isabel Bateman.

The Prince of Wales's Theatre is crowded every night with "Æsthetes" as well as Philistines, who greet with roars of applause and laughter Mr. Burnand's glorious piece of tomfoolery, "The Colonel." I have not yet had time to speak of the acting in this intensely funny absurdity as it deserves; but intend to do so next week. By-the-way, there is just enough "cultchaw" in New York, in Philadelphia, in San Francisco, and especially in Boston, to make Mr. Burnand's humorous libel on cultivated people appreciated by American Philistines. I hope he will send "The Colonel" to the States. For the rest, the hostility of this clever sayer of droll things seems to have attained the proportions of a guerra a cuchillo. Week after week the columns of Punch are filled with amusingly slangy verses ridiculing and reviling the unhappy Kyrle Society. What have the Kyrle Society done to you, Mr. Burnand? Quelle mouche vous pique? Neither Mr. Maudle nor Mr. Postlethwaite is, I believe, what Mr. Punch politely calls "a Kyrle man."

Miss Genevieve Ward has made a triumphant hit at Boston, U.S.A., in "Forget-me-Not." Says the Boston Evening Transcript, in a long and eulogistic article on Miss Ward's splendid acting:—

> In her relations to the contemporary social world Miss Ward's "Forget-me-Not" is a polished, skilful, truthful, effective, and, better than all, sympathetic personation. The portrayal of complex emotions, when the hardened woman pleads, with breaking voice and streaming tears, for a chance to live a good life, is such as only an actress far above the ordinary could achieve, and has the fine artistic subtlety of leaving the spectator half in doubt (as is necessary to the play) whether the woman's tears are feigned or real. The hard, cold, worn beauty of the face that has been so hateful hitherto, becomes by that art so wonderful exemplified by Bistori, softened and suffused with true womanliness; for the moment one believes in a genuine good impulse, until she herself soon after mocks at it in a subsequent turning of the tables upon her antagonist.
>
> G. A. S.

The merry little handbox of a theatre in Soho, the Royalty, now boasts of a bright new drama, "Peggy," compactly constructed, and peopled with a variety of skilfully contrasted personages by the author, Mr. Joseph Mackay. Peggy, a merry Irish girl, impersonated with unflagging vivacity and much feeling by Miss Kate Lawler, is the young daughter of an officer killed in the Afghan War; but, thrown upon her own resources for a living by the death of her mother, is found at the opening of the play in the guise of an Italian girl, who wanders from Saffron-hill with an organ. Rescued from penury by her grandfather, General Pentycost, and restored to a station befitting her birth, Peggy yet retains her affection for her old companion in misfortune, a scheming young Italian, cleverly embodied by Mr. Frank Cooper. It is in betriending this heartless adventurer that the heroine comes to grief. The brisk action of "Peggy" is capitally sustained by Miss Lawler herself, by Mr. Edward Righton as Dr. Ulysses Molloy, by Mr. Frank Cooper as Beppo. Spartolotti, and by a ragged little urchin who takes as naturally to the stage as a duck does to water, to name a few only of an exceptionally efficient company. For his share in the production of "Peggy," Mr. Mackay was warmly applauded.

MUSIC.

MR. CHARLES HALLE'S CONCERTS.

The second of the series of four orchestral concerts at St. James's Hall took place on Saturday evening, when Herr Goldmark's symphony, "A Rustic Wedding," was given, as at the first concert, having been "repeated by desire."

The important specialities of the concert were Beethoven's Triple Concerto and Mozart's "Haffner" Serenade. The first-named work is written for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, and belongs to the years 1804-5. Although not one of its composer's most important productions, it contains much that is interesting and beautiful in each of its three divisions, particularly in the final "Rondo alla Polacca." It was finely played by Mr. Hallé, Madame Norman-Néruda, and Signor Piatti, by whom it was performed a few years ago at one of the Crystal Palace Concerts.

The Serenade—for orchestra, with an obbligato violin—was composed in celebration of a marriage in the family of Herr Haffner, of Salzburg; hence the title of the piece. It comprises eight movements, in all of which charming melody, clear construction, and genial brightness are conspicuous; as usual in Mozart's music. The prominent violin part was exquisitely played by Madame Néruda. In the pieces already mentioned, and in the Introduction to Wagner's "Lohengrin," and Svendsen's second "Rhapsodie Norvégienne," the performances of Mr. Hallé's famed Manchester orchestra were, as before, excellent. Mr. Hallé conducted, with the exception of the concerto, in which he was replaced in that capacity by Mr. E. Hecht.

The third concert takes place this (Saturday) evening, when Berlioz's sacred work, "L'Enfance du Christ," will be performed, for the first time in London, with a full choir and augmented orchestra.

The weekly performance, in regular order, of Schubert's eight symphonies, was continued at the Crystal Palace last Saturday afternoon, when No. 3 was given, for the first time in this country. The work was produced in the year 1815, when Schubert was little more than eighteen. It is full of that melodious flow and genial charm which generally distinguish his music, together with a beauty of instrumentation and a constructive power that are remarkable in a composition produced at so early an age. It was thoroughly appreciated, and will form a welcome addition to the Schubert répertoire which has been so largely extended through the means of the Crystal Palace. It appears highly probable that the symphony was never publicly performed anywhere until last Saturday. On the same occasion a "Concertstück" for pianoforte (with orchestra), composed by Herr Carl Reinecke, of Leipzig, was introduced for the first time here. It is written with much skill in the command both of brilliant effects for the solo instruments and of orchestral variety in the accompaniments. The pianist was Miss Helen Hopekirk, whose playing was highly artistic in this instance and in her subsequent execution of two unaccompanied solos. Two of Brahms's characteristic Hungarian dances, and Beethoven's eighth symphony (in F) were the other orchestral pieces. Familiar vocal music was very effectively rendered by Miss Damian and Signor Foli, the young lady having made a very successful first appearance at the Crystal Palace.

Herr Joachim made his first appearance this season at the Popular Concert of Monday evening, when the renowned violinist led Beethoven's posthumous string quartet in C sharp minor, and Haydn's in G major (No. 5 of op. 17), besides having played, in association with Mdlle. Marie Krebs, a selection from Brahms's Hungarian Dances, adapted for violin and pianoforte. The enthusiastic welcome which greeted Herr Joachim proved the unabated esteem in which he is held, and his admirable performances testified to his undiminished title thereto. Mdlle. Krebs played Beethoven's solo sonata in E major, op. 109, with great success; and vocal pieces were rendered by Mr. Oswald with those good qualities of voice and style which have recently placed him in a prominent position. At the concert of next Monday evening Madame Schumann is to reappear.

An effective performance of Professor G. A. Macfarren's oratorio, "St. John the Baptist," was given by the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society last week; this having been the fifth concert of the tenth season. Mesdames Lemmens-Sherrington and Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd and Mr. F. King were the solo vocalists. Several numbers were greatly applauded; the fine chorus, "This is My beloved Son," having been encored. Mr. Barnby and Dr. Stainer occupied their accustomed posts, respectively, at the conductor's desk and the organ. A Welsh Festival will be given next Tuesday (St. David's Day), among the vocalists named being nearly all our best artists: "The Messiah" is to be given on March 2; and Mr. Sullivan's "The Martyr of Antioch" on April 7 (instead of March 24), the presence of the Prince of Wales being expected on the latter occasion.

Twelve of the London Ballad Concerts, of the fifteenth season, have now taken place. Last week's programme included an attractive—although not novel—selection of Irish songs and ballads; the solo singers at this concert having been Misses M. Davies, C. Samuell, and Damian, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Santley, and Mr. F. King. Miss Damian appeared in sudden replacement of Madame Antoinette-Sterling (who was absent on account of illness), and sang with much success. This week's concert comprised a selection of favourite German songs.

Mr. Sims Reeves's third Ballad Concert took place at St. James's Hall on Tuesday, the programme having again included effective performances by himself, his son (Mr. Herbert Reeves), Miss Minnie Hauk, and other eminent artists. The fourth concert is to take place on March 8.

We have already drawn attention to some changes in the management and direction of the Philharmonic Society, the sixty-ninth season of which was announced to open on Thursday evening, with Mr. Cusins still as conductor. The programme of the opening concert included Beethoven's fourth symphony (in B flat), Mendelssohn's "Melusine" overture, that by Berlioz entitled "Waverley," and that by Rossini to his "Guillaume Tell"—and a manuscript concerto for the pianoforte, composed and performed by Herr Scharwenka.

We referred last week to the opening of Mr. Kuhe's eleventh annual Brighton Festival, which concluded on Saturday morning with a performance of "Elijah." On the previous Wednesday morning a classical concert was given, at which a new "concertstück" for pianoforte (with orchestra) was successfully produced. The solo portion was skilfully played by Miss Kuhe, for whom the work was specially composed by Mr. W. Macfarren, who conducted its performance. Of its merits we shall doubtless have an early opportunity of speaking in reference to its London hearing. For the Thursday evening, Sir M. Costa's "Eli" was announced; Friday evening's popular concert having been for the benefit of Mr. Kuhe.

The reopening of Her Majesty's Theatre, last Saturday, with performances of the music-hall class, is referred to in another part of the Paper.

Mr. Arthur Sullivan's sacred cantata, "The Prodigal Son," and Rossini's "Stabat Mater," are announced for performance by the Brixton Choral Society (conducted by Mr. W. Lemare) next Monday evening.

The new season of the Royal Italian Opera will begin on Easter Tuesday, April 19. Instead of repeating all the rumours afloat, we prefer awaiting the publication of the usual official prospectus for full details. It may, however, be pretty safely assumed that among the forthcoming specialties will be the production of Herr Anton Rubinstein's latest important work, the opera entitled "The Demon"—probably under his personal direction—with Madame Albani in the principal character; and of Mozart's "Il Seraglio," with Madame Sembrich as Constanza.

Madame Pinart (pianiste) announced a concert for Wednesday evening last, at Steinway Hall.

A new musical sketch, entitled "Our Institute," by Corney Grain; and a new second part, entitled "All at Sea," written by Arthur Law, the music by Corney Grain, will be given next Monday evening at Mr. and Mrs. German Reed's Entertainment, St. George's Hall; the opening piece being "The Turquoise Ring."

Madame Reichner gave a dramatic performance, comprising selections from Sheridan Knowles's "Hunchback" and "Love Chase," in the theatre of the Dilettante Circle, Aberdeen House, on Tuesday evening. Julia and Constance found an able interpreter in Madame Reichner, with Miss Carew as Helen; the parts of Sir Thomas and Wildrake being intrusted to Mr. Isidore Clifford. An effective rendering of Schiller's "Der Jungfrau von Orleans" closed the entertainment.

Her Majesty's Theatre—after a short interval following the disappearance of the Haverley Minstrels—was reopened last Saturday with a series of entertainments avowedly of the music-hall type. Waiving the question of the fitness of locality, it may be sufficient to say that the performances were good of their kind, and seemed to be to the satisfaction of the audience, on the opening occasion. This said, there is no occasion to enter into details as to the individual efforts of the performers, all of whom met with a favourable reception.

The "British Almanac and Companion," for this year is published by the Stationers' Company. It presents, in addition to the ordinary chronological and statistical information, and the official descriptions of Government Departments, the Church, the Universities and Colleges, the Army and Navy, and the Courts of Law, with abstracts of Parliamentary documents, a chronicle of events, and notices of science and art, and many papers of considerable interest. These are essays upon the method of forecasting the weather, upon the Greenwich Royal Observatory, the liquidation of Egyptian finance, the projected ship canal through the Isthmus of Panama and the projected Euphrates Railway, the Food of the Poor, the London Hospitals, the London Parks and Public Gardens, watchmaking by machinery, and the keeping of bees.

"RETURNING FROM MIDNIGHT MASS." BY M. MONTBARD.

A GOVERNMENT INSPECTOR VISITING A FACTORY.

RETURNING FROM MIDNIGHT MASS.

In one of the old towns of Brittany, where the inhabitants still preserve both their peculiarities of costume and manners and their habit of devout attendance on the religious services of the Roman Catholic Church, such a scene might be witnessed, on New-Year's Eve, as the Artist, himself a Frenchman, has delineated in our Engraving. But there are some points in the dress, both of men and women, and in the antiquated street architecture, which almost remind us of the seventeenth century in England; and these good citizens and pious Christian folk could pass very well for a dispersing congregation of Puritans, in the time of Charles I. or Charles II., in some provincial city of the western shires. The suggestion of this outward resemblance must not be supposed to reflect upon the wide difference in their creeds and forms of worship, with which, as they are here already come out of church, we have nothing to do; and the very name of "a Mass" would have been repugnant, of course, to the English disciples of Baxter, Bunyan, or George Fox. But the earnestness and gravity of demeanour with which these French Catholics, each little family or friendly group by itself, step homeward from a peculiarly solemn meeting in celebration of their Divine faith, could not be surpassed in any age or nation of modern Christendom. If there is any element of feeling here which should appeal to human sympathy, irrespective of all ecclesiastical divisions, it may serve to inspire us with the spirit of tolerance and respect for those whose belief may not in all its points correspond entirely with own.

VISIT OF A FACTORY INSPECTOR.

The employment of large numbers of young persons, both girls and boys, in the cotton-spinning and calico-weaving establishments of Lancashire, and in the West Riding of Yorkshire, is a peculiar feature of social life. Regulations have been imposed by law, during the past thirty or forty years, which are stringently enforced by the aid of an efficient staff of Government Inspectors, to provide for the proper continuous school-teaching of these children, with a due limitation of their daily working hours, and for the maintenance of healthy and comfortable arrangements in every factory where they are engaged. They are periodically visited by the Inspectors, and ample facilities are given to the young people themselves, as well as to their parents, most of whom are probably occupied in the same industrial service, for stating any matters of complaint. The employers, in general, are most sincerely anxious to consult the physical and moral welfare of the working class, and especially of the children, for whose regular instruction, long before the passing of Mr. Forster's Education Act ten years ago, many of the Lancashire and Yorkshire mill-owners had voluntarily expended very large sums of money, devoting also much of their time and thought, as a mere private duty, to the personal management and superintendence of schools connected with their factories. It may further be observed, as an undoubted historical fact, that the present system of public provision, by means of local rates, for the needs of popular education, is the result of a spontaneous movement, originated so long since as 1850, by a Lancashire Association, consisting mainly of the cotton manufacturers and their allies in trade and in other public or private undertakings, who were determined not to incur the reproach of neglecting the mental and moral culture of youth, while availing themselves of so many hundreds of thousands of little "hands" to create a vast amount of commercial prosperity. This chapter of English domestic history is one of the most creditable to our nation; and the beneficial effects of such an enlightened sense of social responsibility have already been made apparent in the general condition of the workpeople belonging to the textile industries of those districts. It would, indeed, be hard to find any class of manual labourers in the United Kingdom with a more tolerable uniform standard of good behaviour, intelligence, honesty, and sobriety, with more quiet and peaceable manners, than in the circle of cotton-spinning towns, Stockport, Hyde and Ashton, Oldham, Rochdale and Todmorden, Bury, Burnley, Bolton, Preston, and Blackburn, and several others, surrounding their central staple mart of Manchester. The most serious drawback on this satisfactory state of the population is that the girls, being usually employed from childhood in tending the machines at the factories, at half time, with some hours of daily schooling, have little opportunity of learning household work; and too many of the wives and mothers are likewise tempted, by the earning of good wages, to forsake the proper womanly business of keeping a comfortable home. This is undoubtedly a grave social evil in the factory districts; and we are reminded of it just now by looking at the row of bright little maidens in our Artist's drawing, whose interview with the Government Inspector has been the occasion for our remarks upon a very interesting subject.

THE COURT.

The Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone had an audience of the Queen the day following her return to Windsor Castle; and Princess Christian lunched with her Majesty. The Princess came the next morning (Saturday) and took leave of the Queen on her departure for Berlin. The Earl of Fife was introduced to her Majesty's presence the same day, and delivered up the gold stick of office as Captain of the Hon. Corps of Gentlemen at Arms, which was afterwards given to the Marquis of Huntly, who kissed hands on his appointment to the office. The Earl of Fife remained to dinner with the Queen; Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby being also a guest.

Divine service was performed on Sunday in the private chapel of the castle by the Dean of Llandaff, Master of the Temple; her Majesty and Princess Beatrice being present. The Hon. Lady Biddulph and Miss Biddulph joined the Royal dinner circle. The Queen's granddaughters Princesses Victoria and Louise of Schleswig-Holstein visited her Majesty on Monday, and stayed to luncheon. The Duke of Buckingham and Chandos and Lady Mary Grenville, Viscount and Viscountess Enfield, and Sir Richard Temple, Bart., K.C.S.I., arrived at the castle. The Duke had an audience of the Queen on his return from Madras, and kissed hands on being appointed a Knight Grand Cross of the Star of India. Her Majesty's dinner party included Princess Beatrice, the Dowager Duchess of Roxburghe, the Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, Lady Mary Grenville, Viscount and Viscountess Enfield, Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. Walter Trefusis (Scots Guards), and Lady Mary Trefusis, Sir Richard Temple, Bart., Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby, and Colonel the Hon. H. Byng.

The Prince of Wales visited the Queen on Tuesday, and remained to luncheon. Mr. George Byng was presented to her Majesty by his father, Colonel the Hon. H. Byng, on his appointment as Page of Honour.

Her Majesty, in celebration of the marriage of Prince William of Prussia, her eldest grandson, and Princess Augusta Victoria of Holstein-Augustenburg, which takes place on Sunday at Berlin, will give a grand banquet at Windsor Castle on Monday evening.

The Queen heard with much sorrow of the death of Colonel Charles Bagot, Assistant Master of the Ceremonies in Ordinary to her Majesty, which appointment he had held for upwards of twenty years.

Lady Churchill has succeeded the Duchess Dowager of Roxburghe as Lady in Waiting; and Lord Methuen and Captain Edwards, R.E., have succeeded Lord Sandhurst and Captain Walter Campbell as Lord and Groom in Waiting.

THE QUEEN'S LEVEE.

The Prince of Wales, by command of the Queen, held the first Levée of the season on Monday at St. James's Palace. Presentations to his Royal Highness at this Court are, by the Queen's pleasure, considered as equivalent to presentations to her Majesty. The Prince of Wales, attended by his gentlemen in waiting and escorted by a detachment of Life Guards, arrived at the palace from Marlborough House about two o'clock, and was received by the Great Officers of State and the Royal Household. The Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge, and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar were at the Levée. The usual state ceremony was observed, the Prince entering the Throne-Room, accompanied by the members of the Royal family. Upwards of 260 presentations were made to the Prince of Wales.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Admiral of the Fleet the Hon. Sir Henry Keppell, Rear-Admiral Sir William Hewett, and Commander Lord Charles Beresford, was present at the dinner given by Admiral Sir Charles Shadwell and the officers of the Royal Naval College, Greenwich. Yesterday week his Royal Highness hunted with the Queen's buckhounds. The "meet" was at Shottesbrooke Park, near Maidenhead, there being a large "field." The deer gave a somewhat ringing run, and the chase was ended at Holyport. The Prince and Princess dined with Earl and Countess Spencer on Saturday, the Countess having after a small and early party. Their Royal Highnesses, with their daughters, attended Divine service as usual on Sunday. The "Midgets" again were taken to Marlborough House on Monday, when the Prince and Princess, with all the Royal children of the several families, and a juvenile party of about thirty, inspected them. His Royal Highness went to Windsor on Tuesday to take leave of the Queen, preparatory to his departure for Berlin for the Royal marriage. The Prince and Princess have been to the Criterion and to the Strand Theatres.

Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein left Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Great Park, last Saturday for Germany, in order to attend the nuptials of Prince Frederick William of Prussia to-morrow (Sunday). The Princess is the guest of the Crown Prince and Princess of Germany, at their palace in Berlin, where her Royal Highness will be joined by Prince Christian, who brings the bride, Princess Augusta Victoria, from Prinkenau, in Silesia, the family residence of his nephew, Duke Ernst Gunther, of Holstein-Augustenburg, to the German capital. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh left town for Berlin on Thursday, Lord Torrington, who represents the Queen at the marriage, having left for Germany on Monday.

The Duchess of Edinburgh last week visited King's College Hospital, Lincoln's-inn-fields. Her Royal Highness was received by General Sir Richard Wilbraham, chairman of the committee of management, and was attended in the wards by Dr. William Playfair and other medical officers, and by the Sister of St. John's House in charge of the nursing staff. The Duchess also visited the General Lying-in Hospital, Yorkroad, Lambeth, accompanied by Dr. Playfair, being received by the Hon. Alan De Tatton Egerton, the chairman, and the medical staff. Her Royal Highness was conducted through the wards by Mrs. Clarke, the Lady Superintendent. The Duke of Edinburgh distributed the prizes and certificates won during the past year by the members of the London Schools Swimming Club on Tuesday in the Egyptian Hall of the Mansion House. The Lord Mayor presided. The Duke has signed the petition against the change in the tartans of the Highland regiments.

Princess Louise of Lorne has visited the studio of Mr. Henry Cook, to view his pictures of Rome and Venice.

The Duke of Connaught presided at the annual dinner in connection with Mr. T. C. Garth's foxhounds, held at the Wokingham Townhall on Tuesday.

The Duke and Duchess of Teck went to the Globe Theatre on Monday evening.

A private meet of the Cheshire hounds took place at Adderley, Market Drayton, on Thursday week, for the Empress of Austria. The next day a large field assembled at Cholmondeley, one fox being killed in the chase. On Saturday her Imperial Majesty had a capital run with Sir Watkin W. Wynn's hounds, the meet being at Maesfen. The Empress rode with Captain Middleton on Monday over the course of the steeplechases at Ash, which took place on Thursday. Her Majesty hunted with the Cheshire hounds at Wilkesley on Tuesday, and at Wooee on Wednesday.

The Queen of Sweden and Norway has arrived from Bournemouth on a short visit to London. Her Majesty is staying at Claridge's Hotel.

Marriages are arranged between the Hon. and Rev. Alberic Bertie, third son of the Earl of Abingdon, and Lady Caroline M'Donnell, eldest daughter of the late and sister of the present Earl of Antrim; and between Captain Raymond Parr, son of the late Mr. Thomas Parr, of Grappenhall Heyes, Cheshire, and the Hon. Constance Plunkett, daughter of Lord Dunsany.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

CHANGES IN THE RED BLOOD-CORPUSCLES.

Professor E. A. Schäfer, F.R.S., in his fourth lecture, given on Tuesday, the 15th instant, described certain changes which the blood-corpuscles undergo on the withdrawal of the blood from the vessels. The most common is that known as "crenation," a wrinkling of the surface, eventually taking the form of a general retraction of the corpuscle, except at certain points which project from the non-globular corpuscles as minute spines. This generally results from increase of the density of the serum or plasma, due to evaporation; but it may be caused in other ways. The peculiar changes which Gulliver long ago described in the blood of the Mexican deer seem to be analogous to crenation. Another very constant change is the formation of rouleaux, by the blood-corpuscles adhering to their surfaces, which is very difficult to explain. After considering and illustrating by experiment the causes assigned by Lister, Norris, and Dogiel, Professor Schäfer quoted Gaule's description of the appearance of a worm-shaped organism in the frog's blood-corpuscles, which gets out and moves in the surrounding fluid. Gaule concludes that this is formed out of protoplasm in the corpuscles (the zooid of Brücke). Dowdeswell agrees with Gaule, and thinks that the filaments formed by the admixture with sherry wine, by heat, and by chromate of ammonia, &c., are also protoplasmic. Professor Schäfer considered that there are strong reasons against these views, for, assuming protoplasm to be really present, if it became separated, it would rather resemble in the character of its movements that of the white corpuscle; and in the experiments mentioned by Dowdeswell the conditions are very unfavourable to any vitality of protoplasm. Probably the filaments, first noticed by Addison, are due to the action of water upon the lecithin in the red corpuscles. The lecture was concluded with a brief account of the chemical constituents composing the stroma of the red corpuscles.

HISTORY OF DRAWING-ROOM MUSIC.

Professor Ernst Pauer, in beginning his first lecture, on Thursday, the 17th inst., described two forms of instrumental music—firstly, cyclical, such as concertos and sonatas, which consist of a series of movements, including an allegro, an andante, and a finale, symmetrically united, which may be treated scientifically and rigorously, fitted for an orchestra and an intellectual audience; secondly, the "single," such as the scherzo, impromptu, and rondo, specially adapted for the home circle, their essential characters being a short pleasing melody, with a simple rhythmical expression, not too elaborately treated. The earliest chamber music was generally dances; and the composition of such in various styles was not disdained by the greatest masters in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The performance of single dances was succeeded by "Suites de pièces," a series of such compositions, and in the "Partita" dances were superseded by music of a higher character, yet still adapted for home practice. Excellent music of this kind was produced by the Bachs, Rameau, Couperin, Handel, and others. The increased influence of amateurs led to degeneracy, and the great demand for light, pleasing pieces was supplied by the publication of a quantity of music of easy execution, with taking titles, and the manufacture of pot-pourris and mélanges (selections from popular operas), and of endless variations upon national airs, music which required little taste or skill in either composer or performer. Music of a far different character, however, was composed by Mozart, Haydn, and Beethoven; and the charming nocturnes of John Field, their inventor—sweet, delicious, dreamy music, too delicate for the public concert-room—are true types of drawing-room music, in which should be found every possible shade of feeling. The illustrations, on a grand pianoforte by Broadwood, included a pavane by O. Gibbons; "Les Buffons," by John Bull; a sarabande, and other dances, by S. Bach, Handel, Mattheson, Rameau, and Corelli; the "Echo," by S. Bach; "La Poule," by Rameau; and other pieces by Couperin, Scarlatti, and Steibelt, concluding with the "Midnight" rondo, by John Field.

FRUITS AND SEEDS.

Sir John Lubbock, Bart., M.P., F.R.S., who gave the discourse at the Friday evening meeting on the 18th inst., in his opening remarks alluded to the very great variety of fruits and seeds in regard to size, form, colour, and properties, and stated that his object was to consider the probable reasons for some of these variations, derived from long and close observation and study. In some plants the seeds are protected by thick impervious shells (nuts), others with a fleshy envelope (fruit), not eaten till ripe. Fertilisation in some plants takes place by day (as by butterflies, &c.), in others by night (as by moths). Many plants have the power of dispersing the seed, as in the common Cardamine and the herb Robert, which at the proper time are able to project the seed to the distance of twenty feet. Some kinds of violet sow the seed, while other kinds disperse it, by very peculiar mechanical arrangements. The common vetch also casts its seed with a jerk when ripe; and the squirting cucumber ejects its seed by a kind of endosmosis. In most trees the seed is dispersed by the agency of wind swinging and jerking the branches. The arrangements in the poppy for protecting the seed from rain and for dispersing it at the right time are very remarkable. Some plants shed the seed when rolled along the ground by wind. Seeds are also largely dispersed by animals. Some plants are propagated by their seeds being carried in the wool of sheep, and by their fruits forming the food of monkeys and other creatures. The dispersion of many seeds is facilitated by their being sticky or provided with hooks; and others are blown forward till they arrive at soil suitable for their growth. Some plants produce two kinds of seed or pods, adapted for different circumstances. The pods and seed of some plants have very singular forms, resembling birds' feet, horseshoes, caterpillars, beetles, centipedes, and other insects. In concluding, Sir John said that there is not a fruit nor a seed, even of our commonest plants, which would not amply justify and richly reward the most careful study. The discourse was illustrated by pictures and specimens, and the forcible ejectment of seeds to some distance was imitated by ingenious models.

ANCIENT EGYPT—RELIGION.

Mr. R. Stuart-Poole, Keeper of Coins in the British Museum, and Correspondent of the Institute of France, began a course of four lectures on Ancient Egypt in its Comparative Relations on Saturday last, the 19th inst. He first spoke of the great services of the late M. Mariette, and the appeal he had made, in his last Memoir to the Institute of France, to carry on his great work of exploration. In addressing that learned body, M. Mariette had spoken to its English members and correspondents, and the lecturer trusted that these last words would excite the sympathetic liberality of England in the cause of knowledge. He then discussed the Monotheistic belief of the Egyptians in the form taught by the moralists, in that by which the priests reasoned back to a First Cause, and that in which they developed the Pantheistic doctrine. He next passed to the Pantheon, and explained the first order of the gods, tracing it to its double origin, probably from Thinis and Heliopolis. The solar myth was then explained in its two forms, as connected with this order—the myth of Ra and the myth of Osiris. The influence of the latter Mr. Poole ascribed to its human aspect. Like Ra, Osiris is the creator, and is essentially the good principle, perpetually at war with evil, personified by Typhon, his brother or son. Animal worship was then noticed in the different forms of that of animals locally sacred, those generally sacred, and selected individuals like the Bull Apis. In endeavouring to trace the Egyptian religion to its sources, the lecturer pointed to the evidence that the cosmical element in the Pantheon was connected by the Egyptians with Arabia. He referred to the central position of Chaldæa in primitive civilisation, as the country to which even Chinese knowledge had been traced by the brilliant discoveries of M. Terrien de Lacouperie, and suggested the probability that the similarities of Egyptian and Indian mythology might be explained by a like theory. He then drew attention to the high character of the faith of the Egyptian hymns, which, as far as is known, are all later than the Semitic occupation of the country by the Shepherds, and he was disposed to conjecture, with due reserve, that the noble style of these hymns was due to Semitic influence. He next compared the Assyrian and Indian (Vedic) religions with the Egyptian, showing the strong general agreements in the Pantheon. In passing to the Hebrew faith, Mr. Poole referred to the impersonality of the One God, as viewed by the Egyptian systems, and the intense personality of the Hebrew aspect of this central truth. In concluding, he pointed out the high level attained by the Egyptians as compared with the Greeks, in their idea of the gods, and their relation to man. Finally, he drew attention to the best books on the subject of the course, of which a printed list would be given the audience at this day's lecture, the 26th inst.

The Rev. William Houghton will give the first of two lectures on "The Picture Origin of the Cuneiform Characters" on Thursday next, March 3. Next Friday evening the discourse will be given by Sir William Thomson, on Elasticity as a Probable Mode of Motion.

The inventory of the personal estate of Mr. Graham Menzies, distiller, Edinburgh, who died at Hollyburton House, Forfarshire, in November last, has been sworn to. It shows that the amount of his personal property in Scotland is £251,462, in England £179,661, and in Ireland £1700: total, £432,823. The estate is to be divided among the family.

At the annual meeting of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, held yesterday week at the Cannon-street Hotel, the report, which dealt with the proceedings and the legislation affecting the chamber during the past year, was adopted; and Colonel Hill, of Cardiff, was elected president for the ensuing twelve months, in the place of Mr. Glover, whose period of office had expired.

The first year's monthly issue, by Messrs. Letts, Son, and Co., King William-street, London Bridge, of the series of maps to compose what is styled "Letts's Popular Atlas," makes a volume that deserves entire commendation. It comprises the general maps of the world, both in hemispheres and on Mercator's projection, of all the main geographical divisions, the great Continents, the Pacific Ocean, Europe, Asia, America (North and South), Africa (North and South), Australia and Tasmania, and New Zealand; India and Ceylon; and maps of the principal European countries. There is a general map of the British Isles, and two other maps of England and Wales, showing the geology, the railways and canals, the population of towns, and other local conditions; besides maps of Ireland and Scotland. In some of the maps in this series, moreover, we also find an indication of the greater or less elevations of the land, the density of population, the kind of cultivation prevailing—as in the wine districts of France, Germany, Spain, and Italy, the wool districts of Australia, or the grain districts of Russia or America. The depths and currents of the seas are likewise frequently set forth. The maps are beautifully drawn, lightly and pleasantly coloured, and the lettering of the names is exquisitely neat and clear. There is a copious index, stating the latitude and longitude of every place named. It would not be easy to devise, and no one could at present be prepared to execute, at so moderate a price, a Popular Atlas which should be more completely satisfactory or more convenient for general use.

THE SILENT MEMBER.

The Marquis of Salisbury, in making his first appearance this Session in the House of Lords on Monday, was so far to be likened unto the stormy petrel that it was undoubtedly a presage of Lord Lytton's Candahar debate which drew the noble Marquis from Nice. As it happened, the late Foreign Secretary might have hybernated a few days longer, Lord Lytton having determined to keep his Candahar rod in pickle for yet another week. Public interest in the Afghan problem has, however, been fanned, unintentionally, by the Duke of Argyll's passage of arms yesterday week with Lord Lytton, apropos of the renovation of a bridge of boats across the Indus at the commencement of the late Viceroy's term of office. The seriousness with which the noble Duke discusses Indian affairs (duly delineated in the sketch) has one drawback. It enables the consummate master of persiflage opposite him to provoke the laughter that to the shallow drowneth reason. This happened on the 18th inst. The Duke of Argyll having, to his own satisfaction, shown that, in the autumn of 1876, Lord Lytton had directed Sir Henry Norman to form a flying column of 5000 men, and had thrown the aforesaid bridge across the Indus, all for the purpose of invading Afghanistan, Lord Lytton repeated that the bridge was made for another reason, but justified his Afghan policy, and gave Lord Beaconsfield the opportunity later on of winding up the dispute amusingly by throwing ridicule on his Grace's notion that 5000 men, with two blankets apiece, would have sufficed "to conquer Afghanistan and to check Russia." Lord Kimberley on Monday informed their Lordships that the Government had taken such steps with regard to the Transvaal rising as were "best calculated to promote a satisfactory settlement and to spare effusion of blood, consistently with the honour of the British Crown;" and the Secretary for the Colonies afterwards, replying to a protracted address from Lord Brabourne, spoke highly of President Brand's friendliness at a juncture when it was inevitable that the Dutch inhabitants of the Orange Free State must sympathise, in common with two thirds of the Cape colonists, with the Boers. The Anglo-American eloquence of Lord Dunraven was on Tuesday displayed in vain in favour of opening national museums on Sundays. His Lordship had the advantage of being supported by Earl Granville in a logically unanswerable speech. But the House was not quite ripe for this rational concession of a public right which is recognised at Kew, Greenwich, Hampton Court, and elsewhere. The Earl of Dunraven's reasonable motion was accordingly negatived by 41 to 34 votes; and their Lordships adopted the amendment of Lord Shaftesbury favouring the opening of the British Museum and National Gallery on weekday evenings.

Question time appears to be the most important and interesting period in the House of Commons, it being the interval when the Prime Minister and his colleagues, freed for the moment from the monopoly of an Irish Bill, if not relieved from the everlasting brogue of Mr. Parnell's irrepressible clique, can manage to squeeze in some information concerning other portions of the Empire. The Marquis of Hartington (sketched as he composedly answers an Indian inquiry) has grown greatly in the favour of the House since he has roused himself from the lethargy which is, perhaps, natural to him—and certainly not surprising on the part of the heir to a Dukedom. With vigour of thought and firmness of political convictions, greater clearness of speech has come. Never were these qualifications more urgently needed by a Secretary for India. Candahar is and will be a test question with Lord Hartington. The ingenuity of the Opposition has been, and will be, taxed to catch his Lordship tripping on this point. The noble Marquis was, however, on the 18th inst., quite equal to Sir William Palliser's artfully framed questions in reference to the retention of the Afghan fortress, and could not hold out hope that the decision of the Government to withdraw from Candahar would be reversed. Similarly satisfactory were Lord Hartington's replies on Monday to Sir Henry Tyler regarding the abandoned railway to Candahar, and to Sir George Campbell with respect to the discretion given the Indian Government to settle the retirement from Candahar.

The questions have ranged from the opening of seditious Fenian letters by order of the Home Secretary (whose right to do so has been stoutly maintained by Sir William Harcourt) to Mr. Mundella's grave advice to members to cook their pork well to avoid the injurious effects of trichinosis which affects American pork. But the so-named Coercion Bill continued to be the question until the Speaker and Mr. Gladstone were once more called upon to introduce a new rule for the purpose of quickening the legislative action of the Home-Rule members. The Speaker introduced these rules on the 17th inst., their aim being to bring within the bounds of reason the interminable debates on the superabundant amendments of Mr. Parnell's followers to the Protection of Person and Property Bill in Committee. Mr. Gladstone promptly followed the matter up by giving notice that if the measure should not have passed through Committee that night he would on the morrow move that the bill should be reported before midnight. Sir Stafford Northcote, alarmed lest the rights of the Conservative minority were to be infringed, could not bring himself at once to countenance the new rules. Mr. Cowen, in his capacity as Radical advocate of the Home Rulers, ironically suggested that the bill should be put to the vote without any further discussion at all. His excitable and ultra-sensitive Home Rule colleague, Mr. A. M. Sullivan, strove to cap Mr. Cowen's proposition by rising from the Parnellite benches, and threatening with satirical fervour to introduce a resolution to the effect that "the Prime Minister have power to move that no Irish member be heard on any Irish question." But, frothy opposition to the contrary notwithstanding, the Speaker and Mr. Gladstone gained their point. An obviously necessary modification of the new rule was made, at the suggestion of Sir Stafford Northcote. The Friday night passed, and still saw the fount of Milesian garrulity unexhausted. Monday came. The Prime Minister then moved that at midnight "the remaining clauses of the bill and any amendments and new clauses then standing on the notice-paper be put forthwith." Carried by a majority of 352—415 to 63. Dr. Lyon Playfair exerted himself to curtail conversation by declaring several amendments inadmissible. Midnight found him inexorable in arresting further discussion. Forthwith the Chairman put the remaining amendment, negatived by 249 to 43; and close upon one o'clock in the morning Dr. Lyon Playfair retired, the Speaker resumed the Chair, and had thereafter to declare Mr. Parnell in a minority—287 to 33—upon his motion to delay the bill till Monday next. On Tuesday evening, the bill being brought up for reconsideration, Mr. Forster introduced an amendment or two, and the heavy weight of the Home Secretary's artillery had to be brought to bear to prove the necessity of retaining the words "treason felony" as a crime punishable by the bill. Other points were reserved for Wednesday. With regard to the energetic action of the Government in expediting a measure pronounced "urgent," there is a general opinion that the good repute of Parliament as a business-like Assembly demanded this corollary of the closure.

---

The weekly return of metropolitan pauperism shows that the total number of paupers on the last day of the second week in February was 102,380, of whom 53,813 were in workhouses and 48,567 received outdoor relief. Compared with the corresponding weeks in 1879, 1878, and 1877 these figures show an increase of 888, 10,166, and 15,764 respectively. The number of vagrants relieved on the last day of the week was 759, of whom 614 were men, 136 women, and 9 children under sixteen.

The committee appointed by the Royal Society, at the request of the Government, to make arrangements for observing the transit of Venus in 1882, would be glad to be informed whether astronomers have at their disposal, and are willing to lend, for use in the observations, 4 in., 5 in., or 6 in. refracting telescopes, and 10 in. or 12 in. reflectors, with equatorial mountings; also portable transits or altazimuths. The instruments would be returned, in perfect order, as soon after the transit as possible, and in any case before the end of 1883. All communications should be addressed to the secretary, Transit Committee, Royal Society, Burlington House, W.

The Indian and Colonial Mercantile Directory of Messrs. G. Street and Co., Cornhill, has been published this year, as usual, for the convenience of all who have business or correspondence with the British dominions lying far beyond seas. It contains, in addition to trade returns, tariffs, the names of official and commercial people, topography and accounts of local population, with ports, towns, railways, bankers, mails, coinage, weights and measures, full particulars of the lines of steamers to and from the places referred to, with the average length of voyage by sailing-vessels. Some very tolerable maps are inserted between the leaves of this useful volume.

A meeting was held yesterday week, at 68, Grosvenor-street—Mr. George Palmer, M.P., in the chair—for the purpose of collecting a fund to establish a prize or scholarship at University College or the London University in commemoration of the late Miss Watson. She was the first lady student to attend the mathematical classes at University College, and was one of the first ladies who passed the first B.Sc. examination at the University of London. She died at Grahamstown, South Africa, on her way to the Orange Free State. Several speakers having borne testimony to Miss Watson's rare devotion and intellectual distinction, a committee was formed, among the members of which were Miss Buss, Professor Henrici, Mr. T. E. Mylne, Miss Alice Palmer, Miss Orme, Mrs. Bryant, and others.

HOME NEWS.

The annual exhibition of the English Cart-Horse Society has been held this week at the Agricultural Hall.

Mr. Gladstone has written to Mr. Morley, M.P., to state that he will recommend a grant of £200 from the Royal Bounty Fund for the benefit of Mrs. Mechi.

Sir Charles Russell, M.P., has been pronounced by Dr. Quain and Mr. Prescott Hewett to be convalescent, and no further bulletin will issued.

Mr. Thomas W. Rumble, M.I.C.E., F.G.S., chief engineer of the Southwark and Vauxhall Water Company, has been admitted a Fellow of the Royal Society, Edinburgh.

The sale of the library of the late Lord Hampton realised a total of £3539, exclusive of the "Mazarine Bible," belonging to a foreign gentleman, which sold for £760.

Lectures are being delivered by the Christian Evidence Society at the Hall of Science, Old-street, St. Luke's, and at other densely populated neighbourhoods in the metropolis.

Admiral Sir Geoffrey T. P. Hornby, K.C.B., has been appointed President of the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, in the place of Admiral Sir Charles F. A. Shadwell, K.C.B.

The subscriptions promised to the Southend local committee for the forthcoming show of the Essex Agricultural Society amount to £620. About £1500 will be offered in prizes.

The thirty-ninth annual ball in aid of the funds of the French Benevolent Society will take place at Willis's Rooms, under the patronage of the French Ambassador, next Monday.

Messrs. Cory Brothers, of Cardiff, have given a second donation of £1000 towards the Building Fund of the Tower Hamlets Mission, of which Mr. F. N. Charrington is the honorary superintendent.

At the last weekly meeting of the committee of management of the Shipwrecked Mariners' Society, £4000 was specially voted for distribution, in small annual grants, to the needy families of nearly 1400 deceased seafaring men.

The new buildings of the London Temperance Hospital in the Hampstead-road will be opened on Friday, March 4, by the Lord Mayor, who, with the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, will attend in state.

Mr. John Graves, solicitor, of Peterborough, has been appointed town clerk of Salford at a salary of £1000, in the place of Mr. Moorhouse, who has been appointed solicitor to Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway.

The Council of the Birmingham Agricultural Exhibition Society has decided to postpone the shorthorn show from March 9 to April 27 and 28; and has fixed Nov. 26 for the opening of the annual cattle show at Bingley Hall.

Mr. S. A. Ralli presided last Saturday over the inaugural meeting of the French National Society, at their premises, No. 20, Bedford-street, Covent-garden. The society offers the advantages of a club to Frenchmen residing in England.

Mrs. Susan Wills Fletcher, an American spiritualist, has been committed for trial at Bow-street on the charge of obtaining, in conjunction with her husband, a quantity of jewellery and other articles from Mrs. Hart Davies by fraud.

The Right Hon. J. Bright, as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, has given instructions that the ancient Courts Leet of the Honour of Pontefract may be dispensed with, as investigation shows that recent legislation has deprived them of the public utility which they once possessed.

From Mitchell and Co.'s Newspaper Press Directory, recently issued, it appears that there are now in England 1465 newspapers; Wales, 66; Scotland, 181; Ireland, 154; and the British Isles, 20; making a total of 1886. The magazines, including the quarterly reviews, number 1097.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat at Liverpool from the United States and Canada last week show a very large increase on those of the preceding week, and were the largest arrivals for many weeks past, the total comprising 1070 cattle, 377 sheep, 11,245 quarters of beef, 1802 carcases of mutton, and 651 pigs.

A meeting of the Victoria (Philosophical) Institute took place last Monday, when a paper on the Implements of the Stone Age as a Primitive Demarcation between Man and other Animals, by Dr. Thompson, LL.D., of Harvard University, was read; after which a second brief paper on the Caves of Devonshire was read by Mr. Howard, F.R.S.

The prizes of the 2nd Tower Hamlets (late 1st Administrative Battalion) were distributed last Saturday night to the successful competitors by Mrs. Johnstone, wife of Mr. Andrew Johnstone, Sheriff of Essex, the ceremony taking place in the spacious drill-hall in the Whitechapel-road. Nearly 800 persons were present.

Mr. Thomas Henderson, M.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, second in Classics, 1875, Assistant Master at the Surrey County School, Cranleigh, has been elected Head Master of the Bedford County School, in the room of Mr. Charles William Bourne, M.A., who has been appointed Head Master of the College, Inverness.

The House of Lords, sitting as a Committee for Privileges, again considered the claim to the Dysart Peerage on Tuesday. Sir John Holker concluded his address on behalf of the original claimant, and, the Lord Advocate having followed on part of the Crown, the Committee adjourned until Monday week, when the case will probably be disposed of.

The Duke of Buckingham was presented with an address yesterday week, at Aylesbury, congratulating him on his safe return from India. In reply, his Grace spoke of the sufferings he had witnessed from the famine, and his belief that the generosity of the English people had made a deep impression upon the Hindoos. He also gave some advice to the English manufacturers of agricultural implements for India.

At a meeting of gentlemen mainly connected with commercial and trading interests in the City, held at Gresham House last Saturday, a resolution was passed expressing alarm at the vast amount of property and the many lives destroyed by fire in London, the powerlessness of the Fire Brigade to cope with the evil, and the desirability of coroners holding inquests into the origin of all fires.

In his Lent pastoral, which will be read in all the diocesan churches to-morrow (Sunday), the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Dublin expresses his great sorrow at "allies for our country in her struggle for justice being sought from the ranks of impious infidels, who have plunged their own unhappy land into misery, and who are sworn to destroy the foundations of all religions." The Archbishop asks, "Will Catholic Ireland tolerate such an indignity?"

In London 2841 births and 1564 deaths were registered last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births exceeded by 197, whereas the deaths were 258 below, the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 55 from smallpox, 23 from measles, 36 from scarlet fever, 10 from diphtheria, 26 from whooping-cough, 14 from enteric fever, 6 from ill-defined forms of continued fever, and 11 from diarrhœa.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN.

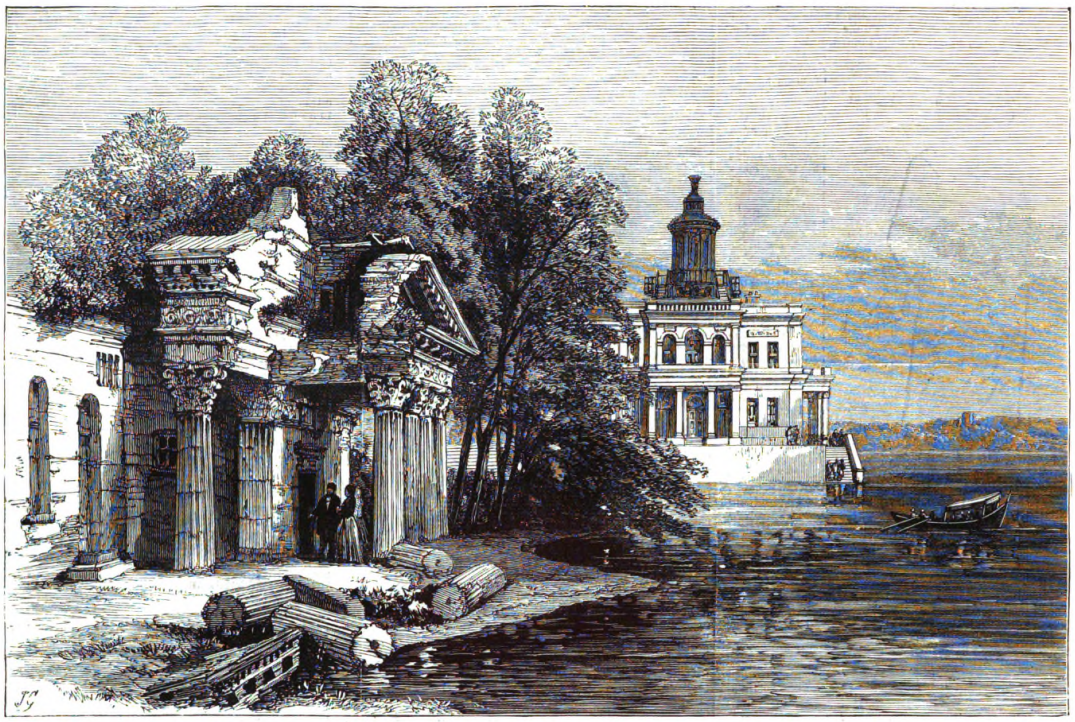
SEE PAGE 206.



THE MARBLE PALACE, POTSDAM, THE FUTURE RESIDENCE OF PRINCE FREDERICK WILLIAM OF PRUSSIA AND HIS BRIDE.

PRINKENAU, NEAR SAGAN, SILESIA, THE LATE RESIDENCE OF PRINCESS VICTORIA OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN-AUGUSTENBURG.

MAJOR W. H. HINGESTON, 58TH REGIMENT,
KILLED AT THE ATTACK OF LAING'S NEK, JANUARY 28.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ANSTRUTHER, 94TH REGIMENT,
KILLED AT BRONKER'S SPRUIT, DECEMBER 20.

OFFICERS KILLED IN THE TRANSVAAL.

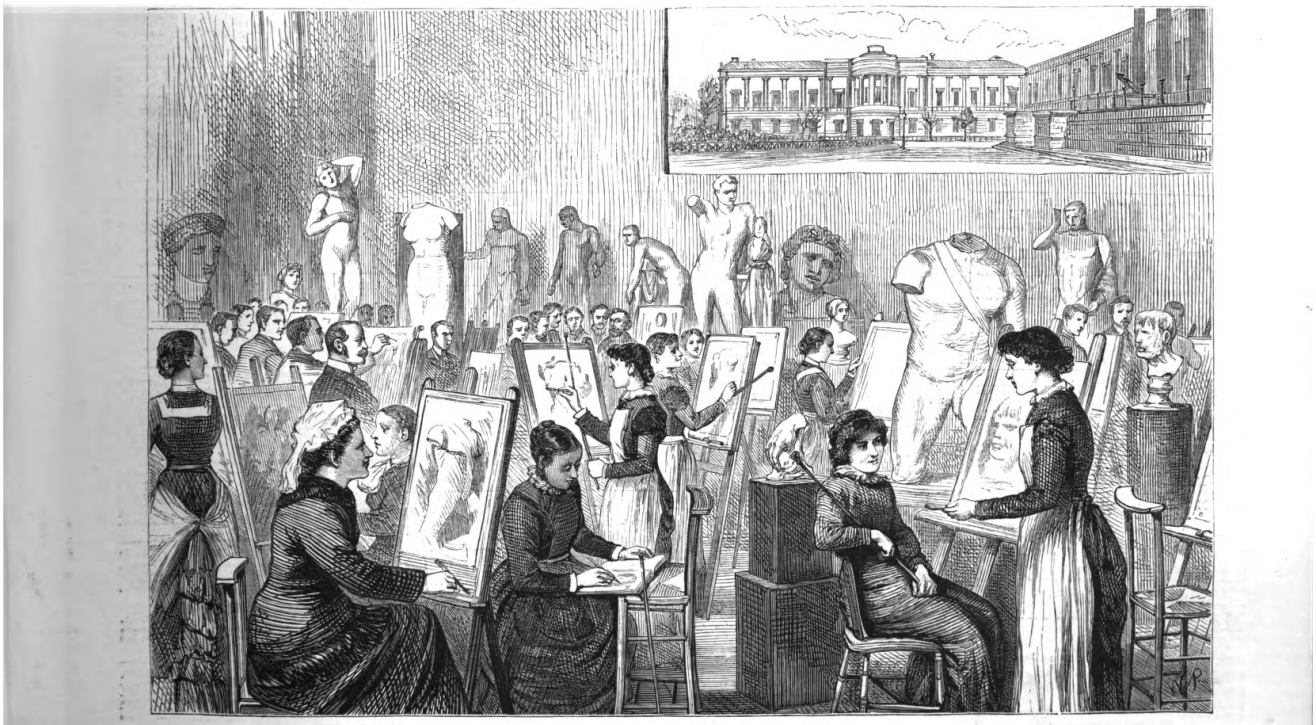
The late Brevet-Colonel Philip Robert Anstruther, who was in command of the detachment of the 94th Regiment intercepted by the Boers, on its march from Lydenburg to Pretoria, on Dec. 20, at Bronker's Spruit, died some days afterwards, in consequence of the wounds he received in that conflict. He was a son of Mr. Thomas Anstruther, of the East India Company's service, and was born in 1841. He entered the Army in 1858, and rose to be the Major of his regiment, the 94th, in 1878. In April, 1880, he received the brevet rank of Lieut.-Colonel. Colonel Anstruther succeeded to the command of the 94th in August of the present year, upon the retirement of Colonel Malthus. He served with his regiment during the Zulu war, and was present at the battle of Ulundi. He will be remembered as having served as Judge-Advocate at the trial by court-martial of Lieutenant Carey. Colonel Anstruther married, in 1875, the eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Erskine.

The late Major William Henry Hingeston was one of the officers of the 58th Regiment killed on the 28th ult., in the unsuccessful attack on the position of the Boers at Laing's Neck. He was the only surviving son of the late Mr. John Hingeston, of Lyme Regis, Dorset, and of Caroline, his wife, daughter of the late Mr. Edward Hillman, of the same place. Major Hingeston was born on April 3, 1838, and entered the Army as an Ensign in the 58th Foot in the year 1855. Before he was twenty-two years of age he obtained his company in the same Regiment, and thus became one of the youngest Captains in the Army. He served some years in India, but returned to England without having seen service in the field. In 1872 he obtained the brevet rank of Major in the Army, and in 1875 was promoted to a majority in his Regiment. After the disaster at Isandula, the 58th was one of the corps dispatched to reinforce Lord Chelmsford, and served with the forces under his command throughout the remainder of the Zulu war. Major Hingeston was present at the battle of Ulundi, which virtually ended the campaign, and shortly afterwards the command of his regiment devolved upon him, and he continued to exercise it until he fell, whilst gallantly leading on his men in the action on the 28th ult. He died of his wounds on the following day.

Our portrait of Major Hingeston is from a photograph by Mr. Jabez Hughes, of Ryde, Isle of Wight; that of Colonel Anstruther, from one by Messrs. Lock and Whitfield.



THE SLADE SCHOOL OF FINE ART, UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, GOWER-STREET.—SEE PAGE 206.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

The newly-built North Wing, added to the buildings of University College, in Gower-street, was opened by the Earl of Kimberley, on Wednesday week, accompanied by Lord Sherbrooke and Sir John Lubbock, with Professor Tyndall, Professor Max Müller, and other distinguished scholars.

On July 9, 1878, the completion of the fiftieth year of University College, was celebrated by a festival in the college grounds. Earl Granville, who presided, then laid the first stone of the buildings, which are now ready for use. These new buildings, which form the north wing of the college, with the chemical annexe in the rear, were constructed from designs prepared by Professor Hayter Lewis, under the superintendence of Messrs. Perry and Reed, of John-street, Adelphi, architects to the College, by Mr. W. Brass, the contractor. They furnish improved and extended accommodation for the Slade School of Fine Art; and the Fine-Art School is thus enabled to give up some rooms which it formerly occupied. The rooms thus set free on the first floor have been applied to a considerable extension of the space allotted to zoology and comparative anatomy. The whole upper floor of the north wing has been specially prepared for the study of physiology. On the ground floor and basement, chemistry is provided not only with space in the north wing, but also with a large annexed laboratory on the ground behind. Rooms set free in the centre of the building by these new arrangements have been so dealt with as to secure proper accommodation for the school of engineering and a laboratory for practical botany.

In the central portion of the newly finished wing of University College the ground floor, the first storey and part of the basement have been appropriated to the Slade School of Fine Art.

This school owes its origin to a bequest of the late Mr. Felix Slade for the founding of a Fine Arts Department in University College. Similar bequests, though to a smaller extent, were made by him to the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, by which Mr. Ruskin and Sir Digby Wyatt (since succeeded by Mr. Richmond and Mr. Sidney Colvin) were severally appointed as Professors, their duties being to give series of lectures to the students. The Council of University College, London, however, considered that the terms of the bequest as relating to it could be thoroughly complied with only by founding a school in which the fine arts should be taught practically. For this purpose the first part of the North Wing in Gower-street was erected, containing studios for drawing, painting, and modelling from the life and from casts of antiques, with arrangements for the accommodation of female as well as male students. The cost of building was defrayed partly from a portion of Mr. Slade's bequest and partly by various friends of the College, among whom may be mentioned Mr. Samuel Sharpe and Mr. J. P. Heywood. A certain sum out of the bequest having been devoted to the endowment of a Professorship for this school, the Council elected Mr. E. J. Poynter, R.A., as the first Professor. The new building having been furnished with casts, seats, easels, and other necessary objects, was opened for the reception of students and for working purposes on Oct. 9, 1871. Mr. Poynter expended much thought and energy in devising rules and regulations, and organising the details of the mode of study to bring the school into working order. He resigned the professorship in 1876, upon his appointment to be Superintendent of the Art Department and Government Art-School at South Kensington, when M. Alphonse Legros was elected his successor here. The apartments now provided for the Slade School of Fine Art consist of the library and lecture-room, 40 ft. 9 in. long, 35 ft. wide, and 16 ft. high, entered from the spacious corridor on the ground floor, with a room for the Professor and his assistants; a large life studio, part of the old building, for students of the male class; another life studio, 40 ft. 4 in. by 35 ft., and 19 ft. high, facing the north, for the ladies' or mixed class; the Professor's studio; the Antique room, in which are many fine casts; a room for the sculpture class, or for drawing and painting from the antique; and a place for the etching class. There are convenient refreshment-rooms, cloak-rooms, and lavatories, in separate quarters, for the lady and gentleman students.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN.

The marriage of Prince Frederick William, eldest son of the Imperial Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia and Germany, and grandson of our own Queen, to Princess Augusta Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg, niece to Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, the husband of our Queen's daughter Princess Helena, will take place at Berlin to-morrow (Sunday) morning. Portraits of the young bride and bridegroom, from recent photographs, appeared in our last week's publication. As further illustrations of this subject, we present Views, drawn by our own Artist, of the Marble Palace at Potsdam, which has been assigned to Prince Frederick William and his intended wife for their future residence; and of the château of Prinkenau, near the town of Sagan, in Silesia, where Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein has been living, and from which abode she comes to Berlin for her wedding. It is the family mansion of her brother, Duke Ernst Gunther of Schleswig-Holstein-Augustenburg, head of the elder branch of this princely house.

We may add a few particulars concerning the Marble Palace, at Potsdam, as it is to be the future home of the young couple. It is in the Dutch style, of white marble and red brick; and contains some fine bronzes, and other objects, of the time of Louis XVI. It was built at the end of the last century by a nephew of Frederick the Great, who afterwards became Frederick William II., King of Prussia. The fragments of Corinthian columns were got up to represent the ruins of a classic temple according to the style of the time, of which a similar illustration will be familiar to those who have visited Virginia Water, near Windsor. This palace is at present undergoing a thorough renovation, and till it is all ready the happy pair will occupy a suite of rooms in the Royal Schloss at Potsdam.

Her Royal Highness Princess Christian (Princess Helena) left England for Berlin on Saturday last, and will be the guest of her sister, the Imperial Crown Princess of Germany, during the wedding festivities. Her husband, Prince Christian, will escort his niece, the bride of to-morrow, from his nephew's residence at Prinkenau, to the Prussian Capital. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh have gone to Berlin this week, in order to attend the wedding of their sister's son.

Last week the Bishop of Manchester consecrated the new Church of St. Clement, Broughton. The building in question, which is of red brick, from designs of Messrs. Southern, of Salford, and will accommodate 732 persons, has cost £6000, towards which Mr. W. Clowes has contributed £3000 and the site.

At a crowded meeting of the incorporated members of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel held yesterday week, at Willis's Rooms, under the presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the resolutions proposed by the special committee for petitioning her Majesty for a new charter to secure the better government of the society were, on the motion of Canon Gregory, carried without alterations, and nearly unanimously.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON'S LIST.

PRINCE METTERNICH'S MEMOIRS—1815-1829. Edited by his Son, Prince RICHARD METTERNICH. 2 vols. 28s. [Just out.

LORD ELLENBOROUGH'S POLITICAL DIARY, 1828-1830. Edited by LORD COLCHESTER. 2 vols. 30s. [Just out.

ACROSS PATAGONIA. By LADY FLORENCE DIXIE. Demy 8vo. 12s.

A TRIP TO BOERLAND. By ROWLAND J. ATHERLEY. Demy 8vo. 16s. 6d.

IN TENTS IN THE TRANSVAAL. By Mrs. HUTCHINSON. Demy 8vo. 18s. 6d.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

Now ready, for MARCH,
MRS. HENRY WOOD'S MAGAZINE,
THE ARGOSY.

CONTENTS:—Court Netherleigh. By the Author of "East Lynne." Chaps. 7, 8, 9.—Two Journeys.—Forrester's Lodge.—Salisbury and Stonehenge. By Charles W. Wood, Author of "Round About Norway."—The Jacet.—Stephanie.—Odd Customs and Strange Stories.—The Match Maker.

SIXPENCE MONTHLY.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

SEVENTH EDITION OF THE ARGOSY for JANUARY, now ready,
Containing the Opening Chapters of Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S New Serial Story, COURT NETHERLEIGH.

"We do not remember to have seen a better Number of the 'Argosy' than the present one."—Hidden Treasure.

"The 'Argosy' begins the year with some chatty, delightful descriptions of rambles in the New Forest."—The Mail.

"The 'Argosy' for January is an excellent number. No Magazine has a selection of more universal interest than this excellently conducted periodical."—Liverpool Albion.

"The 'Argosy' gets better and better. It is the cheapest and best Magazine of its class published. The fiction is always pure, and as certainly is it interesting and readable in an eminent way."—Sportsman.

SIXPENCE MONTHLY.
SEVENTH EDITION NOW READY.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

NOW READY, SECOND EDITION,
MRS. HENRY WOOD'S MAGAZINE,
THE ARGOSY, for FEBRUARY, containing Chaps. 4, 5, 6 of "Court Netherleigh," Mrs. Henry Wood's new Illustrated Serial Story; "Dorothy Grape," by Johnny Ludlow; "In the New Forest," by Charles W. Wood, with six Illustrations; and other Contributions.

SIXPENCE MONTHLY.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

Now ready (One Shilling), No. 255,
THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for MARCH. With Illustrations by George du Maurier and W. Small.

CONTENTS.
A Grape from a Thorn. By John Payn. (With an Illustration.) Chap. X.—Drivers and Walkers. XI.—The Picnic. XII.—A Couple of Patients. XIII.—A Suggestion.
Sir George Etherege. A Neglected Chapter of English Literature. By Edmund W. Gosse.
Autumn Wanderings. I.—Italian Pictures. II.—Over the Apennines. III.—Posthouses. IV.—La Spezia. V.—Porto Venere. VI.—Lerici. VII.—Carrara.
Helen in the Wood. By A. Mary F. Robinson.
Rhinoceros.
Who were the Fairies?
Thomas Carlyle.
Love the Jest. (With an Illustration.) Chap. VII.—Barney McGrath. VIII.—Miss Masters. IX.—Mabel to the Rescue.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Price One Shilling,
THE GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE for MARCH.

CONTENTS.
The Comet of a Season. By Justin McCarthy, M.P.—A Holy Mission. By Alex. Charles Ewald.—Dr. Johnson and Fleet-street Taverns. By Percy Fitzgerald.—The Will. Fool of Canada. By Alfred Rimmer.—Wilde-the-Wasp and its Folk Lore. By T. F. Thiselton Dyer.—A Successful African Journey. By F. S. Edwards. With a Map.—Thomas Carlyle. By Herne Shepherd.—Science Notes. By W. Mattieu Williams.—Table Talk. By Sylvanus Urban.

Price One Shilling, Illustrated,
BELGRAVIA for MARCH.

CONTENTS.
Joseph's Coat. By D. Christie Murray. Illustrated by Fred. Barnard.—A Mountain Water Cure. By A. Compyn Carr.—Only a Million. By Charles Gibbon.—Rambles about Rome. III. By Alfred Rimmer. With Three Illustrations.—Retrospect. With an Illustration by H. Gaisey.—Another World Down Here. By W. Mattieu Williams.—The Showman's Ghost.—Pressgos of Coming Ill. By George W. Black.—A Romance of the Nineteenth Century. By W. H. Mallock.

CHATTO and WINDUS, Piccadilly, W.

MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE.
No. 257,
for MARCH.
Price 1s.

CONTENTS OF THE NUMBER.
1. The Portrait of a Lady. By Henry James, Jun. Chaps. XXI.–XXIV.
2. Christmas, and Ancestor Worship in the Black Mountain. By Arthur J. Evans. Part III.
3. Byron. By Matthew Arnold.
4. Cimarosa. By Robert J. Martin.
5. The Penny Press. By Francis Hitchman.
6. On a Recent Criticism of Mr. Swinburne's. By Alfred Austin.

MACMILLAN and Co., London.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
MISSING. By MARY CECIL HAY.
Author of "Old Middleton's Money," &c.
HER DESERTS. By Mrs. ALEXANDER FRASER.
IDONEA. By ANNE BEALE.
BERYL FORTESCUE. By Lady DUFFUS HARDY.
FIXED AS A FATE. By Mrs. HOUSTOUN.
HIS LITTLE MOTHER. By the Author of "John Halifax." [Next week.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

NOW READY, AT ALL THE LIBRARIES,
MRS. BURNETT'S NEW TALE.
A FAIR BARBARIAN.
By the Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," "Theo," "Natalie."—F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

MISS BRADDON'S RECENT NOVEL.
Cheap New Edition, price 6s., cloth gilt, Frontispiece, &c.,
JUST AS I AM. The Recent Novel. By the Author of "Lady Audley's Secret," &c.
London: J. and R. MASTERS, Shoe-lane, E.C.

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for MARCH, NOW READY, price 7d.
LADY CLERIES IN THE CITY. By the Author of "How Women may Earn a Living."
A BRIDAL SONG. By J. Walter, LL.D.
A RAMBLE ROUND AND ABOUT PEWSEY VALE. By W. Mattieu Williams.
HOW WE MANAGED OUR BAZAAR.
ONLY A PICTURE. Music by H. Aguilter, Mus. B. Words by Edward Oxenford.
NELLY'S MISTAKE. A Love Story.
HERALDRY AS A POPULAR STUDY. By Eliza Clarke.
GARDENING IN MARCH.
PORTSDOWN HILL. A Poem. By L. G. Moberly.
OUR SILKWORMS, AND HOW WE TENDED THEM. By Mattieu Williams.
PROGRESS IN THE CHANNEL ISLANDS. By M. G. Mulhall, F.S.S.
HOW TO BEGIN THE STUDY OF GEOLOGY.
WHAT TO WEAR: CHIT-CHAT ON DRESS. By Our Paris Correspondent.
ON WARMTH AND SUNSHINE AND LIGHT. By a Family Doctor.
FOR MONEY—FOR LOVE.
THE GATHERER.
SERIAL STORIES:—
THE PRORATION OF DOROTHY TRAVERS.
THE TROUBLE IT BROUGHT.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN and Co., London.

THE LADIES' TREASURY. A Household Magazine of Literature, Education, and Fashion. 6d. Monthly; by post, 7d.

CONTENTS FOR MARCH.
Hans Sachs. (Illustrated.)
Mr. Bartram's Daughter. Chapters VII.–VIII.
Countess of Ireland. Part II.
The Lost Bridal Gift.
Thomas Carlyle. (With Portrait.)
Chemistry of Cookery.
Pastimes, Puzzles, and Chess.
Wedding Day Per Day.
Rights.
Art in Domestic Matters.
Paris Fashions, from our Own Correspondent.
Notes on Dressmaking.
Queries and Replies.

A LARGE FASHION IN COLOURED PLATE, handsomely printed in Colours, suitable for Sofa Cushion, Banner Screen, or Tidy.
NEEDLEWORK ENGRAVINGS.—Two Designs for Ornamenting Towels or Tidies, Design in Crochet, Three Monograms, Detail of making Wool Flowers.
FASHION'S ENGRAVINGS.—Dinner Costume, Danish Pelisse, Evening Costume, seven Spring Dresses for Children, Bonnet in Fancy Straw, Duchess Coat, Spring Jackets, Two Fancy Costumes, Morin Costume, Topics of the Season, Spring Paletot.
THIRD EDITION of the LADIES' TREASURY for JANUARY, beginning the New Volume, and containing the Opening Chapters of the New Serial Tale, is now ready.
A SECOND EDITION of the LADIES' TREASURY for FEBRUARY, with which is given a New Fretwork Design for a Table Flower-Vase Stand, is now ready.
The Three Monthly Parts for the present year, post-free for 1s. 9

London: BEMROSE and SONS, 23, Old Bailey.

MYRA'S JOURNAL is the cheapest Fashion Journal in the World. Price 4d.; by post, 5d.

MYRA'S JOURNAL gives advice upon Dress Alterations, and teaches how to make and alter Costumes, Dresses, Mantles, and Underclothing.

MYRA'S JOURNAL of Dress and Fashion. The Novelties for MARCH are:—

1. Dress and Fashion in Paris.
2. Models of Morning Toilettes from the Grands Magasins du Louvre.
3. Sittings in Town, by the silkworm.
4. The Latest from Paris.
5. Descriptions of Engravings.
6. Myra's Answers on Dress, Health, and Personal Attention, Fashion in Furniture, Furniture and Furnishing, Books, Music, Etiquette, the Cuisine, Books and Authors, Miscellaneous.
7. Beautifully Coloured Fashion Plate.
8. A Diagram Sheet containing full-size patterns for bodice from Les Grands Magasins du Louvre.
9. Costume and Mantle, and Marguerite Bertrade.
10. Cut-out Paper Pattern of the Corsage of the Janot Costume.
11. Costumes, Toilettes, Indoor, Walking; and Evening Dresses, Mantles, Jabots, Chignons, Coiffures, and Lingerie.
12. Needlework: Design for Gold Lace and Embroidery, Lamp Shade, Cigar Case, Bracelets, and Edgings in Crochet, &c.

MYRA'S JOURNAL is a Complete Guide to Ladies upon the care of Children's Wardrobes.

Subscriptions: Yearly, 8s.; Half-yearly, 4s.
GOUBAUD and SON, 20 and 40, Bedford-street, Covent-garden.

POTTERY PAINTING: A Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, Head Master of Art-School, South Kensington. Second Edition, price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 1d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W.

JUST PUBLISHED, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on these distressing complaints and their complete cure. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

Second Edition, price 4s. 6d., to be had of all Booksellers,
RESPIRATORY DISEASES, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., and their Specific Cure, by DR. JOHN FRANCIS CHURCHILL'S Discovery of the Hypophosphites. The Remedy is inhalation.
J. W. KOLCKMANS, No. 2, Langham-place, London.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
London: G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

ST. THOMAS'S HOME.—ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL.
ST. THOMAS'S HOME will be OPENED on TUESDAY, MARCH 1, NEXT for the RECEPTION and TREATMENT of PAYING PATIENTS of BOTH SEXES. It is intended chiefly for the treatment of cases of acute disease, those of a chronic, incurable, or infectious nature are ineligible. Persons desirous of being admitted can, either personally, or by letter, addressed to the Resident Medical Officer at the Home, obtain from him a form of application for admission, and all other necessary particulars. The charges for Board, Medicine, Nursing, and Medical Attendance for each patient will be at the rate of not less than 8s. a day. Payment to be made weekly, in advance.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on TUESDAY, MAY 10.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street entrance in Swallow-street, Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

"These pens gallop faster than our thoughts."—True Blue.
The BIG "J" PEN, 10d. and 1s.
The BIG WAVERLEY PEN, 1s. per Box.
1745 Newspapers recommend Macniven's and Cameron's Pens.
Specimen Box by post 1s. 1d.
MACNIVEN and CAMERON,
23 to 33, Blair-street,
Penmakers to Her Majesty's Government Offices,
Edinburgh (Estd. 1770).

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office, Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 7s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 20s. Solid Gold Ring, Hexagon, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with CREST and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of steel Die included, sent to any part for P.O.O.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 3d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 5s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. HIGH BROTHERS, 42 and 43, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris 1878.

A REMBRANDT, representing an Old Savant, held to be genuine by connoisseurs (as can be proved), FOR SALE by MUNGESSER, Stolberg A.-H., Province of Saxony, Prussia.

PRESENTATION ADDRESSES, Votes of Thanks, &c., Designed and Illuminated in the highest style of art by PUGH BROTHERS, Heraldic Artists. Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn. Prize Medal, Paris, 1878.

THE POSTAL SYSTEM.—Few people have been more benefited by the postal system than occupiers of gardens. Messrs. SUTTON were the first to send seeds post-free, and thousands of packets of genuine seeds are yearly sent from the Reading Establishment to all parts of the world.
Sutton's Short Select Seed-List may be had post-free on application from the Royal Berks Seed Establishment, Reading.

PURSUANT to a JUDGMENT of the HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE (Chancery Division), made in the matter of the Estate of WILLIAM HENRY KNIGHT, deceased—
"KNIGHT against the ATTORNEY-GENERAL," 1876, K. 35, directing an inquiry as to who are the next of kin according to the statutes for the distribution of the Estates of Intestates of the said William Henry Knight, deceased, late of 188, Wandsworth-road, Surrey, who died in or about February, 1856, all persons claiming as being descended from Jane Gates, Ann Newbolt, Sarah Lockingly, John Munday, or from the wife of Nicolas Knight, or from any brother or sister of Ann Weatherall, formerly Davenport, to be of such next of kin, are by their solicitors on or before the 17th day of March, 1881, to come in and prove their claims at the Chambers of the Vice-Chancellor Sir James Bacon, at No. 11, New-square, Lincoln's-inn, Middlesex, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said Order. Monday, the 21st day of March, 1881, at Twelve o'clock at noon, at the said Chambers, is appointed for hearing and adjudicating upon the claims.
Dated this 10th day of February, 1881.
E. LEDGER CLARKE, Chief Clerk.

NOTE.—The said Jane Gates and Ann Newbolt were respectively the daughters of James Knight, by Ann, his wife. The said Jane Gates was baptised at Frimley, Surrey, on the 9th March, 1788. The said Ann Knight was baptised at Farnham, Surrey, on the 16th May, 1790, and buried at Frimley, 14th May, 1881, and Ann, her wife, was buried at Frimley, 30th January, 1795. The said Sarah Lockingly was the wife of William Lockingly, and the daughter of John Osborn who was buried at Farnham, 27th June, 1801, by Elizabeth, his wife, formerly Elizabeth Knight, buried at Farnham, 13th March, 1800. The said Sarah Lockingly was baptised at Kingsley, Surrey, on the 16th February, 1766. The said Ann Weatherall, formerly Ann Davenport, was on the 20th April, 1852, married to John Weatherall, who lived in Farnham, Surrey, and died there about 1876. She died on 10th January, 1856. The said John Munday was the son of James Munday (buried at Binstead, 28th June, 1786, by Ann, his wife, formerly Ann Osborn) baptised at Kingsley, 25th July, 1757, and buried at Worplesdon in 1836. The said John Munday and our sister, Elizabeth Munday, who was married to a person of the name of Speers on 24th October, 1815, and died on 10th March, 1854, and was buried at Binstead. The said Nicolas Knight is believed to have lived at Odd Park, Farnham, early in the last century.
KAYS and JONES,
2, New Inn, Strand, London, W.C.,
Plaintiffs' Solicitors.

Mr. BIGGS has the pleasure to announce that he has a very choice selection of Furnished and Unfurnished Houses, Building Land, and Estates for Sale or to be Let. Begs to draw attention to the following:—

UNFURNISHED. — SYDENHAM-HILL, End to Let per annum: Lawrie Park, £60 to £250; Crystal Palace Estate, £70 to £95; Newlands Park Estate, £50 to £70; Westhill, £60; London-grove and Kirkdale, £40 to £50; Upper Norwood, Anerley, and Penge, £20 to £120 per annum; also, furnished, from 15s. to 20 guineas per week. Nos. and particulars would save Gentlemen an amount of trouble often experienced in Mr. BIGGS, Estate Agent, at his Old Established Offices, High-street, Upper Sydenham, with stamp for reply.

UPPER SYDENHAM (FURNISHED). To be LET, a conveniently arranged RESIDENCE, standing on high ground, containing 3 Sitting Rooms, Three Bedrooms, and usual offices; large Fruit, Vegetable, and Flower Garden. Rent moderate. Near three Railway Stations—L. C. and D. (High-level) and L. B. and S. C. Apply to Mr. BIGGS, Estate Agent, Upper Sydenham.

UPPER SYDENHAM (in a choice position). To be LET, UNFURNISHED, a Bijou VILLA residence, handsomely decorated, with two Reception Rooms, Three Bedrooms, and Dressing-Room. Two Reception Rooms, Housemaid's Pantry, Kitchen, Scullery, Larder, Wine Cellar, and other Offices. Noble Entrance-hall and wide Staircase and Landing, lighted, with Stained-glass windows. The elevation of red brick, in the Elizabethan style. Small premium for Lease.
Mr. BIGGS, Auctioneer, Upper Sydenham.

DUFFRYN, GLAMORGANSHIRE.—To be LET, on LEASE, FURNISHED, or to be SOLD, this Large COUNTRY HOUSE, six miles from Cardiff, in the Vale of Glamorgan. Large Reception and Bed-rooms; Stabling for seventeen horses; pleasure-grounds, walled-in Kitchen and other Shooting over 2000 acres, in a ring fence. Pheasant and partridge shooting. Suitable for a family. Will be let, or sold, also Furnished, with 100 acres of the best Partridge-shooting in the county. Rent, or Price, Duffryn, 5000 guineas: Moatmead, 1200 guineas. Apply to Mr. MILEY, Estate Agent, Cardiff; or to Messrs. Bradley and Son, Cowbridge, S. Wales.

THE PASTURES AND WHEAT-FIELDS OF THE NORTH-WEST.—Cheap and Fertile Lands in Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, and Washington, with healthy climates, railroad facilities, and assured growth of value. Address—The NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD AGENCY, 20, Water-street, Liverpool.

CHEAP FRAMES for the COLOURED PICTURE given with this Number.—Next Gilt Frame, 2s. each; with Cardboard Mount, 3s. 4s. 6d., oak and gilt, every description of frames and pictures at trade price. 6000 BEES, 41, 42, and 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden opposite Drury Lane Theatre.

CHIME CLOCK to be SOLD, a Bargain. English work throughout, with Double Chimes, and rich Musical tones; perfect timekeeper, very powerful in tone, and handsome for Hall or Dining-room. May be seen at WALLS and McCULLOCH'S, 22, Ludgate-hill.

GRAND PRIZE PUZZLES. 1032 PRIZES. Tenders of Prize Fund, Lieut.-colonel FIELDEN, Major E. P. KNOTTS-FORD FORTESCUE, J.P. Bankers—Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie, and Co., 1, Pall-mall East. The Six Puzzles, with full Directions, post-free for 24 penny stamps, or P.O. order for 2s., payable at Old Office, to J. BELL, Educational Prize Trust, 58, Pall-mall, London, S.W.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S
Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY no matter the distance FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Great qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

SPECIAL SILK NOTICE.
100 Pieces of handsome
BLACK BROCADED VELVETS,
5s. 11d., 6s. 11d., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and 10s. 9d. per yard.
Black Velvets for trimming purposes, 3s. 11d. to 6s. 9d.
Black striped Velvets (best quality), 6s. 9d. and 8s. 3d.
Black Brocaded Silks and Satins, 5s. 6d. to 8s. 11d.
Black Silk Plush, for Costumes, from 4s. 11d. to 8s. 6d.
Black Silk-faced satin, from 3s. 11d. to 5s. 9d.
Duchess Satin in Black and in White, 5s. 9d. to 12s. 6d.
Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets and Silks, 8s. 11d. to 21s.
Satin de Lyons, in Black, 3s. 11d. 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d., 7s. 6d.
Dress Velvets—Black Lyons Velvets,
A Special Bargain,
16 Yards for 48 s.
Address for Patterns to
PETER ROBINSON, of REGENT-STREET.

3 GUINEAS.—Fashionable Warm Black Costumes, in Indian Cashmere and Vigogne, beautifully warm and soft, also in Double Cashmere and Fast-Pile Velveteen, at 2, 2½, 3, and 3 guineas.

39s. 6d.—COSTUMES in USEFUL
BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches Free.
Warm Petticoats, 5s. 9d., 7s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 5½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER
DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin,
now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

MAUGHAN'S PATENT GEYSER.
THE INSTANTANEOUS WATER HEATER.
EXTENSIVE SHOW-ROOMS, 41, CHEAPSIDE,
for the best Inventions in HOT WATER and GAS.
HOT WATER ALWAYS READY, DAY OR NIGHT!
HOT WATER FOR BATHS AND GENERAL DOMESTIC USE;
for Hotels, Clubs, Mansions, Railway Stations, Private Residences, Public Institutions, Hospitals, Large Commercial Establishments, &c.
Public Notice. Vide Newspaper Reports.
In reply to continuous inquiries, I again publish, by permission, the following letter from the Surgeon called in:—
DR. J. SIDNEY TURNER'S LETTER.
"Stanton House, Thicket-road, Upper Norwood, S.E.
"The apparatus which was the cause of the late accident to a gentleman at Minden-in-race, Anerley, was not a 'Geyser.'"
(Signed) "J. Sidney Turner, M.R.C.S., &c."
GEYSER FACTORY, CAMBRIDGE-HEATH.
For Prospectuses apply to E. W. MAUGHAN, as above.

FARROW and JACKSON,
the largest and best Makers of
IRON WINE BINS, SODA-WATER RACKS,
BAR FITTINGS, SEALING-WAX,
and every Article for the Dealer in or Consumer of Wines,
18, GREAT TOWER-STREET; 8, HAYMARKET;
91, MANSELL-STREET, LONDON.
Agent in Paris,
N. EDARD, 26, RUE DU DRAGON.

TURKEY CARPETS.
TRELOAR and SON,
No. 69, LUDGATE-HILL.
The Importers beg to call attention to the following List, and will be pleased to quote a price for Turkey Carpets of any size from their extensive stock.
TURKEY CARPETS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 8ft. 10in. by 6ft. 11in. | .. | £3 2 6 |
| 9ft. 0in. by 6ft. 10in. | .. | 3 5 6 |
| 10ft. 0in. by 6ft. 2in. | .. | 3 3 5 |
| 10ft. 4in. by 6ft. 5in. | .. | 3 12 6 |
| 11ft. 10in. by 11ft. 8in. | .. | 13 12 6 |
| 12ft. 0in. by 9ft. 9in. | .. | 13 17 6 |
| 14ft. 8in. by 13ft. 1in. | .. | 21 0 0 |
| 19ft. 11in. by 14ft. 8in. | .. | 25 0 0 |

Shipments every few days.
TRELOAR and SON, (Estab. 1832.)
No. 69, LUDGATE-HILL.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES,
FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING;
CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS,
DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.
CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES,
CHESTS, BOXES, &c.
CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS
POST-FREE.
CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS.
Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
SOLD in TINS and TIN-LINED PACKETS
ONLY, by ALL GROCERS.
STEAM MILLS, BRICK-LANE, LONDON.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.
CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.
CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 12,000,000 lbs.
CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER."
Keeps in all climates. Requires no cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis, in Air-Tight Tins, 1s., 2s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

FRY'S | Gold Medal, Paris. — First Award, Sydney.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.
PURE COCOA ONLY.
COCOA. | FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
"Strictly pure."—W. W. Stoddart, F.I.C., F.C.S., City Analyst, Bristol.
Thirteen Exhibition Medals.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea Imported. Sold only in Packets.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
IS A WORLD-WIDE NECESSARY.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE NURSERY.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE SICK-ROOM.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
HAS A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER makes bread, cake, pastry, puddings, &c., light, sweet, and digestible. Sold in 1d., 2d., 6d., 1s., 2s. 6d., and 5s. packages. Four Gold Medals awarded. 120,000 packages sold weekly.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained in Wood by wholesale merchants and dealers, direct from their respective distilleries.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM, KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR)
LIGHT-BROWN
COD-LIVER OIL.
THE PUREST. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.
THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
Proved by thirty years' medical experience to be
THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL
which produces the full curative effects in
CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the World-it would be unjust, and, indeed, I fear to found. It a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."
DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was unexceptionally, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."
DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest.
"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by DR. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found DR. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."
JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surg., Army, Prof. of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of hydrocarbons in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of Dr. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."
DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled Imperial Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER
THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induces luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO is the purest and most fragrant dentifrice ever made. All dentists will allow that the whiter the teeth—for pastes can possibly be no substitute for polishing the teeth and keeping them sound and white as a pure and non-gritty tooth-powder such Rowlands' Odonto has always proved itself to be. Of Chemists.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure every case in an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "Troches" are now sold by most respectable Chemists in the United Kingdom at 1s. 1½d. per box. Those troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections caused by them (wherein, neglected, irritation frequently followed by consumption), will find prompt relief by taking one of these Troches. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp affixed to each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depot, 35, Farringdon-road, London.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other remedy is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure, without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 1s. per Bottle.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY
are requested to write for Patterns of EARLY SPRING SILKS, including
Surahs, Merveilleux, Duchesse, Lyons Brocades, Figured Velvets, Black Silks, Satin de Lyon, Gros Grains, Fancy Silks, &c.
All to be had in Black, White, and the Eighty-seven New shades of Colour.
Cash Prices. Parcels free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY
are requested to write for patterns of
NEW EARLY SPRING DRESSES, including
Angola and Camel Hair Repp Cassimir Foule,
Cachemire de Paris, Mixed Wool and Silk Damassé,
Cashmere Merino Drap de Diable, Fine Vigoureux,
New Shades of Black and Coloured Rich Velveteens,
New Pompadour and Plain Satins, Percales, &c.
All the New Colours and Designs.
Cash Prices. Paced free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—BRIDAL, BRIDESMAIDS, and other Bouquets of the choicest FLOWERS, at very moderate prices. Memorial Wreaths of choice Flowers, 10s. 6d. each. Price-list on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 384, Oxford-street, W.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—During the REBUILDING of 88, Oxford-street, WILLIAM HOOPER will continue to carry on his business at 384, OXFORD-STREET, W., opposite Bemers-street.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Medieval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 5 and 6, High Holborn.

ELKINGTON and CO.,
MANUFACTURING SILVERSMITHS,
PATENTEES OF THE ELECTRO-PLATE.

ELKINGTON and CO.
CAUTION PURCHASERS AGAINST CHEAP AND INFERIOR IMITATIONS.
Illustrated Catalogues, post-free.
ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-st.; or 42, Moorgate-st., City.

HENRY CAPT'S GENEVA WATCHES.
SPECIALITÉ REPEATERS. CHRONOGRAPHS, &c.
Special Workmen for Repairs.
London Branch, 151, Regent-street, London.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia; Damp and Dust proof; Insure cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, 4 to 10s., 14 to., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., 4 to 10s., and £18 18s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., 6 to 8., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 20, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of the finest, accurate time-keepers, full jewelled. Ladies' and Gent.'s sizes from 21s., free by post registered. Illustrated Price-List and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 92, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

NOVELTIES in JEWELLERY. New Styles for 1881. Gold, Silver, and Gem Jewellery of all kinds. New "Pic." "Mone." &c.; Artificial Diamond Jewellery; Norwegian, Italian, and Maur ique Filigree Jewellery; Lady's Watches, &c. Price-List, 300 Illustrations post-free.—Jewellery Depot, 37, Cambridge-street, Birmingham.

ROUND SHOULDERS and STOOPING PARTS cured by Dr. CHANDLER'S CHEST EXPANDING BRACE for both Sexes. Ensures growth, and produces a handsome figure. 10s. 6d. each.—66, Berners-st. Illustrations sent.

SHIRLEY'S NEURALGIC CRYSTAL cures at once, by outward application, Neuralgia in the Head and Limbs.

SHIRLEY'S NEURALGIC CRYSTAL.—Invaluable for Nervous Headaches. To be simply rubbed over the affected part. The highest testimonials received. Of the Sole Maker, J. G. SHIRLEY, 2, Westbourne-grove, London, and all Chemists. Price 2s.; post, 2s. 3d.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and safest aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies and Children. Of all Chemists.

FOR CONSUMPTION and WASTING DISEASES.—The Medicinal Food PANCREATIC EMULSION, is most efficacious in arresting the waste and loss of power, while it increases the appetite and restores strength and health. Pamphlet on application.
SAVORY and MOORE, 143 New Bond-street, London; and of Chemists everywhere.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most notable proofs are given of the rapid and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT.
Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT MEDICINE COMPANY, 468, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT.
The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

"THEY HAVE SO EQUAL."
This is the universal opinion of everybody who has tried
DR. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, for bilious and liver complaints, indigestion, wind, spasms, foul breath, nervous depression, irritability, lassitude, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, heartburn, giddiness, dizziness of the eyes, &c. Being so mild and tonic in their action no they are certain in their curative effects.—Prepared by W. Lambert, 173, Sevenoaks-place, London, W., in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d., and sold by all Chemists. The genuine are in square green packages. Take no other.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera. By W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. .. 5s.
Pianoforte Solo, arranged by Berthold Tours.. .. .. 3s.
Waltz. D'Albert .. .. 4s. | Polka. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Lancers. D'Albert .. .. 4s. | Galop. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Quadrille. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Fantasia by Boyton Smith (2) and Kuhe .. .. each 4s.
Smallwood's three easy Fantasias .. .. .. each 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera. Enormous success at the Strand Theatre. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. .. 8s. net.
Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture, Songs, &c. .. .. .. .. 4s. „
Pianoforte Solo .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. „
Lancers. D'Albert .. 2s. net. | Galop. D'Albert .. 2s. net.
Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „ | Neapolitan and Isoarot Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Quadrille. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Polka. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Boyton Smith's Fantasia .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.
ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
PORTIA WALTZ .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
CAN'T STOP! GALOP .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. .. .. .. 1s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready, Volume II. of
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes from 2 gs. Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these Instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, two stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass and coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry E.C.

DANSES GROTESQUES, for Piano. Three Numbers. Price 4s. each. By ARTHUR H. JACKSON.
On Tit-Spage the following Portraits by E. J. Wheeler:—Mesdames A. Patti, C. Nilsson, and Miss Brandon, Liszt, Wagner, Rubinstein, Verdi, Offenbach, Wilhelmj, Joachim, Sims Reeves, Herbert Reeves, Santley, Arthur Sullivan, and W. H. Gilbert; also Artist, Composer, and Publisher.
STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER and Co., Music Publishers, 84, New Bond-street, London, W.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
THE LATEST SUCCESS.
BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE .. .. .. .. 6s. net.
SONGS.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net. Now ready.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
DANCE MUSIC, BILLEE TAYLOR, ready Orchestra, 2s.; septet, 1s. 6d.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 1000th Edition. 4s.
"The best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

Post-free, 2s. net.
A LIFE'S LOVE. In C and D. Song. The forthcoming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming engagements. Post-free, 24 stamps.

PIANO DUETS.
C. REINECKE. Three Sonatas, Op. 139. Price 2s. net.

PIANO SOLOS.
W. KUHE. NEW SACRED TRANSCRIPTIONS.
Eli (Costa), Naaman (Costa). Price 2s. each net.
TH. LACH. NEW PIECES.
Menuet, La Meunette, Bolero. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. ROUBIER. NEW PIECES.
Joyeuse Réunion, Fête a Trianon, Parfait Bonheur. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
FRANZ HITZ. NEW PIECES.
Caverstage (Caprice). Dutin Rose, Le Regiment qui passe. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
JOYFUL MOMENTS. Ten Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. each net.
OUR FAVOURITES. Ten Moderately Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. 3d. each net.

THE PROGRESSIVE MUSIC SCHOOL.
Carefully Edited, Fingered, and Corrected from the Original Manuscripts by J. LEYBACH. First Series (very easy), 13 Numbers. Numbers 1 to 14, price 1s. 3d. each no.; Number 15, price 1s. 6d. net.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.
S. JACOBY. Six Popular Airs (Easy). Price 1s. each net.
CH. TOURVILLE. Twelve Favourite Subjects (Moderate). Price 1s. 6d. each net.

H. FARMER. Popular Violin Solos (Brilliant), with Piano Accompaniment. Nine Numbers. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.
THE SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.
THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND.
THE SONGS OF IRELAND.
THE SONGS OF WALES.
THE SONGS OF FRANCE.
THE SONGS OF GERMANY.
THE SONGS OF ITALY. (In the Press.)
THE SONGS OF SCANDINAVIA and Northern Europe.
THE SONGS OF BOHEMIA, HUNGARY, and Eastern Europe. (In the Press.)
The above 10 volumes contain nearly 1000 Popular Ballads of the various countries of Europe.

BEETHOVEN'S SONGS. (Complete.)
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S VOCAL DUETS.
The above have German and English Words.
HANDEL'S ORATORIO SONGS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS. (Italian and English Words.)
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto.
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Tenor and Baritone.
* In Rehearsal for 1881, with Italian and English Words.
MODERN BALLADS. By the most eminent living composers.
SACRED SONGS, ANCIENT AND MODERN.
HUMOROUS SONGS. NEW AND OLD.
CHOICE DUETS FOR LADIES' VOICES.
DOUBLE VOLUME, 5s.
Price 5s. each, paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS. Containing celebrated Songs, with Italian and English Words, in the original keys.
1. THE PRIMA DONNAS ALBUM.
2. THE CONTRALTO ALBUM.
3. THE TENOR ALBUM.
4. THE BARITONE ALBUM.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Just published, a Volume of
HANDEL'S ORATORIO SONGS, Edited, with New Pianoforte Accompaniments, by W. T. BEST, containing Six of the finest Songs from The Messiah, Judas, Israel, Solomon, Deborah, Joshua, Susanna, Joseph, Hercules, Belshazzar, Theodora, &c. Price 2s. 6d., paper cover; 4s., cloth, gilt edges.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CHORAL UNION. A Collection of 80 POPULAR GLEES and PART-SONGS, in four handy-books, each containing the Music of the 40 pieces for one voice—viz., Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, or Bass. Price 6d.; or, in Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 3s. 6d.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Published this day.
THE PARISH ANTHEM-BOOK.
Containing fifty standard Anthems by the most celebrated Composers, suitable for large and small choirs; in numbers, price One Penny each; or one volume, paper cover, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt edges, 5s.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street. Specimen Anthem for One Stamp.

New Cantata for Amateur Societies.
THE SONG OF THE MONTHS. Cantata by FRANCIS HOWELL composer of "The Land of Promise." Contains twelve numbers, illustrating the months of the year. Price 2s. 6d. complete. Separate parts for the chorus, price 6d. each copy. The band parts may also be had.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEYS' PROGRESSIVE EXERCISE BOOK. A complete Course of Progressive Exercises and Studies (140 in number), by Diabelli, Bertini, Herz, Kohler Czerny, Clementi, Kalkbrenner, Mazzinghi, Hummel, Cramer, Ravina, and Moscheles.

BOOSEYS' PROGRESSIVE EXERCISE BOOK is intended to overcome every difficulty in the practice of every style of pianoforte-playing. With Portraits of Liszt, Halle, Rubinstein, and Von Bulow. Price 2s. 6d.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

To be had of every Musicseller in the United Kingdom.
THE CAVENDISH MUSIC-BOOKS. The cheapest and most popular musical serial published. Each book contains thirty-two pages of music, full size, price 6d. The only publication containing the right songs and pieces by the most eminent living composers, besides the best standard music. Forty Numbers are now published. A List of Contents gratis.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MOLLOY'S POPULAR BALLADS.
TWENTY-ONE. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling.
THE FIRST LETTER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
THE KERRY DANCE. (16th Thousand.)
LONDON BRIDGE. (31st Thousand.)
Price 2s. each net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CHILDREN OF THE CITY. New Song by STEPHEN ADAMS; the Words by Weatherly. Sung by Madame Patey at the Ballad Concerts. This day, price 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MIGNONETTE. By SUCHET CHAMPION. Sung everywhere by Mr. Edward Lloyd. New Edition. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAIRLY CAUGHT. A great Success. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE MERCHANT OF CHEAPSIDE. Madame Patey's New Song. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung at the Ballad Concerts Words by Weatherly. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

GEO. WOODS' VESPER ORGAN. No. 3, with two complete sets of reeds, five octaves, and knee swell, 9½ £14.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORDES. From 20 to 200 Guineas, for Sale, Hire, or Three-Years' System.—295, Regent-street.

PRACTICAL HARMONY. By W. S. ROCKSTRO. Price 2s.
This clear and systematic manual fully bears out its title, and will be found to save the Teacher and Student much time and perplexity. The plan of the work is the result of a full and perfect test during a long period of tuition. The work is written in a style that will command respect and carry conviction fitly years hence.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SIX SONGS for LITTLE SINGERS. Composed by ALFRED SCOTT GATTY. No. 1, "The Poodle." No. 2, "Puff." No. 3, "The Walrus and the Carpenter." No. 4, "The Whiting and the Snail." No. 5, "The Sparrow on the Tree." No. 6, "My Day." 2s. 6d. each; post-free at half price in stamps.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

BEETHOVEN'S SIX FAVOURITE WALTZES. Arranged and Fingered for the Pianoforte by G. F. WEST. 2s. each. The same, as Piano Duets, 4s. each. All post-free at half price.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE GIPSY COUNTESS. Vocal Duet. By STEPHEN GLOVER. 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps. "One of the most popular duets ever written."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HARK! THE GOAT BELLS RINGING. The most effective of H. SMART'S Vocal Duets. 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

A FAREWELL. Vocal Duet. By CLARIBEL BATT. 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps. "Will no doubt prove a success."—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

LES CHEVALIERS. Marche Militaire, composée pour Piano. Par J. DUVAL. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., 6, New Burlington-street.

Now ready, MARCH, No. 42, Twopence.
MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW.
PITMAN; and all Book and Music Sellers.

GOLDEN SUNBEAMS.
LANGTON WILLIAMS'S new Piece.
"Equal to his 'Sparkling Cascades.'"—Review.
W. WILLIAMS and Co., 221, Tottenham-court-road.

NEW MUSIC.

THE
LANGUAGE OF THE FLOWERS.
Suite de Ballet.
Performed at Kuhe's Brighton Festival, Feb. 18, and also at the Orchestral Concerts, St. James's Hall.
No. 1. DAISY. | No. 5. YELLOW JASMINE.
„ 2. LILAC. | „ 6. LILY OF THE
„ 3. FERN. VALLEY.
„ 4. COLUMBINE
Arranged as Pianoforte Solos and Duets by the Composer.
FREDERIC H. COWEN.
Solos, price 2s. each net; complete, 5s. net.
Duets, price 3s. 6d. each net; complete, 7s. 6d. net.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

MISTRESS PRUE. New Song. J. L. MOLLOY. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MISS ORRIDGE.
THE UNFINISHED SONG. FREDERIC H. COWEN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MR. SANTLEY.
THE VICAR'S SONG. From "The Sorcerer," Comic Opera. By W. S. Gilbert and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Sung by Mr. Santley at the London Ballad Concerts with enormous success. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MRS. OSGOOD.
THAT TRAITOR, LOVE. By J. L. ROECKEL. Words by Hugh Conway. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MADAME ANTOINETTE STERLING.
THE CHORISTER. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

JUST PUBLISHED.
QUEENIE GAVOTTE, for PIANO.
Price 4s. By J. T. MUSGRAVE.
"We have not met with so pretty a piece as that now before us, for it is very taking and graceful throughout, and some touches towards the close are even masterly."—Press.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

NOW READY.
LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES.
By A. S. GATTY. Book 2, with Twenty-two Woodcuts, specially drawn by Mrs. John Collier. Price 4s. net; or, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt letters and edges, price 5s. net.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS, by B. TOURS.
LA COLOMBE ENTR'ACTE. CH. GUNOD.
THE SWING SONG. CH. FONTAINE'S popular Pianoforte Piece.
Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

NEW EDITION.
TOY SYMPHONIES. By ROMBERG and HAYDN. As performed at the St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace, under the direction of Henry Leslie and F. H. Cowen. Edited by J. M. Coward. Each post-free, 30 stamps, for Pianoforte and Toy Instruments. String Parts, 18 stamps each extra. A complete Set of Toy Instruments, properly tuned and regulated, price 2 guineas.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

NO. 3 NOW READY.
AMERICAN ORGAN JOURNAL. Edited by J. M. COWARD. Containing Popular Pieces by Arthur Sullivan, Henry Smart, and other popular Composers. Nos. 1, 2, and 3, price 3s. each; or, post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

GOLD MEDALS PARIS AND VIENNA.
MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.—The Cheapest and Best. Testimonials from 1000 Musicians. Unrivalled in tone and workmanship. Celebrated for perfect tuning. Elegant cases, new designs. May be had on hire or on the three-years' system of purchase. Liberal discount for cash. Catalogue post-free.

Economy Organ, price 8 gs.

Universal Organ, 13 stops, Knee Swell, Vox Humana, and Grand Organ, price 25 gs.

Chancel Organ, Venetian Organ, Swell, &c., price 38 gs.

ORGANS, with pedals, from 80 to 220 gs.

INDIAN MODELS, for extreme climates, from 38 gs.

ORCHESTRAL ORGAN, price 300 gs.

METZLER and CO., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

METZLER'S AMERICAN ORGUINETTE, The American Orguinette is a reed Musical Instrument, constructed somewhat on the principle of the American organ, and adapted to be automatically operated by simple sheets or strips of perforated paper, each sheet representing one or more tunes. There is no limit to either kind or quantity of music. It will play Hymn Tunes, Popular Airs, sets of Quadrilles, Polkas, Waltzes, Reels, and Rompipes with a clearness, accuracy, and degree of execution which but few performers can equal. A mere child can play it.
Style A, with six tunes, £1 10s.
Style E, with attachment and six tunes, £3 10s.
Cabinet styles, with selection of Music, 12, 14, and 16 guineas.
Any description of Music 3d. a tune.
To be obtained of all Musicsellers, and
METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, PIANOFORTE TUTOR.
Catalogue and all Particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

New ready.
THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST ("L'Enfance du Christ").
By BERLIOZ.
Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Hallé. Price 5s. net, paper; 7s. net, bound.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272a, Regent-circus, London; and Cross-street and South King-street, Manchester.

THE BUGLER, in D, F, and G. By CIRO PINSUTI. Words by F. E. Weatherly. This very successful song has now reached the tenth edition.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee). Waltz. By OSCAR SEYDEL. "When she was next back to the ball-room, Captain Winsdanley followed her, and claimed his waltz. The band was just striking up the latest German melody, 'Weit von Dir,' a strain of lingering tenderness."—Vide Miss Braddon's "Vixen." Each of the above 2s. net.
B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

IMPORTANT.
Owing to the great success of F. H. COWEN'S New Song,
THE CHILDREN'S HOME,
W. MORLEY, Jun., and CO. have much pleasure in announcing the purchase of Mr. Cowen's next Song.
THE WATCHMAN AND THE CHILD, which will rank with his finest and most popular works.
Ready this day.
Keys for all Voices.
IN THE CLOISTERS. By ODOARDO BARRI. New Song.
"A song of uncommon beauty and merit, which will soon be equally popular with 'The Lost Chord.' Of moderate compass, yet thoroughly vocal, its charming phrases must ensure success alike to the professional vocalist or amateur."—Review.
24 stamps each.
W. MORLEY, Jun., and CO., 70, Upper-street, London, N.

NEW MUSIC.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan."—Mr. Pepys the Musician, by F. Hueffer.—The Great Composers: Berlioz.—The Father of the Symphony.—Pouchelli's Opera "The Fradical Son."—Monday Popular.—Crystal Palace, and Mr. Halle's Concerts.—Music in Manchester.—Occasional Notes.—Foreign and Country News.—Reviews.—Correspondence, &c. Price 3d., post-free, 4d. Annual Subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains a special and full report of the recent production of Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera, "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan," at the Hanover Opera House.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—"The Son of God goes forth to war" (Ann's tune), by ARTHUR SULLIVAN; and "God so loved the world," Anthem, by Sir JOHN GOSS. Price 1½d.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIOS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
Engedi .. .. Beethoven. | Israel in Egypt .. Handel.
Mount of Olives .. Spohr. | Judas Maccabæus .. „
Jephthah .. .. Carissimi. | The Creation .. Haydn.
Messiah .. .. Handel. | Last Judgment .. Spohr.
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S CANTATAS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
God goeth up .. .. Bach. | Hear my Prayer Mendelssohn.
God's Time is the Best. „ | The first Walpurgis Night .. „
My spirit was in heaviness .. „ | Midsummer .. „
O light everlasting .. „ | Night's Dream .. „
Bide with us .. .. „ | Man is mortal .. „
A Stronghold Sure .. „ | Pestgesang .. „
Ruins of Athens .. Beethoven. | Christus .. „
Ascent of Destiny .. Bradley. | Daughter of Jairus .. „
The Dream .. .. Sir M. Costa. | Ave Maria .. .. „
Spring's Message. 8d. | The Lay of the Bell Romberg.
Nials W. Gade. | The Transient and the Eternal .. „
Christmas Eve .. „ | Song of Miriam .. P. Schubert.
Ert King's Daughter .. „ | Manfred .. .. R. Schumann.
Nenia .. .. .. Goetz. | New Year's Song .. „
The Soul's Aspiration Grimm. | The North-east Wind
Acis and Galatea .. Handel. | Spring .. .. A. M. Smith.
Autumn, Winter (from | God Thou art great .. Spohr.
"The Seasons") .. Haydn. | The Christian's Prayer .. „
May Day .. .. G. A. Macfarren. | Jubilee Cantata, C. M. V. Weber.
Lobgesang .. .. Mendelssohn.
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S MASSES, PSALMS, &c.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
Stabat Mater .. .. Astorga. | 114th Psalm .. .. Mendelssohn.
Magnificat .. .. .. Bach. | 115th Psalm .. .. „
Mass in C .. .. Beethoven. | 13th Psalm .. .. „
Requiem (C minor) Cherubini. | 91st Psalm .. .. Meyerbeer.
Third Mass in A .. Haydn. | First Mass .. .. Mozart.
By the Waters of Babylon. | Twelfth Mass .. .. „
Requiem Mass (Latin and English) .. Goetz. | Requiem Mass (Latin and English) .. „
Messe Solennelle .. Ch. Gounod. | Stabat Mater (Female Voices) .. .. Pergolesi.
Dettingen Te Deum .. Handel. | Stabat Mater .. .. Rossini.
Utrecht Jubilate .. .. „ | Mass in G .. .. Schubert.
O praise the Lord (Sixth Chandos Anthem) .. „ | Advent Hymn .. R. Schumann.
First Mass (B flat) .. Haydn. | Mass .. .. .. E. Silas.
Second Mass (G) .. „ | Mass (G) .. .. C. M. Von Weber.
Third Mass (Imperial) „ | Mass (E flat) .. „
Te Deum (Latin and English Words) .. „ | O Lord, Thou art my God. S. S. Wesley.
42nd Psalm .. .. Mendelssohn.
95th Psalm .. .. „
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

SOMEBODY KNOWS. By SAINTON-DOLBY. Words by Edward Oxenford. Sung by Madame Enriquez with immense success, and always encored. Post-free, 2s. net.—KEPPEL and Co., 221, Regent-street, London.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 65, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from steel Wirebarrows, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £26.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 46 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

PLEYEL WOLFF and CO.'S BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO, with gold-covered strings, may be had in ebonised, walnut, or rosewood cases. Carriage-free to towns where there are no agents.
170, New Bond-street, W.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO. (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Carefully packed free, and sent to any part. Drawings gratis.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

BROADWOOD PIANO, 25 Guineas. Full-compass PIANOFORTE. Good condition, fine tone. Warranted new within three months.
AT OETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Tussaud's).

£35.—There is nothing in London—nor, in fact, in all England—to be compared to the elegantly DRAWING-ROOM TRICHORD COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with Cabriole Fluse Legs, which is sold for £35 by THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

D'ALMAINES' PIANOS HALF PRICE. In consequence of a change of partnership, the whole of this splendid stock, perfected with all the modern improvements of the day by the long standing firm, of 150 years' reputation, and in order to effect a speedy sale, the easiest terms arranged, with seven years' warranty. Trichord Cottages from hire, or taken in exchange, £10 to £1 10s. per month.
Class 0, £14 | Class 2, £20 | Class 4, £26 | Class 6, £40
Class 1, £17 | Class 3, £23 | Class 5, £30 | Class 7, £50
American Organs from £5.—91, Finsbury Pavement, Moorgate.

MUSICAL BOX DEPÔTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Price £4 to £300. Snuff-boxes from 18s. to 80s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA.
BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from .. .. 21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS .. .. .. £3s. to £50
DRESSING CASES .. .. .. .. .. 21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES .. .. .. .. .. 21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES .. .. .. 4s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS.. 10s. 6d. to £5
INKSTANDS .. .. .. .. .. 5s. to £3
CANDLESTICKS (per pair) .. .. .. 7s. 6d. to £3
WORK BOXES and BASKETS .. .. .. 10s. to £5
THE NEW "ANTARIC" LIQUEUR STAND .. 105s. to £10
THE NEW SEVRES PORCELAIN TEA-SET, 12s. 6d. and 18s. 6d.
And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS at RODRIGUES', with Patent Leather Guards, 4s. 6d. to £5. Floral Albums, Scrap Albums, Presentation and Birthday Albums.
Albums of every description made to order.—42, Piccadilly.

DIAMONDS. Mr. STREETER,
SAPPHIRES. 18, New Bond-street, W.
CATS'-EYES. INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEW ELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
OPALS.
EMERALDS. BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

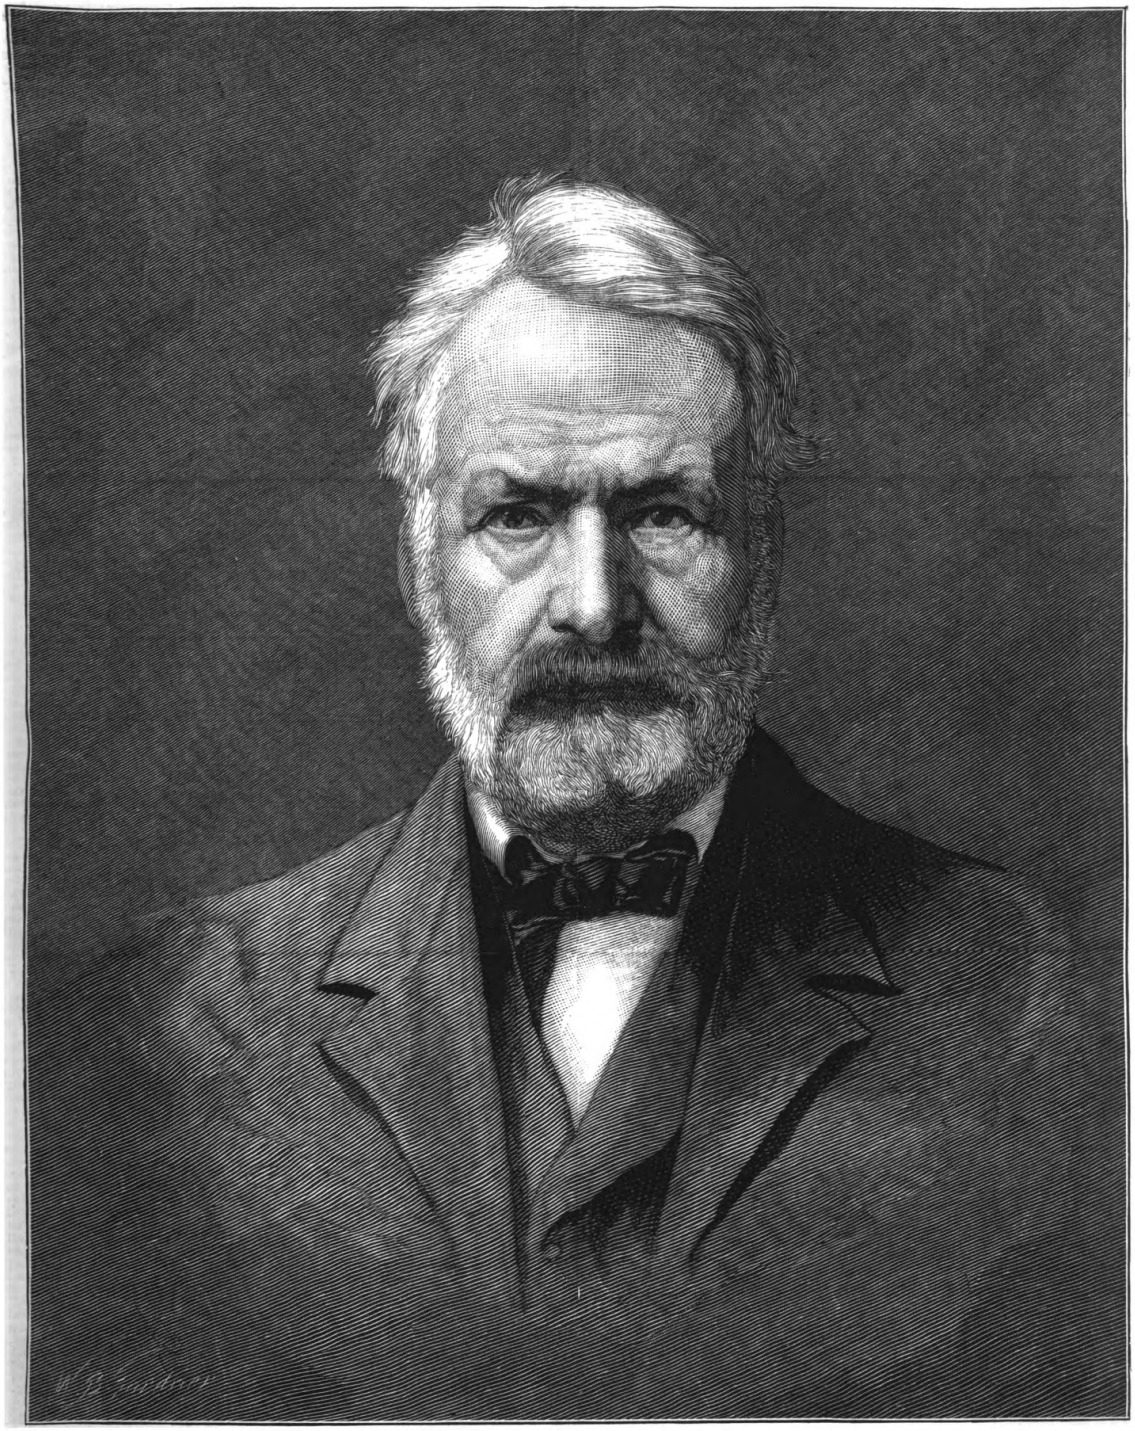
LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1881.



VICTOR HUGO.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

The Coloured Supplement.

"THINNING THE FIELD."

"So you have found the Albany at last, have you?" said Berkley Beauchamp, as he got up languidly from his cosy couch, and welcomed his friend to his bachelor chambers. "At last, eh?" returned Massey. "I got back but to-day, and I came straight here." "All right, Gerard; start a seat, my boy; the tankard is by you, and you will find some weeds. Light up." "Thanks; you know my weakness. Decent diggings, these." "Well, they are quiet, and that suits me; and I am freer of the Clubmen than I was in Pall-mall." "Is Forbes in town?" "He is," was the answer, "and will be here presently;" and in half an hour afterwards Forbes Willoughby came—his friend and Beauchamp's—and entered noisily with this refrain—"For of all this world's blessings, that which is 'A 1,' Is hunting, fox-hunting; it beats all, bar none!" As Massey rose to greet him, "Cease that din, you duffer," cried Beauchamp, "and consider my nerves." "Cease it?" said the singer, who had a weakness for song. "Did that glorious Whyte-Melville cease it? Not he, poor old boy. No! 'There in the bottom, see, sluggish and idle, Steals the dark stream where the willow-tree grows. Harden your heart and catch hold of your bridle, Steady him! rouse him! and over he goes!' That is, you know, Berkley, he should have gone over, because I did harden my heart, and I did catch hold of him, 'where the willow-tree grows;' but, alas! I kissed my mother earth, and he went to the fishes; and my pretty cousin, who was close behind, did forthwith join him!" "Cousin! What cousin?" asked Beauchamp, as he stroked his moustache, complacently. "Barbara, the beautiful—but you don't know her."

"It was in this way, old fellow. There was a big breakfast on at the Manor House—where I was, you know—and we turned out strongly; primed and in good condition, both men and mounts, so, fit to go. For what sayeth the poet on that same head? 'If your horse be well bred, and in blooming condition, Both up to the country, and up to your weight, Oh! then give the rein to your youthful ambition, Sit down in the saddle, and keep his head straight.' Stirring lines, those, Berkley! and if a certain fair foreigner should happen to hear them—she is now with the Cheshire, and always goes straight—Sweetheart and Sailor, Bright Star and Butter-cup—her four favourite horses—will have a good time."

"Get on," said Beauchamp, "do, and let us have it!"

"Right you are," continued Willoughby. "This, then, was the way of it. After sailing across the pastures, with our fox in front, we skirted a plantation and came on down hill, where was a wide brook in the flat, which the floods had swollen. So, we all put on the steam, to get well over; Barbara, I, and old Charlie Grier, and our host, and his two sons, George and James, the latter in pink, like ourselves—I mean Charles and me—and on a small blood wiry mare; and, as the huntsman got over the brook at the corner, down we raced for a willow-tree, Charlie making for the one side of it, and I the other, when, getting first to the liquid, I flew it, dropped short, and grassed; as my horse fell backwards in it. Barbara thus was thrown out of her stride, and hence got soused delightfully, as Bondsman dashed in, and Forrester followed him—two laggard hounds—and Charlie boy landed the grey. At this, it seems, Jem's mare refused, and nearly pulled him; and as the roan swerved round with the poor old man, young George reined in. Then, a farmer, on their left, came tearing down with a hard-mouthed puller, and cannoned two men who were picking places, so all went in! and ere they could get out, three others followed, the take-off being boggy, and the dropping bad. So, as the song says, 'There were eight of us had it, and seven got in.' It was most laughable! Meantime, whilst they were floundering there, the rear-guard shirked it, and, making for a gap where three poplars grew, they got into the lane, down which some careful men were just then pounding. You never saw such an instance of 'thinning the field' as that brook gave us! Barbara, by this time, was out of the mess, and my horse, too; but Jemmy still was pondering. So, firing a shot at him, with 'Never stand dreaming, while yonder they 're streaming, If ever you mean it, man, mean it to day!' off we went together."

"What fun! I wish I could have seen it," Beauchamp said.

"You do, do you? Then you shall see it!" said Willoughby; and unfolding a roll that he had in his hand, he held it out before them, with "Here it is, most noble youths, all set out clearly, and as I have given it; and taken, as you will see, by the instantaneous process."

"Confound your impudence!" was the exclamation. "Why, that's the picture by Sturgess—and a good one, too—that is issued with this week's Illustrated London News; and you have been studying it down in the porter's lodge, to come up here and sell us!"

"Well now, that's true for you. I begged it at a news-shop where I buy my Times."

"What's to be done with him, Gerard, for this incorrigible tendency, this gross romancing?" said Beauchamp, as he moved uneasily. "What verdict must be given?" "Guilty, undoubtedly," responded Massey, "and without hope of mercy. So let him be taken to the place from whence he came"—"The Criterion," quoth the culprit, "and close at hand"—"and there—stand a champagne dinner!" "Agreed," said Willoughby, "and I will drown my imagination in libations to you both. Come on, my boys, and we 'll make an evening of it!"

---

The labours of a number of miners have been successful in filling up a large chasm caused by the river Bradford breaking through the roof of a disused mine at Alport, in Derbyshire. The stream, however, still flows through the mass of rock and timber thrown into the opening, and finds its way to the Derwent underground. It is impossible to divert the stream, by reason of the conformation of the ground.

Nursemaids who insist upon wheeling their perambulators two or three abreast on the pavements, for the sake of a pleasant chat, will do well to note a case which was decided at the Hammersmith Police Court last week. Two girls were fined 7s. each and 2s. costs for persisting in this objectionable practice in Clarendon-road, Notting-hill, after a gentleman had remonstrated with them. In this case, it is true, the offenders had added to their misconduct by calling the complainant "an old humbug."

On Monday afternoon the usual monthly meeting of the Royal Asiatic Society was held at the offices, 22, Albemarle-street; the chair being occupied by Major-General Sir Henry C. Rawlinson. The Rev. John Cain read a paper on The Kois or Gonds of Central India, in which he gave an account of the manners and customs of some eight classes or castes of Kois which he had come in contact with during his sojourn in India as a missionary. Mr. Cyril Graham gave an account of the Avar or Lesghian language of the Caucasus.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE WATERLOO CUP.

Up to within a few hours of the time fixed for the commencement of the great meeting at Altcar the prospects of sport looked gloomy indeed. The late severe and long frost must have been terribly trying to the hares, and this was followed by such heavy and continuous rain that the Alt twice burst its banks, and the whole country was flooded. On the Monday, indeed, it appeared utterly impossible that the fixture could be brought off to date, but continuous pumping worked wonders, and, on the Tuesday night, it was certain that the first brace of dogs would be slipped at the usual time, though it was considered that it might be necessary to abandon the Purse and Plate altogether. Another few hours, however, witnessed a still further improvement, and little fault could be found with the "going," while hares proved plentiful, and stout enough to furnish some grand trials. As everything connected with the most important event of the coursing season has been thoroughly canvassed by this time, it is unnecessary for us to do more than touch upon the most salient features of the running. The first sensational encounter was that between Honeywood, the winner of the prize in 1880, and Bishop. The former was a strong favourite at 8 to 1 for the event, and odds of 5 to 2 and 3 to 1 were laid on him for this course. Bishop had the best of the slip, and the favourite, running in a style that suggested that his injured leg was far from sound, never had the least chance in a very fair trial. This terrible upset was immediately succeeded by the downfall of Dulas, who made a very poor fight against Meols Water; and then Palm Bloom succumbed to Kirkstall Abbey. Cui Bono performed with great fire in his spin with Master Willie; but Truthful never scored a single point against Annabel. Plunger did not show much cleverness, still he ran with great determination, and, in spite of a heavy fall, defeated Clyde Cutter in handsome fashion. Free Flag jumped the drains in fine style, and gave Glenara very little chance in a long trial, and Debonnaire just beat Dalcardo under great difficulties. Salamis could hardly raise a gallop in her course with Coquette, but the latter unfortunately got on to a fresh hare at the end of a long trial. Plunger v. Woodbine was the first noteworthy trial of the second round. The former again made up for his want of cleverness by his determination, and, after falling into a drain and cannoning heavily against the judge's horse, left off a good winner. Free Flag and Debonnaire gave their backers little uneasiness in their respective courses; but Coquette had been so much punished in the first round that she could do little in her spin with Commerce. Handicraftsman led Princess Dagmar to the hare, but, when the latter once got in, she had matters pretty much her own way. The third round was begun by Clyto giving Surpriser a decisive beating; Bishop never allowed Dartmoor's Princess to make a point; and Cui Bono put out Fagot in brilliant fashion, though the latter performed exceedingly well on the first day, and we regret to hear that he has since died. A terribly long trial between Vindictive and Plunger resulted in favour of the former; but she was so hard run that her chance of ultimate success was virtually extinguished. The antagonism of Free Flag and Debonnaire would have excited great interest had it not been generally known that the latter had suddenly gone amiss, and, as the hare favoured the former, there was never in doubt. A heavy fall put Clyto out of court in his spin with Bishop, which was the first trial of the fourth round, and Cui Bono was far too good for Assault. After the punishment she had received earlier in the day, it was imagined that Vindictive would have no chance against Free Flag, but the hare circling to her enabled her to score several points before the dog had a chance, and she left off a clever winner; this was one of the best performances ever seen under all the circumstances. In the fifth round, Bishop went too fast for Cui Bono, and Vindictive, who must have been fairly worn out, could do little against Princess Dagmar. Odds were laid on the latter for the final spin, and, having a little the better of the luck, she never allowed Bishop to score a point in a good trial. Thus Mr. Miller has had the good fortune to win the "blue ribbon" twice in three years; and his luck on this occasion is the more remarkable from the fact that Princess Dagmar was only secured to run for the nomination when it was found that Misterton was out of all form. "The Princess" herself was by no means well during the week, and receded to 50 to 1 on the night of the draw, whilst 200 to 1 might have been obtained about Bishop, and half those odds against Cui Bono or Vindictive. Mr. Hedley's decisions gave the greatest satisfaction, and Wilkinson has never slipped in better form. We append the result of the three prizes, two of which fell to England and one to Scotland:—

THE CUP.

(E) Mr. H. G. Miller ns (Mr. J. S. Postle's) w bd b PRINCESS DAGMAR, by Ptarmigan—Gallant Foe, beat (E) Mr. T. Brocklebank's bd d BISHOP, by Barleycorn—Daffodil, and won.

THE PLATE.

(E) Captain Ellis ns (Mr. N. Dunn's) r d THE DODGER, by Fugitive—Ellen Johnson, beat (S) Mr. F. Gibson (Mr. A. Coke) ns be d MACPHERSON, by Master Sam—Annie Macpherson, and won.

THE PURSE.

(S) Mr. W. Smith's f d p SAPPER, by Master Avon—Wideawake, beat (E) Mr. C. E. Mardeet's bk w d MEMNON (late Sir Richard), by Caliph—Polly, and won.

---

The death of Henry Constable, the jockey, which we regret to say occurred last week, can scarcely be said to have been altogether unexpected, though few who saw him in the saddle last autumn guessed that the end was so near. He did not, however, feel strong enough to ride after the decision of the Cambridgeshire, in which he had his last mount on Cipolata, and consumption and Bright's disease played terrible havoc with a naturally delicate constitution during the last few weeks of his life. In 1873 Constable just beat Archer for premier position in the list of winning jockeys, and headed the list with a score of 110. Sefton—a chance mount—won him his only Derby; and for the last two or three years he has scarcely ever ridden except for Lord Rosebery, who had a strong friendship for him. His Lordship spent many hours with him during his illness, and was at his bedside when he died. The funeral took place at Epsom on Saturday, and was very largely attended.

For once in a way, a meeting at Sandown Park was not favoured with fine weather, for a heavy fog spoilt much of the racing on Tuesday, and snow fell all the following afternoon and stopped the racing, when the programme was only half run through. Still, the sandy soil had been so little affected by the recent heavy rains that the ground was by no means deep or holding, and there was some capital sport. Summer Breeze, who was bought by Sir George Chetwynd at Kempton Park last week, had no difficulty in scoring another victory, and was passed on to Mr. Herbert Rymill for 325 guineas. The Prince of Wales's Steeplechase also fell to Sir George by the aid of Abbot of St. Mary's (11st. 4lb.), who jumped uncommonly well, and would probably have won even without the scrimmage which disposed of five of his opponents early in the race. On Wednesday Boisterous beat a capital field for a Hunters' flat race, and, shortly after this event, a postponement became necessary. Energetic measures have at last been taken to exclude "the scum of the course," and we did not notice a single welsher at work on either day.

A meeting of the members of the Quorn Hunt took place last week, and there seems to be strong hope that Mr. Coupland, the Master, will be induced to withdraw his resignation.

A very interesting Billiard Tournament is now taking place at the Royal Aquarium, Westminster, in which ten of the most celebrated professional players of the day are engaged. At the time of writing, Joseph Bennett, L. Kilkenny, and W. J. Peall have not lost a single game, and the champion is playing in such form that he seems likely to win the first prize. We shall give a detailed account of the handicap next week.

---

VICTOR HUGO.

This renowned literary veteran of French lyric and dramatic romance, flavoured with political and social enthusiasm of the French Democratic ideal, has reached the eightieth year of his life, which is the occasion for a tribute of personal homage from the many admirers of his character and genius. We therefore give his Portrait in this week's Number of our Journal, but shall here attempt nothing like a critical review of his multifarious writings, some of which are justly admired by English as well as by French readers, while others have been received, at least in this country, with mixed feelings of wonder at their splendid rhetorical and imaginative power, and of dissent from their temper and teaching with regard to the practical affairs of our time. There is, in truth, a wide difference in point of judgment and taste, and in the settled convictions of thoughtful minds, between the school represented by this didactic and satirical poet, and the majority of earnest reformers and philanthropists belonging to our own nation.

Victor Hugo was born at Besançon, Feb. 26, 1802. His father was a Colonel in the French Army, under Napoleon I.; and his earliest reminiscences of childhood were associated with removals to Rome and Naples and back again to Paris, dependent on the military service of the Empire. But he received instruction in classical literature at a seminary conducted by the clergy, or by some monastic order; so that the influences by which his mind was formed, in youth, were of a very mixed description. The Revolution, and its ideas of equality, the Empire with its martial adventures and glories, and the traditional sacredness of religious ideas and institutions, combined to impress his ardent imagination with a transcendental enthusiasm, which was soon captivated by the romantic school of literature. He began to write "Odes and Ballads," at the age of twenty, and such tales as "Hans of Iceland" and "Bug-Jargal," which soon followed, were conceived in the same vein. He appeared in those days a disciple of Chateaubriand, and a chivalrous Royalist, with an historic and poetical veneration for the Catholic Church. But this phase of sentiment, which he shared with other susceptible minds at the period of the Restoration, did not last many years. He embraced the principles of humanitarian democracy that came into vogue as the approach of the July Revolution of 1830; and his dramatic productions, "Cromwell," "Hernani," "Marion de Lorme," and "Le Roi s'amuse," were inspired by a disposition to revolt against the political and social hierarchy, as well as the critical orthodoxy, of the Bourbon reign. It was about that date, fifty years ago, that Victor Hugo first exhibited his great and characteristic faculty of arousing compassionate sympathy, and kindling indignation, by intense descriptions of moral and mental anguish. "The Last Days of a Condemned Criminal," which may perhaps have suggested to Dickens that passage of "Oliver Twist" relating to the experiences of Fagin on the night before his execution at Newgate, made a powerful impression on French readers in 1829. A more celebrated work, entitled "Notre Dame de Paris," the English translation of which is called "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," gained the author an immense reputation all over Europe. Many of his stories, plays, and poems are highly appreciated by Parisian taste, especially those which he furnished to the stage in its palmy condition, such as "Ruy Blas;" but the circle which they traverse is wider than a single brief notice can well take in. Victor Hugo's literary talents gained full recognition in 1841, when he was elected a member of the Academy, and was appointed by Louis Philippe one of the Chamber of Peers. As a Parliamentary orator, and in public addresses upon various set occasions, he frequently spoke in a strain of somewhat theatrical declamation. He was, however, a constant advocate of the abolition of capital punishment, and a leading member of the Peace Congress, but more of a sentimentalist than a sober moralist. In the Revolution of 1848, he failed to obtain any hold over the popular mind; and when, in 1851, Louis Napoleon perpetrated the coup d'état, Victor Hugo was one of the Republicans who found themselves helpless to resist being summarily arrested and sent into exile. He retired to Jersey, and afterwards to Guernsey, where he avenged the wrongs of his country by two small volumes, "Napoléon le Petit," in prose, 1852, and "Les Châtiments," in verse, 1853, both published at Brussels, which are the most terrible utterances of personal invective that ever chastised a traitor and usurper. In 1862, Victor Hugo produced "Les Misérables," a romance designed to inculcate the sources of human frailty, and to prove the capability of restoration to virtue, by the life-history of Jean Valjean, mixed up with other characters and affairs of the time. It was published simultaneously in nine different languages, and won a vast but fleeting popularity all over Europe. The author has since brought forth "Les Travailleurs de la Mer," a romance of the Jersey fishermen; "L'Homme qui Rit," an extraordinary piece of fiction; "L'Histoire d'Un Crime," a narrative of the coup d'état of December, 1851; the "Légende des Siècles," and "Le Pape," with other didactic or allegorical poems. Victor Hugo returned to Paris in 1871, after the fall of the Empire, and was elected a member of the National Assembly, but soon resigned his seat. He is, undoubtedly, a poet of great and original genius, but neither a philosopher nor a statesman, and it is to be regretted that he has wasted so much power of language and force of passion in misconceived attempts to alter the practical conditions of social life.

---

Sir Bartle Frere gave an address on South Africa before the Royal Colonial Institute on Tuesday night. Besides confederation for mutual defence, he recommended that the colonies should possess representation in our Parliament.

The presentation of the public subscription, amounting to £560, together with silver medals, to the crews of the Ramsgate life-boat and the tug Vulcan, took place at the Granville Hotel on Monday evening. The Rev. Canon Elwyn, late Vicar of Ramsgate, took the chair.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

The Chamber of Deputies on Wednesday passed the bill for the creation of a Civil and Military Pension Fund by 239 votes to 54, and subsequently voted the bill for the Abolition of the Forced Currency by 266 votes to 27.

BELGIUM.

M. Bara, the Minister of Justice, announced in the Chamber of Representatives, last week, the decision of the Government to reduce the salaries of the Bishops, the Ministry considering that the Belgian Prelates had been the real authors of the disturbance in the country.

HOLLAND.

The election of a deputy to represent Amsterdam in the Second Chamber in place of M. Vening-Meiness has taken place; M. J. Dirks, Engineer-in-chief of the Waterstaat, the Liberal candidate, being returned, having polled 779 votes against 150 obtained by M. Van den Biesen, Ultramontane. The third candidate M. Wiegel, anti-Revolutionist, had 77 votes.

SWITZERLAND.

M. Droz, hitherto Vice-President, has been elected President, and M. Bavier, member of the Federal Council, Vice-President of the Swiss Confederation. M. Hofmann, Councillor of State and member of the Radical party, succeeds the late M. Anderwert as member of the Federal Council. These elections involve no change in the policy of the Swiss Government.

GERMANY.

In the Upper House of the Prussian Diet an altercation took place on the 17th inst. between Prince Bismarck and Herr Camphausen, formerly Minister of Finance. The latter having opposed the bill proposing a remission of 14,000,000 marks of taxation, Prince Bismarck replied that, in blaming the present direction of the finances of the country, Herr Camphausen was at the same time condemning in the severest manner his own financial administration. He had altogether mismanaged the Ministry, and although he had been a stanch colleague "he was absolutely wanting in the power of initiating any financial scheme." Herr Camphausen rejoined that he had never expected such thanks for his past labours.

Prince Bismarck has caused another political "sensation" at Berlin by disavowing the action of a member of the Prussian Ministry. In the Upper House of the Diet on Saturday last Count Eulenburg, the Minister of the Interior, spoke in favour of a proposed modification in the County Administration Bill. As soon as the Minister sat down an official of the Ministry of Commerce read a letter from Prince Bismarck, who was confined to his house with a cold, repudiating the course recommended by the Minister. Count Eulenburg has sent in his resignation to the Emperor; but it is not yet accepted, and the Crown Prince is said to be endeavouring to effect a reconciliation.

The Bismarck-Eulenberg incident has taken an unexpected turn. Having conferred with the Emperor, Prince Bismarck attended the Upper House of the Diet on Monday, and said that he never intended the statement disavowing the action of Count Eulenberg to read in the House, that there was no real difference between himself and the Count, and that therefore there was no cause for the Minister to resign. The clause to which Prince Bismarck had objected was then discussed, and passed by fifty to forty-five votes, the Prince voting with the majority, and thereby giving his adhesion to the views expressed on Saturday by Count Eulenberg. During the debate which preceded the final vote Herr Brühl spoke of the "recent Ministerial message," upon which Prince Bismarck again rose and warmly repudiated having assumed functions which belonged to the Emperor only.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

The Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria arrived at Cairo on Saturday, and was met at the railway station by the Khedive. Next day there was a review of the troops, and on Monday the Crown Prince started on the Viceroy's steamer up the Nile for a fortnight's trip.

The Prince's marriage with Princess Stéphanie of Belgium will take place in May next.

The Hungarian Finance Minister announces a new loan of twenty millions.

After a ten-days' animated debate, the Croatian Diet has passed, by a majority of twenty-four, the agreement lately concluded between the deputations appointed by the Hungarian and Croatian Diets to fix the number of members which the Military Frontier district about to be annexed to Croatia is to send to the Hungarian Diet. The agreement thus accepted has to be passed by the Hungarian Diet.

The Committee of the Lower House of the Reichsrath, on the question of the official language to be used in Bohemia, has adopted, by 14 votes to 9, a motion of Herr Hohenwart declaring that the Language Ordinance in no way exceeds the Government right of issuing ordinances, and is not contrary to any existing law.

RUSSIA.

General Scobeleff has officially announced that the pacification of the country about Geok Tepe is making very satisfactory progress. An amnesty has been proclaimed in the name of the Emperor, and 16,000 families have returned to their homes.

During the celebration of the anniversary of the foundation of the University at St. Petersburg one of the students made a speech of an inflammatory character, and a proclamation was thrown from the choir gallery among the students assembled in the hall, who, on the request of the Rector, immediately restored order.

TURKEY AND GREECE.

Mr. Goschen had an audience of the Sultan on the 17th inst., and his Majesty is said to have received our Ambassador in a very cordial manner. The Sultan, on receiving Count Hatzfeldt, the German Ambassador at Constantinople, on Sunday renewed his assurance that it was his intention to make the fullest concessions to Greece, but laid great stress on the necessity of upholding the strategical integrity of Turkey. On Monday the Ambassadors handed to the Turkish Minister for Foreign Affairs a Note, in which they inform the Porte that they are prepared to enter into negotiations on the subject of the Turco-Greek frontier, but meanwhile invite the Porte to indicate a frontier line, to serve as a basis for these negotiations.

Meanwhile, the preparations for war continue on both sides.

A Constantinople telegram in the Standard says that no pause will be made in the military activity shown of late until 110,000 men are assembled in Macedonia, Thessaly, and Epirus. The chief command has been given to Dervish Pasha, and five Marshals serve under him. Twenty-eight ships of war have been commissioned or are being fitted, the command of which will probably be given to Hobart Pasha.

The Greek Chamber of Deputies on the 17th inst. passed the third reading of the Ministerial Bill for the provisional organisation of a national guard, and empowering the Minister of War to fill up gaps in the regular army from it; and on Monday a Royal decree was submitted to the Chamber calling to arms all men above the age of twenty-one who have served three months or more. Two other decrees were likewise presented, the first empowering the Government to admit foreign officers into the Greek army, provided they become Greek citizens, and the second modifying one organisation of the financial department of the army.

AMERICA.

General Garfield continues to summon and confer with the leading Republicans of various States.

The Census report thus classifies the population of the United States:—Males, 25,520,582; females, 24,632,284. Native born, 43,475,506; foreign born, 6,677,360. Whites, 43,404,877; coloured, 6,577,151. The remaining 170,838 are composed of Indians not in tribal relations and under Government care, Chinese, and other Asiatics. The Chinese are estimated at 105,363.

Resolutions expressing sympathy with the Irish people have been passed by the Connecticut Legislature. The Maine Senate recently passed a resolution expressing sympathy with the Irish people; but this resolution the Maine Assembly declines to support. This course is said to be significant of the changing views of the American people on the Irish question since Mr. Parnell's visit to Paris.

Tuesday being Washington's birthday, there was a general holiday throughout the United States.

CANADA.

In the sitting of the Dominion House of Commons on the 16th inst. a bill amending the Canadian Temperance Act in a way which would have virtually rendered it inoperative came on for second reading, but was thrown out.

Sir S. L. Tilley, the Minister of Finance, brought forward his Budget for the financial year yesterday week. The Minister estimated the receipts for the current year at 27,000,000 dols., and the expenditure at 25,000,000 dols.; and for 1882 at 28,000,000 and 27,500,000 dols. respectively. He claimed that these figures established the productiveness of the new tariff, and stated that he proposed to make certain raw materials duty free, and increase the duties on certain manufactured articles where protection was needed. In his opinion it was undesirable to effect reductions at the present time, particularly in view of the possibility of a reciprocity treaty; but if the position changed he should be happy to make reductions. In conclusion, Sir S. L. Tilley submitted the resolutions embodying the proposed changes in the tariff, which he declared would not materially reduce the revenue.

In Monday's sitting Mr. Mackenzie moved for the production of the correspondence between England and the United States on the Fortune Bay affair. He feared that concessions injurious to Canadian interests would be insisted on by America, for which reason the Canadian Government should watch the proceedings closely. Sir S. L. Tilley, the Finance Minister, replied that if any correspondence had passed on the subject it would be produced.

According to official returns, the revenue of the Dominion of Canada from July 1 last to the 10th inst. amounted to 17,252,928 dols., and the expenditure to 15,483,642 dols.

The Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick has passed a resolution expressing confidence in the Government by twenty-four against three votes.

---

Two villages in Savoy have been overwhelmed by avalanches. Fifteen persons are known to have perished.

Ayoub Khan, of Herat, is stated to have declared war against the Ameer of Cabul, and to have occupied Maimend.

Shocks of earthquakes have taken place at St. Michael's, in the Azores.

The son of the Emperor of Japan arrived at Marseilles on Monday, on his way to England, where he is going to complete his military education.

The Institute of France has awarded to M. Van den Heuvel, barrister, of Ghent, the prize of 5000f., founded by M. Odillon Barrot, for comparative jurisprudence. This is only the second time that the prize has been awarded.

Lieutenant Schwatka, of the United States Army, has offered to place at the disposal of her Majesty's Government the Franklin Relics discovered by him in his recent successful search expedition.

In the Kolapore conspiracy case the assessors have unanimously found seventeen of the accused guilty of an attempt to wage war against the Kolapore State and of conspiracy, two others of cheating, and acquitted the rest. Judgment was postponed.

News has reached St. Vincent from the West Coast of Africa that the Ashantees are three days' march from Cape Coast Castle, and that war is imminent. Great excitement is said to prevail at Cape Coast Castle. Captain Barstow and one hundred troops from Lagos and Quitta, together with some Gatling guns and 350 men of the 2nd West India Regiment from Sierra Leone, had arrived, and the crew of her Majesty's gun-boat Flirt had also been landed at Fort Elmina.

An extraordinary and terrible accident is reported from Munich. The students of the Academy of Painters were holding a masked fête when the costume of one who was dressed in the flax costume of an Esquimaux caught fire from a cigar. In his terror the young man rushed with his blazing costume among the others, and several other inflammable dresses caught fire. Eight persons have died of their injuries, and others are severely hurt.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has approved of a reorganisation of the Local Police Force in the Straits Settlements, which is to be carried out forthwith. The principal improvement consists in the appointment of two European inspectors and twenty European constables to be sent out from England, and a superintendent and forty Sikh constables to be obtained from India. Major S. Dunlop, Royal Artillery, is to retain his appointment at the head of the force.

---

The Duchess of Marlborough, in acknowledging the volume of addresses lately presented to her Grace, in recognition of her labours for the relief of Irish distress during last winter, expresses a hope that the torrent of agitation now sweeping over Ireland will not obliterate in the minds of those who were the objects of her earnest solicitude the sentiments of loyalty and gratitude which she trusted those exertions would have evoked. The Duchess has sent to each subscriber to the addresses a reply tastefully illuminated, with a view of Blenheim Palace, and the arms of the house of Marlborough.

Mr. John Snelgrove presided on Monday at the anniversary dinner of the Linen and Woollen Drapers' Institution, at the Freemasons' Tavern. Among the guests were representatives of the principal firms in London. The chairman, in proposing "The Institution," said that its position was never more satisfactory, and that, although the demands upon its funds for purposes of relief had exceeded those of any previous year, its income had been sufficient to meet all requirements. The donations for the present year amount to £2850. A testimonial, in the shape of a large silver urn, was presented to Mr. Snelgrove in recognition of his long services.

FINE ARTS.

PICTURES BY MR. MILLAIS.

The directors of the Fine-Art Society, New Bond-street, have brought together seventeen of Mr. Millais's works, which are shown in their new "Nelson Room," at the rear of adjoining premises—so named from Lord Nelson having resided for a while in the house in front. These pictures were produced at all the principal stages of our great painter's career, and therefore furnish indices of his progress, and enable us to revise former impressions. For such an opportunity the public should be grateful; the comparisons it permits are interesting and instructive in the highest degree; for, perhaps, no artist that ever lived has traversed, and retraversed we might say, so wide a space in art. From the three early so-called pre-Raphaelite pictures here—"Ferdinand Lured by Ariel," the illustration of Keats's "Isabella," "The Woodman's Daughter," and "The Carpenter's Shop"—to "The North-West Passage," "The Yeoman of the Guard," and "Cherry Ripe" is like the whole history of a national school. The interval between them is as wide as from Van Eyck to Rubens, or from the early Florentines to Tintoretto or Velasquez. But what increases the marvel is that we see by a small portrait now exhibited for the first time, and we know by other nearly contemporaneous works, that—with an astonishing precocity that so rarely has its promise fulfilled in a riper maturity—Mr. Millais was already a powerful painter, and a master in the somewhat conventional manner of the day, when he was scarcely twenty. What strength of conviction, what energy of will, what self-subjection were required to convert in one short year the painter of this portrait into the painter of "Ferdinand Lured by Ariel" who can estimate! The aims of the pre-Raphaelites were honest and pure beyond all doubt; they may have benefited this some time member of their "Brotherhood," and, in certain respects, our school also; but that the truth they sought was so partial, relative, and secondary as to often amount even to absolute untruth, and that adverse criticism was for once in the right, is proved by none and by nothing so conclusively as by Mr. Millais himself in his later works. The term pre-Raphaelite itself was, however, never properly applicable to the young Jersey painter. This "Ferdinand," together with the "Isabella," the "Woodman's Daughter," and the imaginary incident in the child-life of Christ, known and already quoted as "The Carpenter's Shop," have a close affinity to Early Flemish art, and but little or none to Early Italian. It seems to be forgotten, also, that the trammels of dogma to which the youthful artist surrendered his whole nature bound him but for three or four years—from 1849 to 1853. He had virtually broken through them in "The Order of Release," exhibited in the last-named year. Thenceforward he steadily acquired the power of seeing Nature as a whole, and therefore of rendering her details in just relation; he learnt subtle secrets of aerial perspective, which escaped his observation in earlier works; he acquired mastery of technical resources, and particularly breadth, ease, and suggestiveness of handling—till in the works of recent years he has displayed a power of painting which alone, independently of subject, places him first in our contemporary school. For what more have we the right to ask of an artist if he arrive at perfect mastery of his own proper materials and means? That is to be a true and great artist; the poet can do no more; and art and poetry are by no means interchangeable terms. Besides the pictures we have named, there are in Bond-street—all illustrating the progressive development we have denoted—the "Autumn Leaves" (1853), "The Vale of Rest" (1858), "The Minuet" (1867), "The Boyhood of Raleigh" and "The Gambler's Wife" (1869), "Chill October" (1870), "The Princes in the Tower" (1878), and a recently painted picture representing the Princess Elizabeth, a daughter of Charles I., in Prison at St. James's—a pathetic and powerfully painted, though not, it must be confessed, a very happy example, but which makes an acceptable pendant to "The Princes in the Tower," and has been engraved as such by Mr. Cousins for the Fine-Art Society.

---

Yesterday week the annual dinner on the eve of the opening of the exhibition of the Royal Scottish Academy was held in the galleries in Edinburgh. Sir Daniel Macnee, president, occupied the chair. The toast of the evening, "The Royal Scottish Academy," was proposed by Mr. John Skelton, advocate. The exhibition, which is the fifty-fifth, contains 1047 works selected from about 3000 sent in. From the Royal Academy there are shown Orchardson's "Napoleon on Board the Bellerophon," Hunter's "Silver of the Sea," Ouless's "Portrait of Mr. Matheson, M.P.," and Millais's "Marchioness of Huntly," as well as two smaller works by the same artist. The general character of the exhibition ranks high.

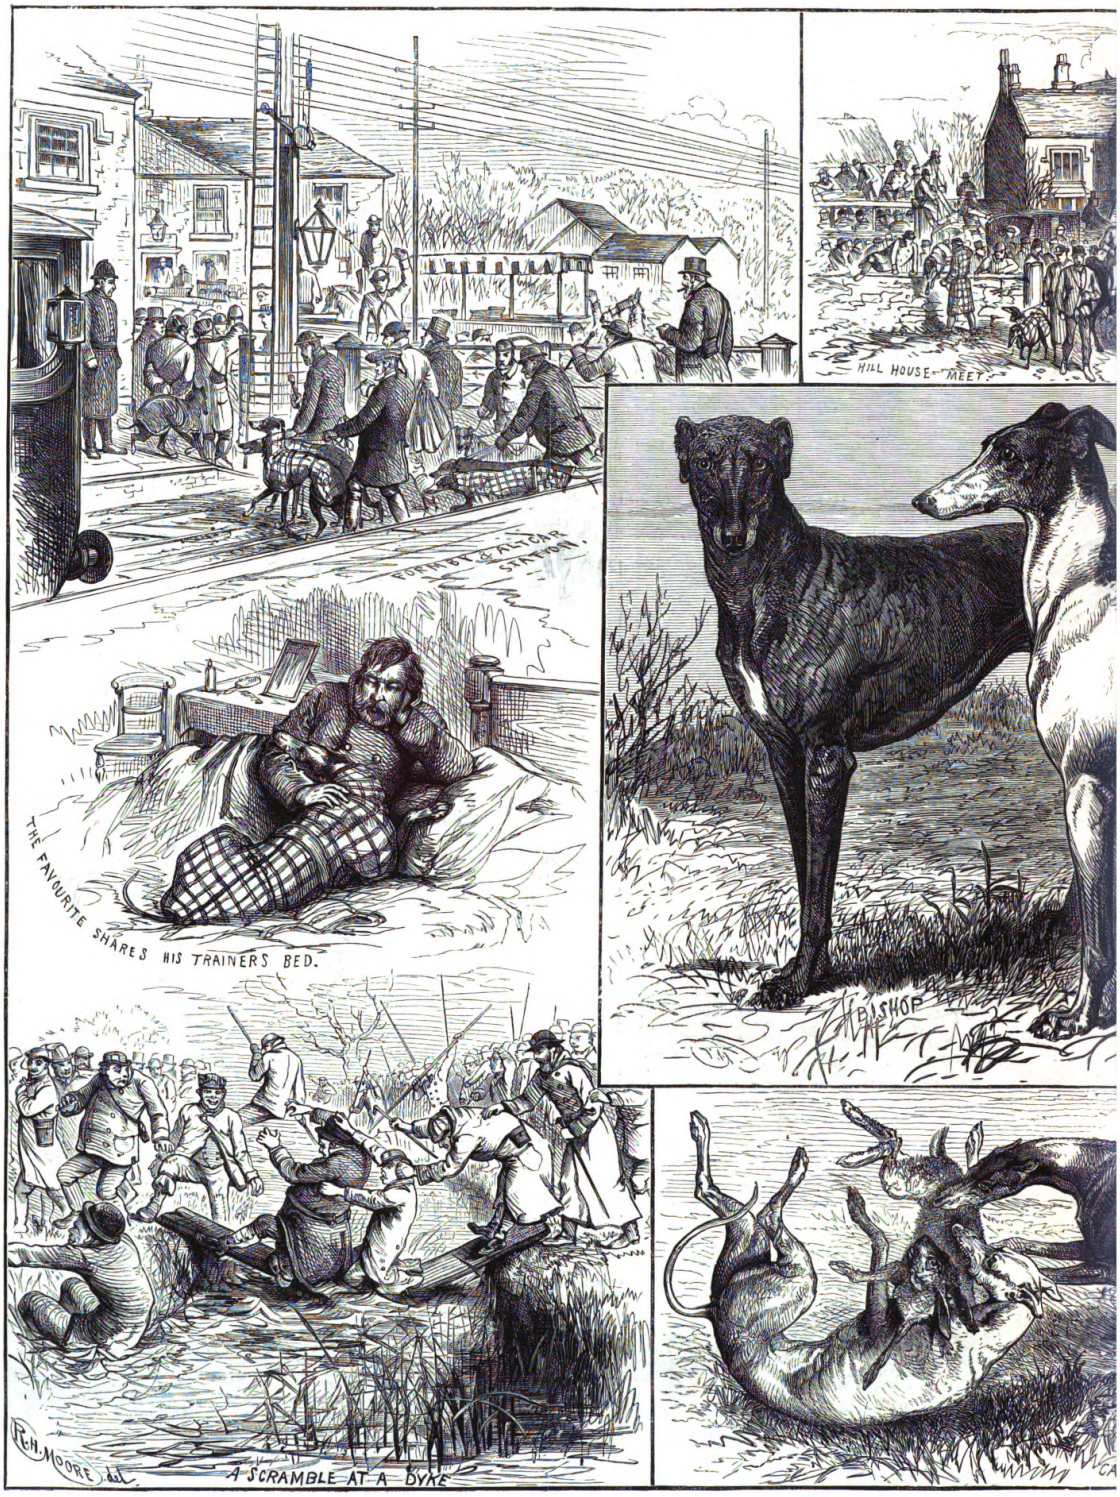
---

The Duke of Cambridge on Tuesday presented Commissions at the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, to those gentlemen cadets who have been successful in the recent examinations. His Royal Highness expressed his sorrow that there was much to find fault with, and that grave offences had been committed—conduct which he feared was due to the bad example of the corporals. The work of the students also was slovenly and careless. The Duke concluded by giving the cadets advice as to their future career.

The Sandwich Election Commissioners state in their report with respect to the contest between Sir Julian Goldsmid and Mr. Crompton Roberts in May last, that 128 persons were guilty of corrupt practices and bribery in respect to the votes of other persons, and that 1005 persons were guilty of such offences in respect to their own votes. Not less than 127 received bribes from both sides. The Commissioners come to the conclusion that electoral corruption had long extensively prevailed in the borough.

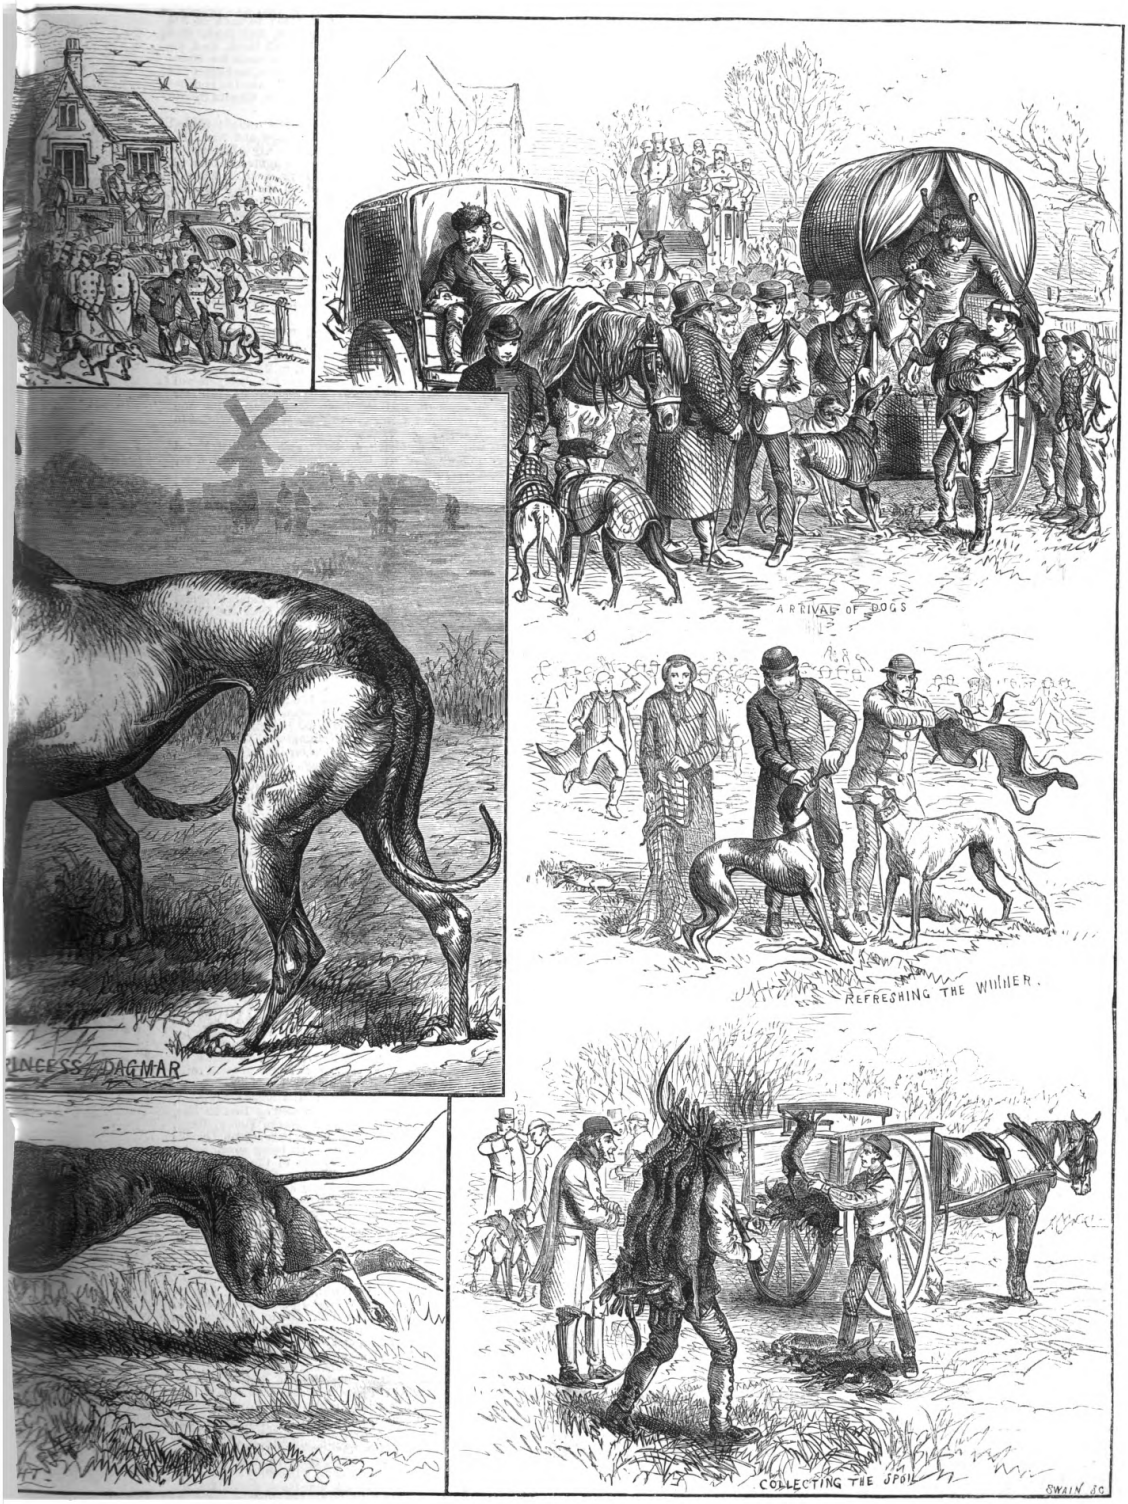
Mr. E. Stanhope, M.P., presided on Tuesday at a meeting at St. James's Hall, which was called to protest against the abandonment of Candahar. Colonel Malleson read a paper on the subject, and a resolution in favour of Lord Lytton's motion was passed unanimously. Sir Richard Temple and Lord Donoughmore were among the speakers.——A rumour has once more become current that, notwithstanding recent declarations from the Treasury Bench, the Government are about to reconsider their policy with respect to Candahar. This rumour, the Daily News believes, is incorrect.

Mr. Shaw, M.P. for the county of Cork, has issued a rival manifesto to that of Mr. Parnell. He reviews the course pursued by the Irish Parliamentary Party since he held the leadership, and accuses Mr. Parnell and his supporters with having, by the unwise use of the weapon of Obstruction, led the party to helpless defeat, unable to fight or to retreat with dignity, Irish representation being discredited and English feeling outraged. Whilst despising "the mongrel thing of talk and bluster" that slinks away at the first hint of danger, he denounces the conduct of the Government in bringing forward the worst Coercion Bill ever introduced, and adjures the Irish people to prepare for that freedom which, he says, is attainable and certain to be gained by persevering constitutional action rather than by revolutionary agitation.



THE COURSING MEETING AT

SEE PA



ALTCAR, NEAR LIVERPOOL.

OBITUARY.

THE EARL OF SEAFIELD.

The Right Hon. Sir John Charles Grant-Ogilvie, K.T., Earl of Seafield, Viscount Reidhaven, and Baron Ogilvy of Deskford and Cullen, in the Peerage of Scotland, Baron Strathspey, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, and a Baronet, died on the 17th inst., at Cullen House, Banffshire. His Lordship was born Sept. 4, 1815, the second son of Francis William, sixth Earl of Seafield, by his first wife, Mary Ann, only daughter of Mr. John Charles Dunn, of Higham House, and succeeded to the Scotch Peerages at his father's decease in 1853, his elder brother having died unmarried in 1840. The Earl whose decease we record sat in the House of Lords as a Representative Peer for Scotland from 1853 till his creation as a Peer of Parliament, Aug. 14, 1858. He married, Aug. 12, 1850, the Hon. Caroline Stuart, youngest daughter of Walter Robert, eleventh Lord Blantyre, and leaves an only son, Ian Charles, Viscount Reidhaven, now Earl of Seafield, born in 1851, formerly a Lieutenant in the 1st Life Guards.

LORD WILLIAM PITT LENNOX.

Lord William Pitt Lennox, who died on the 17th inst., at his residence, in Hans-place, Chelsea, in his eighty-second year, was the fourth son of Charles, fourth Duke of Richmond, K.G., by Charlotte, his wife, daughter of Alexander, fourth Duke of Gordon, and was thus uncle of the present Duke of Richmond and Gordon, K.G. His Lordship was educated at Westminster, was formerly Captain in the Royal Horse Guards Blue, and served as A.D.C. to Wellington, and to Sir Peregrine Maitland. From 1832 to 1834 he sat in Parliament for King's Lynn. Lord William was thrice married: his first wife being Miss Paton, the celebrated vocalist; his second, Ellen, daughter of Mr. R. Smith; and his third, now his widow, Maria Jane, eldest daughter of the Rev. Capel Molyneux, Incumbent of St. Paul's, Onslow-square, and granddaughter of the Right Hon. Sir Capel Molyneux, Bart., M.P. for the University of Dublin. Lord William Lennox contributed largely to periodical literature, and was author of numerous works of fiction on sporting topics, and biography. The principal were "Compton Audley," "The Tuft-Hunter," "The Story of My Life," "Three Years with the Duke of Wellington in Private Life," "Pictures of Sporting Life and Character," "The Victoria Cross," and "Fifty Years' Biographical Reminiscences."

---

We have also to record the deaths of—

John Jeremiah Bigsby, M.D., F.R.S., on the 10th inst., at 89, Gloucester-place, Portman-square, aged eighty-eight.

The Rev. William Henry Cywrie Lloydd, M.A., H.M. Colonial Chaplain and Archdeacon of Durban, formerly Rector of Norbury, Staffordshire, on the 3rd ult., at The Glebe, Port Natal, South Africa, in his seventy-ninth year.

Major-General Richard Herbert Gall, C.B., the Lieutenant-Governor of Chelsea Hospital, and a most distinguished soldier during the Indian Mutiny campaign, died at his quarters in the Hospital on the 21st inst., at the age of sixty-five.

The Rev. Charles Baring-Gould, Rector of Lew Trenchard, Devon, on the 12th inst., aged seventy-three. He was the third son of Mr. William Baring-Gould, of Lew Trenchard, by Diana Amelia, his wife, daughter of Colonel Joseph Sabine.

Lieutenant Maurice O'Connell, 60th Rifles, eldest son and heir-apparent of Sir Maurice O'Connell, Bart., of Lake View, Killarney, on the 9th inst., killed in action at Ingogo River, in the Transvaal, aged twenty-two. He was grandnephew of the famous Daniel O'Connell, M.P.

Vice-Admiral James Samuel Akid Dennis, at his residence, Rectory Cottage, Hanwell, aged seventy-two. He entered the Navy in 1822, served in the operations off the Coast of Syria, and attained the rank of Vice-Admiral in 1879. He married, in 1844, Charlotte, daughter of Capt. J. Parson, R.N.

Lieutenant and Adjutant Edward Obert Hindley Wilkinson, 60th Rifles, one of Sir G. Pomeroy Colley's Staff, drowned in the river Ingogo, in an attempt to take aid to the wounded. He was born in 1853, and was the only surviving son of Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Hindley Wilkinson, by Caroline, his wife, daughter of Lieutenant-General Vicomte Obert.

Mr. Gerard Wolfe Lyddekker, M.A., J.P., barrister-at-law, Deputy Chairman Herts Quarter Sessions, at Harpendale Lodge, St. Albans, on the 12th inst., in his seventieth year. He was only son of Richard Lyddekker, M.D., of St. Albans, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Mr. Robert Wolfe, of Roxwell, Essex. He married, in 1848, Martha Margaret, daughter of Mr. Serjeant Thomas Peake, and leaves issue.

Colonel Charles Bagot, Assistant Master of the Ceremonies in Ordinary to her Majesty, at 49, Cadogan-place, aged seventy-two. He was eldest son of the Right Hon. Sir Charles Bagot, G.C.B., by Mary Charlotte Anne, his wife, eldest daughter of William, fourth Earl of Mornington, and niece of Wellington. He served formerly in the Grenadier Guards, and retired in 1851, and was Hon. Colonel 3rd (King's Own) Staffordshire Rifle Militia.

Deputy-Assistant-Commissary-General Ernest Tilson Shaen Carter, on Dec. 20 last, at Pretoria, of wounds received in action with the Boers. He was the sixth son of the late Mr. Thomas Shaen Carter, J.P., of Watlington Park, Oxfordshire, and of Erris, in the county of Mayo, by Maria Susan, his wife, daughter and heiress of Colonel John Henry Tilson, of Watlington Park; and was descended from the Right Hon. Thomas Carter, Master of the Rolls in Ireland.

Mr. Joseph Augustus Yorke, late Stipendiary Magistrate for South Shields, on the 14th inst., in his fiftieth year. He was the only son of the Hon. and Very Rev. Grantham Munton Yorke, D.D., Dean of Worcester, by Marian Emily, his wife, eldest daughter of Sir Henry C. Montgomery, Bart. He practised for some time as a special pleader. Mr. Yorke married, in 1862, Florence Mary Eliza, second daughter of Mr. T. Chambré, and leaves an only daughter, Lilian Maude.

Mr. Edward Jeffries Esdaile, of Cothelstone House, Somerset, at his seat near Taunton, on the 14th inst., aged sixty-seven. He was eldest son of Mr. Edward Jeffries Esdaile, of Cothelstone, by Eliza, his wife, only daughter of Mr. Clement Drake, of Taunton, and grandson of Mr. William Esdaile, banker, of London, whose father, Sir James Esdaile, received the honour of knighthood. Mr. E. J. Esdaile married, Sept. 27, 1837, Eliza Ianthe, only daughter of Percy Bysshe Shelley, the poet, and leaves issue.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

W H T (Yokohama).—The second is below, and the other shall appear in due course.

L N P (Newport).—Too simple, but not without promise. Try again.

J H S (Birkenhead).—We shall endeavour to give you the solution next week.

R P G (Buntingford).—The problem shall receive early attention. Correction is noted.

F J (Broadmoor).—The last one shall be examined, and, if found good and sound, we shall be glad to publish it.

J J R (Liverpool).—We can recommend Wormald's "Chess Openings," and Gossip's "Theory of the Openings." You will find a treatise on the odds of Pawn and two moves in the "Chessplayer's Companion." All these books can be obtained through W. Morgan, 23, Great Queen-street, London.

J P V.—As a player is entitled to promote every Pawn advanced to the eighth or royal rank to any piece he pleases, except a King, it follows that there may be three or more Knights on the board at the same time.

Z R (Lemberg).—We have not space for a full description of the English chess notation. Your best course is either to get some friend to explain it to you, or to purchase some elementary book on the subject of the game.

ANY AMATEUR desirous of playing a game of chess by correspondence may address C. J., care of Mr. Birch, 19, Angel-street, Sheffield.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1924 received from T M Manickum, of Secunderabad; of Mr. Taylor's Problem from Pierce Jones; and of Mr. Kidson's Suimate from Va (U S).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1928 received from Orima, James Atkinson, D A Spoletti, S M Clough Taylor, Pierce Jones, E L W, De Schaakvereeniging te Almelo, and B C M S.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1929 received from Daniel See (Dublin), J Bumstead, W Davies, James Atkinson, J G S C, Penzance Drawing-Room Players, Trial, F J Wallis (Newcastle Chess Club), W Scott, Fred Littleboy, William Scott, Pierce Jones, Theodor Willink, A T, and B C M S.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1930 received from H B, Cant Herward, Sidmouth, Œdipus, East Marden, Lulu, E Louden, Norman Rumbelow, J J Heaton, Dr F St, R H Brooks, Shadforth, G U, Mayne, H Blacklock, Otto Fulder (Ghent), Nerina, L Sharswood, E Sharswood, C Darragh, E Elsbury, W Hillier, Aaron Harper, N S Harris, B R Wood, D W Kell, M O'Halloran, Jupiter Junior, Elsie, A M Colborne, L L Greenaway, S Lowndes, R Jessop, Ben Nevis, R Ingersoll, C S Cole, A Kentish Man, F Ferris, H K Awdry, R Gray, Pierce Jones, L Falcon (Antwerp), An Old Hand, and Arthur E Hollond.

NOTE.—Correspondents who believe that they have solved this Problem by way of 1. Q takes Kt, or 1. Kt to Kt 5th (ch), or 1. Kt takes R, or 1. Q to Kt 8th, or 1. Q to Kt 5th, are invited to re-examine the position. There are good defences to all these moves.

---

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1929.

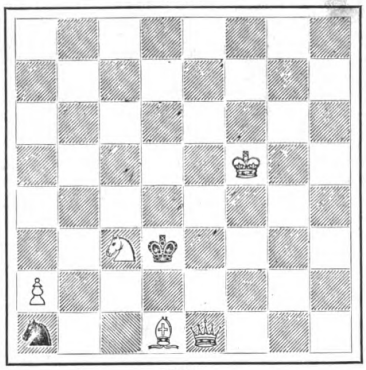
| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 6th | Any move |
| 2. Mates accordingly. | |

---

PROBLEM No. 1932.

By W. H. TAYLOR (Yokohama.)

BLACK.



WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

---

An offhand Skirmish between Messrs. WAYTE and THOBOLD.

(Queen's Knight's Game.)

| WHITE (Mr. W.) | BLACK (Mr. T.) |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th |
| 2. Kt to Q B 3rd | Kt to K B 3rd |
| 3. P to K B 4th | P to Q 3rd |
| 3. P to Q 4th is more frequently adopted than the move in the text, which converts the opening into a phase of the King's Gambit declined. | |
| 4. Kt to K B 3rd | Kt to Q B 3rd |
| 5. B to B 4th | B to Kt 5th |
| 6. Castles | Kt to Q 5th |
| 7. P to Q 3rd | Kt takes Kt (ch) |
| 8. P takes Kt | B to R 6th |
| 9. R to K sq | Kt to R 4th |
| 10. P to B 5th | P to K Kt 3rd |
| 11. P takes P | R P takes P |
| 12. Q to K 2nd | P to K Kt 4th |
| 13. Q to B 2nd | B to K 2nd |
| 14. Kt to Q 5th | Kt to B 6th |
| 15. Kt takes B | Q takes Kt |
| 16. B takes Kt | Kt P takes B |
| 17. K to R sq | Castles (Q R) |
| 18. Q takes Q R P | |

| WHITE (Mr. W.) | BLACK (Mr. T.) |
|---|---|
| A singular oversight to occur to such an accomplished player as Mr. Wayte. | |
| 18. | B to Kt 7th (ch) |
| This skilful coup was overlooked by White when he sent his Queen in pursuit of the Pawn. | |
| 19. K takes B | |
| He has really no better resource. If, 19. K to Kt sq, then follows 19. Q to R 5th, &c. | |
| 19. | Q to Kt 4th (ch) |
| 20. K to B sq | |
| If 20. K to R sq, Black mates in a few moves by 20. R takes R P (ch). | |
| 20. | R takes P |
| 21. Q to Kt sq | Q to R 3rd |
| 22. Q to Kt 4th (ch) | K to Kt sq |
| 23. Q R to B sq | R to Q 7th |
| 24. R to K 2nd | Q to R sth (ch) |
| 25. K to B 2nd | Q to R 7th (ch), and wins. |

---

A smart Affair between MM. CLERC and BEZKROWSY, two skilful Parisian amateurs. It appeared in a late number of La Stratégie.

(Queen's Knight's Game.)

| WHITE (M. C.) | BLACK (M. B.) |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th |
| 2. Kt to Q B 3rd | Kt to K B 3rd |
| 3. P to K B 4th | P to Q 4th |
| 4. P to Q 3rd | B to Q Kt 5th |
| 5. P to Q R 3rd | |
| A remarkably weak move. The correct continuation is 5. P takes K P, &c. | |
| 5. | B takes Kt (ch) |
| 6. P takes B | P takes K P |
| 7. B P takes P | Kt to Kt 5th |

| WHITE (M. C.) | BLACK (M. B.) |
|---|---|
| 8. P to Q 4th | P to K 6th |
| 9. Kt to R 3rd | Kt to Q B 3rd |
| 10. Q to B 3rd | Kt takes Q P |
| A well-timed and sound sacrifice. | |
| 11. P takes Kt | Q takes P |
| 12. R to Q Kt sq | Q to B 6th |
| 13. K to Q sq | Kt takes K P |
| 14. Q takes K P | B to Kt 5th (ch) |
| 15. B to K 2nd | Castles Q R (ch), and White resigned. |

---

In the game between Messrs. Monck and Stevens published in our issue of the 12th inst. the players were inadvertently assigned wrong colours, Mr. Monck played the Black pieces, and was, consequently, the winner of the game, instead of the loser. As Mr. Stevens observes, in correcting our mistake, Palmam qui meruit ferat!

We are indebted to Mr. George Adamson, the honorary secretary of the City of London Chess Club, for a report of the proceedings at the annual meeting of that association held on the 18th inst. The report of the committee, showing the club to be in a flourishing condition, was unanimously adopted and ordered to be printed for circulation among the members, and the following office bearers were elected to serve during the ensuing year:—President, J. F. Lovelock; Vice Presidents, Messrs. Gastineau and Howard; Hon. Secretary, George Adamson; Hon. Treasurer, R. Clarke; Committee, Messrs. Atkinson, Block, Cutler, Down, Foster, Green, Heywood, Manning, Pizzi, and Stelcl; Hon. Librarian, H. Jackson; and Auditors, Messrs. Lord and Hawkins. Messrs. Blackburne, Bosen, Collins, Duffy, Delannoy, Hartwitz, Horwitz, Macdonnell, and Mason were elected honorary members, and votes of thanks were passed to the retiring president, Mr. Gastineau, and the retiring secretary, Mr. Down. A vote of thanks was also passed to the donors of the Murton cup, a beautiful trophy value fifteen guineas, presented to the club by Messrs. Cubison, Jones, and Manning. The annual dinner is to be held on March 15 next.

The postponed match between the "Excelsior" Club and the Knight Class of the City Club was played at the rooms of the latter on the 16th inst. The representatives of the City won with a score of six games to three. In the same week a match was played between the Oxford University and Birmingham Chess Clubs, the latter winning with the somewhat remarkable score of 11½ to 2½. The match was played at Birmingham, and after the play the Oxford amateurs were entertained at dinner by the home team—Mr. T. Cumberland presiding. We are indebted to Mr. A. E. Wilson, of Birmingham, for the above report.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Sept. 1, 1875) with a codicil (dated Nov. 5, 1878) of the Rev. Robert William Bosanquet, late of Rock, near Alnwick, Northumberland, who died on Dec. 25 last, was proved on the 14th inst. by Charles Bertie Pulleine Bosanquet, the son, the acting executor, the personal estate being sworn under £70,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Caroline Bosanquet, £500 and an annuity of £150; to each of his younger sons, Robert Holford Macdowall, Day Hort, and Bernard, £3000 Reduced Stock, £1000 Dock Stock, and an annuity of £150, in addition to the provision made for them by settlement; to his steward, James Aitchison, and after his death to his wife, Eliza, an annuity of £150; and the residue of his real and personal estate to his eldest son, Charles Bertie Pulleine Bosanquet.

The will (dated March 8, 1865) with four codicils (dated August, 1878; Jan. 15, 1879; and February and Nov. 11, 1880) of Mr. Thomas Edward Bigge, formerly Lieutenant-Colonel commanding 20th Middlesex Volunteers, late of No. 15, Wyndham-place, and of Lye Farm, near St. Albans, who died on Dec. 29 last, was proved on the 25th ult. by Matthew Bill and the Rev. Arthur Frederick Pope, the nephew, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £45,000. The testator leaves to his wife, Mrs. Ellen Fanny Bigge, £1000, and his horses, carriages, wines, and liquors, and, for life, Lye Farm, with the furniture and effects, and £550 per annum, in addition to the jointure already secured to her; and legacies to his sister, nephews, and others. The residue of his real and personal estate is to be held upon trust for his nephew, Lieutenant-Colonel George Scovell Bigge, and his children.

Letters of Administration of the personal estate of Mr. John Whitwell, late of Kendal, Westmorland, who died on Nov. 28 last, intestate, and a widower, were granted on the 25th ult., at the Carlisle district registry, to Mrs. Anna Maria Colville, the daughter, and only next of kin, the personal estate being sworn under £45,000. The deceased was M.P. for his native borough, Kendal, which he represented in the House of Commons for over twelve years, being first elected in November, 1868.

The will (dated March 4, 1880) with a codicil (dated Nov. 19 following) of Mr. Charles Hargrave, late of No. 27, Clanricarde-gardens, Bayswater, who died on Dec. 24 last, was proved on the 1st inst. by George Allen and Henry Millar Phillips, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator bequeaths £4000 to the National Life-Boat Institution;—£2500 each to the Middlesex Hospital, Charles-street, Oxford-street, and the London Hospital, Whitechapel-road;—£2000 to the Chichester training-ship for homeless boys;—£1500 each to the Warspite training-ship of the Marine Society for poor and destitute boys; the Arethusa training-ship for the training of boys to the sea service; St. Thomas's Hospital, Stangate, Lambeth; and Charing-cross Hospital;—£1000 each to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Old Kent-road; St. George's Hospital, Hyde Park; and the Merchant Seamen's Orphan Asylum, Snaresbrook;—£500 each to the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's Inn-road; East London Hospital for Children, Ratcliff-cross; St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington; Poplar Hospital, East India Dock-road; St. Matthew's Orphanage for Girls, Ossington-street, Bayswater; the London Female Penitentiary, Pentonville-road; the London Fever Hospital, Liverpool-road, Islington; the National Industrial Home for Crippled Boys, Wright's-lane, Kensington; the London Orphan Asylum, Watford; the Asylum for Idiots, Earlswood; the Railway Benevolent Institution, Drummond-street, Euston-square; the Royal Sea-Bathing Infirmary, Margate; King's College Hospital, Portugal-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields; the Royal London Ophthalmic Hospital, Bloomfield-street, Finsbury; and the University College or North London Hospital;—£100 to the Home for Lost Dogs, Lower Wandsworth-road;—£50 each to the poor-boxes of six of the Metropolitan Police Courts to be selected by his executors;—and legacies to his servants and others, including nineteen guineas to each of the clerks in the office of his solicitor. The residue of the personalty is to be divided between such of the before-mentioned charities as he has bequeathed £500 to.

The will (dated Dec. 21, 1878) with three codicils (dated Sept. 19, 1879; and April 13 and Oct. 21, 1880) of Mr. Edward Richard Coles, formerly of the Royal Engineer department and late of Ventnor, Isle of Wight, who died on Oct. 24 last, was proved on the 26th ult. by Mrs. Henrietta Coles, the widow, Robert Clement Pope and Charles Bayfield Miller, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator bequeaths to his son Edward Everest Coles, £5000; to his son Charles Herbert Coles, and his daughter Mary Miller Coles, £4000 each; and legacies to his stepchildren, sisters-in-law, and his executor Mr. Miller; the residue of his real and personal estate he leaves upon trust for his wife for life; then as to three fourths for his said three children, and as to one fourth for his two step-children.

The will (dated March 2, 1880) of Miss Sophia Atkinson, late of The Cottage, Maidenhead, who died on Dec. 19 last, was proved on the 4th inst. by Sir George Young, Bart., the Rev. William Henry Stokes, and the Rev. Joseph Thomas Brown, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testatrix bequeaths £50 to the Patagonian, otherwise the South American Missionary Society; nineteen guineas each to the Church Missionary Society, the Pastoral Aid Society, the British and Foreign Bible Society, the Religious Tract Society, the Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, and the Poor Pious Clergy Society; and considerable legacies to relatives, friends, god-children, executors, and servants. Her residence, The Cottage, and all her real estate, and the residue of the personalty, she leaves to Mrs. Emily Sophia Stokes.

The will (dated Dec. 18, 1857) with a codicil (dated Nov. 10, 1874) of Sir Robert Edward Wilmot-Horton, Bart., late of Osmaston Hall, and of Catton Hall, both in the county of Derby, who died on Sept. 22 last, has been proved at the Derby district registry by Dame Margaret Wilmot-Horton, the widow and sole executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator confirms his marriage settlement, and charges the settled family estates with the sum of £500 per annum by way of additional jointure for his wife. The residue of his real and personal estate he gives to his wife absolutely.

The will (dated April 29, 1871) of Dame Julia Baynes, late of No. 68, Portland-place, who died on the 21st ult., was proved on the 4th inst. by Sir William John Walter Baynes, Bart., and Walter Francis Baynes, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £10,000. The testatrix, after giving legacies to her cook and maid, distributes the remainder of her property between her five children.

The will (dated Aug. 26, 1874) of Sir Alexander Campbell, Bart., late of No. 16, Ridgway-place, Wimbledon, who died on Dec. 11 last, was proved on the 7th inst. by Dame Augusta Royer Campbell, the widow and sole executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £4000. The testator gives all his real and personal estate to his wife absolutely.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

THE WORLD-RENOWNED REMEDY for INDIGESTION,

DYSPEPSIA, and

LIVER DISEASES.

IF THERE IS A FAINT, DISTRESSED SENSATION IN THE STOMACH, TAKE

SEIGEL'S SYRUP,

A CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

"41, Warwick-street, Woolwich, Kent, April 9, 1880.

"To A. J. White, Esq.

"Sir,—I beg to inform you that I have been suffering for some time from general inward weakness, and an all-gone sinking feeling of the chest and stomach, with a great deal of pain after eating. I had consulted doctors and had taken several bottles of their medicine both in Ireland and England, but without any good result; and it seems to me that all they tried to do was to get my money. A friend of mine advised me to try a bottle of your truly valuable Curative Syrup, which I am happy to say I did, and after the first two or three doses I felt great relief, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I had quite lost all symptoms of my old ailment; and from the very great good I have derived from it, I have recommended it to many of my friends with all confidence, who have tried it with very satisfactory results—one in particular, who is suffering from a very bad leg, and he wishes me to ask you if you have any vegetable ointment for old sores that he could use while taking your Medicine. "I am, Sir,

"Yours ever gratefully,

"ANNIE MCCOMBE."

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

IF THERE IS DIZZINESS, TAKE

SEIGEL'S SYRUP, A CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

"Mr. White, "July 1, 1879.

"Dear Sir,—I have great pleasure in informing you that the sale of your 'Seigel's Curative Syrup' has been very satisfactory. A commercial traveller informed me that he had been suffering some time from vertigo, or swimming in the head, which was very prejudicial to him in his business, but that the Syrup has quite cured him. He always carries a bottle with him now, and if he feels any symptoms of the disorder he takes a few drops, and it always wards off the attack. As this testimonial may be of use to others suffering in the same way, you are quite at liberty to make use of it. I can furnish the name and address of the gentleman if required.—I remain, dear Sir, yours truly,

"JOSEPH MOULTON,

"Castle Donington. Chemist and Druggist."

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

Oftentimes Rheumatism is the result of impaired digestion, such cases will be cured by "Seigel's Syrup," a Cure for Indigestion.

"Gedney-hill, Wisbech, Aug. 19, 1880.

"Sir,—If you could let me have some handbills I could distribute several thousands for you, and I think with very good effect. A farmer in this neighbourhood some time since was taken very ill, and he seemed to be set fast with the rheumatics, so that he could not get up stairs to bed for three nights; in fact, he could not get out of his chair. They came for a bottle of 'Mother Seigel's Syrup,' and after two or three doses he could walk up to bed, and was soon able to get about his work again; they now always keep a bottle by them. I am continually round this district (registering), which is about thirteen or fourteen miles long, so that I have a very good chance of getting rid of a lot of bills, besides what we dispose of over the counter.—Yours, "J. A. BELLAIRS."

"Cowper-street, California, Ipswich, July 27, 1878.

"Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in informing you that after taking 'Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup' I am quite restored to health, after suffering for four years from the most excruciating pains. At times I could not move in my bed from rheumatism and dropsy; but now, although I am now sixty-three years of age, I am able to work and walk free from pain. I send you this that you may let any of my fellow-sufferers know the great benefit I have received after taking your valuable medicine. I found great relief after taking it for two days, and I am sure no one could have been a greater sufferer than myself.—Yours truly, "MR. A. J. WHITE. CHARLES SEATE."

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S CURATIVE SYRUP.

If there be COSTIVENESS and SLUGGISHNESS of the LIVER, take SEIGEL'S SYRUP,

A CURE for DYSPEPSIA.

"Prospect House, Bridport, Dorset, "Dec. 22, 1879.

"My dear Sir,—I have for years suffered more or less from (to me) an unknown cause, but which from diagnosis I imagined to arise from a disordered liver. Digestion was extremely difficult, and consequently my appetite was much affected. Various medicines (so called) I have repeatedly tried, but failed to derive anything beyond a temporary benefit. I was induced by our agent to give your 'Curative Syrup' a trial, and, after taking the contents of one bottle, I invested in another, which is yet scarcely finished. I am more than happy to be able to testify to the curative properties of the compound. That languid feeling, which formerly unfitted me for business, I have not since experienced, and, indeed, feel altogether a different being.—I am, Sir, yours very faithfully, RICHARD EDDEN,

"A. J. White, Esq. Journalist."

Mr. J. Longhotham, Chemist and Druggist, of Chester-le-Street, in the county of Durham, writes, Dec. 19, 1879:—

"We have sold an immense quantity (many dozens) of the Syrup, and the sale is still on the increase. In my long experience fifty years) I have never known a patent medicine sell so rapidly, and the result so satisfactory."

For sale by Chemists and Medicine Dealers throughout the World; and by the Proprietors, A. J. WHITE, Limited, 21, Farringdon-road, London, E.C. Price 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. per Bottle.

ALLEN and HANBURYS'

"PERFECTED"

COD-LIVER OIL.

"It is so pure and tasteless that when oil will serve at all this is sure to do so."—"On Loss of Weight, Blood-Spitting, and Lung Disease," by HORACE DOBELL, M.D., Consulting (late senior) Physician to the Royal Hospital for Diseases of the Chest.

ALLEN and HANBURYS'

"PERFECTED"

COD-LIVER OIL.

"Many to whom the taste of the oil has hitherto been an obstacle will doubtless be able to take it."—Lancet.

"Has all the delicacy of salad oil."—British Medical Journal.

ALLEN and HANBURYS'

"PERFECTED"

COD-LIVER OIL.

"No nauseous eructations follow after it is swallowed."—Medical Press.

"A Pharmaceutical product which is in its way unrivalled."—London Medical Record.

"It is a great boon to get such an oil."—Practitioner.

ALLEN and HANBURYS'

"PERFECTED"

COD-LIVER OIL.

This Oil is manufactured FROM FRESH AND SELECTED LIVERS, at ALLEN and HANBURYS' OWN FACTORY in NORWAY. It is prepared by an entirely new and distinct process, and presents in the most effective condition all the invaluable properties of the remedy.

ALLEN and HANBURYS'

"PERFECTED"

COD-LIVER OIL.

It is the ONLY OIL which does not "repeat." All who take Cod-Liver Oil will appreciate this. Sold ONLY IN HAVING ALLEN and HANBURYS' "PERFECTED" OIL, AND DO NOT BE PERSUADED TO ACCEPT CHEAP SUBSTITUTES WHICH ARE PERSISTENTLY OFFERED.

ALLEN and HANBURYS'

"PERFECTED"

COD-LIVER OIL

Sold only in capsuled bottles, bearing ALLEN and HANBURYS' SIGNATURE, and the TRADE MARK (a PLOUGH), imperial, quarter-pints, 1s. 3d.; half-pints, 2s. 6d.; pints, 4s. 9d.; quarts, 9s. Of all Chemists; and of

ALLEN and HANBURYS',

Plough-court, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

TONGA, A SPECIFIC FOR NEURALGIA.

See Papers in the "Lancet" by Dr. Murrell, Dr. Ringer, Dr. Lush, and C. Bader, Ophthalmic Surgeon to Guy's Hospital, for testimony as to the remarkable efficacy of TONGA, and for the record of numerous cases of severe neuralgic pain removed by its use. In Bottles at 4s. 6d. and 11s., of all Chemists. Sole Manufacturers, ALLEN and HANBURYS', London.

FLORIMEL OF PALM.

A white and delicate hand is the first attribute of beauty and civilisation. "The hand," says Sir Charles Bell in the "Bridgewater Treatise," "distinguishes man from the brute: be careful of it, for in polite society it is an index not only of the body but of the mind."

The Florimel of Palm being rubbed over the skin is to be removed with a little water, then dried with a soft towel. Upon using will convince the most sceptical that, if daily applied, too much cannot be said in favour of Florimel of Palm for rendering the skin or hands white, delicate, soft, and fair.

Sold in Jars, 3s. 6d. each.

PIESSE and LUBIN, 2, New Bond-street, London.

May be obtained of any Chemist or Perfumer in the world.

TURKISH PASTILS.

"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghiles at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.

In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.

PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being too pungent. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.

2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

BREIDENBACH'S WOOD VIOLET,

White Rose, Jockey Club, Eau Bouquet, Frangipani, Opoponax, Chypre, Stephanotis, Moss Rose, New-mown Hay. Price 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 5s., 10s. Bottle.

BREIDENBACH'S SACHETS in any of the above Odours. Price, Silk Bags, 1s.; Paper Envelopes, 1s. each.

The above articles can be obtained through all Chemists, Perfumers, Stores, and Fancy Dealers in town and country.

BREIDENBACH and CO., Perfumers to the Queen, 157B, New Bond-street, London, W.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.

If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers every where, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath.

Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Enamel Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers every where, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual remedy extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C.

A MASS OF CURLS.—COX'S CURLING FLUID (protected by Proprietor's Signature) ensures Curly and Wavy Hair, also assists the Growth. Warranted harmless and certain. Will not stain or injure the finest hair. Beautifully scented. Has been in use by ladies of title for centuries. No curling tongs required. Regularly used two or three times a week will always keep the Hair Curly. Price 4s. 6d. per Bottle, carriage paid, free from observation; or order of your local Chemist, or send direct to the Sole Agent for Great Britain, I. L. N. MANSELL, Commission Agent, 35, St. Mary's-square, London, S.E.

NEW SHADES AND NEW MIXTURES, 1881.

Under the direct patronage of the ROYAL COURTS OF EUROPE.

EGERTON BURNETT'S SERGES

MAINTAIN THEIR UNRIVALLED EXCELLENCE for YACHTING, SEASIDE, and TRAVELLING WEAR. Proof against Salt Water or Rain. Prices, 1s. 2½d. to 4s. 6d. per yard. "The Queen" says:—"Mr. Burnett has gained a very high reputation for the ROYAL SERGES." Orders are daily arriving from all parts. Pattern Books post-free. Carriage paid to London, Bristol, Glasgow, or Belfast. Any length cut. Goods packed for exportation.

Address—

EGERTON BURNETT,

SERGE WAREHOUSE,

WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

N.B.—He has no connection with any Company or other London or Provincial Firm whatsoever. NO AGENTS.

EGERTON BURNETT'S

"IMPERIAL VELVETEEN,"

"PATENT FAST PILE."

Is the most Fashionable Colours.

"Le Follet" says:—"The dye is said, by competent judges, to be the most permanent ever brought out. Their finish is superb."

Ladies must see that my name is branded on the back, without which none are genuine. Any length cut.

Patterns post-free on application to

EGERTON BURNETT,

WELLINGTON, SOMERSET.

No Agents.

Carriage paid to any town in England, Ireland, Scotland, or Wales on orders over 40s.

JAY'S, Regent-street.

PATTERNS FREE.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS BLACK SATIN.

This name has been given by a Lyons manufacturer to a special kind of Black Satin. It is made from the purest silk, is as elastic as wash leather, warranted not to crease, and will wear better than any black silk of the present day.

JAY'S, Regent-street.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS COSTUMES.—A varied series of COSTUMES, made from Peau de Chamois Satin, are produced weekly during the season. Price, 6½ guineas each, including sufficient satin to make a bodice.

JAY'S, Regent-street.

EVENING DRESSES, Black Net, Tulle, and Spanish Lace.—Messrs. JAY prepare for the season a variety of black Evening Dresses, which they can confidently recommend both for correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and prices postage free.

JAY'S, Regent-street.

PATTERNS FREE.

BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE,

A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool;

One of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season;

Perfectly fast colour; will not shrink when wetted;

And hangs most gracefully when made up into costumes.

In various qualities, 46 in. wide from 3s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. per yard.

JAY'S

THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, REGENT-STREET, W.

TEENS that young ladies are in no hurry to get out of—

"LOUIS" VELVET-TEENS.

THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN

IS SIMPLY UNIQUE.

Do not be induced by persuasion to take any other.

LOUIS

AN EXTRA PROFIT TO YOUR LOSS may be graciously made if you accept, under whatever name offered, an inferior quality of Velveteen.

"THE LOUIS"

has established its reputation so widely that even a slight inferiority would injure its repute, which constitutes

LOUIS

A TEST OF MERIT,

and guarantee of

UNSURPASSED QUALITY.

Be sure you find the words

THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN

on every yard,

or you have not the

GENUINE "LOUIS,"

LOUIS

notwithstanding all assertions to the contrary.

Wholesale London Agent, J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine LOUIS VELVETEEN can be obtained.

BANKRUPT STOCK OF

KESWICK and CARTER

Now selling at BAKER and CRISP'S, Regent-street.

Samples for stamps.

Patterns Free.

1s. 6d. the yard for Fancy Silks that are worth 3s. 11d.

1s. 6d. to 1s. 11d. for Richest Black Satins.

11,000 yards of Foule Angolas, or Beiges, Spring Colours, 16 yards for 9s.; 16 for 12s.

1s. 11½d. each for White Berlin Wool Shoulder Wraps, worth 3s. 6d., for stamps.

1s. the yard for Washing Silks.

8s. 11d. to 21s. for Ladies' West of England Cloth Ulsters.

Fur-lined Cloaks for 25s. each.

1s. 6d., 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 11d., for the very best Velveteens.

Best Dressing Gowns, 12s. 9d.

Table Linens and all Household Goods at half price.

Send for Catalogues.

French and Indian Cashmeres, 1s 6d yard; worth 3s 6d.

Send for Catalogues.

BAKER and CRISP, 198, Regent-street, London.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—A very cheap parcel of NEW HEATHER TWEEDS. Price 6½d. per yard (regular price 9½d.). Patterns free.

JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W.

NOVELTIES for LADIES' MORNING DRESSES.—French Cretonnes, 6½d.; Pompadours, 7½d.; Prints, 4½d.; Linen Lawns, 5½d. Patterns free.

JOHN HOOPER, 52, Oxford-street, W.

CHEAP Samples and Price-List post-free.

ALL PURE FLAX.

| | Per Doz. | | Per Doz. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Children's .. | 2s. 6d. | Hemstitched. | |
| Ladies' .. | 2s. 10d. | Ladies' .. | 5s. 11d. |
| Gentlemen's .. | 4s. 11d. | Gentlemen's .. | 8s. 3d. |

POCKET HANDKERCHIEFS.

ROBINSON and CLEAVER,

THE ROYAL IRISH LINEN WAREHOUSE, BELFAST.

PRATT'S WATER PAD TRUSSES are the

MOST EFFECTUAL CURE FOR RUPTURES.

PRATT'S ELASTIC STOCKINGS,

for VARICOSE VEINS, &c.

J. F. PRATT,

Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital

429, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.

SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)

OETZMANN & CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,

NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77, and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CABINETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.—OETZMANN & CO.

PATENT PARQUET FLOORING.

OETZMANN and CO.—Manufactured by steam power; finest quality and finish; can be applied without disturbing existing floors. Artistic effect, either as entire Floor Covering or as a surround to carpet. Prices considerably below those usually charged. Illustrations post-free on application, and specimens of the Parquet Flooring in various patterns can be seen at the Show-Rooms.—OETZMANN and CO.

ANGLO-TURKEY CARPETS (Regd.)

OETZMANN and CO.—These superior Carpets, of which Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. have the exclusive sale, are of first-class British manufacture, have all the style and appearance of real Turkey Carpets, at little more than the price of good Brussels, and are very durable. Price-List post-free on application. For the convenience of those residing at a distance, a large piece, showing the border and centre of Carpet, sent on receipt of 5s., which will be deducted from price of Carpet or refunded upon return of pattern; or by sending 1s., three pieces—viz., Anglo-Turkey, Anglo-Persian, and Anglo-Indian—will be sent on the same to me. Hearth Rugs to match, 6 ft. long by 2ft. 8in. wide, £1 5s. 6d. A large stock of real Turkey Carpets at reduced prices.—OETZMANN and CO.

CRETONNES.—OETZMANN and CO.

CRETONNES.—An immense assortment of all the choicest designs in this fashionable material, in every variety of style and colourings; excellent imitations of rare Tapestries, some being exact copies of the finest Sedeline, Beauvais, and Flemish Tapestry. Prices varying from 6½d. per yard. Some at 1s. 0½d., per yard, usually sold at 1s. 9d.; super ditto, at 1s. 2½d., usual price, 2s. Patterns sent into the country by stating kind required. Oetzmann and Co.'s Stock of English and French Cretonnes is one of the largest and best in London.

OETZMANN and CO.

TABLE LAMPS.—OETZMANN and CO.

A large assortment of Table, Reading, and other Lamps for the present season in Bronze, Brass, Ormolu, Terra-Cotta, Royal Dresden, and other China, of the newest designs, in great variety, fitted with the improved Duplex, Silber, Moderator, and other burners. Patent Duplex Lamp complete, 10s. 6d. Handsome ditto from 18s. 9d. to 6 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

WEDDING PRESENTS, USEFUL and ARTISTIC.—Intending Purchasers should inspect OETZMANN and CO.'S VAST DISPLAY of Elegant Vases, Lustres, Figures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pictures, Cut Glass Decanters, Wines, &c.; Electro-Silver Plate, Table Cutlery, and a large variety of other Useful and Ornamental Articles suitable for Presents.—Descriptive catalogue post-free.

OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.

OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 379 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.

OETZMANN & CO.,

HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

HEAL and SON.

BED-ROOM FURNITURE.

DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.

DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE.

HEAL and SON,

195 to 198, TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD, W.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the Public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.

OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.

GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

CHALLEN and SON'S IRON-FRAME PIANOS, require but little tuning, pure and powerful in tone, and more damp-resisting than those upon the old system of bracing. Their Gold Medal Pianettes, from 25 guineas, have taken the highest award at any Exhibition. Illustrated List free. 20, Oxford-street.

MELBOURNE EXHIBITION, 1881. HIGHEST AWARD.

CHALLEN and SON have been awarded the First Prize for their Iron Frame Upright Pianos, a distinction not conferred upon any other English Firm. May be purchased on the Three-Years' Hire System.—20, Oxford-street.

CHALLEN and SON'S THREE-YEARS, SYSTEM of Purchase affords facilities for obtaining a first-class Instrument by a series of twelve quarterly payments, after which the piano becomes the property of the hirer, without further payment. List and Terms free.—20, Oxford-street. Established 1804.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 12s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.

453 and 458, West Strand, Charing-cross.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES for Painting, Fern Painting, and Decalcomanie, Blotting-Books, Card Plates, Cigar-Cases, Screens, &c. New Patterns. Priced List free.

WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London, W.

SCRAPS for SCREENS and SCRAP-BOOKS (Coloured).—Immense variety of Flowers, Figures Birds, and Landscapes, from 1s. per sheet to 20s. assorted, 10s. 6d.

London: WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!—250 richly coloured embossed SCRAPS, Flowers, Fruit, Birds, &c., price 1s. 2d., post-free to all parts.

GEO. L. SPALDING and CO., Fine-Art Importers, Ipswich.

ONE SHILLING.—AIDE MÉMOIRE; or, Artificial Memory.—New and guaranteed System by which anyone may commit to memory Speeches, Sermons, Facts, Dates, Figures, Names, Cards at Whist, &c., without the trouble and labour of repetition or study, no matter how imperfect the natural memory may be. A true friend and help to the most retentive; an invaluable and perfect substitute for those who have weak or defective memories; indispensable to clergymen. Return, post-free, 14 stamps.—G. T. KEMP, 20, Grosvenor-road, South Norwood, London.

TRANSVAAL BORDER.

A portion of the rugged highlands on the borders of Natal and the Transvaal country, where the British forces under Sir George Colley and Sir Evelyn Wood have to encounter the opposing Boers, under Commandant Franz Joubert, in the renewed advance this week, is delineated in our Map. The starting-point of their advance is the town of Newcastle, in Natal, the British head-quarters for this campaign; and the immediate object is to force a passage to the Hooge Veldt or high open plain of the Transvaal, a sort of table-land, which is indicated at the top of the Map. The situation of Newcastle, about thirty miles distant in a straight line, as the crow flies, is seen at the bottom of the Map. It will be observed that from Newcastle three different roads branch off in northerly directions. The first goes mostly to north, or to west of north, crossing the successive hill ranges that rise above the right bank of the Buffalo River on the Natal side. This is the direct and short road into the upland plain of the Transvaal, leading straight towards the positions of the beleaguered English garrisons, the nearest of them at Standerton, on the Vaal River, and Pretoria, about one hundred miles farther on. It was, therefore, in order to bring them speedy relief, with as little delay as possible, that Sir George Colley, a month ago, made his attempted advance by this more direct north road, but was stopped, on Friday, the 28th ult., by the repulse that he suffered from the Boers acting on the defensive at Laing's Nek. He then fell back on his entrenched camp, very close to Hatley's Hotel; but in a few days was compelled to move out and fight for his rear communications with Newcastle, as the road behind him, south of the Ingogo River, was closed by a junction of two parties of Dutchmen; the one crossing the Buffalo (probably near the spot marked "Dutch Laager" in our Map); the other coming from the west, having descended the Drakenberg mountain, passes out of the Orange Free State. On Tuesday, the 8th inst., Sir George Colley was attacked on both flanks, and in his front, by these combined parties of the Boers, while on his road to reopen the communications between his camp and Newcastle. This conflict took place on the elongated hill, clearly shown in the Map, one extremity of which is called Schain's Hooghte, and which extends between the Imbazane and Ingogo rivers. The Boers had taken up covered positions along three sides of the hill, and kept up such an incessant fire of their rifles across its bare summit, during six hours of that day, that the British troops were unable to get past. It will, of course, be perceived that, in this engagement, the attempted movement of Sir George Colley was in the reverse direction to that of his advance on the 28th ult. at Laing's Neck. He was now, at Schain's Hooghte, endeavouring to pass southward, and to clear the road to Newcastle from his camp near Hatley's Hotel; whereas, upon the former occasion, he had been seeking to force his way northward, over Laing's Nek to the Coldstream and Meek's Store, and thence across the final passes to the upland plain. The general result, however, of these unsuccessful operations was that last week he abandoned the direct road altogether, for a time, and returned to Newcastle, there to join Sir Evelyn Wood, who came up with large reinforcements from the coast. There was some apprehension that Sir Evelyn Wood's column might encounter opposition from the Boers then collected on the Biggarsberg, which is half-way between Ladysmith and Newcastle, far below the southern margin of our map. But the Dutch forces are probably too limited in numbers to be capable of acting at such a distance from their own base of operations. Sir Evelyn Wood reached Newcastle, without any fighting, early on Thursday of last week, and there he met Sir George Colley, with the remnant of his original force. On Saturday last, after conferring with the Commander-in-Chief, Sir Evelyn Wood took a squadron of hussars with him, and rode out from Newcastle, crossing the Buffalo river and proceeding in a direction rather to the east of north, some thirty or forty miles over the hills to Wakkerstroom. This is the second or alternative route to get up to the Hooge Veldt or elevated open plain of the Transvaal. Sir Evelyn Wood's reconnaissance was perfectly successful; he found the country quite deserted of its inhabitants, and with no signs of an enemy in that direction. After approaching within ten or twelve miles of the frontier town of Wesselstroom, which will be found at the upper right-hand corner of our map, he returned with his party of cavalry to Newcastle. On Tuesday last Sir George Colley, with one column of the troops, again advanced to Schain's Hooghte, which he occupied in force, meeting with no opposition.

MAP OF THE TRANSVAAL BORDER BETWEEN NEWCASTLE, LAING'S NEK AND WAKKERSTROOM.

THE LATE MR. ODAMS.

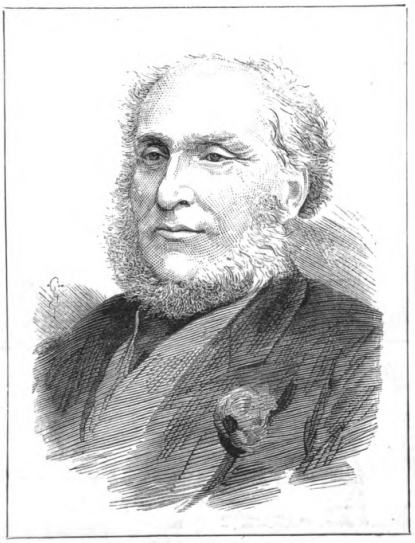
This gentleman, who died lately, in his sixty-sixth year, at his residence near Bishop's Stortford, Herts, took an active interest in matters relating to agriculture. About 1866, when the cattle murrain or rinderpest had been brought to this country, he, at his sole cost and risk, provided, on ten acres of land on the river Thames near the Victoria Dock, a wharf and landing-stage, lairs for resting the cattle, a place for marketing, and slaughter-houses. He tendered these to the Privy Council, with the result that an order was issued, and all foreign animals were landed, marketed, and slaughtered at this spot. Mr. Odams was a member of the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society, the Smithfield Club, the Central Chamber of Agriculture, the Central Farmers' Club, and the Farmers' Alliance. He was also a member of the French Peasants' Seed Fund Committee, formed under the presidency of Lord Vernon at the termination of the Franco-German War, and undertook the chartering and forwarding of the steam-vessels employed in the conveyance of consignments to different French ports.

The portrait is from a photograph by Mr. Samuel Walker, of Margaret-street, Cavendish-square.



THE LATE MR. JAMES ODAMS.

Lord Norton presided last week in the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street, at the distribution of prizes and certificates to pupils of middle-class schools and to private students who had been successful at the December examinations of the College of Preceptors.

The London School Board on Thursday week discussed the estimated expenses for the coming year. The estimates of the Finance Committee met with much opposition, but they were ultimately agreed to. A proposition in reference to the Shaftesbury training-ship also gave rise to a good deal of opposition, and the further consideration of the question was adjourned till the following day, when Sir Charles Reed, M.P., again presided.—Subject to the consent of the Home Secretary, the Industrial Schools Committee were authorised to take the necessary steps to establish in the neighbourhood of the docks a "home" in connection with the Shaftesbury, in order to afford facilities for the disposal of boys to be sent to sea; and the Works Committee were empowered to take the necessary steps for the purchase of a site, and for the erection upon it of a suitable building for a truant school to accommodate one hundred boys. From the Skinners' Company came an offer of a scholarship of £30 per annum for four years, which was accepted.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2181.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1881. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS | SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

THE 92ND (GORDON) HIGHLANDERS SKIRMISHING.—SEE PAGE 226.

BIRTHS.

On the 25th ult., the Countess Annesley, of a daughter.

On the 26th ult., at Putney, the Hon. Mrs. Walter Sugden, of a daughter.

On the 26th ult., at 73, Belgrave-road, the wife of Rear-Admiral Frederick Anstruther Herbert, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 22nd ult., at the parish church, Edgbaston, by the Rev. J. H. Scott, M.A., Vicar of All Saints' (through the absence by sudden illness of the Rev. Charles Brittain, M.A.), William Clement, second son of Charles Sandford Windover, Esq., Sandford House, Huntingdon, to Matilda (Mattie), only daughter of William Sharpe, Esq., Bristol-road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

On the 24th ult., by special license, at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, by the Rev. Joshua Greaves, Vicar of Great Missenden, Bucks, assisted by the Rev. W. Barns, Captain Simpson Carson, Royal Bucks King's Own Militia, of Albion, Jamaica, eldest son of the late James Carson, Esq., of Spinfield, near Marlow, Bucks, to Ann Hester, only daughter of James Wyld, Esq., of 15, Hogarth-road, South Kensington.

On the 1st inst., St. David's Day, at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, by the Rev. F. H. Lloyd, B.D., Vicar of Aldworth, and the Rev. Sep. Hansard, Vicar of Bethnal-green, Edward Seymour Greaves, of Watchbury, Warwick, Esq., to Rosamund Amharad Lloyd, daughter of Edward Lloyd, Esq., M.D., of Ty'n y Rhyl, in the county of Flint.

DEATHS.

On Dec. 20, 1880, of his wounds, received in action with the Boers at Bronker Spruit, Transvaal, South Africa, James MacSwiney, Captain 94th Regiment, only surviving son of J. J. MacSwiney, Esq., of 22, Gloucester-road, Regent's Park, aged 26. Deeply mourned.

On the 23rd ult., at his residence, 3, Dorset-square, N.W., Bernard Dietz, Esq., in his 65th year.

On the 25th ult., at his residence, Crohana, near Stoneyford, County Kilkenny, in the 63rd year of his age, Maurice Fitz-Gibbon, Esq., "the White Knight," and "Mac-an-Usen Riddery."

On the 26th ult., at 47, Queen's-gardens, Hyde Park, the residence of her father, Georgianna Elizabeth, widow of the late Arthur Henry Taylor, K.L.H., Assistant Surgeon Royal Horse Artillery, and beloved eldest surviving daughter of Commissary-General George Adams, C.B., aged 47.

On the 27th ult., after a short illness, Mary Fanny, aged 34, the dearly loved wife of Blackenbury C. Bakeley, Esq., of Collett Hall, Ware, Herts

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 12.

SUNDAY, MARCH 6.

First Sunday in Lent.
Ember Week.
Charles I., King of Wurtemberg, born, 1823.
Morning Lessons: Gen. xix. 12—30; Mark vii. 1—24. Evening Lessons: Gen. xxii. 1—20 or xxiii. Rom. xv. 8.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Harry Jones; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Gregory; 7 p.m., the Bishop of Bedford.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Bishop of St. Albans (for National Society); 3 p.m. Canon Prothero.
St. James's, noon, the Bishop of Ely.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., the Bishop of London; 3 p.m., Rev. Dr. Ince, Regius Professor Divinity, Oxford.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. S. V. Hall, Precentor of Worcester Cathedral.

MONDAY, MARCH 7.

Moon's first quarter, 8.2 p.m.
Royal Institution, general monthly meeting, 5 p.m.
London Institution, 5 p.m. (Rev. Professor A. Sayce on the Gods of Canaan).
Musical Association, 5 p.m. (Mr. C. A. Barry on Wagner's Meistersinger von Nürnberg).
Surveyors' Institution, 8 p.m.
Victoria Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. R. Brown on Language and the Theories of its Origin).
Medical Society, election of officers, &c., 7 p.m.
Society of Engineers, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. C. Gandon on Gas Engines).
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor W. G. Adams on Electric Lighting).

TUESDAY, MARCH 8.

Horticultural Society, 11 a.m.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Photographic Society, 8 p.m.
Medical and Chirurgical Society, 8.30.
Medical Society, anniversary, 8.30.
Anthropological Institute, 8 p.m.
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. (Discussion on Sir W. Thomson's Tide Gauge, &c.).
West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m.
Reedham Orphan Asylum, annual festival, Cannon-street Hotel.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9.

Literary Fund, anniversary, 3 p.m.
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Lieut.-Col. E. F. Chapman on the March from Kabul to Kandahar and the Battle of Sept. 1).
Microscopical Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. A. D. Michael on a Species of Acarus).
Amateur Mechanical Society, 8 p.m.
Hunterian Society, 8 p.m.
Graphic Society, 8 p.m.
Geological Society, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. E. Whymper on his Ascents of Chimborazo and Cotopaxi).
Orphan Asylum, Watford, anniversary dinner, Willis's Rooms.
Birmingham Shorthorn Show (two days).

THURSDAY, MARCH 10.

Accession of Louis II., King of Bavaria, 1864.
Marriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales, 1863.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Rev. W. Houghton on the Picture Origin of Cuneiform Characters).
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Mr. W. Morris on the Prospects of Architecture on Modern Civilisation).
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Society of Antiquaries, 8.30 p.m.
Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.
Mathematical Society, 8 p.m.
Telegraph Engineers' Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. A. J. S. Adams on Earth-currents—Electric Tides: Papers by Lieutenant F. Cardew and Mr. E. B. Bright).
Philharmonic Society, second concert, 8 p.m.
Bromley Races.

FRIDAY, MARCH 11.

College of Physicians, Gulstonian Lecture, 5 p.m. (Dr. Coupland on Anæmia).
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Vice-Admiral W. M. Dowell on Naval Tactics).
Royal Institution, 8 p.m. (Professor J. S. Blackie on the Language and Literature of the Scottish Highlands, 9 p.m.).
Clinical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Astronomical Society, 8 p.m.
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
New Shakspere Society, 8 p.m. (Dr. Brinsley Nicholson on "The Tempest" as founded on an Older Play).
Caledonian Society, annual ball, Willis's Rooms).

SATURDAY, MARCH 12.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. R. S. Poole on Ancient Egypt).
Geologists' Association, at British Museum, 2.30 p.m.
Botanic Society, 3.45 p.m.
Physical Society, 3 p.m.
Ladies' Sanitary Association, 5.30 p.m. (Dr. B. W. Richardson on the Relation of the Circulation of the Blood to Health).
Royal Academy Exhibition of Old Masters closed.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.
Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| DAY. | DAILY MEANS OF | | | | | THERMOM. | | WIND. | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Barometer corrected. | Temperature of the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | Maximum, read at 10 P.M. | Minimum, read at 10 P.M. | General Direction. | Movement in 24 hours, at 10 A.M. next morning. | Rain in 24 hours, read at 10 A.M. next morning. |
| | Inches | ° | ° | 0 to 1·0 | | ° | ° | | Miles. | In. |
| 20 | 30·136 | 35·5 | 31·0 | ·95 | 10 | 38·6 | 33·3 | NE. | * | 0·645† |
| 21 | 30·283 | 32·2 | 28·3 | ·87 | 10 | 33·4 | 29·8 | NE. NNE. | 297 | 0·002 |
| 22 | 30·125 | 32·3 | 30·3 | ·93 | 10 | 35·2 | 28·5 | NNW. | 124 | 0·000 |
| 23 | 30·193 | 32·9 | 31·1 | ·96 | 10 | 35·6 | 32·4 | N. NNE. | 195 | 0·280‡ |
| 24 | 30·252 | 30·3 | 29·8 | ·99 | 10 | 30·4 | 25·2 | NNE. | 242 | 0·100 |
| 25 | 30·374 | 31·2 | 23·9 | ·74 | 10 | 37·4 | 31·0 | NNE. | 113 | 0·000 |
| 26 | 29·966 | 34·8 | 28·3 | ·79 | 8 | 42·2 | 27·4 | NNE. E. | 124 | 0·065§ |

* Instrument out of order.
† Rain and snow. ‡ Snow. § Snow.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected | .. | 30·124 | 30·238 | 30·159 | 30·188 | 30·274 | 30·155 | 29·846 |
| Temperature of Air | .. | 35·0 | 30·3 | 31·3 | 33·6 | 35·7 | 35·6 | 39·5 |
| Temperature of Evaporation | .. | 32·2 | 27·8 | 30·1 | 31·6 | 33·7 | 32·3 | 34·7 |
| Direction of Wind | .. | NE. | NE. | NNW. | NNE. | NNE. | NNE. | SSE. |

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 12.

| Sunday. | | Monday. | | Tuesday. | | Wednesday. | | Thursday. | | Friday. | | Saturday. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| M | A | M | A | M | A | M | A | M | A | M | A | M | A |
| h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m | h m |
| 5 30 | 5 50 | 6 8 | 6 30 | 6 50 | 7 10 | 7 30 | 7 50 | 8 9 | 8 29 | 9 15 | 9 40 | 10 8 | 10 32 |
| 10 48 | 11 12 | — | 12 0 | | | | | | | | | | |

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND

(Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £555,000.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sidney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and at eighty-two other towns and places throughout the Colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application.
F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

BRIGHTON.—PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 10.0 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.45 p.m.; also from Victoria on Sundays at 10.45 a.m., and from Brighton on Sundays at 8.30 p.m.
EVERY SUNDAY.—A Cheap First-Class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY SATURDAY. Cheap First-class Trains from Victoria at 10.50 and 11.20 a.m., and London Bridge at 9.30 a.m. and 12 0 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Fare—First Class, Half-a-Guinea (including admission to the Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion Picture Gallery, Palace, and Grounds), available to return by any Train the same day, except the 5.45 p.m. Pullman Car Train.
(By order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

WILL CLOSE on SATURDAY, MARCH 12.—ROYAL ACADEMY OF ARTS.—EXHIBITION of WORKS by the OLD MASTERS and by DECEASED MASTERS of the BRITISH SCHOOL, including a Collection of Drawings by John Flaxman, R.A., OPEN Daily from Nine till Seven. Admittance, 1s. Catalogues, 6d.; or, bound in cloth, with Pencil, 1s. Season Tickets, 5s.—R.W. The Exhibition is lighted at dusk.

OLD BOND-STREET GALLERIES.—Messrs. THOS. AGNEW and SON'S ANNUAL EXHIBITION of high class WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS by Living and Deceased Masters, now open from Ten till Five daily. Admission, including Catalogues, 1s.—30, Old Bond-street, Piccadilly.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION" ("CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

INSTITUTE OF PAINTERS IN WATER-COLOURS will CLOSE on SATURDAY NEXT their FIFTEENTH WINTER EXHIBITION. Open from Ten till Six. Admission, 1s.; Catalogue, 6d.
H. F. PHILLIPS, Sec.

MR. SIMS REEVES'S LAST BALLAD CONCERT, ST. JAMES'S HALL, TUESDAY NEXT, MARCH 8, at Eight o'clock. This is his last Ballad Concert in London. Artistes—Madame Trebelli and Miss De Fonblanque; Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Herbert Reeves, and Mr. Arthur Oswald. Instrumentalists—Solo violin, Herr Joachim; pianoforte, Herr Ganz. The London Vocal Union (under the direction of Mr. Frederick Walker). Conductor, Mr. Sidney Naylor. Tickets, 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 5s., and 1s., at Austin's Office, St. James's Hall; and usual Agents.

MR. CARRODUS will give a REPETITION of his VIOLIN PERFORMANCE at ST. JAMES'S HALL on FRIDAY EVENING NEXT, MARCH 11, at Eight. Tickets, 5s., 3s., 1s., of Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street; Austin's, 28, Piccadilly; and the usual Agents.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP, at 7.45.—Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss. THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 9.30.—Mr. Irving. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram. THE CUP every Saturday Morning.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT, THE TURQUOISE RING, by G. W. Godfrey, Music by Lionel Benson. A New Musical Sketch, OUR INSTITUTE, by Mr. Corney Grain; and a New Second Piece, ALL AT SEA, by Arthur Law, Music by Corney Grain. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at Eight, Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

| | |
|---|---|
| Twelve months (including Christmas Number), | £1 9s. 3d. |
| Six months, 14s. | Christmas Half-Year, 15s. 3d. |
| Three months, 7s. | Christmas Quarter, 8s. 3d. |

Copies will be supplied direct from the Office to any part of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands, for any period, at the rate of 6d. for each Number, paid in advance.

ABROAD.

The yearly subscription abroad is 36s. 4d. (on thin paper, 32s.), with the following exceptions:—

To Aden, Borneo, Ceylon, India, Java, Labuan, Mozambique Penang, Philippine Islands, Sarawak, Singapore, and Zanzibar, 41s. (thin paper, 34s.)

To the Hawaiian Islands, Madagascar (except St. Mary), and Paraguay, 45s. (on thin paper, 36s. 4d.)

Subscribers are specially advised to order the thick paper edition, the appearance of the engravings in the thin paper copies being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication, irrespective of the departure of the mails.

Subscriptions must be paid in advance, direct to the Publishing Office, 198, Strand, in English money; by cheque crossed the Union Bank of London; or by Post-Office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to George C. Leighton, of 198, Strand, London.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1881.

On Sunday last, a large detachment of the force under Sir George Colley, on the Transvaal Frontier, met with a terrible reverse. This is the third time that the Boers of that country have achieved a decisive victory over British Arms. It seems that Sir George conceived what may be well described as a brilliant idea, wanting only the complement of prudence, of seizing upon a somewhat precipitous ridge overlooking the position of the Boers at Laing's Nek. Starting from his camp at midnight with seven hundred men, they proceeded in silence and unopposed to scramble up the ascent, which they reached and occupied shortly before daybreak. This hazardous feat, as soon as it was observed by the enemy, threw them into momentary confusion, and caused them to make preparations for retreat in case of extremities. For three or four hours our soldiers held their ground with advantage. The Boers, in their determined efforts to retake the ridge, suffered severe losses, while the British scarcely suffered at all. But about midday the tide turned. The Boers were in overwhelming numbers. They gained the summit. Volley after volley was poured into our lines, which wavered and broke, then rallied again, and were again broken; and fled down the hill, in sadly diminished numbers, to reach the camp as best they could. Sir George Colley himself was killed; and the names of other officers appear in the list of the killed and wounded. On the whole, the expedition has proved to have been a most disastrous one.

The immediate effects of this defeat, in a military point of view, are said to be less important in their bearing upon the relative position of the contending forces than would probably be anticipated at first glance. The camp, we are told on trustworthy authority, is safe. The losses sustained on Majuba Hill do not endanger the general position. Things are left pretty much as they were before Sunday, save for the lamentable loss of life. The action was, in the main, an isolated one, a sort of "aside." It might have proved a crowning success, but it has not resulted in an irreversible disaster. It is evident that the Boers themselves, overwhelmingly preponderant as their numbers were, suspected that they had been outmanœuvred, and that their fastness was in danger. But a closer inspection soon revealed to them that the British force was unsupported; that it was too small of itself to accomplish the object which it had in view; and that, in point of fact, it had run into a trap. What will follow, time alone will show; but the appointment of Sir Frederick Roberts to the chief military command in the Transvaal, the number of battalions which he will have under him when he arrives at Natal, and the known determination of the English Government to demonstrate the superior power and resources of the Empire before prescribing such conditions of peace as the Boers may see fit to accept, conduce to the conclusion that within the next three months there will probably be a change in the complexion of the news which it will be our lot to receive from South-Eastern Africa.

The political consequences of this reverse can hardly be otherwise than extremely embarrassing. In the first place, it may be expected to excite the enthusiasm of the Orange Free State in favour of their Dutch kinsmen on the other side of the Vaal River. It may even lead to an outbreak of hostilities between them and ourselves. In the next place, it will stimulate into fresh activity the latent antipathy of Dutch settlers over the entire extent of our South African possessions, and serve to prevent the healing of those wounds inflicted by our original conquest of the Cape. Dutch settlers constitute a large majority over other European settlers in South Africa. Naturally enough, they have sympathy, more or less lively, with the Boers of the Transvaal. It is impossible to predict what may be the moral and political impression made upon their minds by this third victory of their kin. It is not likely, perhaps, to exhibit itself in actual rebellion. But it will foment disaffection, will place increasing difficulties in the way of Government, and may lead to issues stranger and more lamentable than any we have yet dared to anticipate.

Nor is it in South Africa alone that misfortune, coupled with confusion, has overtaken us. The accident to Mr. Gladstone, although happily less serious in its effects than might have been anticipated, has deranged the already sufficient complication of our Parliamentary business. The aspect of public affairs, taken in connection with the plans of Government—as explained by the Marquis of Hartington on Monday night—is, for the time being, really discouraging. The resolution of the Cabinet to introduce their Preservation of the Peace (Ireland) Bill, or, as it was at first more accurately described, their Arms Bill, and to proceed with it as a measure of "Urgency," to be taken up alternately with the Estimates (certain items of which must be voted before March 21 in order to lay a constitutional basis for the Army Discipline Bill), not only postpones the introduction of the Land Bill, but threatens a dislocation of House of Commons procedure which may culminate in a state of things equivalent to another break down. It will need all the wisdom, as well as the tact, of Mr. Gladstone's Government to ward off, or to evade, the dangers which threaten it. Whilst they are clearing the ground of repressive measures, they may find it impossible to secure the financial arrangements which they deem essential to the maintenance of the order and peace of the realm; and the enforced delay of the introduction of the Irish Land Bill and the certainty that when it is introduced it will be resisted by the whole force of the Conservative Opposition will tend to excite increasing dissatisfaction amongst advanced Liberals. Perhaps her Majesty's Ministers have chosen the least of the evils before them, in tracing out, as they have done, their programme for the next fortnight or three weeks. But the course upon which they have decided, and which, no doubt, they would have been glad to feel justified in leaving untried, is certainly one which does not commend itself to an ordinary judgment by its own merits. The actual inconveniences are not few. Its possible perils are not small. It may turn out to be practically successful—but then, on the other hand, it may not. We have learned of late, by varied experience, that usually "it is the unexpected that is most sure to happen." We earnestly hope that it will not be so in the instance before us; but that it may not be so, an exercise of extreme forbearance by those who constitute the representative majority will be quite indispensable.

Mr. Gladstone has recovered from the effects of his fall last week. As he was alighting from his carriage on Wednesday night at the Park entrance to his official residence, he slipped in the snow, and, falling, sustained a scalp wound. Rest was enjoined for several days. The Prime Minister was visited by Sir James Paget and Dr. A. Clark last Tuesday afternoon, and shortly afterwards the following bulletin was issued for the information of the right hon. gentlemen's friends who might call:—"Mr. Gladstone is now, in all respects, so well that no further bulletins will be issued."

A supplement to Tuesday night's Gazette contains lists of appointments and promotions to Military and Civil Divisions of the Order of the Bath, and to the Orders of the Star of India; also promotions conferred upon officers in recognition of their services during the late Afghan campaign, and operations against the Nuga Hill tribes (1879-80).

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

The special correspondents of the newspapers complimented in Parliament!—and in the House of Lords, too! Such is literally and positively the amazing fact. In the Upper House, on Tuesday, in the course of a conversation on the dreadful events in South Africa, the Earl of Kimberley spoke of the "admirable accounts" of warlike operations which had appeared in the newspapers; and added that it was "impossible not to admire the enterprise and courage which have been shown by these gentlemen," and "that we must all feel indebted to them. Pour comble d'honneur," his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge said that "he concurred entirely in the remarks made by the noble Lord (Kimberley). Everybody would acknowledge the admirable way in which these gentlemen discharged their duties."

I hope that the special correspondent who, these many years past, has been systematically snubbed and pooh-poohed by the military authorities, and reviled and derided by the Saturday Review, will not feel unduly elated by all the fine things that have been said about him in the Peers. My Lords, and the Horse Guards, and officiality generally, do not dislike the special correspondent one whit the less because they are compelled, by the force of public opinion, to acknowledge his merits. But even while belauding him, the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief and the Colonial Minister could not refrain from administering a neat little "back-hander" of implied reproof to the "Special." The Duke remarked that "it was of the greatest possible consequence that while newspaper correspondents should give as full information as possible, they should use great caution, as otherwise the results would be most serious." Lord Kimberley said in effect "Ditto" to the illustrious and gallant Duke; adding that "in the present conditions of rapid communication everything can be known in South Africa in the course of two hours."

It strikes me that a Special War Correspondent who knows his duty and is worth his salt would as soon think of filling his telegrams with conundrums and bouts rimés as of giving publicity to any information which could possibly be of service to the enemy. It is quite true that the Emperor Napoleon III., just before the commencement of the fatal Franco-German war, in refusing to allow a correspondent of an English newspaper to follow the French army to the front, laughingly told the Hon. Francis Lawley (I think) that he had heard from the Emperor Alexander that the Russians during the Crimean war had been to a considerable extent indebted for knowledge as to what was going on in the English camp to the Times correspondence of William Howard Russell. Napoleon III. was, in this, only re-echoing the silly prejudices which then filled the official mind against the professors of what was in 1855-6 virtually a new art. Anybody who has read the wonderful letters of Dr. Russell from the camp before Sebastopol will see how utterly unfounded was the allegation that a single line of his writing could possibly be of service to "the Muscovites," as the Jingoes term their foes when they are fearful of being accused of tautology by abusing them too often as "Russians."

It is possible that among the readers of this page there may be some gentlemen who are candidates for membership of the new Falstaff Club, shortly to be opened in the historic mansion known as "Evans's," and which promises to be a brilliant social success. I may say for the information of intending Falstaffians that the committee are hard at work, and have met several times within the last fortnight for the purpose of establishing the constitution of the club on a durable basis, and of consolidating clearly defined relations between the committee, acting for the general body of future members, and the proprietor. So soon as ever the preliminaries and protocols have been settled and a formal treaty concluded (and that I hope will be in the course of a very few days), the committee will proceed to the arduous task of balloting for members. Already there are many hundreds of applications representative of every section of fashionable, political, lettered, artistic, scientific, and musical society. To the working committee itself (which has power to increase its number from twenty to thirty) have been recently added the influential names of Mr. Edmund Yates and Mr. Blanchard Jerrold.

The last-named gentleman, with Mr. Fraser Rae, Mr. Lewis Morris, Mr. Carmichael, Mr. Bagster, and a few more representatives of literature, formed a deputation on Monday last to the President of the Board of Trade for the purpose of enlightening the Right Honourable gentleman as to the views taken by the English branch of the International Literary Association touching the draught of a Copyright treaty recently communicated by the American Minister to our Foreign Office. So far as I can make out the clauses of this draught treaty, they seemed specially designed to benefit American booksellers and ruin English publishers by flooding our market with cheap American books admitted duty free.

Mr. Chamberlain listened very civilly to what the deputation, through its able spokesmen, Mr. Fraser Rae and Mr. Jerrold, had to say. Entertaining as I do the very faintest hopes of ever seeing a satisfactory Copyright treaty concluded between Great Britain and the United States (I mean one that shall protect English authors against the impudent and systematic robbery of the product of their brains), I confess that I took scant interest in the talk between the delegates of the International Literary Association and the President of the Board of Trade. I was chiefly moved by the contemplation of a sumptuous eighteenth-century doorway in the otherwise grim and cheerless apartment in the old mansion occupied by the Board of Trade in Scotland-yard, where Mr. Chamberlain gave the deputation audience. Such a pediment! Such an architrave! Such a cornice! Such richly-carved festoons of flowers, flanked by fluted columns, with Corinthian columns, all of oak, heavily gilt. Queen Anne carving and gilding, probably. Certainly not later than George I., I should say. My means are very limited; but (we live in democratic and economical times) I should dearly like to make a bid for that old carved and gilt doorway.

Why not? The portico of the Grosvenor Gallery belonged, I believe, to some Palladian edifice at Venice. From the hall roof of the house of a great noble hard by Leighton Buzzard, hang the poop-lanterns of the Bucentaur; and the great chimney-piece of black and white marble in that same hall was part and parcel of Rubens' house at Antwerp. To a palatial mansion at Prince's-gate, the residence of one of our merchant princes, distinguished for his enthusiastic love and generous patronage of art, has been transported bodily the splendid grand staircase of old Northumberland House, Strand. The Lion is safe at Sion House. So are, I suppose, somewhere, the stones (duly numbered) of Temple Bar. But the timbers of old Traitors' Gate, from St. Thomas's Tower in the Tower of London, were sold some six years ago as Government stores. Both Traitors' Gate and the Keys of the Bastille are a present, I believe, in the United States.

A new evening paper, price one penny, with the attractive title of "The Cuckoo" is announced to make its appearance on the eleventh instant. "The Cuckoo," it is stated, will be a novelty in journalism, and will give the news and gossip of the day chiefly, I presume, in the now favourite paragraph form, without lengthened leading articles. I don't know who the ladies and gentlemen may be who read those lengthened "leaders;" but I know full well who are the unhappy scribes who are compelled two or three hundred times a year to construct a tale of bricks—or words—about a thousand in number in consecutive and more or less consecutive order.

The conductor of the new venture in journalism is Mr. Edmund Yates. He could not possibly take a better model in the mechanical arrangement of the contents of his journal than the San Francisco News Letter, which, in an astonishingly small space, contrives to give its readers a terse, airy, and racy conspectus of all that is going, not only in the United States but in England and on the Continent of Europe. For the rest, there are cuckoos and cuckoos. The Conductor may make his journal even as the Great Honey Guide, whose eager "cherr! cherr!" leads the Hottentot to where there is great store of wild honey. That would be an excellent form of Cuckoo. A Cuckoo of Sweetness and Light. The services of the Wryneck, or "Cuckoo's Footman"—the Welsh "gwas-y-gog" or "Cuckoo's Knave," are obviously not required in the new journal, of which a preliminary announcement seems to have been made by Bottom the Weaver in the "Midsummer Night's Dream":—

> The Finch, the sparrow, and the lark,
> The plain-song cuckoo gray,
> Whose note full many a man doth mark,
> And dares not answer nay.

The magnificent festivities in Paris, and indeed throughout France, in celebration of Victor Hugo's eightieth birthday are of a nature to make us rub our eyes and ask ourselves (not, perhaps, without some feeling of shame) whether there were any rejoicings in England at the period, some two years ago, when Alfred Tennyson attained his seventieth year? I have not yet gathered from the American cablegrams that any general notice was taken of the fact that last Sunday, the twenty-seventh ultimo, was the seventy-fourth birthday of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. I hope that both of these illustrious poets may attain fourscore; and that then all English-speaking people will not fail to congratulate the author of the "Idylls of the King" and the author of "Evangeline" as enthusiastically as all France, and it may be almost said all Europe, have congratulated the stupendous genius who wrote "Notre Dame de Paris" and "La Légende de Siècles."

To find a parallel for the extraordinary outburst of popular acclaim which the Victor Hugo fêtes have awakened we must go back to the year 1778, when Voltaire returned to Paris after many years of partly enforced and partly voluntary exile to witness the performance, at the Théâtre Français, of his tragedy of "Irene." Immense crowds used to assemble before his residence on the Quai des Théatins, now Quai Voltaire, and wait patiently, for hours, for his coming out. The French Academy, who had not admitted him to their midst until he was fifty-two, received him "with the honours due to the sovereign of the empire of letters." When "Irene" was played at the Français, and the bust of the author was crowned with laurels, the audience rose en masse with tremendous shouts of "Vive Voltaire! Vive La Henriade! Vive La Pucelle!" A mob of half frantic admirers invaded the poet's box, embraced him, and nearly tore the grand furred pelisse which the Czarina Catherine had given him off the poor old gentleman's back. "You suffocate me with flowers." "You will kill me with pleasure," he murmured, as the mob bore him in their arms down the grand staircase of the theatre. In effect, he died not many weeks afterwards.

Edifying to read that the clamorous rapture of the "Great Voltaire Boom" was watched by the simple-minded and unostentatious Benjamin Franklin, Printer, Philosopher, Patriot, and Ambassador. The Doctor, whom our Wedderburn had so maltreated with his forensic tongue at the Privy Council Board, took his little grandson to the triumphant Voltaire and craved a blessing. "Dieu et la Liberté," quoth the Patriarch of Fernoy, laying his hand on the head of the child, "Voila la seule bénédiction qui convienne au petit fils de M. Franklin."

The little children also had their part in the "Great Victor Hugo Boom" last Sunday. The grandson and granddaughter celebrated in the delightful "Art d'être Grandpère" stood by the poet's side at the open window when he made his characteristic apostrophe to Paris as an immense, a "blessed," and a "sacred" city; and by a special decree of the Minister of Public Instruction all the naughty boys and girls in the public schools of France were, in honour of Victor Hugo's natal day, absolved from the punishments which they had incurred. Fortunately for the delinquent juveniles, there is no corporal punishment in French schools; and the penalties from which young France was relieved consisted only of tasks, and deprivation of leave. Otherwise it would be manifestly impracticable to "unwhip" a schoolboy even to do honour to a great poet.

At the same time, although we all glory in Victor Hugo, and recognise in him a greater poet than Chateaubriand, than Lamartine, than Alfred de Musset, and as almost as great a novelist as Honoré de Balzac (I hold the Vautrin epic of Balzac to be just a shade grander than Notre Dame de Paris). No serious student of Italian history can avoid being a little angry with Victor Hugo for the fantastic liberties which he has taken with the story of Lucrezia Borgia.

In M. Hugo's drama of "Lucrèce Borgia" the terrible heroine is represented as a kind of female Conrad the Corsair, leaving > a name to other times

> Link'd with one virtue and a thousand crimes.

Her solitary virtue is her love for her son Gennaro, whom she manages twice to poison by mistake, and who ultimately murders his mamma. Did the Lucrezia Borgia of history ever assassinate anybody, by poison or otherwise? There is not the slightest evidence to show that she ever did anything of the kind. It is true that she had four husbands (but the Wife of Bath had five), and that one of her consorts, the Duke of Biseglin, was murdered; but 'twas Lucrezia's brother, Cesare Borgia, Duke of Valentinois, who made away with the Spanish grandee. Still poor Donna Lucrezia appears to have passed a very happy life with her fourth spouse, Alfonso d'Este, Duke of Ferrara. She was (I have read) as charitable as she was beautiful. She made the Court of Ferrara brilliant by her taste in literature and the fine arts; and she was the protector of the early Italian Protestants. In the French "Dictionnaire Universel" (Paris, 1810), it is stated, under the head of "Pope Alexander VI.," that a remarkably curious history of the Borgia Family, was written in English by Alexander Gordon in 1729, and translated into French in 1732. It would be strange if the scandals so ruthlessly tacked on to the robe of Donna Lucrezia had been picked up by M. Hugo from the French translation of Gordon's book, which I have never seen.

A correspondent with the sympathetic signature of "Boz" sends me the following paragraph:—

> Messrs. Kemp and Co., of Albany-street, have just sold a large block of property in Leadenhall-street, which is to be forthwith cleared for building purposes. Readers of "Dombey and Son" will regret, says the Citizen, the consequent disappearance of the Little Wooden Midshipman, so inseparably associated with Sol Gills and Captain Cuttle.—From "Globe," March 1.

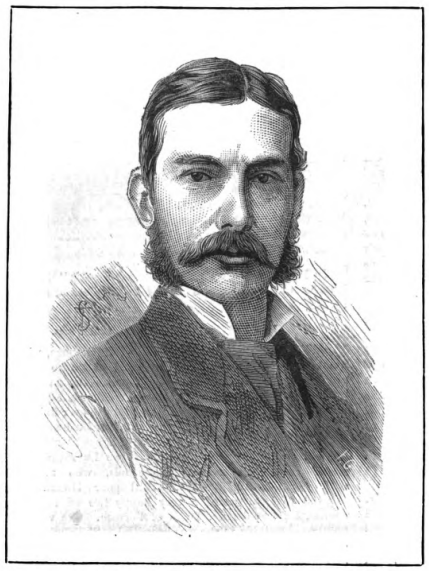
My correspondent exhorts me to do something to "save our little friend from the marine-store dealer." Alas! what can I do? I can only put the collectors of City archæology and "Things of London" on the scent, in the hope that one of their number will be able to run the Wooden Midshipman down, and buy him up, cocked-hat, quadrant, kerseymere smalls, shirt frill, shoe-buckles, and all, with a view of presenting him to a Dickens Museum of the future.

The original "Barnaby Rudge" raven (stuffed) was bought by Mr. Alderman Nottage, of the Stereoscopic Company, at the sale of the Dickens belongings at Christie's. There was a fierce competition for the raven between Mr. Nottage and poor Andrew Halliday, who bid as high, if I remember aright (but I am open to correction), as seventy-five pounds. The splendid series of Hogarth engravings which used to adorn the hall and staircase at Gad's Hill were not sold until some years after Charles Dickens's death; and they now belong to Mr. Edmund Yates. The pictures in distemper, by Clarkson Stanfield, painted for the Tavistock House private theatricals, which had also embellished Gad's Hill, I last saw at Mr. Attenborough's in Piccadilly, they having been purchased by that eminent collector of works of art and Lombard potentate. I fancy that the Stanfields found an American purchaser.

But the town antiquary need not be a Dickensian. There are multitudes of "Things of London" replete with the deepest interest to collectors of "curios," whether they be enthusiastic admirers of Dickens or the contrary. For example, there are the life-sized wooden effigies of Highlanders in full Gaelic garb, taking snuff from monstrous mulls, which used to be so frequently met with at tobacconists' shop doors. These effigies are comparatively few in number, now. I have been vainly in quest of a wooden Highlander for years. Once I was on the very verge of obtaining one at the modest price of seven pounds ten at a cigar-shop in a remote suburb; but the proprietor sold his business, fixtures, stock and all; and the incoming tenant, who had possibly heard of the enthusiasm of collectors, asked me a fantastic price—I think sixty pounds for the snuffing Scotchman.

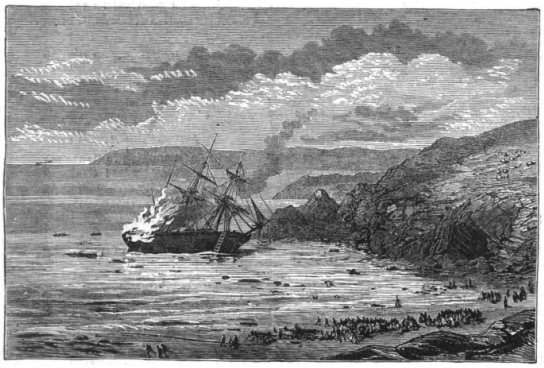
When I was young, a rumour ran that the race of wooden Highlanders had been decimated in the midnight razzias of a then Marquis of Waterford. It is certain that a considerable number of Original Little Dust Pans, Golden Canisters, Silver Sugar Loaves, Royal Arms, and Magpies and Stumps, disappeared about that time (1837), but I have always held that it was not the Marquis and his fellow-Mohawks, but "Spring Heeled Jack" who made free with them. And who "Spring Heeled Jack" was no man has yet been able to discover.

Mem.: To Collectors. If you are fortunate enough to acquire a wooden Highlander, bear in mind that no effigy wearing a cap surmounted by simulated sable plumes, otherwise known as the "feather bonnet," can be older than the first year of the present century; for Lord Archibald Campbell has discovered that the "feather bonnet" was a device of the Highlanders who campaigned in Egypt with Sir Ralph Abercrombie, and who adorned their headgear with plumes plucked from the ostrich and dyed black. G. A. S.

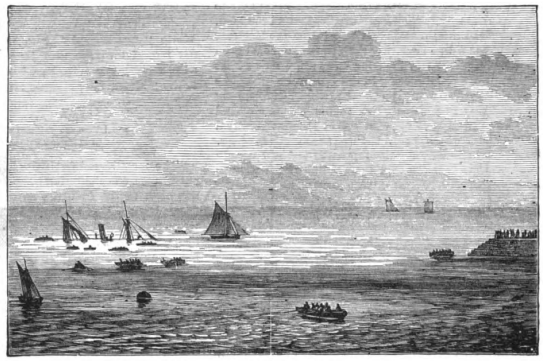


CAPTAIN J. M. ELLIOT, 94TH REGIMENT,
KILLED IN THE TRANSVAAL.

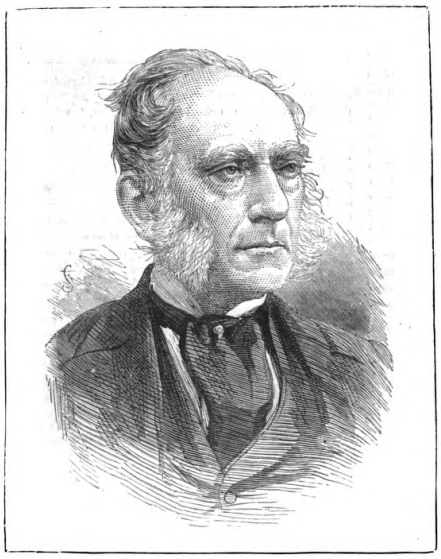
THE LATE SIR RICHARD GRAVES MACDONNELL, K.C.M.G., C.B.
SEE PAGE 222.



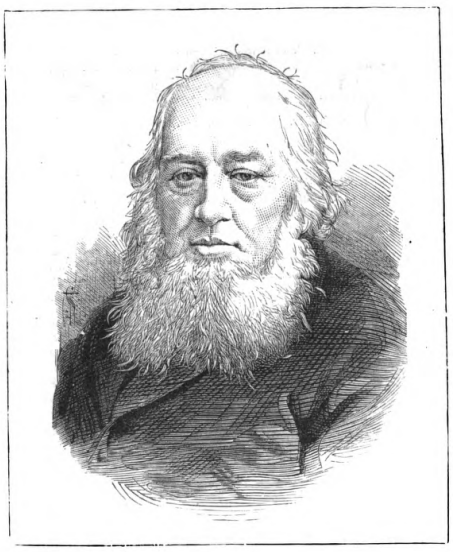
WRECK AND BURNING OF A BARQUE IN MOUNT'S BAY, CORNWALL.



WRECK OF THE MAIL-PACKET CALEDONIA AT ST. HELIER'S.—SEE PAGE 222.



SIR JAMES RISDON BENNETT, M.D.,
PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS.



THE LATE MR. JOHN GOULD, F.R.S.
SEE PAGE 222

FATAL DISASTER AT THE ART-STUDENTS' MASQUERADE IN MUNICH.—SEE PAGE 227.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, March 1.

To-day is Mardi Gras, the last day of the Carnival. While I am writing, the discordant "tootings" of horns of all sizes and descriptions reach my ears; here and there in the streets may be seen maskers in strange costumes, grotesque noses, and chariots full of extravagant living caricatures. In different quarters of the town children's bals parés and masqués are largely patronised by the young folk, and the papas and mammas do not disdain to look on. Every year you hear people say that the Carnival is dead, and every year King Carnival comes to life again, though sadly shorn of his glory. Not that the famous Descente de la Courtille, the vocabulary of Vadé, and other Saturnalian orgies of the past are to be regretted. Still, modern life is not so varied that it can afford to dispense readily with distractions, however extravagant they may be, and in the giddy pleasures of the Carnival, as depicted by Gavarni in those wonderful series of drawings le Carnaval, les Débardeurs, la Foire aux Amours, &c., there is a gaiety, a wit, a diable au Corps that no longer exists. Nowadays the maskers that you see in the street appear to be half ashamed of their disguise; being exceptional, they feel out of place. As for the procession of the Bœuf Gras, that has been relegated to the environs and provinces, and such processions as are still to be seen in Paris are generally advertising contrivances. Banished from the streets, the Carnival has taken refuge in the public balls; everywhere where there is dancing there King Carnival appears, but with his apparel sadly faded and his wit blunted. Last Saturday six thousand people went to the masked ball at the Opera, and seven thousand entries were recorded at other dancing establishments.

A discordant note has been thrown into the gaiety of the Carnival week. Last Wednesday the body of General Ney, Duc d'Elchingen, was found in the cellar of an uninhabited house near Fontenay aux Roses. The inquiry that has been made into this affair shows that, in order to avoid disgrace, the only course left open to General Ney was to kill himself. The explanation of the empty house at Fontenay aux Roses is this. General Ney, as the reader will perhaps remember, was mixed up in the recent Jung-de-Woestyne affair, and in the witness-box the journalist de Woestyne insulted the General. With the purpose of challenging him to a duel, General Ney determined to perfect himself in pistol-shooting, being already a proficient with the sword. He had hired the house at Fontenay for a month, and fitted up a shooting gallery on the ground floor, so that he might practise unobserved. General Ney was himself an uninteresting person of coarse tastes, as the cause of his suicide, amongst other things, sufficiently shows; but he was immensely rich, and a prominent figure in "fast" Parisian life, and so his death has been a leading topic of conversation during the past few days. He obtained his fortune through his wife, who was the adopted child of Madame Heine, née Fould, the sister-in-law of Henri Heine, the poet.

But to return to the Carnival. The cotillon continues to be the order of the day. As Lent begins to-morrow, and as that fast is observed strictly in many families, there has been a perfect deluge of fêtes of late at the Ministries, at the Embassies, at the Elysée on Thursday, at Madame Adam's on Sunday, and at Mrs. Mackay's last night. Madame Adam's bal villageois appears to have been a success; and Mrs. Mackay's ball was colossal, like her fortune. In her mansion in the rue Tilsit there were lights, musicians, and refreshments in profusion. In the hall eighteen powdered "Jeames Plushes" were drawn up in line, and a majordomo in a magnificent uniform announced each guest as he arrived, after striking three times on the pavement with a baronial halbert. The guests were, perhaps, hardly worthy of such feudal magnificence. As many of the vaunted Parisian fêtes show, the great difficulty in houses where luxury is not hereditary, or at least of long standing, is to recruit a body of guests who will not be decapped by the battalion of lackeys.

Last night the tout Paris of art and literature trampled politely on each other's corns in the modest gallery of the Société des Aquarellistes Français in the Rue Laffitte. The two rooms of the gallery were far too small to contain the elegant company that had been invited, and consequently the pictures were seen, as far as they could be seen, at a disadvantage. You caught a glimpse of a Detaille between a Directoire hat and a Dundreary whisker, and you divined the presence of a water-colour by Hedbuth through the crowd of ladies gathered in ecstasy around it. This exhibition was opened to the public to-day. To my mind, it is the ideal of an exhibition: two rooms and about eighty pictures, of which some are exquisite and masterly, and all interesting. This is the third annual exhibition of the society, which was founded in 1879. It contains nineteen members only: MM. Baron de Beaumont, Detaille, Doré, Français, Heilbuth, Isabey, Jacquet, Jourdain, Lambert, Lami, Louis and Maurice Leloir, Madame Lemaire, Baroness Nathaniel de Rothschild, MM. Vibert, Worms, Ducuz, and John Lewis Brown. The two last named have just been elected members in place of the late Jules Jacquemart, the celebrated engraver and aquarelliste. All the works exhibited are of such high order and signed by such names that one does not care to make invidious distinctions without giving reasons. Here I have only room to repeat that the exhibition is charming.

I need not dwell upon the Victor Hugo fête which took place on Sunday, as an account of it appears in another column of this Journal.

The death of M. Drouyn de Lhuys, at the age of seventy-five, is announced. He had a long official and diplomatic career, and for many years occupied the post of Minister of Foreign Affairs. In 1870 he retired to Jersey, on the outbreak of the Revolution and took no further share in politics.

The De Cissey Inquiry Committee held a long sitting yesterday, terminating in a unanimous negative vote on the two questions of the ex-Minister's treachery and peculation. The committee also exculpated General de Cissey from all responsibility in regard to the transactions of the 100,000 Chassepôts.

In the political world, nothing of very special interest has happened lately. For want of better themes the Corbett despatches and M. Gambetta's speech in the Chamber continued to be discussed. In the Senate, on Thursday, the Duc de Broglie interpellated the Government on the insufficient information given by the Government relative to the affairs of Greece. The Senate, however, voted the order of the day pure and simple by a majority of fifty votes. The Senate is still occupied with "protectionising" the General Customs Tariff and the Chamber with army reform.

Yesterday we had a temporary return of winter. Snow fell thickly all day. Last night there was a sharp frost. To-day the weather is fresh and brilliantly fine. T. C.

According to intelligence received at San Francisco, anarchy continues to reign in the Samoa Islands.

Professor R. Lanciani has won the grand prize of 10,000f. awarded by the King of Italy for the best archæological work published in Italy during 1880.

THE LATE CAPTAIN J. M. ELLIOT.

The lamented death of this officer, who was shot, possibly in consequence of some misapprehension, by the Boers at a ford of the Vaal River, on Dec. 29, is one incident of the present unhappy war that demands a strict explanation. An official inquiry has been promised, but the result is not yet made known to the British public; and the circumstances that appear from Captain Lambart's narrative would seem to admit of some difference in the way of accounting for this most deplorable act on the part of the Dutch military escort. Captain John Mitchell Elliot was the youngest surviving son of the late Mr. William Elliot, of the Madras Civil Service. He was nephew to Sir Henry Miers Elliot, K.C.B., Foreign Secretary to the Government of India, who died in 1853, at the Cape of Good Hope, when on sick leave from India. Another uncle was Captain Charles Morgan Elliot, F.R.S., Madras Engineers. Captain J. M. Elliot was born in November, 1843. He obtained a commission without purchase, from Sandhurst, on Oct. 10, 1863, in the 100th Regiment, but was transferred to the 94th Regiment, at his own request, having two cousins serving in the latter corps. He served with the 94th Regiment in India from March, 1865, to February, 1868. He obtained a first-class certificate at Hythe, and was appointed, on Aug. 18, 1869, Instructor of Musketry to the 94th Regiment, which office he held with credit to himself and his regiment until promoted to the rank of Captain on Feb. 27, 1877. He was appointed Paymaster, 94th Regiment, on Oct. 29, 1878, and served with that regiment throughout the Zulu War. His untimely and cruel death is deplored by a large circle of friends and relatives, to whom he had endeared himself by the amiability of his disposition and by his upright and manly character. His eldest brother, William Elliot, of the Madras Cavalry, died in India, of illness contracted on service during the Mutiny; and his two surviving brothers, Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Riversdale Elliot, Madras Army, and Captain Mowbray Lettsom Elliot, are both now serving in India.

The Portrait is from a photograph by Messrs Elliott and Fry, Baker-street.

THE LATE SIR R. GRAVES MAC-DONNELL.

Sir Richard Graves Mac-Donnell, K.C.M.G., C.B., whose death was lately announced, was born in Dublin on Sept. 3, 1814. He was a son of the Rev. Dr. Mac-Donnell, who was Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, from 1852 to 1867. He was the ninth descendant from Colla, of Ternakille, Queen's county, cousin of Sorley, one of the Mac-Donnells of the Antrim family; his mother was a daughter of Dean Graves, Senior Fellow of Trinity College. Sir Richard was educated in the University of Dublin, and obtained a scholarship in 1833, and other distinctions, both in classics and science. In 1871 the University conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. He was called to the Irish Bar in 1838, and to the English Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1840. In 1843 he was appointed Chief Justice of the Gambia settlements. In 1847 he was appointed Governor of the colony. Before setting out from England to fill the office he married Blanche, daughter of Mr. Francis Skurray, of Brighton. He was made a C.B. in 1852, and was promoted to the Governorship of St. Lucia and St. Vincent, and in 1854 to the Governorship of South Australia. In 1855 he received the honour of knighthood from her Majesty at Buckingham Palace. After seven years' service he returned to England, and in 1864 was appointed Governor of Nova Scotia. When Nova Scotia was merged in the Dominion of Canada he resigned the office. In 1868 he became Governor of Hong-Kong, and discharged the duties with the same ability which he had shown in other parts. In 1870 he retired from official life.

THE LATE MR. JOHN GOULD, F.R.S.

We had lately to record the death of this eminent scientific ornithologist. A native of Lyme, in Dorsetshire, he was born in 1804, and at an early age showed a strong taste for the study of nature. In boyhood he spent most of his time under the care of the late Mr. J. T. Aiton, at the Royal Gardens, Windsor, where he soon acquired a taste for botany and floriculture. He afterwards continued his studies in London. In 1830 Mr. Gould became possessed of a fine collection of birds from the hill countries of India, and in the following year he proceeded to illustrate the more important species in a work which he published under the title of "A Century of Birds from the Himalaya Mountains." This was followed by a work of more extensive character on the birds of Europe. In 1838 Mr. Gould paid a visit to Australia for the purpose of studying the natural productions of that country, the result of which was the publication of "The Birds of Australia," a work in seven folio volumes, containing figures and descriptions of upwards of 600 species. Besides the above, Mr. Gould published a work on the "Mammals of Australia," a "Monograph of the Ramphastidæ," a "Monograph of the Trogonidæ," a "Monograph of the Odontophorinæ, or Partridges of America," a "Monograph of the Trochilidæ, or Humming Birds," and a supplementary volume to the "Birds of Australia."

The portrait is from a photograph by Maull and Co., London.

SIR J. RISDON BENNETT, M.D.

The Queen has conferred the honour of Knighthood upon Dr. James Risdon Bennett, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Physicians. He is the eldest son of the late Rev. James Bennett, D.D., of Gibson-square, Islington, by his marriage with Sarah, daughter of Mr. John Comley, of Romsey, Hampshire, and he was born in the year 1809. He was educated at Edinburgh University, where he took the degrees of M.D. in 1833 and LL.D. in 1878. He became a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, London, in 1846, and was Censor in 1857-8. He was some time physician and lecturer on the theory and practice of medicine at St. Thomas's Hospital, physician of the City of London Hospital for Diseases of the Chest, Vice-President of the Pathological Society, &c., and in 1876 was appointed President of the Royal College of Physicians. He is the author of a translation from the German of Dr. Kramer's "Treatise on the Ear," a "Treatise on Acute Hydrocephalus," which gained the Fothergill gold medal in 1842, &c. Dr. Bennett married, in 1841, Miss Ellen Selfe Page, daughter of the Rev. Henry Page, M.A., of Rose-hill, Worcester.

The portrait is from a photograph by Fradelle, Regent-street.

WRECK OF A CHANNEL ISLANDS STEAMER.

The fine screw-steamer Caledonia, of 355 tons register, one of those belonging to the London and South-Western Railway Company that ply between Southampton and the Channel Islands, was wrecked on Saturday, the 19th ult., just outside the harbour of St. Helier's, Jersey. She arrived from Guernsey about six o'clock in the morning, and had reached the point opposite the end of the breakwater at Elizabeth Castle, when she struck on the inside of what is known as the Oyster Rock, about a quarter of a mile from the end of the breakwater. The only hope of safety lay in the use of the boats. These were at once got out, the vessel meantime slipping off the rock, and in a few minutes going down in deep water. The passengers had barely time to get into the boats, and no efforts could be made to attempt the saving of the mail-bags, which were below at the time; everything went down with the steamer, except some loose luggage on deck, that floated. The mail-bags, however, were afterwards got out of the wreck by divers, the vessel's deck being left above water at low tide. Our Illustration, showing the position in which she lay, is from a Sketch by Mr. Ernest A. J. Scott, of St. Helier's.

WRECK AND BURNING OF A VESSEL IN MOUNT'S BAY.

An American vessel got ashore on the Pras Sands, in Mount's Bay, Cornwall, on the 15th ult., and by some accident, presently afterwards, took fire and was so destroyed. This vessel was the T. R. Whiton, a fine barque of 547 tons register, of Searsport, Maine. She was bound from Victoria, Vancouver Island, to London, with a valuable mixed cargo of wool, oil, and tinned fish. She was commanded by Captain Nickels, with a crew of nine men. She left Vancouver Island on Sept. 22. Her loss was caused by the thick weather, making it impossible to ascertain her position, and land was not thought to be so near, until she was rapidly drifting to shore. The cable of one of the anchors became foul and parted. The captain then preferred to beach the ship on the sands. Very soon the Prussin Cove rocket apparatus was on the spot (under Mr. Murrow), which had only a few hours previously rescued a French crew of six at Perran. In a very short space of time communication was established, and the crew were all landed in safety. The captain went on to Penzance, but was speedily recalled by the news that his ship was on fire. This may have been caused by spontaneous combustion of the wool, but the binnacle lamp was left burning. The Coast Guard sent to Penzance for the assistance of the town fire brigade, and two engines were dispatched, with Mr. Small, borough surveyor, and Superintendent Olds in charge. They worked all night, until the in-coming tide compelled them to desist, and they returned to Penzance next morning. The fire had then got entire hold of the ship, but a large portion of the cargo was saved. Our Illustration is from a sketch by Mr. F. Martyn, of Helston.

HOME NEWS.

It has been decided to arm the Yeomanry Cavalry at once with the Snider carbine.

Viscount Cranbrook has contributed £1000 towards founding an institute at Aldershott camp.

A new line of railway between Walsall and Wolverhampton has been opened for traffic.

Lord Sherbrooke distributed the prizes to the students of the Nottingham School of Art last week.

Mr. H. Wiggin, M.P., has been chosen president of the Midland Farmers' Club for the ensuing year.

Lord Sandwich has returned half a year's rent to his Huntingdonshire tenants who suffered losses through last year's floods.

The Rev. John Hewitt Jellett, Senior Lecturer, has been appointed Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, in the place of the late Dr. Humphrey Lloyd.

The proposal to admit lady students to the Cambridge Tripos examinations has been put to the vote in the University Senate, and carried by 398 to 32 votes.

An illuminated address has been presented by the Newcastle Town Council to Sir William G. Armstrong, in acknowledgment of his gift of a park to the borough.

Last week the Lord Mayor presided at the anniversary festival of the Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society at Willis's Rooms, when subscriptions amounting to £4366 were announced.

The Lord Mayor, presiding in the Justice Room of the Mansion House on Saturday last, received a pair of white kid gloves, as there was neither charge nor summons for hearing.

The prize given annually by the representatives of the University of Cambridge in Parliament for the best Latin essay has been adjudged to Mr. A. W. W. Dale, B.A., Trinity Hall, son of the Rev. R. W. Dale, of Birmingham.

Two wards at St. Thomas's Hospital were opened on Tuesday to the public who can afford to pay for surgical and medical advice. Dr. Walter Edmunds has been appointed medical officer of these wards, named St. Thomas's Home.

All the remaining creditors of the late West of England Bank on Tuesday received from the liquidators a dividend warrant for the balance of their claims. The entire liabilities have therefore been discharged.

The Manchester Guardian understands that the Earl of Derby has consented to become the president of the South-West Lancashire Liberal Association, and that his Lordship has also sent £100 to the funds of the South-East Lancashire Liberal Association, the offices of which are in Manchester.

Mr. Richard, M.P., presided at the annual meeting of the Protestant Dissenting Deputies held last week at the Congregational Memorial Hall. The hon. member reviewed the legislation which had resulted in the passing of the Burials Act of last Session, and expressed a confident belief in the ultimate disestablishment of the Church of England.

The annual dinner of the Society of Ancient Britons was held on Tuesday night at the Freemasons' Tavern. Lord Windsor presided. Subscriptions were announced to the schools to the amount of £800, including the Queen, £105; Lord Windsor, £105; the Earl of Powis, £52 10s.; and the Mackintosh of Mackintosh, £25.

The Rev. Benjamin Speke, Vicar of Dowlish Wake, Somerset, committed suicide on Thursday week by drowning. His wife died on the previous day. Mr. Speke was the clergyman whose mysterious disappearance some years ago caused so much anxiety. Some weeks after his disappearance he was discovered in Cornwall, employed as a cattle driver. He was the brother of the late Captain Speke, the African explorer.

The Lord Mayor has remitted to the local committee in Glamorganshire £2079 being the amount collected at the Mansion House for the relief of the sufferers by the colliery explosion at Penygraid, in which 101 lives were lost. A further remittance, making in all £1199, has been made by the Lord Mayor to the Minister President of Hungary for the sufferers by the earthquakes at Agram. Both funds are closed.

Yesterday week the Lady Mayoress (Mrs Alexander McArthur) held a reception at the Mansion House. In the Egyptian Hall there were tableaux-vivants by amateurs, depicting scenes from Shakspearean plays, and well-known passages from Tennyson and Longfellow. Afterwards there was a concert. During the evening the band of the Coldstream Guards played. The guests were about 600 in number.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

I dropped in at the Prince of Wales's Theatre on Tuesday night to renew my acquaintance with "The Colonel," and was delighted to listen to the merry sparkling dialogue which Mr. Burnand has apportioned to his characters, and to witness the excellent acting "one and all" of Mr. Edgar Bruce's admirably well selected company. It is amusing to note how amusingly thin-skinned are often those whose business it is to criticise, to censure, and to laugh at other people. (I beg to state that I reside at Crystal Palace Lodge, Glasshouse-street, between a conservatory and a photographer's studio; but we have reglazed our windows with toughened glass from Mr. Mortlock's, and everybody is at liberty to throw as many stones at us as he likes.) There is my good friend "Atlas," for example. He expects other people to be pachydermatous; but launch but the lightest little pellet which hits his sensitive cuticle, and he forthwith utters a fearsome roar of rage and proceeds to accuse you of having (so to speak) begun life as a body-snatcher and knowing a great deal more about the Cato-street Conspiracy and the murder of Eliza Grimwood than you ought to do. And this is precisely the case with Mr. Burnand. This drollest of modern wags is, in the pages of that Punch which he edits so ably and so brilliantly, an artistic, a dramatic, a social, and a literary critic. He "pitches into" things and people right and left, and has no more mercy upon Mr. Burne Jones than he has on Mr. Whistler; but rub but one hair of Mr. Burnand's chevelure the wrong way and he roars. I hear that he is very vexed because some of his critics have called "The Colonel" a "glorious piece of absurdity," and others have qualified it as "farcical." Well, "London Assurance," in the heyday of its success, was dubbed a "five-act farce;" and Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" has not only been called a farce, but it is one from beginning to end. The "Bourgeois Gentilhomme," the "Médecin Malgré Lui," and "Les Précieuses Ridicules" are not only screamingly farcical, but pantomimic in their fun; and is Mr. Burnand ashamed of being in the same boat with Jean Baptiste Poquelin, called Molière? And there is, moreover, a curious family likeness between the "Précieuses" and "The Colonel." Both are deliberately intended to caricature and satirise a passing craze which the author deems to be a deliberate imposture. The enraged father Gorgibus threatens to beat his daughters because, in their mania for affectation and aristocratic airs, they have been duped into mistaking a brace of noblemen's valets for the noblemen themselves. In "The Colonel" a mother and daughter are held up to ridicule because they have been hoodwinked by a crafty old adventurer who pretends to be a professor of Fine Art and Intellectual Culture, and a chemist's shop-boy who pretends to be a painter. The catastrophe in the two farce-comedies is nearly identical. In the "Précieuses," the sham Marquis and the sham Vicomte are stripped of their fine feathers, drubbed by their masters, and kicked off the stage. In "The Colonel," the knavish old adventurer and his "cad" of a nephew are unmasked, laughed at, and turned out of doors.

The acting throughout on the first night of "Colonel" was excellent, still (as on most first nights) it was slightly susceptible of improvement; and I was glad to find on the occasion of my second visit that such an improvement, in a very marked degree, had taken place. Mr. James Fernandez' conception of the detestable old humbug, Lambert Streyke, is wonderfully thorough, earnest, and effective. He has weighed and given proper light, shade, and emphasis to his every word and every gesture; but, somehow, I cannot altogether approve of his physical "make-up." The attire of "the Mouldy Master," as the Colonel calls the Professor, is a little too shabby. He looks more like an elderly schoolmaster in difficulties than an art professor. The modern "Æsthete" is rather a gorgeous creature; and as a well-known, amiable, and very long-haired Æsthete observed on the first night, had he been called in he could have given the management some valuable hints as to how æstheticism might be corporeally burlesqued. Assuredly the Professor should have had longer hair, a barer throat, a much larger turn-down corner, and a generally Byronic appearance. Then as regards the ladies. Sprightly Miss C. Grahame as Forrester's sister, was as an actress all that could be desired; and in the way of costume her blue dress and blue stockings were as ungainly as anyone could wish; but it was scarcely with propriety that Mr. Burnand has made the young lady compare herself to "one of Marcus Ward's Christmas Cards." The designs of the figures on our Christmas Cards do not profess to be "æsthetic" in the mediæval sense. The drawings executed for the Delarues and the Wards, and other decorative publishers, by such artists as Mr. Coleman, Mr. Caldecott, Miss Kate Greenaway, Miss Thompson, e tutti quanti, satisfy certain canons of grace, symmetry, and beauty which are universally accepted; and these cards are eagerly purchased by unæsthetic as well as by æsthetic people all the world over. If Miss Grahame had remarked that "she looked like a figure from one of Mr. Walter Crane's Picture-Books" the simile would have been both happy and justifiable; because Mr. Walter Crane is a professedly "intense" and mediæval painter, who can good-humouredly parody his own style in the quaint cartoons which he draws for the publishers. Again, Miss Amy Roselle, whose impersonation of the coquettish widow, Mrs. Blyth, is delightful, arch, piquante, and ladylike, looks charming in her riding-habit; but the subsequent short dress in which she appears is an altogether commonplace and garish transcript from the French fashion-books; while Miss Marion Holmes, as Mrs. Forrester, standing by her side, with her large hat and plume and robe of pale amber silk, looks handsome and graceful enough to have stepped bodily from the pages of the famous book of costumes of Cesare Vecellio. I conceive that Mr. Burnand will not maintain that Titian and his kinsman who drew these costumes were humbugs and impostors. But there is a line in "The Colonel" which should console all sincere lovers of art for the attacks which Mr. Burnand has made on æstheticism. "You talk very glibly," quietly observes Mrs. Forrester to the Colonel, "of what you do not understand." There it is. If Mr. Burnand were only ten years older—if he had only been born in the Age of Ugliness, before John Ruskin and John Everett Millais, William Holman Hunt, Gabriel Dante Rossetti, and the rest of the Pre-Raphaelite brethren rose in their might sternly to declare, with pen and pencil, that the Birmingham tea-tray style of painting should die the death—he might have some faint glimmering of understanding what æstheticism and mediævalism have done and what (D.V.) they mean to do in this still terribly benighted and Philistine-ridden country.

The acting of Mr. Coghlan as the Colonel is worthy of the very highest praise. He is the best personator of an educated American, quiet, reserved, drily humorous, and not by any means devoid of polish, that I have as yet seen on our stage. The words which have been given him to speak are singularly free from exaggeration, and might have been written by a dramatist who had lived for years in the United States, and who was intimately conversant (as Mr. Dion Boucicault is) with the diction and the idiosyncrasies of the people. Mr. Coghlan renders Mr. Burnand's language with complete artistic appreciation and insight. He really looks and speaks like an American gentleman, and his impersonation would, I venture to surmise, be at once accepted as of true ring and mintage by an American audience.

I have reverted at this length to "The Colonel," because in all probability this capital comedy will be "the Play of the Season." On Tuesday night I believe that I took possession of the only stall in the house remaining vacant. If another spectator had entered he would have had to stand on somebody else's head. The stalls and private boxes at the Prince of Wales's are, I learned, being booked for many nights in advance; but I should advise everybody to "have a try" to see one of the wittiest and funniest plays that have been produced these many years since.

Next week I shall say something about Madame Modjeska in "Heartsease" at the Court, and Mr. Hermann Vezin as Hamlet at Sadler's Wells. G. A. S.

MUSIC.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

As briefly recorded last week, this society opened its sixty-ninth season on the Thursday evening, Mr. Cusins being still the conductor. There have been some changes in the management and direction of the society, a new arrangement being the establishment of two rehearsals for each concert, and the admission of subscribers to the second of each occasion—the number of concerts being now limited to six instead of eight. Last week's programme comprised the following orchestral pieces—Mendelssohn's "Melusine" overture, that by Berlioz entitled "Waverley," and Rossini's to his "Guillaume Tell," and Beethoven's fourth symphony (in B flat). The performances of the band displayed some improvement on those of recent seasons; but there is still room for more, and this will probably come at future concerts.

The occasion now referred to brought forward a new pianoforte concerto, composed and performed by Herr Scharwenka, whose forcible playing was perhaps the object of the applause which followed, rather than admiration of the work, which is tediously long, and, for the most part, dry and laboured in subject and treatment. The pianist was also applauded in his execution of two unaccompanied solos by Liszt. Bach's air "Aus Liebe" (with recitative), from the "Passion-Music," was expressively sung by Mdlle. Friedländer, as was the aria "Cangio d'aspetto" (from Handel's "Admeto") by Madame Enriquez—Mdlle. Orgeni having rendered, with much success, the recitative and air "Non mi dir," from Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

At the next concert—on March 10—Berlioz's symphony (with chorus and vocal solos) "Romeo et Juliette," will be given, for the first time entire, in London, for many years.

BERLIOZ'S "L'ENFANCE DU CHRIST."

The third of the series of four concerts given by Mr. Charles Hallé at St. James's Hall took place on Saturday evening, when an English version of Berlioz's Sacred Trilogy was performed for the first time in London—having been previously given at one of Mr. Hallé's Manchester concerts. It is one of its composer's latest productions, the original text being—as in other instances—by himself; the late Mr. Chorley being accountable for the English imitation thereof which was used in Saturday night's performance. The music presents a strong contrast to most of that by Berlioz in its comparative simplicity of style and the general absence of those excessive orchestral elaborations in which his skill is frequently displayed with redundant effect. The work consists of three portions; "King Herod's Dream"—"The Flight into Egypt"—and "The Coming to Saïs." In the first part, the most noticeable features are: a characteristic "Night March," a rather gloomy air for Herod, the orchestral "Incantation Music" (with its eccentric alternations of three-four and common time); an effective chorus of magicians, and a graceful duet for Mary and Joseph, supplemented by some choral passages for voices of unseen angels.

The second part opens with a dry piece of fugal writing—a form in which Berlioz was by no means an adept. This is followed by one of the best numbers in the work, "The Farewell of the Shepherds," a smooth and melodious chorus that pleased so greatly as to be encored. The following "Repose of the Holy Family" is illustrated by some pleasing orchestral writing; the second part of the Trilogy closing with a few passages for the unseen choir of angels.

Part three includes a dull trio for Mary and Joseph; followed by a chorus of Ismaelites (an attempt at the ecclesiastical style); a very pretty instrumental "Serenade," with piquant use of flutes and harp; a flowing and placid chorus of Ismaelites (interspersed with phrases for the Narrator); and a brief choral close (pianissimo) for the unseen angels.

By comparison with most other important works of the composer, the Trilogy is weak, possessing but little and intermittent interest, and very slight impress of the sacred character. It was generally well rendered, the orchestra having been especially satisfactory and the chorus fairly so. The soprano solo music, for Mary, was sung with much grace and refinement by Miss Santley, daughter of the eminent baritone, he having given the music of Joseph in his usual artistic style. The declamatory passages, for the Narrator, were finely rendered by Mr. E. Lloyd, Signor Foli's resonant bass voice having told well in those assigned to Herod and the Father of the Family. Subordinate solos were rendered by Messrs. F. Leigh and F. A. Bridge.

The fourth and last of this series of Mr. Hallé's concerts takes place this (Saturday) evening, when Berlioz's "Faust" will be again repeated.

---

At last Saturday's Crystal Palace Concert the serial performance of Schubert's eight symphonies was continued, No. 4 (the "Tragic" symphony) having been the work given. The beauties of this were commented on in reference to its first hearing and repetitions at the Crystal Palace. A somewhat dry concerto for the violoncello, by Herr Eckert, was skilfully played by Herr Hausman, who was also applauded in his rendering of a short solo by Herr Bruch and another by Herr Davidoff. Mendelssohn's overture "Die Hebriden," and that by Berlioz entitled "Les Francs Juges," and vocal solos contributed by Mr. E. Lloyd made up the rest of the programme. At this week's Saturday concert Herr Joachim is to play Beethoven's violin concerto, and Schumann's Fantasia.

Madame Schumann's reappearance at this week's Monday Popular Concert drew an overflowing audience. The great pianist was received with an enthusiastic welcome, which was renewed with increased demonstrativeness after her admirable performance of her late husband's "Etudes Symphoniques," in which her playing was characterised by all its former rare excellence. Brahms's Sonata for Piano and Violin, in G (op. 78), derived its utmost effect from the combined performance of Madame Schumann and Herr Joachim. Mr. Oswald confirmed the favourable impression he had previously made by his refined singing, at Monday's concert, of the late Mr. H. Smart's song, "Estelle," and an aria by Buononcini. The remaining items of the concert were Mendelssohn's string quartette in E minor (from op. 44), and Haydn's in D minor (from op. 76), finely led by Herr Joachim.

Mr. Walter Bache gave his tenth annual Pianoforte Recital at St. James's Hall on Tuesday afternoon, when his programme comprised pieces by Bach, Beethoven, Liszt, Chopin, Von Bülow, and Weber, all which were very successfully rendered by the pianist. Some lieder by Schumann were expressively sung by Miss Orridge.

St. David's Day was celebrated on Tuesday evening by a Welsh Festival Concert at the Royal Albert Hall, and another at St. James's Hall, the latter having been given in aid of the Pen-y-Graig explosion fund.

The Royal Albert Hall Choral Society announced its annual performance of "The Messiah" for last Wednesday evening (Ash Wednesday), conducted by Mr. Barnby, and with Miss A. Marriott, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. J. Maas, and Signor Ghilberti as solo singers.

Mr. John Boosey's London Ballad Concerts were intermitted this week on account of Ash Wednesday, but will be resumed on Wednesday next, when the last concert but four of the present season will be given.

The Bach Choir was to give the first concert of the new season on Thursday evening, with an interesting selection, comprising that composer's fine cantata, "Ich hatte viel Bekümmerniss;" part of an unfinished anthem (for eight-part chorus) by the late Sterndale Bennett; Motets by Palestrina and Vittoria; the "Gloria" from Cherubini's mass in D; Schumann's "Requiem for Mignon;" a madrigal by Pearsall; and the finale to the first act of Mendelssohn's unfinished opera, "Loreley." Mr. Otto Goldsmidt continues to be the conductor of the society. Of Thursday night's performances we must speak next week.

Yesterday (Friday) evening Sir Michael Costa's "Naaman" was announced for performance by the Sacred Harmonic Society, conducted by the composer, and with Miss Robertson, Mrs. Osgood, Madame Patey, Mr. V. Rigby, Mr. Kenningham, and Mr. Santley as solo vocalists.

Mr. J. T. Hutchinson gave his annual concert in the Holborn Townhall on Monday evening, when was performed Dr. Macfarren's "Lady of the Lake."

M. Lamoureux, the promoter of Handel's music in Paris (and late conductor at the Grand Opera), is in London, preparing for his two orchestral concerts in St. James's Hall, at which it is his intention to produce some of the most noticeable productions of living French composers. The dates of the performances are March 15 and 22.

As previously announced, the committee of the Birmingham Musical Festival have arranged with M. Gounod for the production, at the next triennial celebration (in 1882) of an original oratorio, entitled "The Redemption." In a letter just received from the composer, he states that the whole of the first part is finished and scored for orchestra. The other two parts are in hand, and will be ready by Jan. 1 next, the time specified for the delivery of the work.

ART NOTES.

The Spring Exhibition of the Institute of Art, Conduit-street, opened on Monday last. If the paintings and drawings are not better than before, there is a marked improvement in the embroidery and other art-work of ladies, especially as regards the character of design. There are several meritorious performances in these branches, and the "Institute" is evidently doing good service in this direction.

The Report of the last Autumn Exhibition of Pictures at Liverpool states that the sales amounted to £11,735, being very far beyond the average, with the exception of the sales of 1875. Three hundred fewer pictures were exhibited than in the preceding year, owing partly to the increased number of unusually large pictures. The committee will, in future, as a general rule, give the preference to pictures of a moderate size.

The French Academy of Fine Arts has elected Mr. Alma Tadema its London correspondent in the section of painting.

Mr. F. D. Ward, of the firm of Marcus Ward and Co., printers, Belfast, has been elected a member of the Royal Irish Academy in recognition of his efforts and those of his firm for the advancement of art.

---

Mary Ann Atkins, nursemaid, was charged at the Marylebone Police Court on Tuesday with kidnapping a baby, the child of Dr. Downes, Kentish Town-road. The evidence was of an extraordinary character, the accused claiming the child as her own. The hearing of the case was adjourned.

A new departure in the musical drama will be made in "The Stores," a "Co-opera" to be produced at Drury Lane next Monday—a combination of opera, cantata, and farce, written by Messrs. Edward Rose and Augustus Harris to expose the weaknesses of co-operative stores, and set to music by Mr. Bucalossi.

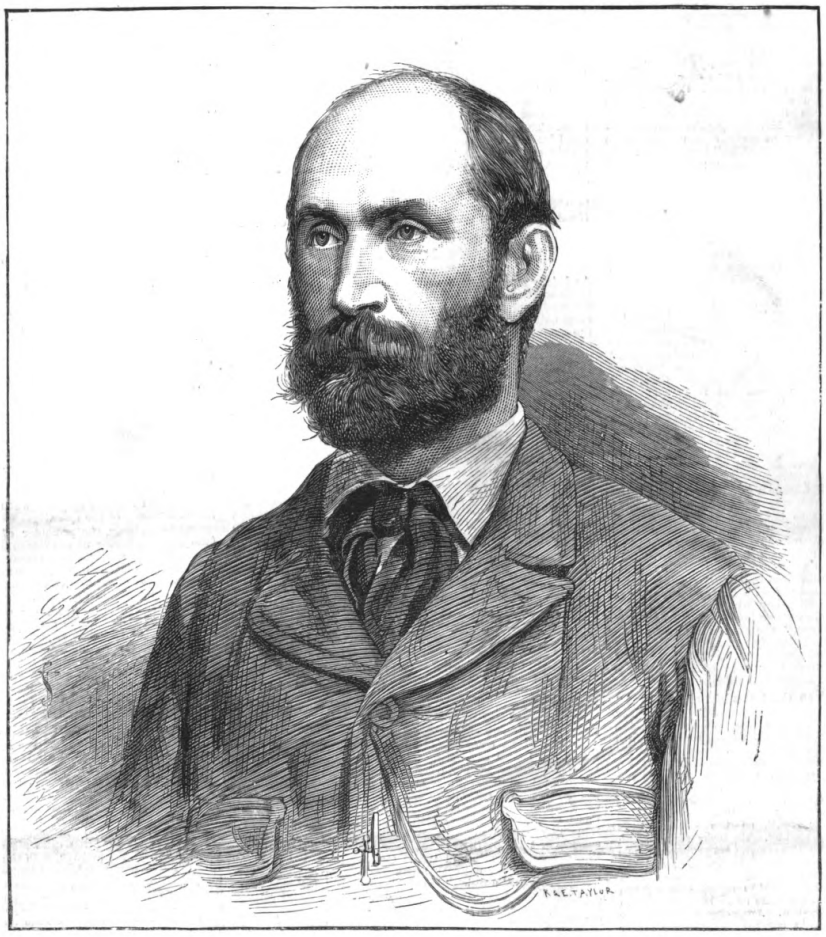
The Coroner's inquiry into the death of Lieutenant Roper was brought to a close at Chatham on Monday, when the jury returned a verdict that the deceased officer was murdered by some person or persons unknown, and added a recommendation that the Home Secretary be asked to offer a reward for the discovery of the murderer.

The grand jury at the Central Criminal Court on Wednesday returned true bills for felony and misdemeanour against Mrs. Fletcher, her husband, James Fletcher, and James Merton, for defrauding Mrs. Hart-Davis of jewellery of the value of £10,000 by false pretences. The trial is postponed to the April Sessions.

Mr. John Hearne, land agent to a brother of the late Lord Mountmorres and clerk to the Petty Sessions at Ballinrobe, was on Monday night shot near his residence. Two members of the Tralee branch of the Land League have been arrested on suspicion of being among a party of men in disguise, who made a raid for arms and money in that neighbourhood on Sunday night. Mr. Hearne is not dead.

At a meeting of the Senatus Academicus of Edinburgh University on Monday a deed was read, executed by the late Thomas Carlyle, bequeathing to the University his estate at Craigenputtock for the foundation and endowment of ten bursarships, to be called the "John Welsh Bursaries"—the property bequeathed having come to him through his marriage with the last heiress of a family named Welsh, of whom it had been the patrimony for many generations.

The annual festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, of which the Royal Grand Master, the Prince of Wales, is patron and president, was held last week, at Freemasons' Hall. Colonel Sir Henry Edwards, the Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire, presided, and there were 350 stewards. It was stated that the expenditure was £13,000 a year, while the permanent income was only £2610 a year, thus leaving a large deficiency to be made up by the benevolence of the brethren. Brother James Terry, the secretary, read out the lists, showing a total of £14,160, the largest amount yet gathered for any one of the three charities.



GENERAL SIR GEORGE POMEROY COLLEY, K.C.S.I., KILLED AT MAJUBA HILL, LAING'S NEK, ON SUNDAY LAST.—SEE PAGE 226.

THE WAR IN THE TRANSVAAL: A BOER OUTPOST.

THE WAR IN THE TRANSVAAL.

ATTACK ON ENGLISH VEDETTES BY THE BOERS.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

It is with deep regret that we have this week again to record a sad loss of life in the disastrous conflict that took place on Sunday morning between the British troops led by Sir George Colley, who has himself fallen amongst the slain, and the Boers of the Transvaal defending the mountain passes into their country on the Natal border.

This is the third hard-fought action, since the unhappy and inglorious war began in January, which has brought a mortifying repulse, and the loss of many brave and good soldiers, upon the British military force in South Africa. Such experiences might, perhaps, be a salutary warning, if rightly accepted, against the arrogant spirit that hastens to cut with the sword every knot of political complication, too often regardless both of equity and expediency in dealing with foreign communities supposed to be weaker than the British administration. At the same time, our earnest desire for the speedy restoration of peace by the negotiations which have already been opened, as we are told, upon terms securing complete local independence to the Dutch citizens of the Transvaal, equally with their neighbours in the adjacent territory, must be increased by these deplorable fruits of a needless strife between the two European nationalities dividing the occupation of that extensive region. And while the sorrow and sympathy of all in England will ever be fully bestowed upon the men whose lives are sacrificed, in any of these distant wars, to their duty of military service under the orders of our Queen's Government, it would be ungenerous and unworthy of Englishmen not to respect the patriotism and the valour of those with whom they contend. The example of courageous determination and active zeal for the cause of their national freedom which has been set by these simple Dutch farmers, untrained in the modern arts of warfare, unprovided with artillery and military stores, and without any regularly drilled troops or professionally skilled officers, will not soon be forgotten. It is now quite evident that their ranks include almost the entire number of adult men capable of bearing arms in the Dutch population of that country, many of whom, no doubt, are husbands and fathers, men of quiet agricultural and pastoral industry, who have left their homes and families, and willingly risk their lives, to preserve the independence for which their ancestors thrice wandered into the perilous wilderness, nearly half a century ago.

This consideration alone should far outweigh that of merely official and administrative perplexities which seem to beset the Colonial Department of her Majesty's Government in finding some method of reversing the fatally mistaken course pursued since 1877, which our Prime Minister has most vehemently and indignantly condemned. "You have," said Mr. Gladstone, "the invasion of a free people in the Transvaal—to compel them to accept a citizenship which they decline and refuse." This policy, adopted most unwisely, or as he was tempted to say, "insanely," is now put to the test of being enforced by the ordeal of unsparing mutual bloodshed, against the hereditary republicans of whom he spoke. "Protestant in religion, Hollanders in race, vigorous, obstinate, and tenacious in character, even as we are ourselves." It is vain to expect that the forcing of the Drakensberg passes, or the defeat of the Boers in two or three sanguinary battles, will put an end to their resistance or finally establish British rule over a vast inland territory, wholly taken up by their widespread farms and dwellings. The permanent military occupation of the Transvaal with a sufficient force will be more than the resources of the British Empire can well afford, and England will not care long to pay its yearly cost. On the other hand, there is no chance left, after the events of the last six weeks, that the Dutch inhabitants will in future years be content to submit to British rule with such loyalty and goodwill as to dispense with an armed occupation of their country. They will assuredly not forget, in the simple annals of their secluded little nation, the local defeats which they have been able to inflict, three times running, upon some of the best of our soldiers under a commander of high reputation. The effect of these Dutch victories will remain in the mind of the Boers, notwithstanding the successes which Sir F. Roberts may be expected soon to gain in the approaching campaign, with a force prospectively estimated at 13,000 picked British troops, very far outnumbering all the Boers of fighting age, and with all the costly machinery and equipment of scientific warfare. They may shortly be conquered for a time, but their national spirit will not be effectually subdued.

The news of last Sunday's disaster was published, by telegraph, in the London papers of Monday morning. The best account, however, appeared in the Standard of Tuesday, from the Special Correspondent of that journal, who was present at the fight, and was taken prisoner, but was soon afterwards released. It seems that Major-General Sir George Colley, with a force of seven hundred men, consisting of some of the 58th Regiment, 60th Rifles, 92nd (Gordon) Highlanders, and Naval Brigade, started from the camp at Mount Prospect, near Hatley's Hotel, late on Saturday night. Their destination was kept a profound secret until they were on the point of starting. Each man carried with him three days' provisions and eighty rounds of ammunition. The official expectation seems to have been that, after taking the Majuba Hill, they would have been capable of holding it for two or three days, when the reinforcements under General Evelyn Wood were expected to arrive, and the assault would have been delivered on Laing's Nek; that is, if the Boers had waited for it. But the official expectation was not realised. Majuba Hill is some three or four miles from the British camp at Mount Prospect. The troops made their way cautiously in the darkness to the back of the mountain to avoid observation by the Boers. The ascent was terribly difficult. It is very steep in many parts, and studded with huge boulder-stones. The men, burdened with rifles and havresacks, had often to crawl on hands and feet, pulling themselves up steep declivities by the help of such brushwood or stumps or branches as were found rooted in the crevices of the rock. They successfully gained the first height, but a second, connected with the first by a ridge, had then to be encountered, and the ascent of it was as difficult as that of the first. But they reached the top successfully long before daybreak. The top of the mountain, at a height of over two thousand feet above the encampment at Mount Prospect, was found to consist of a large basin or plateau on which the force could easily be disposed. There was very good cover; and the bulk of the force could lie out of sight on the ground, thoroughly protected, firing occasional shots as opportunity offered. Two companys of Highlanders had been left at the foot of the hill, and another small force on the ridge, to keep open communication with the camp. The Naval Brigade were endeavouring to hoist a Gatling gun to the mountain top; but it was an impossible task—at least, on the side of the hill which they were compelled to ascend.

"The enemy's principal laager," says this correspondent, "was about two thousand yards distant. At sunrise the Boers were to be seen moving in their lines; but it was not until nearly an hour later that a party of mounted videttes were seen trotting out towards the hill. As they approached, our outlying pickets fired upon them. The sound of our guns was heard at the Dutch laager, and the whole scene changed as if by magic. In place of a few scattered figures, there appeared on the scene swarms of men rushing hither and thither; some ran to their horses, others to the waggons, and the work of inspanning the oxen and preparing for an instant retreat began at once. But when the first panic abated it could be seen that some person in authority had taken the command. The greater portion of the Boers began to move forward with the evident intention of attacking us, but the work of preparing for a retreat in case of necessity still went on, and continued until all the waggons were inspanned and ready to move away; some, indeed, at once began to withdraw.

"About seven o'clock the Boers opened fire, and the bullets whistled thickly over the plateau. The men were all perfectly cool and confident, and I do not think that the possibility of the position being carried by storm occurred to anyone. From seven to eleven the Boers lying all round the hill maintained a constant fire. Their shooting was wonderfully accurate. The stones behind which our men in the front line were lying were hit by almost every shot. Opposed to such shooting as this, there was no need to impress upon the men to keep well under cover. They only showed to take an occasional shot; and, accurate as was the enemy's shooting, up to eleven o'clock we had but five casualties. Four of the 92nd were slightly wounded. Twenty men of this regiment, under Lieutenant Hamilton, held the point which was the most threatened by the Boers. Nothing could exceed the steadiness of these Highlanders. They kept well under cover, and, although they fired but seldom, they killed eight or ten of the Boers who showed themselves from behind cover.

"So far, our position appeared perfectly safe. The Boers had, indeed, got between us and the camp; but we had three days' provisions, and could hold out until the reinforcements came up. Our casualties were few and unimportant, and all were perfectly confident of the result. From eleven to twelve the enemy's fire continued as hot but as harmless as before; between twelve and one it slackened, and it seemed as if the Boers were drawing off.

"This, however, was not the case. The enemy had been, as we afterwards learned, very strongly reinforcing his fighting line, in preparation for an assault; and shortly after one o'clock a terrific fire suddenly broke forth from the right lower slopes of the hill, the side on which the firing had all along been heaviest. A tremendous rush was simultaneously made by the enemy. Our advanced line was at once nearly all shot or driven back upon our main position. This may be described as a long basin on the top of the hill. It was about two hundred yards long by fifty broad. Our whole force now lined the rim of the basin, and fixed bayonets to repel the assailants. The Boers with shouts of triumph swarmed up the sides of the hill and made several desperate attempts to carry the position with a rush; each time, however, they were driven back with the bayonet. After each charge the firing, which nearly ceased during the mêlée, broke out with renewed violence, and the air above us seemed alive with bullets. The troops did their duty well and steadily, and, trying as was the occasion, fought with great coolness, encouraged by their officers. At last the Boers, who had gathered near the edge of the slope, made a tremendous rush at a point beyond that at which they had before been attacking, and where the numbers of the defenders were comparatively small. They burst through the defenders, poured in over the edge of the basin, and our position was lost. The main line of our defenders, their flank turned, and taken in reverse, made a rush along the plateau to endeavour to form and rally, but it was useless. With fierce shouts and a storm of bullets the Boers poured in. There was a wild rush with the Boers close behind; the roar of fire, the whistling of the bullets, the yells of the enemy, made up a din which seemed infernal. All round, men were falling; there was no resistance, no halt—it was a flight for life. At this moment I was knocked down by the rush and trampled on, and when I came to my senses the Boers were firing over me at the retreating troops, who were moving down the hill.

"Upon trying to rise I was taken prisoner, and led away. On the hill I found the body of General Colley shot through the head. I also saw Captain Singleton, of the 92nd, severely wounded; Lieutenant Hamilton, 92nd, slightly; Dr. Lauton, severely; Captain Morris, severely; and Millar, also severely. Captain Maude was killed; Lieutenant Macdonald, of the 92nd, was also a prisoner. What others were killed, wounded, or taken prisoners I cannot as yet say, but fear that our loss both in officers and men is very severe. Many are still missing, having hid themselves in the brushwood on the hills till the darkness fell.

"After a conversation with the Boer General I induced him to grant me a pass to come into the camp and bring out succour for the wounded. They were lying thickly both on the plateau and everywhere on the descent of the hill. The Boers were very civil. They took, it was true, a few articles I had about me; but no troops in the world could, on the whole, have behaved better as victors. Talking with me, they ascribed their victories not to their arms or bravery, but to the righteousness of their cause. As to the completeness of their victory there can be no question. They carried by sheer fighting a position which the General himself considered to be, defended by the force at his command, impregnable. Even now I can hardly understand how it was done—so sudden was the rush, so instantaneous the change from what we regarded as perfect safety to imminent peril. Up to the moment when they made this rush they had effected no progress whatever; a few only of our men had been engaged; the casualties were trifling in the extreme. A few minutes later they held the crest of the hill, and our men were defending the natural basin in which they had been lying in apparent security. It cannot be denied that the capture of Majuba Hill is an exploit of which any troops in the world might be proud."

The telegrams published in London on Wednesday morning proved that there had been some exaggeration in the rumours at first current with regard to the amount of our losses in the action on Sunday. Those who escaped from the hill expressed their fears that not more than 100 men had got away unhurt. The official return shows, however, that out of 35 officers and 693 men, 20 officers and 266 men are killed, wounded, prisoners, or missing, thus leaving 15 officers and 427 men untouched. But this includes the two companies of the 60th which were left to guard the line of communication with the camp, and did not take part in the action on the hill. The numbers actually killed are officially stated as three officers—namely, Major-General Sir G. Pomeroy Colley; Lieutenant the Hon. Cornwallis Maude, 58th Regiment; and Lieutenant Trower, R.N., of H.M.S. Boadicea; and eighty-two soldiers, including non-commissioned officers. Surgeon-Major Henry Cornish is also reported to have died of his wounds. Commander Romilly, R.N., of H.M.S. Boadicea, was dangerously wounded early in the action. Six officers were taken prisoners. The body of Sir George Colley was given up by the Boers on Tuesday, and was buried, with military honours, in the British camp at Mount Prospect, but will probably be removed to Pietermaritzburg, where Lady Colley is staying, at a more convenient time. A burying party of our soldiers was allowed on Tuesday to go up to Majuba Hill, and to inter the British dead, about eighty in number, on the ground where they fell. Other parties have brought in the wounded, of whom there are 122. The Dutch loss is said to be very small: few of their dead have been seen. The Standard correspondent, as a prisoner who had been released on parole, had to return to the Boers' camp on Monday, after getting assistance from our camp for the British wounded. He says there are about fifty British prisoners, who are well treated. He had a conversation with the Dutch Commandant, Franz Joubert, who complained that Sir George Colley had brought on the battle, unexpectedly, by a hostile movement, while peace negotiations were going on. Joubert said that the Dutch of the Transvaal were desirous of peace, and were prepared to accept a South African Confederation, but they must have entire freedom and self-government, for which they were fighting and willing to die. "He was sure that the people of England, and their Ministers, meant to do what was right and just, but the English officials and army commanders worked for their own ends, and wilfully misrepresented facts; hence the Transvaal was driven to desperation by feeling that it was hopeless to ask for justice." He desired the Standard correspondent to make this known in England.

Major-General Sir F. Roberts, Bart., G.C.B., who is appointed to succeed Sir G. Pomeroy-Colley, left England yesterday, embarking with his staff in the Balmoral Castle, at Dartmouth. Lieutenant-Colonel Pretyman goes as his Assistant Military Secretary. Major-General Newdigate, Colonel T. D. Baker, and Colonel Hughes, R.A., will have commands under Sir F. Roberts. Among the additional reinforcements sent to the Transvaal are the 99th Regiment, from Bermuda, the 85th, from Bombay, the 102nd, from Ceylon, the 14th Hussars, from Bombay, the 7th Hussars, from Ireland, and a fresh draft of the 60th Rifles, from Portsmouth. The number of British troops will be far larger than that employed in the Zulu War, and the cost of that was five millions sterling.

LATE SIR G. POMEROY COLLEY, K.C.S.I.

Major-General Sir George Pomeroy Colley, who was killed last Sunday in the fight on Majuba hill, at Laing's Nek, has had a distinguished military career. He entered the 2nd Foot as Ensign in May, 1852; was made Lieutenant, August, 1854; Captain, June, 1860; Brevet-Major, March, 1863; Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel, May, 1873; Colonel, April, 1874; and received local rank as Brigadier-General, June, 1879. He was employed on special service on the Cape frontier in 1858, 1859, and 1861, and was concerned in the occupation of Kreli's territory and the defeat and death of Tola, for which services he was twice thanked by the Government, and in recognition of which he received his brevet majority. He next served with distinction throughout the China War of 1860, participating in the capture of the Taku Forts and the several actions during the advance on Pekin. For this he received a medal with two clasps. From 1871 to 1873 he fulfilled the duties of Military Administration and Law at the Staff College, Sandhurst; but at the close of 1873 he was again in Africa, doing good service in the Ashantee War, during which he was in command of the transport and line of communications. Throughout the campaign he played a prominent part, being present at the Battle of Amoaful, the defence of the posts of Quarman and Foumanah, the Battle of Ordahsu, and the capture of Coomassie. He was several times mentioned in despatches, and was rewarded with the brevet of Colonel and the dignity of C.B. In 1878 he was made a C.M.G. for his services in South Africa; and for his services during the Afghan campaign, when he obtained leave from Lord Lytton, for whom he was acting as military secretary, to proceed to the front, he was made a K.C.S.I. It will be remembered that when Sir Garnet Wolseley succeeded Lord Chelmsford during the Zulu War as Chief of the British force, Sir Garnet made a special point of having Sir George Colley as chief of his staff. When Sir Garnet left South Africa, after the Secocoeni campaign, Sir George Colley was appointed Governor of Natal, Commander-in-Chief for Natal and the Transvaal, and High Commissioner for the affairs of South-east Africa. It thus devolved upon him, last Christmas, to take steps for the military repression of the Dutch revolt in the Transvaal. But his first act was to issue an address to the British troops, in which he says that he "trusts the officers and men will not allow the soldierly spirit which prompts them to gallant action to degenerate into a feeling of revenge. The task now forced upon us by the unprovoked action of the Boers is a painful one in any circumstances, and the General calls on all ranks to assist him in his endeavours to mitigate the sufferings it must entail. We must be careful to avoid punishing the innocent for the guilty, and must remember that, though misled and deluded, the Boers are in the main a brave and high-spirited people, and are actuated by feelings that are entitled to our respect." Sir George Colley also took occasion, after the conflicts of Jan. 28 and Feb. 8, to bear his willing testimony to the honourable conduct of the enemy, and especially to their humane treatment of British wounded soldiers. He has further exerted himself, with the best of good will, to promote the negotiations for peace, but unhappily, so far, without any satisfactory result. We may add that Sir George was an occasional writer upon topics of military administration; he contributed the article "Army" to the new edition of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," published by Messrs. A. and C. Black, of Edinburgh.

Our Portrait of Sir George Colley is from a photograph by Messrs. Maull and Fox, of Piccadilly.

GENERAL SIR EVELYN WOOD, K.C.B.

Major-General Sir Henry Evelyn Wood, who has, by the death of Sir George Pomeroy Colley last Sunday, succeeded to the chief command, until Sir F. Roberts shall arrive, of the British forces in South-East Africa, and to the office, provisionally, of Governor of Natal, enjoys a high military reputation. He is a son of the late Rev. Sir John Page Wood, Bart., and nephew to Lord Hatherley; he was born in 1838, and was educated at Marlborough School. In 1852 he entered the Royal Navy, and served under Captain Sir William Peel, R.N., in the Naval Brigade at the siege of Sebastopol, acting as Aide-de-Camp, from October, 1854, to June, 1855. At the unsuccessful assault on the Redan, on June 18, while carrying one of the scaling ladders, he was severely wounded, for which he was mentioned with praise in Lord Raglan's despatches. He obtained the Crimean medal, with two clasps, the fifth-class Order of the Medjidieh, and a Turkish medal, and was made a Knight of the French Legion of Honour. He next entered the Army, as Ensign in the 73rd Regiment; was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant in 1856, Captain in 1861, and Major in 1862. He served in the Indian campaign of 1858 as a Brigade Major, and was present at the actions of Rajghur, Sindwaho, Kharee, and Baroda, for which he gained a medal, and was twice mentioned in despatches. In 1859 and 1860 he commanded the first regiment of Beatson's Irregular Horse, and received the thanks of the Indian Government for his pursuit of the rebels in the Seronge jungle; he also won the Victoria Cross for valour. He raised the second regiment of Central India Horse. In September, 1873, being a Lieutenant-Colonel of the 90th infantry, he accompanied Major-General Sir Garnet Wolseley to the Ashantee War, and organised a native force, which he commanded, with other troops, in the affairs of Essaman, and on the road from Manso to the river Prah, following the retreat of the Ashantee army from the coast. Lieutenant-Colonel Wood afterwards commanded the right wing of the army in the battles of Amoaful and Ordahsu, and the capture of Coomassie. For these services, he was several times mentioned with approbation in the despatches, and was nominated a Companion of the Bath, promoted to the brevet rank of Colonel, and received the medal with clasp. In the Zulu War of 1879, under Lord Chelmsford, Colonel Evelyn Wood commanded a brigade and the "flying column" on the Utrecht border, with which he defended the fortified camp at Kambula Hill, on March 29, and performed other services, much noticed at the time. On his return to England, he was received by the Queen in person, and was invested with a knighthood; he has since held a staff appointment in this country. General Wood married, in 1867, the Hon. Mary Paulina, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. Arthur Southwell, and sister of the late Viscount Southwell; this lady has the rank of a peer's daughter.

Our Portrait of Sir Evelyn Wood is from a photograph by Mr. Fradelle, of Regent-street.

BURNING TO DEATH AT A MASQUERADE BALL.

The frightful disaster at Munich, on the night of Friday, the 18th ult., when many of the dancers at an artists' masquerade ball were burnt to death, by their inflammable fancy dresses accidentally taking fire, has been mentioned in all the newspapers. Among those present were two young Englishmen, Mr. Darcy Morell, and his brother, Mr. Francis Morell, who distinguished themselves by their brave efforts to rescue some of the unfortunate sufferers, and in attempting to extinguish the flames. The Fremdenblatt of Munich, on the 20th and 21st, gave the particulars of this terrible affair; and the conduct of these gentlemen has been much noticed and praised in that city. We have been favoured by one of their friends with the following extracts from private letters, written immediately after the event:—

"You know that Francis procured tickets for the art-students' masquerade of the Künstler-Kneipe, held in Kil's Coliseum. I managed to rig myself out as a Jack Tar, and went there with him. It was a brilliant, varied, and most interesting sight; the Royal Princes were there, and everybody of note in Munich. There were about eighteen hundred men present; fortunately, there were no ladies. I was just passing through the Chinese Pagoda, to look for Francis, whom I had lost sight of, when the terrible cry of 'Fire, fire!' arose on all sides. Immediately, sheets of flame shot up to the roof of the large hall. In a moment, a vast crowd overlapped me, and I was carried along, by an irresistible force, towards the narrow space which led into the corridor. A burning fir-tree fell close upon me; I felt the scorch, but nothing more. Once in the corridor, I was comparatively safe. A man rushed past me in a sheet of flame, waving his arms in agony; and again I felt the scorch in my face. I thought of Francis, hopelessly shut in, with hundreds rushing outward between him and me, and with the place behind me full of flame and smoke. I turned, to force my way into the hall, but could not stem the crowd. I then kicked through a wooden partition, and passing on, through the blazing palisades, saw two poor fellows writhing on the ground, and found myself in the midst of the fire. I was determined, at any risk, to find my brother and share his danger. The scene was such as none of those present will forget so long as they live. Some were quietly standing, with their heads bared, seemingly in prayer; others, with arms folded, leaning against a buttress, were apparently resigned to their fate. At last, I saw the old fellow, Francis, in his Tyrolese dress, working the hand-pump, with another man. I went up to him, and we shook hands; we were glad to meet, as yet unhurt, but we thought it was the last time we should be together in this world. We were quite calm and prepared; but, when the flames were at their height, we fully expected the worst. When Francis had pumped out all the water supply, and there was nothing more to do, the fire had cut off our exit; and he leant back against the wall, with his arms folded. One poor young fellow was lying at my feet, so burnt that it was impossible to recognise him. Francis had done all he could, before I came up, to save this young man, but it was too late. Suddenly, they began to call out, 'We are saved! the fire is mastered!' The flames stopped as suddenly as they had sprung up. Another minute or so, and the whole building, with all the inflammable stuff in it, would have taken fire. Munich would have lost many eminent men and nearly the whole body of artists and students. Some had perished miserably; seven are already dead, and it is feared that others will follow. Thirty or forty are more or less seriously injured. We have reason to be thankful that we are spared. I have only taken a few hours' rest, and am writing this to calm your anxiety, should you have seen the papers."

The younger brother, Mr. Francis Morell, who is an art-student of the Munich Academy, gives this account of it:—"All went on well till midnight. I had just come down from the gallery, to look for Darcy, and had got upon a stage overlooking the scene. I saw a bright flame at the opposite end of the Coliseum, near the exit. The whole Chinese Department presently seemed to be on fire. A man said to me, 'Are we lost?' I replied, 'It may be so.' The music kept playing a waltz, in order to prevent a panic. But this was horrible, like Nero's fiddling at Rome; for the poor victims were dancing in flames. I then began to pump, but nobody held the hose, and the water ran along the ground. I saw a tremendous panic, and a crush at the door to get out. It was against this that Darcy had to struggle, and almost in the flames. He knew that I must be still left in the hall. In the next minute, fifteen hundred men, pressing towards the exit, left the burning men in the middle, and I could see them well. It was a flame, twenty feet high, from a group of burning human beings. Presently, in their agony, they dispersed; and this saved the building, and all in it, from taking fire. Four of them rushed towards the door; others dropped down there to die. The others came dashing on, in a column of flames, to where I stood. They fell, one by one, writhing dreadfully. One of them still ran on: he threw off something from his head, which looked like Darcy's sailor's cap; and then followed the scene which you read of in the Fremdenblatt; but it was all too late. I ran in, and stamped out the fire; he fell into my arms, and lay at my feet to die; it was too late to save him. He was a young fellow of twenty-one, well made, about 5 ft. 11 in. high, and as promising a student as we have in the Academy, by name Otto Emmerling. I had been with him the day before, laughing at his Esquimaux dress, and talking of the fun we were to have. Darcy is also in the papers, for having helped a burning man at the door, though he said nothing of it in his letter. His help, like mine, came too late; that is all we regret. We have made a sad notoriety. People call at Darcy's studio, bringing newspapers, asking all about it, and wanting to see us; and when we are in the cafés, they say, 'There are the Englishmen!' Yet we really did nothing beyond our duty. Darcy is a little scorched, and his nice sailor's costume spoilt, as mine is, which I shall have to pay for, as it was borrowed. My hands were more blackened than scorched. I had two flashes of flame in the face and eyes. There were ninety-nine chances to one against our getting away unscathed. There will be thousands of people going to the funeral of the poor fellows to-morrow. The churches are hung with black, and the priests in black vestments; the newspapers are in black borders. The Academy is shut for a week."

Our Illustration, from a Sketch by Mr. Darcy Morell, who is not unknown in London as an Artist, represents the scene at the death of one of the sufferers upon this dreadful occasion. This Sketch has reached us quite independently of the above extracts from the two brothers' letters, which were, of course, not written for publication. The number of deaths from burning is now stated to be twelve, and twenty or thirty more persons were severely injured. The fire was caused by the fancy dresses of a party of young men, sculptors of the Bildhauer-Schule, disguised as Esquimaux, and covered with imitation skins, made to look shaggy with flax and tow, which were even oiled to have a greasy appearance. They were together in a little hut of light wood, and had a candle with them, which one of them let fall as he was lighting his pipe or cigar; in stooping to pick it up, he set fire to the flax hanging about his arm. The reader of ancient French historical memoirs will perhaps recollect a very similar misfortune, in the festivities at the Court of Charles VI., in 1393, which deprived that prince of his reason by the effect of fright.

THE PERUVIAN FLEET.

The capture of the city of Lima, the capital of Peru, by the Chilian army, on Jan. 17, has been recorded as the crowning event of the late obstinate and costly war between the two rival South American Republics; and a view of Lima was recently published in this Journal. It will be recollected that a decisive battle was fought on the 15th, at Miraflores, six or seven miles from that city, where the Peruvians suffered a second disastrous defeat, having fought an unsuccessful battle, two days before, at Chorillos, four miles to the south of Miraflores. They are stated to have lost about ten thousand men killed and wounded, in the two battles, while the Chilian army lost about five thousand. The President of the Peruvian Republic, Señor Pierola, immediately fled from Lima, and went up the country; followed by several thousand of the town-people, with their families, who dreaded the license and outrages of the disbanded Peruvian soldiery, as well as of the victorious foe. At Ancon, a small place on the seacoast, twenty-five miles from Lima by railway, there were on Sunday night, the 16th, nearly four thousand women and children in a state of destitution, who were protected and relieved by the English Minister, and other foreign residents at Lima, with the assistance of parties of officers and seamen landed from the British and other neutral squadrons, bringing all kinds of needful provisions and stores for these distressed people. The English merchants and people at Lima had to give shelter in their houses to many of the unhappy fugitives from violence and rapine, and in some instances were obliged to turn out and fight the lawless banditti, a hundred of whom were killed. The Peruvian fleet, or naval squadron, then lying in the harbour of Callao, a few miles from Lima, was destroyed by the Peruvians themselves, to prevent its falling into their enemy's possession. At daybreak on Monday, the 17th, the ironclad corvette Union was taken out of the harbour and set on fire; she was afterwards abandoned, and drifted on shore after burning a few hours. The other ships were burnt inside the mole or pier of Callao, and the magazines of the batteries and forts were blown up. This scene is represented in our Illustration, from a Sketch by Lieutenant Ernest J. Fleet, R.N., of H.M.S. Gannet, on the Pacific Station. The Chilian army entered Lima at a later hour of the same day.

THE COURT.

The Queen gave audience to the Right Hon. W. E. Forster before coming to London last week; and the Royal dinner party the same evening included Princess Beatrice, Lady Churchill, the Hon. Evelyn Paget, the Right Hon. W. E. Forster, Lord Methuen, Lieut.-General the Right Hon. Sir H. and the Hon. Lady Ponsonby, the Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley, Captain Edwards, and Mrs. Arthur Birch (wife of Mr. Arthur Birch, late Governor of Ceylon).

Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, arrived in town on Thursday week, being escorted from Paddington by a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards to Buckingham Palace. The Duke of Edinburgh lunched with her Majesty. In the afternoon the Queen of Sweden and Norway visited her Majesty, being received by the Queen at the grand entrance. The Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Beatrice were present, and the ladies and gentlemen in attendance. Earl Granville had an audience of her Majesty. Princess Louise of Lorne dined with the Queen. Princess Beatrice went to the Gaiety Theatre.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught lunched with her Majesty yesterday week; and Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud of Wales, and Princesses Victoria and Alexandra of Edinburgh visited the Queen. Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, paid a visit to the Duchess of Cambridge at St. James's Palace, and also held a Drawingroom at Buckingham Palace. The Princess of Wales, the Duchess of Edinburgh, and Princess Louise of Lorne dined with the Queen. Princess Beatrice went to the Lyceum Theatre.

The Midgetts were taken to the palace on Saturday for her Majesty and Princess Beatrice to see. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught lunched with the Queen, and subsequently the Hon. Lady Wood (wife of Brigadier-General Wood) was received by her Majesty. The Queen, with Princess Beatrice, returned to Windsor in the afternoon, being escorted from Buckingham Palace to Paddington by a detachment of the 2nd Life Guards.

Divine service was performed on Sunday in the private chapel of Windsor Castle by the Hon. and Rev. Edward Carr Glyn, Vicar of Kensington, in the presence of her Majesty and Princess Beatrice. Princes Christian, Victor, and Albert, and Princesses Victoria and Louise of Schleswig-Holstein lunched with the Queen.

The marriage of her Majesty's eldest grandson and great-niece, which took place at Berlin on Sunday, was celebrated by the Queen at Windsor on Monday by a state banquet, at which the guests were the Princess of Wales, Princess Beatrice, the Duchess of Edinburgh, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge, the German Ambassador; Count Gleichen, uncle to Princess William of Prussia, the Count and Countess Feodore Gleichen; the Mistress of the Robes; Lady Churchill; Lady Emily Kingscote; the Lord Steward, the Lord Chamberlain, the Chamberlain to the Princess of Wales, Earl and Countess Spencer, the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, Earl and Countess Granville, the Marquis of Salisbury, the Marquis of Hartington, the Earl of Beaconsfield, Lord Methuen, the Right Hon. Sir Stafford and Lady Northcote, Mrs. Gladstone, Baron Von den Brincken, Major Von Vietinghoff, Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Ponsonby, and the Master of the Household. In the drawing-room, after dinner, the ladies and gentlemen of the household, the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley, Lady Cowell, and Mrs. Edwards, joined the Royal circle. The wedding festivities at Balmoral included a ball given by her Majesty to the tenantry and dependants on the Royal Highland estates, presided over by the Queen's commissioner.

Her Majesty, with her daughters, walked out the next morning, the Royal and other visitors leaving the castle in the afternoon, except the Princess of Wales, who remained with the Queen.

Princess Beatrice visited Prince Leopold at Claremont.

A Council was held by her Majesty on Wednesday.

The Queen has presented a gift of £10 to John Duncan, the Alford weaver and botanist.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince and Princess of Wales had a large dinner party on the eve of the Prince's departure for Berlin; the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the Duke of Cambridge, and the principal members of the diplomatic corps being of the guests. The band of the 2nd Life Guards, under the direction of Mr. W. Winterbottom, and Mr. Raimo's band were in attendance. Princess Louise of Lorne had lunched with the Prince and Princess the same day; and their Royal Highnesses, with their daughters, had visited the exhibition of cart-horses at the Agricultural Hall. The Queen of Sweden and Norway visited the Prince and Princess the next day and remained to luncheon, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught being of the party. The Prince and Princess returned the Queen's visit at Claridge's Hotel in the afternoon.

The Times correspondent at Durban states that the sons of the Prince of Wales, who are at Cape Town with Lord Clanwilliam's squadron, have paid a visit to Cetewayo. The Princes were to rejoin their ship on Wednesday.

The Duke of Edinburgh presided at the latest meeting of the South Kensington Training School for Music, when the resignation of Mr. Arthur Sullivan was accepted, and Dr. Stainer was appointed principal.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, with the Duke and Duchess of Teck, went to the Haymarket Theatre yesterday week. The Duke was unable to preside at the annual dinner of the Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society through indisposition, the Lord Mayor officiating for him. His Royal Highness sent a donation of £25, and the Queen has forwarded thirty guineas, in the name of Princess Beatrice, to the funds of the society. The Duke presided on Tuesday at the festival dinner of the British Orphan Asylum, at Willis's Rooms. The subscription amounted to £3428, including a donation of £25 from his Royal Highness.

The Duke of Cambridge will preside at the annual dinner of the Society of Friends of Foreigners in Distress, which is to be held at the Freemasons' Tavern on the 23rd inst.

The Empress of Austria was present at the Ash Steeplechases; and during the past week her Majesty has hunted with Sir Watkin Wynn's, the North Shropshire, and the Cheshire Hounds, the Empress having been in the saddle nearly every day.

The Queen of Sweden and Norway during her three days' stay in town inspected Westminster Abbey, the Houses of Parliament, and the Albert Memorial. Her Majesty visited the Queen at Buckingham Palace, and visits were interchanged with the several members of the Royal family in London. The Minister of Sweden and Norway, with various members of the Legation, were entertained by the Queen at Claridge's Hotel, and numerous diplomatic and aristocratic visitors called on her Majesty. The Queen returned to Bournemouth on Saturday.

OUR ARTIST AT BERLIN.

Our well-known Special Artist, Mr. William Simpson, who has been some days at Berlin employed in furnishing this Journal with Sketches of the Royal Wedding there, was honoured last Monday with an invitation to see the Empress of Germany, who had heard from the Crown Princess (our Princess Royal) of his attendance upon the occasion of the marriage and the accompanying festivities. Mr. Simpson, indeed, has long been personally known to the Imperial Crown Prince and Princess, having accompanied the Prince's staff through the campaign of 1870 and 1871 in the war between France and Germany. He was very kindly received by the Empress, who inquired of him whether the Court officials had given him all the facilities he needed for performing his task upon this occasion. Her Imperial Majesty further expressed a high appreciation of the Illustrated London News, and remarked that "it was one of the characteristic features of this age that such a journal should send its Artists to all parts of the world to supply illustrations of all the events of interest which are taking place; and she considered that these illustrations of passing history would be most valuable in future times." While Mr. Simpson was there the Emperor came in, and our Artist was introduced to his Imperial Majesty. The only Sketch that Mr. Simpson was able then to show to the Empress and to the Emperor, having already sent off his others to London, was one of the Fackel-Tanz or torch-dance, after the wedding ceremony, at the Palace on Sunday evening; an engraving from which Sketch will appear in our next week's publication. He had to apologise to her Majesty, who asked him to show her the Sketches of the wedding ceremonies and entertainments, for not being able to show her any more of them; but he promised, with her permission, that copies of the engravings in this Journal should be sent when they were ready.

The Earl of Fife has received from the Queen the Order of the Thistle vacant by the death of the Earl of Seafield.

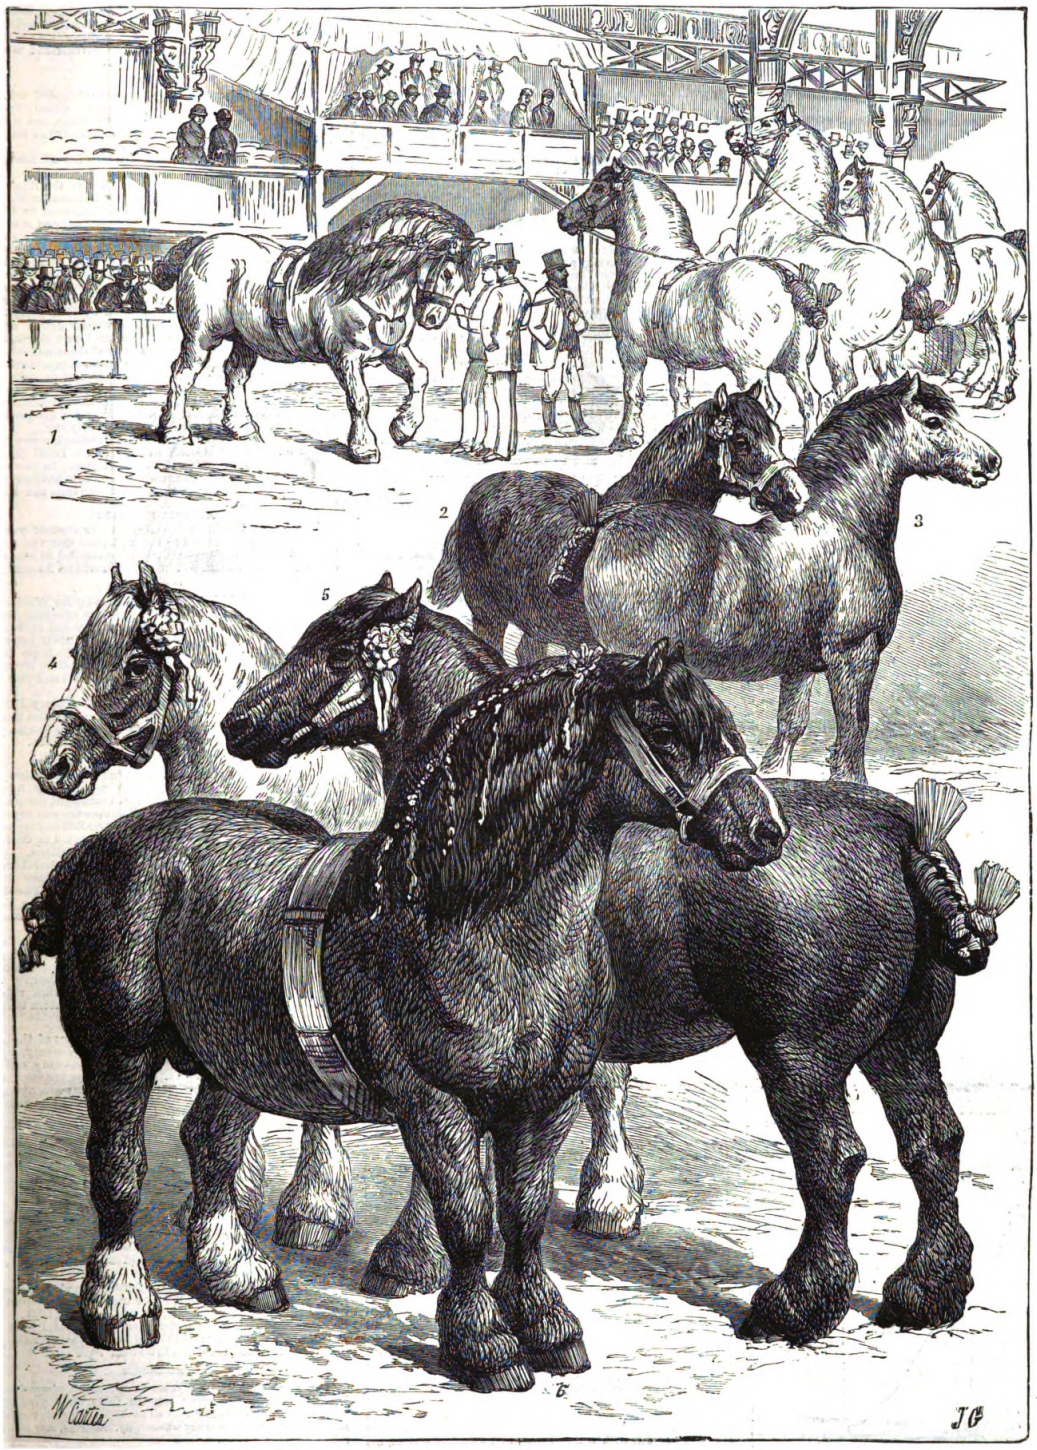
Her Majesty has approved the appointment of Sir Henry Tufton to the Lord Lieutenancy of Westmorland, vacant by the death of Sir Richard Musgrave.

Mr. James Charles Mathew, of the South-Eastern Circuit, has been appointed to fill one of the two vacancies in the Queen's Bench Division.

Her Majesty has conferred the honour of baronetcies on Lieutenant-General Sir Donald Stewart, G.C.B., and Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts, V.C., G.C.B., in consideration of their distinguished military services in Afghanistan.

GENERAL SIR EVELYN WOOD, K.C.B., COMMANDING IN THE TRANSVAAL WAR.
SEE PAGE 225.

DESTRUCTION OF THE PERUVIAN FLEET BY THE PERUVIANS BEFORE EVACUATING CALLAO.—SEE PAGE 227.



1. Judging and Parade of Horses before the Royal Visitors.
2. Black Filly (First Prize), one year old, Hon. E. Coke, Longford Hall, Derby.
3. Horse (First Prize), ten months old, Mr. W. H. Potter, Lockington, Leicestershire.
4. Horse, two years old (Third Prize), Mr. A. Hamond, Swaffham, Norfolk.
5. Mare, seven years old (First Prize and Cup), Earl of Ellesmere, Worsley.
6. Horse, ten years old, Beauchief (First Prize), Mr. F. Street, St. Ives, Huntingdon.

THE CART-HORSE SHOW AT THE AGRICULTURAL HALL.—SEE PAGE 230.

THE SILENT MEMBER.

At a time when military reverses appear to happen to us, unfortunately, with the frequency of the snowfalls of the season, it is refreshing to observe the determination with which a gallant General, who has served the country well in the field, rises and faces the Government in the House of Lords, and in various ways insists upon the necessity of a thorough reorganisation of our Army system. The latest occasion on which Lord Strathnairn fulfilled this public duty was in urging the Ministry, on the 24th ult., to place on the table the report of Lord Airey's Committee on Army Organisation—a report which a noble Lord significantly said was of more importance than the opinion of one or two officers who passed their time "in easy-chairs at the War Office." The plea of the Government was that the report had better be published simultaneously with Mr. Childers's military budget; and the Duke of Cambridge prayed that it might not be made a party question; but the Duke of Richmond, Lord Airey, and Lord Cranbrook were not to be deterred from supporting Lord Strathnairn's appeal. The application of this question to the recent reverses to our arms in South Africa is self-evident. Naturally, the references of Lord Kimberley and the Duke of Cambridge on Monday and Tuesday to the death of Sir George Colley were couched in the best of good taste. But the feeling of Parliament in favour of some drastic measure of Army reform is palpable.

The Marquis of Salisbury, hurried back from Nice a fortnight earlier than was necessary, has not looked quite himself as he has lounged in, and thrown himself carelessly on the front Opposition bench next to Lord Cranbrook. Languor from his recent illness has not yet left the noble Lord the late Foreign Secretary, who has, nevertheless, been quietly girding up his loins for the struggle with the Government on behalf of Lord Lytton's motion for the retention of Candahar. Meanwhile, the much-debated Bill for the Protection of Person and Property in Ireland has been disposed of with dispatch by their Lordships. It was read the first time on Monday; on Tuesday the second reading afforded Lord Beaconsfield an opportunity, in a speech conceived in the fanciful style of "Endymion," of attributing the unsatisfactory state of Ireland to the past reform measures of Liberal Ministries—a highly coloured bubble, which Earl Granville dextrously pricked and burst; and on Wednesday the measure was passed at an early sitting, Royal assent being signified by the Royal Commissioners in the afternoon—an example of business-like promptitude that may be commended to the attention of the Lower House.

Mr. Gladstone's misadventure in the snow—his fall at the garden entrance to his official residence on returning home from the Prince of Wales's party—was sufficiently serious to have called for more than the casual allusions made to the accident by the Marquis of Hartington and Sir Stafford Northcote on Thursday, Feb. 24. The warmly sympathetic cheers that came, however, from both sides of the House when the cause of the Prime Minister's absence was referred to, made amends for any remissness on the part of Lord Hartington and the Leaders of the Opposition—remissness due more to native awkwardness than to anything else. It was quite in keeping with the self-importance which characterises Mr. A. M. Sullivan's Parliamentary demeanour that he should take upon himself to question Lord Hartington's qualification to act as leader of the House whilst Mr. Gladstone was away. But Home-Rule self-sufficiency was powerless to stay his Lordship, whose motion to put to the vote at seven o'clock such amendments to the "Coercion" Bill as remained was sanctioned by 371 to 53, and was, therefore, decisive, the majority being considerably more than the stipulated proportion of three to one. The Speaker, bearing up bravely against a severe cold, had the familiar tale to tell of undiminished majorities in support of the Government at each division. Not to be daunted by these odds, Mr. Justin M'Carthy, acting as leader of the Home Rulers in place of Mr. Parnell, moved that the "Coercion" bill should be read the third time at that "saner" period—six months hence. In the renewed discussion that ensued, Sir William Harcourt made the most remarkable speech.

The "Coercion" bill was destined to occupy the Commons yet another night. Some of the speeches in the debate on Feb. 25 were among the ablest that have been made. Notably that of Lord George Hamilton (sketched as he sits in ambush on the front Opposition bench, ready to propound some question regarding foreign affairs, or listening, say, to Lord Hartington's drily neat condolence with him on his defeat in a public discussion with "Ignotus," an anonymous correspondent of the Daily News). Lord George may be said to have justified the confidence reposed in him as one of the rising hopes of the Conservative Party by this effective address, in which the Government were vigorously and adroitly assailed for having fostered by means of conciliatory speech and administrative lethargy Irish disaffection. The half-cynical, half-earnest eloquence of Mr. Henry Labouchere, and the brusque oratory of Mr. Joseph Cowen, were once again hurled against the measure, which Mr. Forster finally defended and Mr. T. P. O'Connor skilfully condemned. At last, in the small hours, a wearied House had the satisfaction to hear the Protection of Person and Property in Ireland Bill passed by a majority of 245—281 to 36.

Mr. Childers, in accordance with the Marquis of Hartington's statement as to the sequence of business, had on Monday prepared himself to introduce the Army Estimates in a speech, which had to be postponed till Thursday in consequence of the continued talkativeness of Home Rule members with Irish grievances. The Secretary for War, however, did manage to interpose a statement on Monday relating to the death of Sir George Colley. On Tuesday he supplemented it with an announcement as to the reinforcements to be sent to Sir Evelyn Wood, and informed the House of Major-General Sir Frederick Roberts's appointment to the supreme command of the British forces in Natal and the Transvaal. Mr. Childers had also the satisfaction of reading telegrams proving that the loss of life in Sunday's reverse was far less on our side than was thought at first, the number of killed being eighty-five, and wounded, 143.

Sir William Harcourt, deeming the elocution of the Ministerial Bench lacked variety, infused something of the robust oratory of a popular tragedian into the lively address in which he introduced the Irish Arms Bill, on Tuesday. The measure was previously voted "urgent" by 295 to 37 votes. The gist of the Home Secretary's argument for the restriction of the right of carrying and importing arms in Ireland was that the blunderbuss outrages of the past winter were distinctly traceable to Mr. Dillon's inflammatory call to arms in the autumn. Sir William Harcourt even quoted Shakspeare against the "criminal poltroons" who had rendered the bill necessary. The utility of the "urgency" rule was illustrated afresh on Tuesday night, when, in the teeth of Home-Rule opposition, the measure was read the first time by a majority of 162—188 to 26—a majority, however, which did not prevent Mr. Justin M'Carthy from moving the rejection of the bill on Wednesday. Perhaps, Sir William Harcourt was not altogether undeserving of the hon. member's suggestion as to his being animated with a desire "to attitudinize in the character of a modern Cicero saving society." The Debate was adjourned.

THE CART-HORSE SHOW.

The second year's exhibition of the English Cart-Horse Society, of which Earl Spencer is president and the Hon. Edward Coke is vice-president, was held on Wednesday and two following days of last week, at the Agricultural Hall, Islington. It was a very good show; the number of horses altogether was 148, but many of them were some of the finest of their kind. Among the contributors were the Dukes of Beaufort and Westminster, the Earls of Ellesmere, Macclesfield, and Spencer, Lord Hastings, Lord Foley, the Hon. E. Coke, Captain Machell, Mr. Walter Gilbey, and other possessors of good specimens of the most useful breeds. The horse which probably attracted most notice was Beauchief, a fine brown stallion, with white hind feet, and ten years old, which was bred by Mr. J. Sampson, at Beauchief Abbey, near Sheffield, from Devonshire Lad and a daughter of Comet. This horse, which belongs to Mr. F. Street, of Somersham Park, St. Ives, is shown in our page of Illustrations, as well as a younger stallion, Westacre Wonder, bred and owned by Mr. Anthony Hamond, of Swaffham; also the Earl of Ellesmere's seven-year-old mare Black Diamond; Mr. W. H. Potter's colt stallion Coming King; and the Hon. E. Coke's black filly Chance; each of which gained prizes in his or her class, according to the limitations of age and sex. The Prince of Wales, who is patron of the English Cart-Horse Society, visited the show on the first day, accompanied by the Princess of Wales and several of their children, when the horses were paraded for their Royal Highnesses' inspection, as well as for that of the judges.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

On Saturday last the Sandown Grand Prize, which had been postponed from the previous Wednesday, was at last brought off, and the addition of a couple of races, which closed on Friday night, made up a fair afternoon's sport. There has been a good deal of grumbling over the fact that those who paid for admission to the park, rings, or paddock on the Wednesday, when the heavy snow brought racing to an abrupt conclusion, were charged again on Saturday. Doubtless there is something to be said on the other side, but we cannot help thinking that the authorities would have been wise to have adopted a rather more liberal policy in the matter. Harbinger, Torpedo, and one or two of the other probable starters did not put in an appearance for the big race; but though the field only numbered five they were all good class horses, and were all backed for more or less money. Stockmar (10 st.), whose first appearance it was over hurdles, unfortunately ran out of the course when he had gone about a mile and a half, and this contretemps left Northflect (10 st. 13 lb.) with the lead. This he retained to the finish, and won cleverly by a length, though Scot Guard (10 st. 12 lb.) struggled very hard to repeat his Kempton Park success. Bacchus (12 st. 5 lb.) scarcely ran so well as usual, and Advance (10 st. 13 lb.) never looked really dangerous. Olio managed to take two races during the day; and the highly-bred Austin Friar, who is own brother to Hugh Friar, beat Xavier and a fair field for the Wolsey Handicap Steeplechase.

The Billiard Handicap at the Aquarium has resulted in the victory of W. J. Peall, 175 points start, who has made the very fine score of eight games out of nine. He has made a decided advance on any of his previous form, and played the spot stroke with great confidence, though he was a little too anxious to reach the top of the table, and—notably in his contest with the champion—played the wrong game on several occasions. Joseph Bennett, owed 50 points, and F. Shorter, 70 points start, made a dead heat for second place with six games each. The former compiled the best break of the week—a finely played 314, and Shorter, who was out of practice when the tournament began, won his last six games off the reel, and is rapidly recovering all his old deadly accuracy on the "spot." Mitchell was unfortunately quite out of form from start to finish, but Kilkenny and Evans did very well, and at times Collins came out with a fine break, and won five out of his nine games.

A bootmaker, named Charles Williams, was brought up at Hammersmith Police Court last Saturday charged with breaking into the residence of Viscount Harberton, and stealing a quantity of jewellery, and with firing at the parlour-maid and the police, who seized and pursued him. Five shots were fired from a revolver by the thief, and a postman and one policeman were struck, the former being seriously injured. The witnesses spoke positively to the prisoner, who, however, stated that he was not in London at the time. He was remanded.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

HOLLAND.

Dr. Dullert, President of the Second Chamber of the State General, died on Thursday week at Arnham.

In the First Chamber on Tuesday the Minister for Foreign Affairs said, in reply to a question, that it was necessary for the Government, in the interests of the Netherlands, to observe neutrality in the Transvaal, and that no mediation was possible without the consent of the belligerents. Holland had not ceased to use her influence with England in order to bring the war to a termination, and the British Government was aware she was willing to act with that object.

GERMANY.

The Royal Marriage in Berlin was celebrated with much splendour and enthusiasm. The festivities, which closed with a ball in the Royal castle on Tuesday evening, are duly dealt with and illustrated in the present Number. Other engravings will appear next week.

The resignation of Count Eulenburg has at length been accepted by the Emperor.

The Emperor has conferred the order of the Black Eagle upon Count de St. Vallier, the French Ambassador at Berlin.

Congratulation has been universally tendered to Lord Odo Russell on his being raised to the Peerage as Lord Ampthill.

Herr Scholz, Secretary to the Treasury, in the sitting of the German Parliament on Thursday week, explained the Budget, and reviewed the results of the financial year 1879-80, which had closed with a surplus of 23,000,000 marks. Compared with last year, the permanent expenditure showed an increase of 22,000,000 marks, of which 17,000,000 were for army purposes. He was followed by Herr Richter, the leader of the Liberals, who made a violent attack upon the policy of Prince Bismarck. He declared that Germany was under a Dictatorship. As soon as any of the chiefs of departments showed any independence they were superseded, and the vacillating character of this personal system caused confusion in Parliament and among Parliamentary parties. The Chancellor did not reply to the specific charges made against him, but confined himself to a declaration of his patriotism, and that the weal of his country was his only aim.

The Prussian Upper Chamber on Wednesday week again struck out the objectionable clause in the Local Administration Bill adhered to by the Lower House. In the evening the Chambers held a joint sitting, when Count Stolberg, Vice-President of the Ministry, read a Message from the Emperor closing the Session.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Lower House of the Austrian Parliament yesterday week adopted by 165 votes to 152 a proposal that the question for what period children should be compelled to attend elementary schools should be left to the Provincial Assemblies.

AMERICA.

General Garfield left Mentor on Monday for Washington. Before starting, the President elect took an affecting farewell of his neighbours. He also addressed large and enthusiastic crowds on his journey, thanking them for their confidence and greetings. General Garfield expressed the hope that he should always merit their support, adding that he recognised their anxiety for good and honest government and the maintenance of the principles of public liberty.

All the Appropriation Bills except the Deficiency Bill have passed the House, some await the concurrence of the Senate.

The Supreme Court has decided that Congress has no power to fine or imprison anybody except its own members.

CANADA.

The Senate has passed the European and Canadian Cable Bill. The House of Commons has rejected, by 91 votes against 31, the bill brought in by Mr. Cartwright for securing the independence of Parliament. The measure was especially intended to prevent members of the Pacific Railway Syndicate from subscribing to the fund established to aid in defraying the expenses connected with Parliamentary elections.

On Tuesday the House considered the Ministerial motion in favour of granting a monopoly for twenty years for the proposed cable from British Columbia to Japan. The debate which ensued showed that members on both sides of the House were opposed to a monopoly being granted, and the motion was eventually withdrawn.

Contracts have been made for making the Canada and Atlantic Railway. The line, which will be 132 miles in length, must be completed by May 1, 1883. Direct communication between Ottawa and Boston will then be established.

The Ontario Legislature, by 66 votes to 19, has rejected a bill for incorporating an Orange Society of Western Ontario.

AUSTRALIA.

At a conference of Ministerial representatives of the Australian colonies, which was held at Sydney in January, a joint commission was appointed to arrange the bases of a uniform tariff for all the colonies. Victoria insists on her own tariff being adopted as the basis, while the other colonies have adopted that of New South Wales. No agreement is therefore, it is thought, likely to be arrived at.

A bushman, named Skulthorpe, has telegraphed to Sydney from Blackall asserting that he has found the explorer Leichhardt's grave, and has recovered the diary of the whole of his last expedition, together with other relics. Skulthorpe refuses to show any of the articles until his arrival in Sydney.

Five surveying camps, according to intelligence from Panama, have been established by M. de Lesseps' engineers, and the entire party are now at work.

Thirty-six earthquake shocks have been experienced at St. Michael's, Azores. The church and 200 houses fell in, and several people were killed.

The official account of the publishing trade in Germany shows that during the year 1880 the number of new works or new editions published within the empire was 14,941. This includes 300 maps. The increase on the previous year was 762; and for the three years 1878-80 the increase over the production of 1877 was 1016, or a little over 7 per cent.

For more than twenty years in unbroken succession the French Benevolent Society, now in the fortieth year of its existence, has held its annual ball at Willis's Rooms; and on Monday night the gathering was as gay, brilliant, and successful as it has ever been.

Lord Aberdare presided on Monday night at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, at which Sir Richard Temple read a paper descriptive of the lake region of Sikkim, on the frontier of Thibet. He expressed a hope that ultimately a road would traverse this district from India to China.

A banquet was given by the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House on Monday night to the Governor, Deputy-Governor, and directors of the Bank of England. Mr. Birch, the Governor of the Bank, gave some details illustrative of the working of that institution. There was a large company, including many ladies and members of Parliament.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON'S NEW WORKS.
PRINCE METTERNICH'S MEMOIRS. Edited by his son, PRINCE RICHARD METTERNICH. 2 vols. 30s.
LORD ELLENBOROUGH'S DIARY. Edited by LORD COLCHESTER. 2 vols. 30s.
NEW NOVELS.
A CHILD OF NATURE. By ROBERT BUCHANAN, Author of "The Shadow of the Sword." 3 vols.
QUEENIE'S WHIM. By the Author of "Nellie's Memories." 3 vols.
FOLLY MORRISON. By FRANK BARRETT. 3 vols.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

Now ready, for MARCH,
MRS. HENRY WOOD'S MAGAZINE,
THE ARGOSY.
CONTENTS.
1. Court Netherleigh. A New Serial Story by the Author of "East Lynne." Chapters 7, 8, 9. Illustrated by M. Ellen Edwards.
2. Two Journies.
3. Forrester's Ledger.
4. His Jacket.
5. Salisbury and Stonehenge. A Contrast. By Charles W. Wood. With six Illustrations.
6. Elephants.
7. Odd Customs and Strange Stories.
8. The Match Maker.
Sixpence Monthly.

SEVENTH EDITION OF
THE ARGOSY
for JANUARY, now ready.
Containing the Opening Chapters of Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S New Serial Story, COURT NETHERLEIGH.
"We do not remember to have seen a better Number of the 'Argosy' than the present one."—Halifax Times.
"The 'Argosy' commences well."—Hamilton Gazette.
"The 'Argosy' is full of promise for the New Year."—Manx Sun.
"A new story of great promise."—Sunday Times.
"The first three chapters of 'Court Netherleigh' at once claim our sympathy and excite our interest. The situation arrived at in this number is so intensely entertaining that the succeeding number is anxiously looked for."—Yarmouth Gazette.
"The 'Argosy' begins the year with some distinctly delightful descriptions of rambles in the New Forest."—The Mail.
"The 'Argosy' for January is an excellent number. No Magazine has a selection of more universal interests than this excellently conducted periodical."—Liverpool Albion.

SEVENTH EDITION NOW READY.
THE ARGOSY for FEBRUARY also ready.
SIXPENCE MONTHLY.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

Now ready (One Shilling), No. 255,
THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for MARCH. With Illustrations by George du Maurier and W. Small.
CONTENTS.
A Grape from a Thorn. By James Payn. (With an Illustration.) Chap. X.—Drivers and Walkers. XI.—The Picnic. XII.—A Couple of Patients. XIII.—A Suggestion. Sir George Etherege: A Neglected Chapter of English Literature. By Edmund W. Gosse.
Autumn Wanderings. I.—Italian Pottinus. II.—Over the Apennines. III.—Fosdinovo. IV.—La Spezia. V.—Porto Venere. VI.—Lerici. VII.—Viareggio.
Helen in the Wood. By A. Mary F. Robinson.
Rhapsody.
Who were the Fairies?
Thomas Gerfitz.
Love the Debt. (With an Illustration.) Chap. VII.—Barney McGrath. VIII.—Miss Masters. IX.—Mabel to the Rescue.
London: SMITH, ELDER and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
AN UNLESSONED GIRL. By Mrs. HERBERT MARTIN. In 2 volumes.
LUTANISTE OF ST. JACOBI'S. By CATHERINE DREW. In 1 volume.
MY IMPERIALIST NEIGHBOUR. By H. A. DUFF. In 1 volume.
MARCUS WARD and Co., 67, Chandos-street, London, W.C.

NOW READY, AT ALL THE LIBRARIES,
MRS. BURNETT'S NEW TALE.
A FAIR BARBARIAN.
By the Author of "That Lass O'Lowrie's," "Theo," "Natalie."—F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

Messrs. CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and CO. will publish, UNIFORM WITH "PICTURESQUE EUROPE," in Monthly Parts, price 2s. 6d.,
PICTURESQUE AMERICA.
A Pictorial Delineation of the Mountains, Rivers, Lakes, Forests, Waterfalls, Shores, Canons, Valleys, Cities, and other Picturesque features of the North American Continent
WITH 48 EXQUISITELY ENGRAVED STEEL PLATES, and several Hundred Engravings on Wood,
FROM ORIGINAL DRAWINGS specially made for the Work.
PART I. ready March 25, 1881, price 2s. 6d.
To be completed in 24 Parts.
Prospectuses at all Booksellers', or post-free from the Publishers,
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

Now ready, in Two Vols., 21s.,
PLAYS, PLAYERS, AND PLAYHOUSES, AT HOME AND ABROAD; with Anecdotes of the Drama and the Stage. By LORD WILLIAM PITT LENNOX.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

POTTERY PAINTING: A Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, Head Master of Art-School, South Kensington. Second Edition, price 1s., post-free, 1s. 1d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W.

AMERICA.
THE CHICAGO TIMES, published in the great interior city of the Western Continent, will print, in the latter part of March next, an exhaustive article on the agricultural capabilities of the West and the South-West, designed for the information of Emigrants and Capitalists. This copy of the "Chicago Times" will be of unusual magnitude, and will be extensively circulated throughout the civilised world. Parties desiring copies of this Paper will apply, either in person or by letter, to the "Times" Office, Chicago, Illinois, or to the London Bureau, 6, Agar-street, Strand; and such copies will be sent free.

DR. G. OVEREND DREWRY'S POPULAR WORKS on the MAINTENANCE of HEALTH.
COMMON-SENSE MANAGEMENT of the STOMACH. 2s. 9d. CUP and PLATTER, or NOTES on FOOD and its EFFECTS. 1s. 9d.
NOTES on CONSUMPTION. Pamphlet. 13th.
THE LUNGS and GENERATIVE ORGANS. 5s.
HEALTH. A Family Magazine. Monthly. Price 1½d.
MITCHELL and Co., 21, Warwick-street, Regent-street, will forward any of the above on receipt of price, which includes postage.

JUST PUBLISHED, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on these distressing complaints and their complete cure. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

Second Edition, price 1s. 6d., to be had of all Booksellers,
RESPIRATORY DISEASES, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., and their Specific cure, by Dr. JOHN FRANCIS CHURCHILL'S Discoveries of the Hypophosphites and Inhalation.
J. W. KOLCKMANN, No. 2, Langham-place, London.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic and specifics.
London: G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

PROVERBS IN SONGS. By WEATHERLY and BOUCICAULT.
No. 1. "Two's Company" .. .. .. 2s. net.
No. 2. "A Bird in the Hand" .. .. .. 2s. net.
No. 3. "When Poverty Knocks at the Door" .. 2s. net.
No. 4. "The Longest Way Round" .. .. 2s. net.
ENOCH and SONS, 19, Hollis-street, W.

FIFTEENTH THOUSAND.
SOME DAY. By MILTON WELLINGS. This charming new Song is being sung every evening with immense success by Madame Enriquez and all popular singers, and will surely become the most popular song of the day. In C, E flat, and F. 2s. net.—ENOCH and SONS, 19, Hollis-street, W.

MRS. S. PHILLIS ATKINSON'S SWEET MUSIC.
"Jennie Jones." Just published. Solo, with brilliant Variations, moderate and fascinating. 3s.
"Cambrians." Song (Soprano). Fifth Edition. 4s.
"Ravensprings." Quartette. Fifth Edition. 5s.
"Alone." Song (Contralto). Sixteenth Edition. 3s.
"For War, Death, or Solitude." To be had post-free, half-price, of the Composer.
The Priory, 198, Upper-street, Islington, London.

ART UNION OF LONDON.—Subscription One Guinea. Every subscriber receives an impression of an important plate by A. Willmore, after W. Frith, R.A., entitled, "The Loss of the Revenge," besides a chance of one of the numerous valuable prizes. The list will close March 31. The print is now ready.
LEWIS POCOCK, } Hon.
112, Strand, February, 1881. EDMUND E. ANTROBUS, } Secs.

A REMBRANDT, representing an Old Savant, held to be genuine by connoisseurs (as can be proved), FOR SALE by NUNGESSER, Stolberg A.-H., Province of Saxony, Prussia.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; coloured, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 20s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane.

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the latest elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of steel Die included, sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 8d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 5s. Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 1s. 8d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price Lists post-free.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 5s. Arms painted on vellum, emblazoned on seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 70, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris 1878.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS, ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly Illuminated by hand in Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, TABLE D'HOTE, BILL OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL,
PARIS,
1878.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97a, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received privately, and taught at any hour during their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

ONE SHILLING.—AIDE MÉMOIRE; or, Artificial Memory.—New and guaranteed System by which anyone may commit to memory Names, Dates, Facts, Ideas, Figures, Names, Cards at Whist, &c., without the trouble and labour of repetition or study, no matter how imperfect the natural memory may be. A true friend and help to the most retentive; an invaluable and perfect substitute for those who have weak or defective memories; indispensable to everyone. Lasting, post-free, 14 stamps.—G. T. KEMP, 20, Grosvenor-road, South Norwood, London.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawings to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 20s. and 30s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the full colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full Instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, complete, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES for Painting, Fern Painting, and Decalcomanie, Blotting-Books, Card Plates, Cigar-Cases, Screens, &c. New patterns. Priced List free. WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London, W.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED. J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-Resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, FIRE and THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS, DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS and LATCHES, CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS POST-FREE.

CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many doctors' bills." Civil Service Gazette.
"In the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack who never fortify themselves with pure blood and a properly nourished frame." Vide Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS, 170, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

FARROW and JACKSON, the largest and best Makers of
IRON WINE BINS, SODA-WATER RACKS,
BAR FITTINGS, SEALING-WAX,
and every Article for the Dealer in or Consumer of Wines,
18, GREAT TOWER-STREET; 8, HAYMARKET;
91, MANSELL-STREET, LONDON.
Agent in Paris, HOVENDEN and SONS,
●N. EDARD, 26, RUE DU DRAGON.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, INVITES INSPECTION of all that is new and beautiful in useful and ornamental CHINA and GLASS, including s. d.
Dinner Services ("Cottage"), 50 pieces .. .. .. 13 6
Dinner Services for 12 persons (108 pieces) .. .. 35 0
China Dessert Services for 12 persons, Gilt, 17s., Unglit 16 0
Gilt China Tea Services, 40 pieces, 12s. .. .. 26 pieces 6 6
China Breakfast Sets for 6 persons, 15s. .. for 4 persons 7 0
Toilet Services (Ewer and Basin), 4s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 6s. 6d. 3 6
White Stone Jugs, "The Gretchen," .. .. set of three 1 3
All really excellent patterns.
Quart Decanters, good cut glass, 5s. per pair .. .. plain 4 0
Claret Decanters (with handles), 4s. each .. .. and 3 0
Plain light claret glasses, well made, 3s. per doz. .. and 4 6
Wine Glasses, plain or cut, Ports and Sherries, per doz. 1 9
Engraved Wine Glasses .. .. do. .. .. do. 3 6
Hock Glasses, ruby bowl, 6s. per doz. .. green bowl 3 0
Tumblers, cut, 3s., 3d.; plain, 2s. 9d., moulded, per doz. 1 6
Plain light Finger-Glasses, taper shape .. .. per doz. 6 6
Other articles proportionately cheap.
Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, LUDGATE-HILL. Established 1760.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 85s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

ELKINGTON and CO., MANUFACTURERS and SILVERSMITHS, PATENTEES OF THE ELECTRO-PLATE.

ELKINGTON and CO.
CAUTION TO PURCHASERS AGAINST CHEAP AND INFERIOR IMITATIONS.
Illustrated Catalogue, post-free.
ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-st.; or 42, Moorgate-st., City.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER,
18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY
ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES. Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £14 14s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Sent free and forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free.—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £10 10s. Price Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

OROIDE GOLD WATCHES, very handsome, and in exact representation of 18-carat, accurate time-keepers, full jewelled. Ladies and Gents' sizes from £12, free by post registered. Illustrated Price-Lists and Press Opinions post-free.—C. C. ROWE, 32, Brompton-road, London, S.W.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE, Medieval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

CHEAP FRAMES for the COLOURED PICTURE given with last Saturday's ILLUSTRATED. Gilt Frames, 2s. each; with Cardboard Mount, 3s.; 4s. 6d., oak and gilt. Every description of frames and pictures at trade price.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, and 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden (opposite Drury Lane Theatre).

ANTIQUITY.—For SALE, an OLD ASTRONOMICAL STANDING CLOCK, a unicum 9½ metres in height, one metre round, 300 years old, strikes the quarters from its own cathedralum, chime, &c.; two oil miniatures on wood on the case. Description and drawing gratis and post-free on application.—F. O. GASSER, Watchmaker to the Royal Court, Magdeburg, Germany.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!—250 richly coloured embossed SCRAPS, for Screens, Albums, &c., price only 1s. 2d.; or 2s. 3d. post-free. Selections on approval. Recommended by "SCRAP-BOOK" for March.
Address, G. L. SPALDING and CO., Art Importers, Ipswich.

TO PARENTS and GUARDIANS. PEARSON and SON, 26, 35, and 36, Bishopsgate-street Within (established sixty years), Stationers, Printers, and Importers, have a VACANCY for a well-educated Youth as Out-door Apprentice.—Apply at No. 26, between 11 and 1 o'clock.

SUN FIRE OFFICE.
Threadneedle-street, E.C. Charing-cross, S.W.
Oxford-street (corner of Vere-street), W.
Established 1710.
Home and Foreign Insurances Effected.
Sum insured in 1879, £262,402,661.
FRANCIS B. RELTON, Secretary.

PROVIDE AGAINST ACCIDENTS! RAILWAY ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!—A fixed sum in case of Death by Accident, and a Weekly Allowance in the event of Injury, may be secured by a policy of the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY, the Right Hon. W. P. Kinnaird, Chairman. £1,670,000 has been paid as Compensation. West-End Office, 3, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall. Chief Office, 64, Cornhill, London.—WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

ST. THOMAS'S HOME.—ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL.—ST. THOMAS'S HOME is NOW OPEN for the RECEPTION and TREATMENT of PAYING PATIENTS of BOTH SEXES. It is intended chiefly for the treatment of cases of acute disease, those of a chronic, incurable, or infectious nature are ineligible. Persons desirous of being admitted can either personally, or by letter, addressed to the Chief Medical Officer at the Home, obtain from him a form of application for admission, and all other necessary information. The Charges for Board, Medicine, Nursing, and Medical Attendance for each patient will be at the rate of not less than 3s. a day. Payment to be made weekly, in advance.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE
MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Ladies' Attendant,
PRATT'S DEPOT,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

ROUND SHOULDERS and STOOPING HABITS Cured by Dr. CHANDLER'S CHEST EXPANDING BRACE for both Sexes. It assists growth, and produces a handsome figure. 10s. 6d. each.—95, Berners-st. Illustrations sent.

THE SKIN.—The glory of woman, the pride of man. It contains the delicate lines of beauty and constitutes all that we call complexion; yet how many thousands have their skins blemished by the use of the irritant soaps, Carbolic, Coal Tar, Glycerine, and the coarser odorous soaps, caustic with alkali and made of putrid fats. The more delicate the skin the more it suffers. PEARS'S ALMOND MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP is the purest, the whitest, and most purifying of all Soaps, by its purifying action taking away and preventing all pimples, flushes, and roughness. It is highly recommended by the entire Medical Profession as the most elegant preparation for the skin, and is known, in all climates, as Pears's Transparent Soap, 3s. and 1s. THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP COMPANY, 322, Oxford-street, London.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour again, and ceases changing. It causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 3s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C.

TEENS that young ladies are in no hurry to get out of—
"LOUIS" VELVET-TEENS.
THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
IS SIMPLY UNIQUE.
Do not be induced by persuasion to take any other.
LOUIS AN EXTRA PROFIT TO YOUR LOSS may be specially made if you accept, under whatever name offered, an inferior quality of Velveteen.
"THE LOUIS"
has established its reputation so widely that even a slight inferiority would injure its repute, which constitutes
LOUIS A TEST OF MERIT,
and guarantees of
UNSURPASSED QUALITY.
Be sure you find the words
THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
on every yard,
or you have not the
GENUINE "LOUIS,"
LOUIS notwithstanding all assertions to the contrary.
Wholesale London Agent, J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine LOUIS VELVETEEN can be obtained.

JAY'S, Regent-street.
PATTERNS FREE.
PEAU DE CHAMOIS BLACK SATIN. This name has been given by a Lyons manufacturer to a special kind of black Satin. It is made from the purest silk, is as elastic as weak leather, warranted not to crease, and will wear better than any black silk of the present day.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS COSTUMES.—A varied series of COSTUMES, made from Peau de Chamois Satin, are produced weekly during the season. Price, 6½ guineas each, including sufficient satin to make a bodice.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

PATTERNS FREE.
BLACK KASHGAR CASHMERE.—A mixture of camel's hair and the finest wool; one of the lightest and warmest fabrics of the season; perfectly fast colour; will not shrink when wetted; and hangs most gracefully when made up into costumes. In various qualities, 46in. wide, from 5s. 6d. to 9s. 6d. per yard.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

PATTERN FREE.
IMPROVED JANUS CORD (Registered), both sides alike.—Ladies who at this season of the year wear black dresses from choice, will find JANUS CORD, at 1½ guinea the full dress length, one of the most economical and best fabrics, at the price, ever manufactured for a lady's dress.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—A very cheap parcel of New HEATHER TWEEDS. Price 6½d. per yard (regular price 9½d.). Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

NOVELTIES for LADIES' MORNING DRESSES.—French Satteens, 8½d.; Pompadours, 7½d.; Prints, 4½d.; Linen Lawns, 8½d. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—BRIDAL, BRIDESMAIDS, and other Bouquets of the choicest FLOWERS, at very moderate prices. Memorial Wreaths of choice Flowers, 10s. 6d. each. Price-Lists on application.
WILLIAM HOOPER, 384, Oxford-street, W.

PRETTY FLOWERS.—During the REBUILDING of 88, Oxford-street, WILLIAM HOOPER will continue to carry on his business at 386, OXFORD-STREET, W., opposite Bernere-street).

"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and only genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester. Established 50 years." PEARLY WHITE, SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rose brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are all insured by the use of this most perfect Dentifrice. Pots, 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street; formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard, London, whose name is engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

"I LIKE DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS because they are pleasant to take and effectual in Coughs, Colds, &c."—(Signed) G. SMITH, Stokesley Station, Northallerton. Price 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or
Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, Care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "lozenges" are now sold by most respectable Chemists in this country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depot, 38, Farringdon-road, London.

"THEY HAVE NO EQUAL."
This is the universal opinion of everybody who has tried
DR. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, for Bilious and liver complaints, indigestion, wind, nausea, foul breath, nervous depression, irritability, headache, loss of appetite, dizziness, heartburn, giddiness, dizziness of the eyes, &c. Being as mild and tonic in their action as they are certain in their curative effects. Prepared by W. Lambert, 173, Seymour-place, London, W., in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d., and sold by all Chemists. The genuine are in square green packages. Take no other.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera. By W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. .. .. 5s.
Pianoforte Solo, arranged by Berthold Tours.. .. 3s.
Waltz. D'Albert .. .. 4s. | Polka. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Lancers. D'Albert .. 4s. | Galop. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Quadrille. D'Albert .. 4s.
Fantasias by Boyton Smith (2) and Kuhe .. each 4s.
Smallwood's three easy Fantasias .. .. each 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera. Enormous success at the Strand Theatre. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. .. 8s. net.
Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture, Songs, &c. .. .. .. .. 4s. „
Pianoforte Solo .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. „
Lancers. D'Albert .. 2s. net. | Galop. D'Albert .. 2s. net.
Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „ | Nearest and Dearest .. 2s. „
Quadrille. D'Albert.. 2s. „ | Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Polka. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Boyton Smith's Fantasia .. .. .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS.

CŒUR DE LION. H. J. STARK. Sung by Mr. Oswald. 2s. net.
AT THE PORTAL. N. Ferri. Sung by Madame Mary Cummings. 2s. net.
WHAT THE FIRELIGHT TOLD. J. L. Roeckel. 2s. net.
ANGUS MACDONALD. J. L. Roeckel. Sung by Madame Enriquez. 2s. net.
OH YES! OH YES! (The Town Crier). C. Birch. 2s. net.
BYGONES. Hamilton Clarke. 2s. net.
WEARINESS. Muratori. Sung by Mr. Santley. 2s. net.
DINNA LEAVE ME. A. M. Wakefield, Composer of "No, Sir." 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW SONGS by Mrs. RONALDS.
IN SHADOW .. .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
WHY? .. .. .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
EVER NEAR .. .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
DIS MOI POURQUOI .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.
ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
PORTIA WALTZ .. .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP .. .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ .. .. .. .. 2s. 0d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. .. .. 1s. 6d. net
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready, Volume II. of
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs. Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 100 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

Owing to the great success of F. H. COWEN'S New Song,
THE CHILDREN'S HOME,
W. MORLEY, Jun., and CO. have much pleasure in announcing the purchase of Mr. Cowen's last Song.

THE WATCHMAN AND THE CHILD, which must still further enhance his reputation as one of the finest song writers of the present day.
Keys for all Voices.

IN THE CLOISTERS. By ODOARDO BARRI. New Song
"A song of uncommon beauty and merit, which will soon be equally popular with 'The Lost Chord.' Of moderate compass, yet thoroughly vocal, its charming phrases must ensure success alike to the professional vocalist or amateur."—Review.
Post-free, 24 stamps each.
W. MORLEY, jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, London, N.

MUSIC.—Ladies who are attracted to the interesting study of Harmony will find that they can master the subject without tuition by the aid of the following little MANUAL (see next advertisement). It is written in a style that will command attention and respect fifty years hence.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

PRACTICAL HARMONY. By W. S. ROCKSTRO. Price 2s. This clear and systematic manual fully bears out its title, and will be found to save the Teacher and Student much time and perplexity. The plan of the work is the result of a full and perfect test during a long period of tuition.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE OPEN WINDOW. Song. By A. S. GATTY. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps. "By this song Mr. Gatty has added considerably to his reputation as a writer."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ONLY A PASSING THOUGHT. Song. By A. S. GATTY. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE UNFORGOTTEN SONG. By ODOARDO BARRI. Introduces in the most effective manner a few bars of "Home, sweet home." Post-free for 18 stamps.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

W. T. WRIGHTON'S ever popular Song, THE WISHING CAP. 4s.; post-free for 24 stamps. Has achieved a world-wide reputation.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

LES CHEVALIERS. Marche Militaire. Supplies the oft-repeated demand for a good stirring, bright march. By J. DUVAL. 3s.; post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges,
THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.
A complete Encyclopedia of Vocal Music.
THE SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.
THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND.
THE SONGS OF IRELAND.
THE SONGS OF WALES.
THE SONGS OF FRANCE.
THE SONGS OF GERMANY.
THE SONGS OF ITALY. (In the Press.)
THE SONGS OF SCANDINAVIA and Northern Europe.
THE SONGS OF BOHEMIA, HUNGARY, and Eastern Europe. (In the Press.)
The above 10 volumes contain nearly 1000 Popular Ballads of the various countries of Europe.

BEETHOVEN'S SONGS. (Complete.)
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S VOCAL DUETS.
The above have German and English Words.
HANDEL'S ORATORIO SONGS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS. (Italian and English Words.)
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto.
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Tenor and Baritone.
* In Transposed Keys, with Italian and English Words.
MODERN BALLADS. By the most eminent living composers.
SACRED SONGS, ANCIENT AND MODERN.
HUMOROUS SONGS, NEW AND OLD.
CHOICE DUETS FOR LADIES' VOICES.
DOUBLE VOLUMES.
Price 5s. each, paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS. Containing celebrated Songs, with Italian and English Words, in the original keys.
1. THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM.
2. THE CONTRALTO ALBUM.
3. THE TENOR ALBUM.
4. THE BARITONE ALBUM.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Just published, a Volume of
HANDEL'S ORATORIO SONGS, Edited, with New Pianoforte Accompaniments, by W. T. BEST, containing 55 of the finest Songs from The Messiah, Judas, Israel, Solomon, Deborah, Joshua, Susanna, Joseph, Hercules, Belshazzar, Theodora, &c. Price 2s. 6d., paper cover; 4s., cloth, gilt edges.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CHORAL UNION. A Collection of 40 POPULAR GLEES and PART-SONGS, in four handy-books, each containing the Music of the 40 pieces for one voice—viz., Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, or Bass. Price 6d.; or, in Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, price 3s. 6d.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE PARISH ANTHEM-BOOK. Containing fifty standard Anthems by the most celebrated Composers, suitable for choirs and small choirs; in numbers, price One Penny each; or one volume, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt edges, 5s.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street. Specimen Anthem for One Stamp.

New Cantata for Amateur Societies.
THE SONG OF THE MONTHS. Cantata by FRANCIS HOWELL, composer of "The Land of Promise." Containing twelve numbers, illustrating the months of the year. Price 2s. 6d. complete. Separate parts for the chorus, price 6d. each voice. The band parts may also be had.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY'S PROGRESSIVE EXERCISE BOOK. A complete Course of Progressive Exercises and Studies (160 in number), by Diabelli, Bertini, Herz, Kohler, Czerny, Clementi, Kalkbrenner, Mazzinghi, Hummel, Cramer, Ravina, and Moscheles.

BOOSEY'S PROGRESSIVE EXERCISE BOOK is intended to overcome every difficulty in the practice of every style of pianoforte-playing. With Portraits of Liszt, Halle, Rubinstein, and Von Bülow. Price 2s. 6d.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

To be had of every Musicseller in the United Kingdom.
THE CAVENDISH MUSIC-BOOKS. The cheapest and most popular musical serial published. Each book contains thirty-two pages of music, full size, price 1s. Every number contains valuable copyright songs, duets, and pieces by the most eminent living composers, besides the best standard music. Forty Numbers are now published. A List of Contents gratis.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

TWENTY-ONE. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

ROCHESTER BELLS. New Ballad, by the Composer of "The Three Sailor Boys," and sung by him with the greatest success. This day, price 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE FIRST LETTER. By MOLLOY. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THAT OLD SWEET STORY OF OLD. New Sacred Song. By THEO. MARZIALS. A new setting of the well-known words. This day, price 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CHILDREN OF THE CITY. New Song by STEPHEN ADAMS; the Words by Weatherly. Sung by Madame Patey at the Ballad Concerts. This day, price 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MIGNONETTE. By SUCHET CHAMPION. Sung everywhere by Mr. Edward Lloyd. New Edition. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAIRLY CAUGHT. A great Success. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE MERCHANT OF CHEAPSIDE. Madame Patey's New Song. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung at the Ballad Concerts. Words by Weatherly. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

GEO. WOODS' VESPER ORGAN. No. 3, with two complete sets of reeds, five octaves, and knee swell, net £18.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY and CO.'S PIANOFORTES, From 20 to 200 Guineas, for Sale, Hire, or Three-Years' System.—295, Regent-street.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, PIANOFORTE TUTOR.
Catalogue and all Particulars may be had from
FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

Now ready.
THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST ("L'Enfance du Christ"). By BERLIOZ.
Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Halle. Price 2s. net, paper; 3s. net, bound.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272a, Regent-circus, London; and Cross-street and South King-street, Manchester.

THE BUGLER, in D, F, and G. By CIRO PINSUTI. Words by F. E. Weatherly. This very successful song has now reached the tenth edition.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee). Waltz. By OSCAR SEYDEL. "When she went back to the ball-room, Captain Winstanley followed her, and claimed his waltz. The band was just striking up the latest German melody, 'Weit von Dir,' a strain of drawing tenderness."—Vide Miss Braddon's "Vixen." Each of the above 2s. net.
B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee) WALTZ. By OSCAR SEYDEL. An "Figaro": Feb. 12) calls the above "an undemonstrative pair." Though, we doubt not, innocently given, the Publisher begs to state that Miss Braddon, in praising this Waltz, can have had no other motive than admiration for it, as she has never held any communication with him.—B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row, E.C.

THE NAMES UPON THE SNOW. New Song by Mrs. ARTHUR GODEYE.
Sung by Madame Patey.
London: PATEY and WILLIS, Great Marlborough-street.

NEW MUSIC.

NOW READY.
ROMEO ET JULIETTE.
By BERLIOZ.
English Version, by Dr. F. Hueffer, will be performed by the Philharmonic Society on Thursday next.
Vocal Score, with English and French Words, price 6s. net.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

THE LANGUAGE OF THE FLOWERS. Suite de Ballet.
Performed at Kuhe's Brighton Festival, Feb. 18, and also at the Orchestral Concerts, St. James's Hall.
No. 1. DAISY. | No. 5. YELLOW JASMINE.
„ 2. LILAC. | „ 6. LILY OF THE
„ 3. FERN. | VALLEY.
„ 4. COLUMBINE
Arranged as Pianoforte Solos and Duets by the Composer.
FREDERIC H. COWEN.
Solos, price 2s. each net; complete, 6s. net.
Duets, price 3s. 6d. each net; complete, 7s. 6d. net.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

MISTRESS PRUE. New Song. J. L. MOLLOY. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MISS ORRIDGE.
THE UNFINISHED SONG. FREDERIC H. COWEN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MR. SANTLEY.
THE VICAR'S SONG. From "The Sorcerer," Comic Opera. By W. S. Gilbert and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Sung by Mr. Santley at the London Ballad Concerts with enormous success. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MRS. OSGOOD.
THAT TRAITOR, LOVE. By J. L. ROECKEL. Words by Hugh Conway. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MADAME ANTOINETTE STERLING.
THE CHORISTER. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

JUST PUBLISHED.
QUEENIE GAVOTTE for PIANO. Price 4s. By J. T. MUSGRAVE.
"We have not met with so pretty a piece as that now before us, for it is very taking and graceful throughout, and some touches towards the close are even masterly."—Press.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

NOW READY,
LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES.
By A. S. GATTY. Book 2, with Twenty-two Woodcuts, specially drawn by Mrs. John Collier. Price 4s. net; or, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt letters and edges, price 6s. net.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS, by B. TOURS.
LA COLOMBE ENTR'ACTE. CH. GOUNOD.
THE SWING SONG. CH. FONTAINE'S popular Pianoforte Piece.
Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

NEW EDITION.
TOY SYMPHONIES. By ROMBERG and HAYDN. As performed at the St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace under the direction of Henry Leslie and F. H. Cowen, Esq. Edited by J. M. Coward. Each book contains, for Pianoforte and Toy Instruments. String Parts, 1s. stamps each extra. A complete Set of Toy Instruments, carefully tuned and regulated, price 2 guineas.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

NO. 3 NOW READY.
AMERICAN ORGAN JOURNAL. Edited by J. M. COWARD. Containing Popular Pieces by Arthur Sullivan, Henry Smart, and other popular Composers. Nos. 1, 2, and 3, price 6d. each; or, post-free, 1s. stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

GOLD MEDALS PARIS AND VIENNA.
MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.—The Cheapest and Best. Testimonials from 1000 Musicians. Unrivalled in tone and workmanship. Celebrated for perfect tuning. Elegant cases, new designs. May be had on hire or on the three-years' system of purchase. Liberal discount for cash. Catalogue post-free.
Economy Organ, price 8 gs.
Universal Organ, 13 stops, Knee Swell, Vox Humana, and Grand Organ, price 25 gs.
Chancel Organ, Venetian Organ, Swell, &c., price 38 gs.
ORGANS, with pedals, from 80 to 220 gs.
INDIAN MODELS, for extreme climates, from 38 gs.
ORCHESTRAL ORGAN, price 300 gs.
METZLER and CO., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

METZLER'S AMERICAN ORGUINETTE, The American Orguinette is a reed Musical Instrument, constructed somewhat on the principle of the American organ, and adapted to be automatically operated by simple sheets or strips of perforated paper, each sheet representing one or more tunes. There is no limit to either kind or quantity of music. It will play Hymn Tunes, Popular Airs, sets of Quadrilles, Polkas, Waltzes, Reels, and Hornpipes with a clearness, accuracy, and degree of execution which but few performers can equal. A mere child can play it.
Style A, with six tunes, £1 10s.
Style E, with attachment and six tunes, £3 10s.
Cabinet styles, with selection of Music, 12, 18, and 16 guineas.
Any description of Music 9d. a tune.
To be obtained of all Musicsellers, and
METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is extremely light and portable, and its silvery tone is produced from Steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 45 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Carefully packed free, and sent to any part. Drawing gratis.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

BROADWOOD PIANO, 25 Guineas. Full-compass PIANOFORTE. Good condition, fine tone. Warranted new within three months.
AUOETZMANN'S, 27, Baker-street (exactly opposite Tussaud's).

£35.—There is nothing in London—nor, in fact, in all England—to be compared to the elegantly Carved DRAWING-ROOM TRICHORD COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with Cabriole Truss Legs, which is sold for £35 by THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE; from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 63, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

NEW MUSIC.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
THE LATEST SUCCESS.
BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE .. .. .. .. 6s. net.
SONGS.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 4s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net.. ow ready.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
DANCE MUSIC, BILLEE TAYLOR, ready. Orchestra, 2s.; Septet, 1s. 6d.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 130th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

Post-free, 2s. net.
A LIFE'S LOVE. In C and D. Sung. Composed by J. B. WALDECK. Will be sung by Mr. Robert Hilton at Dumbarton, Helensburgh, and Glasgow on the 28th, 29th, and 30th inst.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside.

THE LOVE OF OLD. ROECKEL'S charming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming engagements. Post-free, 24 stamps.

PIANO DUETS.
C. REINECKE. Three Sonatas, Op. 159. Price 2s. net.

PIANO SOLOS.
W. KUHE. NEW SACRED TRANSCRIPTIONS.
Elì (costa), Nasman (Uosta). Price 2s. each net.
TH. LACK. NEW PIECES.
Menuet, La Meunette. Bolero. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. HOUBIER. NEW PIECES.
Joyeuse Rentrée, Fête à Trianon, Parfait Bonheur. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
FRANZ HITZ. NEW PIECES.
Carnotage (Caprice), Lutin Rose, Le Regiment qui passe. Price 2s. 6d. each net.
JOYFUL MOMENTS. Ten Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. each net.
OUR FAVOURITES. Ten Moderately Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. 3d. each net.

THE PROGRESSIVE MUSIC SCHOOL.
Carefully Edited, Fingered, and Corrected from the Original Manuscripts by J. LEYBACH. First Series (very easy), 16 Numbers. Numbers 1 to 14, price 1s. 3d. each net. Number 15, price 1s. 6d. net.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.
S. JACOBY. Six Popular Airs (Easy). Price 1s. each net.
CH. TOURVILLE. Twelve Favourite Subjects (Moderate). Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. FARMER. Popular Violin Solos (Brilliant), with Piano Accompaniment. Nine Numbers. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

SOMEBODY KNOWS. By SAINTON-DOLBY. Words by Edward Oxenford. Sung by Madame Enriquez with immense success, and always encored. Post-free, 2s. net.—KEPPEL and Co., 221, Regent-street, London.

DANSES GROTESQUES, for Piano. Three Numbers. Price 4s. each. By ARTHUR H. JACKSON.
On Titlepage the following Portraits by E. J. Wheeler:—Mesdames A. Patti, C. Nilsson, and Miss Braham, Liszt, Wagner, Rubinstein, Verdi, Offenbach, Wilhelmj, Joachim, Sims Reeves, Herbert Reeves, Santley, Arthur Sullivan, and W. H. Gilbert; also Artist, Composer, and Publisher.
Splendid Work. WARNE and Co., Music Publishers, 86, New Bond-street, London, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan"—Mr. Peppa the Musician, by F. Hueffer—The Great Composers: Berlioz—The Father of the Symphony—Ponchielli's Opera "The Prodigal Son"—Monday Popular—Crystal Palace, and Mr. Halle's Concerts—Music in Manchester—Mr. Kuhe's Brighton Musical Festival—Occasional Notes—Foreign and Country News—Reviews—Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual Subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains a special and full report of the recent production of Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera, "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan," at the Hanover Opera House.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—"I saving Victim," Anthem, by Berthold Tours. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIOS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
Ingrell .. .. Beethoven. | Israel in Egypt .. Handel.
Mount of Olives .. „ | Judas Maccabæus .. „
Jephthah .. .. Carissimi. | The Creation .. Haydn.
Messiah .. .. Handel. | Last Judgment .. Spohr.
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S CANTATAS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
God goeth up ..... Bach. | Hear my Prayer Mendelssohn.
God's Time is the Best.. „ | The first Walpurgis Night ..... „
My spirit was in heaviness ..... „ | Midsummer Night's Dream .. „
O light everlasting .... „ | Hide with us ..... „
Ride with us ..... „ | Man is mortal... „
A Stronghold Sure ..... „ | Penitence ..... „
Ruins of Athens .. Beethoven. | Christus ..... „
A Song of Destiny .. Brahms. | To the Sons of Art .. „
The Dream ..... Sir M. Costa. | Ave Maria. .... „
Spring's Message, 2d. .. Nicls W. Gade. | The Lay of the Bell Romberg.
Christmas Eve ..... „ | The Transient and the Eternal ..... „
Erl King's Daughter .. „ | Song of Miriam.. F. Schubert.
Scenia ..... Goetz. | Manfred ..... R. Schumann.
The Soul's Aspiration Grimm. | New Year's Song .. „
Acis and Galatea .... Handel. | The North-east Wind A. M. Smith.
Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter ..from | God, Thou art great .... Spohr.
"The Seasons" .... Haydn. | The Christian's Prayer „
May Day ..... G. A. Macfarren. | Jubilee Cantata. C. M. V. Weber.
Lobgesang..... Mendelssohn.
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S MASSES, PSALMS, &c.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
Stabat Mater ..... Astorga. | 148th Psalm ..... Mendelssohn.
Magnificat ..... Bach. | 116th Psalm.... „
Mass in C ..... Beethoven. | 13th Psalm ..... „
Requiem (C minor) Cherubini. | 91st Psalm ..... Meyerbeer.
Third Mass in A ..... „ | First Mass ..... Mozart.
By the Waters of Babylon. Goetz. | Twelfth Mass .... „
Messe Solennelle.. Ch. Gounod. | Requiem Mass (Latin and English) ..... „
Dettingen Te Deum .. Handel. | Stabat Mater (Female Voices) ..... Pergolesi.
Utrecht Jubilate ..... „ | Stabat Mater..... Rossini.
O praise the Lord (Sixth Chandos Anthem) .... „ | Mass in G ..... Schubert.
First Mass (B flat) .... Haydn. | Advent Hymn.. R. Schumann.
Second Mass (G) ..... „ | Mass..... C. E. Sloss.
Third Mass (Imperial) „ | Mass (G) ..... C. M. Von Weber.
Te Deum (Latin and English Words) ..... „ | Mass (E flat) ..... „
42nd Psalm ..... Mendelssohn. | O Lord, Thou art my God. S. S. Wesley.
95th Psalm ..... „
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

PLEYEL WOLFF and CO.'S BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO, with gold-covered strings, may be had in ebonized, walnut, or rosewood cases. Carriage-free to towns where there are no agents.
170, New Bond-street, W.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPÔTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £200. Sand-boxes from 18s. to 60s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOUH, as above.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1881.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN.

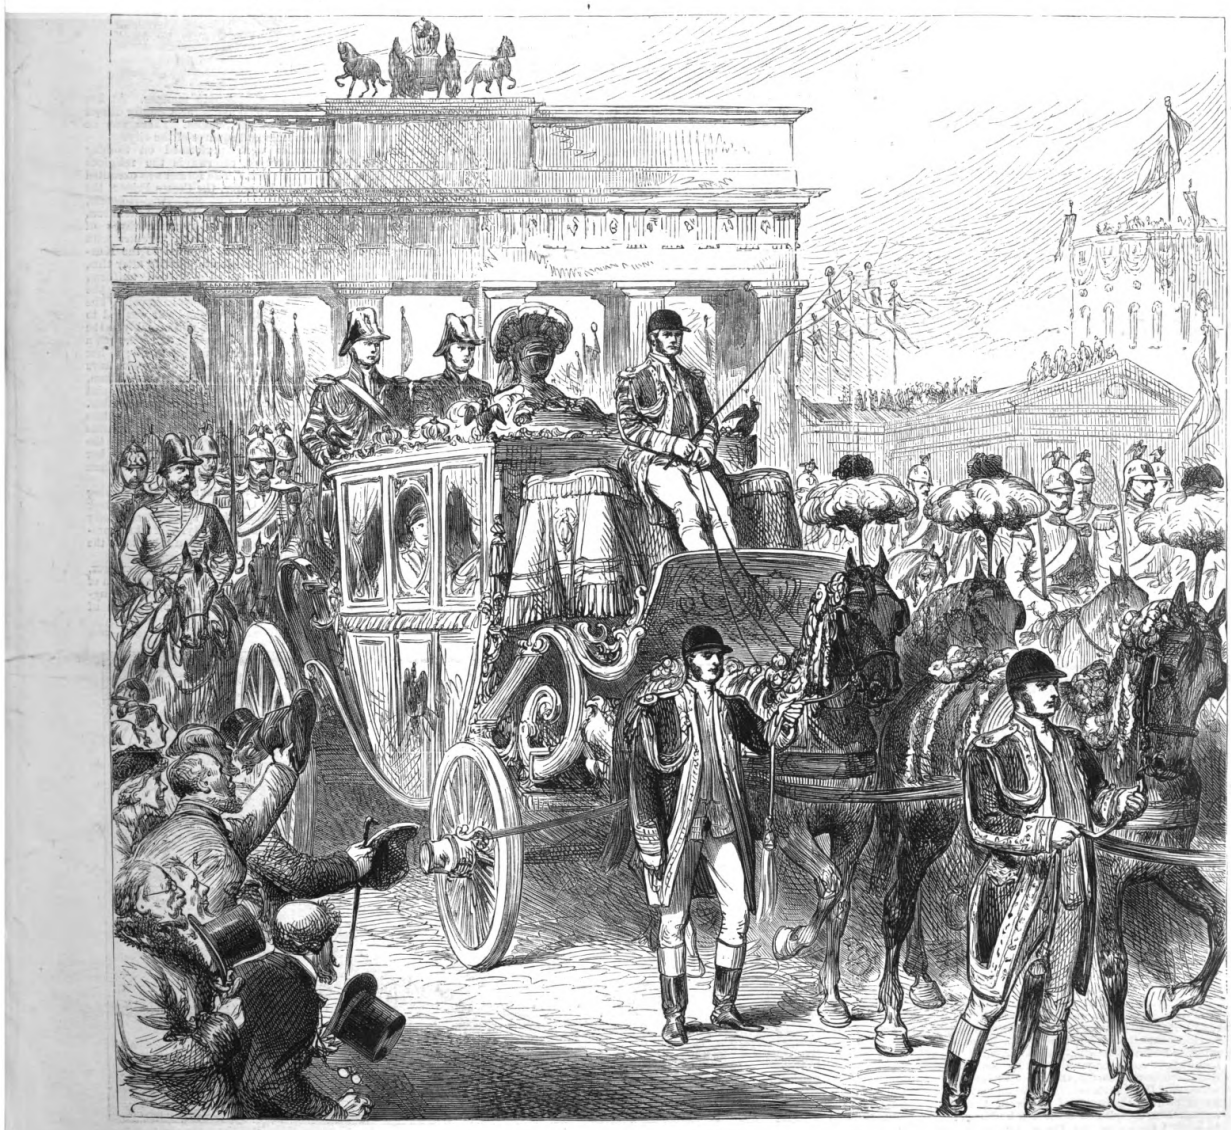
FROM SKETCHES BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.



STATE ENTRY OF THE BRIDE INTO BERLIN: THE PROCESSION PASSING THE BRANDENBURG GATE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

The Extra Supplement.

PRINCE WILLIAM OF PRUSSIA.

The young Prince married last Sunday at Berlin is Frederick William Victor Albert, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Prussia and of Germany, grandson of the German Emperor and of Queen Victoria. He was born on Jan. 27, 1859, a year after the marriage of his parents in London. On Jan. 27, 1869, having reached his tenth year, he was, in accordance with old Prussian custom, invested with the Order of the Black Eagle (the Garter of the monarchy) and formally enrolled as an officer in the 1st Foot Guards. A little later, on May 2, he was formally presented to his comrades in the garrison church at Potsdam by his Royal grandfather. On Sept. 1, 1874 (the anniversary of Sedan), the Prince was ceremoniously confirmed in the garrison church. From the autumn of 1874 till January, 1877, his Highness attended the Gymnasium, or high preparatory school, of Cassel, going through the same routine of study as his fellow-pupils and sharing their various pastimes. On reaching his eighteenth year, when Princes attain their majority, he went up, like others, for the final examination qualifying for the University, and passed this, according to the school records, "in an honourable way," being tenth on the list of candidates. Wilhelmshöhe, where Napoleon III. lived in captivity as the Count Pierrefonds, was the Prince's residence. On his eighteenth birthday, having returned home from school, Prince William was invested by Lord Odo Russell, on behalf of his grandmother, Queen Victoria, with the Order of the Garter. He then began to prepare for his military duties. In February, 1877, the Prince was presented by the Emperor to all his military superiors in the Corps of Guards. He devoted himself to his military duties at Potsdam as First or Senior Lieutenant in the Guards, claiming no exemption on account of his rank, and devoting the hours not demanded by active service to a course of study under special military tutors. Interrupting this course of life for a time, the Prince repaired to Bonn (where his father had studied before him) to complete his general education by attending lectures on natural science, political economy, public and criminal law. Here he worked from the winter of 1877 to the summer of 1879, leaving behind him a good reputation among his comrades, and equally among the professors, for industry and power of attention. It only remains to be added that on March 22 last, being the Emperor's birthday, Prince William received the command of a company; but previous to his marriage he was promoted to the rank of Major. His Royal Highness marched at the head of his company of the Guards on Saturday last, doing duty in the ordinary course, when they went to mount guard at the Schloss, an hour before the state entry of his bride into Berlin. These Guards were the old-fashioned high-peaked shakos of Frederick the Great's time.

PRINCESS WILLIAM OF PRUSSIA.

The newly-married wife of Prince William is Augusta Victoria Amelia Louise Marie Constance, who was born, the eldest of five children, on Oct. 22, 1858, at Dolzig, a Silesian estate of her parents, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg. She is thus about three months older than her husband. Her mother, the Grand Duchess Adelaide, still living, is sister of Count Gleichen, being daughter of Ernst, Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, who married Queen Victoria's half-sister, Feodora, and who, dying in 1860, was pronounced by the Prince Consort to be "a thoroughly good, noble, spotless, and honourable man." But this Prince's virtues did not prevent serious losses accruing to him from the social convulsions of 1848 in Germany. The young bride's father, too, the Duke of Augustenburg, had to suffer severely at the hands of Prussia in 1864, at the time of the Schleswig-Holstein complication. This unsuccessful claimant of the Duchy of Schleswig-Holstein died in January, 1880. His last moments were probably soothed by the reflection that his race was likely to continue the line of Prussian Kings and German Emperors. Princess Victoria can boast of most distinguished connections; being the granddaughter of Queen Victoria's half-sister and the niece of one of her Majesty's sons-in-law (Prince Christian), as well as related to the Royal House of Denmark—the younger branch of her family, and a nursery of monarchs. But she is not without much humbler though equally honourable relations, one of her aunts, the Princess Henriette, being the wife of Dr. Esmarch, the celebrated professor of surgery at Kiel. The little parish and mansion of Dolzig, where the Princess Victoria was born, is near Frankfort-on-the-Oder. Her Highness was there brought up in strict retirement and simplicity.

[We have been favoured by the Imperial and Royal Court of Berlin with special permission to copy, for our Engravings of this week, the Portraits of Prince William and his bride painted for the Imperial Family by an eminent artist, Professor Von Angeli, of the Imperial Academy at Vienna.]

---

Countess Cowper, who was attended by the Ladies Down and De Vesci, distributed the prizes to the pupils of the Royal Irish Academy of Music in the Ancient Concert Rooms, Dublin, last Saturday evening.

Lord Houghton presided at the annual general meeting of the members of the Newspaper Press Fund last Saturday. It was stated that grants amounting to £1200 had been made during the year, the receipts leaving a balance of £364 in the Treasurer's hands. Sir Stafford Northcote, M.P., will preside at the next annual festival, fixed to take place on June 18.

The fiftieth anniversary meeting of the Royal United Service Institution will be held to-day, under the presidency of the Right Hon. Hugh C. E. Childers, M.P., Secretary of State for War, when the gold medal will be presented to the writer of the prize essay on "Military Operations in the United Kingdom Considered, particularly as Influenced by the Inclosed Nature of the Country."

The arrivals of fresh meat and live stock at Liverpool from the United States and Canada last week were greatly below those of the preceding but quite up to the average of recent weeks; making a total of 309 cattle, 437 sheep, 7428 quarters of beef, 968 carcases of mutton, and 1043 dead pigs; against a total of 1670 cattle, 377 sheep, 11,245 quarters of beef, 1802 carcases of mutton, and 551 pigs.

A quarterly court of the governors of the Brompton Hospital for Consumption was held on Thursday week. From the report of the committee of management it appears that since the last court the contractors had continued to make good progress with the new extension building, though the work had been to some extent affected by the hard frost. Instalments amounting to £48,428 had up to this time been paid on account of the contracts. This consequent diminution, month by month, of the invested funds of the hospital, and the approaching completion of the new building, led the committee to remind the public and the governors of the urgent need that would arise ere long for largely increased contributions, in order to maintain the new extension.

THE ROYAL WEDDING AT BERLIN.

The marriage of Prince William of Prussia, Queen Victoria's grandson, to Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, niece to Prince Christian, the husband of our Queen's daughter Princess Helena, was celebrated at Berlin on Sunday last. Our Special Artist, Mr. W. Simpson, furnishes the Illustrations presented in this Number of our Journal.

On Saturday afternoon, between two and three o'clock, the Princess was conducted into the city from the Bellevue Schloss, which is situated in the principal park of Berlin. The Royal bride was seated in an old-fashioned gilt state carriage, in which Queen Louisa, Queen Elizabeth, and Crown Princess Victoria (who accompanied her daughter-in-law on this occasion) had made their entry when they were married to Prussian Princes. Besides the two Royal ladies, the carriage contained the Countess Brockdorff, the bride's Mistress of the Robes, and several pages and attendants. After the dragoons and outriders, leading the procession, came three carriages, bearing the cavaliers and ladies of the Crown Prince and Crown Princess, and Baron Lilienkron, who represented the bride's mother, the Duchess Dowager of Schleswig-Holstein. A squadron of the Royal Body Guard ushered in the vehicle. On the right-hand side of the carriage, but a little behind, rode Count Pückler, Chief Equerry of the Court, the left side being taken by the Commander of the Royal Body Guard. Three more carriages with Ladies in Waiting, with Equerries and a squadron of Uhlans, in mediæval uniform, brought up the rear.

Except a pyramid of firs on a pedestal displaying a pictorial representation from Schleswig-Holstein life, the road through the Park was not decorated up to where it joins the Charlottenburg highway. At this point a triumphal arch of oak and fir, imitating a military guard-house at the beginning of the Fifteenth Century, was passed by the procession. The band struck up, the soldiers in mediæval armour cheered, and the multitude were loud in their applause. Fifty postillions and a hundred members of the Guild of Butchers, in black dress coats, were here permitted to take the head of the train.

A few minutes later, the open space in front of the Brandenburg Gate was reached. Between a semicircular array of flagstaffs ornamented with the standards and escutcheons of the various Prussian Provinces, the military Commanders and Governors of the town, with the Chief of the Police, received the bride. After an exchange of silent salutes, the cavalcade entered the city through the Brandenburg Gate. Twenty-four rounds of artillery and the shouts of the people on the tribunes in the square marked the moment.

WEDDING MEDAL FOR THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN.

As the Princess stopped to listen to the welcome of the chief Burgomaster and civic authorities, the scene was very impressive. The large square, filled with scarlet tribunes rising to a considerable height, resounded with loud acclamations. An immense painting, adorning the front of the tribunes, and portraying a bridal procession of the Middle Ages, addressed itself to the personal feelings of the Royal beholder, while the four political virtues, Wisdom, Justice, Strength, and Moderation, represented by colossal female figures, looked down from the canvas above, and the Imperial standard of Germany was displayed over all.

The procession drove down the central avenue of the Linden, and through a forest of flagstaffs alternated by triumphal arches, and reached the old square extending from the palace to the old historical Schloss of the Dynasty. Past the monuments of Frederick the Great, Blücher, Gneisenau, and York, past the University and Guard House, the two opposite symbols of Prussia's greatness, the Princess continued her journey between 40,000 representatives of the Metropolitan Guilds, carrying the emblems of their various crafts.

The stately cortége was awaited and greeted from the balcony of the Schloss by the Emperor and his family. As the carriage stopped in the inner courtyard, the Crown Prince and his son hastened to help the ladies to alight, and to conduct them to the state apartments, filled with all the native and foreign Princes assembled for their reception. In the adjoining rooms the leading dignitaries and diplomatists, with their ladies, were likewise present. Prince Bismarck did not attend; at the last moment he had begged to be excused.

The Crown Princess and Princess Augusta Victoria, attended by the Crown Prince and Prince William, and followed by their ladies and cavaliers, having passed through these rooms and received the homage of those assembled there, were admitted to the Emperor and Empress. Both saluted their new grandchild in the most affectionate manner. At five o'clock the Royal Family assembled again for a family dinner in the Garde du Corps Hall of the Schloss. There was an illumination in the main streets and squares of the city.

The marriage ceremonies were performed on Sunday evening; first the civil contract, afterwards the religious service, which was at seven o'clock. The former was executed in comparative privacy. The Emperor, the Crown Prince, the bridal couple, the Duchess Adelaide of Schleswig-Holstein, Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, Baron Lilienkron, and Baron Schleinitz, respectively the representatives of the Prussian and Schleswig-Holstein families, together with some lawyers, councillors, and scribes, repaired to the Kurfürsten Hall to sign the marriage contract. Shortly after this, a bevy of Court Chamberlains in gold-braided uniform, headed by Heralds and Silver Sticks, marched from the Electors' Chamber in the Schloss to the Royal Chapel. The cavaliers of the bride followed; and then the bride was led to the communion-table by the bridegroom, conformably to the custom of the land. She was dressed in white damask, with a veil covering her from head to foot. Over the myrtle in her hair she wore the crown under which Prussian Princesses have been married on former occasions. Prince Frederick William, in the uniform of a Captain in the 1st Foot Guards, grave and unassuming, walked with her to the communion-table. Behind them appeared the four bridesmaids, Countess Pauline Kalckreuth, Countess Mathilde Keller, Countess Mathilde Pückler, and Countess Victoria Bernstorff, carrying the train of the bride, accompanied by Countess Brockdorff, her Mistress of the Robes. The Adjutants of Prince William attended upon his Royal Highness.

As the procession, having traversed the suite of intervening rooms, approached the Palace Chapel, the cathedral choir inside intoned a psalm. The chapel is a spacious and lofty octagon, in the Byzantine polychromatic style. It had, previous to the arrival of the Royal family, been filled with the diplomatists and chief dignitaries of the realm.

Preceded by the functionaries of his Court, the aged Emperor, wearing the uniform of a General, with the orange Ribbon of the Black Eagle across his breast, passed through the folding-doors, between the Queen of Saxony and the Duchess of

SILVER DRESSING-TABLE ARTICLES PRESENTED BY PRINCE AND PRINCESS CHRISTIAN OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN.

Schleswig-Holstein, mother of the bride. The Emperor's civil and military Staff, and the Ladies and Gentlemen of the Queen and the Duchess followed. Then came the German Empress, between the King of Saxony and the Prince of Wales; the German Crown Princess, between the Crown Prince of Sweden and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein; and the German Crown Prince, between the Grand Duchess of Baden, his sister, and Princess Christian; each Royal trio being attended by their Ladies and Gentlemen in Waiting.

The bridal couple placed themselves in front of the communion-table before their numerous relatives. The Rev. Herr Kögel, his Majesty's first chaplain in ordinary, delivered a brief address and exchanged the rings. Thirty-six salvoes of artillery announced the marriage. Embraces interrupted the decorous formalities of the Court. The Emperor and Empress were visibly delighted. They displayed the warmest feelings for their son and daughter, and for the newly married couple.

The Royal procession returned to the White Hall. The Emperor and Empress, the King and Queen of Saxony, and the newly married couple ranged themselves on the throne with the Royal guests beside them. The whole company defiled past, and bowed to the Royal family. Next ensued the dinner in a suite of adjoining rooms. In the Knights' Hall, where the Imperial family and their Royal guests sat down, the Princess, by virtue of customs handed down from the Middle Ages, waited upon the Emperor and Empress, the King and Queen of Saxony, and the Prince and Princess William of Prussia. Between the first and second courses the Emperor proposed the health of his newly married grandchildren.

Before ten o'clock the whole party once more assembled in the White Hall for the final ceremony of the evening. This was the famous Fackeltanz. The Royal persons again disposed themselves on and around the throne. Twelve Cabinet Ministers, carrying lighted torches, preceded by Gold and Silver Stick, stepped up to the bridal pair to the notes of a polonnaise. Bowing deferentially, and being bowed to, they moved on with the bridal pair behind them. Thus they walked round the hall solemnly and silently, with stately gait. On their return to the throne, the bride, approaching the Emperor, bowed to him, by way of invitation to dance. Again the procession made the circuit of the hall, this time accompanied by his Majesty. Next, the bridegroom made the tour of the hall with the Queen of Saxony, and the bride with the King of Saxony. In the remaining stages of the elaborate dance the Princess performed her circuit between two of the Princes present, the young husband following her with two of the Princesses. All the while the Silver Sticks and Cabinet Ministers had to march in front, torch in hand, while the polonaise resounded from the orchestral gallery. The dance over, the twelve Ministers were at length relieved of their torches by twelve pages, who lighted the newly married couple to their suite of rooms. One of our Artist's sketches represents the dancing of a quadrille, in fancy dresses of the eighteenth-century style, at the State Ball which was part of the festive entertainments upon this happy occasion. We shall give further Illustrations next week.

The gifts presented to the bride and bridegroom are very costly. Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, the bride's uncle and her aunt by marriage, have provided for the purpose a set of articles for the dressing-table, in silver, manufactured by the Court jeweller and silversmith, Mr. H. J. Wilm, of Jerusalemer-Strasse, Berlin, which are shown in our Illustration. The mirror, it will be observed, is surmounted by two small shields, displaying respectively the arms of the bride and bridegroom's families, with a Royal Crown above. Each separate article is decorated with the same heraldic devices; that of the Prince being simply the Prussian eagle, but that of Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, with five quarterings, has a crowned lion, or, with halbert; two lions azure, a nettle-leaf, a mounted knight, and an argent swan with golden necklet, besides other particulars. A large medal, designed to commemorate this Royal marriage, is to be struck in gold, silver, and bronze. One side of the medal shows the portraits of the Prince and Princess, surmounted by the Prussian Royal Crown. The reverse side presents a shield bearing the arms of each, surmounted by crowns, with their monograms at the side, and with an inscription giving the date, Berlin, Feb. 27, 1881. This medal was designed by Count Seckendorff, after one of the time of Queen Mary Stuart and Francis II., King of France.

A court of assistants of the Corporation of the Sons of the Clergy was held last Saturday—Earl Powis, the vice-president, in the chair. Mr. W. Paget Bowman, the registrar, having submitted several applications from clergymen in want of pecuniary help for themselves or towards the education of their children, and from the widows and aged single daughters of deceased clergymen, substantial grants were ordered to be made, amounting in the whole to £602. Prince Leopold has consented to head the list of stewards at the May festival.

The Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Haworth, erected upon the site of the old church so closely associated with the Brontë family, was consecrated on Tuesday week by Bishop Ryan, of Bournemouth, who officiated on behalf of the Bishop of Ripon. The style of the new church is the Perpendicular, and the masonry is of local sandstone. The cost will be about £7000. In the erection of the new church it was found necessary to remove a number of graves, but the remains of the Brontë family have not been disturbed. They lie near the altar. The only part of the old church which has been utilised is the tower. In the interior of the church, at the west end, are five marble tablets, one of which contains the names of deceased members of the Brontë family. The Leeds Mercury understands that the Rev. A. B. Nichols, B.A., purposes erecting a memorial in the new church in memory of his late wife, formerly Charlotte Brontë.

At the last monthly meeting of the Incorporated Society for Building and Repairing Churches and Chapels grants of money were made in aid of the following objects:—Building new churches at Battersea, All Saints', Surrey, £400; Brighton, St. Matthew, £300; Ffynon Gwyw, in the parish of Llanasa, near Holywell, Flintshire, £150; and Shepherd's-bush, St. Thomas, in the parish of St. Stephen, Hammersmith, Middlesex, £300. Rebuilding on a new site the church at Preston-on-Wye, St. Lawrence, near Hereford, £80. Enlarging or otherwise improving the accommodation in the churches at Chesham, Bois St. Leonard, near Chesham, Bucks, £40; East Harptree St. Lawrence, near Bristol, £35; Salcombe, Holy Trinity, near Kingsbridge, Devon, £20; and Weston-Beggard St. John, near Hereford, £40. Grants were also made from the special mission building funds towards providing school or mission churches at Chicks Grove, in the parish of Tisbury, near Salisbury, £20; Ellistown, in the parish of Ibstock, near Ashby-de-la-Zouch, £50; Pitlake Bridge, in the parish of St. John the Baptist, Croydon, Kent, £40; Southsea, St. Paul, Hants, £50; Southwark, St. Alphege, Surrey, £150; and the Quarries, in the parish of Boughton Monchelsea, near Maidstone, £40. The society has accepted the trust of some money as a repair fund for St. Peter's Church, Dulwich-common.

OBITUARY.

THE HON. GRANTLEY BERKELEY.

The Hon. George Charles Grantley FitzHardinge Berkeley, a well-known littérateur, died at Longfleet, Poole, on the 23rd ult. He was born Feb. 10, 1800, the son of Frederick Augustus, fifth Earl of Berkeley, and was next younger brother of the present Earl of Berkeley, who does not, however, assume the title. The Hon. Grantley Berkeley, whose decease we record, was educated at the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, served in the Coldstream Guards from 1816 to 1823, and from 1832 to 1851 sat in Parliament for West Gloucestershire. He was an ardent sportsman, and gained popularity by his contributions to periodical literature, chiefly on sporting matters, as well as his numerous works of fiction. In connection with the latter, an interesting episode was his action against Mr. Fraser, of Fraser's Magazine, and the duel, in which he was wounded, with Dr. Maginn, the critic, who had passed disparaging comments on his novel, "Berkeley Castle." Mr. Grantley Berkeley married, Aug. 16, 1824, Caroline Martha, youngest daughter of Mr. Paul Benfield, and had two sons, both of whom are deceased. By Mr. Berkeley's death, Mr. George Lennox Rawdon Berkeley, only surviving son of the late General Sir George Henry Frederick Berkeley, K.C.B., becomes heir-presumptive to the ancient title of Earl of Berkeley. He was born Feb. 25, 1827, and married, Feb. 22, 1860, Cecile, daughter of Edouard, Comte de Melfort.

SIR G. W CRAUFURD, BART.

The Rev. Sir George William Craufurd, M.A., third Baronet, of Burgh Hall, Lincolnshire, for many years Rector of Scremby, died on the 24th ult., at Pau. He was born April 10, 1797, the youngest son of Sir James Gregan Craufurd, second Baronet, by Maria-Theresa, his wife, sister of Henry, third Viscount Gage, and was educated at Eton, and at King's College, Cambridge, of which he became a Fellow in 1823. Having for some time been a Chaplain in the service of the Hon. East India Company, he was from 1838 to 1845 Vicar of Burgh, and since 1862 Rector of Scremby, Lincolnshire. Sir George married, first, in 1843, the Hon. Hester King (who died in 1848), sister of the present Earl of Lovelace, by whom he leaves an only son and successor, now Sir Charles William Frederick Craufurd, fourth Baronet, Lieutenant R.N., who was born in 1847, and married, in 1870, the Hon. Isolda Caroline Vereker, eldest daughter of Viscount Gort. The late Baronet married, secondly, in 1849, Martha, widow of Mr. William Cooke, and daughter of Mr. John Holland, of Currington House, Lincolnshire, which lady died 1865.

SIR G. W. DENYS, BART.

Sir George William Denys, second Baronet, of Easton Neston, county Northampton, J.P. and D.L., died on the 23rd ult., at his seat, Draycott Hall, near Richmond, Yorkshire. He was born Dec. 11, 1811, the eldest son of Sir George William Denys, M.P. (created a Baronet in 1813), by Elizabeth, his wife, eldest daughter of Mr. Edward George Lind of Burton, Westmoreland. He served formerly in the 68th Regiment, and succeeded his father in 1857. Sir George married, May 20, 1835, Catherine Eliza, eldest daughter of Mr. Michael Henry Perceval, and had two sons and three daughters. His elder son died in 1858, and the title devolves on the younger, now Sir Francis Charles Edward Denys, third Baronet, Secretary in the Diplomatic Service, who was born March 15, 1849.

SIR G. P. POMEROY-COLLEY.

Sir George Pomeroy Pomeroy-Colley, K.C.S.I., C.B., C.M.G., Governor and Commander-in-Chief, Natal, and High Commissioner for South-East Africa, with the rank of Major-General, fell in command of a British force in a night attack on the Boers, on the 26th ult. This gallant soldier, whose services, both military and civil, gained him the highest reputation, was born Nov. 1, 1835, the third son of Captain the Hon. George Francis Colley, R.N., by Frances, his wife, daughter of the Very Rev. Thomas Trench, Dean of Kildare, and was, consequently, grandson of John, fourth Viscount Harberton. He entered the Army in 1852, served for several years on the Cape frontier, and also throughout the China war in 1860, and in Ashantee, 1873 and 1874. From 1876 to 1879 Sir George was Private Secretary to Lord Lytton, Viceroy of India, and in the latter year acted at Natal as chief of Sir Garnet Wolseley's staff. Last May he assumed the additional prefix surname of Pomeroy. He married, March 14, 1878, Edith Althea, eldest daughter of Major-General Henry Meade Hamilton, C.B., and granddaughter of the Rev. Sir Erasmus Dixon Borrowes, Bart. A portrait of Sir G. Colley is given in this Number.

MR. FITZ-GIBBON.

Maurice Fitz-Gibbon, "Mac-an-t'sen Riddery," died at his residence, Crohana, near Stoneyford, County Kilkenny, on the 25th ult. He was born on April 16, 1818, the eldest son of Philip Fitz-Gibbon, Esq., Lieut. R.N. (d. 1826), who was the son of Gerald Fitz-Gibbon, Esq., of Castle-Grace, near Clogheen, County Tipperary, who died in 1794, and was buried at Ardfinnan, in the same county. The late Maurice Fitz-Gibbon was (like his grandfather, Gerald) the lineal descendant and representative of the Mac-an-t'sen Riddery Sept, of the Fitz-Gibbon family of the Desmond Geraldines, a branch of the White Knight Sept of the same family, whose pedigree is given by Sir George Carew (Earl of Totness) at fol. 166 b., vol. 635, Carew M.S., Lambeth Library. The Septs of "The White Knight," "The Knight of Glyn," and the "The Knight of Kerry," had a common origin, viz.—John Fitz-Thomas Fitz-Gerald, called "of Callan," near Kenmare, County Kerry, where, in 1261, he was, with his son and heir Maurice, killed in a battle against "The Mac Carthy More." John of Callan was Lord of Decies and Desmond, and was descended from Maurice Fitz-Gerald (ancestor of the Earls of Kildare and Dukes of Leinster), companion in arms of Strongbow, during his invasion of Ireland A.D. 1172, and was ancestor of the celebrated and powerful Geraldines Earls of Desmond, who became extinct A.D. 1601. Mr. Fitz-Gibbon is succeeded by his eldest son, Philip John Fitz-Gibbon, C.E., of the Indian Civil Service.

MR. CALEB POWELL.

Mr. Caleb Powell, of Clonshavoy, in the county of Limerick, J.P., formerly M.P. for that county, died on the 24th ult. at Clonshavoy. He was born in 1793, the eldest son of Mr. Eyre Burton Powell, of Clonshavoy, by Henrietta, his wife, second daughter of Mr. John Magill, of Tullycanne. Mr. Powell was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, called to the Irish Bar in 1817, and was High Sheriff for the county of Limerick in 1858. From 1841 to 1847 he sat in Parliament for that county, and he was an intimate social and political friend of Daniel O'Connell. He married, in 1838, Georgina Frances, third daughter of Mr. George Waller, of Prior Park, in the county of Tipperary, and leaves one son and four daughters.

MR. SMOLLETT.

Mr. Alexander Smollett, of Bonhill, Dumbartonshire, formerly M.P. for that county, died on the 25th ult., at Cameron House. He was born in 1801, the elder son of Rear-Admiral John Bonett Smollett, by his second wife, Elizabeth, second daughter of the Hon. Patrick Boyle (son of John, second Earl of Glasgow), and succeeded his father in 1842. He was educated at Edinburgh High School and University, called to the Bar in Scotland, 1825, and sat in Parliament from 1841 to 1859 for Dumbartonshire, of which county he was also Convener. Tobias Smollett, the author of "Peregrine Pickle," was a younger son of Archibald Smollett, great-great-grandfather of the gentleman whose death we record.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Professor James Tennant, F.G.S. He was for some time Professor at King's College, London, of Geology, on which subject he wrote several works.

The Rev. Samuel Benson, of St. Saviour's Church, Southwark, on the 22nd ult., aged eighty-two. He graduated at St. John's College, Cambridge, and had been connected with the parish of St. Saviour's since 1824. He wrote several works on religious and biographical subjects.

General James Arthur Butler, of Holt Lodge, Kintbury, Berks, on the 26th ult., aged about eighty-five, from the effects of burns, his bedclothes having caught fire. He entered the Army in 1813, and served in the Grenadier Guards at Quatre Bras and Waterloo. He attained the rank of General in 1871.

Major-General Roderick Bannatyne MacLeod, formerly Colonel 21st Hussars, on the 24th ult., at Golden Manor Court, Hanwell, Middlesex. He served throughout the Gwalior and Sutlej campaigns, including the Battles of Maharajpore, Moodkee, Ferozeshah, and Sobraon.

Colonel George Latham Thomson, formerly of the 4th Regiment. He was engaged in the Cape Mounted Rifles from 1835 to 1838, and in 1853 served in the Kaffir War. With the 4th Regiment he was in the Crimea, being present at Alma, Inkerman, Balaclava, and Sebastopol. He had the medal and three clasps, the Turkish medal, and the Orders of the Medjidie and the Legion of Honour.

Commander Edwin Toby Caulfeild, R.N., of Raheenduffe, Queen's County, on the 24th ult., at Beckford House, Bath, in his eighty-ninth year. He was eldest son of Captain Wade Toby Caulfeild, 3rd Dragoon Guards, by Anne, his wife, daughter of Mr. Jonathan Cope, of Orton Longueville, county Huntingdon, and was descended from the first Viscount Charlemont. He entered the Navy in 1806, and saw active service in the expedition to the Scheldt, and in the Walcheren expedition, taking part in numerous engagements. Commander Caulfeild married, first, 1818, Sarah, daughter of Mr. Eyles Irwin; and secondly, 1846, Alicia Almeria, youngest daughter of General Sir David L. T. Widdrington, K.C.H., and widow of Captain Henry Pooley, R.E., and leaves issue.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Adams, Arthur, Curate of Camborne; to be Vicar of St. Colan, Cornwall.
Arnott, Arthur F.; British Chaplain at Havre.
Barnes, H. B.; Vicar of Great Ilford.
Barnett, Bartilai; Vicar of Preston Patrick, Westmorland.
Barry, Dr., Canon of Worcester; Canon of Westminster.
Bashford, Robert, Home Missionary; Rector of Wickhampton, Norfolk.
Braithwaite, Philip Richard Pipon; Vicar of St. Luke's, Jersey.
Clark, James George; Rector of Conington, Cambridgeshire.
Cleave, William Oke; Rector of Gravesley.
Crotty, E., late of Madagascar; Curate of Bleasby with Morton and Halloughton, Notts.
Day, Russell, Vicar of Lychett Minster; Rector of Horstead, Norfolk.
Dodd, Edward Sutton, Vicar of Elmore; Vicar of Milton Ernest.
Evans, Arthur Robertson, Domestic Chaplain to the Bishop of Ely; Honorary Canon in Ely Cathedral.
Garratt, Samuel, Vicar of St. Margaret's, Ipswich; Honorary Canon in Norwich Cathedral.
Hamilton-Gell, Fielding Arthur Wolfe, Vicar of Staunton-in-Peak; Rector of Dry Drayton.
Hart, Henry, Curate; Rector of Langford with Ickburgh, Norfolk.
Hitchcock, H. W., Curate-in-Charge of St. George's, Truro; Vicar of St. John's, Torquay.
Hodge, John Francis Dalton, Vicar of Christ Church, Pendlebury; Vicar of All Saints', Hamer.
Hodgson, John, Vicar of Kinver; Rural Dean of Trysull.
Hughes, H. E. M.; Incumbent of St. Columba's Church, Nairn, N.B.
Kinnin, William Frederick, Curate of St. Mary's, Kirkdale; Perpetual Curate of St. Alban, Kirkdale.
McGonigle, William Alexander, Curate of Monkwearmouth; Incumbent of the District Chapelry of St. Cuthbert, Monkwearmouth.
Parry, William, Rector of Johnstone; Rector of Fitz.
Pywell, William Albert, Curate of Iden; Rector of Wixoe.
Ruxton, A. F. D., Curate; Vicar of Wall.
Selwyn, Sydney Augustus, Curate of North Walsham; Rector of St. Michael Coslany, Norwich.
Shield, W.; Vicar of Wittingham.
Smith, E. B., Rector of Llandrinio; Vicar of Gresford.
Sunderland, J., Curate; Vicar of Eggington.
Thompson, G. C., Curate of Harby; Rector of Offord Cluny.
Wilder, J. T., Rector of Carlton; Rector of Great Bradley.
Winter, S. W., Vicar of St. Barnabas', Birmingham; Perpetual Curate of Roade.
Wood, W. S., Curate of Chippenham; Rector of Ufford-cum-Bainton.
Woodruff, T., Rector of Wistow; Canon in Ely Cathedral.—Guardian.

The Queen has approved the appointment of the Rev. Dr. Barry, Canon of Worcester, to the canonry of Westminster, vacant by the death of Lord John Thynne.

The Queen has approved the appointment of the Rev. G. G. Bradley, Master of University College, Oxford, to a canonry in Worcester Cathedral.

The Duke of Westminster has arranged to rebuild Pulford church, near Chester, at his own expense. When complete, the church will cost several thousand pounds.

The parish church at Northaw, Herts, was destroyed by fire on Sunday week; and that of Newnham, Gloucestershire, last Sunday.

Last week the Archbishop of Canterbury consecrated a new parish church, by the name of St. Katharine, for Halstead, near Sevenoaks. His Grace gave a short address from the chancel steps instead of preaching a sermon.

Through the generosity of Mrs. Staveley Hill, the whole of the west windows of St. Stephen's, Gloucester-road, have been filled with Munich stained glass, from the studios of Messrs. Mayer and Co., in memory of her mother, Mrs. Baird.

We are informed by the authorities of the Oxford and Cambridge University presses that the publication of the revised version of the New Testament will take place about the middle of May.

The Primate, speaking at the meeting of the Clergy Orphan Corporation on Thursday week, cited instances of clergymen having applied to charitable societies for relief, owing to the depression in agriculture having deprived them of their main source of support.

The Lord Mayor, accompanied by the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex and the Under-Sheriffs, attended in state on Thursday week to witness the reopening of the ancient Church of St. Stephen the Martyr, in Walbrook, which had been closed for some months to allow of extensive alterations and repairs in the interior of the building.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN: THE WEDDI

G CEREMONY IN THE CHAPEL OF THE SCHLOSS.

THE VICTOR HUGO FÊTE.

The fête which the Parisians celebrated last Sunday finds a parallel, to a certain extent, in the triumph of Voltaire on March 30, 1778, on that day when Marie-Antoinette, disguised and hidden amongst the crowd, craned her head curiously to see the author of "Candide," and, herself a Queen, to salute le roi Voltaire. But the ovations of the crowd, the veneration of the Academy, the crowning of Voltaire at the Théâtre de la Nation, all the pomp and enthusiasm of which Grimm has left a moving description in his correspondence, could not be compared with the homage offered last Sunday by the French to their greatest living poet. The triumph of Victor Hugo was the triumph of Voltaire centupled by the press, by the telegraph, by all the forces of the nineteenth century.

The idea of this fête was at the beginning received with but small favour, especially by Hugo's friends; in the conception of its primary organisers, there was not a little cabotinisme. But when once the idea of the fête was started, Victor Hugo's admirers comprehended that the triumph must be a glorious one, and while regretting that the manifestation had ever been thought of, they determined to see that it was made as grand as possible. The organising committee very wisely kept itself in the background, and, while suggesting certain points, it left the initiative largely to the spontaneity of the Parisians and of the nation at large, and both the Parisians and the nation did not disappoint the hopes that were founded on their enthusiasm and admiration.

The programme as it was actually carried out on Sunday consisted of three main features—a manifestation in the street; a literary manifestation in the vast hall of the Trocadéro; a manifestation at the theatres in the evening.

At the poet's house the fête really began on Saturday evening, when wreaths, bouquets, and congratulatory messages began to arrive. Early on Sunday morning the Prefect of the Seine came to wish the poet long years of life and glory in the name of the City of Paris. Then followed a deputation of little girls led by a maiden of eight, who recited a compliment in verse:—

> Nous sommes les petits enfants
> Qui viennent, gais, vifs, heureux d'être,
> Fêter de rires triomphants
> L'Ancêtre.

At noon the procession started. The rendezvous had been fixed at the Arc de Triomphe end in the Champs-Elysées. As early as ten o'clock deputations began to arrive and take up their stations, while the general public gathered along the Avenue d'Eylau from the Place de l'Etoile down to No. 130, where the poet's modest villa is situated. The Municipality had caused the whole avenue to be strewn with yellow sand. At the entrance stood two trophies adorned with flags and foliage, and escutcheons bearing the titles of the poet's works. The trophies were united by a broad band of rose-coloured drapery, on which was inscribed in gold letters: "Victor Hugo, Né le 27 Février, 1802.—1881." In front of the villa of Victor Hugo the Municipality had placed pyramids of flowers, palm-trees, and plants; while in front of the door was a gilded bust of the Republic with the Phrygian cap, and a gigantic gilded laurel-tree, on the leaves of which were inscribed the names of the poet's works. This laurel-tree was presented by the committee in the name of the Parisians. This floral barricade was protected from the crowd only by a broad tricolour ribbon stretched from end to end. Here let it be stated that there were no policemen visible, and that no disorder or accident occurred during the whole day. The crowd was directed, so far as it was directed, by commissaires chosen amongst the youngest members of the Parisian press, who were distinguished by an artificial bouquet of rose-buds and cornflowers, attached by blue and rose favours, with the inscription from Fantine's song in Les Misérables: "Les bluets sont bleus et les roses sont roses."

At noon 104 choral and orpheonic societies, assembled with flying banners around the Arc de Triomphe, executed Victor Hugo's Patria and the Marseillaise. There were 5000 performers. Meanwhile, the procession had started, headed by the Municipal Council, who deposited a wreath of flowers, and were thanked by Victor Hugo in a little speech. It would be difficult indeed to describe this procession, or to say how many people passed before Victor Hugo's house and saluted the poet on his entering his eightieth year. The march past continued from twelve o'clock until six. It is true that the enthusiasm of the crowd retarded the progress of the cortége; still, for six hours there was a continual défilé down the Avenue. The number of persons who took part in the manifestation has been variously estimated at from three to five hundred thousand. And what a manifestation it was! What a crowd! The procession lost nothing for not being strictly organised; on the contrary, the spontaneity of the homage was shown all the clearer on that account. Senators and workmen, old men and maidens, poets and counter-jumpers, artists and merchants, soldiers and invalides, men, women, and children of all ages and of all classes, walked side by side in serried ranks, ten abreast, grave and dignified, to express their admiration of the poet. Group followed group, band followed band, the students, the schoolboys, the literary societies, the poets, the printers, the Freemasons, the syndical chambers, the working men's mutual aid societies, and the gymnastic societies. The banners waved gaily in spite of the dull and chilly day. The bands played the Marseillaise, and many an eye was moist as it looked upon the venerable poet, with his two grandchildren at his side, as he stood there at the open window, waving his hand and smiling through tears of emotion at the moving tide of unknown friends who cried as they laid wreaths and bouquets at his door: "Vive Victor Hugo! Vive notre grand poète!"

Need I go into further detail? Need I attempt to describe the profound enthusiasm of the crowd? The emotion of Victor Hugo, who remained for six hours standing at his open window? No; words would never give an idea of the reality, for rarely has the prestige of glory impressed men's minds in so direct and profound a manner as it did at the Victor Hugo fête last Sunday. The homage was truly that of Paris, of France—nay, of all the Latin nations, not so much to the patriot as to the great poet and the great man.

The literary and dramatic matinée at the Trocadéro, presided over by M. Louis Blanc, was worthy of the occasion. Some of the first dramatic and lyric artists exerted their talent to do honour to the Master. At night, in all the theatres and concerts, great and small, the event was celebrated in verse and song. In short, Feb. 27, 1881, was a glorious day for Paris and for France. It was a day that will be marked in history. T. C.

---

The polling in East Cumberland last Saturday resulted in the return of Mr. Howard, Liberal, by a majority of thirty over the number polled by Mr. Lowther, Conservative.

Between the Dalston and Mildmay Park Stations on the North London Railway on Saturday morning, a Kensington train ran into a Watford train, which was standing on the line owing to the signals being against it. About thirty persons were injured, some severely.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

J A S (Stockton).—The solution of the problem is, 1. R to R 4th (ch), P takes R; 2. B to K 3rd. P to R 6th; 3. P to Kt 4th (ch), K to R 5th; 4. B to B 2nd, Mate.

W McA (Chichester).—You shall not be disappointed. It is good.

J H S (Liverpool).—We cannot spare space for such a trivial affair.

E L G (Blackwater).—A second solution explains the superfluous Pawn.

Va. U.S.—Solutions acknowledged below. Your letters are always interesting.

W M W (Wesley College).—There being no other pieces on the board, King and Queen win against King and Rook. You will find examples in every handbook.

R B (Forest hill).—(1) Solutions are acknowledged if received within three weeks of the publication of the problem; (2) see answer to "J J R" in our last issue.

W F R (Swansea).—You can obtain the monthly through any bookseller, who will undertake to order it from Breitano's, New York.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1924 received from W Pocock, of Cape Town; of No. 1925, from W R H, of Toronto; of Nos. 1926 and 1927 (also the Hermit's), from Va. U.S.; of J F Taylor's Problem, from A C (Staines) and John Perkins.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF MR. CARPENTER'S PROBLEM received from R H Brooks, J J Heaton, W Hillier, Jupiter Junior, H H Noyes, R Ingersoll, C Darragh, G W Law, I. Sharwood, E Sharwood, N S Harris, Kitten, Otto Fulder (Ghent), B L Dyke, R Jessop, Elsie, Ben Nevis, C S Cole, S Lowndes, F Ferris, and J G Anstee.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1929 received from Stuart Berkeley, John Tucker, "Law and Medicine," Thomas Letchford, G A (Bonchurch), Thomas Gibson, De Schaakvereeniging Almelo, John Perkins, S G C (Humberstone), and J Alois Schmucke.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1930 received from G A (Bonchurch), J W W, H R (Brussels), M H Moorhouse, J Bumstead, W T B, John Tucker, Sudbury (Suffolk), and D A (Dublin).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1931 received from H S, J H Symington, W Wodehouse, John Berry, W J Eggleston, Penzance Drawing-room Players, Smutch, Norman Rumbelow, R H Brooks, Capt. C C M (Dundee), James Dobson, Luis, Shadforth, East Marden, M H Moorhouse, W Hillier, H F (Spartan Chess Club), Senaj, Jupiter Junior, Portobello, H H Noyes, R Ingersoll, Silmouth, J Perez Venlosc, Z Ingold, J W W, C Darragh, C Z Macaulay, R Faber, I. Sharwood, E Sharwood, E Louden, Frank Littleboy, G A (Bonchurch), Frederick Carrol, N S Harris, Thomas Chaloner, Theodor Willink, B L Dyke, W P R (Swansea), Sudbury (Suffolk), D A (Dublin), C Edmundson, John Perkins, E L G, S G C (Humberstone), H Stebbing, J H Selkirk, Otto Fulder, E Elsner, B L Dyke, M O'Halloran, R T Kemp, Ben Nevis, R Gray, An Old Hand, and J J Heaton.

---

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1930.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. Q to Kt 6th | B takes Q* |
| 2. B to B 6th (ch) | R to Q 4th |
| 3. R takes R. Mate. | |

*If Black play 1. R to Q 4th, or 1. R takes Kt, or 1. Kt takes R, or 1. R to Kt 5th, White continues as above, mating on the third move with Kt, R, or Q, according to the defence adopted. If Black play 1. K takes Kt, then follow 2. Q to Kt 2nd (ch), and 3. P to K B 3rd, discovering checkmate; if 1. R takes P, then 2. R to R 6th (ch); and if 1. B to K 3rd, then 2. R takes R (ch), and 3. B or Q mates.

SOLUTION OF MR. CARPENTER'S PROBLEM.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. B to K 4th | K takes B* |
| 2. Q to R 5th | K moves |
| 3. Q to K 2nd. Mate. | |

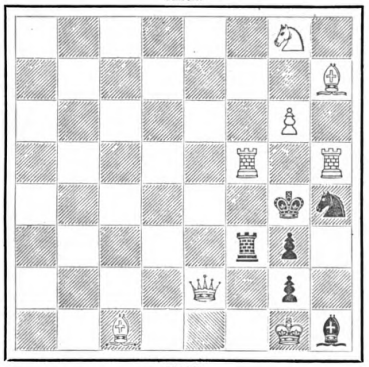
*If Black play 1. K takes P, White continues with 2. Kt to K B 4th; if 1. K to Q 3rd, then 2. Kt to Q 4th; and if 1. P moves, then 2. Kt from R 4th to B 5th, mating in each case on the third move.

SOLUTION OF MR. TAYLOR'S PROBLEM.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. K takes P | Any move |
| 2. Mates accordingly. | |

PROBLEM No. 1933.
By D. ALLINGHAM (Dublin).

BLACK.



WHITE.

White to play, and mate in two moves.

Played by correspondence between MESSRS. ARTHUR SMITH and F. FESSER.
(Giuoco Piano.)

| WHITE (Mr. S.) | BLACK (Mr. F.) |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th. | P to K 4th. |
| 2. Kt to K B 3rd | Kt to Q B 3rd |
| 3. B to B 4th | B to B 4th |
| 4. P to B 3rd | Kt to K B 3rd |
| 5. P to Q 4th | P takes P |
| 6. P takes P | B to Kt 5th (ch) |
| 7. B to Q 2nd | B takes B |
| 8. Q Kt takes B | Kt takes K P |
| 9. Kt takes Kt | P to Q 4th |
| 10. B to Q Kt 5th | |
| 11. B takes Kt (ch) | P takes Kt |

10. B takes P or 10. B to Q 3rd are, either of them, better than this.

Again White plays weakly. 11. Kt to K 5th is the correct move.

| | |
|---|---|
| 11. | P takes B |
| 12. Kt to K 5th | Castles |
| 13. Castles | Q to Q 4th |
| 14. Q to B 2nd | B to Kt 2nd |
| 15. Q to B 3rd | P to K B 3rd |
| 16. Kt to Kt 4th | Q R to Q sq |
| 17. Kt to K 3rd | Q to B 2nd |

Of course he cannot take the Pawn because of the reply, 18. Q to Kt 3rd (ch), winning the Bishop.

| | |
|---|---|
| 18. P to Q R 4th | |

We cannot discern the purport of this move.

| | |
|---|---|
| 18. | B to Q R 3rd |
| 19. K R to Q B sq | |

It would have been better to have played this R to K sq. The move made because the Q B throughout the game, and the attack on the Q B P is easily repelled.

| | |
|---|---|
| 19. | R to Q 3rd |
| 20. Q to R 5th | B to Q 6th |
| 21. Q takes R P | P to K B 4th |

| WHITE (Mr. S.) | BLACK (Mr. F.) |
|---|---|
| 22. Q to B 5th | R to K Kt 3rd |
| 23. P to K R 3rd | P to K R 4th |
| 24. Kt to B 4th. | R tks Kt P (ch) |

The soundness of this sacrifice is, in our judgment, doubtful; although Mr. Fesser still thinks that it is so. We are, however, grateful for it as an indication of enterprise usually found wanting in games played by correspondence.

| | |
|---|---|
| 25. K takes R | P to K B 5th |
| 26. P to K R 4th | P to K 6th |
| 27. P to K B 3rd | B to K 5th |

Very ingenious. If White now take the Bishop he must soon succumb to the advanced Pawns supported by the Queen and Rook.

| | |
|---|---|
| 28. Kt to K 5th | Q to K 3rd |
| 29. R to K R sq | R to B 4th |
| 30. Q to B 4th | |

Again, if 30. P takes B, then 30. R takes Kt; 31. Q takes R; 31. Q to Kt 4th (ch), &c.

| | |
|---|---|
| 30. | B to Q 4th |
| 31. Q to K 2nd | R takes Kt |

All this is very finely played by Black.

| | |
|---|---|
| 32. P takes R | Q to Kt 5th (ch) |
| 33. K to B sq | B takes P |
| 34. Q to R 2nd | B takes R |
| 35. Q takes B | P to B 6th |
| 36. R to B sq | Q to Kt 4th |
| 37. R to B 2nd | P to K 7th (ch) |
| 38. R takes P | P takes R (ch) |
| 39. K takes P | Q takes K P (ch) |
| 40. K to Q 3rd | Q to B 5th |

His best course was to continue checking.

| | |
|---|---|
| 41. Q takes P | Q takes K R P |
| 42. Q to K 8th (ch) | K to R 2nd |
| 43. Q to K 4th (ch), | and wins. |

In a match played on Saturday last between the Kentish Town and the North London Chess Club the former won by 7½ to 2½; and on the same day a match at chess and draughts was played between the Isleworth Reading-Room Club and the Kingston Institute. Isleworth won the chess match with a score of 5½ to 4½, and the match at draughts was won by Kingston with a score of 6 to 5.

The Hermit of Pyrnau's problems have proved so attractive to our readers that we have pleasure in publishing the following composition. It shows the Hermit in his lightest mood, and has been forwarded to us by Mr. Lewy, of Berlin:—

White: K at K square; Q at K 6th; R's at Q R 5th and Q Kt 7th; B's at K B 5th and K Kt 7th; Kt at Q 2nd and Pawn at K B 2nd. (Eight pieces.)

Black: K at Q Kt 7th; R's at K square and K Kt 8th; B's at Q Kt 6th and Q B 8th; Kt at K B 8th; Pawns at Q B 6th and Q 4th. (Eight pieces.)

White to retract his last move and force self mate in one move.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Dec. 3, 1875) with a codicil (dated Dec. 12, 1878) of the Right Hon. John Benn, Baron Ormathwaite, late of Ormathwaite, Cumberland, and of Warfield Park, near Bracknell, Berks, who died on the 3rd ult., was proved on the 22nd ult. by Arthur, Lord Ormathwaite, the son, and Horace Dormer Trelawny, the surviving executors, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. The testator leaves £100 each to his daughters, Mrs. Maria Katherine Trelawny and Mrs. Augusta Rosa Barnett, they having been adequately provided for on their respective marriages; to his nephew, John Almerus Digby, £100; to Mrs. Fanny Matilda Walsh, the widow of his late son, the Rev. Digby Walsh, an annuity of £300 until her second marriage; upon trust for his grandson, Arthur George Digby Walsh, the son of his said late son, £1000 and an annuity of £300; to his granddaughter, Margaret Blanche, the daughter of his eldest son, an annuity of £200; to his servant, Sarah Stevens, an annuity of £100; to his valet, Charles Gibbs, £500 and an annuity of £50; and the Warfield Park estate, certain parts of his property in Radnorshire, and the residue of the personalty, to his eldest son, the present peer. All his manors, messuages, lands, and hereditaments (other than the real estate already devised) in Great Britain and Ireland the testator devises to the use of his eldest son, Arthur, for life, with remainder to Arthur Henry John (the son of his said son), for life, with remainder to his sons severally and successively, according to their respective seniorities in tail male.

The will (dated March 28, 1879) of Mrs. Julia Ripley, of Springfield Hall, Lancaster, who died on Feb. 2, was proved in the Lancaster district registry on Feb. 25 by George William Maxsted, George Scholfield, William George Killick, and John Tyrer Preston, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £250,000. The testatrix, after gifts to servants and friends and executors, bequeaths the whole residue of her personal estate to the trustees of the "Ripley Hospital," in Lancaster, established by her in memory of her late husband, Thomas Ripley, of Liverpool, merchant, as an endowment for that institution. The charity is for the maintenance and education in the principles of the Church of England of poor orphan children resident in Lancaster and Liverpool. Mrs. Ripley in her lifetime built the Hospital and endowed it with land at a cost of upwards of £70,000.

The will (dated Nov. 18, 1880) of Mr. James Finlay, formerly of Orgreave Hall, near Lichfield, but late of Theydon Grove, near Epping, who died on Jan. 21 last, was proved on the 22nd ult. by Nicholas Duckworth, Mrs. Caroline Finlay, the widow, and Alexander Finlay, the son, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £200,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife £1000 and his horses, carriages, wines, and consumable stores, and for life £4000 per annum and his furniture, pictures, plate, and effects; at her death such effects (except the lion's head plate, which is given to his other children) are to go to his son or the person who succeeds to the settled estates; and to Nicholas Duckworth and John Stamp Burrell, £100 each. His mansion house, Theydon Grove, and all his real estate in Theydon Garnon and Epping he devises to the use of his wife for life, with remainder to the use of said son Alexander for life, with remainder to his first and every other son, successively, in tail male. The residue of his real and personal estate is to be divided between all his children, but each of his sons are take double the share of each of his daughters.

The will (dated Sept. 24, 1879) with a codicil (dated June 16, 1880) of Mr. Gilbert James Blane, late of Foliejon Park, Windsor, and of Princes-gardens, Kensington, who died on the 7th ult., was proved on the 19th inst. by Mrs. Harriet Ann Stewart Blane, the widow, and Gilbert Gordon Blane and Charles Forbes Blane, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator leaves to his brother, Thomas Law Blane, the farming stock, crops, furniture, and effects (except plate) at Foliejon Park; to his wife £1000 and his jewellery, linen, horses and carriages; she is to have the use of his plate for life, and it is then to go to his said two sons; she is also to have the use of his residence in Princes-gardens, with the furniture and effects, for life, and it is then given to his son Gilbert Gordon; to his daughters, Harriet Anne and Edith Honoria, £5000 each, and to his said two sons £10,000, the latter payable at his wife's death. Upwards of £50,000 of various stock are placed upon trust to pay the income to his wife for life; and the provision made for his wife is declared to be in addition to that made for her by their marriage settlement, which he confirms. The residue of his property he leaves to all his children.

The will (dated Nov. 2, 1880) of Mr. John Lucas Allen, late of Buckhurst Hill, Essex, who died Nov. 23 last, at Brighton, has been proved by Miss Mary Jane Runder, George Brinsley, and John Ryle, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £80,000. The testator bequeaths to his adopted niece, Miss Runder, his household furniture and effects; to his executors, Mr. Brinsley and Mr. Ryle, Mrs. Jane Fraser, and Frederick Thomas Veley, £100 each; and to each of his servants at Buckhurst Hill who have been two years in his service, £50 and mourning. The residue of his real and personal estate he leaves upon trust for Miss Runder, for life; then a legacy of £1000 is to be paid to his god-daughter, Gertrude Elizabeth Veley, and the ultimate residue is to be divided between Mrs. Jane Fraser and the three children of his late brother William.

The will (dated March 26, 1868) with two codicils (dated Feb. 27, 1877, and April 2, 1880) of Mr. John Chalfont Blackden, late of Aspley Guise, Woburn, Beds, who died on Nov. 5 last, was proved on the 14th ult. by Frederick Chalfont Blackden, Marcus Seton Blackden, and Walter Henry Blackden, the sons, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £50,000. The testator makes provision for his three daughters, Miss Ada Blackden, Mrs. Mary Isabella Dalton, and Mrs. Fanny Browne, and gives some special legacies to his sons. The residue of his property is to go to his three sons in equal shares.

The will (dated Sept. 15, 1880) of Charles Edward Stuart, Count d'Albanie, late of No. 52, Alderney-street, Eccleston-square, who died on Dec. 24 last, at sea, on board the steamship Rainbow, was proved on the 16th ult. by Lord Lovat, as the attorney of the Countess Sobieska de Platt, the daughter and residuary legatee, the personal estate being sworn under a nominal sum. The testator bequeaths to the Marquis of Bute, the Highland Claidh-mor (Andrea Ferrara) worn by his (testator's) grandfather, Prince Charles Edward Stuart, at the battles of Falkirk, Preston-Pans, and Culloden, a pair of steel pistols, inlaid with silver, and the dirk worn by his said grandfather at the ball given at Holyrood, on the eve of the battle of Preston-Pans, and which he opened with the Countess of Wemyss; and to Lord Lovat, the large two-handled sword made by Cosmo Ferrara, firstly belonging to the Italian General, Patrici Colonna, and afterwards to his said grandfather, and two pistols formerly belonging to Rob Roy, 1715.

WHO ARE

THE REALLY GREAT and SUCCESSFUL

MEN in this WORLD?

HUXLEY wisely says:—"Those who take honours in nature's university, who learn the laws which govern men and things and obey them, are the really great and successful men in this world. . . . Those who won't learn at all are plucked; and then you can't come up again. Nature's pluck means extermination. That simple meaning is, when ailing, pay no attention to the regulation of your diet, exercise, or occupation; attempt no confirmity to the laws of life; or when you have drawn an over-draft on the bank of life, &c., avoid the use of ENO'S FRUIT SALT and you will be surprised to learn of the body what

A FRAIL and FICKLE TENEMENT it is,

WHICH, LIKE the BRITTLE GLASS

THAT MEASURES TIME,

IS OFTEN BROKE, ere half

ITS SANDS are RUN.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.—Errors of eating or drinking; or how to enjoy or cause good food to agree that would otherwise disorder the digestive organs, and cause biliousness, sick headache, skin eruptions, impure blood, pimples on the face, giddiness, fever, feverishness, mental depression, want of appetite, sourness of stomach, constipation, vomiting, thirst, and other disastrous diseases.

USE ENO'S FRUIT SALT.—Or as a health-giving, refreshing, cooling, invigorating beverage, or as a gentle laxative and tonic in the various forms of indigestion, use ENO'S FRUIT SALT.

ALSO GOUTY or RHEUMATIC POISONS from the blood, the neglect of which often results in apoplexy, heart disease, and sudden death.

USE ENO'S FRUIT SALT, prepared from sound, ripe fruit.—What every travelling trunk and household in the world ought to contain—a bottle of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. Without such a simple precaution, the jeopardy of life is immensely increased. "All our customers for ENO'S salt would not be without it upon any consideration, they have received so much benefit from it."—Wood Brothers, Chemists, Jersey.

TO EMIGRANTS, or Anyone Leaving Home for a Change.—ENO'S FRUIT SALT is one of the greatest value to emigrants, not only in preventing sea-sickness, &c., but as a means of keeping the blood healthy under the ever-varying conditions to which he may be exposed.

TO EUROPEANS who propose VISITING HOT CLIMATES, ENO'S FRUIT SALT is absolutely necessary to the preservation of health.

IMPORTANT TO ALL.
"Sir,—Having travelled a great deal in my life, and having suffered a great deal from 'Poisoned Blood' and Want of Appetite, I was induced by a friend to use your world-famed FRUIT SALT. I was immediately relieved, and am once more hale and hearty. I shall never be without a bottle again on my travels. I am too pleased to repay you in some way for your wonderful invention by giving you full use of my testimony to the above. Sir, I am yours gratefully,
"Clifton Down Hotel, Gloucestershire,
"Near Bristol." February, 1881.

SUCCESS IN LIFE.—"A new invention is brought before the public and commands success. A score of silent noble imitations are immediately introduced by the unscrupulous, who, in copying the original closely enough to deceive the public, and yet not so exactly to infringe upon legal rights, exercise an ingenuity that, employed in an honourable channel, could not fail to secure reputation and profit."—Adams.

CAUTION.—Examine each bottle and see the capsule is marked ENO'S FRUIT SALT. Without it, you have been imposed on by worthless imitations. Sold by all Chemists. Price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

PREPARED ONLY at ENO'S FRUIT SALT WORKS, Hatcham, London, S.E., by J. C. Eno's Patent.

FLORIMEL OF PALM.
A white and delicate hand is the first attribute of beauty and civilisation. "The hand," says Sir Charles Bell in the 'Bridgewater Treatise,' "distinguishes man from the brute; he is capable of it, for in polite society it is an index not only of the body but of the mind."
The Florimel of Palm being rubbed over the skin is to be removed with a little water, then dried with a soft towel. Once using will convince the most sceptical that, if daily applied, much cannot be said in favour of Florimel of Palm for rendering the skin or hands white, delicate, soft, and fair.
Sold in Jars, 3s. 6d. each.
PIESSE and LUBIN, 2, New Bond-street, London.
May be obtained of any Chemist or Perfumer in the world.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghiles at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic benzoine or pastille used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen those breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being tropipicante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO is the purest and most fragrant dentifrice ever made. All dentists will allow that neither washes nor pastils can possibly be a efficacious for polishing the teeth and keeping them sound and white as a pure and non-gritty tooth powder; such Rowlands' Odonto has always proved itself to be.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL has been known for the last eighty years as the best and safest preserver and beautifier of the hair. It contains no lead or mineral ingredients, and is especially adapted for the hair of children. Sold in usual four sizes. Ask any Chemist, Perfumer, or Hairdresser for Rowlands' Articles.

A MASS OF CURLS.—COX'S CURLING FLUID (protected by Proprietor's Signature) ensures Curly and Wavy Hair, also assists the Growth. Warranted harmless and certain. Will not stain or injure the finest hair. Beautifully scented. Has been in use by ladies of title for centuries. No curling tongs required. Regularly used three or three times a week will always keep the Hair Curly. Price 2s. 6d. per Bottle, carriage paid, free from observation; or order of your local Chemist, or send direct to the Sole Agent for Great Britain, J. L. N. MARSHALL, Commission Agent, 35, St. Mary's-square, London, S.E.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR.
If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, causing it to leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair, on bald spots where the glandsare not dead. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 7s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath.
Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living animalculæ, leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s 9d. per Bottle.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

SOLD in TINS and TIN-LINED PACKETS
STEAM MILLS, BRICK-LANE, LONDON.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 16,000,000lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot, Sugar, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis. In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

FRY'S Gold Medal, Paris. First Award, Sydney.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

COCOA. PURE COCOA ONLY.
FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
"Strictly pure."—W. W. STODDART, F.I.C., F.C.S., City Analyst, Bristol.
Thirteen Exhibition Medals.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 9s. 6d.; Households, for Bread making, 8s. 8d.; Whole Wheaten Meal (granulated) for Brown Bread, &c.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, &c.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d.; Barley Meal, per 56 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 7 lb. tin, 3d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER makes bread, cake, pastry, puddings, &c., light, sweet, and digestible. Sold in 1d., 2d., 6d., 1s., 2s., 6d., and 5s. packages. Four Gold Medals awarded. 700,000 packages sold weekly.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained in Wood by wholesale merchants and dealers, direct from their respective distilleries.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY, no matter the distance, FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 6s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 5s. 6d.

BLACK SILKS,
DURING THIS MONTH,
we shall SELL
Messrs. BONNET et CIE. and JAUBERT et CIE.
BLACK SILKS
at Manufacturers' Prices,
and Cheaper than they have ever before been supplied.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bonnet's.. | No. 1 Quality, 4s. 3d. | | from 1s. 6d. |
| .. | No. 2 .. 5s. 3d. | | to 4s. per Yard, |
| .. | No. 3 .. 6s. 9d. | | under fair value. |
| .. | No. 4 .. 7s. 6d. | | |
| Jaubert .. | No. 1 Quality, 3s. 9½d. | | from 1s. |
| .. | No. 2 .. 3s. 11d. | | to 4s. per yard, |
| .. | No. 3 .. 4s. 9d. | | under their fair value. |
| .. | No. 4 .. 5s. 3d. | | |
| .. | No. 5 .. 6s. 6d. | | |

To be obtained only at
PETER ROBINSON'S,
REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262, Regent-street.
Patterns free.

3gns. 6d.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 3gns. 6d. and 2½ guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 3s. 6d., 7s. 9d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 5½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin, now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 9 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brussels Net Dresses at 29s. 6d.
Also a variety of
Tartatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

BAKER and CRISP'S EARLY SPRING DRESSES, from 6d.
Yard.
EARLY SPRING CAMBRICS.
EARLY SPRING SATTEENS.
EARLY SPRING POPLINETTES.
EARLY SPRING BEIGES.
EARLY SPRING VICUNAS.
EARLY SPRING CASHMERES.
EARLY SPRING SILKS.
EARLY SPRING SATINS.
EARLY SPRING COSTUMES.
EARLY SPRING JACKETS.
EARLY SPRING JERSEYS.
EARLY SPRING MANTLES.
Patterns free.
Engravings free.
198, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

PATENT "SEAMLESS" GLOVE.
These perfect-fitting Gloves are made without the usual side seam, and are cut on the best principle from first choice French Kid Skins. They are hand-sewn, and are sold in two qualities, as under:—

"ADELE."

| Two Buttons 2s. 11d. | Three Buttons — | Four Buttons 4s. | Six Buttons 5s. | Eight Buttons 6s. | Ten Buttons 7s. | Twelve Buttons — |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

"VICTORIA."

| Two Buttons 3s. 11d. | Three Buttons 4s. 6d. | Four Buttons 5s. | Six Buttons 6s. | Eight Buttons 7s. 6d. | Ten Buttons 9s. | Twelve Buttons 10s. 6d. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

(Sample Pair post-free.)
DEBENHAM and FREEBODY,
WIGMORE-STREET and WELBECK-STREET, LONDON, W.

ALL PURE FLAX.

| | Per Doz. | | Per Doz. |
|---|---|---|---|
| CHEAP Children's | 4s. 6d. | Hemstitched. | 5s. 11d. |
| Ladies' | 2s. 11d. | Ladies' | 4s. 6d. |
| Gentlemen's | 4s. 11d. | Gentlemen's | 8s. 9d. |

Samples and Price-List post-free. POCKET "The Irish Cambrics of Messrs. Robinson and Cleaver have a world-wide fame." — The Queen. HANDKERCHIEFS.
ROBINSON and CLEAVER,
THE ROYAL IRISH LINEN WAREHOUSE,
BELFAST.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel Shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 61, Poultry, London.

IN LIQUIDATION.
Re WILLIAM WILLIS,
of Lowndes-street, Belgrave-square.
HARVEY NICHOLS and CO., Limited, having purchased the above valuable Stock, amounting to £5118 11d., at a discount of 6/2 per cent on the cost price, will be prepared to offer the same for Sale on MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1881.
The Stock consists of the Choicest Clocks of every description; Desks, Writing Cases, Blotting Books, Envelope Cases, Jewel Boxes, Jewel Cases, Fans, Porcelain, and Dresden Candelabras, Jugs, Vases, Bronzes, Ivories, &c., &c.
All Goods marked at the lowest price for cash.
9, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16.
Lowndes-terrace, Knightsbridge.

NOVELTIES IN JEWELLERY. New Styles for 1881. Gold, Silver, and Gem Jewellery of all kinds. New "Pig," "Mouse," &c.; Artificial Diamond Jewellery; Norwegian, Italian, and Mauresque filigree Jewellery; Ladies' Watches, &c. Price-List, 300 Illustrations post-free.—Jewellery Depôt, 37, Cambridge-street, Birmingham.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 69, 71, 73, 77, and 79, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.—OETZMANN & CO.

HOUSES TO BE LET OR SOLD.

BEFORE PURCHASING your BEDDING, see OETZMANN and CO.'S PATENT COMPENDIUM MATTRESS, requires no other mattress, palliasse, or bed to be used with it, and is at once the healthiest, softest, most economical, and complete bed extant. Descriptive Price-List post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

ANGLO-TURKEY CARPETS (Regd.)
OETZMANN and CO.—Those superior Carpets, of which Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. have the exclusive sale, are of first-class British manufacture, have all the style and appearance of real Turkey Carpets, at little more than the price of good Brussels, and are very durable. Price-List post-free on application. For the convenience of those residing at a distance, a large piece, showing the border and centre of Carpet, sent on receipt of 5s., which will be deducted from price of Carpet or refunded upon return of pattern; or by sending 15s., three pieces—viz., Anglo-Turkey, Anglo-Persian, and Anglo-Indian—will be sent on the same terms. Hearth Rugs to match, 6 ft. long by 3 ft. 8 in. wide, £1 5s. 6d. A large stock of real Turkey Carpets at reduced prices.—OETZMANN and CO.

CRETONNES. — OETZMANN and CO. CRETONNES.—An immense assortment of all the choicest designs in this fashionable material, in every variety of style and colourings; excellent imitations of rare Tapestries, some being exact copies of the finest Gobelins, Beauvais, and Flemish Tapestry. Prices varying from 6½d. per yard. Some at 1s. 0½d. per yard, usually sold at 1s. 9d.; super ditto, at 1s. 2½d., usual price, 2s. per yard. Patterns sent into the country by stating kind required. O. and Co.'s Stock of English and French Cretonnes is one of the largest and best in London.
OETZMANN and CO.

TABLE LAMPS.—OETZMANN and CO. A large assortment of Table, Reading, and other Lamps for the present season in Bronze, Brass, Ormolu, Terra-Cotta, Royal Dresden, and other China, of the newest designs, in great variety, fitted with the improved Duplex, Silber, Moderator, and other burners. Patent Duplex Lamp complete, 10s. 6d. Handsome ditto from 15s. 9d. to 6 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

WEDDING PRESENTS; USEFUL and ARTISTIC.—Intending Purchasers should inspect OETZMANN and CO.'S VAST DISPLAY of Elegant Vases, Lustres, Figures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pictures, Cut Glass Decanters, Wines, &c.; Electro-silver Plate, Table Cutlery, and a large variety of other Useful and Ornamental Articles suitable for Presents.—Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.
OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any to whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally superintended by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantages by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 20 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

CURE FOR RHEUMATISM. £500 FORFEIT to any purchaser of a bottle of POWELL'S EMBROCATION if the Testimonials published in its favour and signed by
H.R.H. the DUKE D'AUMALE,
Right Hon. the late Earl of CLARENDON, K.G.,
Frances, Countess WALDEGRAVE,
Right Hon. the Countess of RADNOR,
Mrs. MARK WOOD,
Mrs. General LAWRENCE,
and many other eminent persons, are not genuine. The money refunded to any purchaser whose case this Embrocation will not reach. A Pamphlet with all particulars free by post. POWELL'S RHEUMATIC EMBROCATION is sold by Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the World. In Bottles at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. JOHN M. RICHARDS, Sole Proprietor, Great Russell-street, London.

THE VOICE. £500 FORFEIT.
TO PUBLIC SPEAKERS, CLERGYMEN, ACTORS, VOCALISTS, READERS.
£500 will be paid by the undersigned to any purchaser of a bottle of HANFORD'S BRONCHITINE if the TESTIMONIALS are not genuine which are published in its favour and signed by the most eminent CLERGYMEN, ACTORS, VOCALISTS, READERS, and PUBLIC SPEAKERS. The cost of the Medicine will also be refunded to any purchaser dissatisfied with its effect. Hoyle's Bronchitine cures all affections of the Throat and Vocal Organs without internal medicine of any sort. Pamphlet, with Testimonials, to any address. "HANFORD'S BRONCHITINE," is sold by principal Chemists. Price, 2s. 9d. per Bottle. (But one size.) If not obtainable at nearest Chemist's, send 3 penny stamps direct to me, including P.O.O. JOHN M. RICHARDS, Great Russell-street-buildings, Great Russell-street, London.

THE THROAT. THE CHEST. THE LUNGS.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY.
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the various and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT,
194, Regent-street, London, W.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 6d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

SHIRLEY'S NEURALGIC CRYSTAL
Cures at once, by outward application, Neuralgia in the Head and Limbs.

SHIRLEY'S NEURALGIC CRYSTAL.—Invaluable for nervous Headaches. To be simply rubbed over the affected part. The highest Testimonials received. Of the Sole Maker, J. G. SHIRLEY, 2, Westbourne-grove, London, and all Chemists. Price 2s.; post, 2s. 3d.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT.
Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 308, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE FESTIVITIES AT BERLIN: COSTUME QUADRILLE DANCED BEFORE THE EMPEROR AND EMPRESS.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2182.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1881. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

CASAMICCIOLA AND MOUNT EPOMEO, IN THE ISLAND OF ISCHIA, BAY OF NAPLES.

CASAMICCIOLA (ISLE OF ISCHIA), THE SCENE OF THE EARTHQUAKE ON THE 4TH INST.—SEE PAGE 246.

BIRTHS.

On the 5th inst., at 8, Whitehall, Lady Carrington, of a daughter.

On the 2nd inst., at Ochtertyre, Crieff, Perthshire, Lady Keith Murray, of a son.

DEATHS.

On the 6th inst., at 5, Great Stanhope-street, Emily Harriet, Dowager Lady Raglan, widow of Field Marshal Lord Raglan, in the 80th year of her age.

On the 6th inst., at Ochtertyre, Crieff, Perthshire, Ione, wife of Sir Patrick Keith Murray, aged 35.

On the 22nd ult., at Florence, the Countess Julia Matilda Moretti, daughter of the late Sir Gerald Fowler, of Ormes.

On the 4th inst., at 24, Upper Brook-street, the Hon. Mrs. R. Meade, aged 72.

At Summerville, South Carolina, Feb. 18, Edward Brenton Archibald, only son of E. M. Archibald, C.B., her Britannic Majesty's Consul-General at New York, aged 30 years.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, or Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 19.

Sunday, March 13.

Second Sunday in Lent.
Morning Lessons: Gen. xxvii. 1—41; Mark xi. 27. Evening Lessons: Gen. xxviii. or xxxii.; 1 Cor. 6.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m. (sermon); 3.15 p.m. Rev. Canon Gregory; 6.30 p.m. the Dean of Lincoln.
St. James's, noon, the Bishop of Peterborough.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. Canon Prothero; 3 p.m., Rev. J. G. Livingstone, Vicar of St. Mark's, Tunbridge.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Very Rev. Dr. Jeune, Master of Pembroke; 3 p.m., Hon. and Rev. Latimer Neville.
Savoy, 11 a.m., the Bishop of Ely; 6 p.m., Rev. John Lindsay, Rector of St. Clement Danes.

Monday, March 14.

Humbert I., King of Italy, b. 1844.
London Institution, 5 p.m. (Mr. G. Phillip Bevan on the Gold and Silver Mines of the World).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Surveyors' Institute, 8 p.m. (Selection of gold medallist, &c.).
Numismatic Society, 7 p.m.
Geographical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Society of Arts, Cantor lectures, 8 p.m. (Professor W. G. Adams on Electric Lighting).
Horological Institute, 7 p.m. (Mr. J. Sandbach on Cheap Patents).
Royal Academy of Music, evening, Henry Smart Memorial Concert.

Tuesday, March 15.

Full moon, 10.37 p.m.
Humane Society, 3.30 p.m.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Statistical Society, 7.45 p.m.
London Institution, at 8, Professor de Chaumont, F.R.S., on Sanitary Assurance).
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. Discussion on Tide Gauges, &c.; Mr. D. Phillips on the Endurance of Iron and Mild steel.
Pathological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Zoological Society, 8.30 p.m.
West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m. (Rev. G. Henslow on Movements of Plants).
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. R. W. Murray on the Diamond-Fields of South Africa).
Kensington House, Concert for Cambridge Asylum for Soldiers' Widows.

Wednesday, March 16.

Death of the Duchess of Kent, the queen's mother, 1861.
College of Physicians, Gulstonian Lecture, 5 p.m. (Dr. Coupland on Anæmia; and on Friday).
Painters' Institute, 6 p.m.
Philosophical Society, noon.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Colonel F. Fremont on the Compound Air Engine).
British Archæological Association, 8.
Meteorological Society, 7 p.m.
Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond-street, annual festival, With a Speech by the Duke of Connaught in the Chair.
London Dialectical Society, 8 p.m.
Horological Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. Cuzner on the Lever Escapement).
Public Analysts' Society, 8 p.m.

Thursday, March 17.

St. Patrick.
Accession of William III., King of the Netherlands, 1849.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. H. H. Statham on Ornament).
Aryan Society, 8.30 p.m. (Rev. Brooke Lambert on Educational Reformers).
Civil and Mechanical Engineers' Society, 7 p.m. (Mr. R. E. Middleton House Drainage).
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Historical Society, 8 p.m.
Numismatic Society, 7 p.m.
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Dr. W. H. Stone on the Combination of Voices with Instruments).
Trinity College, 3 p.m. (Mr. G. J. Romane on Jelly-fish).
Linnean Society, 8 p.m.
Chemical Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. F. D. Brown on the Volumes of Mixed Liquids; papers by Mr. R. Warington, Professor Huttley, and others).
Antiquaries' Society, 8.30 p.m.
Albert Hall, Irish Festival, 8 p.m.

Friday, March 18.

Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne, born, 1848.
Society for Propagation of the Gospel, 7 p.m.
Royal Institution, 8 p.m. (Dr. W. H. Stone on Musical Pitch, 9 p.m.).
Architectural Association, 7.30 p.m. Mr. R. Phené Spiers on Holland.
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Captain C. W. R. Bell on the Cavalry Division, &c.).
Philological Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. Postgate on Latin and Greek Declensions; Mr. W. Browne on English Surnames).
Woodbridge Annual Horse Show.

Saturday, March 19.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Rev. H. R. Haweis on Some American Humorists—Washington Irving).
Ladies' Sanitary Association, 5.30 p.m. (Dr. B. W. Richardson on Occupation—Mental and Physical).

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| Day. | Barometer Corrected. | Temperature of the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | Maximum Rainfall in 24 hours. | Minimum Temperature. | Wind. General Direction. | Wind-run in Miles during last 24 hours. | Rain in 24 hours, ending 9 a.m. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inches. | ° | ° | Mean. | Mean. | Inches. | ° | | Miles. | In. |
| Feb. 27 | 29·803 | 32·3 | 30·0 | ·79 | 8·8 | 0·20 | | NE. ENE. | 177 | 0·023* |
| 28 | 29·750 | 29·9 | 24·5 | ·82 | 7·3 | 0·05 | 26·5 | NE. N. | 212 | 0·040 |
| March 1 | 29·983 | 32·4 | 21·9 | ·69 | 2·4 | 0·00 | 25·1 | W. NW. | 168 | 0·000 |
| 2 | 30·251 | 39·6 | 27·8 | ·71 | 5·0 | 0·05 | 28·1 | WSW. SE. | 142 | 0·000 |
| 3 | 29·947 | 37·2 | 28·5 | ·74 | 10·0 | 0·02 | 30·1 | ESE. SE. | 56 | 0·025 |
| 4 | 29·459 | 41·6 | 41·2 | ·94 | 10·0 | 0·48 | 36·9 | ESE. E. | 243 | 0·595 |
| 5 | 29·955 | 51·6 | 46·1 | ·83 | 10·0 | 0·56 | 45·5 | S. SE. SW. | 286 | 0·590 |

* Snow.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected | .. | 29·803 | 29·750 | 29·983 | 30·251 | 29·947 | 29·459 | 29·955 |
| Temperature of Air | .. | 44·0 | 39·5 | 39·2 | 39·0 | 35·7 | 39·1 | 50·1 |
| Amount of Evaporation | .. | 0·05 | 0·05 | 0·05 | 0·05 | 0·04 | 0·04 | 0·20 |
| Direction of Wind | .. | ESE. | S. | WSW. | WSW. | SE. | E. | SW. |

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 19.

| Sunday. | Monday. | Tuesday. | Wednesday. | Thursday. | Friday. | Saturday. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. |
| 0 2 / 10 30 | 1 10 / 11 0 | 1 50 / 11 47 | 2 32 / 0 12 | 3 16 / 1 2 | 4 0 / 1 50 | 4 46 / 2 40 |

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS BY SWISS ARTISTS,

instituted by the CERCLE DES BEAUX ARTS of GENEVA, 168, NEW BOND-STREET, WILL OPEN MARCH 14. Admission, One Shilling.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRÆTORIUM;" "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily 10 to 6. 1s.

BRIGHTON. — PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR

TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 9.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.45 p.m.; also from Victoria on Sundays at 9.45 a.m., and from Brighton on Sundays at 5.30 p.m.

EVERY SUNDAY.—A Cheap First-class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY

SATURDAY, Cheap First-class Trains from Victoria at 10.35 and 11.50 a.m., and London Bridge at 10.20 a.m. and 12 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Fare—First Class, 10s. Including admission (excluding admission to The Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion), Picture Gallery, Palace, and Gardens), available to return by any Train the same day, except the 5.45 p.m. Pullman Car Train.

(By order) J. T. KNIGHT, General Manager.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH (Arthur Sullivan).—On

FRIDAY EVENING NEXT, MARCH 18, a performance of this work will be given in ST. JAMES'S HALL, with the original cast, as performed at the Leeds Festival. Conducted by the Composer. Vocalists: Madame Albani, Madame Patey, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. J. Bower, and Mr. Frederick King. Full orchestra and Mr. Faulkner Leigh's Choir. Organist, Dr. Stainer. The first part of the programme will include Spohr's Cantata, GOD, THOU ART GREAT. Vocalists: Miss Annie Marriott, Miss Josephine Cravino; Mr. Faulkner Leigh and Mr. J. Bower. Conductor, Mr. T. Wingham. Commence at Eight o'Clock. Sofa Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Back, 3s. Admission, 1s. Programmes and Tickets at Austin's, 28, Piccadilly; Chappell's, New Bond-street; and the usual Agents.

AMOUREUX CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL.

Vocalists—Madame Brunet-Lafleur and Madame Patey. Orchestra of 100 performers. Conductor, Mr. Charles Lamoureux (the Conductor of the Grand Opera, Paris). Leader, Mr. Sainton. FIRST CONCERT, TUESDAY EVENING NEXT. Tickets, 10s. 6d., 5s., and 2s. 6d., at Austin's, St. James's Hall, and the usual Agents.

AMOUREUX CONCERTS.—Programme of the First

Concert, TUESDAY EVENING NEXT.—Overture, "Du Carnaval Romain" (Berlioz); "Symphonie in F" (op. 12) (Ch. Gouvy); allegro, scherzo, andante con moto, finale, M. Sainton: "Air d'Alceste" (Divinités du Styx) (Gluck), Madame Brunet-Lafleur; "Symphonie Espagnole" (op. 21), for violin and orchestra (E. Lalo), M. Sainton; "Aurora," symphonic poem for contralto and orchestra (B. Godard), Madame Patey; "Reverie du soir," for orchestra (Extraite de la Suite Algérienne) (Saint-Saëns); duo, "Oberon et Reinhold" (Berlioz), Madame Brunet-Lafleur and Madame Patey; Divertissement des "Erinnyes" (J. Massenet); Danse Grecque, La Troyenne regrettant sa patrie; Finale (a), Introduction et Romance; (b), Air, "La statue" (E. Reyer), Madame Brunet-Lafleur; "Marche Hongroise" (Damnation de Faust) (Berlioz).

LYCEUM. — PROSPECTIVE ARRANGEMENTS. — Mr.

IRVING has much pleasure in announcing that, in compliance with a generally expressed wish of the public, he has made arrangements for carrying the Lyceum performance, and has decided to withdraw, in the full tide of its success, "The Corsican Brothers," the last performance of which will take place on Saturday Evening, April 2, its 100th representation.

On SATURDAY, APRIL 16, the Summer Season will commence, when will be produced THE BELLE'S STRATAGEM—Doricourt, Mr. Irving; Letitia Hardy, Miss Ellen Terry. Preceded by Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP.

Mr. Irving is gratified in being able to inform the Public that on MONDAY, MAY 2, a series of SPECIAL PERFORMANCES will commence, when Mr. EDWIN BOOTH will appear, in conjunction with Mr. IRVING and Miss ELLEN TERRY, in Shakespeare's Tragedy of OTHELLO. These Special Representations will be on each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. On these Evenings of the first week, May 2, 4, and 6, Mr. Booth will appear as Othello, and Mr. Irving as Iago. The following week—viz., May 9, 11, and 13—Mr. Irving will appear as Othello, and Mr. Booth as Iago. Applications will be received daily at the Box-office for the second week by week, during this special engagement. For these performances the prices for the Stalls, Dress Circle, and Private Boxes will be as follows—Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Dress Circle, 10s.; Private Boxes, £2 2s., to £5 5s. The prices for the rest of the house—viz., Upper Circle, Amphitheatre, Pit, and Gallery—will remain as usual. On each of the intervening evenings—Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, during this special engagement, THE CUP and THE BELLE'S STRATAGEM will be played.

The Summer Season will terminate at the end of July, and before its close Mr. IRVING, in conjunction with Miss ELLEN TERRY, will appear in the following Plays from the Lyceum repertoire:—

HAMLET, MERCHANT OF VENICE, CHARLES I., and EUGENE ARAM.

On Sept. 5, the entire Lyceum Company will commence a Tour of Great Britain and Ireland, and will be absent from London until the end of December.—LYCEUM.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr.

Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP, at 7.45—Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss. THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 9.30—Mr. Irving. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram. Last Two Morning Performances of THE CUP Saturday, March 12 and 19.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT,

THE TURQUOISE RING, by G. W. Godfrey, Music by Lionel Benson. A New Musical Sketch, OUR INSTITUTE, by Mr. Corney Grain; and a New Second Piece, ALL AT SEA, by Arthur Law, Music by Corney Grain. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at Eight, Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

| | |
|---|---|
| Twelve months (including Christmas Number), | £1 9s. 3d. |
| Six months, 14s. | Christmas Half-Year, 15s. 3d. |
| Three months, 7s. | Christmas Quarter, 8s. 3d. |

Copies will be supplied direct from the Office to any part of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands, for any period, at the rate of 6½d. for each Number, paid in advance.

ABROAD.

The yearly subscription abroad is 36s. 4d. (on thin paper, 32s.), with the following exceptions:—

To Aden, Borneo, Ceylon, India, Java, Labuan, Mozambique Penang, Philippine Islands, Sarawak, Singapore, and Zanzibar, 41s. (thin paper, 34s.)

To the Hawaiian Islands, Madagascar (except St. Mary), and Paraguay, 45s. (on thin paper, 36s. 4d.).

Subscribers are specially advised to order the thick paper edition, the appearance of the engravings in the thin paper copies being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication, irrespective of the departure of the mails.

Subscriptions must be paid in advance, direct to the Publishing Office, 198, Strand, in English money; by cheque crossed the Union Bank of London; or by Post-office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to George C. Leighton, or 198, Strand, London.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1881.

Candahar, the War in the Transvaal, the dilatory negotiations at Constantinople in regard to the Turco-Greek Frontier, the attitude of Albania, the menace of the Ashantees, and, coming nearer home, the progress of the Peace Preservation Bill, the backward state of Parliamentary business in the House of Commons and the best way of meeting it,—are questions, each and all, pressing for serious consideration. If we choose the first named it is not because the others are less urgent, but because we can treat of it as a seemingly settled matter, and because upon certain points of it something has to be said which well deserves public notice and reflection.

Two policies, as our readers are well aware, are in conflict on the question of the proximate retirement of the British Troops from South Afghanistan or the retention of Candahar under the authority of the Empress of India. The two nights' debate in the House of Lords last week on this subject, pretty nearly exhausts all that can be said upon it, as what we may describe as a local question affecting the relation of Afghanistan to India. Regarding it simply in this light, that is, which of the two policies will confer greater advantage upon India, the authorities, military and civil, both in India and at home, are divided. Former Viceroys of India, from the time of the Sepoy Mutiny, uniformly acted upon the belief that any extension of British authority into Afghanistan proper was rather to be avoided than sought for. Such was evidently the opinion of Lord Beaconsfield's Administration when the Treaty of Gundamuk was concluded. There may be reasons that have since been discovered which have induced those who sanctioned the aforesaid Treaty to yield to different conclusions upon the matter; but those conclusions can only have been based upon the concern they felt for the welfare of her Majesty's Indian subjects. They have a right to be credited with patriotic motives, whatever their judgment may have been. Circumstances may, in their view, have rendered expedient, for the future, what, in accordance with traditional practice, they repudiated at first blush. The motive may well have been the same in either case, or in both; and that motive, as we have said, was, in the main, a regard for the interests of India.

Now, we have no intention whatever, much less a wish, to under estimate the importance of India. It came into our hands piecemeal, and, on the lowest scale of political morality, it has to be confessed that the manner in which the transition was effected cannot find an enlightened justification. But we are there. The possession has been handed down to us. We are bound by multitudinous obligations to stand firm at the post which has been assigned to us by events. We could not leave India without leaving behind us a possibility—we may almost say a certainty—of anarchical violence from Cape Comorin to the Indus, from Bombay to Calcutta. The chief benefit we have derived from it is to be found in its aptitude to develop the higher qualities of statesmanship of the men to whom the administration of its affairs, military and civil, has been intrusted. India opens to our young men at home a fine field for the exercise and, consequently, the discipline of those traits of character which go to make successful rulers. In other and ordinary respects it is, perhaps, a question whether our Eastern Dependency gives, or receives, the larger share of benefit. Our interest in India is chiefly based upon the duties we feel bound to discharge towards its various populations. We cannot give it up, for the sufficient reason that we have incurred responsibilities to it which duty compels us to recognise.

But—and it is to this that we wish to call attention—India is not the world. The care of India does not set aside all other rules of political expedience or morality. It does not constitute a sufficiently broad base to construct upon it a new code of international right and obligation. When we speak of the relations between India and Afghanistan as merely local and limited, we take it for granted that the convenience of Indian Administration cannot be held to govern those larger laws of Empire to which civilised mankind have agreed to do homage. Now the real conflict between the two policies, which have been respectively advocated in the House of Lords, may have local consideration for their recommendation, but really belong to a much higher class of international questions. There is a tendency in the present day—perhaps inseparable from certain conditions of civilisation—to manage the political affairs of men by the instrumentality of large Empires—England, America, Russia, Germany, Austria, Turkey—may be referred to as instances of this. There is much to be said in favour of this order of crystallisation of men's affairs, while there is no doubt that it largely detracts from the freedom and happiness of the populations included in it. This, however, is a matter upon which we have no intention to enter at present. We have noticed this modern tendency with a view merely to point out that what is called the "forward" policy, in its application to the relations of Afghanistan to India, is not likely to be, nor indeed can be, fixed at any one stage of it by the will of our Rulers. If British authority is to be extended to Candahar, it must move onward to Herat. When, again, it reaches Herat it will be propelled by what may seem to be local necessities to the banks of the Oxus. We cannot take a forward step beyond the natural boundary of India without encountering what may seem to be an obligation to take a second and a third. The safety of India may be our pretext, in each case, and to individual judgment may appear to be a justifying reason; but in over-stepping the boundaries of international obligation we break away from the only force which can restrain us within the limits prescribed by the higher reason. We might, if space would allow, explain why this must be, and why, when rules of national morality, right, and obligation are set aside by the deliberate choice of great governing Powers, the latter expose themselves to a force of gravitation similar to that which acts upon men who rush over the brink of a steep incline, and who find themselves utterly unable to stop until they are brought up by some intervening object which may most likely prove their ruin. The real question respecting Candahar is whether India—that is, England—is justified in incurring this obvious risk with a view to any duty or profit which may ultimately arise from it. The majority of the Peers urge the experiment. What the majority in the Commons will say to it may be easily conjectured, but cannot be presently ascertained. It is, however, a much larger question than it seems to be. We might almost say, in the political phraseology of the time, it involves a "new departure" into unknown space—"a leap in the dark," which may involve consequences far more serious to the government of the world than any domestic Reform Bill we have had to do with.

Judgment has been given by the Committee of Privileges of the House of Lords in the Dysart Peerage case in favour of the claim of William John Manners, their Lordships throwing aside the claim of Elizabeth Ackford's son.

The Dublin Gazette of yesterday week contains the proclamations of the Lord Lieutenant and the Privy Council, placing counties Clare, Galway, Leitrim, Kerry, Limerick, Mayo, Roscommon, and Sligo, and ten baronies in the West Riding of Cork, under the operations of the Coercion Act. Several arrests have been made under the Act.

ECHOES OF THE WEEK.

On or about the Seventeenth of May next, so the public are authoritatively informed, the revised version of the New Testament is to be published; and simultaneously with the revised English version there will be published by the University presses the Greek text of the revisers' readings, in three sizes. The revised version, it is also stated, is the joint "property" of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. This I do not quite understand; and I daresay that vast numbers of people will share with me the inability to comprehend what "property" there can be in a corrected translation of the text of the Scriptures. I have not the slightest doubt that such "property" can be legally asserted, and, for a time, allowed; but (owing to ignorance) I am anxious to learn how far University copyright in the New Testament can extend.

Meanwhile that exemplary race of beings the American publishers are taking steps equally energetic and edifying to show that the academical proprietors of the new Revised Version have no rights which they, the American booksellers, feel bound to respect. Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin have done excellent service by pointing out, in a communication addressed to a contemporary, that the first English "manufactured" copies of the Revised Version will (owing to grievously burdensome import duties) be sold at a very high price, say ten dollars a copy, in the United States; and that, to meet the demands of the hundreds of thousands of Americans who are burning to learn in what the alterations effected in the Authorised Version will consist, arrangements have been made "on the other side" to pirate the British product on an unprecedentedly colossal scale.

The entire work is to be put into type "inside of twenty-four hours" from the time a printed copy of the English edition can be procured; and within three days at least ten thousand copies will be bound, ready for delivery to intending purchasers. "It will be printed in large, beautiful type, neatly and strongly bound in cloth, in a volume of about five hundred pages, and sold at the nominal price of thirty cents."

I note in Evelyn's "Diary," under date of Oct. 22, 1658, the following reference to the interment of Cromwell:—"Saw the superb funeral of the Protector. He was carried from Somerset House in a velvet bed of state, drawn by six horses houssed with the same: the pall held up by his new Lords; Oliver lying in effigy in Royal robes, and crown'd with a crown, sceptre, and globe, like a King; the pendants and guidons were carried by the officers of the Army; and the Imperial banner, achievements, &c., by the heraulds in their coates. . . . In this equipage they proceeded to Westminster: but it was the joyfullest funerall I ever saw; for there were none that cried but dogs, which the soldiers hooted away with a barbarous noise, drinking and taking tobacco in the streets as they went."

I refer to this note of the statement of a manifestly honest and trustworthy eye-witness of a particular event; but who yet might be (as there can be no doubt that eye-witnesses often have been) mistaken. Take another instance: in the account of the funeral of the Great Duke in Mr. Carlyle's Reminiscences. One reads in that fascinating book "From Bath House we saw his funeral a while after; and, to our disgust, in one of the mourning coaches some official or dignitary reading a newspaper."

Now, a correspondent of the Times who, on the day in question in 1852, enjoyed exceptional facilities for viewing the funeral procession at the distance of a few paces, and from several points of view throughout its entire length, has pointed out that all the "officials and dignitaries" in the mourning coaches were furnished with large black-bordered printed programmes of the ceremonial, which programmes, by the spectators at the windows, might with the greatest ease have been mistaken for newspapers, and to which they frequently referred. On the whole, it would seem to be probable that no newspaper was read by any "official or dignitary" at the funeral; but that a large number of mourners did peruse and reperuse with much interest the official schedules which they held in their hands. Perhaps there were others besides dogs who cried at Cromwell's funeral. A famous sculptor, who was conversing with me on the subject, told me that he was in Australia when the Duke was buried; and that his niece, who had occupied a seat in the Cathedral during the service, made mention of the weirdly impressive sound in the vast edifice in the simultaneous rustle of thousands of sheets of paper when the leaves were turned.

Mem.: There has been a strange sameness these two hundred years past in the ordering of the pomp and circumstance of state funerals. The military and civil costumes have varied, of course, with the period; but the components of the pageant, and its marshalling, have been rarely altered. Thus the funeral of Protector Oliver served as a model for that of Monk, Duke of Albemarle. Of this the funeral of Marlborough was a faithful transcript; and the funeral of Nelson differed little from its three predecessors, save in the particular that a large number of sailors took part in the cortège. The only divergence from established usage in the case of the Duke was that the coffin was surmounted only by the cocked hat and sword and chivalric decorations of the deceased, and not by his waxen effigy. The waxen figure of Nelson, in full Admiral's uniform, is still preserved in Westminster Abbey.

The chairman of the Great Eastern Steam-Ship Company has written to the Times, mildly remonstrating against what he deems some scarcely deserved comments on the grand naval monument of the genius of Brunel, and the skill and energy of Scott Russell. The chairman stoutly denies that the floating castle, to which it was originally proposed to give the name of "the Leviathan," has not been a successful ship; and that all attempts to utilise her for commercial purposes have ended in failure. In truth, the Great Eastern has done noble service over and over again, in successfully laying the Atlantic and other submarine telegraph cables. Owing to the severe depression which has so long prevailed in the shipping interest, the Great Eastern has been for a considerable time "out of collar," but she is now ready to resume her position as a commercial enterprise, and overtures for chartering her are not wanting. I wish the noble argosy good luck, with all my heart.

I have, I confess, a sentimental fondness for the Great Eastern. I was on board her on her trial-trip from Deptford to Portland Roads in September, 1859. You will remember that when the Great Ship was off Beachy Head the "steam jacket" round one of the masts, through the incapacity of the generated steam to find a vent, burst. Ten firemen were scalded to death in the stokehole, and several others miserably hurt. The sufferings of the wounded were very dreadful during the night; but I well remember (we had no ladies on board) how tenderly the scalded men were nursed and watched, not only by the medical officers, but by a number of volunteers, among whom I remember the then Marquis of Stafford, now Duke of Sutherland, and Lord Alfred Paget.

By the former nobleman was made the happy discovery that the inner linings of the curtains were composed of cotton wool. Straightway Lord Stafford set to work ripping up the curtains; and the wool, soaked in oil, was laid in sheets on the limbs of the poor sufferers. It was very wretched, when we slowly steamed the next day into Portland Roads, to find banners waving, brass bands playing, bells ringing, and tenders with municipal dignitaries and gaily-dressed ladies coming out to welcome us, when our own flag was at half mast, and we had ten corpses on board.

The ship was full of celebrities. Among them was the late Herbert Ingram, the founder of this Journal, with which, in 1859, I had not any connection. Curiously enough, it is to a circumstance connected with this gentleman that there was due (under Providence) my own escape from death when the explosion occurred. I had intended as soon as luncheon was concluded to repair to my cabin in order to post up my diary; but when the meal was over sundry of my colleagues in journalism remaining behind in the saloon proposed drinking Herbert Ingram's health. It was Mr. Murphy, of the Daily News, I think, who was on his legs, expatiating on Mr. Ingram's good qualities, when we suddenly heard a tremendous report. Then there was a sharp pattering sound, as of hail falling on the table. That was a shower of broken glass from the skylights. Then the vast saloon was completely filled by a cloud of dusty steam clinging to you and covering you with minute débris of wood; and then, somehow or another, we all rushed on deck. I found that the state-room which, in conjunction with a friend, I had occupied, had been blown to pieces. Nothing was left but one shattered bulkhead, with the brass plate bearing the number of the berth. All the rest, furniture, bed-clothes, washing apparatus, with our portmanteaus and my unfortunate diary, had "gone up."

Archibald Forbes writes me from Cobourg, Ontario, to tell me the pleasant news that he has been doing splendidly in the East and Western States of the Union and in Canada. I knew full well that in every section of the States and of the Dominion this brilliant writer, brave soldier, and good fellow, would meet with an enthusiastic welcome. At Cincinnati he lectured to an audience of two thousand persons in a house designed to seat only about eighteen hundred; so that as the ladies were sitting à la Turque all about the platform the lecturer could not "tramp about" while he was lecturing. "Tramping about" is a great relief under these circumstances. The best platform "tramper" whom I remember to have seen and heard was Father Ignatius (not Brother Ignatius of Llanthony Abbey, but the Hon. and Rev. Mr. Spencer, who became a Roman Catholic monk), and who had the further advantage of a tall staff, surmounted by a Cross, which was of great help to him, now for resting purposes and now for emphasising his periods.

Lecturing in summer time in the States is an unprofitable pursuit; so, on the Seventh of May, Melbourne Forbes purposes to embark from San Francisco for Australia, with the view of lecturing in our Australasian dependencies until the beginning of October, when he will return by sea to 'Frisco for a second winter's campaign in the States. "The career of a lecturer here," characteristically concludes Mr. Forbes, "is this. The first year he is making his reputation; the second year he is making his 'pile;' the third year he is 'fizzling out.'" This advice may be useful to intending lecturers in the States. But, if Dr. Benjamin Richardson would go to America, I will venture to predict that the first or probationary year might be dispensed with. The Doctor's reputation, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, is already made. With respect to Mr. Forbes, I hope that he will make his "pile," and a big pile too, of dollars; and come home ere the slightest sounds of "fizzling out" become audible.

It is with unfeigned regret that I have to announce the death of one of my oldest, kindest, and most valued schoolmasters. I learned more from him than I did from any other of my preceptors; although I was full five-and-twenty years of age ere I became his pupil. The deceased was born in Beaufort-buildings, Strand, on the third of January, 1808, and his sponsors were Messrs. Robert and Leigh Hunt. The latter you may have heard of as the author of "Rimini" and "The Legend of Florence." My defunct and beloved pedagogue (whose motto throughout his long life was that "Party is the Madness of Many for the Gain of a Few") was christened "Examiner."

Yes; the Examiner newspaper, after a chequered existence of seventy-two years, is dead. The causes of dissolution were long deficient circulation, consequent disorder in the "chest," and ultimate atrophy. For the first twenty years of its career it was one of the very brightest ornaments of British journalism. In its earlier volumes will be found much of the finest writing of Leigh Hunt himself, Hazlitt, and Benjamin R. Haydon. Something, too, of Barry Cornwall, and a little, I think, of Shelley and of Charles Lamb. But it would be well worth the while of the accomplished bibliographer of Dickens and Thackeray to endeavour to lift that veil of the anonymous which yet shrouds some of the noblest of the articles in the early Examiners. There were plenty of reasons, then, for preserving the anonymous. Sir Vicary Gibbs was one of the Law officers of the Crown; and ex officio informations against Liberal newspapers were as plentiful as blackberries.

It is curious to note in the first number a long leading article of Leigh Hunt (the little indexing hand in the left bottom corner denotes the article to be of his writing) "On the Separation of Russia from the British Interest." The Liberals, or "Reformists," as they termed themselves, were then strong anti-Russians. It is more curious to find in the prospectus a grave announcement that no advertisements would be admitted into the Examiner. Puffs, likewise, are sternly repudiated. "The public," writes Leigh Hunt, loftily, "shall neither be tempted to listen to somebody in the shape of a wit who turns out to be a lottery-office keeper, nor seduced to hear a magnificent oration which finishes by retreating into a peruke or rolling off into a blacking ball."

Setting puffs altogether on one side, I find that the Brothers Hunt adhered for more than ten years to their high-minded but essentially unbusiness-like determination not to admit advertisements into their paper. The price of a copy was eightpence; out of this the Government took fourpence for stamp duty. In later years, when Albany Fonblanque, John Forster, and (occasionally) Thomas Noon Talfourd, were the pillars of the Examiner, as many advertisements were inserted as the proprietors were able to procure. Irony of Fate! If the Brothers Hunt had consented, in the first instance, to receive advertisements, the paper might have become a splendid property, and John and Leigh might have left large fortunes to their children.

Why I call the defunct paper one of my schoolmasters can be very briefly explained. A set of the Examiner, from 1808 to 1841; of the Spectator, from 1836 to 1851; of the John Bull, from 1820 to 1840; of the Monthly Magazine, from 1800 to 1820; and the complete works of Cobbett, formed my stock in trade when I set up in business as a journalist. The volumes look at me, as it were, pleasantly from the shelves which line my work-room, now; and there are few days on which I do not get through a little indexing work on one or other of the sets. The bindings are very ragged: the leaves are very dogs'-eared; the type is getting faded; and my people tell me that some of the volumes are mouldy and do not smell nice; but they are very old friends and schoolmasters of mine; and I love them very dearly.

The time-honoured Morning Post, again, not at all in a moribund condition, is about to take a fresh lease of life and come down to the all-conquering price of one penny. The Penny is King. The cheapened Post will have the mission of inculcating the masses with the doctrines of Conservatism. It strikes me that the masses (Mr. Henry Mayhew in "London Labour and the London Poor" arrived years ago at a similar conclusion) are, whenever their own immediate and industrial interests are concerned, as Conservative as the Truest of True Blue Tories. For the rest, nous verrons. The Morning Post's record in English journalism is a singularly pure and honourable one; and I should rejoice to see it succeed, at whatever price it is offered to the public.

The proprietors of the Post obviously know their own business best: still, looking at the aristocratic and fashionable antecedents of the paper, and that fashionable and aristocratic society is numerous and powerful enough to support a virtually official organ of their caste, I would (were I a speculator in newspapers), instead of lowering the price of the Post, raise it to a shilling, and publish it three times a week in the format of the London Gazette. Large type, stout paper fit for binding. Graphic reports of fashionable entertainments; general patrician intelligence; the Paris fashions, "hot and hot;" operatic and dramatic criticisms; the cream of sporting news, and so forth. But the political news—the foreign telegrams? Well, Rank and Fashion would read all that kind of thing in the penny papers; and the general foreign intelligence might be learned by heart by the butler, and recited viva voce to the family at the breakfast-table.

I am very punctual, when in England, in periodically repairing to Madame Tussaud's to renew my acquaintance with Mr. William Cobbett, some time M.P. for Oldham, and the contents of the Napoleon Museum; and in particular to ascertain whether any addition has been made to the personnel of the Chamber of Horrors. I shall be due again ere long in Baker-street; and the pleasure of the next visit will be enhanced by the announcement which I read, that portrait-models of General Garfield, President of the United States, of the gallant and unfortunate Sir George Colley, and of Mr. Michael Davitt, have been lately introduced. The ex-Fenian who recently got into trouble (and will get out of it again, I hope, when quieter times come) stands, I see, "adjacent to the steps leading to the Hall of Kings." He is the vis-à-vis of Mr. Parnell, M.P.; and the face and likeness of the effigy are described as excellent. Mr. Davitt is represented in ordinary dress, with his armless sleeve dropped at his side, while in his left hand is an umbrella. I am open, of course, to correction in assuming that, with the exception of the historic gingham carried by the late Mr. Liston in "Paul Pry," Mr. Davitt's umbrella is the only parapluie (the popular name for one in France is a "Robinson Crusoe") at Madame Tussaud's.

It must be almost as fine a thing as to be father-in-law to a very magnificent three-tailed Bashaw, to find yourself (if I may be permitted to coin a word) "Tussauded" in your lifetime. The proverbial dog with two tails (Kaulbach in his pictures to "Reinecke Fuchs" has drawn triumphant Reynard with a dual brush) could scarcely be prouder than the Celebrity when his counterfeit presentment in wax first adorns the Hall in Baker-street. But, my proud Sir, suppose that you are young, and that your celebrity proves fleeting, and that ere you have reached middle age society has forgotten all about you? How would you like to be "un-Tussauded?"—to be stripped of your fine feathers, unwigged, broken up, melted down, and recast, perhaps, in the likeness of some new Celebrity of the hour, who may be your most inveterate enemy? That is a contingency to shudder at.

G. A. S.

DRAWING LOTS FOR ADMISSION TO THE STRANGERS' GALLERY, HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A VISIT TO PARLIAMENT.

Let the stranger whose imagination has been excited by the imposing exterior of the Palace of Westminster follow in fancy the Artist who has cleverly delineated the process of filtering, as it were, visitors through the purgatorial corridor they have frequently to linger in ere they can gain admission to what they appear to regard as the seventh heaven of the Strangers' Gallery of the House of Commons. Armed with a members' order, the stranger may peradventure be excused for bestowing a glance of patriotic pride at the grandeur of the Houses of Parliament as viewed from outside; may even be justified, as he enters the nobly spacious Hall of Westminster, in congratulating himself upon the probability of his speedily obtaining a seat in the gallery of the House itself; but, if any important business is to come on, he will be promptly disillusionised.

Presumably too well aware that Parliament means a maximum of talk and a minimum of business—in that respect resembling many exalted and noted individuals in the realm—the eminent architect who designed the Palace of Westminster seemingly deemed it appropriate to raise a showy edifice affording the maximum of promise but yielding the minimum of comfort and accommodation within its walls. In a word, the shell is admirable; the kernel, most disappointing.

Figures are eloquent on this point. There is only room for sixty strangers in the ordinary gallery (the Speaker's Gallery and the benches devoted to peers and "distinguished visitors" being left out of the question for the nonce). But when an "Irish scene," or a Ministerial statement of import is expected, more than twice sixty visitors will present their orders for admission. Let it be supposed that our typical stranger has shown his pass to the policeman at the door, and been admitted to the corridor lined with statues of famous Parliamentary orators. Here are assembled far more than the stipulated sixty claimants for seats, seated on each side the corridor. At 3.30 sharp the door is closed—as the tardy visitor shown in one of the small sketches has found to his cost. A ballot has to take place, trusty Inspector Denning presiding over the operation. He collects the orders, folds them, and drops them one by one into a glass bowl. Returning to the head of the corridor, Inspector Denning then stirs the papers in the bowl, and calls out the name of each visitor, whose order is duly inspected by Colonel Forester, another official of the House.

"Smith!" It may not be surprising that as many as four or five embryo statesmen of this name owned to the soft impeachment of a patronymic similar to that of the late First Lord of the Admiralty when our Artist was an eyewitness of the "half-past three" ordeal. Be that as it may, the requisite sixty having secured precedence by drawing lots, and having been marched like so many prisoners into the Inner Lobby, whence they climb to their coveted eyrie in the sanctum sanctorum, it is on the cards that our representative visitor will have to wait and patiently sit with other disappointed wights in the corridor till another ballot takes place at six o'clock. He may consider himself lucky if he gets in then, as it sometimes happens that nine, ten, eleven o'clock passes, and still finds some unfortunate waiter on providence—as was the pitiful case of "No. 30 and Last"—shut out.

ADMISSION TO THE STRANGERS' GALLERY OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

It will thus be seen that the possession of a member's order does not procure instant admission to what some apparently deem paradise before they reach there—and it is to be feared that the singularly small accommodation for the public desirous to hear the debates must continue until the present ridiculously inadequate and comfortless House of Commons is rebuilt.

THE EARTHQUAKE IN ISCHIA.

The beautiful island of Ischia, in the Bay of Naples, has been visited by a terrible earthquake, causing great loss of life at the small town of Casamicciola, which is a favourite seaside resort, in the summer, for Neapolitans and foreign sojourners. This island, the largest in the Bay, is twenty miles from the city of Naples, and seven or eight miles from the promontory of Misenum, at the north-west extremity of the Bay; the smaller isle of Procida lies between Ischia and that point of the mainland. The island is seven miles long, and four or five miles broad, with Mount Epomeo rising in its centre, and with lofty cliffs on the south and east sides. The whole population is from 25,000 to 30,000; the two chief towns are Ischia, on the east coast, and Forio, on the west coast; the others are Moropano and Panza, on the southern slopes of the mountain, and Casamicciola, on the northern shore. We present two views of the last-named place, with Mount Epomeo in the background of one of them. It had three or four thousand inhabitants before the recent disaster, by which nearly three hundred lives, according to the latest estimate, have been destroyed. The mineral springs of Casamicciola have been celebrated, from the ancient Roman times, for the cure of gout and rheumatism, and of scrofulous diseases and other maladies; they are minutely described in Murray's "Handbook to South Italy and Naples."

The earthquake began on Friday (yesterday week) at one o'clock in the afternoon, the shock that time, which only lasted a few seconds, demolishing about three hundred houses in the little town, at Old Casamicciola and Menella, but not the larger buildings, the principal hotels, or the bathing establishments. Hundreds of the inhabitants were buried in the ruins of their dwellings, and a hundred and forty dead bodies have been dug out, besides many detached limbs and other fragments of human corpses. The visitors who had been staying in the place immediately left it, and many of the townspeople also fled into the interior of the island. Some of the homeless families found shelter at the institute of the Monte di Pieta, while others were accommodated with tents and blankets sent from Naples. The Italian Government, and the King of Italy personally, have contributed largely to the relief of the sufferers by this disaster.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

The great work of cutting a ship canal for the passage of maritime commerce between the Atlantic and the Pacific Ocean, now fairly undertaken by a French Company, under the auspices of M. Ferdinand de Lesseps, who projected and brought to a successful accomplishment the Suez Canal from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea, is about to begin its actual execution. On Jan. 29, 1881, the French steamer Lafayette arrived at Colon (Aspinwall) with MM. Armand Reclus, G. Blanchet, and about forty other gentlemen, who are to be employed upon the Panama Canal. In accordance with a prearranged plan, the head-quarters will be in Panama, though Colon will be the main point for distribution of supplies for the work. The expedition is divided into two distinct sections or departments. M. Reclus is the general agent, with full powers from the Canal Company over all matters which may require his attention and decision on the isthmus. M. Blanchet is director of the canal works. It is understood that the work of the various sections and commissions is to be begun at once and pushed on with energy. It will relate principally to tracing the exact location of the line for the proposed canal, clearing away the timber and brush, thus opening up the country through which the excavation will be made; arranging matters of titles for right of way and buildings, and the general land grants of the company, and other matters of a preliminary character which must necessarily precede the commencement of the actual work of rending the continent asunder. Not less important in these preliminary operations is the organisation of the company itself, which will not be fully completed for several months yet, and the construction on the immense scale necessary of the colossal machinery which will be required to carry on the various operations of dredging, drilling, and blasting rocks, removing earth and stone, as machinery will be largely employed instead of older and slower methods and the use of mere manual labour. A year or more must necessarily elapse before the employment of machinery will be necessary or possible, and in the meantime the number of labourers which will be needed will be comparatively small. The demand can be easily supplied at present or for some time to come on the isthmus or in the near neighbourhood.

We have received a portfolio of photographs belonging to M. Couvreux, the contractor for the works of the Panama Canal, giving views of many places along its projected route; and six of these are engraved for this week's publication. Two of them represent the town and port of Colon, or Aspinwall, on the Atlantic coast; three are of Panama, with its townhall (Casa Cabildo) and its railway station, on the Pacific shore, which is but forty-eight miles distant from the Atlantic; and Pueblo Nuevo is shown in the remaining Illustration. These places are situated in the Spanish American Federal Republic of Colombia, but in that part of it formerly styled New Grenada, which occupies the narrowest portion of the Central American Isthmus. By the reconstitution of these States, in 1863, after a civil war of three years, Colombia, in South America, with Bogotà, Bolivar, Magdalena, Panama, and several others, were united in an important Federation, having a population of three millions, a most fertile soil, and much trade and material wealth. The railway from Aspinwall to Panama, constructed by a company formed in the United States, was opened in 1855, and has often been described. We have also, upon different occasions, given some account of the rival schemes for the construction of an inter-oceanic ship canal, which has been a favourite project for many years past. Its practicability, as an engineering work, has scarcely ever been doubted, whatever must be thought of its probable cost and of its remunerative prospect.

A snowstorm, lasting for seventy hours, has prevailed in Scotland. The gale somewhat subsided on Sunday morning, and less snow fell during the day; but the storm proved most serious in its consequences both to railways and shipping, nearly two hundred lives being lost on the north-east coast of Scotland. The Liverpool ship Ben Rhydding, bound from Calcutta to Dundee, was among the vessels wrecked, thirty of the crew being drowned.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, March 8.

I remember once hearing in the drawing-room of one of the hotels in the Rue de Rivoli a worthy British matron asking her Parisian cicerone if it were really true that the abominable practice of duelling still existed in France. Alas! yes, Madame, duelling is still one of the customs of France; in the army it is obligatory; amongst civilians, and especially amongst journalists, it is common. Last week we narrowly escaped having two duels to record—one between two venerable Senators, one of whom is a pillar of M. Hyacinthe Loyson's Gallican church, the other between M. Aurelien Scholl and the Comte de Dion. Last September the young nobleman brutally assaulted M. Scholl in a restaurant, for which offence he was condemned to three months' imprisonment. No sooner had he left prison than M. Scholl challenged him, but no arrangement could be arrived at as to the place of meeting, and so the affair has fallen through, after having occupied the attention of the press for several days.

Why mention such matters, it may be asked? Two duels that did not take place are of no importance, and even if they did take place it were better to say nothing about them. Perhaps so; still there is something in a title. The "Parisian Sayings and Doings" that form the subject of this letter are not controlled by the writer of it, and if they are often frivolous, or worse than frivolous, it is not his fault. What has happened during the past week? Very little that is worth recording: an interpellation in the Chamber on the irrepressible Greek Question; the opening of the Patti Concerts at the Théâtre des Nations; the return of spring; the Lenten lectures at the churches.

The interpellation was put to the Government on Saturday by M. Clémenceau. The French Government, it must be remembered, has the monopoly of the manufacture of gunpowder both for exportation and for home consumption; the price of the powder is regulated by a special Parliamentary decree. Last year the Government signed a contract with the firm of Roth, of Vienna, to furnish 100,000 kilogrammes of prime powder. M. Clémenceau has discovered that this powder is being manufactured into cartridges for Greece. He did not question the legality of the sale; the only object of his interpellation was to convict the Government of inconsistency in prohibiting, as it did last week, the sale of old guns to Greece, while it was all the time furnishing gunpowder through the intermediary of a Viennese house. The Cabinet had no difficulty in replying to M. Clémenceau's captious and undignified arguments, and the House showed its appreciation of this opposition à outrance by passing to the order of the day by a large majority.

A decree signed by President Grévy has been issued to-day fixing the 17th inst. for the issue of the new redeemable loan of 1,000,000,000 francs.

Patti began her Italian season at the Théâtre des Nations on Saturday in "La Somnambula." The diva is still in full possession of her marvellous powers both vocal and histrionic, but it is impossible to imagine a more wretched company than that by which she is supported. The Patti performances are of no interest from the point of view of art. It is almost inexplicable how the Parisians tolerate such flagrant speculation on their good nature. The same evening, Mdlle. Tholer, who has been one of the shining lights of the St. Petersburg stage during the past four years, made her rentrée as the Comédie Française in the "Fausses Confidences," Marivaux's masterpiece. Mdlle. Tholer obtained a brilliant success both as an artist and as a jolie femme.

In Lent, and particularly towards Easter, sceptical Paris becomes religious. During the forty days' fast prescribed by the Church the majority of family tables abjure meat in favour of salt cod, and in the fashionable salons of the Faubourg Saint-Germain the visitor will be offered no stronger refreshment than a glass of sugar and water. Last Sunday some curiosity was felt as to what attitude the Government would take towards the members of the dissolved religious congregations who were announced as Lent lecturers in the different churches. The cathedral of Notre Dame was crowded to excess, and the eloquent Dominican Father Monsabré preached unmolested in the peculiar costume of his order. In the other churches Carmelites, Benedictines, Jesuits, and monks of all orders, preached, clad in their distinctive garbs, and no incident occurred anywhere.

New journals of all shades are constantly springing into existence. The latest are the Express, a Republican organ; La Citoyenne, a woman's rights journal, directed by Mdlle. Hubertine Auclerc; and Le Clairon. The latter journal is written by the Royalist staff of the Gaulois, who have lost their occupation through the sudden conversion of the Gaulois from a Royalist into a Gambettist organ. Half-a-dozen new organs are announced, although there are more newspapers published daily in Paris than one could read comfortably in a week. The mystery is, whence does the money come?

T. C.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

PORTUGAL.

In Tuesday's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies the Lorenzo Marques Treaty with England was adopted by 74 votes to 19. By this treaty Lorenzo Marques is ceded to the British Crown, thus giving us access by Delagoa Bay to our South African Colonies.

SWITZERLAND.

The National Council has ratified without reservation the Extradition Treaty concluded with Great Britain.

GERMANY.

Prince Bismarck has submitted to the Federal Council the draught of an ordinance for the creation of a German Economic Council, similar to the already existing Prussian Economic Council, to be composed of 125 members, including seventy-five from Prussia. Representatives from each of the Federal Governments will be entitled to take part in the sittings. The measure, being introduced in the form of an ordinance, and not as a bill, will not require the sanction of the Reichstag.

In spite of the Chancellor's indisposition he gave a grand Parliamentary dinner on Tuesday afternoon.

During yesterday week's sitting of the Parliament the debate on the bill relative to the rating of houses was marked by the occurrence of a "scene" between Prince Bismarck and Herr Struve, a Secessionist. Finally, against the wish of the Chancellor, the bill was referred to a Committee.

The Parliament was occupied all Tuesday with a discussion on the lengthening of the so-called Budget period, in which it is proposed by the Government to place the Budget only once in every two years before the House instead of yearly, as is the case now.

According to the Census lately taken, the population of the Empire is now 45,194,172.

RUSSIA.

The 3rd inst. being the anniversary of the Czar's accession to the throne, and of the emancipation of the serfs, the event was celebrated at the Court and amongst the general public.

GREECE.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed the bill authorising the admission into the Greek army of naturalised foreigners; an amendment to include natives of Epirus, Thessaly, and Albania having been adopted.

AMERICA.

The ceremonies at the inauguration of President Garfield on the 4th inst. were marred by disagreeable weather. A hundred thousand people, however, witnessed the procession along the Pennsylvania-avenue, one division of which escorted the presidential party from the White House to the Capitol, where General Garfield took the oath, and delivered his address from a platform on the east front of the building. Vice-President Arthur took the oath previously in the Senate Chamber. Generals Hancock and Sheridan were among the visitors, and were warmly received. The entire procession of five divisions, consisting of military and civic bodies, to the number of 9000 men, then escorted the presidential party from the Capitol back to the White House.

President Garfield in his address spoke of the growth of the United States since the first written constitution was adopted, exactly one hundred years ago. The jurisdiction of the Union now covered an area fifty times greater than that of the original thirteen States, and it had a population twenty times larger than it was in 1780. The nation was now resolutely facing to the front, resolved to employ its best energies in developing the great possibilities of the future. The President dwelt upon the importance of raising the negroes to the full rights of citizenship; and upon the Ministry of a free and pure ballot; and of education, in preparing all classes for the discharge of the responsibilities resting upon them. The other domestic topics alluded to in the address were the Panama Canal, the Monetary Standard, Polygamy, and the tenure of office in the Civil Service.

The following gentlemen form President Garfield's Cabinet:—Secretary of State, Senator Blaine; Secretary of the Treasury, Senator Windom, of Minnesota; Secretary of the Interior, Senator Kirkwood, of Iowa; Secretary of War, Robert Lincoln, Illinois; Secretary of the Navy, William S. Hunt, of Louisiana, now Judge of the United States Court of Claims; Postmaster-General, William L. James, now Postmaster of New York City; Attorney-General, Wayne M'Veagh, of Pennsylvania.

President Hayes vetoed the Funding Bill on the 3rd inst.; and the Apportionment Bill, fixing the number of Representatives at 319, passed the House on the same day.

CANADA.

According to official returns, the expenditure of the Dominion during the eight months ending February last amounted to 15,704,550 dols. The revenue during the same period was 18,584,890 dols.

In the Railway Committee of the Dominion House of Commons last Saturday the Premier made a statement concerning the policy of the Government in reference to railway projects in the North-West. The Premier said that great care should be taken in granting charters, in order to prevent bonds of schemes not of a bonâ fide character being placed on the English market.

The Dominion Parliament is to be prorogued on the 17th inst.

The Ontario Legislature was prorogued on the 4th inst. by the Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. J. B. Robinson.

The Land League partisans have not got it all their own way. In response to a telegram from the Dublin Orange Emergency Committee, the Orange Grand Master of British North America has issued an appeal to the lodges throughout Canada for contributions to aid the brethren in Ireland in resisting the tyranny of the Land League.

The Hon. A. G. Archibald, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, opened the Nova Scotian House of Assembly on the 3rd inst., and, in his speech on the occasion, congratulated the Legislature on the prosperity of the Province.

According to an official report, the active militia in Canada consists of 38,000 men.

During the past year Canada exported 50,905 head of cattle, 81,843 sheep, and 700 swine.

INDIA.

The court-martial on Major Currie was concluded on Monday morning, after lasting five days. The Major was charged with misbehaving before the enemy, showing cowardice, and disobeying orders. The Court declined to hear some witnesses who would have come forward for the defence, and acquitted the accused.

Eight of the persons tried in the Kolapore conspiracy case have been sentenced to transportation for life, and ten for shorter periods. The rest have been acquitted.

The Crown Prince of Sweden has become engaged to the Princess Victoria of Baden, granddaughter of the German Emperor by his only daughter, Louise Marie Elisabeth.

The gig belonging to the Cerberus, the vessel stationed at Melbourne, Australia, for the defence of the colony, has been blown up by a torpedo, five of the crew being killed.

Preparations are being made at the Palais du Midi, Brussels, for an International Exhibition of the Industrial and Fine Arts, which is to be opened on June 1 next. The exhibition is a private enterprise.

The third anniversary of the coronation of Pope Leo XIII. was celebrated with great pomp in the Sixtine Chapel on the 3rd inst. The Russian Grand Dukes, the Princes Carlo and Oscar of Sweden, and a number of diplomatic and Papal officials were among those present.

The excavations in the ninth region of Pompeii are being prosecuted with alacrity, and yield unexpected results. The Daily News correspondent at Naples says:—"Besides a second mosaic fountain and valuable frescoes recently found, there were excavated the other day some vases of Egyptian manufacture, which will greatly interest archeologists. They are made of a particular kind of paste, composed of white clay and glass, and are extremely brittle. All round they have high relief representations of the animals worshipped by the ancient Egyptians."

The Baroness Willoughby D'Eresby has been declared by the Court of Appeal the owner of the famous signboard on which David Cox painted an oak-tree, and which formerly hung in front of the inn of that name at Bettws-y-Coed, North Wales. The inn has been held by several tenants, and on an assignment by the last tenant Lady D'Eresby, as the freeholder, claimed the painted panel. The Judge of the local County Court awarded it to her; the Chief Judge in Bankruptcy reversed the decision; and now the Lords Justices have decided that as the picture had not been removed by the original tenant, on a new lease being granted it became the property of the landlord.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

There is a lull, just now, in the production of dramatic novelties; and at least two Saturdays have passed by without a "first night" production of a new piece at one or more of the playhouses. Have you not observed lately that there is a lull in most things just now, save in politics and the weather? The book-market is languid: the picture exhibitions are languid; and the illustrated Fashion Serials for March are tame, even from "Myra" to the "Follet." I must make one exception to this stricture in the case of the "Journal des Modes," edited by Madame Marie Schild, which has adopted a startling and at the same time graceful innovation in the shape of large full-length figure cartoons, printed in monochrome, called "Fashions for Art Folk." For art-folk read "Æsthetes"—not Mr. Du Maurier and Mr. Burnand's "Æsthetes," but the ladies who choose to wear rich and tasteful costumes of mediæval suggestiveness. The cartoon in the March number of the "Journal des Modes" is adapted from a painting by Marco Marziale; and, considering that at most dinner parties of twelve nowadays you meet at least two ladies who are more or less "æsthetic" in their sympathies and their way of dress, the new feature in Madame Schild's journal may be hailed as not only very quaint but very useful. It is excruciatingly droll at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, nightly crammed as it is with admirers of Mr. Burnand's "The Colonel," to watch the æsthetically dressed ladies in the stalls gazing intently—perhaps I should have said "intensely"—at Miss Marion Holmes and Miss C. Grahame on the stage, and inwardly and wonderingly inquiring, "Are we like that?" I think that I know why there is a lull in the production of new books, new pictures, new plays, new dresses, and new bonnets. The spring fashions are not yet fully "out;" and society is battening on the fading remnants of the winter modes in most things. I am informed on the very best—not professional—authority, that nobody can as yet tell what kind of ladies' jacket will be worn on the Grand Stand on Brighton Downs on the occasion of the Easter Volunteer Review, to say nothing of the feminine costume which will grace the occurrence of the Oaks day at Epsom.

Meanwhile, the Playhouses are all doing an excellent business, and many of that number are continuously crowded. At the Lyceum the programme of intended arrangements for the spring is in the highest degree interesting. In the full tide of its success there is to be a surcease in the career of the "Corsican Brothers;" and on Saturday, April 16, the "Belle's Stratagem" will be produced at the house in Wellington-street, Mr. Henry Irving playing Doricourt (one of Macready's finest comedy parts) and Miss Ellen Terry Letitia Hardy. On Monday, May 2, "Othello" will be reproduced at the Lyceum, with Mr. Irving, Mr. Edwin Booth, and Miss Terry in the principal parts, and will be repeated on alternate days each week. The first week Mr. Booth will play Othello, and Mr. Irving Iago. The ensuing week Mr. Irving will enact the noble Moor, and Mr. Booth the "demi-devil." It is very generous and courteous (noblesse oblige) on the part of the actor-manager of the Lyceum to extend the hospitalities of his theatre to the distinguished American tragedian; but I confess that I do not at all like this "chopping and changing" system, and that I fail to see what good can come out of it to the cause of dramatic art. It is eminently a "sensational" way of doing things, and is provocative not only of those comparisons which are proverbially odious, but also of a direct spirit of partisanship, which had best be avoided. Mr. Irving has his enthusiastic adherents on one side, and Mr. Booth his on the other. There is room enough for them both on different platforms, but scarcely on the same stage. Their styles, idiosyncrasies and mannerisms are distinctly different and antagonistic. To the dramatic critics the task of deciding on the relative merits of the two tragedians as presented under the "chopping and changing system" will be peculiarly invidious and ungrateful. But the critics are not persons whose feelings should be considered by anybody. On the intervening evenings Mr. Tennyson's grandly impressive "Cup," with "The Belle's Stratagem," will make up the bill.

This present Saturday Mrs. Kendal, suddenly snatched from the performance of her professional duties by an accident most painful in its nature, and which was within a hair's breadth of being fatal, is announced to make her reappearance in "The Money-Spinner." The admirable actress may count on an enthusiastic reception from her admirers—and their name is legion—at the St. James's. Sedulous medical care has made Mrs. Kendal "fit" again in (considering the really terrible circumstances of her mishap) a surprisingly short space of time; and I read in one of the daily papers that, "paradoxical as it may sound, the best rest for artists of a sanguine and nervous temperament is work." In degree I accept the paradox. I was once desperately ill for seven months. My doctors would not allow me to do any work, and I very nearly went mad. A year or two afterwards I was very nearly as desperately ill for six months; but I did my work throughout the half year nearly every day; although dictation had very often to be alternated by screams of agony. It is a very different thing, however, to have to stand on a public stage, blazing with gas, when your limbs are only just healed from being transfixed by the débris of a shattered cab. Mrs. Kendal must be as courageous as she is clever. During her enforced and lamented retention on the sick-list her part in "The Money-Spinner" was most intelligently sustained by that pretty and interesting young ingénue Miss Kate Pattison, who undertook the rôle literally at a moment's notice; for she was summoned from the dinner-table to appear on the stage of the St. James's, and played in her dinner dress to save time, so urgent was the emergency.

Miss Helen Barry is to appear at the Imperial Theatre, Westminster, in a series of dramas, commencing on the morning and evening of Monday next, March 14, with "Led Astray" and "A Lesson in Love."

G. A. S.

---

A notice of the new attractions at Mr. and Mrs. German Reed's entertainment was crowded out last week; and even now we must content ourselves with barely glancing at the elegant performances in St. George's Hall. Mr. Corney Grain's new sketch, "Our Institute," is a most amusing buffo-extravaganza; and in his rendering of the pompous inanities of Sir Peter Piper and local celebrities at the opening of the great Poodleborough Institution, and especially of the comic-heroic cantata composed for the occasion, he was never seen or heard to greater advantage. In the new second part, "All at Sea," Mr. Arthur Law has supplied a pleasant libretto, which Mr. Corney Grain has set to tuneful and appropriate music. The fun of the piece chiefly arises from a case of mistaken identity. Miss Leonora Braham (whom we are glad to welcome back) is to be congratulated on her clever delineation of the character of Miss Pikestaff, a spinster of an uncertain age; Mr. Alfred Bishop enacts an elderly magistrate capitally; Mr. Alfred Reed does his part well as a timorous lover; Miss Edith Brandon, as youthful May Hawker, is of course charming and graceful; and Mr. Corney Grain, as Lieutenant Shrapnel Snorter, of her Majesty's Navy, is as bluff and jolly a jack tar as ever led a boarding party. Of the agreeable musical and dramatic sketch "The Turquoise," which occupies the first place in the programme, it is needless to speak, as its merits have been often recognised. Throughout the night's performances the audience is kept in a continuous babble of laughter, which every now and then swells into hearty guffaws.

There is, we learn, in rehearsal, and shortly to be produced (first time in England), "Jeanne, Jeannette, and Jeanneton," a new opéra comique, by P. Lacome. The libretto by Robert Reece. An exceptionally strong company has been engaged, and the opera will be produced at the Alhambra Theatre, on a scale of great splendour.

MUSIC.

One specialty of last week—the successful reappearance of that admirable pianist, Madame Schumann, at the Monday Popular Concerts—has already been recorded. Another important musical event, the first of the new series of concerts of the Bach choir, occurred too late for comment until now. The occasion last indicated was one of great interest, having included performances of several works of classical importance. Bach's fine church cantata, "Ich hatte viel Bekümmerniss" (especially grand in the choral portions), the "Gloria" from Cherubini's Mass in D major, Schumann's short "Requiem for Mignon," and the finale to the first act of Mendelssohn's unfinished opera, "Loreley," were the principal features. The incidental solos were efficiently sung by Mdlle. Breidenstein, Miss Hope Glenn, Mr. E. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley, subordinate passages having been assigned to Mdlle. Lullemant and Mrs. Puer. The first movement of the late Sir W. S. Bennett's anthem "In Thee, O Lord," unaccompanied motets by Palestrina and Vittoria, and a madrigal by Pearsall were the other items of the programme. Mr. Otto Goldschmidt conducted, as usual. The second concert takes place on April 6.

"The Messiah" was very effectively given by the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society on Ash Wednesday, the solo portions by Miss A. Marriott, Madame Sterling, Mr. Maas, and Signor Ghilberti—Mr. Barnby having conducted, as usual. Mr. Arthur Sullivan's sacred musical drama "The Martyr of Antioch" is to be performed by the society on April 7, when the Princess of Wales is expected to be present.

Sir Michael Costa's second and grandest oratorio, "Naaman," was given by the Sacred Harmonic Society yesterday (Friday) week, conducted by the composer; the principal solo vocalists having been (as before) Mrs. Osgood, Miss Robertson, Madame Patey, Mr. Vernon Rigby, and Mr. Santley, with the addition of Mr. Kemmingham in some subordinate passages. The work was finely rendered in every respect, and produced a marked impression, several pieces having been encored. Sir M. Costa was enthusiastically applauded.

Last Saturday's Crystal Palace concert—the sixteenth of the series—continued the weekly performance of Schubert's eight symphonies, No. 5 (in B flat) having then been given. Of this charming work we have already spoken when noticing its first performance here in 1873, and again when it was repeated in 1875. An important feature at Saturday's concert was the appearance of Herr Joachim, who played with his well-known excellence Beethoven's violin concerto and Schumann's fantasia op. 131; the splendour of the former work, which came first, having rendered additionally evident the dulness of the latter, finely as this also was executed. A characteristic orchestral "Symphonic Poem," entitled "Vltava"—the composition of Herr Smetana—was introduced for the first time here. Each of its seven divisions contains some effective writing and some skilful instrumentation. The rest of the programme calls for no specific mention, beyond stating that Mdlle. Orgényi rendered some vocal pieces with much success.

At this week's Monday Popular Concert, Herr Barth was the pianist, his solo piece having been Beethoven's Sonata in G. (op. 29), which he rendered with much brilliancy, having replied to the continued applause which followed his performance by playing a piece by Scarlatti. Herr Barth was associated with Herr Joachim in some of Brahms's Hungarian Dances for piano and violin, these artists having co-operated with Signor Piatti in Schumann's Trio in F. Vocal pieces were very effectively sung by Madame Isabel Fassett.

The last of Mr. Sims Reeves's four Ballad Concerts at St. James's Hall took place on Tuesday evening, when the great tenor was heard in several familiar and popular vocal pieces. His son, Mr. Herbert Reeves, Madame Trebelli, and other eminent singers, and the members of the London Vocal Union, contributed to a varied programme, which also included brilliant violin performances by Herr Joachim, and pianoforte solos by Herr Coenen. Mr. Sims Reeves is to appear in oratorio at the Royal Albert Hall on eight farewell occasions, the dates being April 27, May 4, 18, and 25; and June 15, 22, and 29.

The Finsbury Choral Association announced its first concert at the Holborn Townhall on Thursday evening.

Mr. John Boosey's "London Ballad Concerts"—intermitted on account of Ash Wednesday—were resumed this week, with a programme of the usual varied and attractive nature.

The second concert of the new season of the Philharmonic Society was announced for Thursday evening, when the programme included the performance of Berlioz's dramatic symphony "Romeo et Juliette," for the first time in its entirety (in London), for many years.

The success of Mr. Carrodus's violin concert, at St. James's Hall, in January, was so great that a repetition was announced for yesterday (Friday) evening.

On Monday evening next, a "Henry Smart Memorial Concert" is to be given at the Royal Academy of Music, the programme consisting of selections from the deceased composer's works—organ pieces, part-songs, vocal trios, duets, and solos.——On the following evening, at St. James's Hall, the first of two concerts is to be given by M. C. Lamoureux (late conductor of the Paris Grand Opera).

At the Lower Norwood Institute, on Monday evening, the comic opera, H.M.S. Pinafore, was performed under the management of Miss Blanche Grey, in aid of the Royal Normal College for the Blind. The principal characters were sustained by children, the First Lord of the Admiralty being well personated by Miss Rose Clinton, aged seven. It was evident that great pains had been taken in the preparation of the entertainment, as it was entirely free from those little blemishes which so often mar amateur performances of a similar character.

---

The two first prizes for Upright and Grand Pianos at the Melbourne International Exhibition have been awarded to Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons, of London, who, at the recent Sydney Exhibition, gained the two first and only special prizes, and also the first prize at the one held at Brisbane a few months ago.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Andrew, H.; Vicar of Griston, Norfolk.
Bamford, R.; Vicar of Poulton.
Barnby Barmborough, J.; Chaplain of the Jews' Episcopal Chapel.
Bygrave, J. L., Curate of St. John's, Bedwardine, Worcester; Rector of New Radnor.
Carroll, G., Minor Canon in Worcester Cathedral.
Chadwick, E. T.; Rector of Great Waxton-with-Little Waxton, Norfolk.
Clement, G., Rector of St. Owen's, Jersey; Honorary Canon in Winchester Cathedral.
Copithorne, J. G.; Curate of Doune.
Dowdeswell, Edmund Richard, M.A.; Perpetual Curate of Bushley.
Eliot, P. F., Vicar of Holy Trinity, Bournemouth; Honorary Canon in Winchester Cathedral.
Elton, W. H., late Assistant-Master at Highgate School; Minor Canon and Precentor of Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand.
Fullarton, Hugh Scobie, M.A.; Rector of Stody-with-Hunworth, Norfolk.
Gardner, W.; Perpetual Curate of Langley, Essex.
Goss, W.; Curate-in-charge of St. Peter, Newbold.
Grant, C. R. A.; Curate of Dodderhill with Elmbridge.
Gray, Ven. Archdeacon, late of Canton; Rector of Hunsdon, Herts.
Hillier, Jenner Cole; Assistant-Chaplain of the St. Pancras Parochial Cemetery at Finchley.
Hutchison, Robert; Rector of Wendlebury, Oxon.
Jervis, W. H. H. R.; Rector of Cranford.
Legh, Henry Edmund; Chaplain to Dover Union Workhouse.
Lewis, David Phillips, M.A.; Rector of Llandinam.
Mackenzie Hughes, H. E.; Incumbent of St. Columba's, Nairn. Also Acting Chaplain to the 75th Brigade Depôt, Fort George, N.B.
Mayne, J., Vicar of St. Catharine, Gloucester; Secretary of the Gloucester Diocesan Conference.
Mansfield, J. S.; Senior Curate and Precentor of the Parish Church of St. Giles's, Camberwell.
Miles, Henry Broadway; Rector of Owermoigne, Dorset.
Nash, J. J.; Late Lecturing Minister of the New District of St. Thomas's, Finsbury Park, and Assistant Thursday Lecturer at St. Peter-upon-Cornhill; Vicar of St. John-the-Evangelist, Bradford, Yorkshire.
Powley, Matthew; Rector of Purley, Berks.
Price, Herbert; Vicar of Normanton, near Derby.
Savage, H. E.; Vicar of Pelton, Chester-le-Street.
Sewell, Henry, Vicar of Allsworth, Northleach, Gloucestershire; Vicar of St. Paul's, Cheltenham.
Smith, Charles Blomfield; Rector of Shelton-with-Hardwick, Norfolk.
Taylor, George, Curate of Pulborough; Vicar of Kirdford, near Petworth.
Tilley, Henry Bradley; Curate of Mossley.
Walker, Percy; Vice of St. Barnabas', Birmingham.
Williams, C., Chaplain of H.M. Prison, Morpeth; Chaplain of the Northumberland County Asylum.
Woodward, H. H.; Minor Canon in Worcester Cathedral.
Woodward, G. J.; Curate of Leytonstone, E.
Yeatman, H., Vicar of Sydenham; Honorary Secretary of the Rochester Diocesan Conference.
Young, H. Lindsey; Assistant-Master of Brunswick Chapel; Vicar of St. John's, Portsea.—Guardian.

---

The Queen has sent a donation of £10 towards the fund for restoring the National School buildings, Newport, Isle of Wight, partly destroyed by fire a short time since.

Two hand-some stained-glass windows, designed and executed by Heaton, Butler, and Bayne, have been placed in the chapel of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

The Rev. R. W. Enraght has been served with notice of motion, to be made before Lord Penzance on the 26th inst., for his re-committal to prison.

A supplementary estimate of £367,290 for the Civil Service and Revenue Departments includes an item of £4200, almost entirely made up of costs in the case of Mr. Pelham Dale, Mr Enraght, and others.

HOME NEWS.

The biennial ball on behalf of the Jews' Home for Deaf and Dumb was held at Willis's Rooms on Thursday.

During the gale and snowstorm of Jan. 18 and 19, 139 lives were saved by the rocket-apparatus on the coasts of the United Kingdom.

Sir Frederick Roberts, who is an old Etonian, was on the 3rd inst. presented with a sword of honour by the students of Eton College.

Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., on Tuesday laid the memorial-stone of a new Congregational chapel, which is in course of erection at Bromley, Kent.

The election of a member of Parliament for Coventry takes place to-day, in the place of Sir H. Jackson, Bart., Q.C., who last week was raised to the Bench, and who died on Tuesday last.

The Right Hon. Henry Fawcett, M.P., Postmaster-General, will take the chair at the tenth annual meeting of the Post Office Orphan Home next Wednesday evening at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall, Aldersgate-street.

The Duke of Westminster has accepted the office of president of the newly formed Chester Centre of the St. John Ambulance Association. Nearly 3000 certificates were issued to pupils during the three months ending Feb. 28, making a total of 20,000 now awarded.

A meeting of the Victoria (Philosophical) Institute was held on Monday evening, when Mr. R. Brown, F.S.A., reviewed the various theories as to the origin of language, indicating that which rested on the most complete evidence, and was in accordance with the general purpose of creation.

The Great International Hurdle-Race at Croydon on Tuesday produced a splendid finish between Lord Clive (11st. 5lb.) and Charles I. (12st. 3lb.), the former gaining a head victory. Thornfield (12st. 3lb., the favourite for the Grand National, was one of the fifteen competitors, but did not obtain a place.

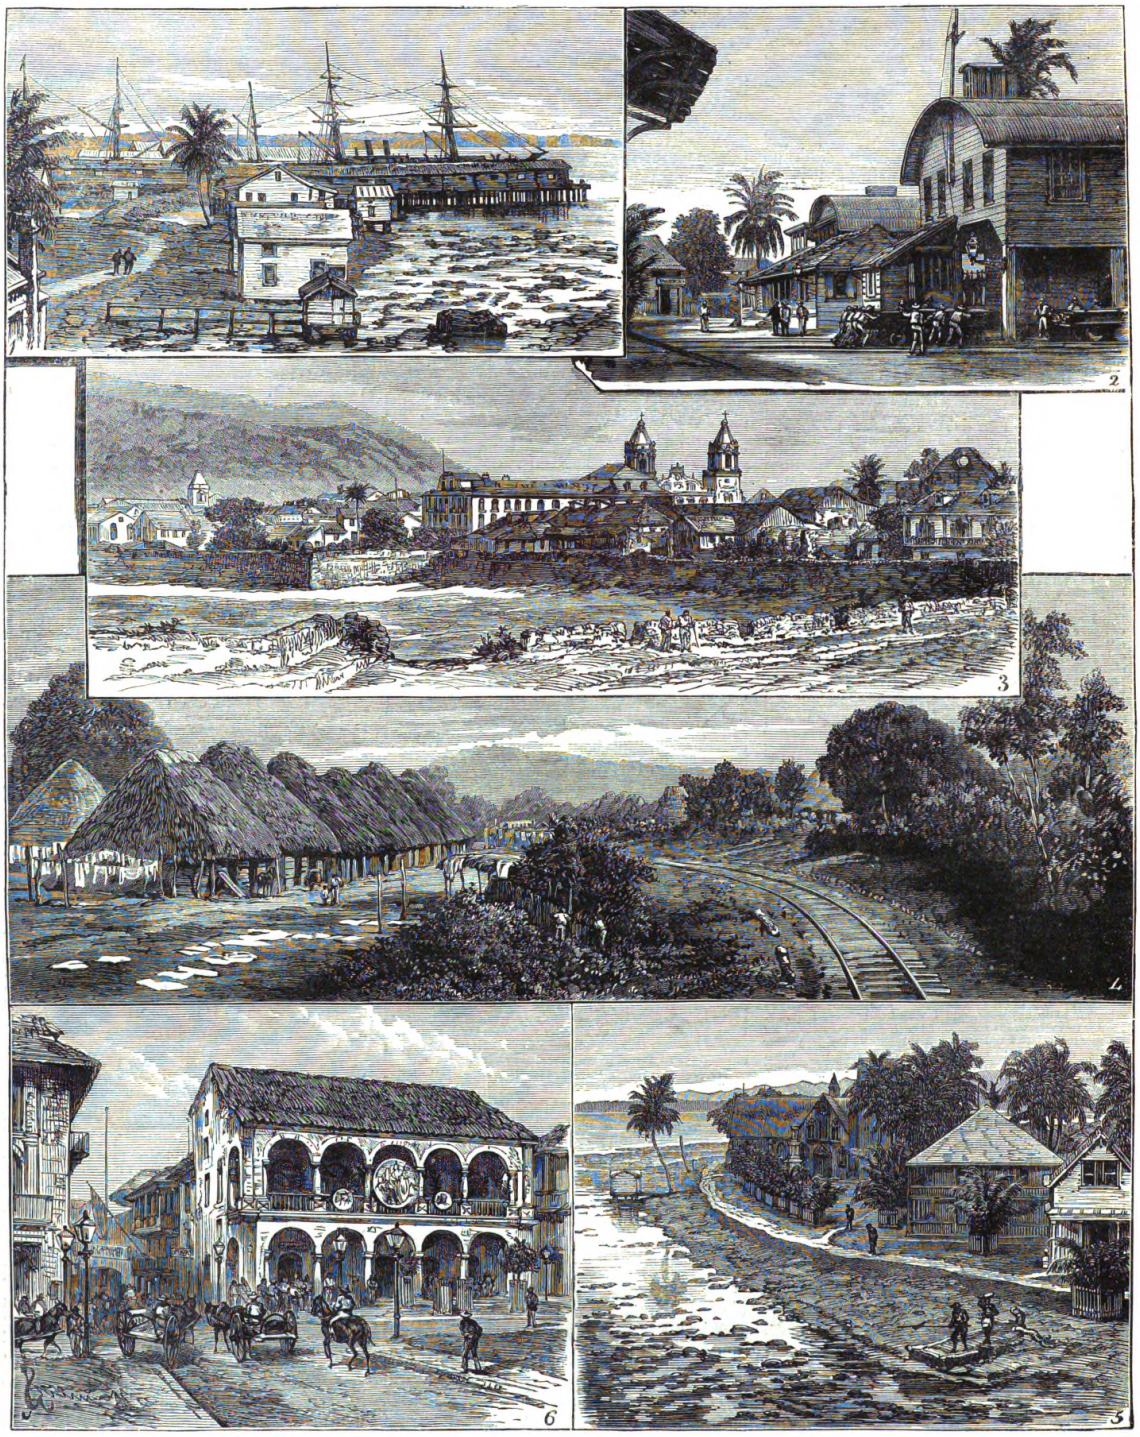
Viscount and Viscountess Folkestone took part in a free concert given to the poor of East London on Tuesday night at St. Mary's school-rooms, Whitechapel. Several artists of eminence in the musical world sang and played, to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

During the fourth week of February 100,283 paupers were relieved in the metropolis, against 98,917 in the corresponding week last year, and 80,758 in 1879. There is an increase in all the districts, except the west, as compared with last year. The number of vagrants relieved during the same period was 770.

A woman named Elizabeth Hutchins has been discovered to be the heir to an estate worth nearly £20,000, which has been in Chancery for many years. Hutchins has spent a great part of her life either in the workhouse, gaol, or lunatic asylum. Lately she has been living in a wretched house in Roath, Cardiff.

The arrival of live stock at Liverpool from the United States and Canada last week was a slight increase on that of the preceding week; of fresh meat there was a decrease; and, as regards mutton and hogs, there was a much larger quantity landed: making a total of 494 cattle, 226 sheep, 4571 quarters of beef, 1157 carcases of mutton, and 1113 hogs.

Mr. Edmund Yates presided at the annual dinner of the Newsvendors' Benevolent and Provident Institution, which took place yesterday week at Willis's Rooms. In proposing "Prosperity to the Institution," the chairman said that it had made great progress, but though the funds had increased so had the needs of the institution. After giving a humorous description of the miscellany of news and papers daily distributed by the newsvender, who, like St. Simeon Stylites, was "wet with drenching dews, or stiff with crackling frosts," the chairman concluded by referring to the good effected by the institution. Subscriptions amounting to nearly £800 were announced.



1. Port of Colon (Atlantic Coast). 2. Station at Panama (Pacific Coast). 3. Panama. 4. Pueblo Nuevo. 5. Colon. 6. Casa Cabildo, Townhall of Panama.

VIEWS ON THE ROUTE OF THE PANAMA CANAL.—SEE PAGE 246.

"GREAT EXPECTATIONS." BY W. D. SADLER.

FROM THE EXHIBITION OF THE SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE SILENT MEMBER.

The Candahar debate in the House of Lords was worthy the Imperial importance of Lord Lytton's motion. Never in the days of Lord Beaconsfield's supremely "high policy" did the chamber present a more brilliant appearance than it did on the Thursday and Friday of last week. Peers themselves assembled in battalions. The steps of the Throne and the galleries were thronged. Noblewomen filled the side balconies; and from her favourite coign of 'vantage H.R.H. the Princess of Wales, seated near the Duchess of Connaught, Princess Mary, and the Duke of Teck, on the first night seemed to rain influence and award the prize of her bright glances to the leading combatants in this political tournament. In one sentence may the pith of the debate be conveyed. Whereas, Lord Lytton (who has founded his animated oratorical style upon that of the ex-Premier), the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Cranbrook, and the Earl of Beaconsfield justified the Afghan War and the retention of Candahar on the score of Russian intrigues at Cabul and Russian designs on India viâ Afghanistan; Lord Enfield, the Earl of Derby, the Earl of Northbrook, the Duke of Argyll, and Earl Granville defended the Ministerial intention of retiring from Candahar on the pleas that the step would be in accordance with the essential interests of India, that the Russian scare existed only in the vivid imaginations of the Russophobists of the late Ministry, that the abandonment was just and expedient in itself, and that the occupation of the Afghan stronghold would entail a charge of something like a million and a half or two millions. Few, indeed, were the pearls of debate. It was reserved for Lord Beaconsfield to drop them. Ready laughter was forthcoming when he surmised Lord Northbrook was "a graduate for the higher honours of that refined school which would wage war, and at the same time negotiate peace, and negotiate with the more readiness if our arms had been defeated." Similarly appreciated was the noble Earl's shaft against Lord Derby, whose remarkable, clear, and emphatic condemnation of Lord Lytton's motion elicited the remark that, "I do not know that there is anything which could excite enthusiasm in him except when he contemplates the surrender of some national policy." Lord Beaconsfield kept quite a Disraelian phrase for the last:—"The key of India is not Herat or Candahar. The key of India is London!" Serene in the knowledge that he had coined and uttered another catchword, it was hardly to be wondered at that after the division—165 contents to 76 non-contents affirmed Lord Lytton's motion—the Earl of Beaconsfield should from force of habit have momentarily dropped into Earl Granville's place on the Treasury Bench—a mistake which his Lordship quickly corrected, laughing the while.

In the Upper as in the Lower House, the Armistice with the Boers has since been the engrossing theme, albeit other matters have been discussed. In asking Lord Kimberley for information regarding the Armistice, Earl Cadogan on Monday took upon himself to speak of the news as "almost incredible," incredible as such a remark may seem from so immature a politician. The Secretary for the Colonies confirmed the intelligence, however. The conversation that ensued between the Spiritual Lords was only notable for the spirit with which the Bishop of Peterborough fell upon Lord Granmore and Browne. The Government had no opposition to offer to the Primate's motion for a Royal Commission (costly as it may be) to inquire into the constitution of the Ecclesiastical Courts concerned in the recent clerical prosecutions. Tuesday's business was confined to passing through Committee the Alkali Works Regulation Bill and to confirming the claim of William John Manners to the titles of Earl of Dysart and Lord Huntingtower.

Mr. Gladstone on Thursday week made his first appearance in the House of Commons since his fall in the snow, a black silk skull-cap being the only reminder visible of his accident. The Prime Minister, indeed, looked remarkably well in face; and, upon taking his seat on the Treasury bench, smilingly bowed his acknowledgments of the genuinely hearty and prolonged cheering which came from both sides of the House. The cordial friendliness in the ring of the cheers was unmistakable. It is to be regretted that the resumed debate on the second reading of the Irish Disarmament Bill was marred by another discreditable and disorderly occurrence on the part of one or two Home-Rule members. The most determined of Mr. Parnell's associates is Mr. John Dillon. Black as night, his untamable hair, obstinate as himself, falls perversely awry over his forehead. Rouse him, and he is the type of resolute resistance to authority. Mr. Dillon (sketched in characteristic attitude) was in this mood on the night in question. He stoutly defended his friend John Devoy from the accusations the Home Secretary had hurled against him. He went on to urge objections to the Arms Bill. Farmers should have the right to keep firearms. Mr. Dillon went further. Were he an Irish farmer himself, and a body of men came to turn him out of house and land, he "should decidedly shoot as many of them as he could;" but, not being a farmer, he had not given that advice. This "don't-nail-his-ear-to-a-pump" line of argument (ironically cheered by the Home Secretary) was followed by the wish that the Irish people had the means of waging civil war—an expression which Mr. Dillon withdrew upon hearing the Speaker's remonstrance. Then uprose Sir William Harcourt in his most tragic style. The Home Secretary is limned as he gave the member for Tipperary the plain English of his dangerous language; and, looking towards the Home Rule benches, solemnly called upon Mr. Dillon's fellow Land Leaguers not to countenance the doctrine of Assassination enunciated by Mr. Dillon. His phrases now construed for him in Sir William Harcourt's most pungent style, Mr. Dillon earnestly disavowed his intention of sanctioning assassination. But the repudiation of his speech by one after another of his colleagues possibly proved to the hon. member that he had overstepped the bounds of prudence and legitimate argument. In spite of this repudiation, Mr. Healy had the effrontery to accuse the Home Secretary of "deliberate untruth," an accusation which he repeated in another form, and for which he was expelled the House for the remainder of the sitting. The following night saw Mr. Mitchell Henry vigorously denounce Mr. Parnell's ruinous policy after a speech from the Home Rule leader, and saw the bill read the second time by 145 to 34 votes. On Monday, in Committee, several clauses were carried; but on Tuesday some valuable time was lost in expelling the irrepressible Mr. O'Donnell, whose unrelenting garrulity and imperturbable self-sufficiency make him a bore of the first order. It is the constant obtrusion and incessant tongue-wagging of a handful of members of this class which hinder useful legislation. As a matter of self-protection, the House must extinguish them sooner or later, and the sooner the better.

A group or two of keenly intelligent-looking non-commissioned officers and privates in uniform were conspicuous in the gallery on the night of the Dillon episode. The attraction to them was evidently Mr. Childers's explanation of his new plan of Army Reform. But, thanks to Mr. Chaplin's joust on behalf of the rights of private members, these estimable red-coats and not a few military men in mufti had to wait till after ten o'clock before they saw the Secretary for War portentously rise to expound the scheme of reorganisation. Succinctly stated, the changes proposed are few. Nineteen, instead of eighteen, is to be the lowest age at which a recruit can be received. Twelve years will continue to be the term of service; eight with the colours abroad, seven with the colours at home, and five with the Reserve; Sergeants and Corporals to have the option of re-enlisting, with the inducement of a pension at the end of twenty-one years' service. To strengthen the Reserve, men serving at home would be encouraged to join it after three or four years' service. To meet the case of our "little wars," Mr. Childers purposes rearranging the regulations so as to dispatch a corps d'armée, comprising eighteen battalions of the Line, three of the Guards, six regiments of cavalry, and seventeen batteries of artillery, without trenching on the four regiments of infantry needed for our ordinary reliefs. The Secretary for War had, furthermore, encouraging reforms to offer officers of all ranks, not forgetting the Militia, Yeomanry, or Volunteers, which latter auxiliary force is promised a review by her Majesty at Windsor in May or June, and a number of C.B.'s and K.C.B.'s for the most zealous and distinguished officers. Finally, flogging in the Army is to be abolished. If the reforms outlined by Mr. Childers do not come up to the expectations formed from Sir F. Roberts's sweeping speech at the Mansion House, they have the negative merit of opening the door to more drastic measures, if they be necessary.

It was noticeable at the beginning of the week that the tidings from Sir Evelyn Wood that he had on Sunday arranged a week's Armistice with the Boer leader, Commandant Joubert, were received with earnest cheers from the Radical benches, but with little if any sympathy from the Opposition. Lord Randolph Churchill, making himself the spokesman of this militant spirit, gave notice of a question directly challenging the expediency of negotiating with the Boers before the defeats at Laing's Nek, the Ingogo River, and at Majuba Hill had been wiped out. But there is reason to believe President Brand, of the Orange Free State, has been an active agent in bringing about the Armistice.

On Wednesday, it was incumbent on the Prime Minister to move that the remaining amendments to the Irish Disarmament Bill should be put without further debate at three o'clock. Carried "by a large majority." Dr. Lyon Playfair put each to the vote with business-like promptitude. Vainly did Mr. Parnell and Mr. Callan seek to browbeat the canny Chairman, who put the report, with the result that it was carried by 267 to 31 votes. Thursday night was fixed for the third reading of the Arms Bill.

"GREAT EXPECTATIONS."

Mr. W. D. Sadler, the rising young painter of this picture (which was shown to the public in the late exhibition of the Society of British Artists) must surely be a devotee of the "gentle" art, a disciple of Isaac Walton. Several times, now, has he presented to us the watchful and wary, the patient and imperturbable old angler waiting for his bite under all sorts of unfavourable and discouraging conditions; while, in one memorable picture, in last year's Academy exhibition, he showed us a whole fraternity of monks, all of a row, fishing for their Friday's maigre dinner. Or, rather, is not the artist a renegade from the cultus of the rod and a traitor to its mysteries? So ludicrous does he make its votaries appear sometimes that one cannot help recalling the well-known definition—by whom was it?—of angling—"a rod with a worm at one end and a fool at the other." Be this as it may, we confess that we rather sympathise on this occasion with the fisher. He is displaying qualities which, otherwise directed, constitute heroism and achieve victory. His "great expectations" may end in little here, his patience may have as futile an end as often have the "law's delays;" but, as a rule, the man who has the "staying power" to bide his time is he who finally wins in the race of life.

THE COURT.

At the Council held last week by the Queen at Windsor Castle the Marquis of Huntly and Sir Arthur Hobhouse were introduced and sworn in members of the Privy Council. Her Majesty pricked the Sheriffs at the Council, and subsequently gave audiences to Earl Spencer and the Right Hon. J. Bright. Señor Holgoin, Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States of Colombia, presented his credentials, and Dr. Risdon Bennett, president of the Royal College of Physicians, was knighted. Princess Beatrice was present at the ceremonies. Lieutenant-General the Hon. A. Hardinge dined with and had an interview with the Queen the following morning, on his departure for India to assume the command of the troops at Bombay. Major-General Sir F. Sleigh Roberts also had an interview with and took leave of her Majesty on his departure for the Cape of Good Hope to succeed the late Major-General Sir G. Pomeroy Colley as commander of the troops in Natal and the Transvaal.

Count Nöer (Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein) and Countess Nöer visited the Queen on Thursday week, and Princess Louise of Lorne arrived at the castle. Her Majesty's dinner party included Princess Louise, Princess Beatrice, Lady Churchill, Lady Sophia Macnamara, the Hon. Horatia Stopford, Lord Methuen, Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby, Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Maude, and Colonel Maude.

Princess Louise of Lorne left the next day; and Prince Lucien Bonaparte visited the Queen and remained to luncheon. Lady Frances Baillie and Miss Baillie, the Dean of Windsor, and the Hon. and Rev. Charles L. and Lady Caroline Courtenay dined with her Majesty.

Last Saturday the Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, went to Claremont to visit Prince Leopold, who had been slightly indisposed. Her Majesty remained to luncheon.

The Queen, Princess Beatrice, and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein attended Divine service on Sunday in the private chapel of the castle, the Rev. Edward Capel Cure, Rector of St. George's, Hanover-square, officiating. Her Majesty and the Princesses drove out in the afternoon, and the Hon. Lady Biddulph joined the Royal dinner circle.

The Queen and Princess Beatrice went to St. George's Chapel on Monday and inspected the monuments lately erected there. Countess Karolyi had an audience of her Majesty. Major C. J. Bromhead, elder brother of Major Bromhead arrived at the castle, and presented to the Queen from Lieutenant-Colonel Degacher and the officers of the second battalion 24th Regiment the staff and crown of the colours of the battalion, which were recovered after the battle of Isandhlana.

The Queen's granddaughters, Princesses Victoria and Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, have been on a visit to her Majesty during the absence of their parents from Windsor.

In a telegram to Maritzburg from the Queen, expressing her deep sympathy for the widow of General Sir George Colley, her Majesty desired that special provision should be made for Lady Colley, who has additional claims, she being the daughter of a distinguished general officer.

A Drawingroom will be held by her Majesty at Buckingham Palace next Friday; and a Levée will be held at St. James's Palace by the Prince of Wales on the 21st inst.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales, after paying farewell visits to the Emperor and Empress of Germany and other Imperial relatives, to the Grand Duke Alexis Alexandrovitch, the Duke and Duchess d'Ossuna, Prince Bismarck, and other friends, left Berlin yesterday week on his return, viâ Darmstadt and Paris, to London. His Royal Highness was accompanied to the railway station by the Crown Prince and Princess, and Prince and Princess William of Germany, Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, and the Hereditary Prince and Princess of Saxe-Meiningen. The Prince arrived at the Hôtel Bristol, Paris, on Tuesday. The Princess of Wales returned to Marlborough House after her visit to the Queen at Windsor.

In accordance with an ancient custom, as announced in this paper, the Princess has presented a horseshoe to Oakham Castle in commemoration of her visit. The shoe, which was manufactured at the works of Lord Aveland, and is gilt, has been fastened to one of the walls of the castle, the inscription being—"Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales, 1881."

The Prince will preside at the forthcoming Festival in aid of the Royal Hospital for Children and Women, Waterloo Bridge-road.

---

The Duke of Edinburgh, accompanied by the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, arrived at Clarence House, St. James's, on Saturday evening from Berlin. The Duchess of Edinburgh and Prince Lobanoff met the Princes on their arrival at Charing-cross station.

Princess Louise of Lorne left town last Saturday en route for Italy. Her Royal Highness travelled from Charing-cross, viâ Boulogne and Paris, to Ventimiglia, where she was received with due honours on Monday.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, with the Duke of Cambridge and the Duke and Duchess of Teck, were in the House of Lords yesterday week during the discussion on the Earl of Lytton's motion respecting Candahar. The Duke of Connaught has consented to preside at the anniversary festival of the Hospital for Sick Children in Great Ormond-street, Bloomsbury, which will take place at Willis's Rooms next Wednesday; and he will on the 30th preside at a dinner, also at Willis's Rooms, for the benefit of Princess Mary's Village Home for Girls.

The Duchess of Cambridge received by telegraph last Saturday the news of the death of her brother, Prince George Charles of Hesse, which occurred at Frankfort the previous night, he having only survived his sister, the Dowager Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, ten weeks. Prince George was upwards of eighty-eight years old, and unmarried.

Princess Frederica of Hanover (Baroness Von Pawel Rammingen) was safely delivered of a daughter at 2.35 p.m. on Monday at Hampton Court Palace. Dr. W. S. Playfair and Mr. W. H. Roots were in attendance. Both mother and child are doing well.

Prince and Princess Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein visited the Mansion House on Tuesday with the young Princesses and lunched with the Lord Mayor. Having been shown over the Mansion House, Prince Frederick entered the justice-room and remained for a short time. The Royal party afterwards inspected Guildhall, the Bank of England, and the Royal Exchange.

The weather in Cheshire the past week has prevented the Empress of Austria availing herself of some of the meets arranged for her pleasure; but her Majesty has had runs with the Cheshire, the South Cheshire, the North Cheshire (Captain Park Yates's), and Sir Watkin Wynn's hounds; Lord Combermere, with Lord and Lady Alexander Paget and other members of the family frequently accompanying the Empress in the chase. Her Majesty has also visited her niece, Countess Larisch, who, with her husband, Count George Larisch, is staying at the Victoria Hotel, Whitchurch, for a fortnight's hunting.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

We are happy to announce that a pause in the needless and profitless hostilities with the Dutch people of the Transvaal has been secured for this week, and that negotiations are going on, which it is earnestly hoped may speedily procure an amicable settlement. It has, from the first, been pointed out, in the comments we have made upon this question, what are the kind of conditions to be laid down for a safe and satisfactory arrangement, providing ample and efficient securities both for the moderate amount of British interests concerned in the Transvaal and for the welfare and good treatment of the Kaffir and other native populations. These conditions should not involve any British interference with the domestic independence and self-government of the Transvaal Commonwealth within its own proper territorial limits; but its boundary will have to be strictly defined on the north, west, and east sides, confining it henceforth to the upland plain, the Hooge Veldt, which was actually held and occupied by this community of Dutch farmers in 1852, at the date of the Convention that guaranteed the existence of their Republic. The districts of Utrecht and Lydenburg, on the eastern frontier, bordering upon Natal and Zululand, and adjacent to the Swazis' and Sekokuni's country, did not form part of the original Transvaal territory; and it is in these eastern districts that some few British and German settlements have been introduced. And here also the result of the late British military operations against Cetewayo and Sekokuni may be considered to have begotten certain obligations of her Majesty's Government towards the native tribes. We should not, therefore, regard it as an unreasonable demand, on the part of our Government, that these districts, Utrecht and Lydenburg, should be retained under British dominion. And if it be a fact, as we are now informed, that the Portuguese Government has consented to cede the fine harbour of Delagoa Bay to Great Britain, a short railway from that harbour to the upland in the Lydenburg or the New Scotland district, the line projected by Mr. G. P. Moodie five years ago, would be a feasible and most beneficial work. On the northern frontier, likewise, beyond the Luluberg and Waterberg mountains, the extensive region of Zoutpansberg and Waterberg should be reserved from Boer encroachments for the future, and should be protected, by a British guarantee, and by very explicit stipulations with the Transvaal, for the unmolested abode of the native population. It will further be requisite, on the west side, to prohibit the Boers from encroaching upon several tribes in the territory contemplated by the "Keate Award" ten or twelve years ago. With these reservations, which are of the nature of a territorial limitation, there is no reason why the amplest political independence, as a separate and distinct Republic, should not be conceded to the Transvaal. Its position would then be equal to that of the Orange Free State; and the British Imperial Government, with the neighbouring British Colonies, might remain upon friendly terms both with the one and the other Dutch Commonwealth, and might soon obtain their concurrence in a general system of policy with regard to the native races of South Africa. We are perfectly convinced that all this is quite practicable; and now is the time for its consideration, while there is a brief respite from the rash and violent procedure of military coercion, which has already cost so much bloodshed, and has won us so little advantage or honour.

The armistice concluded on Sunday last between General Sir Evelyn Wood and Mr. P. J. Joubert, one of the three members of the Transvaal Provisional Government, is designed to allow time for a reply to be given by the Dutch to Sir George Colley's last communications, and for any further negotiations with a view to peace. The meeting took place half-way between the lines, the English being represented by General Sir E. Wood, Major Brazer, Captain Maude, and two other officers; and the Boers by P. J. Joubert, D. C. Uys, C. J. Joubert, and C. S. Fouchee; A. J. Forster acting as interpreter. The terms are as follow:—

"We mutually agreed to a cessation of all hostilities from noon on the 6th to midnight on the 14th. The conditions are these:—1. Both parties promise not to make any forward movements from their present positions, but each party retains his liberty of movement within his own lines. 2. General Wood is free to send in eight days' provisions, but no ammunition, to the Transvaal garrisons; and the Boer officers undertake to pass the provisions to such garrisons. 3. Mr. Joubert undertakes to send notice of the armistice conditions to the British representatives of the garrisons and the Boer commanders at once, and will use his influence to induce the Boer commanders to allow the withdrawal of the British wounded from all the Transvaal garrisons into Natal."

On Sunday night waggons with supplies were dispatched to Potchefstroom, Standerton, and Wakkerstroom. We are told that Mr. Brand, the Orange Free State President, has been doing his utmost to procure a peaceable settlement of the questions at issue between the English and the Boers. He is now reported to be in the Boer camp at Laing's Nek with that object. There is good hope of a satisfactory result.

The Lady's Pictorial, a new weekly illustrated journal for ladies, vies with the established papers and monthlies of the same class in presenting plates of the latest Paris fashions. But this attractive newcomer, so far from confining itself to dress, extends its sphere, and offers carefully executed engravings of current events likely to interest ladies, interspersed with a variety of essays and articles.

FINE ARTS.

DUDLEY GALLERY.

In this present General Exhibition of Water-Colour Drawings at the familiar gallery in Piccadilly there is a manifest falling off, which may not be difficult to explain. For many years the Dudley enjoyed a monopoly, as it were, of the best water-colour work produced outside the societies in Pall-mall: it had a numerous committee—too numerous, probably—each with vested interests, and some with a following or belonging to a clique. The consequence is that no sooner are other galleries available than many of the best productions of the "general" body of water-colour painters are sent elsewhere.

Amongst the mass of small and generally premature and laboured or careless and pretentious drawings here, there are still, it is true, a considerable number possessing fair merit or promise; but there are scarcely any of unquestionable or commanding ability. The committee must have been in some straits to have given the usual post of honour to J. White's picture of an ill-favoured child seated before a money-box, called "The Way the Money Goes" (224), which, beyond breadth, boldness, and freedom of handling, has little to recommend it. One of the most ambitious figure-compositions is by J. W. Waterhouse (103)—representing the body of St. Eulalia lying in the Forum during the fall of snow that shrouded it, a drawing evincing thought, and containing good passages, but failing to convey the effect of snow. P. Macquoid's figure of a graceful girl "Bringing in the Peacock at Christmas" (38) is effective and good in colour. "Happy be thy Dreams" (14), by F. Dadd—an old angler fallen asleep while a litter of young pigs devour the spoils of his art and his provisions—is distinguished by sound draughtsmanship. We have also to mention with commendation J. H. Henshall's "An Argument" (403); "Evening" (298), by A. Stocks—an old woman trimming her lamp; two idyllic subjects by Walter Crane, which have, of course, to be judged from the decorative point of view; Miss Constance Phillott's pretty classical decorative figure of a girl (162); and drawings, large in manner, and showing more training than many here, by the foreign artists Roussouff, Carlandi, Franz, and Cabianca. The "Roccu di Papa" (261), by the last, has impressiveness that inclines, however, to the melodramatic. With these may fairly be associated Miss Bertha Newcombe's three studies of "Mère-Morot" (563), W. Langley's "In a Cornish Village" (282), and R. Dawson's weird little drawing, "The Feast of the Dead" (172)—Japanese pining coloured lanterns in an avenue of tombs at twilight. Foreign influence is plainly discernible in D. Woodlock's head of an old woman laughing in a white coif, called "Dame Quickly" (637), and "Under the Willows" (270), by W. Stott, with a little French tricoteuse in a chequer of sunlight. These painters (both of whose names are new to us) aim, like the French impressionistes and a section of the Dutch school, at rendering the masses of colour-tones and light and shade in just relations with little heed to detail, as such, and it is impossible to deny that the result is artistic so far as it goes. G. M'Culloch has a brawny semi-nude Puddler, dimly seen between two furnace-fires (479), which attains something of grandiose Michael-Angelesque character, despite the disproportionate largeness of the head.

Among the landscapes is a small drawing, "In the Pass of Killiecrankie" (603), bearing the name of John Ruskin. It is a study, and a most careful and loving study of rocks; but it has not, nor indeed does it pretend to have, the requisites for a picture. The colour is artificial in parts, as in the dense ultramarine sky reflexes in the water, and in the foliage of the background, which is picked out in body-colour, with something of the effect of old gouache. At the head of the room hang appropriately as pendants a landscape by A. Parsons, depicting a sombre effect of the rainy "June of 1879," and a flooded river view under a rainy sky by W. G. Addison. The treatment in the former is more solid, in the latter more transparent, but both are good in their way; and Mr. Addison has made a decided advance in this and other small works. It is pleasant to have to say as much of A. W. Weedon, whose "Storm-Cloud—Pevensey" (75), is broader and finer, particularly in the sky, than any previous work of his that we remember. H. Moore repeats himself less than usual in No. 345, a "seascape," looking from sands left wet by the receding tide, with a cloud casting its shadow over the middle-distance—a piece of close observation and vigorous record. "The Approach to Westminster" (395)—from the Embankment—by H. M. Marshall, is one of the most admirable drawings here, though we have seen other works by this artist still truer in the atmospheric gradations. H. Macallum has found a favourable opportunity for displaying his relish for rich colour in a bit of the emerald and azure sea off "Sorrento" (103). A word of warm commendation is due to the delicacy and truth of Miss Mary Forster's view at "Ringwood, Hants" (64). A very faithful piece of landscape draughtsmanship is "The Valley of Ecclesburne" (325), by T. Clark. We have on former occasions praised the unity of impression in J. Knight's drawing (recalling somewhat the works of the early masters of water colour), but the examples here strike us as routine reproductions, mannered and monotonous. A small drawing by J. M. Deane, low down on one of the screens (555), showing a last gleam of sunset on an Alpine peak, is strikingly truthful, and not less masterly in execution; assuredly it should have been on "the line." There are contributions also by artists whose merits are more or less well known, such as Frank Walton, J. E. Grace, Arthur and Walter Severn, C. R. Aston, &c. Other drawings which will repay the visitor's notice are "Evicted" (23), a head of a pretty Irish girl, by Mary Eley; No. 73, by Rosa Koberwein; "Awaiting Sentence" (122), by F. G. Cotman; "Leonisa" (105), by J. H. Henshall; "Nuneaton Market-place" (152), by Patty Townsend; "Loch Pityoulish, Inverness-shire" (197), by Gertrude Martineau; "A Mussulman" (223), by W. C. Wontner; "An Arab Sheikh" (340), by H. R. Rose; "A Sussex Shepherd and Sheep" (357), by J. Richardson; portraits of children by the late J. Moore; and contributions by Messrs. Pedder, Glennie, R. W. Allen, and S. Paget.

An exhibition of paintings on canvas in imitation of tapestry by lady amateurs and artists has been opened in a new gallery on the premises of Messrs. Howell and James, Regent-street. This new, or rather revived art—for it was formerly practised in Holland and France—has lately been cultivated with considerable success. A set of stains or dyes have been prepared by chemists, and classes in connection with this exhibition have been formed under the direction of Mr. Doulevy and Miss Florence Judd. Although these paintings do not, of course, equal in character of colour the productions of the loom with woven self-coloured threads, and although they do not convey the charming broken playful effect of real tapestry, they yet form a very acceptable substitute where costly tapestries are unattainable, and open a new field of employment for amateurs and artists. Some of the paintings shown are original designs; others are copies of fine ancient works; and several have much merit.

In our notice last week of Mr. Millais' works at the Fine Art Society we inadvertently stated that the picture of the "Princess Elizabeth Prisoner at St. James's" had been engraved by Mr. Cousins; we should have said that the engraver was Mr. T. L. Atkinson.

A very fine collection of engravings in mezzotinto, illustrating the history of the art down to the time of David Lucas, is on view at the Burlington Fine-Arts Club.

A new Government School of Art was opened at Penzance on Monday by the Mayor (Mr. F. Bonse), the Corporation, and school committee. The new buildings are in the Morral fields, and are well adapted for the required purposes. The school was opened with a fine-art exhibition, comprising 450 works of art. South Kensington supplies twenty-two paintings in oils, one hundred water-colours, historical series from 1710, illuminations, coloured photographs, and four cases of metal-work, wood and ivory carving, &c., besides valuable china and a porcelain vase lent by H.M. the Queen. The exhibition remains open twelve days.

The authorities of the National Gallery of Berlin have decided to hold very shortly an exhibition of the works of English etchers.

The Crown Prince of Germany has bought Rubens' magnificent picture of "Neptune and Amphitrite," which has hitherto been one of the principal ornaments of the celebrated picture-gallery of Count Schönborn, in Vienna. The price paid for the work is £10,000.

BISHOP PATTESON MEMORIAL CHURCH.

The lamented death, in 1871, of John Coleridge Patteson, Bishop of the Missionary Diocese of Melanesia, is a striking incident of the history of religious and philanthropic enterprise. He was cruelly slain, probably under a mistaken impression of the object of his visit, by the savage natives of Santa Cruz, one of the small islands in the Western Pacific Ocean, belonging to what is called the Melanesian group, a name derived from the blackish colour of its population, who are of the Papuan negroid race. He had been appointed first Bishop of Melanesia, a diocese created by the efforts of the late Bishop of New Zealand, the Right Rev. Dr. Selwyn, afterwards Bishop of Lichfield. A son of that eminent prelate is John Richardson Selwyn, who now holds the Melanesian Bishopric. This Episcopal See, with the head-quarters of the mission, is fixed at Norfolk Island, where a church has lately been erected, and dedicated to St. Barnabas, which will serve both as a memorial of Bishop Patteson and as a collegiate chapel. It is externally not a very imposing edifice; the walls are chiefly built of coarse native sandstone, but the upper part of these walls, on two sides, has been constructed of wood, and they are only 17 ft. high; while the west front and porch have no pretensions to beauty. The interior, however, is described as having a considerable degree of elegance and dignity; the inner walls are of white hewn stone, laid in alternate courses, which has a very good effect; while the high-pitched open roof, of Norfolk Island pine with Kauri planking, rises to a fair elevation. The nave is 54 ft. long by 27 ft. 6 in. wide; there are two small transepts, used as a vestry and organ-chamber; and an apsidal chancel, 24 ft. wide, which is beautifully decorated. The steps to the chancel are of black Devonshire marble, and it is paved with marble of two colours in an ornamental pattern. The reredos, of black walnut, with mosaic panels, the five pointed windows of stained glass, representing Christ and the four Evangelists, the fine organ, the font, and other furniture of this church, are handsome accessories to the building.

We present a page of Sketches, by the Rev. Philip Walsh, showing the church, outside and inside, with the clergy and congregation assembled on Dec. 7, for the consecration service. Amongst these were Bishop J. R. Selwyn, of Melanesia; Bishop Stuart, of Waiapu, New Zealand; Archdeacon Maunsell, of Waitemata; the Rev. G. H. Nobbs, Colonial chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Kinder, and some other clergymen; Mr. Mills, M.P. for Exeter; Lieutenant Mills, R.E., and many other visitors, besides the members and native scholars of the Melanesian Mission. The Bishop of Melanesia having taken his seat, Mr. J. H. Upton, trustee of the Mission property, advanced to the chancel steps, and read a request that the church might be consecrated. The Bishop having read his consent, the clergy marched round the interior of the building, repeating the 115th Psalm, "Not unto us, O Lord, but to Thy Name give the praise." The consecration service, which was in the Mota language, was then proceeded with by Bishop Selwyn taking the principal part; after which, came the morning prayer and the communion service. The sermon, from the text, Isaiah liii. 2, was preached by the Rev. B. T. Dudley, Incumbent of St. Sepulchre's, Auckland, formerly some years with the Mission. At the end of the service a hymn was sung, which had been composed for the occasion.

BROMPTON HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTION.

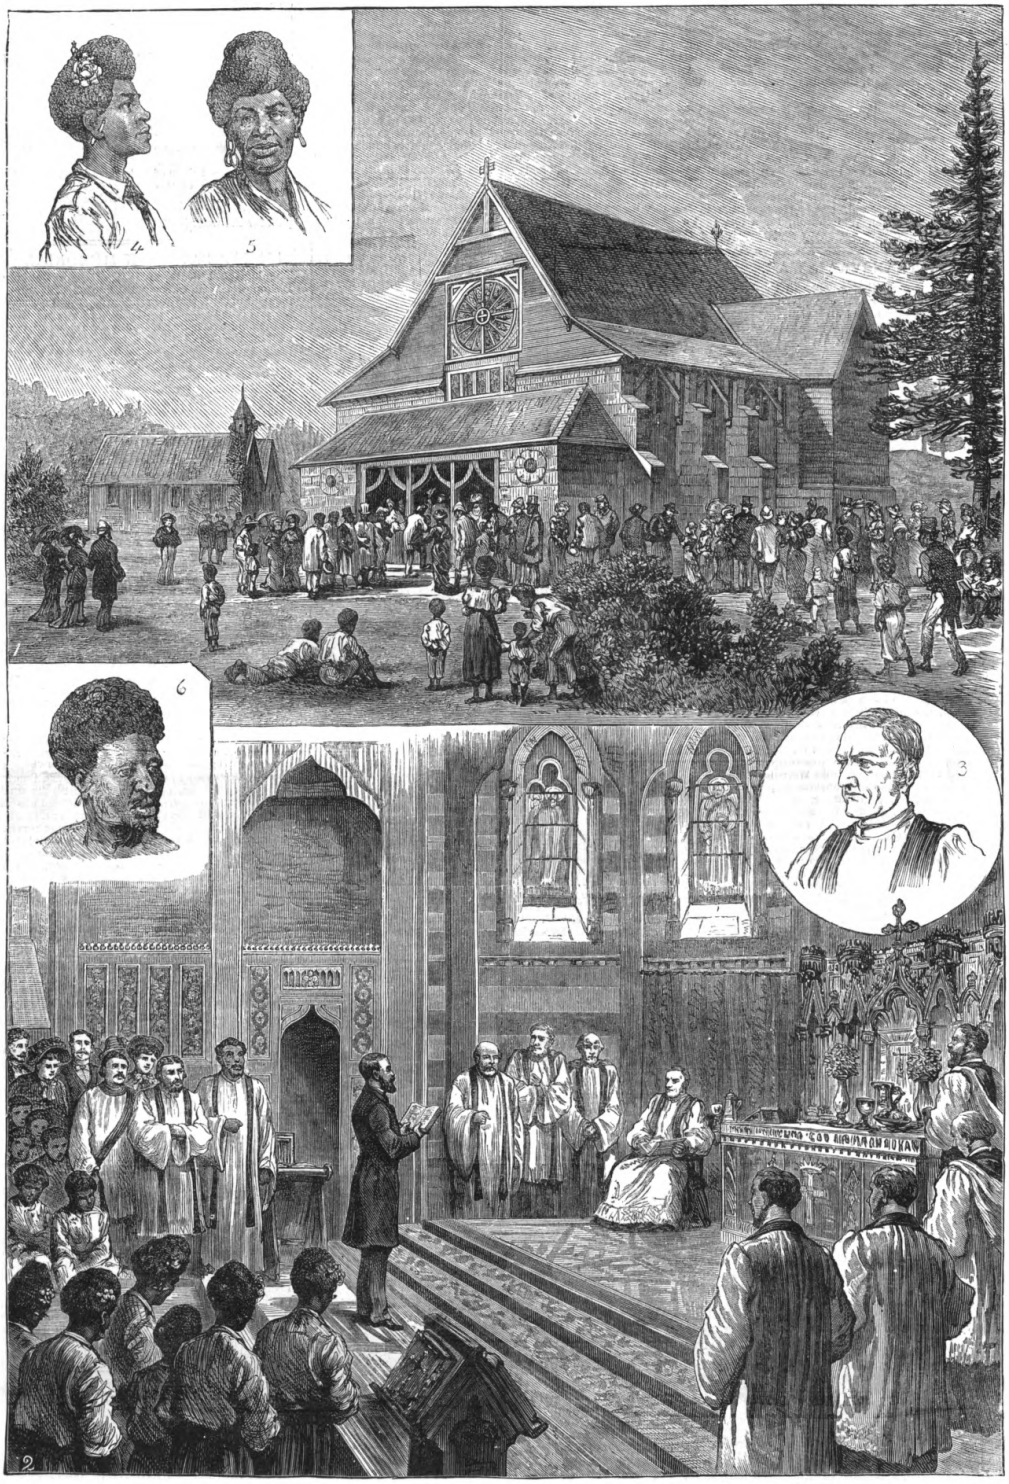
The usual weekly entertainment took place on Tuesday evening, when a great treat was provided, by the kindness of Messrs. Carpenter and Westley, who gave their interesting exhibition of dissolving views with the oxy-hydrogen lime-light. On the preceding Tuesday a concert was given by Miss Matilda Roby, who has several times contributed by her charming talent to the amusement of the patients. On this occasion she was assisted by Miss Annie Matthews, Miss Maude Longhurst, Mr. Henry Taylor, Mr. James Budd, and Mr. Michael Watson.

The Bishop of Derry is announced to preach a special sermon at Brompton church on Sunday morning next (to-morrow) in behalf of the maintenance and extension of the Consumption Hospital, Brompton. A sermon for the same object will also be preached in the evening by the Rev. H. White, Chaplain of the Savoy, and Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen. The Rev. W. Covington, the Vicar, says that, as this is the first occasion on which the cause of the hospital has been pleaded in the parish church, he earnestly commends it to the kind consideration of the congregation. The Vicar also states that a gentleman has promised a donation of £52 10s. (life governorship) upon condition that three other members of the congregation will do the same, and that a lady has promised £5 5s. annually upon similar terms.

A penny bank, established by the National Thrift Society, was opened last Monday evening at the Board Schools, Portobello-road. There were a large number of depositors, and more than 500 accounts were begun, the deposits ranging from one penny to £2. It is intended to establish similar banks in many of the Board schools.

At the Agricultural Hall, Islington, there is an excellent exhibition of domestic labour-saving appliances and articles for the promotion of household thrift. A deeply interesting spectacle is to be witnessed. Blind men and women from the Institution of the Association for the Welfare of the Blind, in Berners-street, are there chopping fire-wood, making brushes, brooms, baskets, mash-lines, &c. This institution was founded by Miss Gilbert, the blind daughter of the late Bishop of Chichester.



1. Exterior of the Church, with Congregation Assembling.
2. Reading the Request of the Trustees for Consecration.
3. The Bishop of Melanesia (the Right Rev. J. R. Selwyn).
4, 5, and 6. Native Students of Melanesian Church Mission.

CONSECRATION OF THE BISHOP PATTESON MEMORIAL CHURCH (ST. BARNABAS), NORFOLK ISLAND.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

CAPTAIN C. GREER, R.A., KILLED IN THE TRANSVAAL.

MR. LAMONT YOUNG, GOVERNMENT GEOLOGIST, DISAPPEARED IN AUSTRALIA.

OFFICERS KILLED IN THE TRANSVAAL.

We give the portraits of two more of the officers who have lately fallen in the disastrous conflicts with the Boers on the Natal border of the Transvaal country.

Captain Carlile Greer, of the Royal Artillery, was an officer of much experience, and in the prime of life. He was born on May-day, 1841, and entered the Royal Artillery as a Lieutenant June 25, 1862, serving in the New Zealand War of 1863-4, and being present at the attack on the Gate Pah and in the action at Maketu. He was advanced to the rank of Captain in July, 1875, and went out to the Cape with his battery during the course of the Zulu War, being appointed an Adjutant of the Royal Artillery in March, 1880. Latterly he had been serving as temporary Aide-de-Camp to Sir Hercules Robinson, the Governor and Commander-in-Chief at the Cape of Good Hope.

Lieutenant Edward Inman, 60th Rifles, was born in 1852. He entered the Army as a private soldier in a cavalry regiment, but was discharged as being under age. He again enlisted, and worked his way up to the position of Troop Sergeant-Major. After six years' service in the ranks he received an officer's commission in the 10th Hussars. Having remained in his regiment for some time, he effected an exchange with Lord Alwyn Compton, of the Grenadier Guards. Last year he exchanged again with Lieutenant Archer Crawley, of the 60th Rifles, and it was while serving with his new regiment in the capacity, it is said, of Acting Adjutant, that he lost his life.

LIEUTENANT INMAN, 60TH RIFLES, KILLED IN THE TRANSVAAL.

MR. LAMONT YOUNG, OF SYDNEY.

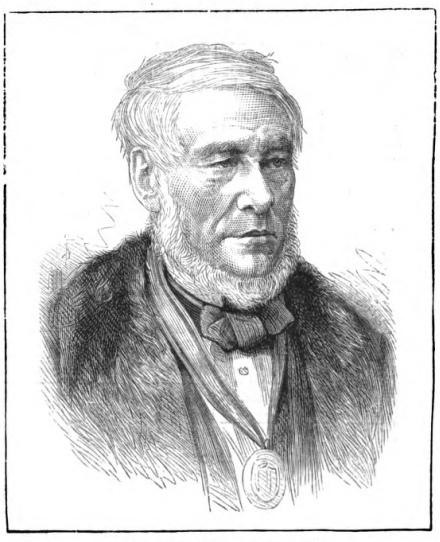
Much anxiety and regret has been caused in New South Wales by the disappearance of Mr. Lamont Young, the Government Geological Surveyor, who was sent from Sydney to report on the Bermagui gold-field, and of the party by whom he was accompanied. The others are Mr. Max Schneider, of the Government Mines Department at Sydney, and three boatmen, named Casey, Towers, and Lloyd. Bermagui is on the coast, 180 miles south of Sydney. Mr. Young went on the day of his arrival at Bermagui to cross the bay in a centre-board boat. Two days afterwards the boat was found jammed among rocks on the coast, about ten miles to the northward, and no trace could be discovered of its occupants. Among the explanations devised for their disappearance was that they had been drowned and the boat had drifted ashore. Later and closer examination of the spot, however, appears to prove that the boat was carefully navigated to the shore between the rocks, and that the party had a meal on shore after landing. The discovery of some bullet-holes in the boat and of a copper cartridge-case on the sand suggested the thought that the party had been attacked and murdered. This, again, seems to be refuted by careful examination, which fails to discover any traces that might be looked for if such a crime had been committed. There remains the fact that since that time, Oct. 9, 1880, all the members of the party, five in number, and all traces of them, have utterly disappeared. The coast has been searched, the country inland has been searched, but nothing can be learnt of the missing men after that landing at Corunna Point. The country inland is inhabited by settlers, and is fenced for some miles back from the shore, so that the loss of men in the bush seems to be a most improbable supposition. At present it is an unsolved mystery. The New South Wales Government has offered a reward of £200 for information to clear it up. We give a portrait of Mr. Young, who was an Associate of the Royal School of Mines in London. He was a son of Major-General C. B. Young, of the Royal Engineers, Bengal Army.

THE LATE HON. GRANTLEY F. BERKELEY.



THE LATE PROFESSOR TENNANT.

THE LATE HON. GRANTLEY BERKELEY.

This gentleman, the Hon. George Chas. Grantley Fitzhardinge Berkeley, who was born on Feb. 10, 1800, and died on the 23rd ult., at the age of eighty, was very well known to the public some forty years ago. He was the sixth of seven sons of the fifth Earl of Berkeley. Viscount Dursley, and Baron Berkeley, of Berkeley Castle, Gloucestershire, all by the same mother, who had been Miss Mary Cole; but the Earl's first alleged marriage to this lady, in 1785, was held by the House of Lords not to be regular, so that the four elder sons, born previously to her second marriage to the Earl in 1796, were pronounced illegitimate. The first-born of these, William Fitzhardinge Berkeley, was created Baron Segrave in 1831, and Earl Fitzhardinge in 1841, but died unmarried in 1857. The second became Admiral Sir Maurice Fitzhardinge Berkeley, G.C.B., a Lord of the Admiralty in Sir Robert Peel's Government, and M.P. for Gloucester, but in 1861 was created Baron Fitzhardinge, and upon his death, in 1867, was succeeded by his son, the present Lord Fitzhardinge, owner of Berkeley Castle. The third son, Augustus, and the fourth, Francis (who was Mr. F. H. Berkeley, M.P. for Bristol, the well-known advocate of the Ballot), have also died, the latter in 1870. The fifth son, but first of those reckoned legitimate, is the present Earl of Berkeley, the Right Hon. Thomas Morton Fitzhardinge Berkeley, who was born Oct. 19, 1796; but this venerable nobleman, probably from regard to the unfortunate circumstances attending the birth of his elder brothers, has never thought fit to exercise his privilege by sitting as a peer in the House of Lords. His Lordship has never married, so that his next brother, the late Hon. Grantley Berkeley, was heir presumptive to the earldom. The seventh son was the late Hon. Craven Berkeley, who was born in 1805, and died in 1855. The mother of all these, the late Dowager Countess of Berkeley, originally Mary Cole, survived the Earl, her husband, thirty-four years, and died in 1844. This extraordinary family history was at one period much discussed and talked of, as the late Mr. Grantley Berkeley had a standing quarrel with his elder brothers about it, and the affair became a social scandal when he wrote a novel called "Berkeley Castle," to express his personal feelings. He held, for some time, a commission in the Guards, but retired from the service in 1832, and was elected M.P. for West Gloucestershire, which seat he kept till 1847. Besides many contributions to periodical literature upon sporting subjects, he wrote "The Upper Ten Thousand at Home and Abroad," "My Life and Recollections," "Landon Hall," "Reminiscences of a Huntsman," "A Month in the Forests of France," "The English Sportsman in the Western Prairies," and "Fact against Fiction: the Habits and Treatment of Animals practically considered: Hydrophobia and Distempers, with some remarks on Darwin." He had been a master of stag and fox hounds, and was an ardent votary of all kinds of field sports until he became quite an old man. He married, in 1824, Caroline Martha, daughter of the late Mr. Paul Benfield, and had by this marriage a son, now living—Captain Edward Stratton Fitzhardinge, born in 1827.

The portrait is from a photograph by Mr. H. Webster, of Bayswater, but taken from an old drawing, which must have been made at least thirty years ago, as it represents Mr. Grantley Berkeley in the vigour of his manhood.

THE LATE PROFESSOR TENNANT.

We have recorded the death of Professor Tennant, F.G.S., of 149, Strand, mineralogist to her Majesty, which took place on the 23rd ult., in the seventy-third year of his age. His personal career was a remarkable one. At an early age he came to London and entered the service of Mr. Mawe in the humble capacity of boy in the shop. Mr. Mawe was a great traveller, bringing home with him on his periodical returns to England, after two or three years' absence, shells and minerals, for which he found buyers in his shop, the chief staple of which was fancy marble and alabaster work, the products of Derbyshire and Italy. Here young James Tennant gained his first acquaintance with minerals. The classes of the Mechanics' Institution gave him opportunities of improving his education, and his attendances on Faraday's lectures at the theatre of the Royal Institution opened his mind to a higher estimate of the articles in which he dealt than as mere matters of commerce. His attention and loyalty to his master secured his promotion in the business, and at Mr. Mawe's death the management devolved on him, to be followed subsequently by his succeeding to the proprietorship under easy conditions. There was a retired physician to the then King—Sir Everard Home—who had made a study of the crystalline structure of minerals, and pursued the subject on his retirement as an agreeable occupation. He formed a valuable collection of the crystalline forms of diamonds, had their characters engraved in correct observance of their angles, and published a handsome volume, with explanations. The collection was bequeathed to the Museum of the Cambridge University, where it now is. Sir Everard found a pleasure in frequent visits to Mr. Mawe's shop, where he had the opportunity of handling and examining the fresh arrivals of minerals of various sorts, which were constantly being bought and sold. He was always ready to inform Tennant of the character of any mineral where Tennant's knowledge was deficient, and freely communicated to the willing pupil all the information he possessed, not only on the objects in the shop, but at his residence, where he had a good collection. When King's College opened in the Strand, the Council desired a teacher in mineralogy, and applied to Farraday for his nomination of a fit person; his recommendation was in favour of Mr. Tennant, who shortly after his appointment received the title of "Professor of Mineralogy." The new position opened a wider field of usefulness and of interesting study. His after life was devoted to the diffusion of knowledge relating to mineralogy; his class at the college was the largest in the kingdom: and by his private collection, on which he freely bestowed his fortune, he was able to send forth pupils every year familiar with examples of minerals, and qualified, therefore, to judge of natural materials in foreign countries. In the course of his lectures he had frequently spoken of the probability of finding diamonds in South Africa, based on some similarity of its gravels with the gravels of Brazil. An accidental leaflet published for the use of his class, containing diagrams of the various crystalline forms of diamonds, which a pupil sent to his father, Dr. Atherton, of the Cape Colony, enabled that gentleman to verify as a diamond the first pebble picked up by a traveller in the Transvaal and which was suspected to be a diamond. The result of the verification was that the locality was explored, and twenty-three millions' value of diamonds have already reached Europe from those diamond-fields. The largest cut diamond from that source belonged to the Professor. When a friend suggested to the Professor the opportunity the Turners' Company offered for the advancement of turning, he saw at once the relation between the ornamental stone in which he dealt and the lathe. He further extended the encouragement of rewards to the lathe, in its use of cutting and polishing precious stones, and by his influence and application gave the Turners' Company a governing authority over those branches of the turner's art. His colleagues in the Court of the Company attended at his funeral in the Camberwell Cemetery.

The Portrait is from a photograph by Mr. H. N. King, Goldhawk-road, Shepherd's Bush.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.

AN UNLESSONED GIRL. By Mrs. HERBERT MARTIN. In 2 volumes.

LUTANISTE OF ST. JACOBI'S. By CATHERINE DREW. In 1 volume.

MY IMPERIALIST NEIGHBOUR. By H. A. DUFF. In 1 volume.

MARCUS WARD and Co., 67, Chandos-street, London, W.C.

NOW READY, AT ALL THE LIBRARIES,
MRS. BURNETT'S NEW TALE.
A FAIR BARBARIAN.
By the Author of "That Lass O'Lowrie's," "Theo," "Natalie."—F. WARNE and Co., Bedford-street, Strand.

DR. G. OVEREND DREWRY'S POPULAR WORKS on the MAINTENANCE of HEALTH.
COMMON-SENSE MANAGEMENT of the STOMACH. 2s. 9d. CUP and PLATTER, or NOTES on FOOD and its EFFECTS. 1s. 6d.
NOTES on CONSUMPTION. Pamphlet, 1s6d.
THE URINARY and CEREBRATIVE ORGANS. 5s.
HEALTH. A Family Magazine. Monthly. Price 1½d.
MURRAY and Co., 23, Warwick-street, Regent-street, will forward any of the above on receipt of price, which includes postage.

POTTERY PAINTING: A Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, Head Master of Art-School, South Kensington. Second Edition, price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 1d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W.

1d., Weekly; Monthly Part, 5d.,
GARDENING ILLUSTRATED. Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening; Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All New secrets.
Copy, by post, 1½d. Vol. I., 7s. 6d.
37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

EIGHTH EDITION OF
THE ARGOSY for JANUARY, now ready, containing the Opening Chapters of Mrs. HENRY WOOD'S New serial Story, COURT NETHERLEIGH.
"We do not remember to have seen a better Number of the 'Argosy' than the present one."—Halifax Times.
"The 'Argosy' begins the year with some chatty, delightful descriptions of rambles in the New Forest."—The Mail.
"The 'Argosy' for January is an excellent number. No Magazine has a selection of more universal interests than this excellently conducted periodical."—Liverpool Albion.
"The 'Argosy' gets better and better. It is the cheapest and best magazine of its class published. The fiction is always pure, and as certainly is it interesting and readable in an eminent way."—Sportsman.
Sixpence Monthly.
EIGHTH EDITION NOW READY.
THE "ARGOSY," FOR FEBRUARY AND MARCH ALSO READY.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, 8, New Burlington-street, W.

Neatly bound in cloth, price 2s. 6d., now ready,
FAMILY HERALD SUPPLEMENTS,
Vol. VI., containing Eighteen Complete Novels.

| | |
|---|---|
| Muriel's Fate. | Puppet. |
| His Victoria Cross. | My Second Self. |
| The Beautiful Miss Burton. | Too Bad of Him. |
| A Brief Rose. | The Lady of Gorman Loe. |
| At Her Hands. | Her Choice. |
| The Vicarage on the Cliff. | In the Midst of Peril. |
| Lost Lives. | Only a Marguerite. |
| The Last of the Nugents. | Ruth's Love-Story. |
| Her Own Deception. | The Romance of a Rose. |

WILLIAM STEVENS, 421, Strand; and at all Booksellers', Newsvendors', and Railway Stations.

JUST PUBLISHED, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on these distressing complaints and their complete cure. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon R.N., 24, Warwick-st., Rugby.

Second Edition, price 6s. 6d., to be had of all Booksellers,
RESPIRATORY DISEASES: CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., and their Specific Cure, by DR. JOHN FRANCIS CHURCHILL'S Discoveries of the Hypophosphites and Iodoamia.
J. W. KOLCKMANN, No. 2, Langham-place, London.

Just published, post-free, Two Stamps,
FITS.—EPILEPSY, or FALLING SICKNESS.—SENSATIONS, GIDDINESS, FAINTS.—A Pamphlet on these distressing complaints, explaining their Treatment and complete Cure. By a Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. WILLIAMS, 16, Oxford-terrace, Hyde Park, London.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease.
Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
London: G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
BESIDE THE RIVER. By Mrs. MACQUOID. Author of "Patty," &c.
HIS LITTLE MOTHER. By the Author of "John Halifax," 3 vols., 10s. 6d.
LOVE'S PENANCE. By MARY CECIL HAY. Author of "Old Middleton's Money," &c.
HER DESERTS. By Mrs. ALEXANDER FRASER.
LOUISEA. By ANNE BEALE.
BERYL FORTESCUE. By Lady DUFFUS HARDY.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

RICHARD BENTLEY and SON'S NEW WORKS.
PRINCE METTERNICH'S MEMOIRS. 2 vols., demy 8vo. 30s.
LORD ELLENBOROUGH'S POLITICAL DIARY. 2 vols., demy 8vo. 30s.
TWO NEW NOVELS.
A CHILD OF NATURE. By ROBERT BUCHANAN. 3 vols.
QUEENIE'S WHIM. By the Author of "Nellie's Memories." 3 vols.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

MAJOR E. ROGERS'S NEW NOVEL.
At all Libraries, in 3 vols.,
A MODERN SPHINX. A New Novel.
London: J. and R. MAXWELL, Milton House, Shoe-lane, E.C.

POTATO CULTURE.

POTATO CULTURE.—The GARDENER'S MAGAZINE of March 12 contains a SECOND SYNOPTICAL LIST of POTATOES, together with a SELECTION of the BEST SORTS of POTATOES known for various soils and climates, and RULES for SELECTING, GROWING, and JUDGING POTATOES. The GARDENER'S MAGAZINE is published every Saturday, price Twopence (specimen copy, post-free, 2½d.).
Office: 11, Ave Maria-lane, London, E.C.; and all Newsagents.

ALL MOTHERS SHOULD READ
MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL and CHILDREN'S DRESS. Price 6d.; by post, 8d.
Published on the 15th of each Month.

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL contains information upon all the Newest Modes for Children, from infants to fourteen years of age.

MYRA'S MID-MONTHLY JOURNAL.
The Novelties for MARCH are—

| | |
|---|---|
| 1. Coloured Fashion Plate. | dren and Costumes; Models from Les Grands Magasins du Louvre, Paris. |
| 2. Diagram Sheet, containing Patterns for cutting-out The Noble Costume, Night Dress for a Girl of Ten, the Ashleigh Pelerin and the Aimee Dress. | 6. La Mode in Paris; Our Children; Modes for Children, and where to see them; Notes on Novelties. |
| 3. Cut-out Paper Pattern of a Home Costume for a Little Boy. | 7. Myra's Answers on Dress, Health, and Personal Attention, the Cuisine, Miscellaneous, &c. |
| 4. The Silkworm's Gift. Design for a Chatelack, to be worked in cotton. | 8. Needlework, Embroidery, Bolster Cushion; Knitted Stocking for a Child; Waistcoat; Designs in Crochet and Berlin Woolwork. |
| 5. Costumes, Toilettes, Manties, Paletots, Chaperons, and Parures, for Ladies, Young Ladies, and Children; Fashions for Children. | |

Subscriptions—Yearly, 8s.; Half-Yearly, 4s.

GOUBAUD and SON,
30 and 40, Bedford-street, London, W.C.

THOMAS CARLYLE.—A Faithful Likeness, with Authenticated Signature. Photograph. Cabinet size. Post-free, 1s.
STEPHEN YORKE and Co., 42a, Cloth Fair, London, E.C.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (published without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on Paper, Opal, Ivory, Porcelain, China, and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 20s. and 20s. Complete guide post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie.
An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 2s., 5s., 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

PROVERBS IN SONGS. By WEATHERLY and ROECKEL.
No. 1. "Two's company" .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
No. 2. "A Bird in the Hand" .. .. .. 2s. net.
No. 3. "When Poverty Knocks at the Door" .. 2s. net.
No. 4. "The Longest Way Round" .. .. 2s. net.
ENOCH and SONS, 19, Holles-street, W.

FIFTEENTH THOUSAND.
SOME DAY. By MILTON WELLINGS. This charming new Song is being sung every evening with immense success by Madame Enriquez and all popular singers, and will shortly become one of the most popular Songs in C, E flat, and F. 2s. net.—ENOCH and SONS, 19, Holles-street, W.

THE BUGLER, in D, F, and G. By CIRO PINSUTI. Words by F. E. Weatherly. This very successful song has now reached the tenth edition.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee). Waltz. By OSCAR SEYDEL. "When she went back to the ball-room, Captain Winstanley followed her, and claimed his waltz. The band was just striking up the latest German melody, 'Weit von Dir,' a strain of drawing tenderness."—Vide Miss Braddon's "Vixen." Each of the above 2s. net.
B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee) WALTZ. By OSCAR SEYDEL. As "Figaro" (Feb. 12) calls the above "an undemonstrative publication," "though we doubt not, innocently given," the Publisher begs to state that Miss Braddon, in lending this Waltz, can have had no other motive than admiration for it, as she has never held any communication with him.—B. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row, E.C.

CHEAP FRAMES for the COLOURED PICTURE given with the Number on Feb. 26. Neat Gilt Frames, 2s. each; with Cardboard Mount, 3s.; 4s. 6d., oak and gilt. Sent by return of post. Illustrations of Pictures at half price.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, and 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden (opposite Drury Lane Theatre).

SCRAPS! SCRAPS! SCRAPS!—250 richly coloured embossed SCRAPS, for Screens, Albums, &c., for only 1s. 2d., or 2s. post-free. Selections on approval. Recommended by "Sylvia's Home Journal."
Address, G. L. SPALDING and CO., Art Importers, Ipswich.

BEAUTIFUL RELIEF SCRAPS, for Scrapbooks and Screens. The New Designs, just received from Paris, are more charming than ever. An illustrated selection sent for twelve stamps. The following are extracts from letters of admiration received:—"I received your charming collection of scraps, and cannot find words for my feelings worth more. Nothing can be prettier." "Your scraps are admired by all." "So pleased with them."
W. MAYNE, Fine-Art Dealer, Plymouth.

SCRAPS for SCREENS and SCRAP-BOOKS (Coloured).—Immense variety of Flowers, Figures, Birds, and Landscapes, from 1s. per sheet; 1 doz. assorted, 10s. 6d.
London: WM. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office, Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 20s. Solid gold Ring, Bezaral, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 7s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 6d.; post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 2s. 6d. Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 13s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA, BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from .. .. .. 21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS .. .. .. 63s. to £50
DRESSING CASES .. .. .. .. .. .. 21s. to £50
DESPATCH BOXES .. .. .. .. .. .. 21s. to £50
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES .. .. .. .. 40s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS .. .. 10s. 6d. to £5
INKSTANDS .. .. .. .. .. .. .. 5s. to £5
CARD CASES (per pair) .. .. .. .. .. 7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS .. .. .. .. 12s. to £5
THE NEW "CANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND .. .. 10s. to £10
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 16s. 6d., and 20s. 6d.
And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 2s. to £5.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS at RODRIGUES', with Patent Leather Guards, 4s. 6d. to £5. Floral Albums, Scrap Albums, Presentation and Regimental Albums. Albums of every description made to order.—42, Piccadilly.

ALL the DUTCH PAPERS are full of the particulars of a most interesting oration that was offered on March 3 to Mr. Paul Lhérie at the Royal Theatre of the Hague. This distinguished artist, who is one of the greatest lyric tragedians of our times, is going to leave Holland, after a stay of three years, during which time he received so many proofs of sympathy and admiration from the public that his career at the Opera is without parallel in the annals of the Dutch theatre. On Tuesday, March 1, he gave a representation for the benefit of the poor. He had chosen "Carmen" for this occasion, the part of Don José being his masterpiece. It was written by Bizet (the composer of "Carmen"), purposely for him; and the performance of this part has ever been his triumph since he gave it for the first time in Paris. The theatre was more than full, and such an ovation has taken place. Paul Lhérie was literally buried under flowers, garlands, wreaths, and laurels; the enthusiasm of the public cannot be described. After the third act, in which occasional, the whole public were trembling at the masterly interpretation by Lhérie of Don José's fury and despair, this distinguished artist received a silver album, with the signatures of the first families in the Hague, a magnificent solid silver wreath, tied with a massive golden ribbon, on which is this inscription:
HOMMAGE OFFERT A
PAUL LHERIE, LE GRAND TRAGEDIEN LYRIQUE,
PAR SES AMIS DE LA HOLLANDE,
and a massive silver basket, on the cover of which is a silver statue, representing the Genius of Fame, depositing a beautiful wreath on a silver scutcheon, with Paul Lhérie's initials engraved on it. It was altogether an evening which will have proved to Paul Lhérie, wherever he may be admired in future, that he will never be forgotten by his Dutch friends.
Amsterdam, March 5, 1881. H. VERSCHUUR.

ST. HILDA'S COLLEGE,
Abbey-road, London, N.W.
EDUCATION SUPERIOR FOR LADIES.
Principal, Mrs. Marshall: Lecturers, G. D. Wood, Esq., Dr. Heinemann, F.R.G.S.; Pianoforte, Herr Gollnich, Sidney Smith, Miss Wigley; Singing, Fraulein Hittle; Harp, Chatterton; Violin, Miss Browning; Drawing and Water Colours, Horace Brown; Oil Painting, Deacon, F.R.S.; French, Mons. Bover, Mdlle. Dupuols; German, Dr. Passavet; Italian, Pietrucci; Latin, Oldershaw; Writing, Stocker; Dancing, Mdlle. Glaidon; Drilling, Wilcox; Terra Cotta and China Painting, House and Grounds Large and Detached. Hot and Cold Baths. Referrees on application to the Lady Principal.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on TUESDAY, MAY 10.

ST. THOMAS'S HOME.—ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL.—ST. THOMAS'S HOME is NOW OPEN for the RECEPTION and TREATMENT of PAYING PATIENTS of BOTH SEXES. It is intended chiefly for the treatment of cases of acute disease, those of a chronic, incurable, or infectious nature are ineligible. Persons desirous of being admitted can, either personally, or by letter, addressed to the Resident Medical Officer at the Home, obtain from him a form of application for admission, and all other necessary particulars. The charge for Board, Medicine, Nursing, and Medical Attendance for each patient will be at the rate of not less than 8s. a day. Payment to be made weekly, in advance.

ONE SHILLING.—AIDE MÉMOIRE; or, Artificial Memory.—New and guaranteed System by which anyone may commit to memory Speeches, Sermons, Facts, Dates, Figures, Names, Cards at Whist, &c., without the trouble and labour of repetition or study, no matter how imperfect the natural memory may be. A true friend and help to the most retentive; an invaluable and perfect substitute for those who have weak or defective memories; indispensable to everyone. Return, post-free, 14 stamps.—G. T. KEMP, 20, Grosvenor-road, South Norwood, London.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.

THE NEW PENS.
"TRUTH! AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH!!!"
"Macniven and Cameron's Pens are the best."—Standard.
THE BIG "J" PEN
THE BIG WAVERLEY PEN } 6d. and 1s. per Box.
"A luxury for the million."—Somerset Gazette.
Sample Box, with all the kinds, 1s. 1d. by post.
Patentees—MACNIVEN and CAMERON.
Penmakers to Her Majesty's Government Offices, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh (Estd. 1770).
Beware of the party offering imitations of these Pens.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: White or Household, per 56 lb., 9s. 3d.; Households, for Bread making, 8s. 8d.; Whole Wheaten Meal (granulated) for Brown Bread, 8s.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Honey, 2s.; Barley, Buck Wheat Flour, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Indian Corn, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl split Peas, per 7 lb., 2s.; split Exception Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 6d.; Barley Meal, per 48 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 14lb. 2s., per 7 lb., 1s. 6d. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER makes bread, cake, pastry, puddings, &c., light, sweet, and digestible. Sold in 1d., 2½., 6d., 1s., 2s. 6d., and 5s. packages. Four Gold Medals awarded. 700,000 packages sold weekly.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.

Mr. STREETER, 18, New Bond-street, W.

INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)

BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

NOVELTIES IN JEWELLERY. New styles for 1881. Gold, Silver, and Gem Jewellery of all kinds. New "Pig," "Mouse," &c.; Artificial Diamond Jewellery; Norwegian, Italian, and Mauresque Filigree Jewellery; Ladies' Watches, &c. Price-List, 300 Illustrations post-free.—Jewellery Depot, 37, Cambridge-street, Birmingham.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—7, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia. Damp and dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £10 10s., £14 14s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 18s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

IN LIQUIDATION.
Re William Payne,
of Lowndes-street, Belgrave-square.

HARVEY NICHOLS and CO., Limited, having purchased the above valuable Stock, amounting to £6317 9s. 11d., at a discount of 67½ per cent off the cost price, will be prepared to offer the same for Sale on MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1881.
The stock consists of the Choicest Clocks of every description, Desks, Writing Cases, Blotting Books, Ladies' Bags, Musical Boxes, Jewel Cases, Vases, Porcelains, and Dresden Candelabras, Jugs, Vases, Photographic Frames, &c.
All Goods marked at the lowest price for cash.
8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16,
Lowndes-terrace, Knightsbridge.

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, Inns of Court Heraldic Offices, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris 1878.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY are requested to write for Patterns of EARLY SPRING SILKS, including Surahs, Merveilleux, Duchesse Satins, Brocades, Figured Velveta, Black Silks, Satin de Lyon, Gros Grains, Fancy Silks, &c. All to be had in Black, White, and the Eighty-seven New Shades of Colour.
Cash Prices. Parcels free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY are requested to write for patterns of NEW EARLY SPRING DRESSES, including Angola and Camel Hair Bege Cashmir Foule, Cachemire de Paris, Mixed Wool and Silk Damassé, Cashmere Merino Drap d'Italie, Fine Vigogne, New shades of Black and Coloured Rich Velveteens, New Pompadour and Plain Satins, Percales, &c. All the New Colours and Designs.
Cash Prices. Parcel free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

BAKER and CRISP'S EARLY SPRING DRESSES, from 6d. and
EARLY SPRING CAMBRICS.
EARLY SPRING SATTEENS.
EARLY SPRING POMPADOURS.
EARLY SPRING ZEPHYRS.
EARLY SPRING VICUNAS.
EARLY SPRING CASHMERES.
EARLY SPRING SILKS.
EARLY SPRING SATINS.
EARLY SPRING COSTUMES.
EARLY SPRING JACKETS.
EARLY SPRING JERSEYS.
EARLY SPRING CLOAKS.
Patterns free.
Engravings free.
198, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SPRING PATTERNS POST-FREE.
NICHOLSON'S SPRING COSTUMES and MANTLES. Illustrations Free.
VELOUR CLOTHS.—French Cashmeres, Cashmere Serges, Camel Hair and Herring-Bone Beiges. Milan and French Beiges, and all the Newest Materials in the most beautiful shades.
NEW WASHING FABRICS.
Cambrics, French Sateens, Oatmeal Cloths, and Brilliants, in all the Newest Designs and most lovely shades.
PATTERNS POST-FREE.
NICHOLSON'S NEW, BLACK, and COLOURED SILKS, SATINS, PLUSHES, VELVETS, and POMPADOURS, at their usual moderate prices.
PATTERNS FREE.
D. NICHOLSON and CO., 50 to 53, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, LONDON.

ROYAL and IMPERIAL PATRONAGE. EGERTON BURNETT'S SERGES
For LADIES and GENTLEMEN include the Best Makes.
Patterns free.
Wellington, Somerset.

MADAME ELLIOT makes up DRESSES stylishly and fits elegantly.
8, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street.

MADAME ELLIOT'S CORSETS. Splendid Shape. French and English make, 6s. 6d., 9s. 9d., 15s. 6d., 21s., 30s., 42s. To avoid delay, send size of waist and P.O.O. for the amount. Corsets exchanged if not approved. Corsets made to order.—8, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street.

CHEAP POCKET HANDKERCHIEFS.
ALL PURE FLAX.

| | Per Doz. | | Per Doz. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Children's | 2s. 6d. | Hemstitched | |
| Ladies' | 3s. 11d. | Ladies' | 5s. 11d. |
| Gentlemen's | 4s. 11d. | Gentlemen's | 8s. 3d. |

Samples and Price-List post-free. "The Irish Cambrics of Messrs. Robinson and Cleaver have a world-wide fame."—The Queen.

ROBINSON and CLEAVER,
THE ROYAL IRISH LINEN WAREHOUSE,
BELFAST.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse,
"REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 2s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

BLACK SILKS.
DURING THIS MONTH,
we shall SELL
Messrs. BONNET et CIE. and JAUBERT et CIE.
BLACK SILKS
at Manufacturers' Prices,
and Cheaper than they have ever before been supplied.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bonnet's.. | No. 1 Quality, 4s. 3d. | } | from 1s. 6d. to 4s. per yard, under fair value. |
| .. | No. 2 .. 5s. 3d. | | |
| .. | No. 3 .. 6s. 3d. | | |
| .. | No. 4 .. 7s. 6d. | | |
| Jaubert .. | No. 1 Quality, 3s. 9d. | } | from 1s. to 4s. per yard, under their fair value. |
| .. | No. 2 .. 3s. 11d. | | |
| .. | No. 3 .. 4s. 9d. | | |
| .. | No. 4 .. 5s. 3d. | | |
| .. | No. 5 .. 6s. 6d. | | |

To be obtained only at
PETER ROBINSON'S,
REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262, Regent-street.
Patterns free.

39s. 6d.—COSTUMES in USEFUL BLACK SERGE,
Well Cut and handsomely Braided,
at 39s. 6d. and 2l guineas.
Sketches free.
Warm Petticoats, 3s. 6d., 5s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d.
Address as follows:—
PETER ROBINSON, 256 to 262, REGENT-STREET.

COSTUMES in SILK and SATIN.
FRENCH MODELS.
From 5 guineas, including material for Bodice.
Costumes in Satin, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 6½ guineas.
Costumes in Silk, trimmed Velvet or Plush, 7½ guineas.
At PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.

EVENING, BALL, and DINNER DRESSES.
Elegant Novelties in Black Spanish Lace and Satin,
now so fashionable,
at 3½ guineas and up to 7 guineas.
Very handsome Black Brocaded Net Dresses at 9½ 6d.
Also a variety of
Tarlatan and Grenadine Dresses at 1 guinea.
Sketches free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, REGENT-STREET.

TEENS that young ladies are in no hurry to get out of—
"LOUIS" VELVET-TEENS.

THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
IS SIMPLY UNIQUE.
Do not be induced by persuasion to take any other.

LOUIS
AN EXTRA PROFIT TO YOUR LOSS
may be speciously made if you accept, under whatever name offered, an inferior quality of Velveteen.
"THE LOUIS"
has established its reputation so widely that even a slight deterioration would injure its repute, which constitutes
A TEST OF MERIT,
and guarantee of
UNSURPASSED QUALITY.
Be sure you find the words
THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
on every yard,
or you have not the
GENUINE "LOUIS,"
notwithstanding all assertions to the contrary.

LOUIS
Wholesale London Agent, J. H. FULLER, 93, Watling-street, who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine LOUIS VELVETEEN can be obtained.

JAY'S, Regent-street.

BLACK LENTEN COSTUMES, 2½ guineas each. Messrs. JAY having for years past received numerous applications from their patronesses for some kind of black dress for the season, which they can confidently recommend both for correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and prices postage free.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS BLACK SATIN.
This name has been given by a Lyons manufacturer to a special kind of black Satin. It is made from the purest silk, is as elastic as wash leather, warranted not to crease, and will wear better than any black silk of the present day.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS COSTUMES.—A varied series of COSTUMES, made from Peau de Chamois Satin, are produced weekly during the season. Price 6½ guineas each, including sufficient satin to make a bodice.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

EVENING DRESSES, Black Net, Tulle, and Spanish Lace.—Messrs. JAY prepare for the season a variety of black Evening Dresses which they can confidently recommend both for correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and prices postage free.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

PATENT "SEAMLESS" GLOVE.
These perfect-fitting Gloves are made without the usual side seam, and are cut on the best principle from first choice French Kid Skins. They are hand-sewn, and are sold in two qualities, as under:—

| | Two Buttons | Four Buttons | Six Buttons | Eight Buttons | Ten Buttons |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| "ADELE." | 2s. 11d. | 4s. | 5s. | 6s. | 7s. |
| "VICTORIA." | 3s. 11d. | 5s. | 7s. 6d. | 9s. | 9s. |

(Sample Pair post-free.)
DEBENHAM and FREEBODY,
WIGMORE-STREET and WELBECK-STREET, LONDON, W.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.
"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.
"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

SOLD in TINS and TIN-LINED PACKETS ONLY, by ALL GROCERS,
STEAM MILLS, BRICK-LANE, LONDON.

FRY'S COCOA. Gold Medal, Paris, —— First Award, Sydney.
FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.
"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.
PURE COCOA ONLY.
FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT.
"Strictly pure."—W. W. STODDART, F.I.C., F.C.S., City Analyst, Bristol.
Thirteen Exhibition Medals.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.
Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½lb. and ¼lb. Packets.
For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS.
Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoa Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER."
Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s. 6d., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

ROBERT ROBERTS
AND CO.'S
CELEBRATED TEAS.
Twelve pounds and upwards carriage paid.
Samples and Price-lists free by post.
Queen Insurance-buildings, Liverpool. Established 1860.
No agents.
All communications and orders direct.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea imported. Sold only in Packets.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
IS A WORLD-WIDE NECESSARY.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE NURSERY.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
FOR THE SICK-ROOM.
BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR
HAS A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM, KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR)
LIGHT-BROWN
COD-LIVER OIL.
THE PUREST. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.
THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE.
Proved by thirty years' medical experience to be
THE ONLY COD-LIVER OIL
which produces the full curative effects in
CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, AND WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.
SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."
DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod-Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients professed they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod-Liver Oil, that Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."
DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest.
"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by Dr. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might be called pleasant. I have found Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."
JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surg., Army, Prof. of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydrocarbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognised; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of Dr. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."
DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL is sold ONLY in capsuled IMPERIAL Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; by all respectable Chemists and Druggists throughout the World.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained of most wholesale merchants and dealers direct from their respective distilleries.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER
THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or failing hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in its highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

THE SKIN.—The glory of woman, the pride of man. It contains the delicate lines of beauty and constitutes all that we term "Loveliness;" yet how many thousands have their skins blemished by the use of the irritant soaps. Carbolic, Coal Tar, Glycerine, and the coarse coloured soaps, caustic with alkali and made of putrid fats. The more delicate the skin the quicker its ruin. The ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP is the purest, the whitest, and most purifying of all soaps, by its purifying action taking away and preventing all pimples, blotches, and roughness. It is recommended by the entire Medical Profession as the most elegant preparation for the skin that is known. By all Chemists, in Tablets, 6d. and 1s. THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP COMPANY, 532, Oxford-street, London.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, these famous "lozenges" are now sold by most respectable Chemists in this country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depôt, 33, Farringdon-road, London.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES
CURE COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.
Medical testimony states that no other medicine is so effectual in the cure of these dangerous maladies. One lozenge alone gives ease. They contain no opium nor any violent drug. Sold by all Chemists, in Tins, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d.

EVERYONE who takes Dr. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS is astonished at their wonderful and rapid efficacy in Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds. They taste pleasantly.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT.
The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS,
THE GREAT
REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.
Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

SPRING MEDICINE.
OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.
Sold by all Chemists in Bottles, 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s.

PRATT'S WATER PAD TRUSSES are the
MOST EFFECTUAL CURE FOR RUPTURES.
PRATT'S ELASTIC STOCKINGS,
for VARICOSE VEINS, &c.
J. F. PRATT
Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera. By W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Vocal Score | .. .. | .. | 5s. |
| Piano-forte Solo, arranged by Berthold Tours | | .. | 3s. |
| Waltz. D'Albert | .. 4s | Polka. D'Albert | .. 4s. |
| Lancers. D'Albert | .. 4s. | Galop. D'Albert | .. 4s. |
| Quadrille. D'Albert | .. 4s. | | |

Fantasias by Boston Smith, Cox and Kuhe ..... each 4s.
Smallwood's three easy Fantasias ..... each 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera. Enormous success at the Strand Theatre. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUBRAN.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Vocal Score | .. .. | .. | 8s. net. |
| Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture, Songs, &c. | .. .. | .. | 4s. net. |
| Pianoforte Solo | .. .. | .. | 2s. net. |

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lancers. D'Albert | .. 2s. net | Galop. D'Albert | .. 2s. net. |
| Waltz. D'Albert | .. 2s. " | Nanon and Incorrect Waltz. D'Albert | .. 2s. " |
| Polka. D'Albert | .. 2s. " | | |

Boyton Smith's Fantasia ..... 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS.

WELCOME. Lady ARTHUR HILL. 2s. net.
CŒUR DE LION. H. J. STARK. Sung by Mr. Oswald. 2s. net.
AT THE PORTAL. N. Ferri. Sung by Madame Mary Cumming. 2s. net.
WHAT THE FIRELIGHT TOLD. J. L. Roeckel. 2s. net.
ANGUS MACDONALD. J. L. Roeckel. Sung by Madame Enriquez. 2s. net.
OH YES! OH YES! (The Town Crier). C. Birch. 2s. net.
RYGONES. Hamilton Clarke. 2s. net.
WEARINESS. Mendori. Sung by Mr. Santley. 2s. net.
DINNA LEAVE ME. A. M. Wakefield, Composer of "No, Sir." 2s. net.
THOUGHTS AT SUNRISE. Mrs. L. MONCRIEFF. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW SONGS by Mrs. RONALDS.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| IN SHADOW | .. .. | .. | 2s. net. |
| WHY? | .. .. | .. | 2s. net. |
| EVER NEAR | .. .. | .. | 2s. net. |
| DIS MOI POURQUOI | .. .. | .. | 2s. net. |

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW SONGS by W. FULLERTON.
COME FORTH, FOR NIGHT IS FALLING. Venetian serenade. 2s. net.
THE NIGHTINGALE SONG TO THE ROSE. 2s. net.
AT PARTING. 2s. net.
HAROLD ON A SUMMER'S DAY. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.
ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
POETA WALTZ .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
CAN'T STOP. GALOP .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready, Volume II. of
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL'S IMPERIAL EDITION of 25 POPULAR ENGLISH DUETS, by Bishop, Smart, A. A. Macfarren, Hon. Mrs. Norton, &c. Edited by NATALIA MACFARREN. Price 2s. 6d.; or, handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL'S IMPERIAL EDITION of 25 POPULAR GERMAN DUETS, by Rubinstein, Mendelssohn, Abt, Kucken, &c. Edited by NATALIA MACFARREN. Price 2s. 6d.; or, handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes from 2 gs. Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 72 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds. Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two third octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass, octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three Years' System.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash), Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Carefully packed free, and sent to any part. Drawings gratis.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

£35.—There is nothing in London—nor, in fact, in all England—to be compared to the elegantly carved DRAWING-ROOM TRICHORD COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with Celeste Trusa Legs, which is sold for £35 by
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

CRAMER'S HARP PIANOFORTE is the extremely light and portable, and its strong tone is produced from steel Vibrators, which never require tuning. Four octaves, £10 10s.; five octaves, £13 13s.

CRAMER'S STUDIO PIANETTE, five octaves, check action, in pine or dark walnut case, £16 16s.; with folding key-board for yachts, £21.

CRAMER'S Overstrung Iron-framed COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, in black and gold, walnut or rosewood case, 50 guineas. In plain dark walnut case, 46 guineas. Illustrated prospectus on application to J. B. Cramer and Co., Regent-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.
A Complete Encyclopedia of Vocal Music.
THE SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.
THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND.
THE SONGS OF IRELAND.
THE SONGS OF WALES.
THE SONGS OF FRANCE.
THE SONGS OF GERMANY.
THE SONGS OF ITALY. (In the Press.)
THE SONGS OF SCANDINAVIA and Northern Europe.
THE SONGS OF BOHEMIA, HUNGARY, and Eastern Europe. (In the Press.)
The above 6 volumes contain nearly 1000 Popular Ballads of the various countries of Europe.

BEETHOVEN'S SONGS. (Complete.)
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S VOCAL DUETS.
The above have German and English Words.
HANDEL'S ORATORIO SONGS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS. (Italian and English Words.)
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Mezzo-Soprano and Contralto.
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Tenor and Baritone.
* * In transposed keys, with Italian and English Words.
MODERN BALLADS. By the most eminent living composers.
SACRED SONGS, ANCIENT AND MODERN.
HUMOROUS SONGS, NEW AND OLD.
CHOICE DUETS FOR LADIES' VOICES.
DOUBLE VOLUMES.
Price 5s. each, paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS. Containing celebrated Songs, with Italian and English Words, in the original keys.
1. THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM.
2. THE CONTRALTO ALBUM.
3. THE TENOR ALBUM.
4. THE BARITONE ALBUM.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY'S SHILLING ORATORIOS, MASSES, and CANTATAS, large quarto size.

| | |
|---|---|
| HYMN OF PRAISE. | MOUNT OF OLIVES. |
| HAYDN'S IMPERIAL MASS. | WALPURGIS NIGHT. |
| GOUNOD'S ST. CECILE. | BEETHOVEN'S MASS IN C. |
| MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS. | ACIS AND GALATEA. |
| ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER. | MOZART'S REQUIEM. |
| JUDAS MACCABÆUS. | DETTINGEN TE DEUM. |
| THE MESSIAH. | ISRAEL IN EGYPT. |
| BACH'S PASSION (Matt.) | THE CREATION. |
| Is. 6d. | |

Boosey's Pocket Editions of "The Messiah" and "The Creation." Price 1s. each.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY'S SHILLING INSTRUCTORS.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Organ | Best. | Theory | Dr. Callcott. |
| Harmonium | Elliott. | Violin | Henning. |
| Pianoforte | Mount. | Violoncello | Howell. |
| Singing (Men) | Hatton. | Flute | Pratten. |
| Singing (Ladies) | Hatton. | Cornet | Jones. |
| Ballad Singing | Sydney. | Harp | Case. |
| Choral Singing | Dr. Spark. | Clarionet | Kappey. |

BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

TWENTY-ONE. By MOLLOY. Sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

ROCHESTER BELLS. New Ballad, by the Composer of "The Three Sailor Boys," and sung by him with the greatest success. This day, price 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE FIRST LETTER. By MOLLOY. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THAT SWEET STORY OF OLD. New Sacred Song. By THEO. MARZIALS. A new setting of the well-known words. This day, price 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE CHILDREN OF THE CITY. New Song by STEPHEN ADAMS; the Words by Frederick Sung by Madame Patey at the Ballad Concerts. This day, price 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MIGNONETTE. By SUCHET CHAMPION. Sung everywhere by Mr. Edward Lloyd. New Edition. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

FAIRLY CAUGHT. A great Success. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung by Miss Clara Samuell at the Ballad Concerts. 2s. net.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE MERCHANT OF CHEAPSIDE. Madame Patey's New Song. By LOUIS DIEHL. Sung at the Ballad Concerts. Words by Weatherly. 2s. net.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

GEO. WOODS' VESPER ORGAN. No. 3, with two complete sets of reeds, five octaves, and knee swell, net £14.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
THE LATEST SUCCESS.
BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE ..... 6s. net.
SONGS, &c. ..... net.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA. (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net. Now ready.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZ-SONG. By ALFRED GERRARD. 2s. net.
DANCE MUSIC, BILLEE TAYLOR, ready. Orchestra, 2s.; Sept., 1s. 6d.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. 100th Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

Post-free, 2s. net.
A LIFE'S LOVE. In C and D. Song. Composed by J. B. WALDECK. Will be sung by Mr. Robert Hilton at Dunbarton, Helensburgh, and Glasgow on the 24th, 25th, and 26th inst.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside.

THE LOVE OF OLD. ROECKEL'S charming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming engagements. Post-free, 24 stamps.

PIANO DUETS.
C. REINECKE. Three Sonatas, Op. 130. Price 2s. each, net.

PIANO SOLOS.
W. KUHE. NEW SACRED TRANSCRIPTIONS.
Eli (Costa). Naaman (Costa). Price 2s. each net.
TH. LACK. NEW PIECES.
Menuet. La Menestrelle. Iolaire. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. HUGHES. NEW PIECES.
Joyeuse Rentrée. Fête à Trianon. Parfait Bonheur. Price 2s. 6d. each net.
FRANZ HITZ. NEW PIECES.
Cavatine (Caprice). Lutin Rose. Le Regiment qui passe. Price 2s. 6d. each net.
JOYFUL MOMENTS. Ten Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. each net.
OUR FAVOURITES. Ten Moderately Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. 3d. each net.

THE PROGRESSIVE MUSIC SCHOOL.
Carefully Edited, Fingered, and Corrected from the Original Manuscripts by J. LIEBACH. First series (very easy), 15 Numbers. Numbers 1 to 10, price 1s. 3d. each net. Number 15, price 1s. 6d. net.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.
S. JACOBY. Six Popular Airs (Easy). Price 1s. each net.
CH. TOURVILLE. Twelve Favourite Subjects (Moderate). Price 1s. 6d. each net.

H. FARMER. Popular Violin Solos (Brilliant), with Piano Accompaniment. Nine Numbers. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW MUSIC.

NOW READY,
ROMEO ET JULIETTE. By HERLIOZ.
English Version, by Dr. F. Hueffer, performed by the Philharmonic Society on Thursday last.
Vocal Score, with English and French Words, price 8s. net.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

THE LANGUAGE OF THE FLOWERS.
Suite de Ballet.
Performed at Kuhe's Brighton Festival, Feb. 18, and also at the Orchestral Concerts, St. James's Hall.

| | |
|---|---|
| No. 1. DAISY. | No. 5. YELLOW JASMINE. |
| " 2. LILAC. | " 6. LILY OF THE VALLEY. |
| " 3. FERN. | |
| " 4. COLUMBINE | |

Arranged as Pianoforte Solos and Duets by the Composer.
FREDERIC H. COWEN.
Solos, price 2s. each net; complete, 6s. net.
Duets, price 2s. 6d. each net; complete, 7s. 6d. net.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

MISTRESS PRUE. New Song. J. L. MOLLOY. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MISS ORRIDGE.
THE UNFINISHED SONG. FREDERIC H. COWEN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MR. SANTLEY.
THE VICAR'S SONG. From "The Sorcerer," Comic Opera. By W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Sung by Mr. Santley at the London Ballad Concerts with enormous success. Post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MRS. OSGOOD.
THAT TRAITOR, LOVE. By J. L. ROECKEL. Words by Hugh Conway. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

SUNG BY MADAME ANTOINETTE STERLING.
THE CHORISTER. By ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Words by F. E. Weatherly.
In E and G. Price 4s.; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

JUST PUBLISHED.
QUEENIE GAVOTTE, for PIANO. Price 4s. By J. T. MUSGRAVE.
"We have not met with so pretty a gavotte for a long time before, nor for it is very taking and graceful throughout, and some touches towards the close are even masterly."—Piccolo.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

NOW READY,
LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES. By A. S. GATTY. Book 2, with Twenty-two Woodcuts specially drawn by Mrs. John Collier. Price 4s. net; or, handsomely bound in cloth, gilt letters and edges, price 6s. net.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS, by B. TOURS.
LA COLOMBE ENTR'ACTE. CH. GOUNOD.
THE SWING SONG. CH. FONTAINE'S popular Pianoforte Piece.
Price 4s., post-free 24 stamps each.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

NEW EDITION.
TOY SYMPHONIES. By ROMBERG and HAYDN. As performed at the St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace under the direction of Henry Leslie and F. H. Cowen. Edited by J. M. Coward. Each post-free, 30 stamps, for Pianoforte and Toy Instruments. String Parts, 14 stamps each extra. A complete set of Toy Instruments, properly tuned and regulated, price 2 guineas.
METZLER and Co., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

NO. 3 NOW READY.
AMERICAN ORGAN JOURNAL. Edited by J. M. COWARD. Contains Four Pieces by Arthur Sullivan, Henry Smart, and other popular Composers. Nos. 1, 2, and 3, price 2s. each; post-free, 24 stamps.
METZLER and Co., Great Marlborough-street, London.

GOLD MEDALS PARIS AND VIENNA.
MASON and HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.—The Cheapest and Best. Testimonials from 1000 Musicians. Unrivalled in tone and workmanship. Celebrated for perfect tuning. Elegant cases, new designs. May be had on hire or on the three-years' system of purchase. Liberal discount for cash. Catalogue post-free.

Economy Organ, price 8 gs.
Universal Organ, 13 stops, Knee Swell, Vox Humana, and Grand Organ, price 25 gs.
Chancel Organ, Venetian Organ, Swell, &c., price 36 gs.
ORGANS, with pedals, from 80 to 220 gs.
INDIAN MODELS, for extreme climates, from 38 gs.
ORCHESTRAL ORGAN, price 300 gs.
METZLER and CO., 37, Great Marlborough-street, London.

METZLER'S AMERICAN ORGUINETTE,
The American Orguinette is a reed Musical Instrument, constructed somewhat on the principle of the American organ, and adapted to be automatically operated by simple sheets or strips of perforated paper, each sheet representing one or more tunes. There is no limit to either kind or quantity of music. It will play Hymn Tunes, Popular Airs, sets of Quadrilles, Polkas, Waltzes, Reels, and Hornpipes with a clearness, accuracy, and degree of execution which, but few performers can equal. A mere child can play it.
Style A, with six tunes, £1 10s.
Style E, with attachment and six tunes, £2 10s.
Cabinet styles, with selection of Music, 12, 14, and 16 guineas.
Any description of Music sent on approval.
To be obtained of all Musicsellers, and
METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the Public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

CHALLEN and SON'S IRON-FRAME PIANOS, require but little tuning, pure and powerful in tone, and more due in proportion than those upon the old system of bracing. Their Gold Medal Pianettes, from 25 guineas, have taken the highest award at any Exhibition. Illustrated List free.—30, Oxford-street.

MELBOURNE EXHIBITION, 1881. HIGHEST AWARD.
CHALLEN and SON have been awarded the First Prize for their Iron-Frame Upright Pianos, a distinction not conferred upon any other English Firm. May be purchased on the Three-Years' Hire System.—30, Oxford-st.

CHALLEN and SON'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of Purchase affords facilities for obtaining a first-class Instrument by a series of twelve quarterly payments, after which the piano becomes the property of the hirer, without further payment. List and Terms free.—20, Oxford-street. Established 1830.

NEW MUSIC.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan."—Mr. Pepys the Musician, by F. Hueffer.—The Great Composers: Berlioz.—The Father of the Pianoforte.—Ponchielli's Opera "The Prodigal Son."—Monday Popular Concerts.—Crystal Palace, and Mr. Halle's Concerts.—Music in Manchester.—Mr. Kuhe's Brighton Musical Festival.—Occasional Notes.—Foreign and Country News.—Reviews.—Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual Subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains a special and full report of the recent production of Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera, "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan," at the Hanover Opera House.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—"O saving Victim." Anthem, by Berthold Tours. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIOS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Engedi | .. Beethoven. | Israel in Egypt | .. Handel. |
| Mount of Olives | .. " | Judas Maccabæus | .. " |
| Jephthah | .. Carissimi. | The Creation | .. Haydn. |
| Messiah | .. Handel. | Last Judgment | .. Spohr. |

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S CANTATAS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| God goeth up | .. Bach. | Hear my Prayer | Mendelssohn. |
| Lord, I have sinned | " | The Hyst Walpur- | |
| My spirit was in heavi- | " | gis Night | " |
| ness | " | Midsummer | " |
| O light everlasting | " | Night's Dream | " |
| Ride with us | " | Man is mortal | " |
| A Stronghold Sure | " | Lovely song | " |
| Ruins of Athens | Beethoven. | Christus | " |
| A song of Destiny | Brahms. | To the Sons of Art | " |
| Tne Dream | Sir M. Costa. | Ave Maria | " |
| Spring's Message, St. | | The Lay of the Bell | Romberg. |
| | Niels W. Gade. | The Transient and | |
| Christmas Eve | " | the Eternal | " |
| Ev'ning's Daughter | " | Song of Miriam | P. Schiffert. |
| Nemia | Goetz. | Manfred | R. Schumann. |
| The Soul's Aspiration | Gritsch. | New Year's Song | " |
| Acis and Galatea | Handel. | The North-east Wind | " |
| Spring, Summer, Au- | | | A. M. Smith. |
| tumn, Winter (from | | God, Thou art great | Spohr. |
| "The Seasons") | Haydn. | The Christian's Prayer | " |
| May Day | G. A. Macfarren. | Jubilee Cantata | C. M. V. Weber. |
| Ledgeswang | Mendelssohn. | | |

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S MASSES, PSALMS, &c.
ONE SHILLING EACH.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Stabat Mater | Adorps. | 148th Psalm | Mendelssohn. |
| Magnificat | Bach. | 150th Psalm | " |
| Mass in G | " | 13th Psalm | " |
| Requiem (Cminor) Cherubini. | | 95th Psalm | Meyerbeer. |
| Third Mass in A | " | First Mass | Mozart. |
| By the Waters of Babylon | | Twelfth Mass | " |
| | Goetz. | Requiem Mass (Latin | " |
| Mass Solennelle | Ch. Gounod. | and English) | |
| Dettingen Te Deum | Handel. | Stabat Mater (Female | |
| Utrecht Jubilate | " | Voices) | Pergolesi. |
| O praise the Lord (Sixth | " | Stabat Mater | Rossini. |
| Chandos Anthem) | | Mass in G | Schubert. |
| First Mass (B flat) | Haydn. | Advent Hymn | R. Schumann. |
| Second Mass (C) | " | Mass | E. Silas. |
| Third Mass (Imperial) | " | Mass (G) | C. M. Von Weber. |
| Te Deum (Latin and | | Mass (E flat) | " |
| English Words) | " | O Lord, Thou art my God | |
| 42nd Psalm | Mendelssohn. | | S. S. Wesley. |
| 95th Psalm | " | | |

London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

KINCK'S FIRST THREE MONTHS AT THE ORGAN. Not only a standard work, but invaluable to beginners. Published at 6s.; post-free for 36 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. In one handsome volume, folio, cloth, pp. 235. Louis Spohr wrote to the publishers, saying: "I have carefully looked over this English edition of my 'Violin School,' and have no hesitation in recommending it as a faithful translation of the original work." Price 15s. 3d.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

WEBER'S (GOTTFRIED) THEORY OF MUSICAL COMPOSITION. Treated with a view to a naturally consecutive arrangement of topics. Re-edited by JOHN BISHOP. In 2 vols., 8vo, price 15s. net.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

PRACTICAL HARMONY. By W. S. ROCKSTRO. Price 2s.; post-free. This clear and systematic manual fit by brain-cudgelled student will be hailed by the teacher and student as much the one as the other. The plan of the work is the result of a full and perfect test during a long period of tuition. The style in which it is written will command attention and respect fifty years hence.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HISTORY OF MUSIC. By W. S. ROCKSTRO.
"Exceedingly interesting and thoroughly readable chapters."—Nottingham Guardian.
"We can award high praise to Mr. Rockstro's treatise."—Musical Times.
Price 2s.; post-free.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

W. T. BEST'S CHORUSES OF HANDEL.—130 from all his Oratorios and Anthems. Arranged from the Scores for Pedal Organs. In cloth boards, price 2s. 6d.; or, in 24 Parts, at various prices. List of contents gratis and post-free. The most valuable collection extant.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SUTTON'S THEORY OF MUSIC. Tenth Edition. "It found most useful in schools and training colleges, where it has rapidly become a standard book." In cloth, price 2s.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

Owing to the great success of F. H. COWEN'S New Song,
THE CHILDREN'S HOME,
Mr. W. MOLLOY, Jun., and Co. have much pleasure in announcing the purchase of Mr. Cowen's last Song.

THE WATCHMAN AND THE CHILD, which must still further enhance his reputation as one of the finest song-writers of the present day.
Keys for all Voices.

IN THE CLOISTERS. By ODOARDO BARRI. New Song.
"A song of uncommon beauty and merit, which will soon be equally popular with 'The Lost Chord.' Of moderate compass, yet thoroughly vocal, its charming phrases must ensure success alike to the professional vocalist or amateur."—Review.
Post-free, 24 stamps each.
W. MOLLEY, jun., and Co., 17, Upper-street, London, N.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1. PIANOFORTE TUTOR.
Catalogue and any Part or any number to be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street; Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

Now ready,
THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST ("L'Enfance du Christ"). By BERLIOZ.
Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Halle. Price 2s. net, paper; 3s. net, bound.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272a, Regent-circus, London; and Cross-street and South King-street, Manchester.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

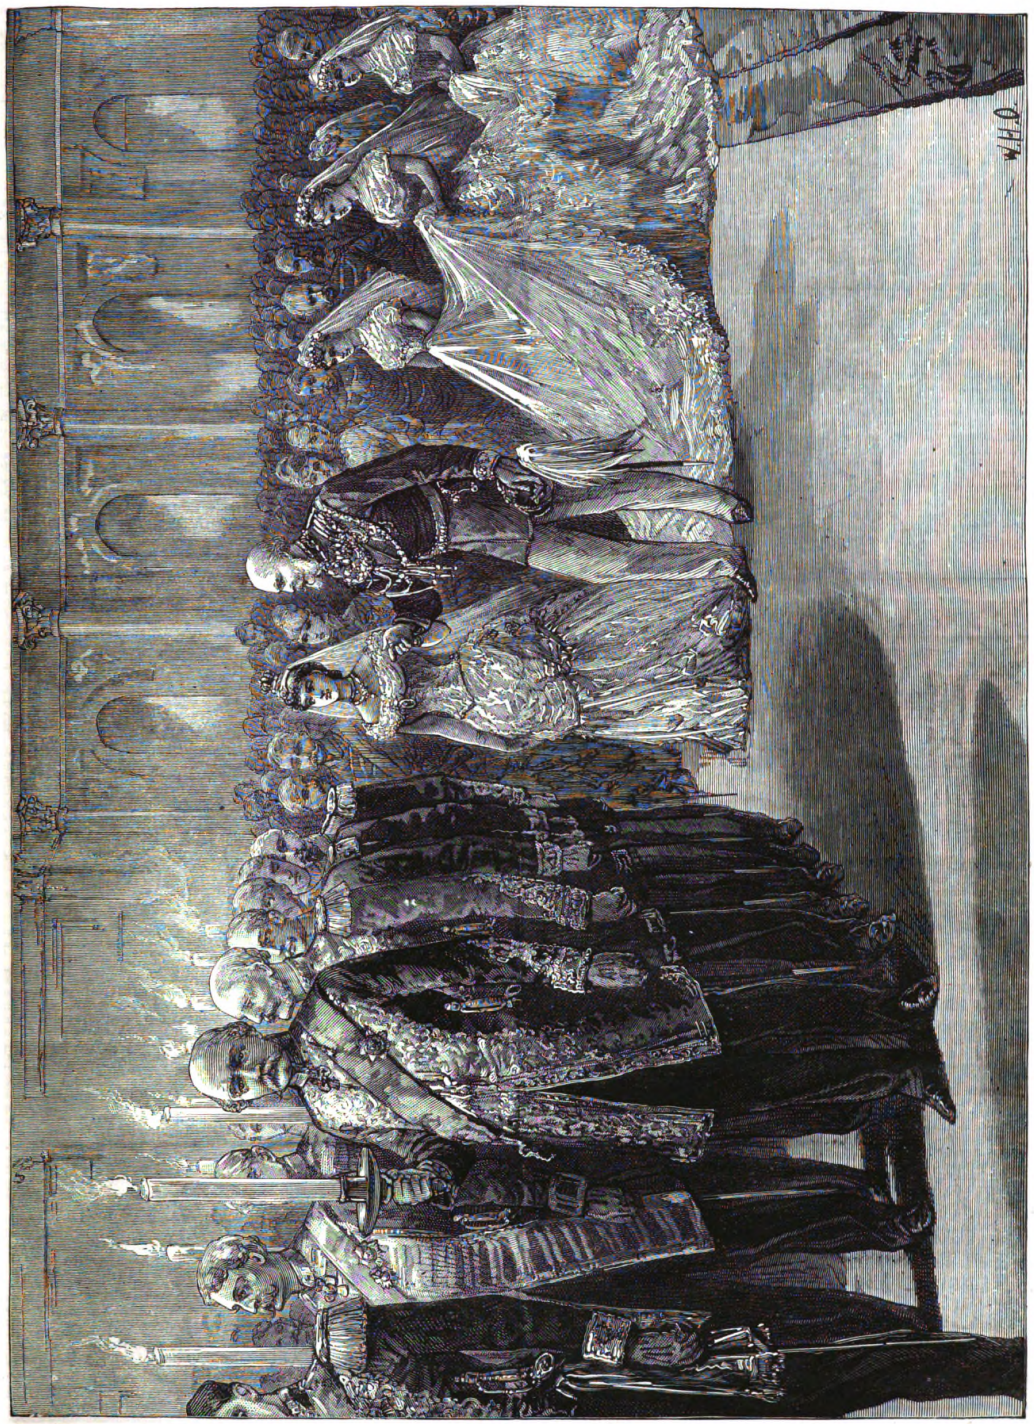
PLEYEL WOLFF and CO.'S BOUDOIR GRAND PIANO, with gold-covered strings, may be had in ebonized, walnut, or rosewood cases. Carriage free to towns where there are no agents.
170, New Bond-street, W.

MUSICAL BOX DÉPOTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £200, small boxes from 18s. to 40s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & MCCULLOCH, as above.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1881.



MARRIAGE FESTIVITIES AT BERLIN: FACKEL-TANZ, OR TORCH DANCE, AT THE ROYAL WEDDING.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.—SEE PAGE 264.

The Extra Supplement.

"CROSSING THE LINE."

The traditional custom of ships crossing the Equator receiving a merry visit from Neptune, King of Ocean, with Amphitrite and Triton and the other members of his Royal Court, is still kept up in the British Navy, making a special holiday festival among the seamen and non-commissioned officers belonging to each ship. The Detached or Flying Squadron commanded by Rear-Admiral the Earl of Clanwilliam, including H.M.S. Bacchante, the corvette on board of which Prince Albert Victor and Prince George of Wales are serving as midshipmen, crossed "the Line" on Nov. 29, on the voyage to Monte Video; and some account was then published of the share that the two young Princes took, like any other novices in the life of members of the Royal Navy when at sea, in the rough jokes commonly prescribed, and to be endured upon this occasion. We have been favoured by Lieutenant Percy M. Scott, of H.M.S. Inconstant, the Admiral's flag-ship of that squadron, with the sketch furnishing our Illustration of this quaint and droll performance, which would be pretty much the same on board the Bacchante, and each of the ships in turn. It consisted of a certain ordeal for the initiation of persons who had never crossed the Line before; and there were many young hands among the officers and crews who had not previously been introduced to Neptune.

At the hour when the ship crossed the Line the ancient monarch of ocean appeared in full state, and met with a solemn and ceremonious reception. A platform had been raised amidships, on the port side, upon which a throne was erected for Neptune; and a doubled sail, capable of holding water, was stretched from this platform to the topgallant forecastle, forming a basin for the immersion of the novices to be initiated in these rites of maritime experience. When Neptune arrived, he was conducted round the ship, with his consort and son, in a triumphal car, formed of a gun-carriage, and drawn by thirteen bears. The representative of Neptune was a stalwart seaman, attired in a big wig of oakum, with a tin crown, and wearing no trousers, but wielding a trident of tin. Amphitrite was a lovely figure, with masses of flowing hair made of tow, and with a long coloured robe or gown; she plied her fan with a languishing feminine grace, which was, however, belied by her chin with a natural manly beard. Four body-guards attended the royal equipage, which was followed by the Secretary and Chief of Police, the Chief Fireman and Assistant, the Barber and his mate, with shaving implements, the Doctor and Assistant, with pills, draughts, and smelling-bottles, and an escort of police sergeants and constables. When Neptune, after going round in procession, was seated on his throne, with his Court and official staff about him, the uninitiated were sent below; and each of them was summoned in turn, to pass the prescribed ordeal. The first to undergo it was his Serene Highness Prince Louis of Battenberg, Lieutenant R.N., who figures as a victim in our Illustration.

The candidate for initiation is first taken by the police to the upper deck, where he is blindfolded. He is thence led, through a continuous drenching shower of water from the firemen's hose, to appear before Neptune. Having been placed on a stool, he is addressed by Neptune with certain questions; but, if he rashly opens his mouth to reply, the barber thrusts into it a brush charged with lather of soft soap, mixed with oatmeal, soap, and other ingredients, which may also find entrance into his nose and ears. The "doctor," immediately afterwards, crams him with horrible pills and doses him with nauseous draughts. He is next shaved by the barber, with a razor made of iron hoop, sometimes frightfully jagged, and more or less harsh and scraping, the degree of severity being greater if the patient is at all refractory under such treatment. A smelling-bottle, of the size of an ordinary wine-bottle, is then presented to his nose; but its cork is armed with needle-points, which may, by a sudden jerk, or an enforced bob of the head, act with a very pungent effect. Lastly, the stool is plucked from beneath the blindfold sitter, who tumbles backward into the spacious bath of sea-water. He is there instantly seized by the bears, and is ducked, rolled over and over, and dragged through the basin, and flogged by the "flunkeys" with their wet "swabs," till Neptune gives the sign for his release.

Such is the ceremony of initiation, which is, of course, never repeated during the man's life, and by which he is qualified to take part in the same treatment of others. It was performed and suffered on board the Inconstant, as well as on board the Bacchante, with perfect good-humour in all concerned. The two young Princes were shaved and ducked in their turn, and Neptune said he felt it a great honour to admit them into his dominion, and to the navigation of the Southern Hemisphere.

MAGAZINES FOR MARCH.

Mr. James Payn's "Grape from a Thorn" will rank among the best of his characteristically bright and lively stories, and is a very distinct acquisition to the Cornhill. The relation between father and daughter which forms the backbone of the tale, presents a curious resemblance, and at the same time a curious contrast, to the similar situation which constitutes the pivot of Mr. James's recent fiction in the same periodical. The number is equally strong in the miscellaneous articles, especially in the partly idyllic, partly prosaically truthful, but everywhere vivid and Crabbe-like picture of Indian peasant life, entitled "Bhagoo." Mr. Gosse contributes an entertaining literary and personal sketch of Sir George Etherege, hitherto one of the least-known of the poets of the Restoration; but henceforth, thanks to the discovery of a volume of correspondence in the British Museum, likely to be among the most individual figures of the period. Mr. Grant Allen does well in pointing out the numerous traits of resemblance between the legends of fairies and the vestiges of the primitive inhabitants of Europe, but is too much enamoured of an attractive hypothesis when he goes the length of identifying them in every point. Mr. Symonds's descriptions of Italian scenery, especially of the neighbourhood of Lerici and Spezzia, have the charm of poems; and Miss Robinson's "Helen in the Wood" is an actual poem of exquisite grace and pathos.

Mr. James's "Portrait of a Lady" is exceedingly ill-adapted to serial publication. Macmillan, however, is strong in miscellaneous papers. Mr. Evans's account of Montenegrin customs and superstitions is most interesting, as is Mr. Martin's sketch of the Connemara peasant, which incidentally and unintentionally brings out the peculiar mischievousness of agrarian agitation in driving away the class of landed proprietors which offers the only hope of redemption for a poverty-stricken country. Mr. Hitchman, in a very entertaining paper, introduces his readers to an extensive class of journals potent with the masses, but of which eye and ears polite seldom take cognisance. There is excellent sense in Mr. Arnold's essay on Byron; but little novelty, except in the application made of some pregnant dicta of Goethe. Mr. Alfred Austin resents the disparaging part of the recent criticism on Tennyson by Mr. Swinburne, who, like Mr. Simcox Rummins, in "Little Pedlington," would apparently be an excellent critic if he only knew where to stop.

Blackwood makes up a fair number with the continuation of "The Private Secretary," the conclusion of "Mr. Cox's Protégé," and Lady Martin's remarks on the character of Desdemona. There is also an excellent review of Sir C. Ducane's recent version of the Odyssey in ballad metre; but the gem of the number is an analysis of that precious legacy of an age of romance, the autobiography of Lord Herbert of Cherbury.

Fraser is not particularly brilliant this month, although there are some very good points in its new serial fiction, "In Trust," which presents affinities to Mr. Trollope's work with more delicacy of handling. Mr. Allingham's "News from Pannonia," too, is a fine versification of some of the best thoughts of Marcus Aurelius. "John Gilpin as a Solar Hero" is a somewhat over elaborate burlesque of the theories of comparative mythologists. The identification of the postboy with the morning and evening star, however, is a capital hit. The most important contributions of serious interest are Mr. Baden-Powell's endeavour to reassure the British farmer against American competition; and Mr. Longman's horrified protest against the proposal to admit American reprints of English books into the United Kingdom.

The contents of the Fortnightly Review are for the most part of a very solid description, the principal exceptions being Mr. Chirol's "Notes of Travel in Thessaly and Epirus" and Mr. Symonds's essay on a poet contemporary with Dante, Folgore da San Gemignano. Mr. Chirol draws attention to a factor in the Turco-Greek question hitherto overlooked, the existence in the disputed provinces of a large Wallachian population, whose sympathies may be with neither party. Mr. Symonds's renderings display his usual felicity and mastery of form. The most remarkable of the other contributions are Mr. Schuster's account of the anti-Jewish agitation in Germany, which he considers to have been deliberately got up for political reasons; and Mr. Statham's advice, which many will almost wish could be followed, to get out of South African difficulties and South Africa together.

The Nineteenth Century is rich in discussions of the most pressing questions of the day. Miss Charlotte O'Brien gives for the first time, so far as we know, expression to what has long been the inarticulate conviction of a good many, that the application of the Parliamentary system to Ireland is a mistake altogether, and that the true régime for the country would be the absolute government of some generally popular individual like Lord Dufferin. Sir Garnet Wolseley pleads the cause of short military service in an article evidently elicited by General Roberts's speech at the Mansion House. Sir Garnet makes no reference to one of the principal objections to short service, the unfair weight which it throws upon the Indian exchequer; but his paper contains an instructive exposition of some of the personal reasons which bias military men against the system. Emigration, the Basuto question, Dutch feeling in the Transvaal business, are the subjects of contributions of considerable value, and Mr. Kebbel assigns his reasons for considering a juncture between Conservatives and moderate Liberals essential for the preservation of the balance of party government. Mr. Mallock's "Colloquy on Radicalism" contains many pungent remarks, but the machinery is faulty. It is a dialogue with a dialogue; no human memory could have faithfully retailed so long a conversation, nor any human patience have endured it all at second-hand. Plato, no doubt, set the example, but it is an example that can only be followed with safety by a second Plato.

The Contemporary Review makes another addition to the literature of the Jewish question in Germany in an essay by Mr. Charles Grant, pointing out many reasons why the Jew should be made the scapegoat of the general discontent and perplexity incidental to a period of transition. Professor Jevons writes an extremely vigorous statement of the case of free public libraries, versus the apathy of metropolitan ratepayers. Mr. Farrer's account of the Grand Duke Leopold's reforms in Tuscan land tenure is full of interest; but, unfortunately, Leopold dealt only with Crown and Church lands, so that his example contributes little to the problem of reconciling the general interest with the rights of private property. Professor Williamson's "Pyrrhonism in Science" enforces modesty and caution upon the adherents of popular hypotheses; and Professor Hillebrand's character of Guizot, though an unsympathetic, is not an unjust estimate of the "austere intriguer's" immaculate but unattractive private life.

The contributions to this month's Temple Bar are full of character. "Gasides" "Kith and Kin" and "The Freres," more have the first part of a very clever story, "The Beautiful Miss Roche," and an essay on "Genius and Method," abounding in curious particulars of the methods of composition adopted by literary men. "A Peep at the Moghrebins" and "Quakerism in Ireland" are very agreeable papers; but the most interesting of any are accounts of the strange amours of two men of great genius, Hazlitt and Ferdinand Lassalle. It is difficult to determine which of the two was the more thoroughly infatuated by the more unworthy object; but, on the whole, we should assign the palm of infatuation to Hazlitt, and of unworthiness to Madame von Racowitza.

"Sophy" is, as usual, the chief feature of Time, which this month, however, has other attractive matter to depend upon in "A Little Pill," "Boswell's Love Affairs," and "An Adventure with an Adventuress."

The American illustrated magazines are, as usual, excellent, marvellously copious in artistic design, and miracles of cheapness. Harper and Scribner's Monthly follow their usual plan of giving articles adapted to serve as nuclei for groups of engravings. A description of the new Queen Anne suburb of Bedford Park, in Harper, is an excellent specimen of this method of treatment, and will make many Londoners acquainted for the first time with one of the most remarkable modern features of their own city. "The University of Leyden," "An Old Dutch Town," and "A Nation in a Nutshell," likewise bring together a number of most interesting portraits and topographical sketches; while Mr. T. Hardy's "Laodicean" would of itself uphold the literary character of the periodical. "In London with Dickens" and "Striped Bass" are among Scribner's most successful media for piquant illustration. The same magazine has very pleasing paper on Charles and Mary Lamb with Cary's portraits; and the artist Copley, father of Lord Lyndhurst; besides a valuable account of the prospects of Protestantism in Italy. The most remarkable article in a good average number of the Atlantic Monthly is an exposure of "the greatest, wisest, and meanest monopoly known to history" that of the Standard Oil Company, which "produces only one fiftieth or sixtieth of our petroleum, but dictates the price of all, and refines nine tenths."

The Gentleman's Magazine is chiefly remarkable for the continuation of Mr. McCarthy's "Comet of a Season," an abstract of Mr. Thomson's successful expedition to Central Africa, and Mr. Ewald's historical sketch of Cardinal Pole's legation to England under Queen Mary. Mr. D. C. Murray's "Joseph's Coat" is a real acquisition to Belgravia; and in this age of sensational novels it may be expected that many of its readers will find an attraction in Mr. Mallock's singular mixture of unwholesome religion with frivolous worldliness. "Rambles about Eton" is particularly interesting for containing a view of Hughenden Manor.

Good Words contains Mr. Froude's long-anticipated sketch of Cardinal Newman; while London Society relies principally upon Mrs. Riddell's excellent novel. Tinsley, the Argosy, Home, the St. James's, and the Burlington provide a good store of light reading; and the Antiquary and the Theatre are as successful as usual in catering for the particular classes upon whose patronage they depend.

The Art Journal is very greatly improved in its new series, and the Magazine of Art affords an excellent pattern of the cheaper type of artistic periodical. The New Monthly has photographic portraits of Madame Modjeska and Miss Ellen Terry.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

THE COLOURING MATTER OF THE BLOOD—HÆMOGLOBIN.

Professor E. A. Schäfer, F.R.S., in his fifth lecture, on Tuesday, Feb. 22, after referring to the discovery of the blood crystals by Leydig and Reichert, described the methods of crystallising the colouring matter, which is always preceded by separation from the corpuscles. How these crystals are readily formed, by mixing the blood of the rat with water, was shown by means of the electric light and microscope; and the differences in the form of blood crystals were illustrated by specimens from the blood of the guinea-pig and squirrel. Large crystals may be obtained by warming blood for several days in an incubator. The composition of these crystals was explained, and iron stated to be present in them. The spectroscopic examination of the blood corpuscles was strikingly shown. Hoppe-Seyler, by this means, demonstrated the presence of oxygen in very small quantities of hæmoglobin, and Stokes's discoveries illustrate what takes place in the blood, when the tissues act as reducing agents, and subtract oxygen from the hæmoglobin, which again takes up a fresh supply of oxygen in passing through the capillaries of the lungs. Hæmoglobin combines with other gases, notably with carbonic oxide; and hence suffocation by inhaling this gas is generally fatal, because it expels the respiratory oxygen from the blood, and firmly retains its place when artificial respiration is attempted. The Professor then noticed some of the chemical elements of hæmoglobin, especially hæmatin, long considered to be the true colouring matter of blood. Hæmatin contains all the iron of hæmoglobin; and, when this is extracted, a purple-coloured substance, termed "iron-free hæmatin" remains. These, and other interesting facts, were well illustrated by the aid of prisms of glass, and carbon sulphide with the electric light.

THE WHITE CORPUSCLES OF THE BLOOD.

Professor E. A. Schäfer in his sixth lecture, given on Tuesday, the 1st inst., after speaking of the discovery of the white corpuscles by Hewson, and of their being easily seen in circulating blood, through their property of adhering to the wall of the blood-vessel, distinguished them as coarsely or finely granular, and large or small. He described their structure as protoplasm with a nucleus; and as containing fat particles as well as animal starch, which latter he demonstrated by the iodine reaction (a violet tinge). He also illustrated the action of other reagents, especially that of water and acetic acid. He next commented on the discovery of the amœboid movements of the white corpuscles by Wharton Jones in 1846. These movements, said to be due to contractility, are accelerated by heat, retarded by cold, and stopped by chloroform. Professor Schäfer then referred to the alleged feeding of the white corpuscles, to their taking in vermilion granules; and especially to their digesting organic particles, such as milk globules or starch. He stated that his own observations seem to show that they cannot do so; since both the milk globules and starch granules, after remaining in them for many hours, were perfectly unchanged. Finally, he noticed the wandering of the white corpuscles out of the blood vessels, first observed by Waller; and Cohnheim's discovery that the corpuscles of pus, the matter of an abscess, are white corpuscles which have emigrated from the blood-vessels.

HISTORY OF DRAWING-ROOM MUSIC.

Professor Ernst Pauer, in beginning his second and concluding lecture, on Thursday, Feb. 24, commented on the great advances in the character of home-music made in the present century, much promoted by the introduction of the "cottage" pianos. Among the finest lyrical pieces are Liszt's transcription of the beautiful songs of Schubert and Schumann, and his arrangements of national songs and dances—such as his "Hungarian Rhapsodies," in which the pianoforte is made to imitate other instruments. Chopin idealised the simple rhythm of the mazurka and ennobled the krakoviak and polonaise, and his drawing-room music has never been excelled for grace, refinement, sweetness, and versatility. Mendelssohn's "Songs without Words" were also a highly valuable addition to the musical home library. They have been characterised as perfect gems of art, imbued with the composer's innermost ideas, inclosing, in brief compass, sweet melody, delicious harmonies, elegant accompaniments, and refined basses. In like manner, the production of Schumann's shorter pieces forms an epoch in musical history, and their great influence is justly due to their remarkable intellectual richness and romantic spirit. They are most especially adapted for home audiences, being well adapted for discussion. In his "Album Leaves" and similar works, Schumann touches a chord not sounded by any preceding composer. He appears to have lived in a world of his own, apart from all mankind; and his deep feeling and tenderness appear much more in his drawing-room music than in his greater works. Finally, Professor Pauer commented on the improved character and great brilliancy of modern dance music; and, in conclusion, asserted that drawing-room music has now not only attained a distinct legitimate existence, but has absolutely become an actual necessity. His illustrations, given upon a grand pianoforte of Broadwood's, comprised several charmingly characteristic pieces by Liszt, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Hiller, Litolff, Brahms, and Taubert.

EXCITABILITY IN PLANTS AND ANIMALS.

Dr. J. S. Burdon-Sanderson, M.D., F.R.S., who gave the discourse at the evening meeting on Friday, Feb. 25, opened its subject by referring to his discourse on June 5, 1874, when he announced, what was at that time a new discovery, that in those parts of plants which respond, as animals do, when touched or otherwise irritated by some kind of motion, the electrical change which always precedes the response also shows itself as the antecedent of motion in the leaf of the fly-trap (Dionæa), and in the swelling at the base of the leaf-stalk of the sensitive plant. From this fundamental observation, Dr. Sanderson stated that he had been led to a more complete study of the elementary endowments on which the power of a living structure to respond by visible motion to a stimulus is dependent, and he then proceeded to describe the results of investigations carried on for several years, in conjunction with Mr. Page, F.C.S. Since 1874, the results of Dr. Sanderson's first experiments have been severely criticised by distinguished physiologists in Germany, who, while admitting his facts, repudiated the inferences that the excitable parts of plants possess endowments analogous to those of animal contractile tissues. To support this inference, it was necessary to compare the two processes in a series of experiments. Those illustrating the endowments of animal protoplasm were exhibited to the audience. The counterparts of these experiments on the leaf could not be shown, for vigorous Dionæa plants are not to be had in winter. They were, however, fully illustrated by diagrams. The chief question was, is it possible that, in the plant as in the animal, one part can influence another at a distance from it, independently of the transmission of sensible motion—that is, by the propagation of the molecular change produced in its living substance by excitation. If it is possible, then, although they possess no nerves and nothing analogous to brains, yet the fundamental endowment of a nerve (that of communicating the effect of an excitation to a distance without sensible motion on its own part) is not entirely wanting to plants. And, this being so, we must admit that the close relation which all naturalists recognise between the two kingdoms as regards structure and development, is based on a much deeper and more fundamental agreement as regards the vital endowments of their protoplasm.

ANCIENT EGYPT—RELIGION

Mr. R. Stuart Poole, Keeper of Coins in the British Museum, in his second lecture, given on Saturday last, Feb. 26, began by stating that the belief of the Egyptians in future responsibility rested on the immortality of the soul, the after life of which depended on the life led on earth. After briefly noticing their idea of death, and the practice of mummification, he proceeded to comment on the funeral procession, the tomb, and the other world, referring to large graphic illustrations. The funeral procession was described on the route from the house to the river, the passage of the river, and the route from the other bank to the tomb, followed by the laments, and the funeral feast and dirges. The principal parts of the tomb were next described; details being given of the chapel, the pit, and the sepulchral chamber; and the external inscription of the oldest tombs, and the state of the chapel were explained. It was argued that the care for the mummy did not depend on a doctrine of the resurrection of the body, which had not been traced with any certainty to Egyptian sources. It might rather be due to the importance of a central place for the funereal offerings in perpetuity assured by the contributions from the estates of the deceased as a kind of quit-rent to the priests from his heirs. In regard the other world, Mr. Poole stated what the Egyptians held as to the double, the soul and the intelligence, suggesting that the confusion of terms was due to sources of their belief. He gave some account of the "Book of the Dead," the story of the fate of the soul in the other world; and, comparing it with other Egyptian works of the same nature, expressed his belief that their discordant topography was as yet unexplained, as the theory that it was allegorical has yet to be proved, and seemed inconsistent with Egyptian practice. It would not avail to learn how to avoid dangers in Hades, if they were purely allegorical. As a convenient term only, Hades was spoken of as purgatorial. The central idea of "the Book of the Dead" was judgment before Osiris. The condemned were dismissed to misery, apparently ending in the second death, probably annihilation; while the acquitted passed through further trials, until, ultimately, the soul, animated by the intelligence, was absorbed into the light from which it had issued. The lecture was closed with a comparative view. The strong contrast of the idea of law was shown. The time has not yet come for comparison with Assyrian beliefs; but the points of similarity in Homeric and post Homeric notions of the future state, and in Indian ideas, were briefly noticed.

ANCIENT EGYPT—SOCIAL AND DOMESTIC LIFE

Mr. Poole, in his third lecture, given on Saturday last, the 5th inst., after stating that no early Egyptian speculative philosophy apart from religion had been traced, as the only known tract on the subject was of a date at which we might infer the influence of Greek thought, treated the subject under the heads of moral philosophy, marriage, and manners and customs. The moral philosophy is chiefly to be found in "The Book of the Dead," which presents the religious teaching in morals, and partly in the works of the Egyptian moralists. He compared the Negative Confession with the Decalogue, and pointed out, in the Egyptian code, the importance of duties to one's self, as well as its consequent want of comprehensiveness. The teaching of the moralists, from the earliest age to the last, dealt with duty to man and self, and regarded God as the source of all moral law. The similarity of Hebrew proverbial philosophy was next indicated. Our knowledge of the marriage law of Egypt is due to the recent researches of M. Revillout on the contracts and similar documents of the time of the Greek and Roman rule. The earlier monuments prove the high position of the wife, but only inferentially. Under the Ptolemies, we find her first protected by elaborate provisions guaranteeing her dowry on the whole property of her husband in case of divorce, which was in his power. Greek law was introduced by Ptolemy IV., and the husband's right over her property increased. Divorce was next permitted on both sides, and finally it became lawful to the wife alone. Until the decree of Philopator, the wife remained absolutely free in all matters of business, and could buy and sell of her own will. Property was held in common, with provision for creditors, if the husband was engaged in business. The only marriage law which approaches the Egyptian, Mr. Poole stated, is the "Code Napoléon." In conclusion, he gave a brief survey of the different classes of the population, and described the Egyptian character as resting on an ideal far higher than the Assyrian; and, in its social side, above that of the Greeks.

ELASTICITY POSSIBLY A MODE OF MOTION.

Sir William Thomson, LL.D., F.R.S., gave the discourse at the evening meeting on Friday, the 3rd inst. In his opening remarks he referred to Dr. Tyndall's beautiful book, "Heat a Mode of Motion," as a lesson of truth which has manifested far and wide one of the greatest discoveries of modern philosophy. About a century ago Daniel Bernoulli shadowed forth the kinetic theory of the elasticity of gases, which has been accepted as truth by Joule and splendidly developed by Clausius, Maxwoode, Tait, and Dewar, less than two hundred years after the discovery of Robert Boyle. This elasticity, Sir William thought, may be viewed as a mode of motion. Reference was then made to the spinning-top, rolling hoop, and bicycle in rapid motion, as cases of stiff, elastic-like firmness produced by motion, and showed experimentally by the gyrostat, in which upright position, utterly impossible without rotation, was maintained with a firmness, and strength, and elasticity as might be obtained by bands of steel. A flexible endless chain seemed rigid when caused to run rapidly round a pulley; a limp disc of indiarubber, made to rotate, seemed to acquire the stiffness of a Rubens' hat-brim; and a little wooden ball in still water which could not be kept down, remained as if embedded in jelly when the water was rotated rapidly. Lastly, large smoke rings discharged from a circular or elliptic aperture in a box, and illuminated by electric light, progressed through the air when undisturbed; but when one ring was sent obliquely after another, the collision sent the two away in greatly changed directions. Here then, said Sir William, in water and air is an elasticity like that of an elastic solid, developed by mere motion. May not the elasticity of every atom of matter be thus explained? But the kinetic theory of matter is a dream, and will be nothing else, until it can explain chemical affinity, electricity, magnetism, gravitation, and the inertia of masses. The belief that no other theory of matter is possible is the only ground for anticipating that there is in store for the world another beautiful book, to be called "Elasticity a Mode of Motion."

OBITUARY.

THE RIGHT HON. SIR J. M. MACLEOD.

The Right Hon. Sir John Macpherson Macleod, P.C., K.C.S.I., of Duirnish, died on the 1st inst., at Stanhope-street, Hyde Park, in his ninetieth year. He was the son of Colonel Donald Macleod, of St. Kilda; received his education at Edinburgh University and at Haileybury, and entered the Madras Civil Service. He held various appointments in India from 1812 to 1838, amongst others that of Secretary to the Government of Madras, Commissioner for the Government of Mysore, and member of the Indian Law Commission at Calcutta. He was a J.P. and D.L. for Inverness-shire. In 1866 he received the decoration of K.C.S.I., and in 1871 was sworn of the Privy Council. He married, in 1822, Catharine, daughter of Mr. William Greig, of Thornhill, Stirlingshire.

HON. CORNWALLIS MAUDE.

The Hon. Cornwallis Maude, Captain, attached to the 58th Regiment, fell in the disastrous action with the Boers on the Majuba Mountain in South Africa. He was born Oct. 22, 1852, the only son of Cornwallis, Viscount Hawarden, by Clementina, his wife (who died in 1865), eldest daughter of the late Admiral the Hon. Charles Elphinstone-Fleeming. This gallant young officer received his education at Eton, and entered the Grenadier Guards in 1871, from which he retired with the rank of Captain in 1876. He also served in the 2nd Life Guards. He assumed the surname of Fleeming under entail of his ancestor, John Fleeming, sixth Earl of Wigton, but subsequently resumed his patronymic. He married, Feb. 28, 1878, Eva Henrietta, daughter of the late Mr. Francis Brooke, of Summerton, in the county of Dublin, and has left two infant daughters.

MR. ST. GEORGE BURKE.

Mr. James St. George Burke, Q.C., of The Auberies, Essex, J.P., died suddenly on the 25th ult. He was youngest son of the late Mr. John French Burke, author of "The Domestic Manners and Institutions of the Romans," and grandson of Mr. Joseph Burke, of London, by Jane, his wife, daughter of Mr. Simon Arthur Hyacinth French, of Frenchbrook, in the county of Roscommon. Mr. Peter Burke, of Elm Hall, in the county of Tipperary, J.P. for that county, younger brother of the last-named Joseph Burke, was grandfather of Mr. Serjeant Burke, and of Sir Bernard Burke, C.B., Ulster King of Arms. Mr. St. George Burke was born in 1804, and called to the Bar in 1846. He attained considerable practice before Parliamentary Committees, and purchased the estate of The Auberies in the county of Essex. He married, in 1835, Anne Eliza, second daughter of Mr. John Grubb, of Horsenden House, Bucks, J.P. and D.L., by whom he leaves a large family.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Mr. Henry Cox Goodlake, J.P., on the 27th ult., aged sixty-two.

Mr. James Falconer Gillanders, of Highfield, in the county of Ross, J.P. and D.L., at his seat near Tarradale, on the 24th ult., aged seventy. He was eldest son of Mr. John Gillanders, of Highfield, J.P. and D.L., by Jane Falconer, his wife, daughter of Mr. John Mackenzie, of Allan Grange.

Sir Henry Jackson, Bart., Q.C., who last week was elevated to the Judicial Bench, causing the present vacancy in the representation of Coventry, on the 8th inst., at his residence, 61, Portland-place. Sir Henry had been out of health for some time, and for a fortnight had been seriously ill.

Commander Francis Romilly, R.N., H.M.S. Boadicea, of wounds received in the action on the Majuba Mountain, South Africa. He was son of Mr. Charles Romilly, Clerk to the Crown in Chancery, by the Lady Georgina, his wife, daughter of John, sixth Duke of Bedford, and was consequently nephew of the first Lord Romilly and grandson of the celebrated Sir Samuel Romilly.

Mr. Theodore Howard Galton, of Hadzor, in the county of Worcester, J.P. and D.L., barrister-at-law, M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, on the 28th ult., at Biarritz, in his sixty-first year. He was eldest son of Mr. John Howard Galton, of Hadzor, J.P. and D.L., High Sheriff of Worcestershire in 1834, by Isabella, his wife, only child of Mr. Joseph Strutt, of Derby. He married, 1853, Frances Amelia, fourth daughter of General the Right Hon. Sir George Arthur, Bart.

An agrarian murder has been perpetrated at Multyfarnham, about eight miles from Mullingar, in Westmeath. Patrick Farrelly, of Moyvore, was returning home across the fields, when he was met by two men, who fired several shots at him, from the effects of which he died. For several years he had held a farm from which a tenant was evicted.

A silver medal, money rewards, and letters of thanks given by the Board of Trade were presented at Yarmouth last Saturday to the coastguardsmen, beachmen, and gentlemen who rendered assistance in rescuing lives from the several wrecks on that part of the coast during the great gale of last January; the Mayor, naval and military authorities, and most of the gentry of the town being present. Mrs. Parker, the wife of the inspecting commander of the coastguard, distributed the testimonials.

Last week 2620 births and 1633 deaths were registered in London. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 20 and the deaths 116 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 52 from smallpox, 18 from measles, 27 from scarlet fever, 9 from diphtheria, 35 from whooping-cough, 8 from enteric fever, 1 from an ill-defined form of continued fever, and 13 from diarrhœa. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had been 364 and 367 in the two preceding weeks, further rose to 419 last week: 283 were attributed to bronchitis, and 75 to pneumonia. Different forms of violence caused 63 deaths.

"BEFORE THE SWALLOW DARES."

Of the four seasons, it is only Winter that in leaving us goes away grumbling and discontented. He has a sneaking habit of again and again returning, weeks after his lawful sway has ended, to wreak his spite upon gentle-hearted Spring; now blanching her fresh young face with his cold, slimy sleet, now drawing the blood into her cheeks with a rude blast from the north, and now hurling upon her a snowstorm that frightens her right away. No wonder that the birds which left us in October wait until Spring's second month ere they venture back again to the land of their birth. Nor is it at all surprising that Flora keeps back her choicest blossoms until May, nor even that the leaves, which in March seem all but bursting from their buds, dare not unfold until April, May, or even June has come!

Spite, however, of Winter's churlish behaviour to his gentle successor, Nature has in store some of her sweetest offspring to welcome the blushing Spring on her earliest approach. Bravest of all the brave-hearted things that shrink not from Winter's spitefulness, is the little snowdrop, "first-born of the year's delight"—the morning star of flowers. How often have we seen the sweet pale things in its anxiety to be quite in time to greet her, burst through the snow itself—alas, long before Spring has come! How prettily it hangs its snow-white head, and how patiently it seems to wait during those few short days before it droops and dies—shall we say broken-hearted? The celandine, with its smooth heart-shaped leaves and yellow star-like blossoms, is another charming little wilding that ventures forth early in the year.

Ere a leaf is on a bush,
In the time before the thrush
Has a thought about her nest, comes this modest little flower, that Wordsworth tried so hard to make beloved as one of the earliest heralds of the spring. Violets and primroses are perhaps spring flowers rather than harbingers of the most delightful of the seasons; yet long before Spring has come really to stay with us, many an adventurous sweet violet may be found in sheltered places wafting through the cold woodland its delicious incense, and in secluded lane-banks we come across many a pale primrose scenting the air with its daintier, but not less charming, perfume. Closely following the brave little snowdrop and the celandine, are the daffodils,

That come before the swallow dares, and take
The winds of March with beauty.

But daffodils, like the narcissus and the gay crocuses which now deck our gardens, are only occasionally found wild: and it is of Nature's wildings we would speak. In the woods of our midland and southern counties may now be found the pretty pink flowers of the mezereon, or spurge-laurel, and in the fields the bright yellow blossoms of the common coltsfoot, and the spikelike heads of the butterbur, and under shelter of the hedges the little blue flowers of the ground ivy and the veronica. The pretty whin-bush of our commons, like Burns's "wee, modest, crimson-tipped flow'r," may be seen blooming at all seasons of the year; but it is in the opening months of the year that we love best to see it.

What few there are we dearly love, yet it must be confessed that the flowers which venture to unbosom themselves to the rain and sleet of February and to the winds of March are very scanty. But it is not to Flora that the fresh young Spring looks for her brightest welcome. When Winter's frosts and snows encompassed all the land, some birds there were that disdained to seek shelter in foreign climes: it is from these the new-comer gets her heartiest greeting; the larks, thrushes, and blackbirds, that in the inclement season nestled together under the lifeless hedges and in the ditch-banks; the sparrows, yellowhammers, and chaffinches, which then crowded the farmyards and the warm manured fields near towns; the birds which not frost nor snow nor naked trees could drive from their woodland haunts; the stormcock that sang loud and clear all through the wildest wintry weather; the darling robin, who in those cold dreary months made himself, or tried to make himself, at home everywhere.

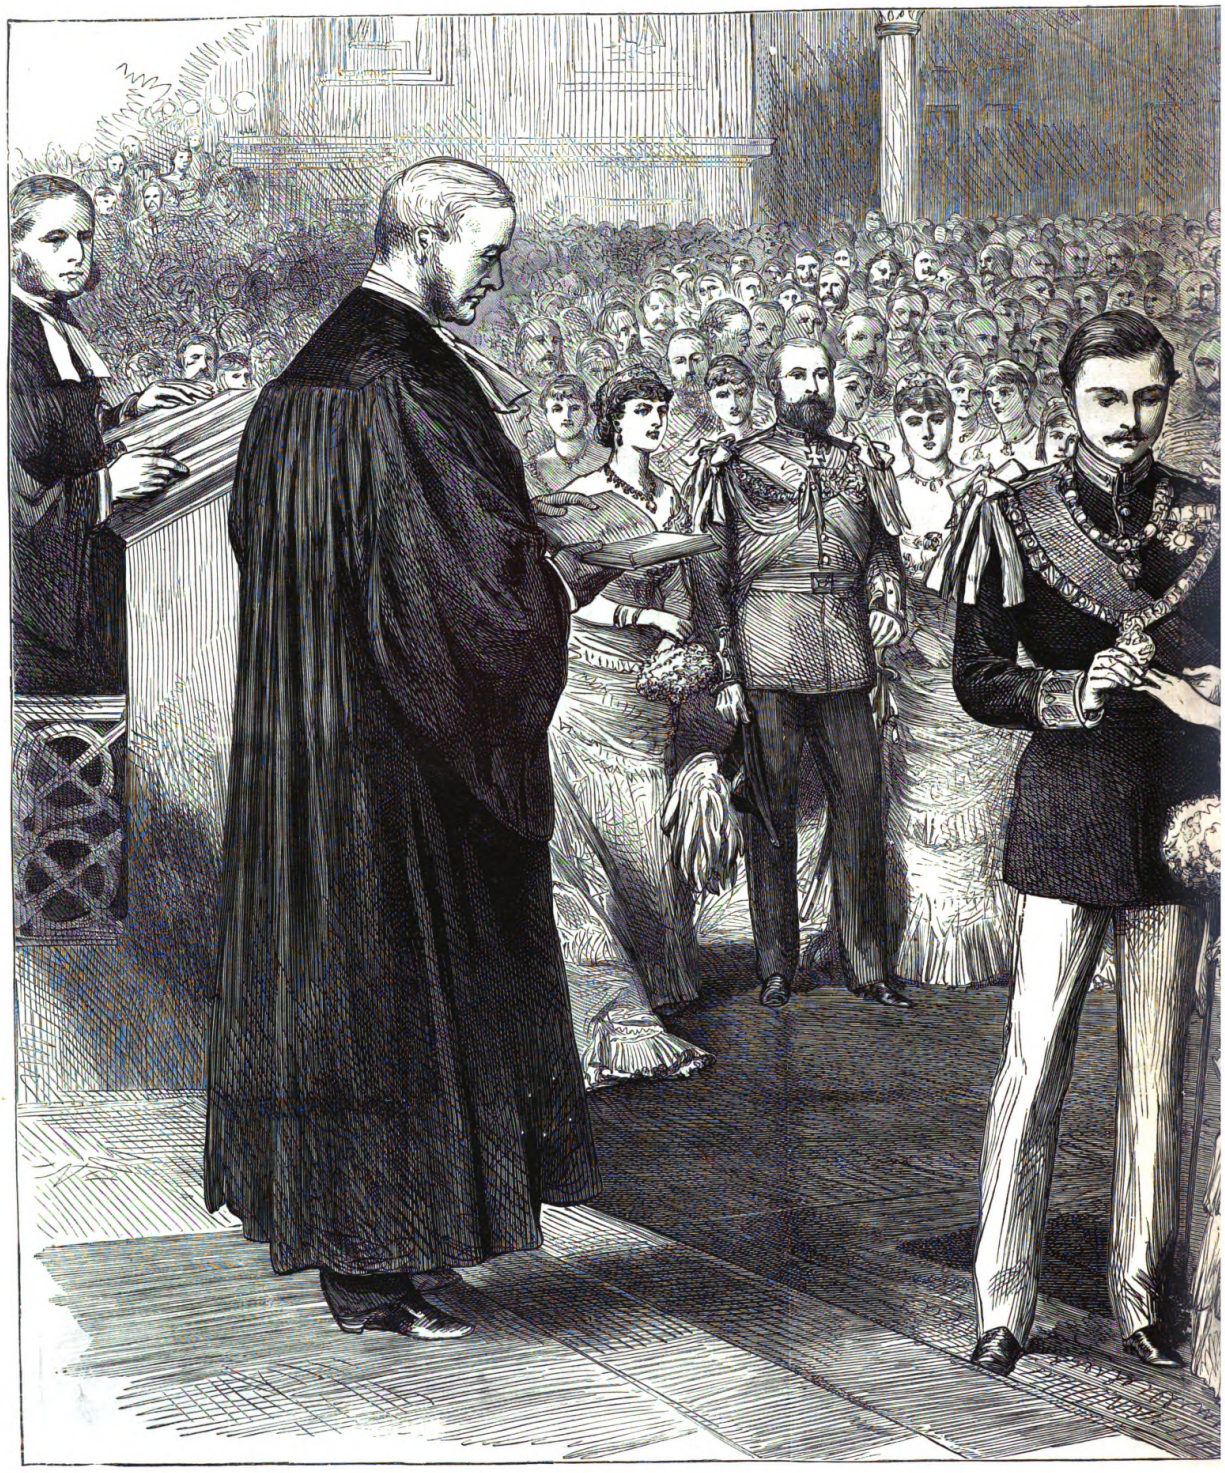
Amid the louder lays of April and May, when the migratory birds have come to swell the spring harmony, robin's soft strain is almost lost, like the warm hue on his breast; but now, before the spring time has quite begun, his sweet love-notes—for he has already wooed and won his love—are readily distinguished. Another little bird, whose sweet strains are heard all through February and March, from wood, and field, and garden-hedge, is the merry, bright-eyed chaffinch, that, like the redbreast, finds a mate early in the year, though he does not begin to build so soon as our winter favourite. In February and March may also be heard the low plaintive song of the hedge accentor, and the flutelike notes of the woodlark.

But of the early singers, three birds stand out more prominently than all the rest, as the harbingers of Spring: these are the thrush, the blackbird, and the skylark. Although each of these three charming choristers has marked individuality in his song, it were hard to say which holds first place in our affections. Perhaps each one, as we hear it, seems in turn the dearest. Now it is the throstle's full purity of intonation that charms us, and his wonderful variety of notes; now the less varied but rich and mellow strain of the blackbird, or, perchance, his beautiful, indescribably plaintive call note; and now it is the skylark's matin hymn. We may hear the blackbird and the thrush in most of our pastoral lands; but to hear them at their best we must go to the evergreen shrubberies of laurels, yews, bays, and hollies, and where the ivy clings in wild confusion. The dark, perennial branches of the shrubberies afford them the seclusion that they love, though the thrush is not nearly so shy and retiring as the blackbird. The solitary jet-black chorister is rarely seen except at feeding time, which is in the early morning and at sunset, on the grass land nearest his haunts. The skylark, too, is a solitary bird. But how different is his loudness to the blackbird's! His haunts are far away from the sheltered shrubberies of the merle and thrush, away from trees altogether, on the wild pastures bordering the moorland, and on all high-lying fields where the expanse of sky is wide and unconfined. In February the skylark chooses his mate, and thence all through the months of Spring we hear his wild, rich love-song. Not the nightingale himself, in his leafy bower, sings to his little sweetheart more unwearyingly, scarce more tenderly, than our "bird of the wilderness." Let there be but the faintest touch of mildness in the air, and, bounding from the dripping grass, on fluttering wing, he mounts the air, and "singing ever soars, and soaring ever sings." Who has not stopped, sweet bird, to listen to that loud wild lay of thine?—and how often we strain our eyes to get a glimpse of thee, when thou art far away above the clouds—

Where, on thy dewy wing,
Where art thou journeying?
Thy lay is in heaven, thy love is on earth.

"Herald of the morn," Romeo tells his Juliet; and truly—but all day long thou singest, descending ever and again, perchance, from a fear that thy loved one cannot hear thee?—

Then, when the gloaming comes,
Low in the heather blooms,
Sweet will thy welcome and bed of love be!



MARRIAGE OF PRINCE WILLIAM OF PRUSSIA AND PRINCE

FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL

S VICTORIA OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN, AT BERLIN.

RTIST.—SEE PAGE 264.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated June 21, 1877) with three codicils (two dated March 9, 1878, and the other Nov. 25, 1879) of the Hon. Charlotte Lyon Bowes, Lady Glamis, late of Redbourne, Herts, who died on Jan. 19 last, was proved on the 22nd ult. by the Right Hon. Claude Bowes Lyon, Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne, the son, the Hon. Francis Bowes Lyon, the grandson, and Sampson John Rumball, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testatrix leaves the St. Paul's Walden property, Herts, to her son, the Earl of Strathmore, for life, with remainder to her grandson, Claude George Lord Glamis, in tail male; all her other real estate in the counties of Hertford and Bedford she devises to the use of her grandson, Francis Bowes Lyon, for life, with remainder to his first and other sons in tail male. The Shadwell estate is charged with the payment of annuities and portions to most of her grandsons (the children of her said son), and with annuities to servants and others; an annual sum is also to be set aside thereout, to accumulate if need be until the death of all the annuitants and twenty-one years afterwards, for the purpose of paying certain charges existing thereon, and subject thereto the said estate is to be held upon trust for her said son until he shall succeed to the life interest in the Bowes estate, Durham, on the death of Mr. John Bowes, then as to one moiety of the income to Lord Glamis during the lifetime of his father, and as to the other moiety during such period for her grandson, Patrick Bowes Lyon; and eventually this estate is to be settled upon her said grandson Patrick in strict settlement. All her furniture, plate, pictures, and household effects she bequeaths to her said grandson Francis; and there are some other legacies. The residue of her real and personal estate she gives to her said son.

The will (dated Oct. 30, 1865) with five codicils (dated Nov. 11, 1865; Nov. 20, 1869; Dec. 23, 1878; and Jan. 11, 1881) of the Right Hon. Thomas, Baron Camoys, late of Stonor, Oxford, who died on Jan. 18 last, was proved on the 24th ult. by Francis Robert, Lord Camoys, the grandson, the sole executor, the personal estate being sworn under £35,000. The testator bequeaths £500 to his friend, Mr. Fleming, Q.C.; £3000 between his grand-children, Henry Julian, Edward Alexander, and Julia Stonor; £50 to the resident priest or chaplain at Stonor, £30 to his steward, and legacies to servants. All his unsettled real estate (including the Burslem estate), and the residue of the personalty, he leaves to his said grandson, the present peer.

The will (dated June 5, 1872) with three codicils (dated July 2, 1877; June 3, 1878; and Dec. 2, 1879) of the Hon. Percy Ashburnham, late of Shernfold Park, Frant, Sussex, who died on Jan. 25 last, was proved on the 23rd ult. by the Hon. John Ashburnham, the nephew, and Hubert Martineau, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £100,000. The testator devises his mansion-house, park, lands, and real estate in the parishes of Frant, Ticehurst, and Wadhurst upon trust for his brother Bertram, Earl of Ashburnham (since deceased), for life, then to Charlotte Katherine, Countess of Ashburnham, for life, and then to his said nephew, the Hon. John Ashburnham, absolutely; his plate and plated articles are left in a similar manner; to his nephew Bertram, the present Earl of Ashburnham, he bequeaths £1000; to his nephew the Hon. William Ashburnham, £3000; to his said nephew John his leasehold house in Aldersgate-street and £30,000 Consols; to the children of his said brother, other than his nephews Bertram and John, all his bank stock; to his land steward, Edward Hodgson, £100; to his butler, Charles Pittard, £100 and an annuity of £50; to his farm bailiff, John Packham, an annuity of £40; to his other domestic servants, including gamekeepers and gardeners, who have been five years in his service at his decease, one year's wages; and to two of his farm labourers, Stevens and Matherwick, twelve shillings per week each for life. The residue of his property, real and personal, he leaves to his nephew, the said Hon. John Ashburnham.

The will, as contained in three papers (two dated Sept. 15, 1877, and the other May 22, 1879), of the Right Hon. Sir James William Colville, one of the members of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, late of No. 8, Rutland-gate, Hyde Park, and of Craigflower, Fife, N.B., who died on Dec. 6 last, was proved on the 1st inst. by Eden Colville, the brother, Major-General Richard Strachey, and Colin Mackenzie, the acting executors, the personal estate in the United Kingdom being sworn under £80,000. The testator leaves the life-rent of his property at Shorend to his wife, and, subject thereto, gives all his real and heritable estate in Scotland to the person who succeeds to the entailed family estates; to his brother Eden his plantation and estate of Blackheath, in Jamaica; to his wife, £1000, his residence at Rutland-gate, with the furniture, plate, pictures, household effects, horses, and two carriages, and pictures, furniture, and effects at Craigflower to the value of £600; and annuities to his two sisters. The residue of his real and personal estate is to be held upon trust for his wife for life, then for his children, if any, and in default of children to his said brother and to his sisters.

The will and codicil (both dated Aug. 19, 1873) of Mr. George Little, Q.C., Vice-Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, late of the Middle Temple and of No. 11, New-square, Lincoln's Inn, who died on Jan. 26 last, at King's-road, Chelsea, were proved on the 21st ult. by Samuel Millner Barton, the Rev. James Barton, and George Morris Little, the nephew, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £40,000. The testator bequeaths to Harriet Jennings 100 guineas and an annuity of £200; and legacies to his executors, trustees, godchild, and others. The residue of his real and personal estate he leaves upon trust for his brother John for life, with power of appointing an annuity to his wife if she survive him, and then for all his said brother's children.

The will (dated May 15, 1876) of Mr. Richard Carrol Barton, formerly of No. 59, Kennington-road, Lambeth, but late of No. 22, Christchurch-road, Roupell Park, who died on Jan. 24 last, was proved on the 14th ult. by Mrs. Sophia Barton, the widow and sole executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £20,000. The testator gives, devises, and bequeaths all his estate and effects, real and personal, to his wife for her own absolute use and disposal.

The will (dated Nov. 17, 1879) of Mr. Edward Stillwell, formerly of 33, West Cromwell-road, South Kensington, but late of Eastcote Priory-road, West Hampstead, who died on the 6th ult., was proved on the 23rd ult. by Mrs. Sophia Ann Stillwell, the widow, and Anthony John Norris, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £18,000. The testator's wife is the only legatee under the will.

Administration with the will (dated Aug. 17, 1880) and two codicils (dated Sept. 13 and Oct. 11, 1880) annexed of the estate and effects of Mr. Henry Whittall Harding, timber merchant, late of 112, Newington-butts, and 271, Southwark Bridge-road, who died on Oct. 13, 1880, were on the 4th inst. granted to Mrs. Harding, the estate being sworn under £14,000. The testator, after making provision for the conduct of his business, gives the bulk of his property upon trust for his children.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

SUDBURY (Suffolk).—You have omitted to state the number of the problem which has the Pawn at K 2nd. An unnecessary piece or Pawn is a bad spot on a problem.

ALPHA.—We missed you from the roll, and welcome your return.

W J E (Dewsbury).—Your question, we regret to say, was overlooked. Black's last move was P from Q 2nd to Q 4th, to which White replied with R (from Q 4th) takes P. He retracts that move, replaces the Pawn, and captures it with P at K 5th en passant, check. Black must then play B takes P, double check and mate.

H F (Spartan Chess Club).—The position appears to be incorrectly described; for, in answer to your proposed first move, 1. Kt to Q B 8th, Black can play 1. K takes R; there is then no mate in two more moves. Please to use diagrams.

R G (Buda Pesth).—Please accept our cordial thanks for the budget of games.

G W M (Manchester).—It appears below.

T G (Southwick).—Is there not a solution to the last problem by 1. B takes Kt?

T H L W (Henley).—We regret we cannot comply with your request. No slips are printed. In No. 1932 the White Knight cannot be played to Q B 2nd.

HEREWARD (Oxford).—Thanks for the report of the match.

LAW AND MEDICINE.—(1.) Your solution was acknowledged last week. (2.) This column is prepared for press on the Saturday prior to the day of publication. Solutions should be sent within three weeks. (3.) Gossip's "Theory of the Openings" is the most recent work upon the subject.

S C (Albany-street).—In No. 1929, after White has played 1. P to K 6th, if Black move 1. R takes P, the answer is 2. P to K B 8th, becoming a Knight, and checkmating.

We are indebted to Messrs. L H Barker and C E Biaggini for reports of the matches in which their respective clubs have been engaged.

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1930 received from Emile Frau, E Bohnstedt, A C (Staines), Frank E Purchas, Thomas Guest, and S G C (Humberstone).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1931 received from A C (Staines), Jacobus, Alfred Rowley, John Tucker, J Nepven, E Bohnstedt, W T R, Dr F St, Law and Medicine, F E Purchas, James A Brown, Cholwell, T Guest, J Bumstead, and S G C (Humberstone).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 1932 received from H H, Lulu, East Marden, Shoiferth, E L G, Capt. R H Brooks, Alpha, C A Gisborne, H H Noyes, S Ferrard, I Sharswood, E Sharswood, Ben Nevis, An Old Hand, R Jessop, Jupiter Junior, R B Wood, F G Parsloe, Cadoc, I Dorrgch, A Kentish Man, D W Kell, L L Greenaway T H Holdron, C W Millson, W Hillier, N S Harris, R T Kemp, M O'Halloran, L Falcon (Antwerp), H Blacklock, E Casella, Otto Fulder (Gienti), T Greenbank, E Elsbury, J G Anstee, C S Cole, D Templeton, F Fyvie, S Lowndes, C Edmundson, E L G, F E Thomson, Sudbury (Suffolk), A Rowley, John Tucker, Sidmouth, E Londen, Alpha, W F R (Swansea), A C (Staines), H F (Spartan Chess Club), Leslie Lachlan, G A (Bonchurch), C J Moss, James Dobson, J J Heaton, C Z Macaulay, N Warner, Kitten, and S G C (Humberstone).

CORRECT SOLUTIONS OF MR. CARPENTER'S PROBLEM received from Frank E Purchas, R T Kemp, Aaron Harper, M O'Halloran, and Elsie.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM No. 1931.

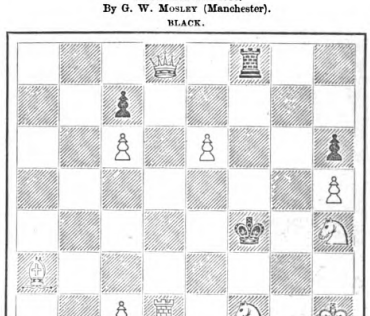
| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. K to Q 6th | P moves. |
| 2. B to B 8th | K to Q 6th |
| 3. Kt to B 2nd | Any move |

4. Mates accordingly.

The foregoing is the Author's solution; but several correspondents point out that the problem can be solved by way of 1. B to B 2nd or 1. B to K 4th, &c

PROBLEM No. 1934.
By G. W. MOSLEY (Manchester).

BLACK.



WHITE.

White to play, and mate in two moves.

AN offhand Game played recently at Simpson's Divan between Messrs. MACKENZIE and WISKIN.
(Muzio Gambit.)

| WHITE (Mr. M.) | BLACK (Mr. J.) |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th |
| 2. P to K B 4th | P takes P |
| 3. Kt to K B 3rd | P to K Kt 4th |
| 4. B to B 4th | P to Kt 5th |
| 5. P to Q 4th | P takes Kt |
| 6. Q takes P | B to R 3rd |

Not so effective as 6. P to Q 4th, a move which enables Black to develop his forces rapidly.

| | |
|---|---|
| 7. Kt to B 3rd | P to Q B 3rd |

We should have preferred bringing out the Q Kt at this junction.

| | |
|---|---|
| 8. Q B takes P | B takes B |
| 9. Q takes B | Q to B 3rd |
| 10. Q to K 3rd | Kt to R 4th |
| 11. Castles (Q R) | P to Kt 4th |
| 12. B to Q 3rd | P to Kt 5th |
| 13. Kt to it 4th | B to R 3rd |
| 14. K R to B sq | Q to Kt 2nd |
| 15. P to K 5th | B takes B |
| 16. R takes B | Castles (K R) |
| 17. R to K B 3rd | P to K B 4th |
| 18. R to Kt 3rd | Kt to Kt 5th |
| 19. Q to B 4th | P to K R 4th |
| 20. R to K R 3rd | |

He had attempted to win the piece by 20. P to K R 3rd, Black had a good answer in 20. P to R 5th, &c.

| WHITE (Mr. M.) | BLACK Mr. J.) |
|---|---|
| 20. | Q to R 3rd |

Although this loses a Pawn, it is as good as anything else at his disposal

| | |
|---|---|
| 21. Q takes Q | Kt takes Q |
| 22. R takes P | K to Kt 2nd |
| 23. R to Kt 3rd (ch) | Kt to Kt 5th |

He cannot save the piece anyhow. If 23. K to R 2nd, White continues with 24. Q R to K R 3rd, and wins the Knight next move.

| | |
|---|---|
| 24. P to K R 3rd | K to Kt 3rd |
| 25. P takes Kt | P to B 5th |
| 26. R to B 3rd | Kt to R 3rd |
| 27. K to Q 2nd | Kt to B 2nd |

Black has played throughout this little partie very much below his real form. Here he lets the adverse Knight into effective play, and further on overlooks a menacing mate in two moves.

| | |
|---|---|
| 28. Kt to B 5th | R to B 2nd |
| 29. Kt to K 4th | |

Threatening mate in two moves.

| | |
|---|---|
| 29. | Kt to Q 4th |

29. R to K 2nd might have prolonged the game, but could not have saved it.

30. R to Kt 5th (ch) K to R 2nd
31. R to K 3rd. Mate.

Last week the North London Chess Club engaged in two matches, and was successful in both: Against the Alexandra, eight competitors on each side, the North scored nine games and the adversary two; and against the Athenæum with ten players a side, won by seven games to five. A match was also played last week between Bermondsey and the Excelsior of Camberwell, seven a side, which was won by the former with a score of 5½ to 1½.

On the 18th ultimo a match was played between the Oxford City and University Chess Clubs, resulting in a victory for the City, whose representatives scored 13½ to the adversaries' 10½.

A match has been arranged between the City of London and the St. George's Chess Clubs, and it will be played at the rooms of the latter, King-street, St. James's, on the 21th instant. There will be fifteen players a side, each player to play two games, with a time limit of an hour for twenty moves; play to commence at six p.m. and terminate at midnight. Mr. Boden has been appointed umpire for both clubs.

Yesterday week the Lord Mayor, accompanied by the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, opened the new buildings of the London Temperance Hospital in the Hampstead-road.

The thirty-ninth annual report of the Copyhold Commissioners states that they have completed 14,147 enfranchisements and commutations, of which 402 enfranchisements have been effected during the past year.

The Civil Service Estimates were issued yesterday week. They show a net increase of £615,355. The total sum required for the seven classes of the Civil Service is £16,087,104, against £15,650,933 last year; and for the Revenue Departments, Packet and Telegraph Service, £8,392,581, against £8,113,417, last year. The cash extra receipts amount to £1,641,216, which is an increase of £119,125.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

We understand that the honours mentioned by Mr. Childers awaiting prominent members of the Volunteer Force are four Companionships of the Bath, to be conferred upon as many Lieutenant-Colonels of Volunteer regiments who have served for twenty years, and two appointments of officers of the same standing as Aides-de-camp to the Queen.

A special meeting of Volunteer officers was held on Tuesday to receive the report of the committee appointed to select a site and make arrangements for the review on Easter Monday. Lord Ranelagh presided. Lieutenant-Colonel J. P. Knight, General Manager of the Brighton Railway, explained the plans for the conveyance of troops to Brighton, in the event of the Sussex Downs being again chosen for the review. A letter was read from Lord Morley, Under-Secretary for War, approving of the field-day and review. Lord Ranelagh, on the part of the committee, explained the arrangements that had been made with a view to holding the review at Brighton, and a letter which he would send to the Secretary for War was agreed on. The report of the committee was adopted, and it was decided that his Lordship should take the command of the Volunteers from Wednesday, April 13, till Easter Monday.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

ALLEN AND CO.
In Zululand with the British throughout the War of 1879. By Charles L. Norris-Newman.
The Expiring Continent. A Narrative of Travels in Mozambika. With Observations on Native character, the Present Condition, and Future Prospects of Africa and Colonisation. With Map and 36 Illustrations. By Alex. Will. Mitchinson.

BENTLEY AND SON.
Queenie's Whim. A Novel. By Rosa Nouchette Carey. 3 vols.

BLACKWOOD AND SONS.
A Manual of English Prose Literature, Biographical and Critical, Designed Mainly to Show Characteristics of Style. By William Minto. New Edition.
Philosophical Classics for English Readers: Butler. By the Rev. W. Lucas Collins.

BOWORTH.
The Clergy Directory and Parish Guide. Thoroughly Revised and Corrected, 1881.

BROOKS AND CO.
Shadows in the Sunlight. A Novel. By E. Owens Blackburne. 3 vols.
The House Decorator and School of Design. Illustrated Art Journal. Vol. I.

BROWN.
Tales, Poetry, and Fairy Tales. By Walter Brown. Illustrated with 100 Woodcuts. Second Edition, Enlarged.

CASTWRIGHT.
Biographies of Great and Famous Men and Women of the Present Period. By R. M. Hayley. First Series.

CASSELL, PETTER, AND GALPIN.
The Sea: Its Stirring Story of Adventure, Peril, and Heroism. By F. Whymper. Illustrated. Vol. IV.
Dick's Hero, and other Stories. By S. Pitt.
Maid Marjory. By the Author of "Little Hinges."
Dictionary of Phrase and Fable. By the Rev. Dr. E. Cobham Brewer. Twelfth Edition, Revised and Corrected. To which is added a Complete Bibliography of English Literature, by Eric S. Robertson.
The Church at Home: A Series of Short Sermons, with Collect and Scripture, for Sundays, Saints' Days and Special Occasions. By the Rev. Dr. Bewley Hill.

CHAPMAN AND HALL.
Aunt Hepsy's Foundling. A Novel. By Mrs. Leith Adams. 3 vols.
From Poverty to Wealth. A Novel. By Wm. Theodore Hickman. 3 vols.

CHATTO AND WINDUS.
In the Ardennes. By Catharine S. Macquoid. With 50 Illustrations by Thomas R. Macquoid.
A Village Commune. By Ouida. 2 vols.
The Ten Years' Tenant and Other Stories. By W. Besant and J. Rice. 3 vols.
Our Kitchen Garden. The Plants We Grow and How We Cook Them. By Tom Jerrold.
The Complete Works of Bret Harte. Collected and Revised by the Author. Vol. V.
The Book of Clerical Anecdotes. By Jacob Larwood.

COCKS AND CO.
Practical Harmony. For the Use of Young Students. By W. S. Rockstro.

CORNISH, MANCHESTER.
The Calendar of the University College of Wales. Ninth Session, 1880-1.

CROMPTON, DARTON, AND CO.
A Martin-hoing of Our Own Day. Plain Words. Third Series. Forty Meditations with a View to the Deepening of the Religious Life. By the Right Rev. W. Walsham How. Fifteenth Edition.

GRIFFITH AND FARRAN.
Grandpapa's Verses and Pictures; or Natural History in Play. By T. F. M. With 28 Illustrations by R. B. Moore.
The Classics for the Million. Being an Epitome, in English, of the Works of the Principal Greek and Latin Authors. By Henry Grey.

GUION AND CO.
The Guion Line of U.S. Mail Steamers. Official Guide. To which is appended a Tourists' Guide, specially prepared with Maps and Plans.

HATCHARDS.
Wilford Grantly. By G. H. Clifton.
The Englishwoman's Year-Book for 1881. Being a new Edition of the "Year-Book of Woman's Work;" together with a Directory to all Institutions Existing for the Benefit of Women and Children. By L. M. H.

HODDER AND STOUGHTON.
Men Worth Remembering: Stephen Grellet. By William Gurney.

HUNT AND CO.
The Conquest and Other Poems. By Thomas Carlos Wilkinson.

JAPP AND CO.
The Starry Heavens and Other Stories for the Young. By M. Betham-Edwards.

JAPP AND CO.
Plant Life. Popular Papers on the Phenomena of Botany. With 148 Illustrations, drawn by the Author and Engraved by W. M. R. Quick.
Labour and Victory. A Book of Examples for Those Who Would Learn. By Dr. Alexander H. Japp.

"JUDY" OFFICE.
"Stage Whispers" and "shouts Without." A Book About Plays and Players, Actors and Actresses. With Coloured Costumes by Archibald Chaloner. Heads by Alfred Bryan; Comic Scenes by Judy's Artists; and Chatter at the Wings, by Charles H. Ross.

KELLY AND CO.
Kelly's Handbook to the Titled, Landed, and Official Classes. Annual Edition.

KERBY AND ENDEAN.
The Gospel According to Satan. By Standish Grey.

LOCKWOOD AND CO.
New Guide to Modern French Conversation. By Dr. V. de Fivas. Twenty-ninth Edition, thoroughly revised.

LONGMANS AND CO.
Buried Alive; or, Ten Years' of Penal Servitude in Siberia. By Fedor Dostoïeffsky. Translated from the Russian by Marie von Thilo.
Turkish Armenia and Eastern Asia Minor. By the Rev. Henry Fanshawe Tozer.
The Classified Directory to the Metropolitan Charities for 1881. With an Appendix containing a List of similar Institutions in England and Wales. By W. F. Howes.

LOW AND CO.
Sunrise, A Story of These Times. By William Black. 3 vols.
The star of the Fairies. By Mrs. C. W. Elphinstone Hope. Illustrated.
Illustrated Biographies of the Great Artists: Thomas Gainsborough, R.A., John Constable, R.A. By George M. Brock-Arnold.
The Irish Land Question and English Public Opinion. With a Supplement on Griffith's Valuation. By R. Barry O'Brien. New Edition.
Mary Marston. By G. MacDonald. 3 vols.
Richard Wagner. By Francis Hueffer.
Rossini and His School. By H. Sutherland Edwards.
The History of Ancient Art. Translated from the German of John Winckelmann, by Dr. G. Henry Lodge. 2 vols.
English Philosophers—Sir William Hamilton. By M. H. S. Monck.
An English Squire. A Novel. By C. R. Coleridge. 3 vols.
Tender Grass for the Lambs. Sermons to the Young. By the Rev. C. Bosanquet.
Through America; or, Nine Months in the United States. By W. G. Marshall. Illustrated from Photographs.
The Vision of Nimrod. By Charles de Kay.
The Great Musicians: Weber, by Sir Julius Benedict. Schubert, by H. F. Frost.
A Popular History of the United States, from the First Discovery of the Western Hemisphere by the Northmen, to the end of the Civil War. Preceded by a Sketch of the Pre-Historic Period and the Age of the Mound Builders. By William Cullen Bryant and Sydney Howard Gay. Vol. IV. Fully Illustrated.
Flower o' the Broom. By the Author of "Rare Pale Margaret." 3 vols.
The Story of a Soldier's Life: or, Peace, War, and Mutiny. By Lieut.-General John Alexander Ewart, C.B. 2 vols.

MACMILLAN AND CO.
Disturbed Ireland: Being the Letters Written during the Winter of 1880-1. By Bernard H. Becker. With Maps.
Washington-square. The Pension Beaurepas. A Bundle of Letters. By Henry James, jun. 2 vols.
The Steam Engine and Its Inventors. A Historical Sketch. By R. L. Galloway.
Lokis Laras. Reminiscences of a Choice Merchant during the War of Independence. By D. Bikelas. Translated from the Greek by J. Gennadius.
The Mystic of Life. Four Sermons, with an Introduction on the Social Mission of the Church. By the Rev. C. W. Stubbs.

MEAD.
The Lady of the Rose and Other Poems. By Thomas Mead.

NEWMAN AND CO.
Under Sun and Moon. A Novel. By A Montgomery Ellis. 3 vols.
Days of the Castle Guard. By Colonel Liles. With Illustrations.
Pie C Minor, and the Vicar of Ristock. Two Stories. By E. D. S.
Twelve Months with the Bashi-Bazouks. By Edward Money. Second Edition.
Fulgentius. With Other Poems, Old and New. By B. Montgomerie Ranking.
The Pre-Incas of Peru. The End of the Guano Age and a Description thereof. With some Account of the Guano Deposits and "Nitrate" Plains. By A. J. Duffield.

PARTRIDGE AND CO.
Cuthbert of Lindisfarne. His Life and Times. By Alfred C. Fryer.

PAUL AND CO.
A Polar Reconnaissance. Being the Voyage of the "Isbjorn" to Novaya Zemlya, in 1879. By Captain Albert H. Markham. With Maps and Illustrations.
Gudrun: or, Lessons and Other Poems. By Mrs. Rosenfeld Moore.
The King's Story-Book. By Mark Evans, Part II. Stories of the Journeys. With Four Illustrations by M. C. McDougall.
Decoration and Furniture of Town Houses. A Series of Twelve Lectures Delivered before the Society of Arts, 1880. Amplified and enlarged. By Robert W. Edis. With numerous Illustrations.
General Physiology of Muscles and Nerves. By Dr. J. Rosenthal. Many Woodcuts.
The Love Sonnets of Proteus.
Our Public Schools.

PUTNAM'S SONS, NEW YORK.
The Cause of Colour Among Races and the Evolution of Physical Beauty. By Dr. Wm. Sharpe. New Edition. Enlarged.
The Conqueror's Dream and Other Poems. By Dr. William Sharpe. New Edition.

REMINGTON AND CO.
A Mode in Babylon and Judas Iscariot. By Howard Lloyd. Second Edition.
My Sister's Prussian Lover. A Novel. 2 vols. By Boulton O'Dr.

SMART AND ALLEN.
Transylvanian Recollections: Sketches of Hungarian Travel and History. By Andrew Chalmers.

SMITH, ELDER, AND CO.
Harold Saxon. A Story of the Church and the World. By Alan Muir. 3 vols.
Farming in a Small Way. By James Long.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.
Natural History of British Fishes: Their Structure, Economic Uses, and Capture by Net and Rod. Cultivation of Fishponds. Fish suited for Acclimatisation. Artificial Breeding of Salmon. By Frank Buckland.

STANFORD.
Natural Wonders of New Zealand. Second Edition.

STOCK.
Foreshadowings. A Poem in four Cantos. By Charles Room.
The Churches of Yorkshire. Illustrated. With full descriptions of their Styles of Architecture, Extracts from the Registers, Historical facts, Local Customs and Rhymes connected therewith. By W. H. Hatton. Vol. I.

STRAHAN AND CO.
The Wards of Bellinus. By Mrs. John Hunt. 3 vols.

STREET AND CO.
Street's Indian and Colonial Mercantile Directory for 1880-1.

THOM AND CO.
Thom's Official Directory of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland for the Year 1881.

TINSLEY BROTHERS.
A Twisted Skein. By Edlar Arr.
Four-in-Hand. By J. Middlemass. 3 vols.

WARD, LOCK, AND CO.
Children, and What to Do with Them.

WARNE AND CO.
Water: Its Composition, Collection, and Distribution. A Practical Handbook for Domestic and General Use. By Joseph Parry. With Illustrations.

WILLIAMS AND NORGATE.
Old Favourites from the Elder Poets, with a few Newer Friends. A Selection by Matilda Sharpe.

WYMAN AND SONS.
The Advocate. A Drama.

SOUND INVESTMENTS.

NEW YORK, PENNSYLVANIA, AND OHIO (late ATLANTIC AND GREAT WESTERN) RAILROAD.—In recent Circulars I drew attention to the advantageous position held by this line as forming an important link in a great combination of railways leading from the Western States to the seaboard. The map which I issued clearly indicated the new and direct route thus to be established, and subsequent events have fully justified the forecast I then made. Information just to hand leads me to believe that the consummation of the plans I then briefly outlined is rapidly approaching, in which case the rise in all New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio securities will be considerable. The want of success which attended this line in the past has been entirely due to its dependence on one outlet for its traffic; and full advantage has been taken of this helpless position, to the detriment of the property. When, however, this railway forms part of a system carrying the vast through traffic of Western roads aggregating 3000 miles, the development, hitherto checked, must make rapid progress, without regarding the extraordinary speculative activity infused into all enterprises connected with the "Wabash" interests now predominant on the American continent.

All the securities of this line are well worth buying (regardless of the special arrangements now pending), but the Seven per Cent. Perpetual First Mortgage Bonds are perhaps, the most attractive at the present time. They are accumulative, and if in any half-year "part of the interest only be paid, warrants will be issued for the part remaining unpaid, which warrants can be at once converted into the same class of Bonds." The latter can be sold for cash through the medium of the new "Coupon Agency."

The position of a buyer of a 1000 dols. (£200) bond at the present price of 70, costing £140, and presuming there should be no improvement in the earnings, would be as follows:—

Interest on the same basis as paid on Jan. 1, 1881, 3½ per cent in cash = 35 dols. ... ... ...

THE ROYAL WEDDING AT BERLIN.

Our Supplement of this week contains three additional Illustrations, following those which appeared in our last publication, from the Sketches made at Berlin by our Special Artist, Mr. William Simpson, who attended the Marriage of Prince William of Prussia, grandson of our own Queen, to Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg, niece to his Royal Highness Prince Christian, the husband of her Majesty's daughter Princess Helena. A pretty complete account of this Royal Wedding, of the bride's entry into Berlin the day before, and of the festivities and ceremonious entertainments at the Imperial Court of Prussia and Germany, was given in last week's Number of this Journal.

The double-page Engraving now presented, as well as that one, equal to it in size, which occupied the central place in our former Supplement, shows the actual performance of the religious service of matrimony in the Royal Chapel of the great Schloss or Palace; but, in our first Illustration of this subject, the entire scene, with the brilliant company there assembled, and with the architectural interior of the Chapel, was represented on a different scale.

The Royal wedding party entered the Chapel with a grand procession, led by some of the Court officials; and soon came the bridegroom, in his uniform as Major of the Royal Foot Guards, leading in the bride, whose robe was held up by four Countesses behind her. After the Mistress of the Robes to the Princess and the officer in waiting to the Prince, appeared the household officials of the Emperor, two abreast, heralding the approach of his Majesty, in the uniform of a General of infantry, with orders, leading on his right the Queen of Saxony and on his left the Dowager Duchess of Schleswig-Holstein, mother of the bride. The Emperor was followed by a suite of Generals, and a crowd of ladies and gentlemen in waiting. Next came the German Empress, accompanied on her right by the King of Saxony and on her left by the Prince of Wales, his scarlet uniform forming a contrast to the more sombre hues around. The next in the train was the Crown Princess of Prussia, escorted on her right by the Crown Prince of Sweden and on her left by her brother-in-law, Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, as representing the family of the bride. To her succeeded her husband, the Crown Prince, leading in on his right his English sister-in-law, Princess Christian (Helena) of Schleswig-Holstein, and on his left his own sister, the Grand Duchess of Baden. The other guests followed in like manner; and among the Princes and Princesses was the Duke of Edinburgh on the right of Princess Albert of Prussia, while the Grand Duke of Baden walked on her left.

Receiving the bridal pair at the entrance to the Chapel, the Cathedral Clergy preceded them to the altar, and took their stand beside it until they had all entered and become seated. Then Dr. Kögel, the chief Court chaplain, began to deliver a short address in a firm and earnest voice. He referred to the double wedding three years ago, to the confirmation of Prince Henry before he went to sea, and to the golden festival of the Emperor's wedded life, which had all been celebrated there. Then he spoke of the earthly hopes which were centred in the bridal pair, the interest taken in their union by the Queen of England and other European Sovereigns, and the joy and confidence with which the event was regarded in all Germany, particularly in Schleswig-Holstein. At the close Dr. Kögel stepped forward to meet the Prince and Princess, who advanced and joined hands, and put the usual questions, to which Prince William for his part responded clearly and confidently. Rings were then exchanged, and at this moment a signal was conveyed to the garden space in front, and simultaneously the chapel shook with the thunder of cannon proclaiming to all the city that the solemn act was over. Again and again did the artillery peal, and the sound did not seem altogether out of harmony with the "Hallelujahs" of the choir and organ, which burst forth as soon as the clergyman had pronounced the Benediction and continued till Prince William had quitted the chapel with his wedded wife.

The religious ceremony being over, the Emperor and Empress, followed by all their Court and guests, went from the Chapel, in the order in which they had come, to the Brandenburg and the Red or Drap d'Or Chamber to present their congratulations to the newly married couple; and that being done, back again flowed the crowd to the White Saloon, blazing with crystal chandeliers, in order to hold high Court and receive obeisance from the magnates left behind in the chapel, who were now marshalling themselves to file past the throne (Defilir-Cour) and lay their homage at the feet of their Majesties and the wedded pair. Having returned to the White or Throne Room, the Emperor and Empress, with the King and Queen of Saxony and Prince and Princess William of Prussia, took their stand beneath the golden canopy, supported on the right and left by the Princes and Princesses; their attendant dames and cavaliers behind. All being in readiness, the Emperor gave the sign; the door leading from the chapel flew open, and silently began to glide in a ceaseless stream of courtly company. The ladies of the Diplomatic Corps came first, who all curtseyed lowly twice over to the assembled Court, and silently disappeared, no one doing her part more deftly than the Chinese Ambassadress. These were followed by the Ambassadors and Ministers, with their various staffs. When the representatives of all the Powers had passed, all but the Crown Prince sat down to behold the rest of the multitude pass by. Preceding the Federal Council entered Field Marshal von Moltke, as first in rank among the high officials of the Realm, after Prince Bismarck. As he made his bow the Emperor rose and returned the courtesy, as also did all the Imperial House, with marked friendliness and respect.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE AT BERLIN: ARRIVAL OF THE NEWLY MARRIED PAIR AT THE GRAND SCHLOSS, POTSDAM.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

Then came the banquet in the Hall of Knights. In the centre of the main or cross table sat the newly wedded pair, on the Princess's left being the Emperor, the Queen of Saxony, the Crown Prince of Sweden, and the German Crown Princes. On the left of the Royal bridegroom were the Empress, the King of Saxony, the Dowager Duchess of Schleswig-Holstein, and the Prince of Wales. The other guests were distributed in due order around. The health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the Emperor.

Meanwhile the White Saloon was becoming crowded with the Diplomatic Corps and the other guests. Here presently the Emperor and the bride and bridegroom and the Princes and Princesses returned, and took their places under the golden canopy. The traditional Torch Dance began, which lasted late into the night, and concluded this wedding ceremonial. Our Special Artist made a Sketch of the Torch Dance (in German, Fackel-Tanz), which he had the honour of showing to their Majesties the Emperor and Empress next day. It is one of the Illustrations we publish this week. The venerable Emperor-King William I. here appears leading his newly-made grand-daughter, Princess William, ushered forward, through the assembled company in the splendid White Saloon, by twelve Ministers of State or high officials of the Kingdom and Empire, each of whom bears a large wax candle, instead of a torch, agreeably to the old custom of the Hohenzollern Court. The bride wore a white satin robe, en tablier, trimmed with silver and Honiton lace, with bunches of myrtle and orange-blossoms fastened upon it, and with a spreading train of silver brocade. This dress was a present to her Royal Highness from Queen Victoria, and so was the ornament she wore on her breast, an oval miniature portrait, set in diamonds. After the Fackel-Tanz, which was rather a stately procession than a dance, the torch-bearers conducted Prince and Princess William to the Queen's room, where the torches were handed over to twelve pages, who would conduct the couple to their rooms. Here the crown worn by the Princess was taken off, to be safely returned to the Royal Treasury, while the Mistress of the Robes divided the Princess's garters, or ribbons supposed to represent them, among the ladies present. It is interesting to mention three wedding guests—first, the clerk of the village church at Dolzig, who was present at the bride's christening, and now eighty-seven years of age, was honoured with an invitation; and further, the bride's wet nurse, Frau Ofensetzermeister Kruschwitz, and her foster-sister, Mary. According to a custom of great antiquity, nurses keep the first pair of shoes worn by their nurselings, and hand them over to the bride at her wedding. Next day (Monday) at eleven o'clock, the Imperial family attended a special service in the Palace Chapel, and there was a grand banquet in the evening.

Our Special Artist's remaining Sketch represents the Royal pair next day entering the Schloss at Potsdam, which was the closing scene of the wedding. As we have before explained, they only take up a temporary abode in the Schloss till the Winter Palace is got ready for them, which will not be for some months yet. In a few weeks their intention is to start on a sort of honeymoon tour, and they will visit some of the Courts of Europe, and perhaps go on as far as Italy.

ROYAL NATIONAL LIFE-BOAT INSTITUTION.

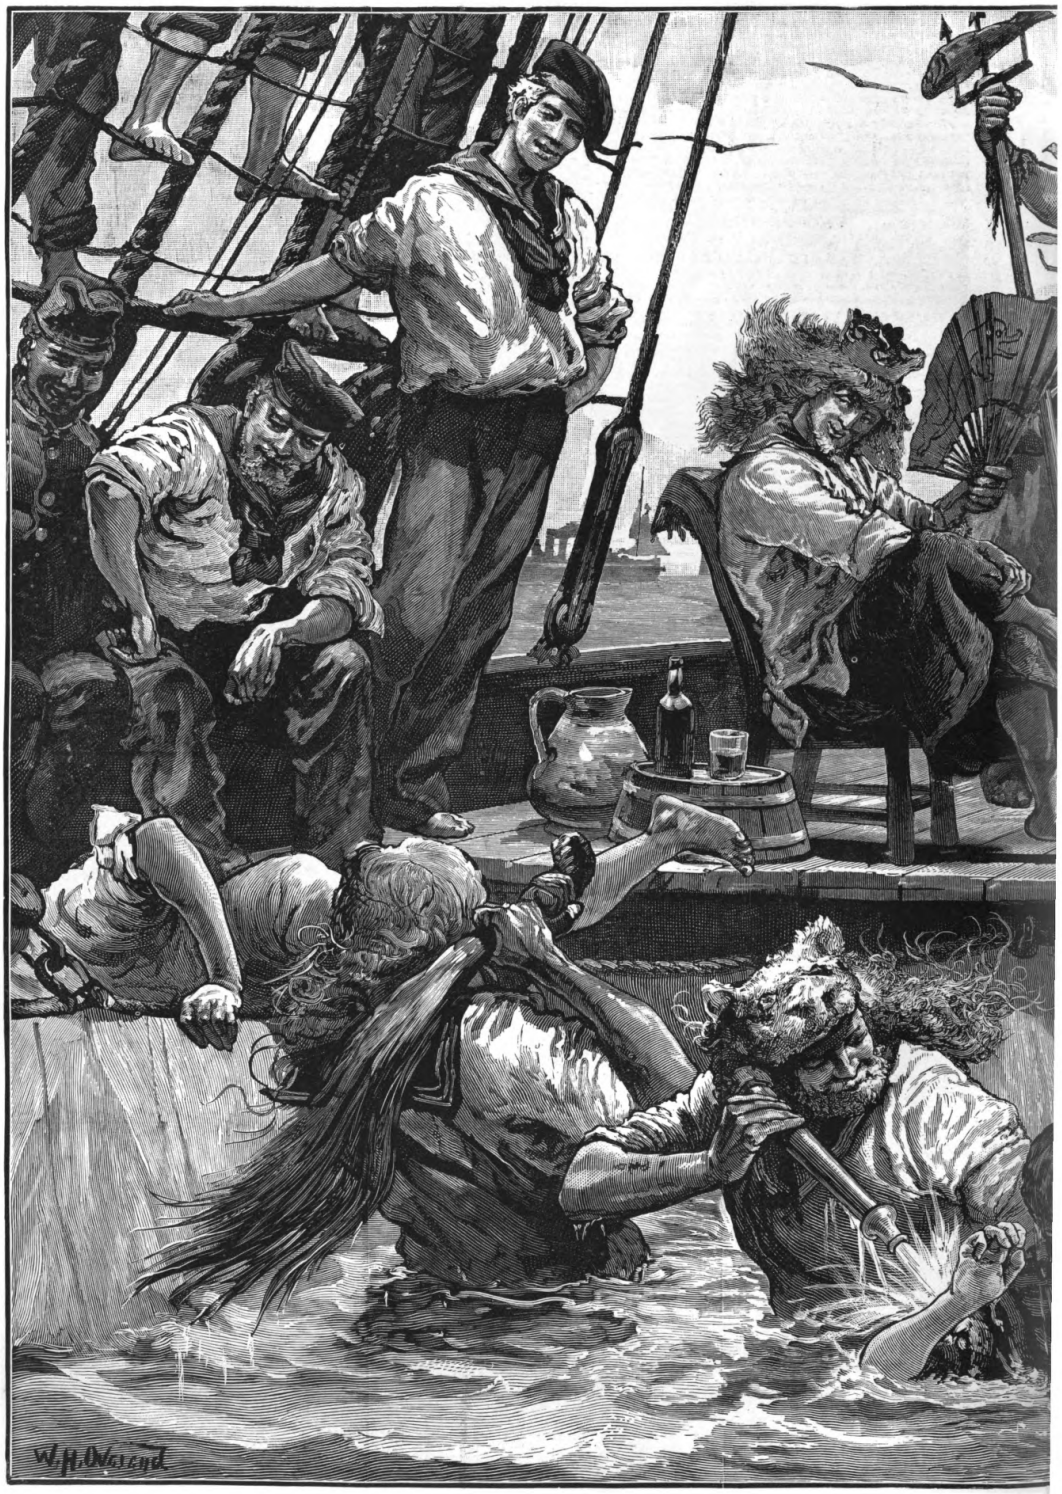
At a meeting of this institution held on the 3rd inst., at its house, John-street, Adelphi, rewards amounting to £370 were voted to the crews of life-boats for services rendered in February. The thanks of the institution, inscribed on vellum, were voted to the master of the steam-tug Daring, of Gravesend, and £18 to himself and his crew, in acknowledgment of their determined and highly laudable services in saving the crew of eleven men of the Norwegian barque Frigate Bird, which was in a sinking state on the Goodwin Sands during a south-west gale on Dec. 15. Other rewards were granted to the crews of shore-boats for saving life from wrecks on our coasts, and payments amounting to £1800 were made on different life-boat establishments. The receipt of various contributions was announced at the meeting; including £1000 from friends, for a life-boat to be named the Ephraim and Hannah Fox, which is to be stationed on the Yorkshire coast; £600 from Mr. E. Armitage, R.A., to defray the cost of a life-boat to be named the Farnley, and £17 from the Canteen Fund of H.M.S. Himalaya, per Lieutenant Neate, R.N. Three new life-boats were ordered to be sent to the coast.

The annual meeting of the institution is to be held at Willis's Rooms next Thursday, under the presidency of his Grace the Duke of Northumberland.

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by George C. Leighton, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—Saturday, March 12, 1881.



WITH THE ROYAL PRINCES ON BOARD T

E FLYING SQUADRON: CROSSING THE LINE.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2183.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1881. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. BY POST, 6½D.

THE LATE ALEXANDER II., EMPEROR OF RUSSIA.—SEE PAGE 267.

BIRTHS.

On the 15th inst., at 24, Ladbroke-grove, W., the wife of Charles Baker, Barrister-at-Law, of a daughter.

On the 8th inst., at Cassia, Winsford, Cheshire, the Viscountess Cole, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 8th ult., at Christchurch Cathedral, Nassau, Bahamas, by the Rev. W. H. Stromboom, Rural Dean, William Masters Rae, Esq., Surgeon Royal Navy, R.N. Hospital, Bermuda, to Beatrice de Saussure Kensall, youngest daughter of the Hon. Frederick Duncombe, M.D., J.P., of Nassau.

On the 10th inst., at All Saints' Church, Ennismore-gardens, John Adam Hay, late Scots Guards, eldest son of Sir Robert Hay, Bart., to Anne Salisbury Mary Meliora, eldest daughter of Sir Robert John Milliken Napier, Bart.

DEATHS.

On the 5th inst., at Sandbach, Cheshire, Elizabeth, youngest daughter of the late Rev. Benjamin Butterworth, Curate of Claverton, Somerset.

On the 6th inst., at Naples, after four days' illness, of acute meningo-encephalitis, George Cheyne, Esq., M.D. Edin., of 5, Bryanston-street, London, formerly of Mexico.

On the 11th inst., at his residence, Saltwell Park, Gateshead, William Watters, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, in his 73rd year.

On the 13th inst., at Oak Park, Dawlish, Devon, William Jupp Pike, aged 53.

On the 8th inst. at Knotley Hall, Kent, the Right Hon. Lord Hanmer.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 26.

SUNDAY, MARCH 20.

Third Sunday in Lent.
Palm Sunday.
Morning Lessons: Gen. xxxvii.; Mark xiv. 53. Evening Lessons: Gen. xxxix. or xl.; 1 Cor. xi. 17.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Dr. Simpson, Rector of St. Matthew's, Friday-street; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Gregory; 7 p.m., Rev. Walter Abbot, Vicar of St. James's, Paddington.
St. James's, noon, the Bishop of Durham.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. Gordon Calthrop; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Prothero.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Very Rev. Lord Alwyne Compton, Dean of Worcester; 3 p.m., Rev. Canon Barry.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m., Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., Rev. Canon Prothero.
Temple Church, 11 a.m., probably Dean Vaughan, the Master; 3 p.m., Rev. A. Ainger, the Reader.

MONDAY, MARCH 21.

Vernal Equinox.
Princess Louise married to the Marquis of Lorne, 1871.
Caledonian Asylum, annual court, 1.
British Fisheries society, anniversary, 3 p.m.
London Institution, 5 p.m. (Professor R. Bentley on Fungi).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Victoria Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. F. Bateman).
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor W. G. Adams on Electric Lighting).
Surveyors' Institution, 8 p.m.
United Service Institution, 8.30 p.m. (Vice-Admiral J. H. Selwyn on a New System of Hydraulic Propulsion).
Races: Lincoln Spring Meeting.
Highland Society, anniversary dinner, Freemasons' Tavern.

TUESDAY, MARCH 22.

William I., Emperor of Germany, born, 1797.
Horticultural Society, 11 a.m.; promenade, 3 p.m.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Colonial Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. W. M. Torrens, M.P., on Imperial and Colonial Partnership in Emigration).
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. (Mr. D. Phillips on the Endurance of Iron and Mild Steel).
Medical and Chirurgical Society, 8.30 p.m.
West London Scientific Association, 8 p.m.
Anthropological Institute, 8 p.m.
Asiatic Society, 4 p.m. (Professor Beal on Chinese Intercourse with India during the Seventh Century).
Eastwood Idiots' Asylum, annual festival, Albion Tavern.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23.

Moon's last quarter, 3.29 a.m.
College of Physicians, Croonian Lecture, 5 p.m. (Dr. Moxon on the Influence of the Circulation on the Nervous System; and on Friday).
Royal Society of Literature, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. Cornelius Walford on Deaths from Explosions).
Huntarian Society, 8 p.m.
Geological Society, 8 p.m.
University College, 3 p.m. (Professor Beal on the two first Buddhist Councils; and on Thursday).
Society of Friends of Foreigners in Distress, annual dinner, Freemasons' Tavern, the Duke of Cambridge in the chair.

THURSDAY, MARCH 24.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. H. H. Statham on Ornament).
London Institution, 7 p.m. (Professor Ernst Pauer on the "Suite.")
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Antiquaries' Society, 8.30 p.m.
Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.
Telegraph Engineers' Society, 8 p.m.
Races: Liverpool Spring Meeting.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. Professor J. Perry on the Future Development of Electrical Appliances).

FRIDAY, MARCH 25.

Lady Day. Annunciation of the Virgin Mary.
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Lieutenant-Colonel Lonsdale A. H. Hale on Outposts, &c.).
Royal Institution, 8 p.m. (Mr. Alexander Buchan on the Weather and Heath of London, 9 p.m.).
Clinical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
Sacred Harmonic Society, 7.30 p.m. Handel's Coronation Anthem.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Sir George Campbell on the Tenure and Cultivation of Land in India).

SATURDAY, MARCH 26.

The Duke of Cambridge born, 1819.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Rev. H. R. Haweis on American Humorists—Oliver Wendell Holmes).
Ladies' Sanitary Association, 5.30 p.m. (Dr. B. W. Richardson on Respiration).
Amateur Orchestral Society, Albert Hall, concert for enlargement of St. Michael's, North Kensington, 8.30 p.m.
Botanic Society, 3.15 p.m.
Physical Society, 3 p.m.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| DAY. | DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected. | Temperature of the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | THERMOM. Maximum read at 10 p.m. | Minimum read at 10 a.m. | WIND. General Direction. | Movement in Miles, at 10 a.m. to next morning. | Rain in 24 hours, to 10 a.m. next morning. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inches. | ° | ° | % | 0–10 | ° | ° | | Miles. | In. |
| March 6 | 29.459 | 51.4 | 45.1 | 80 | 8 | 56.9 | 47.0 | WSW. SSW. | 333 | 0.099 |
| 7 | 29.220 | 51.2 | 44.6 | 79 | 8 | 57.1 | 48.8 | SSW. WSW. | 382 | 0.085 |
| 8 | 29.728 | 44.8 | 36.0 | 73 | 6 | 57.2 | 42.0 | WSW. W. | 178 | 0.150 |
| 9 | 29.930 | 49.0 | 41.0 | 84 | 10 | 54.8 | 41.5 | WSW. W. | 528 | 0.040 |
| 10 | 30.045 | 53.2 | 47.0 | 81 | 9 | 59.2 | 50.2 | WSW. | 553 | 0.010 |
| 11 | 30.042 | 49.4 | 41.8 | 76 | 5 | 57.9 | 45.2 | WSW. W. | 217 | 0.036* |
| 12 | 29.878 | 47.8 | 43.1 | 91 | 10 | 53.0 | 41.0 | W. SSW. | 108 | 0.060 |

* Dew.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected .. | 29.521 | 29.581 | 29.631 | 29.963 | 30.041 | 30.057 | 29.997 |
| Temperature of Air .. .. | 50.9° | 53.7° | 47.7° | 39.4° | 35.6° | 39.1° | 44.5° |
| Temperature of Evaporation .. | 47.8° | 50.2° | 47.2° | 48.1° | 34.4° | 36.7° | 42.9° |
| Direction of Wind .. .. | sw. | sw. | w. | w. | w. | WSW. | w. |

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 26.

| Sunday. | Monday. | Tuesday. | Wednesday. | Thursday. | Friday. | Saturday. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| M. A. M. A. | M. A. M. A. | M. A. M. A. | M. A. M. A. | M. A. M. A. | M. A. M. A. | M. A. M. A. |
| h. m. h. m. | h. m. h. m. | h. m. h. m. | h. m. h. m. | h. m. h. m. | h. m. h. m. | h. m. h. m. |
| 4 27 4 45 | 5 3 5 25 | 5 45 6 10 | 6 35 7 7 | 7 42 8 2 | 8 9 8 30 | 9 0 9 42 |

BRIGHTON. — PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 10.0 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.45 p.m. Also from Victoria on Sundays at 10.45 a.m., and from Brighton on Sundays at 5.30 p.m.
EVERY SUNDAY.—A Cheap First-class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY SATURDAY, Cheap First-class Trains from Victoria at 10.35 and 11.50 a.m., and London Bridge at 10.45 a.m. and 12 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Fare—First Class, 4s.; Second-class, including admission to the Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion Picture Gallery, Palace, and Grounds; available to return by any Train the same day, except the 5.45 p.m. Pullman Car Train.
(By order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

DECORATIVE ART EXHIBITION.

THE NEW GALLERIES, 148, NEW BOND-STREET.

PRESIDENT.
H.R.H. PRINCESS LOUISE, MARCHIONESS of LORNE.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

Duke of Rutland, K.G.
Duke of Westminster, K.G.
Earl of Clarendon.
Earl of Wharncliffe.
Earl of Mar.
Earl of Dunraven.
Earl of Mayo.
Earl of Kilmorey.
Lord Vaux of Harrowden.
Lord Viscount Ranelagh.
Lord Dormer.
Lord Colville of Culross, K.T.
Lord Dorchester.
Lord Thurlow.
Lord Denman.
Lord de L'Isle and Dudley.
Louisa, Lady Ashburton.
Lord Garvagh.
Lord Talbot de Malahide, F.R.S.E.
Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild.
Hon. Lewis Strange Wingfield.

Sir Henry Hope Edwardes, Bart.
Sir Frederick Leighton, President of the Royal Academy.
Sir John Gilbert, R.A.
L. Alma-Tadema, Esq., R.A.
Edward Armitage, Esq., R.A.
T. Oldham Barlow, Esq., A.R.A.
J. F. Bentham, Esq., A.R.A.
R. Balliol Brett, Esq., M.P.
W. Cunliffe Brooks, Esq., M.P.
Charles Butler, Esq., F.R.G.S.
Charles L. Eastlake, Esq.
R. W. Edis, Esq., F.S.A.
W. P. Frith, Esq., R.A.
S. Carter Hall, Esq., F.S.A.
P. G. Hamerton, Esq.
R. S. Holford, Esq., F.R.G.S.
J. C. Hook, Esq., R.A.

J. Callcott Horsley, Esq., R.A.
Marcus B. Huish, Esq., Editor of the "Art Journal."
Arthur Macnamara, Esq.
H. Macy-Marks, Esq., R.A.
Charles Peter Matthews, Esq.
J. Everett Millais, Esq., R.A.
John Pender, Esq., M.P.
J. Hungerford Pollen, Esq., C.M.R.A. (Madrid).
John P. Seddon, Esq.
Edward James Stanley Esq.
Rev. J. O. Stephens.
G. A. Storey, Esq., A.R.A.
Cavaliere A. J. Strutt (Rome).
George Tirebitt, Esq.
Professor Charles Verlat (Antwerp Academy).
Alfred Waterhouse, Esq., A.R.A.

COMMITTEE.

Charles B. Birch, Esq., A.R.A.
Charles J. Dunphie, Esq.
General W. Fane, C.B.
Frederick Goodall, Esq., R.A.
Thomas J. Gullick, Esq. (Director).
Rev. Robert Gwynne.
William Hughes, Esq.
William J. Incram, Esq.
Augustus Savile Lumley, Esq.
George Augustus Sala, Esq.
James Webb, Esq.

NOTICE.—An EXHIBITION of SELECT WORKS of DECORATIVE ART will be held during the ensuing season in galleries and rooms (together 20 in number), now being built at the New Bond-street. The Exhibition will include Decorative Paintings, Designs, and Sculptures; Works of Art in Gold, Silver, and other metals; Porcelain and Pottery; Enamels and Glass; Carvings, Mosaics, and other Inlays; Art-Furniture and House Decorations; Embroidery, Textiles, and other objects of a decorative character. The Rules and Regulations may be obtained by intending Exhibitors on application to the Director, Mr. T. J. GULLICK.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS OF SWISS ARTISTS,

Instituted by the CERCLE DES BEAUX ARTS of GENEVA, 168, NEW BOND-STREET, WILL OPEN MARCH 14. Admission, One Shilling.

THE SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of CABINET PICTURES by ARTISTS of the BRITISH and FOREIGN SCHOOLS is NOW OPEN at THOMAS McLEAN'S GALLERY, 7, Haymarket (next the Theatre). Admission, including Catalogue, One Shilling.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM;" "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily 10 to 6. 1s.

LAMOUREUX ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS.—SECOND CONCERT, ST. JAMES'S HALL, on TUESDAY NEXT, MARCH 22, at Eight o'Clock under the Patronage of his Excellency the French Ambassador. M. Charles Lamoureux, assisted by Mdlle. the PUPILS of the FRENCH HOSPITALAND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL. Vocalists—Madame Brunet-Lafleur, Madame Montigny-Remaury (Pianoforte), and M. Sainton-Dolby. Orchestra of 100 Performers. Conductor, Mr. Charles Lamoureux. Leader, Mr. Sainton. Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Admission, 2s. 6d. Tickets may be obtained at the usual Agents; Austin's Ticket-office, St. James's Hall; and at the French Hospital, Leicester-place, Leicester-square.

LAMOUREUX CONCERTS.—Programme of the Second Concert, TUESDAY EVENING NEXT.—Nouvelle Suite d'Orchestre (Massenet); Danse Macabre, Poème Symphonique (C. Saint-Saens); Violin Obbligato, M. Sainton; Air d'Armide (Gluck, Madame Brunet-Lafleur; Ouverture de "Sigurd" (E. Reyer); Concerto, pour Piano (ut), M. Wekerlin, Madame Montigny-Remaury; Andante de la Symphonie Romantique (V. Joncières); Rapsodie, for Orchestra (Edward Lalo); Air de "Fernand Cortez" (Spontini), Madame Brunet-Lafleur; Sylvia (Ballet), suite d'Orchestre (Léo Delibes).

PANORAMA.—ROYAL LONDON PANORAMA, Leicester-square, will OPEN to the public on MONDAY, MARCH 28, with the CHARGE OF BALACLAVA.—Magnificent Oil-Painting, covering 1500 square yards, painted by THEO. POILPOT and STEPH. JACOB.

ADMISSION, ONE SHILLING.—The EXHIBITION will REMAIN OPEN from Ten a.m. to Eleven p.m. Lighted after dusk with ELECTRIC LIGHT (system Jamin).

CARDIGAN and the LIGHT BRIGADE. Portraits of H.R.H. Duke of Cambridge, Marshal Canrobert, Lord Raglan, Lord Lucan, Lord Cardigan, Sir Colin Campbell, Lord de Ros, Paget, Sir George Wombwell, General d'Allonville, and Officers of Regiments.

SPECIAL AFTERNOON, FRIDAYS. Admission Half-a-Crown.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. Last Week but Three of THE TOWN CRIER, by G. W. Godfrey, Music by Lionel Benson. New Musical Sketch, OUR INSTITUTE, by Mr. Corney Grain, and a New Second Piece, ALL AT SEA, by Arthur Law. Music by Corney Grain. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday at Eight. Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s. No fees.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP, at 7.45.—Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss, &c. CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 9.30.—Mr. Irving. Last Morning Performance of THE CUP, To-Day (Saturday), March 19. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram.
CORSICAN BROTHERS.—LAST MORNING PERFORMANCES, SATURDAYS, MARCH 26 and APRIL 2. Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. Doors open at Two.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1881.

The week opened with terrible news. The Emperor Alexander II. of Russia was murdered on Sunday. The details of the atrocious crime are now known, so far as they are ever likely to be known, all over Europe—indeed, one may say, all over the world. The Emperor was returning to the Winter Palace, St. Petersburg, from an inspection of the Marine Corps, and was being driven alone in a closed carriage, the Grand Duke Michael and the Czarevitch following, at some distance behind. A petard was thrown at the carriage, which smashed in the back of it, and the Czar instantly got out unhurt. The miscreant who had thrown the shell was captured on the spot. A second missile was thrown by another regicide, which fell just at the feet of the Emperor. It burst with a tremendous explosion, and, as soon as the smoke had cleared away, the Emperor was seen to be lying on the ground in a pool of blood. He was quite unconscious, and being placed on the sledge of the Chief of Police was taken to the Winter Palace, where he was undressed. His wounds were frightful. A short interval of consciousness appeared to return to him, and the last Sacrament is said to have been administered; but he was soon released from his sufferings by death.

One's first feeling on learning the event was that of stupefied horror. Intense indignation succeeded it, and then came pity, for the Imperial Family. This is, we believe, the sixth attempt that has been made upon the life of Alexander II. Five times he has escaped unharmed, and now, at last, he has fallen a victim to malignant violence. Why has he been thus relentlessly pursued? Personally, he had many endearing qualities, and at the beginning of his reign devoted himself with the utmost solicitude to the task of elevating the people over whom it was his destiny to rule. He accomplished the greatest and most beneficent revolution in Russia, by the abolition of Serfdom, which that country has ever experienced. He was anxious to do more, and more he attempted, but was prevented by obstacles, inherent in the system of which he was the nominal head, over which even he could not get the mastery. Disappointed in this direction, it is true that he had recourse, or, perhaps it might be more properly said, he sanctioned recourse being had to repressive measures, and there cannot be a doubt that, however lofty and even liberal may have been his individual aspirations, several of the later years of his reign were clouded over with acts which no man can justify. In one sense it must be confessed that he was responsible for their perpetration. In another, it is certain that he was ignorant of the extremes to which the bureaucracy of the Empire carried their arbitrary and corrupt proceedings. Though armed with the unlimited power of Autocracy, his hand was paralysed in almost any attempt to employ it for the welfare of his people. His prerogatives were used by subordinates in pursuance of a system of rule as stifling to all enlightened freedom as human selfishness can devise.

The lamentable death of Alexander II. will not probably — certainly not immediately — conduce to the alteration of this bureaucratic régime. It has been the profound mistake of the Nihilists to suppose that it would do so. It is nearly ascertained as a fact, however, that the Nihilists (unless we include in this category all who desire domestic reform in Russia) are comparatively few in number, and those few, generally speaking, are the product of University teaching, and are resident in the great towns. They have no hold upon the mass of the Russian people. They cannot accomplish the ends they have in view by merely persuasive agencies, though they pretend to do so. They are driven to work in the dark. For the most part, they are young men of restless habits and without any fitting sphere for the exercise of their faculties. They do not seem to perceive that the mode in which they set to work for the enlargement of the boundaries of liberty, political and social, even in so far as it may be successful, can achieve no solid security for the advancement of their countrymen. They have felled a Sovereign to the dust, but they have left the Crown untouched. They have done nothing to weaken the necessity which an established system can invariably bring to bear upon the policy of its personal chief. They will assuredly fail—whatever may be their professions, they not only will, but ought to fail; for humanity can never derive lasting benefit from a systematic violation of the laws by which humanity is swayed.

What will now become of the Foreign Policy of Russia? We are afraid that it will undergo no great, or beneficial change. It will, probably, be as aggressive as it has been, minus the check, however, which the influence of the late Czar's uncle, the Emperor of Germany, personally had upon his mind and will. The peace of Europe has not been made more secure by the assassination of Alexander II. Greece may, perhaps, profit by it, for the King of Greece's sister now shares the Throne of Alexander III., and it may be that Turkey, discerning, as she must, an accession of desire on the part of the Court of St. Petersburg in favour of the extension of the Greek Frontiers commended to her acceptance by the Berlin Congress, and subsequently defined by the Berlin Conference, will retire from her dilatory and evasive policy, and see good reason to acquiesce without further demur in conclusions to which she must ultimately yield. This, however, is uncertain, and, we may be justified in adding, is rather possible than probable. The present Emperor is supposed to be Anti-German; to sympathise with Slavo-Philism; to look with deeper interest upon Old Russia than upon New; upon Russia as it was, than upon Russia as it may become. Still, as we have already said, personal tendencies in the Imperial family have but a slight effect upon the system of rule actually in operation. No one can say what may, or what may not, be the result of the late terrible event upon the ultimate Foreign Policy of the Empire. It is not by any means impossible, that we are approaching an epoch of changes, in regard to European affairs, such as few of us would have ventured to anticipate. The Nations seem to be overburdened by authority, and to be upon the point of insisting upon some amelioration of the consequent evils they are doomed to bear. There is too much machinery, and it presses too heavily upon all classes of society. But where, or how, or to what purpose, reforms will eventually be effected, it passes human foresight confidently to predict.

The subject cannot be appropriately dismissed without the utterance of our heartfelt sympathy with those who were united to the late Czar by ties of relative affection. A crushing blow has suddenly befallen them—a blow to the fearful weight of which they are not the less sensible on account of the height of their rank and position. We have only to think, for a moment, what our feelings would be if a similar catastrophe had occurred in any of our respective families, to feel with and for them. May all the support and consolation which their trouble will admit of be vouchsafed to them; and, albeit we do not see how, may Supreme Wisdom overrule the crime which has so frightfully assailed their peace, to the eventual benefit of their country and themselves!

ECHOES OF THE WEEK, many (may we not say most?) of our readers will be sorry to learn, will be discontinued for a short time, owing to the writer thereof being unexpectedly called from England on urgent business. "G. A. S." trusts, however, shortly to resume his chatty article in these columns; and, in common with his numerous admirers, we shall gladly welcome the reappearance of his pleasant page of gossip.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

Monday, the 14th of March, 1881, will be marked down as a dies nefasta in the dramatic calendar of the year. In the morning the brilliant writer, whose place in these columns I for the moment so unworthily occupy, started for St. Petersburg on a mission of grave and solemn consequence, obedient to the instant call of duty, and scarcely had the day closed that was appointed for the first performance of the new Russian play, "Michael Strogoff," at the Adelphi, than a succession of strange and unexpected accidents occurred at one place of public entertainment, and two of our leading theatres. The first misfortune occurred at the Aquarium, where two rival champion shots, Dr. Carver and Mr. Scott, are busily engaged every evening in blowing thousands of glass balls into atoms before an excited and astonished audience. Mr. Scott finding that he had a tight-fitting cartridge handed his gun to an attendant, when, unluckily, it exploded, and the shots injured one of the innocent spectators so severely that the poor fellow was taken to the hospital, luckily within a stone's throw.

The scene changes to Drury Lane, on the occasion of the revival of "The World," the successful melodrama reproduced, according to promise, now that the pantomime is over, with almost the same cast as before. Miss Helen Barry is acting every afternoon and evening at the Aquarium, and is therefore compelled to resign the part of the haughty beauty into the hands of Miss Louisa Payne; but with that exception no material change has been made. All was going well, the house as crowded and enthusiastic as ever, when suddenly, to the horror of the spectators, down came the act-drop with a mighty crash upon the exposed footlights. Only those who have had any experience of the practical working of theatres have an idea what a formidable thing an act-drop is, or what immense care is required to work it without danger every night. From the front it looks light and simple enough; but those who have ever come in contact with the mighty roller that reaches the floor with a tremendous thud can tell a different story. Had it fallen on any other spot, and during the action of the play, the consequences might have been frightful. Mercifully, no lives were lost; but the audience, panic-stricken as usual, jumped up at the surprise of the fall and the sight of the mass of inflammable canvas fallen over the flaring gas. There is more presence of mind behind the footlights than in front of them at these moments of alarm and danger. Mr. Edward Stirling, the veteran stage manager, who has just written his recollections of the old theatre in a book of two volumes, instantly gave the word of command. Out went the footlights, so all danger on that account was at an end. Meanwhile, Mr. William Rignold, with some equally strong and lusty companions, cleared the decks of the fallen sails, and, having comforted the nervous audience, the good ship sailed on again as if nothing had happened, and the play was performed without an act-drop.

The third accident was still more painful. It was close upon midnight when the last of the six acts of "Michael Strogoff" was drawing to a close. The play ends in a grim duel to the death between Mr. Charles Warner, the manly hero, who has arrived at the end of his interminable journey, and Mr. James Fernandez, the villain who has pursued him with undying hate and hunger for vengeance. The scene reminded me very much of the final passages of Ruy Blas, as played by Mr. Fechter and Mr. John Ryder with such splendid melodramatic effect at the Princess's. In the present case the villain alone is armed with a dagger, with which he prepares to kill the hero, supposed to be blind. As the dagger is reaching the victim's heart he opens his eyes, and struggles for the possession of the weapon. The hero conquers, and is in turn the master of the situation, when, after a second struggle, the positions are once more reversed. The excitement is now at fever heat, and in the last bout—strength against skill—as Mr. Warner had just wrenched the dagger from the hands of Mr. Fernandez, I could see something serious had happened. "Go on!" whispered Mr. Warner to his frightened brother actor; "go on, and don't mind me!" He turned deadly pale, and I could see the poor fellow was in terrible pain, striving all the time to hide his wounded hand from the audience, with its streams of blood. The Grand Duke rushed in to welcome Mr. Warner, and poor Mr. Fernandez was obliged to die and to see the blood of his wounded friend pouring on the floor. There was nothing to be done but to finish the play in a hurry, the audience all the time being half ignorant of what had occurred and half sympathetic with the brave young actor. But when the ladies, Mrs. Hermann Vezin and Miss Gerard, came on, they had no heart or patience to wait and see their companion in such intolerable suffering. Miss Gerard, with her own handkerchief, endeavoured to stanch the blood, and Mr. Warner, biting his lips, tried his best to look as if he were not tortured. At any rate, he ended the play without a cry, and actually took his call with his wounded hand and wrist hastily bound by Miss Gerard's kerchief. An act of greater consideration for the feelings of others, or one more loyal and brave, has seldom been recorded of an actor on the stage.

I suppose we had all heard wonderful and varied accounts of "Michael Strogoff" as acted at the Châtelet in Paris. News of the comic special correspondent and his donkey, somewhat vulgarly and defiantly acted by Dailly, a favourite low comedian, of the painful scene when the eyes of Strogoff are put out by searing them with a red-hot sword, and of the various knoutings and lashings so realistically represented, had arrived here long before it was in Mr. Byron's hands for adaptation. Paris, theatrically considered, is but a suburb of London, and enthusiastic playgoers are as familiar with one capital as the other. In spite of the protests made by all who saw the original play, I congratulate Mr. Byron on his good taste and good sense in relieving this melodrama from its more pronounced horrors. Surely, as it stands, it is ghastly and blood-curdling enough to satisfy the tastes of this ultra-realistic and blood-thirsty age. There are more assaults, thrashings, whippings, explosions, and firing of guns than were ever heard of at the old Cobourg, now turned into a discreet and pious music-hall. Mr. Warner in the very first act is whipped by the villain, because he won't give up his travelling carriage to a swaggering bully; in the second act two special correspondents have to dodge the bullets as if they were markers at Wimbledon, a telegraph office is blown to smithereens, flaming shells enter unexpectedly at lattice windows, and the enormous Adelphi stage before ten o'clock is covered with bleeding men, shrieking soldiers, and dying horses. An unfortunate woman is threatened with the knout unless she betrays her son, whereupon that plucky young gentleman seizes the instrument of torture from the executioner, and promptly belabours the mazzard of the villain with the thongs, cutting his face with a ghastly gash. The same amiable old lady is tied up to a tree and ordered for execution, when the comic correspondent picks off the whole firing-party as if they were a covey of English partridges; a blind man is compelled to walk full tilt upon a naked sword; a town is partially destroyed by a river of burning oil that out-glares the fierce light of Herculaneum and Pompeii; and, as a final pièce de résistance in this supper of horrors, poor Mr. Warner mangles the palm of his hand in a horrible manner with a razor-like instrument, which I cannot conceive to be necessary for the purposes of the scene. Property daggers are made to shut up like telescopes when they come in contact with the body—why cannot they look sharp, and be perfectly blunt. Realism is carried to an astounding pitch, when actors are in nightly danger of lockjaw; and we shall have Juliets taking carefully prepared narcotics and Othellos gashing their windpipes. But in addition to the sensational surprises of "Michael Strogoff," we certainly do not want eyeballs frizzled with hot swords, or any visible reproduction of the horrors of the Inquisition. Such unhealthy tastes should not be pandered to, whatever M. Zola and the realists say to the contrary.

The interminable length of the new play can easily be remedied; and, though I should be sorry to lose any of Mr. Byron's quips and cranks or dry witticisms—and, by-the-way, how admirably he says them: with what seeming innocence and inimitable modesty!—still, I fear that it is in this direction that "Michael Strogoff" must lose flesh, when the honest Imperial messenger takes to Banting. From two things the play, however, must inevitably suffer—a decided and fatal want of female interest and the tedious rhapsodies of affection between mother and son. I am certain we love our mothers in England as much as they do in France, but we never care to make so much fuss about filial affection on the stage. Of the ordinary love between youth and maiden we never weary; but we do not readily rise to the signal of "ma mère." Now, if Michael Strogoff had been dispatched on a mission of affection as well as of duty—if this poor milksop of a girl that he picks up on the road could have somehow aided him in his escapades, and earned his devotion by some singular act of self-sacrifice, how much more such motives would have been appreciated than the mutual claspings of mother and son that are repeated in this play ad nauseam, in spite of the glow of Mrs. Vezin's acting and the personal popularity of Mr. Warner's manner. With regard to Mr. Warner, on whose shoulders fall the burden and heat of this tremendous play, I could wish some discipline on the heat and fervour of his passionate utterances. I admire, and always have admired, his energy, earnestness, and thoroughness. He was the first distinguished rebel against the milk-and-water, dawdling school, that once attempted to crush out all passion and sneer down sentiment. But he should be careful not to rush into the opposite extreme, and give us all the butter without the bread. There is no need to write every sentence so exceedingly large, to emphasise so very strongly, to make every commonplace sentence into a rhapsody. The actor feels it all, no doubt; it is his manner, and a far better manner than washed-out indifference; but Mr. Warner must remember that he discounts the effect of his heroic speeches when they do come. He cries "wolf" so often over his commonplaces that when he comes to his true passion we either do not believe him or are weary of the same old key. Mr. Fernandez never fails, however disagreeable or difficult the character; he is an excellent melodramatic actor—in fact, one of the very best; but I could have wished better parts for Mrs. Bernard Beere and Miss Gerard. One had nothing to do but look handsome and scowl at her rival; the other to look pretty and smile at or weep with her undemonstrative lover. Of one thing I am quite assured, and that is that Mr. Beverley's superb battle picture was not equalled on the French stage and could not be surpassed here. It is a glorious composition in colour, harmony, composition, and design, and will add another laurel-wreath to the brow of the veteran artist.

I have left no space to tell of the happy evening at the St. James's, when Mrs. Kendal, with her wounded arm in a silken sling and a cruel scar on her forehead, came back to recover on the stage and be pelted with flowers by her legion of friends; or to speak of the reopening of the Imperial, with Miss Helen Barry as the leading lady. But there will be breathing time next week before Madame Modjeska is ready, I trust, to charm us all as Juliet. C. S.

BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

Mrs. Twells, widow of Mr. Philip Twells, late M.P. for the City, and a magistrate at Enfield, has contributed £500 to the Police Orphanage, as a mark of her appreciation of the sympathy of the police in that district in following her husband to the grave.

The annual meeting of the Royal Literary Fund was held last week—the Earl of Derby in the chair. The report showed that during the past year thirty-nine grants had been made, to the amount of £2425. Mr. F. Rae spoke in favour of the union of the institution with the Guild of Literature and Art; and, on the suggestion of Lord Derby, it was agreed that the Committee of the Fund should be requested to consider the expediency of taking steps towards this end. His Lordship, who congratulated the members on the prosperity of the society, was re-elected president.

The sixty-eighth anniversary dinner of the London Orphan Asylum at Watford, one of the many noble charities founded by the late Dr. Andrew Reed, was held at Willis's Rooms on the 9th inst.—Baron Henry de Worms, M.P., in the chair. The subscriptions amounted to £3700.

The Lord Chancellor will preside at the eighth annual general meeting of the Barristers' Benevolent Association, which will be held in the Middle Temple Hall on Wednesday afternoon, the 30th inst.

The Grocers' Company have sent £100 to the Mechi Fund, and £100 towards the Building Fund of the Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society.

The Committee of "The 60th Royal Rifles Family Relief Fund" have received such liberal donations as to render further appeals for subscriptions unnecessary.

A cottage hospital and convalescent home has been opened at Llandrindod Wells, Radnorshire. It has begun its work under favourable auspices. Miss Lonsdale, the well-known authoress of "Sister Dora," having generously come forward and placed her nursing skill at the disposal of the committee of management, thereby ensuring to the patients all that devotion and energy of purpose can effect. The convalescent home is available for patients from any part of the kingdom on the recommendation of subscribers.

The annual festival of the friends of the Asylum for Fatherless Children was held on Tuesday week at the Cannon-street Hotel, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor. The subscriptions amounted to £1800.

The total number of emigrants who left Ireland during the past quarter amounts, according to the Registrar-General's return, to 10,668.

By means of the antiseptic apparatus recently patented by Mr. Stephenson perfect immunity can be secured, at a moderate cost, from the grievous effects of poisonous gases and noxious effluvia in closets, pipes, and drains. The simplicity and complete success of the apparatus have been attested by Dr. W. B. Richardson, F.R.S., and Dr. Thomas, Deputy-Coroner and Medical Health Officer, and by other high authorities.

THE LATE EMPEROR ALEXANDER II.

The late Emperor was born April 29, 1818, eldest son of the Emperor Nicholas and of the Empress Charlotte, who was a Princess of Prussia, sister to the present Emperor William I., of Prussia and Germany. He was educated by two tutors, General Mürder, a German, and the Russian poet Joukowski. He entered the army at the age of thirteen, and at seventeen was Colonel of Grenadiers. In 1849, he was appointed Superintendent of the Military Schools; and, in the following year, held a command in the army of the Caucasus. He was married, in April, 1841, to Maria, daughter of the Grand Duke Louis II. of Hesse Darmstadt. The death of the Emperor Nicholas, on March 2, 1855, at the crisis of the Crimean War, called Alexander II. to the throne.

Of a kindly and humane disposition, free from military ambition, though desirous of maintaining the prestige of the Russian Empire, and devotedly attached to the Russian Church, Alexander felt no wish to persevere in schemes of conquest, and readily acquiesced in the terms of peace which were imposed by the Allies, after the fall of Sebastopol in September, 1855. In February, 1856, a Protocol was signed by the five Powers, which made arrangements for the Congress at Paris, where peace was signed on March 30. Never were more lenient terms granted to a prostrate adversary. The territories conquered or occupied during the war were to be reciprocally evacuated, and, with the exception of a portion of Bessarabia which was taken from Russia, no penalty was imposed upon her. The Black Sea, it is true, was neutralised; but Russia had now not a ship afloat on the Euxine. For a time, therefore, the attention of Alexander II. had to be directed to the reorganisation of his defeated armies, and to the resettlement of his disordered finances.

But it was well known that he had set his heart upon a large measure of emancipation for the serfs; and early in 1858 it was announced that a Committee had been nominated, under the presidency of the Czar, to consider the best means for carrying out the Imperial intention. This was called the Grand Committee, which held its sittings in St. Petersburg. There was also constituted, by his Majesty's orders, a Reporting Committee, under the presidency of Count Kostovtsef, whose function it was to gather together and arrange facts for the benefit of the Grand Committee. It collected eighteen volumes of reports and memoranda, and upon these a draught was founded and submitted to a body composed of Provincial Delegates. The aristocracy and large landowners were the most influential element in all the Committees; and their recommendation was virtually that the serfs should have personal freedom, but that they should be detached from the soil. The Emperor disapproved their advice, and appealed from them to a special Council. The discussions were long and laborious; but Alexander II. failed to produce conviction among his advisers. Finally, he took the matter into his own hands, and decreed emancipation, without separating the peasant from the soil. The Emancipation Act affected twenty-two million ordinary serfs, three million of what were called Appanage peasants, and twenty-three million of Crown peasants. A certain portion of land, varying according to soil and climate, was attached to each manumitted serf; and they were to be aided with money loans from the Government to help them to purchase their allotments. At the same time, though the serfs were delivered from nominal bondage to a superior, they still remained, by certain stringent regulations, adscripti glebæ. A peasant was not to leave his village without surrendering his share of the communal lands. It was necessary, before he moved from the spot, that he should have carried out all his liabilities of military service, and, moreover, that he should have paid not only all local and imperial rates, but likewise all taxes for the existing year. All private claims must have been satisfied, and all personal contracts performed before he presumed to shift his abode. Furthermore, it was to be incumbent on him to provide for the maintenance of any members of his family who, if left behind, might possibly become a burden to the Commune. These and kindred conditions were attached to his complete emancipation; and they seem to be reasonable, if we consider the conditions of the case. Nevertheless, neither the nobles nor the peasants were satisfied: and Alexander II., having overcome the resistance of the former by an act of arbitrary benevolence, had to remind the latter that he had given them "all the liberties defined by the Statutes, but no liberties save those defined by the Statutes." The Decree of Emancipation was couched in sonorous and patriotic language, and ended with the following characteristic appeal:—"And now, pious and faithful people, make upon your foreheads the sign of the cross, and join your prayers to ours to call down the blessing of the Most High upon your first free labours, the sure pledge of your personal well-being and of the public prosperity."

But this magnificent act of domestic reform in Russia was soon followed by the exercise of cruel severities against an oppressed subject nation. During the years 1861 and 1862 accounts had reached the public of the disturbed state of Poland, where, denied the free use of their laws, their language, and their religion, the active-minded and more intelligent classes were once again giving painful signs of reviving national feeling by demonstrations invariably punished with the utmost severity. Early in 1863 the Russian Government, apparently determined to goad the Poles to despair, ordered a conscription of the most arbitrary character, the main object of which was to draught into the army everyone suspected of cherishing aspirations for the freedom of Poland. The operation was described by Lord Napier, the English Ambassador at the Court of St. Petersburg, as intended "to make a clean sweep of the revolutionary youth of Poland; to shut up the most energetic and dangerous spirits in the restraints of the Russian army; to kidnap the active members of the Opposition, and to carry them to Siberia and the Caucasus." Police agents in the middle of the night surrounded the houses in Warsaw, marked in their list, forcibly entered them, and handcuffed the young men intended to serve as recruits. In their absence their parents were carried off to prison. It is said that in one night alone two thousand five hundred young men were thus seized. As Lord Palmerston, speaking of the incident in the House of Commons, said, it was not a conscription, but a proscription. "The conscription in Poland," said Earl Russell, then Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, "was carried on in a manner to make an unhappy people despair. No regard had been paid to the law. Men had been seized for political opinions, and, while the peasantry had been excepted, the townspeople solely had been chosen for the army." Lord Palmerston, then Prime Minister, did not hesitate to declare that "if the insurrection be put down the Czar will have a country in which the plains will be bathed in blood and the towns be smoking ruins." It was put down, and precisely in the manner predicted. But public opinion was much excited by the cruelties perpetrated in the suppression of the insurrection; and the Governments of France and Great Britain addressed strong remonstrances to the Czar. "Why does not his Imperial Majesty, whose benevolence is generally and cheerfully acknowledged," wrote Earl Russell, "put an end at once to this bloody conflict by proclaiming mercifully an immediate and unconditional amnesty to his revolted Polish subjects, and at the same time announce his intention to replace without delay his Kingdom of Poland in possession of the political and civil privileges which were granted to it by the Emperor Alexander I. in execution of the stipulations of the Treaty of 1815?" No reply was given for some time to this demand. The English Government had refused to encourage the proposal advanced by the Emperor of the French for a European Congress, and the efforts of Russia to put an end to the insurrection were finally successful.

THE WINTER PALACE, ST. PETERSBURG, WHERE THE LATE EMPEROR DIED ON SUNDAY LAST.

The war between France and Germany, in 1870, gave Russia an opportunity of throwing off, in one respect, the restraint to which her power had been subjected by the neutralisation of the Black Sea. At the end of October, 1870, Prince Gortschakoff issued a Circular in which appeared the following sentence:—"Relying on the sense of equity of the Powers, signatories of the Treaty of 1856, and the consciousness these have of their own dignity, the Emperor bids you declare that his Imperial Majesty can no longer consider himself bound by the Treaty of March, 1856, in so far as this limits his rights of sovereignty in the Black Sea." The Russian Ambassador communicated the despatch to Earl Granville on Nov. 9. His Lordship replied to the despatch on the following day, reprobating "the theory of exercising an individual discretionary power by any of the signatories of a treaty," but nevertheless making it abundantly evident that England was prepared to discuss the question, and far from disposed to treat the bad faith of Russia as a casus belli. In consequence, Prince Gortschakoff went on to announce that his "august Master had only to discharge an imperative duty to his country," and that he had no wish "to enter into any discussion, recall any precedent, or cite any example." On the 26th of the month Prince Bismarck addressed an invitation to the Powers to send representatives to a Conference to discuss the questions raised by the Circular of Prince Gortschakoff. Earl Granville accepted the invitation, endeavouring to show that his assent was secured only by Russia having retired from her original arbitrary attitude. On Dec. 17 the Conference was opened in London. It is unnecessary to refer in detail to its proceedings, since everything for which Russia contended was consented to; a declaration, however, being agreed to by her to the effect that no Power could withdraw itself from a Treaty without the assent of its co-signatories.

The Emperor Alexander had continued his efforts to reform the administration of government in Russia; and in November, 1864, established an improved system of judicature, both for civil suits and for criminal prosecutions, with trial by jury, open and public sittings of the courts, and the assistance of professional barristers. Much has also been done for the reform of the civil service, but it is the enlargement of municipal and communal self-government which has produced the greatest change in the condition of the country. With many partial drawbacks and disappointments, and the appearance of fresh evils not yet completely remedied, there seems to be, on the whole, satisfactory evidence of the substantial benefits actually conferred upon Russia by the decrees of the late Sovereign, whose benevolent intentions, so far as the Russian people are concerned, have been proved beyond all doubt.

It has been remarked that Alexander II. showed no such desire of military conquest, or of the territorial aggrandisement of his Empire, as had been manifested by some of his predecessors. An apparent exception to this observation may perhaps be supposed to exist in the great advance of Russian dominion in Central Asia from 1866 to the present time. The Ameer of Bokhara was first subdued, and the city of Samarcand, in May, 1868, was occupied by Russian troops; in 1873, Khiva was captured by General Kaufmann, and part of its territory was annexed; in 1875, there was the conquest of Khokand, and we have recently seen the Turkoman tribes on the eastern shore of the Caspian forced to yield to the arms of Russia. These events have excited much alarm on the part of a school of politicians and strategists who conceive that the safety of our Indian Empire may possibly be endangered by Russian dominion in Turkestan. We do not here pretend to express any opinion regarding that point of incessant controversy; but there appears to have been some degree of justification for the conduct of Russia towards the Turkomans in the lawless practices of marauding and kidnapping to which they were addicted. It is certain that these conquests have been rather burdensome than advantageous to the finances and administration of the Empire; and they have not really added to its military strength. The late Emperor, it may well be believed, would have preferred to refrain from any such troublesome extension of his vast and unwieldy dominion.

Nor can it be doubted that he engaged with great personal reluctance, in 1877, in the tremendous task of a war of invasion to settle the affairs of Bulgaria and other other provinces of the Turkish Empire. He was certainly drawn on, if not forced on, to this questionable enterprise by the fanatical enthusiasm of the Russian Church and the Muscovite partisans of Slav nationality, whose championship he had ostentatiously assumed, as we may suppose, intending at first to use no other means than diplomatic agency on behalf of their cause. Russian officers and soldiers had, indeed, been permitted in 1876 to volunteer for the Servian army; and the Emperor's Government had interposed, when that army was defeated, to protect Servia from Turkish vengeance; but there is every reason to believe that he expected, at the Conference of Constantinople in December, to obtain a concerted action of the European Powers to impose upon the Sultan terms sufficiently favourable to the liberties of the Christian populations. The rejection of these proposals excited throughout Russia such a feeling as the Emperor was unable to control; and he was probably advised to put himself at the head of the movement, lest the war

(Continued on page 273.)

ALEXANDER III., THE NEW EMPEROR OF RUSSIA

RUSSIAN POLITICAL PRISONERS AT A RAILWAY STATION.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, March 15.

Jean François Millet painted the famous picture of the "Angelus" in 1859. Arthur Stevens, whose name deserves to be recorded, then had forty or fifty pictures by Millet in his store, but hardly anybody saw any merit in them, and nobody thought of buying them. At last, almost a year after it was finished, Stevens succeeded in selling the "Angelus" for 2500f. to M. Van Praet, the Belgian Minister. About ten years ago the same picture was in the hands of Durand-Ruel, who asked 25,000f. for it; yesterday, at the sale of the collection of Mr. John Wilson, the "Angelus," after a short and sharp fire of bids, was knocked down for the sum of 160,000f. At the same sale, a "Halt," by Meissonier, was sold for 125,000f. Amongst other pictures for which a high price was paid may be mentioned Millet's "Gleaner," 23,700f.; Delacroix's "Tiger Surprised by a Serpent," 21,000f.; Rousseau's "Village in Normandy," 20,000f.; Decamps, "Interior of a Court in Italy," 36,800f. (this picture was sold for 22,000f. at the Tretaigne sale in 1872); Troyon, "La Mare," 31,500f.; "Vallée de la Sole," 17,200f.; Ziem, "Venice," 17,500f. The immense increase in the market value of pictures is a subject on which one might write columns. The case of the "Angelus" is not the only one that may be cited. During his life-time Delacroix used to sell his masterpieces at 500f. apiece. Last week a financier, M. Balensi, paid at the Hôtel Drouot 95,000f. for Delacroix's "Convulsionnaires de Tanger." The French millionaires beat even the Americans. One of them, M. S., paid last week 300,000f. for six pictures by Rousseau and one of Delacroix, a bouquet that was offered him by an artful dealer. The same M. S. paid a few months ago 400,000f. for the splendid Meissonier, which was shown at the Exhibition at the Champ de Mars in 1878, and sold then to a Belgian amateur for 250,000f. Such patronage of the fine arts is truly Babylonian.

The assassination of the Czar has naturally been the great topic of conversation during the past few days. Paris, it will be remembered, was the scene of the second attempt made to kill the Czar in 1867, when the Pole Berezowski fired at him as he was returning from a review at Longchamps in company with Napoleon III. This Berezowski is the same in whose honour Félix Pyat got up a subscription last year for the purpose of buying a "pistol of honour." To use the common expression, the event has cast a gloom over the large and brilliant Russian colony which has elected to live in Paris. Yesterday the Chamber and the Senate adjourned by way of protesting against the assassination, and the Press, with the exception of a few ultra-revolutionary and Socialist organs, is unanimous in expressing indignation at the act of the Nihilists. Even M. Rochefort disapproves of political assassination, though he ventures to prophesy that the Orsini bomb which killed the Czar will do for Russia what William Tell's arrow did for Switzerland, what the execution of Charles I. did for England, and what the beheading of Louis XVI. did for France.

In the political world, in the absence of any important debates in the Chamber or the Senate, the question most warmly discussed is that of the scrutin de liste, or rather that of the relations of M. Grévy and M. Gambetta. The meeting of the two Presidents at the Elysée ball last Thursday has been commented upon as profoundly and diversely as a chorus of Æschylus. Was M. Grévy cold? Did he smile? Did he give M. Gambetta all his hand or only two fingers? It is needless to say that the decision of the question lies with the Parliament rather than with M. Grévy or M. Gambetta. The extreme interest which the public takes in the smiles and frowns of the two Presidents is only an instance of its ingrained monarchical tendencies. After all, it is quite possible that the scrutin de liste question will become merged into the question of the revision of the present Constitution. But for the moment there is nothing to report but "words, words, words."

The terrible fire which broke out at the Printemps drapery store last Wednesday, and did damage to the amount of ten millions of francs, will perhaps induce the Parisian authorities to shorten their bureaucratic processes and to furnish the city with means of defence against the flames. The whole of the splendid Printemps building, at the corner of the Boulevard Haussmann and the Rue du Havre, was gutted, one fireman killed, thirteen persons injured, and more than a thousand persons thrown out of work, because Paris has only four steam fire-engines and 207 hand-pumps, the latter throwing water to a height of about 20 ft. The whole city has only 920 fire-plugs, 600 of which have been constructed within the last six months. In the case of the Printemps, water could not be obtained to supply even four steam fire-engines. With such inadequate and inefficient means, the fire brigade, in spite of its bravery and devotion, is powerless against a fire of any magnitude. This was shown clearly enough when the old opera house in the Rue Lepelletier was burnt down. The press then waxed indignant and eloquent, as it has done during the past week; but the force of routine in France is incredible.

M. Edmond de Goncourt's remarkable volumes on his bibelots and art collections, which I have already announced, has just been published by Charpentier, under the title of "La Maison d'un Artiste au XIXème Siècle."

The Socialists and Communists are preparing to celebrate the anniversary of the Commune on the 18th by banquets and festivities. On that day a new Socialist journal, Le Juvenal, directed by an ex-member of the Commune, is to appear. Of new journals in Paris it may be truly said, quand il n'y en a plus, il y en a toujours.

T. C.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

There is still, at the time of writing this notice on Wednesday evening, strong hope of a good result from the pacific negotiations that were commenced on Sunday, the 6th inst., between General Sir Evelyn Wood and Mr. P. J. Joubert, by the mediation of Mr. Brand, President of the Orange Free State. The armistice, which was for eight days, would have expired last Monday, but it has been prolonged four days, to give time for Mr. Paul Krüger, the Vice-President of the Boers' Government, to arrive from Rustenburg. It was arranged that the Conference should be held on Friday (yesterday, the 18th inst., being the last day of the armistice), between General Wood and Messrs. Brand, Joubert, and Krüger, at O'Neill's Farm, two miles from Prospect Hill. In the mean time, General Wood has the option of sending four days' more provisions to those garrisons which have already received eight days', and twelve days' provisions to those garrisons which have not yet received any provisions.

Mr. Bright has written in reply to an address presented to him, which was signed by a great number of the most eminent literary and scientific men of Germany, and by many German Liberal politicians and professors of law, in favour of the independence of the Transvaal. He says, "I hope the prospect is one of peace, and not of further war, and that an arrangement may be made satisfactory to the Transvaal people and honourable to this country. I scarcely need to assure you that whatever influence I possess is being and will be exerted in favour of peace."

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

SPAIN.

Yesterday week was promulgated the Royal decree conferring the title of Princess of Asturias upon King Alfonso's daughter, Princess Maria de las Mercedes, heiress to the Spanish throne.

A decree was officially published at Madrid on Tuesday ratifying the treaty of commerce and navigation concluded between Spain and Austria.

PORTUGAL.

A disturbance has occurred at Lisbon. As the people were leaving a meeting held at the Opera House to protest against the policy of the Government, they were charged by the Municipal Guards, and several persons were wounded.

ITALY.

Monday being the King's birthday, his Majesty held a review of the troops in garrison at Rome; and at the conclusion an immense number of people assembled in front of the Quirinal, repeatedly raising enthusiastic cheers for the King and Queen. The Royal family twice appeared on the balcony in acknowledgment of the popular acclamations.

The Government bill, proposing to grant 50,000,000 lire for the construction of works of public utility in Rome has been further discussed in the Chamber of Deputies. On Tuesday the general discussion was concluded, and a motion was agreed to expressing a hope that the Ministry would shortly present the necessary bills for the improvement of the Tiber and the Roman Campagna. Signor Magliani, the Minister of Finance, then made a statement showing the position of the Treasury, and at the same time presented the definitive Budget for 1881. The Treasury accounts present a surplus of 50,000,000 lire, of which 21,000,000 lire are already set apart for new expenditure. The Budget for 1881 shows a surplus of 15,000,000 lire.

Three earthquake shocks were felt last Saturday in Italy. A slight movement of the earth was noticed in Rome, and at Perugia the inhabitants were so alarmed that they camped out of their dwellings.

GERMANY.

The engagement was announced at Carlsruhe, last Saturday, of Princess Victoria, of Baden, granddaughter of the German Emperor, and great-granddaughter of the last Wasa, King of Sweden, with Gustavus Adolphus, the Crown Prince of Sweden.

The German Reichstag on the 10th inst. divided on the motion for referring to a Select Committee the bill for introducing biennial Budgets and four-year Parliaments. The motion was carried by 127 to 111, the majority being mainly composed of Conservatives and Clericals.

The Berlin Town Councillors have abandoned their intention of recording a formal protest against the charges brought against them by Prince Bismarck, "as they wish to proceed in the matter in conjunction with the magistracy."

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

In Monday's sitting of the Lower House of the Austrian Reichsrath the Minister of Finance introduced a bill for the provisional exercise of the Budget during April. The House then proceeded to the election of a successor to Count Coronini, who recently resigned the post of President of the Chamber. Dr. Smolka, first vice-president, obtained 184 votes, and Herr Rechbauer 146 out of 339 votes. Dr. Smolka was then duly declared President. In Tuesday's sitting Prince Lobkowitz was elected First Vice-President by 163 votes, against 149 recorded in favour of Herr Demel.

The House has decided, by 175 votes to 160, to pass to the discussion of the clauses of the Building Tax Bill.

AMERICA.

The Senate, being the only House of Congress in Session, has unanimously adopted resolutions expressing sympathy and condolence with the Government and people of Russia.

It has been determined by the Navy Department to buy a whaling steamer now at San Francisco, in order to dispatch her on a search for the Polar exploring-vessel Jeannette.

Numerous meetings in support of the Irish Land League were held in the United States on Sunday. Among the speakers at an assembly at Brooklyn was Mrs. Parnell, the mother of the member for Cork.

CANADA.

The Senate has passed the Temperance Bill, after amending it in such a manner as to exempt ales, porter, lager beer, light wines, and cider from the operation of the Act.

In Wednesday's sitting of the House the Asiatic Cable Bill passed the second reading. The Naturalisation of Aliens Bill was read the third time and passed. The Railway Committee of the House have adopted the bill incorporating the European and Canadian Cable Company, after inserting a clause empowering the Governor in Council to regulate the charges.

The report of the Provincial Secretary and Premier, the Hon. S. H. Holmes, shows that the revenue of Nova Scotia for 1880 was 617,000 dols., and the expenditure 576,000 dols.

The provincial revenue of British Columbia for the year is estimated at 408,719 dols., and the expenditure at 460,285 dols. The deficiency will be made up by debentures.

AUSTRALIA.

A telegraphic despatch has been received at the office of the Agent-General for Victoria from the Hon. Graham Berry, Premier of Victoria, stating that the Melbourne International Exhibition will not close until April 30, but that the ceremony of distribution of awards will take place on the 22nd inst. in presence of the Governor; and that Colonel Sir Herbert Sandford, R.A., representative of the Royal Commission for Australian exhibitions, of which his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., is executive president, will return to England by the steam-ship Orient, which leaves Melbourne on April 12.

The following telegraphic despatch from the Hon. Graham Berry, giving the names of those who lost their lives by the torpedo explosion at Melbourne on the 5th inst., has been received at the office of the Agent-General for the Colony:—"Killed—Robert Samuel Groves, William Barnes, Henry Hunter, Harry Timberley, James Wilkie."

The House of Lords, without calling upon the counsel for the Crown, has dismissed the appeal of the Claimant against the decision of the Lord Justices affirming the legality of the two seven years' sentences of penal servitude passed upon him eight years ago. But we have not yet heard the last of the irrepressible. A letter from the solicitor who is acting for the Claimant states that evidence is about to be laid before the House of Commons and the country to prove that the man in prison is really Sir Roger Tichborne, and that he has been the victim of "a widespread conspiracy."

THE COURT.

The terrible intelligence of the assassination of the Czar was received with profound grief by her Majesty on Sunday afternoon, the first intimation of the atrocity having been telegraphed by the Duke of Edinburgh immediately upon the arrival of the news from St. Petersburg. The Queen's family dinner party the same evening was set aside; and the Court has remained in seclusion during the week. Her Majesty's Drawingroom, for the 18th, and the Levée, for the 21st, were postponed; and the Court has gone into mourning for a month from last Monday. Court mourning had been already assumed the previous Friday for three weeks for the late Dowager Queen Caroline Amelia of Denmark, second cousin to her Majesty; which mourning was not expected to be worn at the Drawingroom on the 18th inst., except by the Royal family, with the households, and the Corps Diplomatique.

Before the close of last week the Queen was actively engaged in entertaining. The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh and the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia and Count Gleichen lunched with her Majesty. Of those who joined the Royal circle at dinner were the Danish Minister and the Countess de Falbe, Viscount Cranbrook, the Right Hon. Sir William V. and Lady Harcourt, Colonel Sir Thomas Baker, the Right Hon. Hugh C. E. Childers, Mrs. and Miss Morier, the Dean of Westminster, Mrs. Drummond of Megginch, Lady Churchill, Lady Abercromby, the Hon. Ethel Cadogan, the Hon. Frances Drummond, the Lord in Waiting and Lady Thurlow, Major-General Sir John and Lady Cowell, Captain and Mrs. Edwards, Viscount Torrington, Major J. R. Slade, Colonel Sir John Carstairs M'Neill, Lieut.-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby, and Colonel H. F. Davies (commanding 1st Battalion Grenadier Guards), Admiral Lord Frederic Kerr, and Major-General Du Plat.

The Queen also knighted Colonel Sir Thomas Baker and invested him with the insignia of a Knight Commander of the Bath. The Right Hon. Hugh Childers had an audience of her Majesty, as also Earl Sydney, who presented two addresses from the House of Lords.

Last Sunday the Queen, Princess Beatrice, and Princesses Victoria and Louise of Schleswig-Holstein attended Divine service in the private chapel of Windsor Castle, the Rev. Frederick Manners Stopford, Rector of Tichmarsh, Northamptonshire, officiating.

The Prince of Wales visited her Majesty on Tuesday, and after luncheon returned to town. His Royal Highness, with the Duke of Cambridge, then went to the House of Lords, and was present at the moving and seconding of an address of condolence to the Queen and the Duchess of Edinburgh on the death of the late Emperor of Russia.

Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice have taken daily out-of-door exercise.

The eighteenth anniversary of the marriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales was observed with due honours at Windsor on the 10th inst.; the twentieth anniversary of the Duchess of Kent's death was on Wednesday; and Princess Louise of Lorne's thirty-third birthday anniversary was yesterday.

Her Majesty's annual subscription of £50 has been sent to the Royal National Life-Boat Institution.

Miss Evelyn Moore is appointed Maid of Honour in Ordinary to her Majesty, in the room of the Hon. Mary Lascelles, resigned. Lady Abercromby has succeeded Lady Churchill as Lady in Waiting.

Mr. Irving Montagu has submitted to her Majesty his picture of "Plevna."

Mr. J. Thomson had the honour of photographing the Queen and Princess Beatrice in the state apartments at Osborne. The photographs, which were taken on his specially prepared plates, have been highly approved of by her Majesty and the Princess.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales arrived at Charing-cross from Paris on Sunday afternoon, at the time the Duke of Edinburgh was at the station arranging for his departure for St. Petersburg, and thus the Duke gave his Royal Highness the first news of the sad catastrophe. The Prince, immediately after his arrival at Marlborough House, went with the Princess to see the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh and the Grand Duke Alexis at Clarence House. On Monday their Royal Highnesses were present at the funeral service held in the Russian Chapel in Welbeck-street in commemoration of the death of the late Emperor Alexander. The Prince was in full uniform; the Princess in deep mourning. Their Royal Highnesses received visits from the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Empress Eugénie.

The invitation of the Mayor of Norwich to the Prince and Princess to visit the city on Easter Monday, for the opening of the National Fisheries Exhibition, is accepted.

Lieutenant-Colonel Clarke has succeeded Colonel A. Ellis as Equerry in Waiting to the Prince.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, with the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, left town for St. Petersburg within about two hours of the intelligence of the painful death of the Emperor of Russia; the knowledge of which for the time being had a sad effect upon the Duchess, who was immediately attended by her medical adviser. Their children were taken to Windsor Castle, where they remain with her Majesty.

Princess Louise of Lorne (travelling as Lady de Sandridge) arrived at Genoa last Saturday. On Sunday her Royal Highness witnessed from the windows of the Royal Palace, Via Balbi, the beautiful procession of the "Return from the Crusades," organised by the gentlemen of Genoa belonging to the Gymnastic Society. Genoa has not witnessed anything so magnificent for many years. The Princess left the Hôtel d'Italia, where she had been staying, for Florence on Monday.

The Duke of Connaught presided recently at the Royal United Service Institution, where Lieutenant-Colonel E. F. Chapman, R.A., C.B. (Assistant Quartermaster-General, Bengal), read a valuable and interesting paper, entitled "The March from Cabul to Candahar in August, and the Battle of Sept. 1, 1880."

Prince Leopold will open the new University buildings at Nottingham on June 30.

The Duchess of Teck, who was accompanied by her children, visited Chelsea Barracks on Thursday week and distributed the prizes awarded to the girls of the Guards' Industrial Home.

The Empress of Austria has continued to hunt with the several packs of the county near Combermere Abbey.

The Empress Eugénie will occupy Combe Lodge, Wimbledon, the residence of Mr. Edward Baring, who has placed it at her Majesty's disposal until she goes abroad, previous to her taking up her residence at Farnborough.

Mr. Charles William Sikes, manager of the Huddersfield Banking Company, is to be knighted, in recognition of his services in connection with the establishment of Post-Office savings banks. Many of Mr. Sikes's earnest appeals on the subject appeared in this paper.

The Extra Supplement.

AN EVICTION IN THE WEST OF IRELAND.

We have little need or wish, after the protracted discussions of so many months past, upon the grievous condition of affairs between the claims of landlord and tenant in the western counties of Ireland, to dwell much on the distressing scene that is here presented. It is obviously the case of a peasant family being expelled, by the aid of the Irish Constabulary, which is a half-military force, and which has the severest coercive duties to perform, from the humble cottage that has long sheltered man, woman, and child. They have failed to pay the rent, and they are consequently ejected by regular process of law; but the aspect of this business, in itself, is harsh and threatening; the scanty furniture, rudely cast out upon the ground, the weeping wife and daughter, the terrified babes, the poor old father, apparently stunned by this great affliction, whom a constable is leading from the door, may well appeal to feelings of humane compassion. Such feelings, to their credit, seem to have touched the officer and men employed in protecting those who come to execute this stern decree of forcible removal, and who are perhaps themselves less susceptible of pity on these occasions. The neighbours in the village are naturally in a state of high indignation, as may be seen to the right and left of the premises; but we trust that no actual deeds of violence will here be committed.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Acworth, Herbert Sumner, to be Vicar of Chobham.
Ampe, James Henry; Chaplain Royal Albert Hospital, Devonport.
Baron, James Wilkie; Rector of Sadberge, near Darlington.
Boys, Markby Janeiro Thornton; Vicar of Hildenborough, Kent.
Chafy-Chafy, William Kyle Westwood; Rector of Rouselench.
Cory, A., Curate of Darlaston; Perpetual Curate of All Saints', Darlaston.
Cousens, R. R.; Rector of Newcastle-under-Lyme.
Darroch, Charles Stuart Parker; Rector of Meldstead.
Fisher, William Frederick; Vicar of Shalfleet.
Footman, Henry, Vicar of Shoreditch; Vicar of Noeton.
Freve, Constantine; Honorary Canon in Norwich Cathedral.
Govett, James Lewin; Vicar of Burnham.
Grace, Allen; Vicar of Wellington with Eyton Rectory annexed.
Grant, Frederick Bickerton; Curate of Great Comberton.
Greatrex, Charles Butler; Rector of Hope Bagot.
Griffith, G. O. F.; Incumbent of St. Barnabas, Beckenham, Kent.
Hamer, Richard; Vicar of Granby.
Heathcote, Gilbert Vyvyan; Rural Dean of Ness.
Hughes, W., Rector of Llanenddwyn; Rector of Llanfechell, Anglesey.
Hutton, Vernon Wollaston, Vicar of Sneinton; Prebendary of Bedford Major, in Lincoln Cathedral.
Jagg, Frederick Charles; Rector of Loddington, Northants.
Jones, David, Vicar of Dwygyfylchi, Penmaenmawr; Rector of Llanenddwyn-with-Llanddwywe, Merioneth.
Jones, Ebenezer Humphrey; Rector of Johnston and Vicar of Steynton.
Kendle, William James; Chaplain of the Dorset County Lunatic Asylums.
Kirkland, Morfan Edward; Rector of Hedsor, Bucks.
Latham, William; Vicar of Thornton Curtis.
Luard, Thomas Garnham; Rural Dean of Newport.
Madan, Nigel, Vicar of Polesworth; Rector of West Hallam, Derbyshire.
Napleton, John, Curate of Temple Balsall; Incumbent of Christ Church, Coventry.
Norton, William; Rector of Pelham Parva, alias Stocking Pelham.
Parkinson, Arthur; Incumbent of St. Clement's, Broughton.
Robinson, Edward, Vicar of Norton; Rector of Tansley.
Shelton, Mortimer Henry Clifton; Assistant-Chaplain of Portland Prison.
Smith, C. Dunlop, Vicar of South Malling, Sussex; Rector of Didsbury.
Twamley, Zachariah; Perpetual Curate of Little Wymondley.
Waugh, James Charles; Rector of Ashleworth.
Wright, Barrington Stafford; Rector of Luddenham and Vicar of Stonenext-Faversham, Kent.—Guardian.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has issued a special form of prayer to be used in the churches on behalf of the troops in the Transvaal.

The Bishop of Durham has intimated his intention to erect a Young Men's Church of England Institute for Bishop Auckland, at an expense of about £1800. The new structure will be called the Bishop Lightfoot Institute.

Mr. John Pitt Bayly has been selected to supply the design for the proposed Cathedral at Douglas, Isle of Man. The fabric will be of Early English character, cruciform in plan, with two towers and spires at the west end. The cost will not be less than £25,000.

At the annual meeting of the Church Association on the 10th inst. a resolution was adopted declaring that, in face of the efforts now being made to secure toleration in the Church of England for the use of vestments and practices which are adopted in the Church of Rome as adjuncts to the Mass, and also the recognition of the Sacerdotalists as true members of the Church of England, the meeting most fully approved the protests made in the counter-memorial lately presented to the Archbishops against such efforts.

Mr. Shaw-Lefevre has, the Daily News understands, promised to support a scheme which has been drawn up for converting St. Margaret's Churchyard and the precincts of Westminster Abbey into a tasteful garden, somewhat similar to that which now faces the Houses of Parliament. According to the idea which has just been mooted, the gravestones that are now trodden upon would be taken up and transferred to some place of honour and safety. Then the ground would be laid out and suitably inclosed with an artistic railing. The Dean and Canon Farrar both approve of the plan, which it is estimated will only cost about £3500.

Mr. Eaton was elected for Coventry last Saturday, in the place of the late Sir Henry Jackson, by a majority of 443 over Sir U. Kay-Shuttleworth; the Conservatives thus gaining a seat.

The returns of metropolitan pauperism show that 99,685 paupers were relieved last week, against 96,464 in the corresponding week of last year, and 89,787 in 1879. The number of vagrants relieved during the week was 764.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat at Liverpool from the United States and Canada last week show a large increase on those of the preceding week, making a total of 753 cattle, 340 sheep, 8988 quarters of beef, 2275 carcases of mutton, and 1847 pigs.

Last month the officers of the Fishmongers' Company seized at Billingsgate Market 16½ tons of fish as unfit for human food. All of it had arrived by land. The fish numbered 2995, and included four cod, 460 haddocks, 500 herrings, 52 lobsters, 320 plaice, 59 unclean salmon, and 1600 whiting; and, in addition, 41 bags of cockles, six bags of muscles and one of periwinkles, a barrel of salt cod, 68 barrels of oysters and 40 of sprats, two boxes and 25 lb. of eels, and 44 baskets of smelts and two of sprats.

With reference to our Illustration and the account, published a fortnight ago, of the terrible disasters at the Artists' Masquerade Ball at Munich, we have received a communication, attested by several Englishmen who were present, stating that two American gentlemen, Mr. Stiefel and Mr. Lang, deserve much praise for their exertions to help the unfortunate men whose dresses were burning. We have much pleasure in adding their names to those of the two young Englishmen before mentioned.

NEW BOOKS.

Allowances have to be made in the case of Cicero: by Anthony Trollope (Chapman and Hall); and then the two volumes may be considered, perhaps, to contain as good an account of the great Roman orator, statesman, politician, and, above all, in the eyes of us moderns, letter-writer, as heart of man could desire. The allowances have to be made because the biographer does not bring to bear upon his work the accurate scholarship and profound learning which the task he has undertaken might seem to require; because much novel-writing, some of it rather remarkable for its slipshod style, has rendered him almost incapable of exhibiting that dignity of treatment which is supposed to be most appropriate, if not absolutely necessary, in dealing with historical subjects and characters; and because the habit of creating his own Dukes of Omnium and other great or little men, patronising them, as a man has a right to patronise his own creatures, handling them familiarly, as a potter has a right to handle the clay he fashions, and representing them to his readers, with an arbitrariness worthy of the famous Peter in "A Tale of a Tub," in such colours as his own prepossessions and prejudices prompt him to employ, is likely to exercise an imperceptible influence over him, even upon occasions when the very first thing needful is to exclude personal bias, to abstain from dictation, and to leave for the contemplation, examination, and judgment of others a figure calmly and methodically put together and composed of pieces gathered from the dust-bin as well as the treasure-casket of antiquity. In the present instance, the biographer may seem to protest too much, to assume too much of the interested advocate, interested with that deepest of interest which consists in a fanatical desire to thrust one's own opinions, by sheer physical force, down one's neighbour's throat; and to urge his advocacy in the partly hectoring, partly wheedling, and wholly free-and-easy, style of the conventional barrister addressing the conventional jury. On the other hand, these very blemishes, as they may appear to be to the literary Pharisee, are not unlikely to promote the popularity of the book with the less particular and more numerous literary Publican. And yet, after all, the blemishes which might have been expected are less conspicuous than the biographer's antecedents lead one to fear they will be; and they are less noticeable in the second than in the first volume. Here is one of the worst specimens of flippancy from the latter: "What a man he would have been for London life! How he would have enjoyed his club, picking up the news of the day from all lips, while he seemed to give it to all ears. How popular he would have been at the Carlton, and how men would have listened to him while every great or little crisis was discussed! How supreme he would have sat on the Treasury bench—or how unanswerable, how fatal, how joyous when attacking the Government from the opposite seats! How crowded would have been his puck with invitations to dinner! How delighted would have been the middle-aged Countesses of the time to hold with him mild intellectual flirtations, and the girls of the period, how proud to get his autograph, how much prouder to have touched the lips of the great orator with theirs!" And so on, and so on. All this, of course, would be well enough as "padding" in a novel, or as part of an ephemeral article in a newspaper, but the style is hardly suitable for serious biography, to last for ever, nor does it inspire much confidence in the authority of the last advocate who has come forward to vindicate the character of him to whom the title was given of "Pater patriæ" at one of the most momentous periods in the history of old Rome. There has, perhaps, been enough, not to say too much, written and published about the "incomparable Tully;" but, if we are to follow the example of the amiable auditor who always made a point of agreeing with "the gentleman that spoke last," we shall, until the appearance of something to the contrary, hold that Cicero, who has been accused of all sorts of meanness, including cowardice and general insincerity, was, if not "tetragon," at any rate "rectangular," a patriot, an honest man, and almost a Christian. However that may be, it will be quite safe to venture as far on his behalf as Lord Verisopht considered that he might venture in his appreciation of Shakspeare, and admit freely that "he was a clayver man."

A very difficult enterprise is attempted in The Story of Philosophy, by Aston Leigh (Trübner and Co.), a volume in which the ambitious author undertakes "to give the reader, concisely and in ordinary language—philosophical terms being as far as possible excluded—the history of the rise and progress during the seven centuries before the birth of Christ, of that which sounds so unapproachable when the word which represents it is heard—Philosophy." This vast project is executed within the compass of two hundred pages, about; so that it will be evident how meagre the information must necessarily be, and not much surprise will be felt if that information be found to resolve itself almost entirely into a few sketches, in outline, of the principal Greek philosophers, together with some superficial remarks concerning their writings, those of Plato and Aristotle especially. Some of the Platonic dialogues are taken in hand, extracts are made from them, and the extracts are translated into perfectly good and intelligible English. There is also a description of Athens as it appeared, or is supposed to have appeared, in the days of Socrates, son of Sophroniscus; but a somewhat unfortunate choice of goddess detracts from the value of the description, according to which "the many-pillared edifice crowning the rocky hill is the Parthenon, the temple of Venus;" for if Venus could possibly have been an Athenian deity, she could not have been entitled to be called "Parthenos"—indeed, she would probably have scorned the imputation and taken vengeance upon the city in consequence. It cannot be expected that the book will be of much assistance to Mr. Herbert Spencer, or to the learned Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, or to other philosophers of their flight; but it is certainly not without a fair amount of interest, and, but for such little slips as that respecting the Parthenon, some useful knowledge, as well as no little pleasure, may be derived from a perusal of it by readers "unacquainted with philosophy, and lacking the time to read the works of great writers for themselves." Especially as the author seems to have gone for guidance to excellent, if not the very best, authorities, both English and German. Let it be added that there is an index, which greatly enhances the value, whether small or great, of such a work, being, from the nature of the case, a work of reference.

The seventh volume of The History of France: by M. Guizot; edited by Madame de Witt (Sampson Low and Co.), and translated by somebody whose name is not given, contains seven chapters, of which the first commences with an account of the position assumed, from the moment of his election, by the First Consul, and the last ends with a sketch of the miserable condition to which the French army was reduced at the conclusion of the Russian campaign, 1811-12. Early in the volume is described the ever-memorable battle of Trafalgar, and described, if not with the enthusiasm which the memory of it never fails to awaken in English breasts, at any rate with fairness and a respectful appreciation of our heroic Nelson. Before that date the First Consul had, of course, already become Emperor—a transformation which leads the historian to remark that, "by the force of his genius as much as by the splendour of his military glory, Napoleon had conquered France more completely than Italy or Egypt," a somewhat awkward piece of English, such as it is difficult to avoid in translation, the awkwardness being more easily perceived than specified. This volume also, of course, deals with the question of the famous, or infamous, divorce, concerning which the "Memoirs of Madame de Rémusat" not long ago revived discussion, and concerning which, perhaps, judgments will always be found in accordance with sentiment rather than with reason. In this volume, too, a move is made upon the board with a certain knight, Sir Arthur Wellesley, whose movements had so much to do with the ultimate checkmate in the game between Napoleon and the world whose rest he troubled. There is the usual profuseness of illustrations, and they are as remarkable as ever for an intermixture of the graphic and the melodramatic; there is even a little of the comic in the picture representing how Josephine fainted at the hint vouchsafed to her of the contemplated divorce. The figure of the gentleman holding the smelling-bottle to her nose certainly detracts from the impressiveness of the spectacle; it is one of those necessary acts and friendly attentions which, if not ludicrous in themselves, are so associated in one's mind with recollections of ludicrous scenes upon the stage and elsewhere, that to import them into a serious pictorial representation is to run a risk of appearing to strain after theatrical effect, if not of causing inopportune hilarity.

A very pleasant volume of mixed local descriptions, incidents of a rambling tour, and historical or legendary anecdotes, In the Ardennes, by Katharine S. Macquoid, is published by Messrs. Chatto and Windus. Mrs. Macquoid, in this book, as in her "Through Normandy" and "Through Brittany," has the advantage of her agreeable writing being assisted by the finely executed small engravings which her husband, Mr. T. R. Macquoid, has drawn from his own sketches made during their tour in a picturesque district, affording many good subjects for a skilful artist's pencil. The lady's pen is almost equally graphic; and the combination of their efforts has produced a highly effective representation of that interesting tract of woodland country, partly within the Kingdom of Belgium, partly in the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, extending sixty or seventy miles southward of Namur, on the Meuse, and of Liège and Spa, towards the famous battle-field of Sedan. It is quite true, as Mrs. Macquoid observes, that the region of the Ardennes is comparatively little known to English summer and autumn tourists, though it is more accessible, and not less attractive, than many parts of the Continent which yearly receive their swarm of holiday visitors. Her account of its charming scenery, the character and manners of its people, and its romantic traditions and associations, will certainly prove inviting to not a few human birds of passage in the next season; and we recommend those who hope for an excursion in August to read her book now, if they would make up their minds so long beforehand, and to look at it again when the time draws near. The neighbourhood of Dinant, which may be reached by river steam-boat from Namur, some thirty or forty miles from Brussels, will by itself afford much gratification to the tourist; and it is easy thence to pass up the Lesse, into the heart of the forest, which is found about La Roche, on the Hurlin, half-way between Liège and Luxemburg. Besides Mrs. Macquoid's description of the Ardennes, she gives, in a concluding chapter, some account of the ancient French city of Laon, in Champagne, which she visited on her way homeward.

It is a gratifying token of the social progress of South Australia, one of our most promising colonies at the Antipodes, that the Government Ministry of Education at Adelaide has published one of the best school text-books of political economy. We have received a copy of The Laws We Live Under, by C. H. Spence, a small treatise of less than 120 pages, which appears to us an almost perfect example of the method and style of instruction, and of sound judgment upon the principles and arguments to be applied to the science of the commonwealth. Many of the particular illustrations have been drawn from colonial experiences, probably familiar to the students of the Government College at Adelaide, or to their parents and friends. The laws and institutions of that province, and the statistics of its agricultural, mineral, and other industries and trades, are likewise described with some precision. But the general teaching is very good indeed.

A charming fairy tale, entitled "The Star of the Fairies," has been written in French and English by Mrs. W. C. Elphinstone Hope; both versions being simultaneously issued in Paris and London. The English edition is published by Sampson Low and Co. This handsome volume, profusely illustrated, affords excellent and most pleasant reading for the young, the moral not being so obtrusively manifest as to detract from the interest of the story. With much skill, and in a most natural manner, it is shown how Princess Blanche, who was somewhat imperious and selfish, becomes as gentle, considerate, and good as she is beautiful.

The Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-Book, this year being the eleventh of publication, is a comprehensive Masonic book of reference, containing particulars of every Grand Masonic Body in the world, and all kinds of out-of-the-way bits of information interesting and useful to Freemasons. The favour in which this useful compendium is held by members of the Universal Craft is shown by the second edition of this year's issue being nearly exhausted. It is published by Mr. George Kenning, of Fleet-street.

R. C. Seaton, M.A., and B. D. Turner, B.A., have been admitted as Fellows of Jesus College, Cambridge. Mr. Seaton was Twelfth Classic in the Tripos of 1876; Mr. Turner, Eighth Classic in that of 1880.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

Twelve months (including Christmas Number), £1 9s. 3d.
Six months, 14s. Christmas Half-Year, 15s. 3d.
Three months, 7s. Christmas Quarter, 8s. 3d.

Copies will be supplied direct from the Office to any part of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands, for any period, at the rate of 6½d. for each Number, paid in advance.

ABROAD.

The yearly subscription abroad is 36s. 4d. (on thin paper, 32s.), with the following exceptions:—

To Aden, Borneo, Ceylon, India, Java, Labuan, Mozambique, Penang, Philippine Islands, Sarawak, Singapore, and Zanzibar, 41s. (thin paper, 34s.)

To the Hawaiian Islands, Madagascar (except St. Mary), and Paraguay, 45s. (on thin paper, 36s. 4d.)

Subscribers are specially advised to order the thick paper edition, the appearance of the engravings in the thin paper copies being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication, irrespective of the departure of the mails.

Subscriptions must be paid in advance, direct to the Publishing Office, 198, Strand, in English money; by cheque crossed the Union Bank of London; or by Post-Office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to George C. Leighton, of 198, Strand, London.

ENTRANCE TO THE WINTER PALACE, ST. PETERSBURG.

THE LATE EMPEROR ALEXANDER II. RIDING IN A SLEDGE THROUGH ST. PETERSBURG.

(Continued from page 233.)

party should endanger the stability of his throne. This is but an imperfect and insufficient excuse for a war of aggression that cost half a million of human lives, and it deprives Alexander II. of the praise of heroism and magnanimity in the efforts and sacrifices that he made for the liberation of Bulgaria. The incidents of that sanguinary war, accompanied with a dreadful amount of suffering, are still fresh in our recollection; and we remember how the Government of Alexander II. was brought to submit the Preliminaries of San Stefano to a European Congress, and to consent to have them replaced by the Treaty of Berlin. The retrocession of Bessarabia, and the acquisition of Batoum, Kars, and a portion of Armenia, were not insignificant spoils; but that they were not deemed adequate compensation for the sacrifices caused by the war was to be seen in the widespread discontent which proclaimed itself in Russia on the return of peace.

The Nihilist conspiracy, which aims at the destruction not only of the Russian Empire, but of all existing political and social institutions, has of late years sought the life of Alexander II., probably for the mere purpose of striking terror into the ruling classes throughout Europe. Attempts to kill him were made, indeed, in April, 1866, at St. Petersburg, and in June, 1867, at Paris, by firing a pistol at his Majesty, the second time when he was with the Emperor Napoleon III., in a carriage in the Bois de Boulogne. In 1879 two other efforts were made to destroy the life of the Russian Emperor. At nine o'clock on the morning of April 14, as his Majesty was taking his customary walk in the neighbourhood of the Winter Palace, a respectably-dressed man, wearing a military cap, advanced towards the Emperor, drew a revolver from the pocket of an overcoat and fired a succession of shots. The police in attendance immediately seized the stranger, who fired another shot, slightly wounding a man in the crowd. This assassin stated that his name was Solokoff, and he was employed in a provincial branch of the Ministry of Finance. The visit of the Emperor to Moscow in December, 1879, was next made an occasion to attempt the destruction of his life. The train conveying the Emperor left the station at Simferopol at midnight, the time appointed for its departure. The baggage-train had been dispatched half-an-hour previously, but by some accident that in which the Czar travelled overtook the goods-train, and, passing it, left it some distance behind. When the baggage-train, in which there were about fifty persons, was drawing near the Moscow Station, a mine was exploded, the fuse having been timed with such accuracy that, but for the change in the order of the trains above mentioned, the Imperial carriage would have met the fate of the baggage-train. The Emperor the next morning appeared in St. George's Hall, Moscow, and, addressing a deputation of the municipal authorities, said:—"Anxious for the welfare of Russia, I place myself in the hands of Providence, but sedition must be extirpated. I appeal, therefore, to you and all right-minded people to aid in the eradication of this evil which has taken root in Russia. I address myself to parents, and urge them to conduct their children in the paths of truth and righteousness, in order that they may become not miscreants but useful men and good Russian citizens."

After these attempts to assassinate the Emperor the Russian Executive had recourse to exceptional means to counteract the plots of the Nihilists, who, in a manifesto scattered throughout St. Petersburg and Moscow, declared their determination to effect their purpose. In pursuance of this avowal, on Feb. 17, 1880, the next plot developed itself in a form which, if successful, would have involved the death, not only of the Czar, but also of several members of the Imperial family, including the Duchess of Edinburgh, who was attending the Empress, then lying dangerously ill. About seven o'clock on the evening of the day mentioned, as the Emperor was in the apartment of the Princess Dolgorouky, prior to attending an official dinner in the Winter Palace in honour of the Prince of Bulgaria, a terrible explosion took place, and it was found that the guard-room on the ground floor had been blown up. The dining-room, which was immediately above this guard-room, also suffered, a large rent three yards long by two broad having been made in the floor. At the moment of the explosion this apartment was unoccupied, and had not the Czar been a little behind his time, the whole of the Imperial family, including the Duchess of Edinburgh and guests, would have been seated at table, and the consequences would have been most disastrous.

In the summer of last year, upon the Emperor's return from Livadia, there was a report that preparations for an explosion similar to that which took place on the Moscow line had been discovered near Odessa. The particulars of this plot had been carefully concealed by the Russian authorities, who at first denied its existence. However, the Emperor arrived in safety in St. Petersburg, where he remained until the death of the Empress, which took place on June 3. He soon afterwards married a lady, Princess Dolgorouky, by whom he had already had several children, and an Imperial Decree was passed to legitimatise her offspring. But he had had seven children born of the Empress, the eldest of whom, the Czarevitch Nicholas, born Sept. 20, 1843, died at Nice in April, 1865; upon which the next in age, the Grand Duke Alexander, born March 10, 1865, became Czarevitch and heir apparent to the throne, and is now Emperor of Russia. The late Emperor's only daughter, the Grand Duchess Marie, was married to his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh on Jan. 23, 1874. The other children of the late Emperor and Empress are the Grand Dukes Vladimir and Alexis, both above thirty years of age, and the Grand Dukes Sergius and Paul, who are a few years younger.

Our Portrait of Alexander II., on the front page of this sheet, is reprinted from the Illustrated London News of May 16, 1874, the time of his Majesty's last visit to England, which was the occasion for many other Illustrations in this Journal. We also republish, from a more recent Number, the Sketch of the late Emperor in a sledge driving through the streets of his capital, which was taken on the spot by our Special Artist at St. Petersburg. The views of the Winter Palace, where Alexander II. died last Sunday afternoon, an hour or so after receiving the mortal injuries caused by the explosive bombshell on the road along the Catherine Canal, are likewise reproduced, with some alterations, from different Numbers of our publication. The same is to be remarked of a Sketch of Russian political prisoners in custody at a railway station on their way to exile in Siberia, which is an incident, unhappily, that has been of too frequent occurrence in the reign of every Russian Sovereign, but upon which it would be invidious to dwell more particularly in connection with the life of one rather distinguished from his predecessors by comparative mildness and clemency in the treatment of his Russian subjects. The details of last Sunday's murderous deed and its attendant circumstances are related in a separate article.

MURDER OF THE EMPEROR OF RUSSIA.

We deeply regret to announce the perpetration of a most atrocious crime, on Sunday last, at St. Petersburg, causing the death, in a frightful manner, of his Majesty the Emperor Alexander II., who had for some time past been assailed by a murderous conspiracy, attributed to the so-called Nihilist sect of Revolutionists, probably with a view to strike terror into the ruling classes not only of Russia, but all over the Continent. There can be little doubt that the detestable intrigues of this sect extend to Germany and Austria, if not to other European States, and aim at the complete subversion of existing social order, of all established political and governmental institutions, of every form of religion and moral restraint, and of public and private property. The Emperor of Russia was selected as their first victim, not at all upon account of the faults to be complained of in his own mode of government, which had been far milder, more equitable, and more liberal than that of any of his predecessors; but simply because the autocratic style of the Russian monarchy rendered him a conspicuous personal representative of ruling power, regarded in the abstract, and thereby obnoxious to fanatical anarchists of every nation. It may truly be said that, whatever be the case with regard to Poland, which suffered grievously in the cruel suppression of her last national struggle in 1862 and 1863, the Russian people, outside the most corrupt portion of the aristocratic and place-seeking classes, who were deprived by his reforms of their illicit gains and oppressive privileges, owed a large debt of gratitude to the late Emperor. The legislative and administrative reforms which he introduced, apparently from a sincere desire to benefit the great mass of the population, brought upon him the ill-will of those who should have been the constitutional supporters of his throne. The lower orders, chiefly the rural peasantry, were unable for lack of intelligence to supply the place of their social supporters, or to rally round the Imperial Government when it found itself in a state of perilous isolation. Alexander II. then sought the political assistance of the Russian Church, by whose influence he was led into a species of crusade for the liberation of the Orthodox Slavs in the Turkish dominions; and in this way he became further committed, as it is thought, to the scheme of reviving or creating a grand Slavonic national league, headed by Russia, which should dominate south-eastern Europe. The sanguinary war of 1877 and 1878 between Russia and Turkey was the deplorable result of this fatal policy. It seems to have failed in its purpose of conciliating the Emperor's domestic enemies; for their attempts upon his life, within the last two years, have shown an implacable malignity, finally bringing to pass, on Sunday afternoon, the horrible event we have now to relate.

At noon that day, it appears, the Emperor proceeded to the usual Sunday parade at the St. Michael Riding School, and after its conclusion, about a quarter past two o'clock, his Majesty drove along the Canal towards the Palace, intending to pay a visit to the Grand Duchess Catharine Michaelovna. He was seated in a closed carriage, with his brother, the Grand Duke Michael, and was followed by an officer of police, Colonel Dvorjetsky, in a sledge, and by an escort of six mounted Cossacks. As the carriage drew near the Kojushni Bridge, which crosses the Catherine Canal, an explosive bombshell was thrown at it by some person lurking behind the railing of the Michael Palace gardens. It fell not exactly beneath the carriage, but close behind it, and the explosion blew off the back part of the carriage, but did not reach the Emperor and the Grand Duke, who were inside. The Emperor alighted immediately. The officer of the guard rushed up to him, and forgetting the customary form of address, exclaimed, "Are you hurt, Sir?" "No, thank God, I am not," replied the Emperor; "but I must look after the injured." Several victims were lying on the ground, some of them being Cossacks belonging to the escort, and others mere passers-by. The Emperor walked up to a Cossack who had been badly wounded, and ordered him to be carried away. The man who had thrown the shell was arrested by Colonel Dvorjetsky, who had seized him by the arms. In one hand he had a revolver and in the other a dagger. He was quite a young man, of very pale complexion, with fair hair, a slight moustache, and wearing civilian's clothes. The Emperor looked at him for a moment, and then ordered him to be taken off. The Emperor himself was about to continue his way on foot, although the coachman told him that he could go on in the carriage. Meanwhile a dense crowd had assembled. Hardly had the Emperor proceeded a few paces ere another young man approached him and, raising a second bombshell in the air, flung it with all his force at the feet of the Emperor, who was in the very act of making the sign of the cross. An explosion followed, which threw all the bystanders off their legs. Two or three minutes elapsed between the first and second explosions. As soon as the smoke had cleared away the Emperor was seen lying on the ground, bathed in a pool of blood. Several other wounded persons were lying near him. The assassin himself fell to the ground, also mortally injured. He was immediately surrounded by a furious crowd, from whom the police had some difficulty in protecting him. The Emperor, who was quite unconscious, was lifted into the sledge belonging to the officer of police, which conveyed him to the palace. There he was taken into his private room, which served him at once as a study and bed-room. With the aid of two Court surgeons he was undressed. An examination disclosed the most frightful wounds. One leg was shattered right up to the top of the thigh, and the other was severed below the knee. The abdomen was also torn open, and the face was injured. The physicians summoned to the bedside of the Emperor were Surgeon Krouglevsky and Drs. Botkine, Golovine, and Dvoriachine. The last-named immediately fetched the necessary instruments for amputating the legs, which were held to the body by the flesh only, the bones being broken. Blood flowed copiously from the lacerated limbs, and india-rubber bandages were applied, first to the right leg below the knee and then to the left. The right hand, on which was a glove, covered with blood, was found to be greatly injured. The marriage ring was broken, and the pieces driven into the flesh. The next care of the surgeons was to tie up the veins in order to cause the blood to flow back to the heart, and at length, under the influence of sulphate of oxygen and ice, the Emperor recovered respiration and opened his eyes. The chaplain, Father Bajanov, availed himself of the interval of apparent consciousness to administer the sacrament, and for a moment some hopes were entertained for the Emperor's life; but, in a minute or two afterwards, the heart finally ceased to beat. In a few seconds after the Emperor had breathed his last, all the members of the Imperial family surrounded the bed of death, and the Archpriest recited the prayers for those in extremis, while all present knelt, at the bedside. It was a little after half-past three o'clock.

Crowds of people had in the meantime assembled around the Winter Palace, full of anxiety to know the state of the Emperor. Many believed that the reports of the extent of the wounds had been exaggerated. Suddenly, at a quarter to four, a deep feeling of sorrow went through the dense throng as the Imperial ensign was seen being lowered to the half-mast, the sign that the Emperor was dead. A general officer at the same time advanced towards the crowd and made known the sad event. All listened with uncovered heads to the announcement that the Emperor had passed away, and most made the sign of the cross in pious memory of the departed. The Council of State had assembled at the Anitchin Palace, the residence of the Czarevitch, who was at the Winter Palace. At five o'clock a detachment of the Guards took the oaths of allegiance to the new Emperor, Alexander III. The Czarevitch and Grand Duke Vladimir were still by the Czar's bedside, as well as the younger children. When all was over, the new Emperor drove back to his Palace down the Nevsky Prospect, amid the sympathising cries of the people, a squadron of Cossacks accompanying and following him. He was deadly pale. The Czarevna, as great a favourite in Russia as is her sister in England, was with him, and, although weeping bitterly, she bowed repeatedly in answer to the cries of the people.

The late Emperor's second wife, Princess Dolgorouky, whom he married only last year, morganatically, upon the death of the Empress, left St. Petersburg, with her children, at half-past five the same afternoon, two hours after his death. She travelled by the express-train to Vienna, on her way to Italy, accompanied by the children (who were the Emperor's, born some years ago, and have since been made legitimate) with very small attendance; she was dressed in deep mourning, and wore a black veil. Her connection with the Emperor had never been kept a secret, and she resided in the Winter Palace long before the death of the late Empress.

The bombshells used by the two assassins were made of thick glass, filled with nitro-glycerine. The young man who threw the second shell died in the hospital eight hours afterwards, refusing to give his name. The other man, who was taken unhurt and still lives, gave his name as Griasnoff; but it has already been ascertained that he is a student at the Institute of Mining Engineers, and that his real name is Russakoff. He is twenty-one years old, was born at Borowitch, in the Government of Novgorod, and has been two years a student. A special supplement of the Official Gazette was published on Tuesday, containing a statement of the Minister of the Interior to the following effect:—

"One of the chief organisers of the attack upon the Czar, a man who was arrested on March 11, has confessed his complicity in the planning of the deed, and has also denounced the man Russakoff, who threw the first bomb, and was taken in flagrante delicto, as the prime author. In the person of the individual who evidently launched the second bomb, and was himself mortally wounded, Russakoff, on being shown the corpse, recognised his accomplice. The house from which Russakoff and his companion obtained the bombs was discovered last night. As soon as the officers of the law appeared, the male occupant of the house shot himself, but a woman who was living with him was arrested. The police found there a number of grenades, and also a proclamation stating that the assassination had been accomplished by two persons. At eleven o'clock this morning a young man entered the house and was immediately arrested, but not until he had fired six shots with a revolver and wounded three policemen."

Many fresh arrests have been made, especially among the students of the School of Mines. There seems to be little doubt that a fresh attempt upon the Emperor's life was anticipated: General Loris Melikoff had had information from Switzerland that there was special danger to be apprehended, and had begged the Czar not to attend the parade; but the Emperor replied that he was the Chief of the Army, and insisted on fulfilling his duty. He always used to drive from the Riding School to the Winter Palace along the Nevsky Prospect; but, doubtless in consequence of the warning he had received from General Loris Melikoff, he took a different road on Sunday. His assassins appear to have been duly informed of this change.

Of the eighteen persons who were wounded by the explosion of the bombs two have since died. The six Cossacks forming part of the Imperial escort were all wounded, and one has since died. Three peasants, a marine subaltern, Colonel Dvorjetsky, one policeman, the orderly officer of the Emperor, a cavalry captain, and a soldier's wife were also wounded. The explosive shells of glass acted with peculiar effect both on the flesh and the clothes of the wounded, tearing them into little shreds, and Colonel Dvorjetsky has fifty or sixty slight lacerations. One of the doctors, who had been through both the Crimean and Turkish wars, stated that he had never seen such wounds before. A photograph was taken of the late Emperor after the body had been embalmed. The face of the deceased is only slightly injured but not disfigured; there is a bruise on the left eyelid and a dark red spot on the right cheek. On the left side of the face countless small glass splinters penetrated into the flesh, and some slight contusions are visible on the chin and on the forehead between the eyebrows. The surgeons performed a dissection, which proved all the internal organs to be in a normal state, thus refuting the unfavourable rumours lately current respecting the health of his late Majesty.

The mortal remains of the Emperor were removed at eight o'clock on Tuesday evening from the cabinet adjoining the reception-hall to the chapel of the palace in the presence of the Imperial family and all the Court dignitaries and officials. The body was clad in the uniform of the Preobajenski Regiment, agreeably to the wish of the deceased Monarch. A Requiem Mass was chanted at nine o'clock on Monday evening, and again on Tuesday. The body will lie in state in the chapel of the palace for a period of fifteen days, and every evening at nine o'clock prayers will be said there. The tolling of the bells of all the churches in the city denotes that the funeral ceremonies have commenced.

All the officers of the Guards, the Civil officials, and the Court dignitaries met in the Winter Palace on Monday, in order to take the oath of allegiance to the Emperor Alexander III. When all were assembled, at one o'clock, the Emperor Alexander Alexandrovitch, followed by his Consort, now the Empress, and the whole of the Imperial family, issued from the chamber where lie the remains of the late Czar. In passing through the St. George's Hall on his way to the Chapel the Emperor stopped before the Guard of Honour and said, in a voice half choked with emotion: "I should not like my son to ascend the Throne under such circumstances as the present." His Majesty addressed the following speech to the assembled crowd of nobles and officials:—"I know that my father fully appreciated your zeal, devotion, and fidelity. In his last words he recommended me to the service of Holy Russia. I feel that I may count upon your fidelity to myself, and when I am no more (here turning to his eldest son) also to my heir." This speech was received with immense applause, and immediately the whole Court moved towards the chapel, where the religious ceremonies were performed. On his return to the Anitchkin Palace, his Majesty was loudly cheered by the assembled crowds.

On Tuesday the oath of allegiance was taken by all the minor officials in the various departments and Ministries. Most of the troops took the oath on the same day, the ceremony being very simple and rapidly performed. Open Bibles were laid on temporary altars on the various parade-grounds, and, after the oath had been read aloud by the priests, the soldiers filed past the altar, and, making the sign of the cross, kissed the Bible on both pages.

An Imperial Ukase has been published. It reminds the peasants that they were emancipated from serfdom by the late Emperor, and endowed with the rights of free subjects. They are called upon, therefore, to take the oath of fealty to their new Sovereign.

The shocking news of the murder of the Emperor Alexander II., which reached Berlin and Vienna on Sunday afternoon, was received by the Emperor of Germany and the Emperor of Austria with great sorrow. It was known in London between four and five o'clock, and was immediately communicated to the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, at Clarence House. They started for St. Petersburg at eight o'clock the same evening, accompanied by the brother of her Imperial and Royal Highness, the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia. The Prince of Wales had just arrived in London from Paris, the same afternoon; but it is understood that his Royal Highness, as well as the Crown Prince of Germany, will be at the Emperor's funeral at St. Petersburg, to be celebrated in the week after next. Funeral services have been held at the Chapel of the Russian Embassy, in Welbeck-street, and in all the capitals of Europe.

THE NEW EMPEROR ALEXANDER III.

His Imperial Majesty Alexander Alexandrovitch (son of Alexander), who has hitherto been styled the Czarevitch and Hereditary Grand Duke of Russia, is thirty-six years of age, having been born, as above stated, the second son of the late Emperor and Empress, on March 10, 1845. Upon the death of his elder brother, the Grand Duke Nicholas, on April 24, 1865, Alexander became heir to the Imperial Crown; and he married Princess Dagmar of Denmark, sister to our Princess of Wales, on Nov. 9, 1866. His Imperial Highness is well known in England, having often been here, with the Grand Duchess, his wife (the Czarevna, as she was usually called), on repeated visits to the Prince and Princess of Wales. The Grand Duchess, who is now Empress, upon her marriage and adoption into the Russian Church, exchanged her name of Dagmar for that of Marie Feodorovna. Their Imperial Majesties have four children—Nicholas, the heir-apparent, born May 18, 1868; George, born May 10, 1871; Xenia, born April 18, 1875; and Michael, born Dec. 5, 1878.

Our Portrait of the new Emperor Alexander III. is republished from one of the Czarevitch, as he was then, which appeared in this Journal on Dec. 23, 1876, upon the occasion of his visit to England at that Christmas season.

In London last week 2831 births and 1590 deaths were registered. The deaths included 58 from smallpox, 26 from measles, 20 from scarlet fever, 9 from diphtheria, 27 from whooping-cough, 17 from enteric fever, 8 from diarrhœa, and 1 from dysentery. The mean temperature was 49·4 deg., being 8·7 above the average in the corresponding week of the twenty years ending 1868.

The Senatus of the University of St. Andrews having received a number of petitions on the subject of the University education of women from associations of ladies in Fife and Forfarshire, and also from the L. A.'s of the University, have approved generally the object of these petitions, and agreed to grant separate courses of systematic University instruction to women as soon as a sufficient sum of money is raised for the purpose.

A great increase in the number of emigrants leaving our shores is shown in the Board of Trade statistics for the past year, the total number of emigrants being 332,294, of whom 227,542 were of British and Irish origin. Compared with 1879, this shows an increase of 115,131 in the total emigration, and of 63,268 in the emigration of persons of British and Irish origin. As might have been expected, the United States, owing to the rapid revival of trade there, have attracted most of the emigrants.

THE SILENT MEMBER.

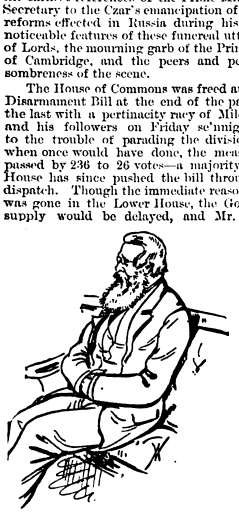
The appalling event which will make Sunday, the 13th of March, a black date in Russian history, was eloquently deplored in both Houses of Parliament on Tuesday by the Ministerial and Opposition leaders. United in their abhorrence of the diabolical act which cost Alexander II. his life, all parties sanctioned the Addresses to her Majesty expressing the hearty sympathy of Parliament with the present Emperor of Russia and family, and with the Duchess of Edinburgh, in their bereavement. The graceful and natural courtesy that renders Earl Granville a model Foreign Secretary admirably qualifies him to fulfil a ceremonial duty of this kind in the best possible manner. Besides, when Ambassador at St. Petersburg the noble Earl had many opportunities of becoming personally acquainted with the late Czar. Hence, perhaps, the sincerity of his tribute to the Emperor's memory — a tribute which bore a more harmonious proportion to the lamentable occurrence as it is regarded in England than did the grave and elaborate panegyric of Mr. Gladstone, or the brief and too rhetorical speech of Lord Beaconsfield, and the ungarnished if apt remarks of Sir Stafford Northcote. The cheers that greeted the earnest references of the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary to the Czar's emancipation of the serfs and the civil reforms effected in Russia during his reign were the most noticeable features of these funereal utterances. In the House of Lords, the mourning garb of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, and the peers and peeresses added to the sombreness of the scene.

The House of Commons was freed at length from the Irish Disarmament Bill at the end of the past week. Dividing to the last with a pertinacity racy of Milesian soil, Mr. Parnell and his followers on Friday se'nnight put hon. members to the trouble of parading the division lobbies three times when once would have done, the measure being eventually passed by 236 to 26 votes—a majority of 210. The Upper House has since pushed the bill through with characteristic dispatch. Though the immediate reason for Irish obstruction was gone in the Lower House, the Government still feared supply would be delayed, and Mr. Gladstone therefore gave notice that on Monday he would move that the business of securing supply should be deemed "urgent." But Sir Stafford Northcote (sketched as he gravely sits on the front Opposition bench in his novel rôle of guardian of the prescriptive rights of Parliament) could not tolerate this continuance of an evil custom. The Cross of Fire was sent round to Conservative members. There was a large meeting at the Carlton Club on Saturday. Monday morning's newspaper brought us, in addition to the deplorable tidings from Russia, a portentous epistle from Sir Stafford Northcote to his constituents protesting against Mr. Gladstone's proposal. Were we on the eve of another general election? This was the first idea the long letter of the Leader of the Opposition suggested. But on the Monday evening the Government were not quite defeated, though the desired point was not carried. A lively passage of arms between Mr. Gladstone and Sir Stafford Northcote was followed by a division on the motion of "urgency." There was a majority of 84—296 to 212—in favour of the Ministerial motion; but, as the prescribed "three to one" did not affirm the resolution, it was lost. In Committee on the Supplementary Estimates so much progress was forthwith made that the "urgency" motion of the Prime Minister was proved to have been unnecessary.



The courageous young leader of the "Fourth Party," Lord Randolph Churchill, is here limned as he lounges confidently on the front bench below the gangway on the Opposition side, ready to do battle against Mr. Bradlaugh and all his works. It was mainly to prevent the junior member for Northampton from taking his seat in the House that Lord Randolph Churchill, Sir H. Drummond-Wolff, Mr. Gorst, and Mr. A. J. Balfour first leagued themselves together as the infinitesimally small "Fourth Party." As if we had not had enough of the Bradlaugh episode last year, we are threatened with a revival of it from this minute group, which is as abnormally active and ready to spring as another mite is.

Mr. Gorst and Lord Randolph, for instance, sprang to their feet with habitual alacrity on Monday to stop Mr. Bradlaugh from presenting a petition. The hon. member (sketched in his seat on the third bench below the gangway, to the right of the Speaker) is in a peculiar position. On the one hand, the House resolved on July 1 last that any member claiming the right of making an affirmation of loyalty in lieu of taking the oath might do so, subject to his bearing the penalties imposed by law; and it is by virtue of this resolution that Mr. Bradlaugh has sat ever since. On the other hand, Mr. Justice Mathew, in delivering judgment in the case of "Clarke v. Bradlaugh," on the 11th inst., decided that Mr. Bradlaugh was not legally entitled to make the affirmation in question. Thereupon, Mr. Gorst and Lord Randolph Churchill on Monday argued that Mr. Bradlaugh had lost his seat. Not so, maintained the Attorney-General in a lucid speech: the hon. member had appealed, and until that appeal had been heard would have a right to his seat. Mr. Bradlaugh was then allowed to present his "thirty-three petitions, having 7000 signatures," in favour of his motion regarding perpetual pensions. To the relief of the House, there the Bradlaugh affair rested for the time being.

The Prime Minister was on Monday more explicit than he had previously been in his answers concerning the armistice with the Boers. Mr. Gladstone at length made it clear that Sir Evelyn Wood first received from Commandant Joubert, at the instigation of President Brand, the advances which led to the conclusion of the armistice. The Premier further explained that last Saturday the Government "made a communication to Sir Evelyn Wood which he was requested to send on to the leaders of the Boers," and that he was instructed to prolong the armistice till Friday, the 18th, in order to allow time for the receipt of the answer.

Thirteen millions! That was the estimate of the actual cost of the Afghan War placed before the House by Mr. Gladstone in Committee of Supply on Wednesday. And this does not include the cost of the frontier railways constructed especially for the purposes of the war. To help India to bear this great financial burden, Mr. Gladstone proposed that the aid given to India should be increased to £5,000,000 by converting the previous £2,000,000 loan into a grant, and by contributing the remaining £3,000,000 in the shape of yearly payments spread over a series of years. To begin with, the Premier appealed for the grant of £500,000 as an instalment, which was agreed to after a debate led by Mr. E. Stanhope; the question of the occupation of Candahar being held over for discussion.

A vote on account of £3,560,250 on account of the Civil Service Estimates was also sanctioned.

IN THE LOBBY.

A good deal of Human Nature is to be observed in the Lobby of the House of Commons. Little men—men of diminutive mental stature—who sink to their natural level in the House itself will instinctively inflate their chests, as who should say, "Behold in me a Member of the British House of Commons!" directly they emerge into the Lobby. The very opposite to this frog-like swelling characterises the demeanour of our recognised Parliamentary leaders, who, if they had the will, haven't the time to indulge in Turveydropsy. With the innate modesty of true English gentlemen do the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, for example, cross the Lobby; and before Mr. Disraeli was created Earl of Beaconsfield frequenters of the Lobby may not unlikely have been struck by the unobtrusiveness with which the Conservative chief glided past them, the quick, searching glance from his deep brown eyes being the only thing to relieve the sphinx-like reserve of his familiar face.

The moment when the shadow of a great crime darkens the civilised world is not, however, an opportune occasion on which to yield to the temptation of enlarging on the memories which a visit to the Lobby recalls. They are a few of the everyday incidents observable in and about the Lobby that are lightly touched upon by an Artist whose prowess we must drop into cursture may, perhaps, be excused. Artisan-delegates desirous of interviewing one or the other of the estimable working-class members are stopped, as sketched in the first group, by one of the efficient subordinates of Inspector Denning, and have to wait in the outer Lobby till Policeman X has ascertained, by calling through a tube, whether the hon. member is in the House. In the inner Lobby itself our Artist comes across characteristic parties of clergymen, agriculturists, and Irishmen, whom he has facetiously depicted interviewing members. Here, too, are to be recognised well-known officials of the House, to whom, through the long watches of the night, the Lobby may well seem haunted by ghosts of the great men who have made history in the House of Commons.

MUSIC.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

Last week's concert of this society—the second of the sixty-ninth season—took place too late to admit, until now, of more than a bare statement of the fact. The programme was of special interest, having included a performance of one of Berlioz's most important works—the symphony entitled "Roméo et Juliette," for the first time, entire, in London. Portions of the work had been heard here before, the latest occasion having been at the Crystal Palace in 1874. Its complete hearing last week confirmed the impression that Berlioz's larger works are more acceptable in an abbreviated shape than in their entirety. The striving after originality without a commensurate power of creative genius, and the tendency to reiteration and over-prolongation, render his most ambitious productions tiresome when given in their complete shape. The rare skill with which Berlioz wields the most complex and varied combinations of an exaggerated orchestra frequently throws a false glare and glitter on musical thought that is in itself of a mediocre kind. Hence in the "Romeo and Juliet" symphony the most effective portions are those which are specially for the orchestra—the scene "Romeo alone," the elaborate and highly picturesque "Love scene," and the Queen Mab "scherzo." The vocal music, solo and choral, fell very flatly in last week's performance, notwithstanding its efficient rendering—the contralto solos by Madame Patey, those for tenor (Mercutio) by Mr. Boyle (who was encored in the "scherzetto" in the first part of the symphony); and those for baritone by Mr. F. King, who sang the lugubrious and uninteresting music of Friar Lawrence with much impressiveness.

The choruses were well rendered by 150 members of the South London Choral Association, directed by Mr. L. C. Venables; and the elaborate and very difficult orchestral details were finely realised by an augmented band of about one hundred performers. The general execution of the work was highly creditable to the society, and to the conductor, Mr. G. W. Cusins, who received, as he deserved, a special tribute of applause at the close of the symphony.

The concert opened with Beethoven's overture to "Coriolan," and closed with Weber's to "Der Freischütz," having also included Schumann's pianoforte concerto in A minor, finely played by Mr. Eugene D'Albert; and the trio, "Gratias Agimus," from Rossini's "Messe Solennelle," sung by Madame Patey, Mr. Boyle, and Mr. F. King.

At the next concert, on March 24, Spohr's grand symphony "Die Weihe der Töne" is to be performed; Herr Joachim is to play Beethoven's Violin Concerto, and Mr. Sims Reeves is to contribute vocal solos. At the fourth concert, on April 7, Berlioz's symphony is to be repeated.

M. CHARLES LAMOUREUX'S CONCERTS.

We have already drawn attention to the two concerts, at St. James's Hall, announced by the late conductor of the Paris Grand Opera. The first took place on Tuesday evening, when a symphony (in F) by M. Gouvy was performed, for the first time in England. It is pleasing and melodious in style, and contains some effective orchestral writing, and contrasted agreeably with some of the novelties which followed it, and in which pretensions are made towards a grandeur and profundity that are not attained. The extracts from M. Massenet's music to "Les Erinnyes" contain some characteristic music, these and the symphony having been the most interesting features in the concert, which included M. Godard's "Aurore," for contralto solo (with orchestra), finely sung by Madame Patey; a "Rêverie" for orchestra by M. Saint-Saëns, in which Mr. Doyle's skilful execution of the viola obbligato was a specialty; and M. Reyer's romance from "La Statue," somewhat in Wagner's style. This last piece was effectively sung by Madame Brunet-Lafleur (from Paris), who made a successful first appearance here, having, in the early part of the concert, secured the approbation of the audience by her good declamation in the air, "Divinités du Styx," from Gluck's "Alceste." In Berlioz's duo, for Ursule and Héro (from his "Beatrice et Benedict"), the ladies already named were associated.

The concert opened with Berlioz's overture "Le Carnaval Romain," and closed with the Hungarian march from Berlioz's "Faust" music, having also included M. Sainton's skilful execution of M. Lalo's violin concerto entitled "Symphonie Espagnole." M. Lamoureux conducted, with special ability.

The second concert takes place next Tuesday, and will be for the benefit of the French Hospital (Leicester-place).

A concert was given at Kensington House, on Tuesday afternoon, in aid of the fund for adding twelve inmates' rooms to the Royal Cambridge Asylum for Soldiers' Widows. Judging from the large and fashionable attendance, the result seems likely to prove favourable. The programme, vocal and instrumental, was a varied one, and was contributed to by several eminent professional artists, and some distinguished amateurs. Mr. Alberto Visetti conducted.

We have previously referred to the "Henry Smart Memorial Concert," which took place on Monday evening at the Royal Academy of Music—the object being, as already explained, to aid in the establishment of a musical scholarship bearing his name. Monday's programme consisted of music by the deceased composer, and comprised vocal pieces of various kinds, several organ solos, and one for the pianoforte. The vocalists were Misses M. Mackenzie, F. Norman, Jones, Orridge, and Thudicum; Mr. Cummings, Mr. Hilton, Mr. S. Smith, and others; the performers on the organ having been Dr. E. Chipp, Dr. F. E. Gladstone, Dr. Verrinder, Mr. Hoyte, Mr. Rose, and Mr. Turpin.

Last Saturday's Crystal Palace Concert continued the regular performance of Schubert's eight symphonies, No. 6, in C, having been given. Of this charming work we have already spoken, in reference to its first performance at one of these concerts. Again, on Saturday, its genial beauty and bright melody were heard with general delight. A strong contrast to this exquisite production of real genius was offered by a "Symphonic Poem," entitled "Eleonora," the work of a very youthful Italian named Bandini, who has sought to illustrate Bürger's celebrated poem by some orchestral extravagances, in which the erratic style of Liszt is cleverly imitated. Herr Barth played with great effect Beethoven's pianoforte concerto in G, and unaccompanied solos by Henselt, Scarlatti, and Chopin. Madame Patey and Mr. F. Boyle contributed vocal pieces, and the concert closed with the "Dance of Sylphs" and the Hungarian March from Liszt's "Faust" music.

Last week's London Ballad Concert included successful performances of three new songs: Mr. W. H. Cummings's "The Love of Long Ago," sung by Mr. E. Lloyd; Mr. F. H. Cowen's "All in All," by Mr. Maas (both encored); and Mr. Diehl's "St. Mildred's Well," by Signor Foli (with refrain for male choristers); these artistes, Misses M. Davies and C. Samuell, Mesdames Patey and A. Sterling, and Mr. Maybrick having contributed other effective performances. This week's concert will be the last but two of the season.

Madame Schumann was again the pianist at the Popular Concert of last Saturday afternoon, and at that of Monday evening; having, on the former occasion, played Robert Schumann's "Faschings-schwank aus Wien;" and in the latter Beethoven's Sonata in A, op. 101. Each of her performances was of high excellence. Mr. F. King rendered the vocal music with much effect; Miss Santley having sung with much success on Monday. Herr Joachim was the leading violinist at both concerts.

The Finsbury Choral Association gave its first concert at the Holborn Townhall on Thursday week, when a varied and interesting programme, of solo and concerted music, was effectively rendered.

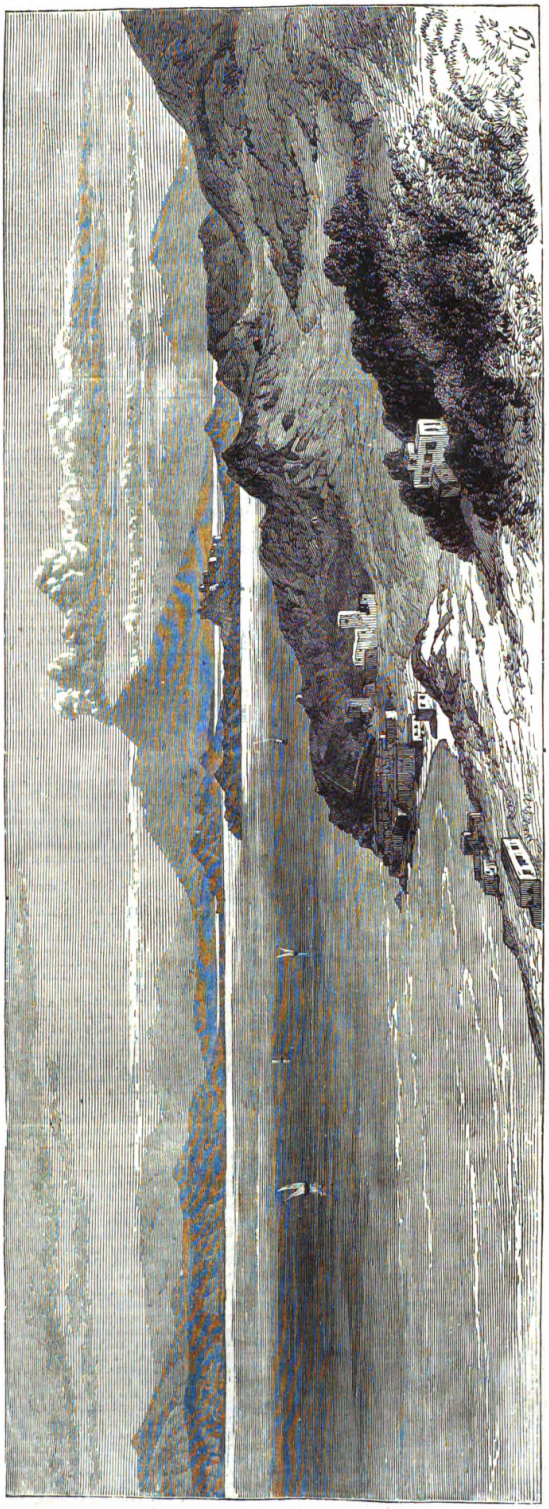
The programme of the Highbury Philharmonic Society's second concert of the season (on Monday evening) was of high interest, having comprised Schubert's mass in F, Mendelssohn's operetta "Son and Stranger," and Beethoven's choral fantasia, with the co-operation of a band and chorus numbering 200 performers—Dr. Bridge being the conductor.

Mr. Carrodus repeated yesterday (Friday) week his remarkable violin performances as given at St. James's Hall in January, with the same marked success as before.

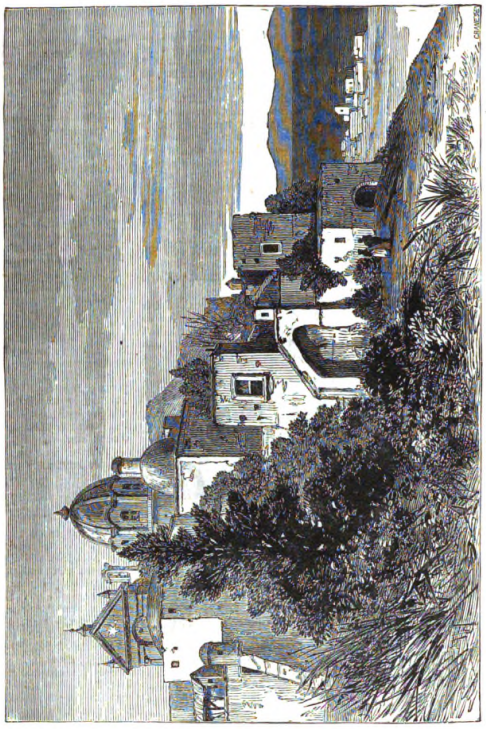
A concert was given by the Lombard Bicycle Club on Tuesday evening at the Hampstead Vestry-Hall.

The concert of the Sacred Harmonic Society, postponed from Jan. 21, will be given at St. James's Hall on Friday next, March 25. Handel's Coronation Anthem, "The King shall rejoice," Cherubini's "Requiem," and Mendelssohn's "Athalie" will constitute the programme. Miss Catherine Penna, Miss Jessie Jones, and Miss Orridge will be the vocalists; Mr. Charles Fry will recite the illustrative verses; and the performance will be conducted by Sir Michael Costa.

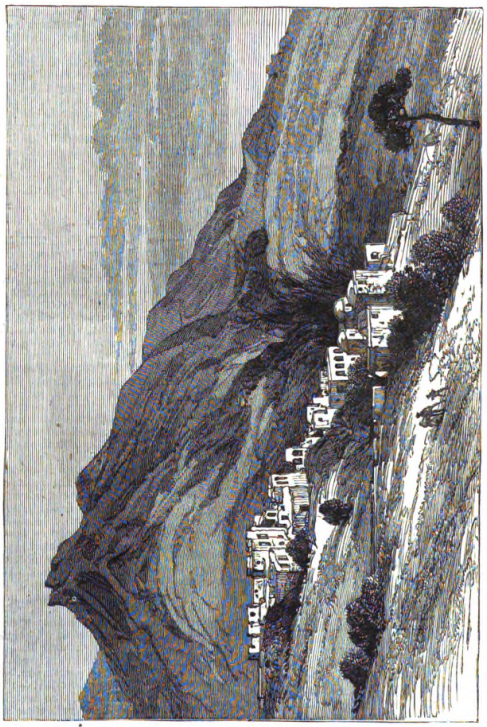
A series of Ballad Concerts for the People is announced to be given at the Royal Victoria Coffee Music-Hall, Waterloo-road, by eminent composers and musicians, assisted by a brilliant staff of the most popular vocalists and accomplished instrumentalists. The first, on Thursday, was given and directed by Wilhelm Ganz, who was assisted by Madame Liebhart, Miss De Fonblanque, Miss Marie Belval, Mr. Trelawny Cobham, Mr. Isidore de Lara, Mr. John Radcliff (flute), and Mr. Charles Oberthür (harp). The directors for the other concerts are Sir Julius Benedict, Madame Sainton-Dolby, Mr. John Hullah, Mr. Cusins, and Mr. Randegger. The low prices hitherto charged at this hall will be adhered to; and it is thus hoped that the masses in London may in time learn to appreciate and enjoy good music.



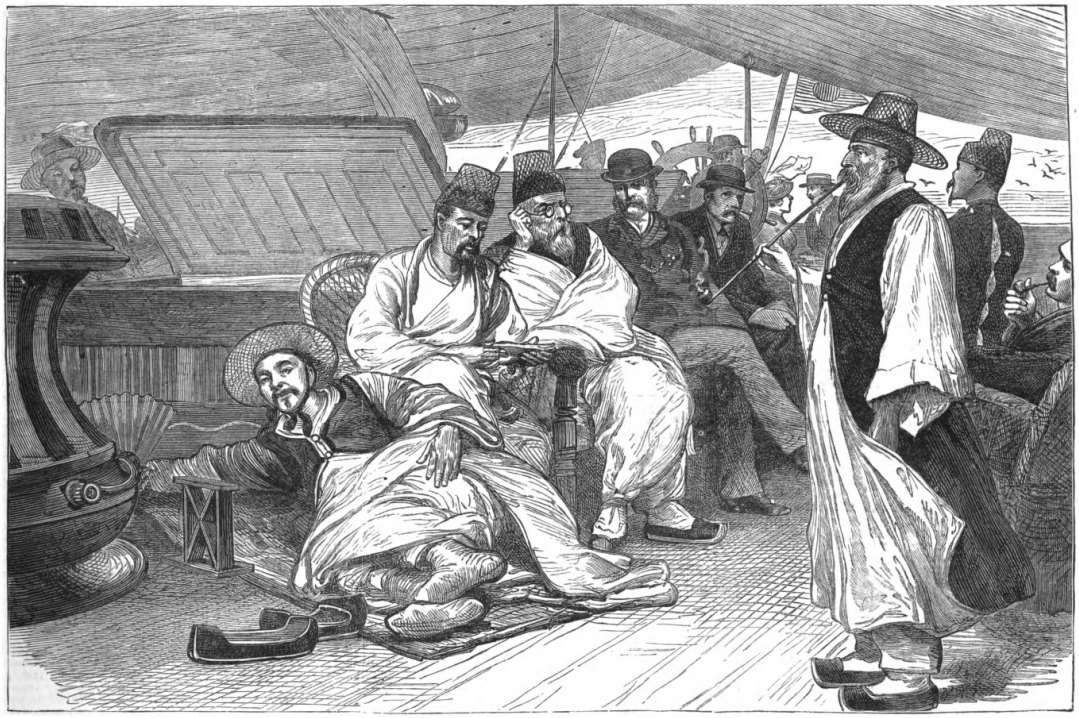
THE EARTHQUAKE IN THE ISLAND OF ISCHIA: VIEW FROM THE GARDEN OF THE GRAN SENTINELLA.



LACCO, ISCHIA.—SEE PAGE 278.



CASAMICCIOLA, ISCHIA.



THE COREAN AMBASSADORS RETURNING ON BOARD THE JAPANESE STEAMER SAKASAGO MASU.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

PART OF CASAMICCIOLA, ISLE OF ISCHIA, AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE EARTHQUAKE IN ISCHIA.

Some account was given last week of the destructive earthquake and loss of life on Friday, the 4th inst., at Casamicciola, in the Isle of Ischia, Bay of Naples. Two views of that place appeared on the front page of our Journal; but we have since received from a Naples correspondent, R. Michely, several other sketches, with photographs, representing the actual effects of this great disaster. We gave a brief description of the island, with its small towns and villages, and Mount Epomeo, an extinct volcano, rising in the centre. Casamicciola, famed for its medicinal springs, is a favourite watering-place for invalids from Naples, being twenty miles distant from that city and seven or eight miles from the nearest point of the mainland. One of the views of Casamicciola now presented was taken from the garden of the hotel called La Gran Sentinella, and shows the scene of destruction in the upper part of the town. Many houses and walls, thrown down by the first shock, which continued only a few seconds, have covered this part with heaps of ruins, from which the dead bodies of the inhabitants were gradually dug out, some of them in a sadly mutilated condition. The latest accounts from Casamicciola correct the previous statistics as follows: — Killed — Twenty-three men, forty-one women, twenty-nine boys, twenty-four girls. Four hundred and forty-nine houses, containing 1479 rooms, destroyed. Two hundred persons were rendered houseless. The theatre and great furnaces for brickmaking have now been turned into habitations, 200 sheds being constructed for the destitute families, but some were removed to Naples. At the adjacent village of Lacco Ameno thirteen houses were thrown down, five persons were killed, and two were much injured. The Italian Minister of the Interior has sent 8000f. in aid of the sufferers, the Minister of Grace and Justice 3000f., and the Neapolitan Press 1200f. On the Chamber of Deputies resuming its sittings next day a subscription-list on behalf of the sufferers at Casamicciola was opened; and other subscription-lists have been opened at Rome and Naples, and earnest calls upon the charity of the public are being made.

THE COREAN AMBASSADORS TO JAPAN.

One of our travelling Special Artists, Mr. Joseph Bell, has proceeded to Eastern Asia, with a design to find his way, if possible, through the interior of North China and across Chinese Tartary, or Mongolia, to the Russian dominions in the region of Turkestan. If he succeed in this difficult enterprise, we may hope for a large supply of illustrations of those extensive countries and their diverse populations, which are comparatively little known to the public of Western Europe, and which have certainly never yet been visited by the Artists of Journals like our own. In the mean time, he has run over to Japan, and there got an opportunity of making a trip to the neighbouring kingdom of Corea, which is a peninsula of the North Asiatic mainland, beyond the Yellow Sea, divided from the southern part of the Japanese islands by a strait about two hundred miles wide. The ancient wars between Japan and Corea, in which China often took an active part, make up a large amount of history, to us rather obscure and unimportant, from six to three centuries ago. We lately read, in Sir E. Reed's new book on Japan, of a certain half-mythical heroine, the Empress Jingo or Jingu, who is said to have displayed, in the military conquest of Corea, a degree of martial prowess exceeding most heroes of the masculine sex. This Amazonian Lady of Battle, as we are told, is worshipped in Japan as the national Goddess of War; and it is perhaps from her name that the popular English idolatry of the same principle has derived the invocation, "By Jingo!" which was heard in our music-hall songs, three or four years since, to the great mystification of all quiet and simple folk. But, however that may be, there has recently been an international dispute between the ruler of Corea, whom Europeans call the King of that country, and the Mikado or Emperor of Japan. War seems to have been apprehended for some time, but negotiations were opened through certain Corean Ambassadors sent to Japan, and we hope they will have secured a pacific result. The Ambassadors were sent home, with all due honours, on board a Japanese steamer called the Sukasago Masu; and our Special Artist, having obtained permission to share the voyage, is enabled to furnish a Sketch of the scene on deck, with their Corean Excellencies patiently enduring the tedious passage across that narrow sea.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

A very pleasant meeting was held at Derby on Monday and Tuesday last, though, beyond the two chief races, the events were mainly of local interest, and there was little in the running that calls for special notice. Old Quits, who ran well at Croydon, had an easy task, with all the best of the weights in the Meynell Plate, as Americanus, his most formidable opponent, bolted early in the race. A capital field of ten ran for the Devonshire Handicap Hurdle-Race, in which the chances of several of the candidates appeared to be so evenly balanced that it was impossible to find a favourite. At the last hurdles Northfleet (12st. 6lb.) seemed to have the race in hand, but he just lacked sufficient speed to finish with, and had to put up with his old place of second, being cleverly beaten by Tamar (11st. 2lb.) in the last hundred yards. On Tuesday, the Derby Handicap Steeplechase looked a good thing for Highland Mary (12st. 5lb.), but she slipped up in jumping into the racecourse for the last time, and Cynthia (11st. 11lb.), who has proved a very useful mare to Lord Marcus Beresford of late, scored an easy victory.

The present glorious weather has contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the numerous coursing-men who assembled at Plumpton last week, and, hares being very numerous and wonderfully strong, a most successful meeting took place. The Great Southern Cup fell to Clyto, by Caleb Garth—Clytie, and his owner has thus been compensated for the defeat of the dog in the Waterloo Cup, where he was put out by Bishop in a somewhat unlucky trial. On this occasion it must be admitted that he was a thorough "favourite of fortune," as Prenez Garde and Star both led him, and, all things equal, the latter would probably have beaten him, and won the rich stake. There are still a great number of hares at Plumpton, more, indeed, than it is considered advisable to keep on the ground, and another meeting will be held shortly.

Sir H. Selwin-Ibbetson has consented to continue to act as master of the Essex Hunt for the ensuing year, £2000 being guaranteed for the twelve months. Sir Henry has received a vote of thanks for his past services.

A football-match, under Association rules, took place between England and Scotland, at Kennington Oval, on Saturday last. An enormous number of spectators assembled to witness the play, which was, unfortunately, of a rather one-sided description. There were, unquestionably, some good men in the English team, but they did not play at all well together, and, after a fast game, were beaten by six goals to one.

The exhibition of glass-ball shooting between Dr. Carver and Mr. Scott, which is in course of progress at the Aquarium, has proved very popular, though both men are so deadly in their aim that the affair threatens to become a little monotonous. Still, they keep wonderfully close together, and the prospect of an exciting finish is sure to attract a large attendance of the public. The strain of firing a thousand shots per night must, however, be very great, and, if one may judge by Dr. Carver's performance in the first round of the championship pigeon-shooting, neither he nor his rival has much chance of winning the cup. We shall give an account of this important affair in our next.

The single billiard-match between Oxford and Cambridge was played on Monday evening between Mr. Douglas Lane, unattached student, on behalf of the Dark Blues, and Mr. A. F. J. Ford, King's College, Cambridge, 500 up. The Dark Blue champion gradually went ahead, winning by 150 points in 1h. 42 min.

The double-handed Inter-University match took place at Mr. Beechey's rooms on Tuesday evening, between Mr. Douglas Lane, unattached student, winner of the single match on Monday night, and Mr. H. G. Hutchinson, of Corpus College, for Oxford; and Mr. A. J. Ford, King's College, and Mr. J. T. M'Ewen, for Cambridge, 500 up. The Dark Blues gained another victory by 10 more than on Monday. Score—Oxford, 500; Cambridge, 340. Hutchinson made the largest break—42.

The match for the championship at billiards, between Joseph Bennett and Frederick Shorter, which was to have been played at St. James's Hall on Monday evening next, has been postponed for a week. The latter has recently been carrying all before him, and is evidently in grand form, but can scarcely hope to beat the champion on a small-pocket table.

NOVELS.

The clever and popular author of some of our pleasantest stories of English and Scottish domestic life has produced a tale of powerful romantic interest, which is not altogether pleasant. Its name, indeed, is borrowed from that of the pleasantest thing in nature. Sunrise: a Story of These Times, by William Black (Sampson Low and Co.), is a highly attractive title; and from him we should expect, or would rather desire to accept, such charming passages of delicate humour, pictures of arch but modest girlhood and lively womanhood, and sketches of homely provincial scenes and rural manners, as those which have delighted us in his earlier writings. But Mr. Black has preferred, in this instance, to essay his strong faculty of dramatic imagination in a very different element. The plot of "Sunrise" is dark and gloomy as midnight, and has the effect of a continued evil dream, or perhaps a nightmare, till, near the end of the third volume, there is a sudden lifting of the phantasmal shadow of imminent doom. And now, indeed, the description of an actual bright day-dawn, viewed from a window above the Thames Embankment, justifies the title of the book. All is well that ends well; and since no person of much importance is to be put to death, and the lovers are to accomplish a happy marriage in America, the sympathising reader's heart will remain unbroken. But its sensibility will have been put to a very severe strain. It is only fair that we should give warning of the sombre, alien, hostile, and menacing aspect of what must be called, in a double sense, "the plot," in this masterly work of fiction. A conspiracy to murder, in Italy, which has been set on foot among the leading members of a Continental Secret Society, having a London branch, and an English gentleman enrolled in its service, forms the chief motif of the story. That such transactions have really been found possible, at least up to a certain point of their execution, within the years of our own remembrance, cannot be denied. But we trust that neither Lord Beaconsfield's "Lothair" nor Mr. Black's "Sunrise" will be quoted in future ages to prove the enormous hold of those nefarious agencies over many of our contemporaries in a respectable social position. We should be sorry to have it seriously believed hereafter, that a British peer of the realm, Lord Evelyn, his friend Mr. George Brand, a gentleman of good family and large estate, and Mr. Gathorne Edwards, a learned scholar with an official appointment at the British Museum, together with one of the Professors of Owens College, Manchester, several English and Irish members of Parliament, O'Halloran, the gallery reporter, Humphreys and Molyneux, typical Lancashire or Yorkshire working-class politicians, could have united with the gang of foreign desperadoes in Soho. It is certain, in our judgment, that no political programme would be capable of binding such men together, with an oath or promise of implicit obedience to whatever might be the commands of a mysterious ruling Council at Venice or Naples, or anywhere else. But the violation of probability here is not so flagrant as it is in some of Lord Beaconsfield's and Lord Lytton's novels. And Mr. Black's management of the details is far less amenable to just exception than the treatment of similar themes by those distinguished authors. His portraiture of Ferdinand Lind, the head conspirator in London, is one of the most original, effective, and life-like that can be met with in recent fiction. Again, the two foreign assistants, Beratinsky and Reitzei, are distinct types of the varieties to be found in their class. The Neapolitan, Calabressa, and one or two of the others engaged in the permanent cosmopolitan Vigilance Committee, for the punishment of tyrants and traitors to the cause of humanity, are made to play their part deftly enough, with the usual machinery of false names, disguises, passwords, tokens of recognition, odd hiding-places, and privy ways of entrance. All this sort of thing comes in tolerably well after shifting the scene to Italy; but the final apparition of the dread Council in a benignant paternal mood, rather like a Conseil de famille, relaxes our apprehensions somewhat too quickly. The finest figure in the story, and beyond comparison the most engaging, is that of Lind's daughter Natalie, who is a true heroine, a noble example of womanly courage, and of constancy in dutiful affection both as daughter and as betrothed lover. There is a pathetic interest, too, in the situation of her mother, long estranged and separated from the husband, and unable to hold intercourse with this brave and true-hearted girl. The story is worth reading, and whoever begins it will be compelled to read it through. The atrocious machinations of the Secret Societies are now more forcibly than ever impressed upon the public mind by the murder of the Emperor Alexander II.

Exquisite description, as perfect as any that the pen of ingenious man ever set down upon paper, and a very pleasant, dry, sly, peculiarly quaint humour make the three volumes of The Trumpet-Major, by Thomas Hardy (Smith, Elder, and Co.), extremely agreeable reading. Never did written words convey more picturesquely and more plainly to the senses both the aggregate and the particulars of an interesting scene than they do in the opening pages of the story; one can see and hear the mother and daughter, the troopers measuring out the ground for the camp, the martial array with its accompaniments of clashing and flashing and the neighing of horses, and, above all, the dazed, aged, garrulous, and, at the same time, oblivious ex-soldier, Simon Burden. He, indeed, is inimitable; and so is the corporal, who, having had his skull "mortised," so that he always wears his hat for fear of frightening people into fits at the ghastly appearance of his head, and having had his arm "knocked to a pummy" at the same time as his skull, so that he can twist the limb about and rattle the bones, without any discomfort to himself, as if they were a "bag of ninepins," is anxious to entertain a young lady, the heroine of the story, with an exhibition and close inspection of the sights, as well as with a rehearsal of the sounds, which it is his horrid privilege to procure at will, for all who care to look and listen, from various parts of his "wownded" body; and the heroine herself is as dainty, tempting, and at the same time wholesome, a piece of human flesh and blood as ever was painted in black and white; true to life, it is to be both hoped and feared, for her charms and her constancy are of the good old sort, whilst her fickleness, and her "kittleness," and her preference for the gay young scamp above the sober, steady, unchangeable, unselfish, heroic adorer, are equally characteristic, it is said, of average womankind. There may be an appearance of paradox in asserting that the same young woman is both constant and fickle; but the paradox is only apparent: her affections never voluntarily cease to set in one and the same direction, and, as with the needle of the compass, they only turn towards other points under the influence of temporary external disturbance. More than once, nevertheless, at a moment of such disturbance, she is within an ace of drifting into an inextricable position. But that honest, stupid "trumpet-major" is so slow. On the whole, as most readers will opine, she was not good enough for him; and it is almost a relief when he takes his brief, pathetic farewell of her and goes off, with a heart as nearly broken as so stout a heart can be, to have his trumpet "silenced for ever upon one of the bloody battle-fields of Spain." And here it must be remarked that the author scarcely treats his noble trumpet-major with sufficient, or sufficiently serious, respect; there is an unseasonable levity in the author's own tone as he describes the indifference with which Anne parted from her high-minded lover. Perhaps we are to take it that the trumpet-major was, after all, the sort of lover which he himself more than hints that most soldiers are, with an easy-going, practical view of love affairs; but his whole course of conduct forbids us to do so. As for Anne, everybody must like her; but the liking will be qualified by a slight intermixture of contempt; and the weak point in her character, showing, however, with what reality her woman's nature is portrayed, is hit off most delicately and yet most emphatically, when she astonishes the uncompromising trumpet-major by the coolness with which she unhesitatingly breaks, and the indignant manner in which she defends herself for breaking, a promise which she had evidently made with no intention of keeping it. No doubt nine persons out of ten would agree with her that one is not bound "to keep such a promise to drunken men;" but an exceptional heroine, with such a knight as the trumpet-major, to protect her, would have scorned, perhaps, to make the promise. Anne, therefore, is charming and very natural, but not a personage of high moral attributes. In fact, nearly all the characters are charming in their own way—the miller and all the rest of them—especially the bashful military visitors at the miller's hospitable abode. The miser is amusing, and so, in a lesser degree, is his swaggering nephew in the yeomanry cavalry, who seems, by-the-way, to be a sort of burlesque copy of Victor Hugo's well-known captain in "Notre Dame." The uncle and nephew, however, with their sayings and doings, their jack-in-the-box-like comings and goings, suggest pantomime and farce rather than actual life, whether "in the days of high-waisted and muslin-gowned women" or in the days of tied-back garments and silver-tipped heels, or in any days since the days of Noe.

Difficulty is often, not to say generally, experienced in tracing connection between the title and the contents of a novel; and that difficulty, notwithstanding the author's assistance in clearing it up, will almost certainly be encountered by the readers of The Head of Medusa, by George Fleming (Macmillan and Co.), a story which, in each of the three volumes, exhibits unmistakable signs of cleverness, originality, ability to conceive and represent dramatic situations, and a yearning to express for the benefit of others certain more or less vaguely apprehended ideas and theories. What these ideas and theories may be, a wise man would decline to predicate. The volumes, regarded as the repository of a tale, contain a biographical fragment, fictitious, apparently, of a so-called Barbara Floyd, of American nationality, who, living in Rome with her father, an expatriated Southern planter, whose wife is reported to have run away from him when Barbara was a baby, becomes acquainted with a certain Count Cesco Lalli, a handsome Lanuan, an officer in the Papal Zouaves; and he partly bullies, partly wheedles, partly deceives her, by unworthy manœuvres, into marrying him. His behaviour, from the first, is so excessively offensive, according to ordinary ideas of the conduct and language which a gentleman should adopt, even in Rome, towards a young lady to whom he has just been introduced, that suspicions are at once excited as to the sort of bargain she will have when she accepts him for her husband. The suspicions, of course, turn out to be well-founded; he is as bad a bargain as ever the Queen had in a shilling'sworth of recruit. She finds that she has married a creature, the state of whose moral and mental constitution may be imagined from the fact that, rather more than a year after their marriage, he "offered to show her an old packet of love-letters—the relics of one of his dead-and-gone passions." He, before long, began to neglect her, and, to tell the truth, spent less of his time with her than with a beautiful cousin of his, a cousin whom he was to have married, and who, when he omitted that expected attention, married a worthy gentleman much her, and his, senior. After this, it can hardly be necessary to state expressly that poor Barbara, Contessa Lalli, had a great deal to put up with and a great deal more to anticipate; but, perhaps, even she never anticipated that the time would come when she herself would be accused by her faithless husband of having a lover. But it did; and to understand what the consequence of the accusation was is not easy without more information than is vouchsafed in the novel. It would appear, nevertheless, that the Conte and Contessa Lalli continue to live some sort of life together; that the Contessa takes charge of the Conte Lalli's fair cousin's child, and devotes herself chiefly to works of charity. The novel is very lively and well written in parts, touching now and then, and fairly interesting; spasmodic, however, and, as regards the object at which the author aims, intangible. Perhaps nothing more is meant than a warning against marriages between fair Americans and handsome Italians, together with sketches of the mode in which American travellers, or sojourners, or both, conduct themselves towards one another and towards the natives in Rome. The warning may be useful; and the sketches are certainly entertaining, distinguished, too, by an easy touch which seems to tell of personal experience.

NEW MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

"Old English Ditties." Vol. Two (Chappell and Co.). This is a further instalment of a selection from Mr. W. Chappell's valuable and comprehensive work, "Popular Music of the Olden Time," placing within easy reach, at comparatively small cost, most of the essential features of the larger edition. The long ballads have been compressed, and, occasionally, new words written by Madame Macfarren and the late Mr. John Oxenford, the symphonies and accompaniments being supplied by Professor G. A. Macfarren. The quaint beauty and distinctly national character of the tunes have an intrinsic musical as well as an antiquarian interest.

"The Pirates of Penzance" (Chappell and Co.). This combined work of Mr. Arthur Sullivan and Mr. W. S. Gilbert—the popularity of which is almost without precedent—has been issued by the eminent Bond-street firm in a cheap and handy form; both the vocal score with pianoforte accompaniment, and arranged for the pianoforte solo. It can scarcely fail, in these shapes, to meet with a large demand.

"The Captain's Song," by J. L. Hatton (Metzler and Co.), is a vigorous and effective setting of suggestive words by the late Colonel Meadows Taylor. The melody is bold and striking, and the accompaniment is characteristic. It is worthy of Mr. Hatton's reputation as a song composer.

"The First Choice," song by Henry Smart (also published by Messrs. Metzler), is graceful both in the vocal part and in the accompaniment, and has that distinctive touch of the highly cultivated artistic musician which characterises all the numerous productions of the late Mr. Smart.

"Lohengrin," Musically and Pictorially Illustrated (David Bogue), forms the first of an intended series in which the text is given in English, with large portions of the music; and many wood engravings of scenes and situations in the opera—there being thirteen of these in the edition of "Lohengrin." The translation and an elaborate descriptive preface are very ably written by Mr. J. P. Jackson; the arrangement of the music being by Frances M. Jackson. The notion is an extremely good one, and the low price of the publication should ensure success for a lengthened series, which will form a valuable collection. In view of the promised performance in London of Wagner's great Trilogy of Nibelungen operas during the ensuing summer season, a series of these works brought out in similar style would be especially welcome.

"Songs for Little Singers," by A. S. Gatty, are among recent vocal music published by Messrs. R. Cocks and Co. They are entitled, respectively, "The Poodle," "Puff," "The Walrus and the Carpenter," "The Whiting and the Snail," "The Sparrow on the Tree," and "May Day." They are all well suited to interest juvenile vocalists, the melodies being pleasing and simple, and the accompaniments likewise easy of execution. Other pleasing songs issued by Messrs. Cocks and Co. are:—"In Summertime," by T. Marzials; "Returning Sails" (with a second, simplified, version); and "The Butterfly's Kiss," both by A. J. Caldicott; "Not I" (one version in G, another in B flat), by A. Mora, and "Good-night, and Good-morrow," by J. H. Croxall. The same publishers have lately brought out some pianoforte music, comprising Mr. Brinley Richards's effective transcription of Blumenthal's song "We Two;" "Bannockburn" and "The Banks of Allan Water," characteristic Scotch fantasias, by W. S. Rockstro; Mr. Cowen's song, "Steering," transcribed by F. Lemoine; "As Pants the Hart," another transcription—from Spohr—by G. F. West; "England," "Scotland," and "Ireland," fantasias on national airs, by J. Pridham; and six graceful pieces by W. Smallwood, entitled "Valley Echoes," respectively named after Welsh and foreign localities.

"A Dictionary of Music and Musicians," edited by George Grove, D.C.L. (Macmillan).—The second volume of this valuable work is now completed by the recent issue of Part 12, which ends with Mr. Rockstro's able article on Plain-Song. Among the more elaborate essays in this volume are the excellent and exhaustive biographies of Mendelssohn and Mozart, contributed, respectively, by the editor and Herr C. F. Pohl, of Vienna. Another admirable article is that on the history and progress of the pianoforte, by Mr. A. J. Hipkins. When completed, the Dictionary will be the most valuable work in modern (English) musical literature.

"Popular Classics for the Pianoforte." Under this title Messrs. Ashdown and Parry have for some time been issuing a series of standard pianoforte works, carefully revised and fingered by Mr. W. Macfarren, and including specimens of various forms and periods, from the antique style of Bach to the modern romanticism of Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin, Schumann, and Mendelssohn. The collection has recently been extended to the 72nd number. The same publishers have brought out "Three Sonatinas for the Pianoforte" (op. 47), composed by Herr Carl Reinecke, the esteemed Leipzig Capellmeister. These pieces are especially valuable for teaching purposes, being calculated to improve the executive powers of young students, and at the same time to cultivate their taste for what is sound and classical in style. They are full of agreeable melody, and have that distinctive artistic stamp in their construction and development which only a master hand can confer on minor productions.

Messrs. Ashdown and Parry have likewise published "Trois Morceaux de Salon," by Joachim Raff. These are classed as his op. 125, and are entitled, respectively, "Gavotte," "Berceuse," and "L'Espiègle." The first is an effective reproduction of the quaint old dance form, with a trio in which some florid elaborations, in the modern style, are introduced; No. 2 is a tranquil and graceful "Slumber song;" No. 3 being a brilliant and spirited "Valse Impromptu." Each is worthy of the special reputation of one of the most remarkable of living composers.

"Fifteen Melodies of Schubert," transcribed for the pianoforte by Stephen Heller (Forsyth Brothers, London and Manchester). This a selection of some of the charming lieder (of which Schubert produced several hundred), arranged for one performer on the pianoforte, with that masterly skill which Heller has in many other similar cases shown in reproducing the spirit and sentiment of pieces intended originally for vocal effect. Each of the fifteen numbers is replete with charm and beauty, and their practice will improve both the taste and the mechanism of the intelligent student.

"Old English Composers, for the Virginals and Harpsichord," revised and edited by E. Pauer (Augener and Co.). This interesting collection comprises a series of pieces—preludes, suites, overtures, sonatas, and various dance forms—taken from the works of the most eminent composers of this country, the earliest examples being by William Byrde, who died in 1623, having been music master to Queen Elizabeth. His celebrated canon, "Non nobis Domine," is still a recognised masterpiece of its kind. The other composers from whose works extracts have been made by Mr. Pauer are Dr. John Bull (also of the period of Queen Elizabeth), Orlando Gibbons, Dr. Blow, Henry Purcell, and Dr. Arne. With slight exception, the contents of this volume are different from those of Mr. Pauer's earlier and larger work, "Alte Klavier Musik;" and (like it) comprise much interesting old music that had become very scarce and difficult to procure, that of Purcell especially. Both works have great interest and value in reference to the history of the antecedents of pianoforte playing. The collection now referred to contains some well-written memoirs of the respective composers, contributed by Mr. W. A. Barrett, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

"Reeves' Musical Directory" for 1881 is an improvement on the issues of previous years; it comprises, in a compendious form, much special and general information, of value both to the professional and the amateur musician.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

Messrs. Cassell, Petter, Galpin, and Co., will publish (uniform with "Picturesque Europe"), in Monthly Parts, price 2s. 6d.:

PICTURESQUE AMERICA.
With 48 Exquisitely Engraved Steel Plates, and Several Hundred Engravings on Wood, from Original Drawings specially made for the Work.
Part I., ready March 25, 1881, price 2s. 6d.
(To be completed in 48 Parts.)
Specimen Pages of "Picturesque America" are now to be seen at the Principal Booksellers' in Town and Country, and at the Railway Bookstalls, where Prospectuses may also be obtained; or post-free from
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

Eighth and Cheap Edition, with Coloured Maps. 10s. 6d.,
RUSSIA. By D. MACKENZIE WALLACE, M.A.
"Undoubtedly the best book written on modern Russia by a foreigner, and one of the best books ever written on that country by either foreigner or native."—The Times.
"A delightful book, instructive and attractive."—Scotsman.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

PLAYS, PLAYERS, and PLAYHOUSES, at HOME and ABROAD, with Anecdotes of the Drama and the Stage. By LORD WILLIAM LENNOX. 2 vols. 21s.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

MAJOR E. ROGERS'S NEW NOVEL.
At all Libraries, in 3 vols.,
A MODERN SPHINX. A New Novel.
London: J. and R. MAXWELL, Shoe-lane, E.C.

DR. G. OVEREND DREWRY'S POPULAR WORKS on the MAINTENANCE of HEALTH.
COMMON-SENSE MANAGEMENT of the STOMACH. 2s. 9d.
CUP and PLATTER, or NOTES on FOOD and its EFFECTS. 1s. 9d.
NOTES on CONSUMPTION. Pamphlet. 12td.
THE URINARY and GENERATIVE ORGANS. 5s.
HEALTH. A Family Magazine. Monthly. Price 1½d.
MURRAY and Co., 23, Warwick-street, Regent-street, will forward any of the above on receipt of price, which includes postage.

Id., Weekly; Monthly Part, 6d.,
GARDENING ILLUSTRATED. Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening; Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All Newsagents.
Copy, by post, 1½d. Vol. I., 7s. 6d.
37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

POTTERY PAINTING: A Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, Head Master of Art-School, South Kensington. Second Edition, price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 1d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W.

Second Edition, price 4s. 6d., to be had of all Booksellers,
RESPIRATORY DISEASES, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, &c., and their Specific Cure, by Dr. JOHN FRANCIS CHURCHILL'S Discoveries of the Hypophosphites and Iodoferrin.
J. W. KOLCKMANN, No. 2, Langham-place, London.

JUST PUBLISHED, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on these distressing complaints and their complete cure. Published by the Author, RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
London: G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE of FOREIGN and COLONIAL POSTAGE STAMPS, sent post-free, 7d. The LINCOLN STAMP ALBUM, Fifth Edition, Illustrated, cloth gilt, 2s. 6d.; post-free, 2s. 8d.
W. LINCOLN, 239, High Holborn, London.

CHEAP FRAMES for the COLOURED PICTURE given with the Number on Feb. 26. Neat Gilt Frames, 2s. each; with Cardboard Mount, 3s.; 4s. 6d., Oak and gilt. Every description of frames and pictures at trade price.—GEO. REES, 41, 42, and 43, Russell-street, Covent-garden (opposite Drury Lane Theatre).

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.

THE NEW PENS.
"TRUTH! AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH!!!"
"Macniven and Cameron's Pens are the best."—Standard.
THE BIG "J" PEN
THE BIG WAVERLEY PEN } 6d. and 1s. per Box.
"A luxury for the million."—Somerset Gazette.
Sample Box, with all the kinds, 1s. 1d. by post.
Patentees—MACNIVEN and CAMERON,
Penmakers to Her Majesty's Government Offices,
23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh (Estd. 1770).
Beware of the party offering imitations of these Pens.

PROVERBS IN SONGS. By WEATHERLY and ROECKEL.
No. 1. "Two's Company" .. .. .. 2s. net.
No. 2. "A Bird in the Hand" .. .. 2s. net.
No. 3. "When Poverty Knocks at the Door" .. 2s. net.
No. 4. "The Longest Way Round" .. 2s. net.
ENOCH and SONS, 19, Holles-street, W.

FIFTEENTH THOUSAND.
SOME DAY. By MILTON WELLINGS.
This charming new Song is being sung every evening with immense success by Madame Enriquez and all popular singers, and will surely become the most popular song of the day. In C, E flat, and F. 2s. net.—ENOCH and SONS, 19, Holles-street, W.

FOR SALE, a CHAMBER ORGAN, just completed, and admirably suited to a private residence, though the whole of the pipes being inclosed in two boxes with Venetian shutters, by means of which a very gradual swell can also be effected, at the will of the player, from the softest pp to ff. The Organ, 11 ft. high, 6 ft. 8 in. wide, 3 ft. 8 in. deep. The following are the stops:—Great: open diapason, dulciana, pdr flute, principal, wald flute, clarinet. Swell, stopped diapason, gamba, æolodeon, vox celeste, spitz flute piccolo, hautboy, vox humana. Pedal bourdon, 16 ft.; three composition pedals and two tremolands. Price £300.—Address, D. F. A., care of Messrs. Novello, Berners-street, London.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are superseding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1862; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

DENT'S WATCHES, CLOCKS, and CHRONOMETERS.—Illustrated Catalogue sent free—Apply to 61, Strand, or 34, Royal Exchange, London.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER, 18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE.
SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia, Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates. £10 10s., £14 14s., £18 18s., £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 18s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. SEWILL, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

NOVELTIES in JEWELLERY. New Styles for 1881. Gold, Silver, and Gem Jewellery of all kinds. New "Pin" "Mono," &c.; Artificial Diamond Jewellery; Norwegian, Italian, and Mauresque filigree Jewellery; Ladies' Watches, &c. Price-List, 300 Illustrations post-free.—Jewellery Dept., 57, Cambridge-street, Birmingham.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms Painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. FIFTH EDITION of GUIDE, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C., and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris 1878.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT is YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office, Plain sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, books, and dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 30s. Solid Gold Ring, 18-carat, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and Steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 8d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 5s. Dies Sunk. Fine Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 12s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY. (KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Boxes containing every requisite, 26s. and 29s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 2s., 3s. 6d., 6s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

ART UNION OF LONDON.—Subscription One Guinea. Every subscriber receives an impression of an important plate by A. Willmore, after Oswald W. Brierly, "The Loss of the Revenge," besides a chance of one of the numerous valuable prizes. The list will close March 31. The print is now ready.
LEWIS POCOCK, } Hon.
112, Strand, February, 1881. EDMUND E. ANTROBUS, } Secs.

ST. HILDA'S COLLEGE, Abbey-road, London, N.W.
EDUCATION (SUPERIOR) FOR LADIES.
Principal, Mrs. Marshall; Lecturers, G. W. Wood, Esq., Dr. Heinemann, F.R.G.S.; Pianoforte, Herr Goldmich, Sidney Smith, Miss Wigley; Singing, Madame Biitte; Harp, Mr. Thorley; Violin, Miss Browning; Drawing and Water Colours, Horace Brown; Oil Painting, Deacon, R.H.S.; French, Mons. Boyer, Mdlle. Dupuois; German, Dr. Heinemann; Hebrew, Latin, Oldenbaer; Writing, Stocker; Dancing, Mdlle. Gilddon; Drilling, Wilcox; Terra Cotta and China Painting. House and Grounds Large and Detached. Hot and Cold Baths. References on application to the Lady Principal.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97a, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street). Open from Ten till Eight daily. Persons of all ages taught privately, and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in eight to twelve easy lessons. Separate room for ladies. Apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

BANK OF NEW ZEALAND (Incorporated by Act of General Assembly, July 29, 1861).
Bankers to the New Zealand Government.
Capital subscribed and paid up, £1,000,000.
Reserve Fund, £350,000.
Head Office—Auckland.
BRANCHES AND AGENCIES.
In Australia—Melbourne, Sydney, and Newcastle.
In Fiji—Levuka.
In New Zealand—Auckland, Blenheim, Christchurch, Dunedin, Invercargill, Napier, Nelson, New Plymouth, Picton, Wellington, and eighty-four other branches and agencies throughout the colony.
The Bank grants Drafts on all their Branches and Agencies, and transacts every description of banking business connected with New Zealand, Australia, and Fiji on the most favourable terms.
The London Office RECEIVES FIXED DEPOSITS of £50 and upwards, rates and particulars of which can be ascertained on application. F. LARKWORTHY, Managing Director.
No. 1, Queen Victoria-street, Mansion House, E.C.

SUN FIRE OFFICE.
Threadneedle-street, E.C. Charing-cross, S.W.
Oxford-street (corner of Vere-street), W.
Established 1710.
Home and Foreign Insurances Effected.
Sum insured in 1879, £262,682,641.
FRANCIS B. RELTON, Secretary.

PROVIDE AGAINST ACCIDENTS! ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!—A fixed sum in case of Death by Accident, and a Weekly Allowance in the event of Injury, may be secured by a policy of the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE COMPANY, the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, Chairman. £1,430,000 has been paid as Compensation. West-End Office, 8, Grand Hotel Buildings, Charing-cross; and 64, Cornhill, London.—WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

ST. THOMAS'S HOME.—ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL.—ST. THOMAS'S HOME is NOW OPEN for the RECEPTION and TREATMENT of PAYING PATIENTS of BOTH SEXES. It is intended chiefly for the treatment of cases of acute disease, those of a chronic, incurable, or infectious nature are ineligible. Persons desirous of being admitted can, either personally, or by letter, addressed to the Resident Medical Officer at the Home, obtain from him a form of application for admission, and all other necessary particulars. The charge for Board, Medicine, Nursing, and Medical Attendance for each patient will be at the rate of not less than 8s. a day. Payment to be made weekly, in advance.

TO ADMIRERS of PICTURES by the OLD MASTERS.—A fine Original Painting by Guido, from the Earl of shrewsbury's collection, 1857. "Described in Dr. Waagen's "Art Treasures of Great Britain" as "A lovely presenting the head of John the Baptist, attractive in character and delicate in the touch." Size, 4ft. 11in. by 3ft. 9in. Price 100 guineas. An Inimitable Painting by Jan Steen, from the collection of Sir F. Sykes, 1853. An inferior, showing twenty-one persons carousing. Described in Smith's Catalogue Raisonné. Size, 1ft. 7 in. by 1ft. 4 in. Price 150 guineas. Also, a Grand Painting by Nicholas Poussin, Venus appearing to Æneas, with river-god, nalads, cupids, &c. Size, 3ft. 3in. by 2ft. 8 in.
Apply to EDWARD HALL, Broad-street, Ross.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!—250 richly coloured embossed SCRAPS, for Screens, Albums, &c., price only 1s. 2d.; or 2s. 3d. post-free. Selections on approval. Recommended by "Sylvia's Home Journal."
Address, G. L. SPALDING and CO., Art Importers, Ipswich.

EASTER CARDS at CHAPMAN'S.—All the New Designs by Marcus Ward, Hildesheimer, Ollendorff, &c. Descriptive Lists post-free.
THOMAS CHAPMAN, 58, Leicester-square, W.C.

RODRIGUES' MONOGRAMS, ARMS, CORONET, CREST, and ADDRESS DIES Engraved as Gems from Original and Artistic Designs.
NOTE-PAPER AND ENVELOPES, brilliantly illuminated by hand in gold, Silver, Bronze, and Colours.
BEST RELIEF STAMPING, any colour, 1s. per 100.
All the New and Fashionable Note-Papers.
A VISITING CARD PLATE, elegantly Engraved, and 100 Superfine Cards printed, for 4s. 6d.
BALL PROGRAMMES, BILLS OF FARE, GUEST CARDS, WEDDING CARDS, and INVITATIONS in every variety.
HENRY RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly, London.

ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, Ludgate-hill, INVITES INSPECTION of all that is new and beautiful in useful and ornamental CHINA and GLASS, including

| | s. d. |
|---|---|
| Dinner Services ("Cottage"), 50 pieces .. .. .. .. | 13 6 |
| Dinner Services for 12 persons (108 pieces) .. .. .. | 35 0 |
| China Dessert Services for 12 persons, Gilt, 17s., Ungilt | 14 0 |
| Gilt China Tea Services, 80 pieces, 12s. .. .. 28 pieces | 9 6 |
| China Breakfast Sets for 6 persons, 11s. .. .. for 4 persons | 7 0 |
| Toilet Services (for washstands), 6s. 9d., 8s. 6d., and | 9 0 |
| White Stone Jugs, "The Grecian," .. .. set of three | 1 3 |

All really excellent patterns.

| | |
|---|---|
| Quart Decanters, good cut glass, 5s. per pair .. .. plain | 4 0 |
| Claret Decanters (with handles), 6s. each .. .. and | 3 0 |
| Plain light Claret Glasses, well made, 8s. per doz. .. and | 4 6 |
| Wine glasses, plain or cut, Ports and Sherries, per doz. | 1 9 |
| Engraved Wine Glasses .. .. .. do. | 2 6 |
| Hock Glasses, ruby bowl, 6s. per doz. .. .. green bowl | 3 0 |
| Tumblers, cut, 3s. 9d.; plain, 2s. 9d. moulded, per doz. | 3 0 |
| Plain light Finger-Glasses, taper shape .. .. per doz. | 6 6 |

Other articles proportionately cheap. .. .. Descriptive Catalogue post-free.
ALFRED B. PEARCE, 39, LUDGATE-HILL. Established 1760

WHITE WOOD ARTICLES for Painting, Fern Painting, and Decalcomanie. Blotting-Books, Card Plates, Cigar-Cases, Screens, &c. Price-List free.
W.M. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road, London, W.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained in Wood by wholesale merchants and dealers, direct from their respective distilleries.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets. For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS. Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York.
Sold Everywhere.

ROBERT ROBERTS AND CO.'S CELEBRATED TEAS.
TWELVE POUNDS AND UPWARDS CARRIAGE PAID.
Samples and Price-lists free by post.
Queen Insurance-buildings, Liverpool. ESTABLISHED 1840.
No agents.
All communications and orders direct.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA.
Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder.
Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of fat extracted.
Four times the strength of Cocoas Thickened yet Weakened with Arrowroot, Starch, &c.
The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER."
Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis.
In Air-Tight Tins, at 1s., 2s., 3s., &c., by Chemists and Grocers.
H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best goods only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 56 lb., 9s. 8d.; Households, for Bread making, 8s. 8d.; Whole Wheaten Meal (granulated). for Brown Bread, 8s.; Best Scotch Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Hominy, &c.; Barley, Buck Wheat, Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Indian Corn, 5s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s. Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 3s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meal Biscuits, per 14 lb., 2s. 8d.; Barley Meal, per 48 lb., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 14 lb., 2s. 8d.; per 14 lb., 6s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

ROYAL and IMPERIAL PATRONAGE. EGERTON BURNETT'S SERGES For LADIES and GENTLEMEN include the Best Makes. Patterns free. Wellington, Somerset.

PRATT'S LADIES' BELTS AND ABDOMINAL SUPPORTS ARE CONFIDENTLY RECOMMENDED AS THE MOST COMFORTABLE AND EFFICIENT EVER MADE
Apply to the Ladies' Attendant,
J. F. PRATT,
420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON, W.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera. By W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. .. 5s.
Pianoforte Solo, arranged by Berthold Tours .. .. 3s.
Waltz. D'Albert .. .. 4s. | Polka. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Lancers. D'Albert .. .. 4s. | Galop. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Quadrille. D'Albert .. .. 4s.
Fantasias by Boyton Smith (2) and Kuhe .. each 4s.
Smallwood's three easy Fantasias .. .. each 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera. Enormous success at the Strand Theatre. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. 5s. net.
Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture, Songs, &c. .. .. .. .. 6d. „
Pianoforte Solo .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. „
Lancers. D'Albert .. 2s. net. | Galop. D'Albert .. 2s. net.
Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „ | Nearest and Dearest
Quadrille. D'Albert.. 2s. „ | Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Polka. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Boyton Smith's Fantasia .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS.
WELCOME. Lady ARTHUR HILL. 2s. net.
COEUR DE LION. H. J. STARK. Sung by Mr. Oswald. 2s. net.
AT THE PORTAL. N. FERRI. Sung by Madame Mary Cummings. 2s. net.
WHAT THE FIRELIGHT TOLD. J. L. ROECKEL. 2s. net.
ANGUS MACDONALD. J. L. ROECKEL. Sung by Madame Enriquez. 2s. net.
OH YES! OH YES! (The Town Crier). C. BIRCH. 2s. net.
BYGONES. HAMILTON CLARKE. 2s. net.
WEARINESS. MURATORI. Sung by Mr. Santley. 2s. net.
DINNA LEAVE ME. A. M. WAKEFIELD, Composer of "No, Sir." 2s. net.
THOUGHTS AT SUNRISE. Mrs. L. MONCRIEFF. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW SONGS by Mrs. RONALDS.
IN SHADOW .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
WHY? .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
EVER NEAR .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
DIS MOI POURQUOI .. .. .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.
ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti .. .. .. 2s. (d.) net
PORTIA WALTZ .. .. .. .. 2s. (d.) net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA .. .. .. 2s. (d.) net
CAN'T STOP! GALOP .. .. .. .. 2s. (d.) net
CYNICRESS LANCERS .. .. .. .. 2s. (d.) net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ .. .. .. .. 2s. (d.) net
THE FANFARE POLKA .. .. .. .. 1s. (d.) net
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready, Volume II. of
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL'S IMPERIAL EDITION of 25 POPULAR ENGLISH DUETS, by Bishop, Smart, G. A. Macfarren, Hon. Mrs. Norton, &c. Edited by NATALIA MACFARREN. Price 2s. 6d.; or, handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL'S IMPERIAL EDITION of 25 POPULAR GERMAN DUETS, by Rubinstein, Mendelssohn, Abt, Kucken, &c. Edited by NATALIA MACFARREN. Price 2s. 6d.; or, handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes, from 2 gs. Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 10s. a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 18 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price £7 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' System.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

BROADWOOD'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire, and on CRAMER'S Three-Years' System, from £2 12s. 6d. per Quarter.

COLLARD'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire and on CRAMER'S Three-Years' System; in Black and Gold Cases at £4 18s. 6d. to £7 7s., £6 6s., £7 7s., and in Special Early English Ebonised Case, £8 8s. per Quarter.

ERARD'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire, and on CRAMER'S Three-Years' System, from £3 3s. per Quarter.

CRAMER'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire, and on their Three-Years' System, from £1 11s. per Quarter. Detailed Lists post-free on application to Regent-street W.; Bond-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.; and 105, High-street, Notting-hill.

"Steinway is to the Pianist what Stradivarius is to the Violinist."—Herr Joachim.

THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES, THE GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD.

The STEINWAY PIANOFORTES are the chosen instruments of the educated and wealthy classes in every nation throughout civilisation, and have by far the largest annual sale of any pianofortes in the world.

STEINWAY and SONS,
STEINWAY HALL,
LOWER SEYMOUR-STREET, PORTMAN-SQUARE, W.
(And at Steinway Hall, New York.)

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry road, Westminster, S.W.

NEW MUSIC.

Price 2s. 6d. each volume, paper; 4s., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL SONG-BOOKS.
A Complete Encyclopædia of Vocal Music.
THE SONGS OF ENGLAND. 2 vols.
THE SONGS OF SCOTLAND.
THE SONGS OF IRELAND.
THE SONGS OF WALES.
THE SONGS OF FRANCE.
THE SONGS OF GERMANY.
THE SONGS OF ITALY. (In the Press.)
THE SONGS OF SCANDINAVIA and Northern Europe.
THE SONGS OF BOHEMIA, HUNGARY, and Eastern Europe. (In the Press.)
The above 10 volumes contain nearly 1000 Popular Ballads of the various countries of Europe.

BEETHOVEN'S SONGS. (Complete.)
MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS.
SCHUMANN'S SONGS.
SCHUBERT'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S SONGS.
RUBINSTEIN'S VOCAL DUETS.
The above have German and English Words.
HANDEL'S ORATORIO SONGS.
HANDEL'S OPERA SONGS. (Italian and English Words.)
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Mezzo-soprano and Contralto.
* SONGS FROM THE OPERAS. Tenor and Baritone.
* in transposed keys, with Italian and English Words.
MODERN BALLADS. By the most eminent living composers.
SACRED SONGS, ANCIENT AND MODERN.
HUMOROUS SONGS, NEW AND OLD.
CHOICE DUETS FOR LADIES' VOICES.
DOUBLE VOLUMES.
Price 5s. each, paper; 7s. 6d., cloth, gilt edges.
THE ROYAL OPERATIC ALBUMS. Containing celebrated Songs, with Italian and English Words, in the original keys.
1. THE PRIMA DONNA'S ALBUM.
2. THE CONTRALTO ALBUM.
3. THE TENOR ALBUM.
4. THE BARITONE ALBUM.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MADAME PATEY'S NEW SONGS.
THE CHILDREN OF THE CITY. By S. ADAMS.
THE MERCHANT OF CHEAPSIDE. By LOUIS DIEHL.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

F. H. COWEN'S NEW SONGS.
LISTENING ANGELS. Sung by Antoinette Sterling.
ALL IN ALL. Sung by Mr. Maas.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

EDWARD LLOYD'S NEW SONGS.
MIGNONETTE. By SUCHET CHAMPION.
THE LOVE OF LONG AGO. By W. H. CUMMINGS.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MARZIAL'S NEW SONGS.
A SUMMER SHOWER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
ROCHESTER BELLS. Sung by the Composer.
THAT SWEET STORY OF OLD. Sacred Song.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MOLLOY'S NEW SONGS.
THE BOATSWAIN'S STORY. Sung by Mr. Santley.
THE FIRST LETTER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
TWENTY-ONE. Sung by Antoinette Sterling.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

WHAT ARE THEY TO DO? By RANDEGGER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies, with extraordinary success, at the Ballad Concerts.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE LITTLE ROUNDHEAD MAID. By the Composer of "No, Sir!" To be sung by Miss Wakefield, at the next Ballad Concert.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth.
SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. Edited by HENRY HOLMES. With numerous Notes and an Appendix by the Editor.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
THE LATEST SUCCESS.
BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and E. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE .. .. .. 5s. net.
SONGS.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE VIRTUOUS GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net. Now ready.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GRENVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
DANCE MUSIC, BILLEE TAYLOR, ready. Orchestra, 2s.; Septet, 1s. 6d.
*Beautifully Illustrated.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. Iooth Edition. 4s.
"The most useful and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.

Post-free, 2s. net.
A LIFE'S LOVE. In C and D. Song. Composed by J. B. WALDECK. Will be sung by Mr. Robert Hilton at Dumbarton, Helensburgh, and Glasgow on the 24th, 25th, and 26th inst.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside.

THE LOVE OF OLD. ROECKEL'S charming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming recitals. Post-free, 24 stamps.

PIANO DUETS.
C. REINECKE. Three Sonatas, Op. 139. Price 2s. each, net.

PIANO SOLOS.
W. KUHE. NEW SACRED TRANSCRIPTIONS.
CH. GOUNOD. Nazareth (Gavotte). Price 2s. each net.
TH. LAUK. NEW PIECES.
Menuet, La Sauterelle. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. ROUBIER. NEW PIECES.
Joyeuse Union. Fête à Trianon. Parfait Bonheur. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
FRANZ RITZ. NEW PIECES.
Cavatine (Caprice). Latin Rose. Le Regiment qui passe. Price 2s. 6d. each net.
JOYFUL MOMENTS. Ten Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. each net.
OUR FAVOURITE TUNES. Ten Moderately Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. 3d. each net.

THE PROGRESSIVE MUSIC SCHOOL.
Carefully Edited, Fingered, and Corrected from the Original Manuscripts by J. LEYBACH. First Series (very easy), 15 Numbers. Numbers 1 to 14, price 1s. 3d. each net. Number 15, price 1s. 6d. net.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.
CARL ROSA. Twenty Popular Airs (Easy). Price 1s. each net.
CH. TOURVILLE. Twelve Favourite Subjects (Moderate). Price 1s. 6d. each net.

H. FARMER. Popular Violin Solos (Brilliant), with Piano Accompaniments. In Six Books. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside, E.C.

Owing to the great success of F. H. COWEN'S New Song,
THE CHILDREN'S HOME,
W. MORLEY, Jun., and CO. have much pleasure in announcing the purchase of Mr. Cowen's last song.

THE WATCHMAN AND THE CHILD, which must still further enhance his reputation as one of the finest song writers of the present day. Keys for all Voices.

IN THE CLOISTERS. By O. BARRI. "A new song of uncommon beauty and merit, which will soon be equally popular with 'The Lost Chord.'"—Graphic. "Is melodiously real, flowing and pleasing, and ensures success alike to the professional vocalist or amateur."—Review. Post-free, 24 stamps each.
W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, London, N.

MUSICAL BOX DEPÔTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best sacred and secular music. Prices £4 to £300. Snuff-boxes from 12s. to 40s. Largest stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

NEW MUSIC.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan."—Mr. Pepys the Musician, by F. Hueffer.—The Choral Concerts.—Mr. Henley's Popular Concerts.—Crystal Palace, and Mr. Halle's Concerts.—Music in Manchester.—Mr. Kuhe's Brighton Musical Festival.—Occasional Notes.—Foreign and Country News.—Review.—Correspondence, &c. Price 3d.; post-free, 4d. Annual Subscription, 4s., including postage.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains a special and full report of the recent production of Mr. C. Villiers Stanford's Opera, "The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan," at the Hanover Opera House.

THE MUSICAL TIMES for MARCH contains:—"O saving Victim," Anthem, by Berthold Tours. Price, separately, 1½d.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIOS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
Engedi .. .. Beethoven. | Israel in Egypt .. Handel.
Mount of Olives .. Spohr. | Judas Maccabæus .. „
Jephthah .. .. Carissimi. | The Creation .. Haydn.
Messiah .. .. Handel. | Last Judgment .. Spohr.
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S CANTATAS.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
God goeth up .. ..... Bach. | Hear my Prayer .. Mendelssohn.
God's Time is the Best, .. | Ode to St. Cecilia's
My spirit was in heavi- | Day .. .. Handel.
ness .. .. .. .. „ | Midsummer
O light everlasting ..... „ | Night's Dream .. „
Ride with me ..... „ | Man was created .. „
A Strong-hold Sure ..... „ | Redemption .. .. „
Ruins of Athens .. Beethoven. | Christus .. .. .. „
A Song of Destiny .. Bruhns. | The Spirit of Art .. „
The Dream ..... Sir M. Costa. | Ave Maria .. .. .. „
Spring's Message. .. Sir | Hymn of the Bell .. Romberg.
Julius Benedict. | Nicla W. Gade. | The Transient and
Christmas Eve .. .. „ | The Eternal .. .. „
Ezi King's Daughter .. „ | Song of Miriam.. F. Schubert.
Nemia .. .. .. Goetz. | Manfred .. .. R. Schumann.
The Soul's Aspiration Grimm. | New Year's Song .. „
Acis and Galatea .... Handel. | The North-east Wind .. „
Spring, Summer, Autumn, | A.-M. Smith.
and Winter .. .. Haydn. | God, Thou art great .... Spohr.
"The Seasons"(1) .. Haydn. | The Christian's Prayer .. „
May Day ..... G. A. Macfarren. | Jubilee Cantata, C. M. V. Weber.
Lobgesang..... Mendelssohn.
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co.

NOVELLO'S MASSES, PSALMS, &c.
ONE SHILLING EACH.
Stabat Mater ..... Astorga. | 114th Psalm .... Mendelssohn.
Magnificat ..... Bach. | 139th Psalm .... „
Mass in C ..... Beethoven. | 19th Psalm .... „
Requiem (C minor) Cherubini. | 81st Psalm ..... Meyerbeer.
Third Mass in A ..... „ | First Mass ..... Mozart.
By the Waters of Babylon. | Twelfth Mass ..... „
Goetz. | Requiem Mass (Latin
Messe Solennelle.. Ch. Gounod. | and English).....
Dettingen Te Deum .. Handel. | Stabat Mater (Female
Utrecht Jubilate..... „ | Voices) ..... Pergolesi.
O praise the Lord (Sixth | Stabat Mater ..... Rossini.
Chandos Anthem) ..... „ | Stabat Mater ..... Schubert.
First Mass (B flat) .... Haydn. | Advent Hymn.. R. Schumann.
Second Mass (C) ..... „ | Mass ..... E. Silas.
Third Mass (Imperial) „ | Mass (G) .... C. M. Von Weber.
Te Deum (Latin and | Mass (E flat)
English Words) ..... „ | O Lord, Thou art my God,
42nd Psalm ..... Mendelssohn. | &c. .. S. S. Wesley.
95th Psalm ..... „
London: NOVELLO, EWER, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; and 80 and 81, Queen-street, E.C.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL.
Section I.—No. 1, PIANOFORTE TUTOR.
Catalogue and all Particulars may be had from FORSYTH BROTHERS, London, 272a, Regent-circus, Oxford-street: Manchester, Cross-street and South King-street; and all Musicsellers.

Now ready.
THE CHILDHOOD OF CHRIST ("L'Enfance Christ").
By BERLIOZ.
Vocal Score, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, arranged by Charles Halle. Price 5s. net; paper; 7s. net, bound.
FORSYTH BROTHERS, 272a, Regent-circus, London; and Cross-street and South King-street, Manchester.

FORDE'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA.—Three Thousand and Fifty Airs for Flute or Violin. Published in Six Vols., price 9s. each. An admirable collection for amateur entertainment.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

HOPKINS AND RIMBAULT ON THE ORGAN.—Its HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION. With numerous Diagrams. Bound in cloth gilt. Price 25s. 3d. "An exhaustive work, and the only authority extant upon the subject published in this country."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

BISHOP'S (JOHN) HALF-HOURS AT THE ORGAN. Published in Two Vols., price 10s. 9d. each. A valuable Collection of all the best subjects.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CORELLI'S CELEBRATED Forty-eight TRIOS. For Two Violins and Bass. New Edition price 18s. "A fine standard publication."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CZERNY'S (C.) MASTERLY PIANOFORTE ARRANGEMENTS of the ORATORIOS and MASSES.
Folio Editions.
1. Messiah .. 6s.
2. Creation .. 4s.
3. Mount of Olives .. 4s.
5. The Requiem .. 2s.
6. The seven Last Words .. 2s.
7. Stabat Mater .. 2s.
8. First Mass in C (Beethoven) .. 2s.
9. Twelfth Mass in G (Mozart) .. 2s.
10. First Mass in C (Mozart) .. 2s.
11. First Mass in B flat (Haydn) .. 2s.
12. Third Mass, Haydn (Imperial) .. 2s.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. In one handsome volume, folio, cloth, pp. 215. Louis Spohr wrote to the publishers, saying: "I have no hesitation in recommending it as a faithful transation of the original work."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., 6, New Burlington-street.

THE BUGLER, in D, F, and G. By CIRO PINSUTI. Words by F. E. Weatherly. This very successful song has now reached the tenth edition.

WEIT VON DIR (Far from Thee). Waltz. By OSCAR SEYDEL. "When she went back to the ball-room, Captain Winnington followed her, and claimed his waltz. The band was just striking up the latest German melody: 'Weit von Dir,' a strain of drawing tenderness."—Vide Miss Braddon (Mrs. Maxwell) of the author's last novel.
R. WILLIAMS, 60, Paternoster-row.

METZLER'S AMERICAN ORGUINETTE, The American Orguinette is a real Musical Instrument, constructed somewhat on the principle of the American organ, and adapted to be automatically operated by simple sheets or strips of perforated paper, each sheet representing one or more tunes. There is no limit to either kind or quantity of music. It will play Hymn Tunes, Popular Airs, Sets of Quadrilles, Polkas, Waltzes, Reels, and Hornpipes with a closeness, accuracy, and degree of execution which but few performers can equal. A mere child can play it.
Style A, with six tunes, £1 10s.
Style C, with attachment and six tunes, £3 10s.
Cabinet styles, with selection of Music, 12, 16, and 16 guineas.
Any description of Music 9d. a tune.
To be obtained of all Musicsellers, and
METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for hard practice. Carefully packed free, and sent to any part. Drawings gratis.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

£35.—There is nothing in London—nor, in fact, in all England—to be compared to the elegantly carved DRAWING-ROOM TRICHORD COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with Check Repeating Action, Trichord Treble Legs, which is sold for £35 by THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse, "REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

COURT MOURNING.
NEW AND INEXPENSIVE COSTUMES and the most suitable materials are to be obtained
AT PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, W.
Patterns free, and goods sent on approbation immediately on receipt of letter or telegram.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.
The Buyers from the Several Departments have Returned from Paris
With a Beautiful and Novel Collection of MANTLES, COSTUMES,
BONNETS,
MILLINERY and FLOWERS,
EVENING AND DINNER DRESSES,
SUNSHADES,
DRESS MATERIALS, &c.
Inspection respectfully invited.
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL DAILY TO ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Good qualities from 5s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

BLACK SILKS.
DURING THIS MONTH,
we shall SELL
Messrs. BONNET et CIE. and JAUBERT et CIE.
BLACK SILKS
at Manufacturers' Prices,
and Cheaper than they have ever before been supplied.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bonnet's.. | No. 1 Quality, | 4s. 3d. | from 1s. 6d. to 4s. per yard, under fair value. |
| .. | No. 2 .. | 5s. 3d. | |
| .. | No. 3 .. | 6s. 0d. | |
| .. | No. 4 .. | 7s. 0d. | |
| Jaubert .. | No. 1 Quality, | 3s. 3d. | from 1s. to 4s. per yard, under their fair value. |
| .. | No. 2 .. | 3s. 11d. | |
| .. | No. 3 .. | 4s. 9d. | |
| .. | No. 4 .. | 5s. 3d. | |
| .. | No. 5 .. | 6s. 0d. | |

To be obtained only at
PETER ROBINSON'S,
REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262, Regent-street.
Patterns free.

NOVELTIES for LADIES' MORNING DRESSES.—French satteens, 8½d.; Pompadours, 7½d.; Prints, 5½d.; Linen Lawns, 3½d. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES. — A very cheap parcel of NEW HEATHER TWEEDS. Price 6½d. per yard (regular price 9½d.). Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

AEGIDIUS. — The only non-shrinking Flannel shirt. Warm as wool, soft as silk, and very elastic. Patterns and self-measure free.
R. FORD, 41, Poultry, London.

ALL PURE FLAX.

| | Per Doz. | | Per Doz. |
|---|---|---|---|
| CHEAP | Children's .. | 2s. 6d. | Hemstitched. |
| | Ladies' .. | 2s. 11d. | Ladies' .. 3s. 11d. |
| | Gentlemen's.. | 4s. 11d. | Gentlemen's.. 6s. 9d. |
| Samples and Price-List post-free. | POCKET | "The Irish Cambrics of Messrs. Robinson and Cleaver have a World-wide fame." — The Queen. | |

HANDKERCHIEFS.
ROBINSON and CLEAVER,
THE ROYAL IRISH LINEN WAREHOUSE,
BELFAST.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald patches where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Floriline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, acids, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It is perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry, sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

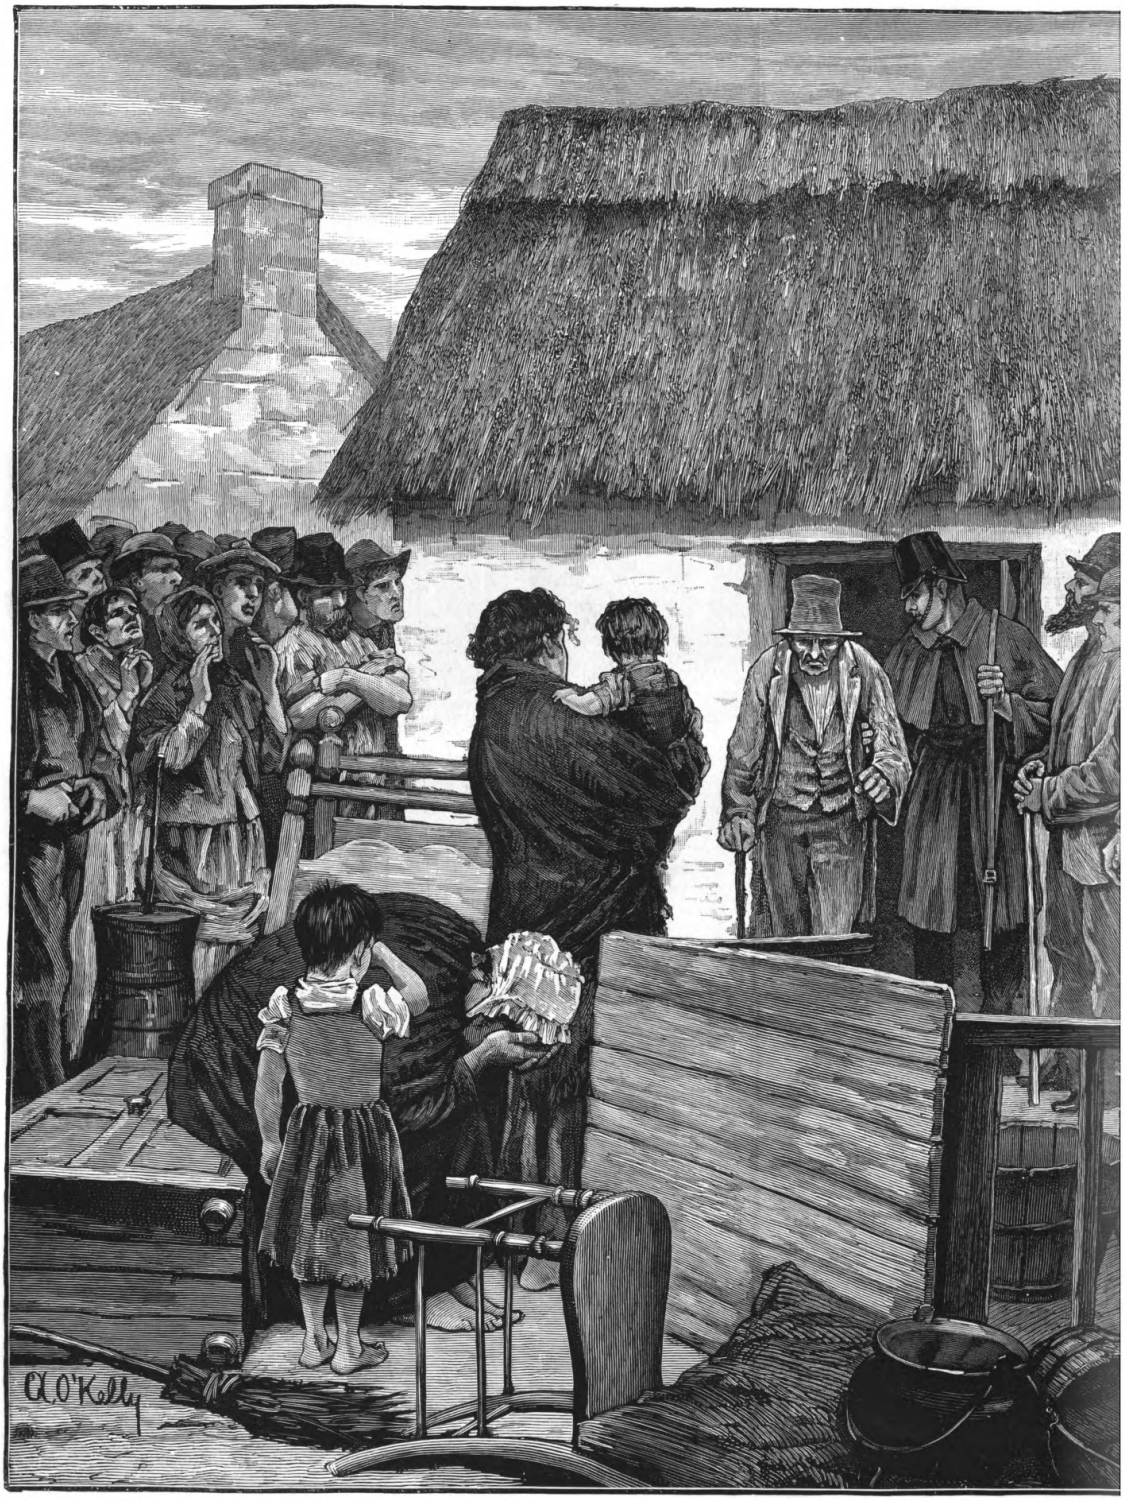
"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and only genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester. Established 30 years." PEARLY WHITE and SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rosy brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are all insured by the use of this most perfect Dentifrice. Pots, 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists.

THE SKIN.—The glory of woman, the pride of man. It contains the delicate lines of beauty and constitutes all that we term "Loveliness," yet how many thousands have their skins blemished by the use of the irritant soaps, Carbolic, Coal Tar, Glycerine, and the coarse coloured soaps, caustic with alkali and made of putrid fats. The more delicate the skin the quicker its ruin. The ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP is the purest, the mildest, and most purifying of all soaps, by its purifying action taking away and preventing all pimples, blotches, and roughness. It is recommended by the entire Medical Profession as the most elegant preparation for the skin that is known. In all Chemists. In Tablets, 6d. and 1s. THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP COMPANY, 502, Oxford-street, London.

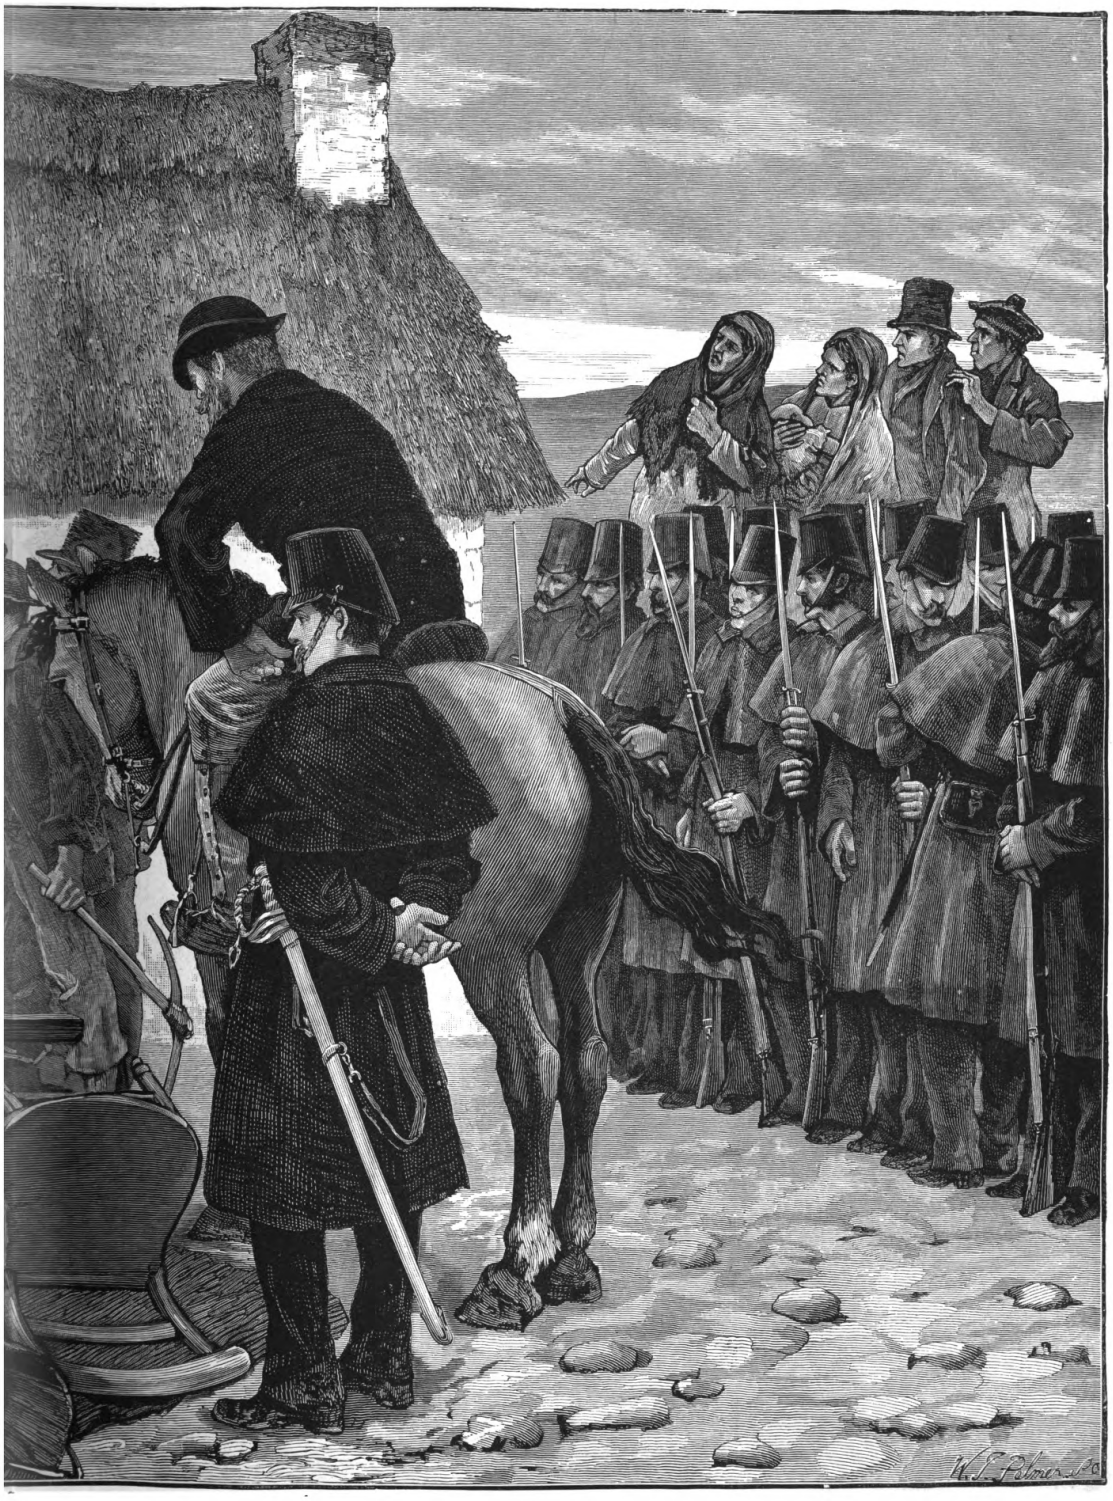
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

HOOPING COUGH:
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's-churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

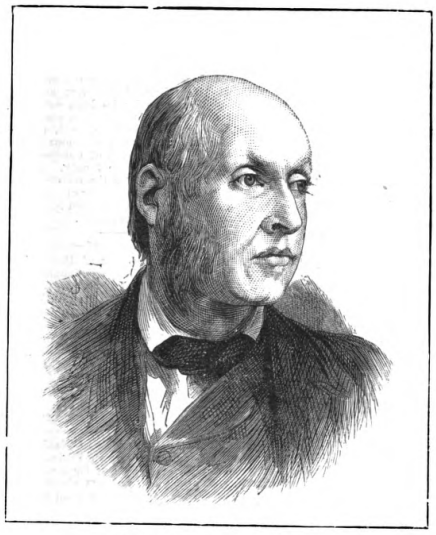
LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LESERTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—Saturday, MARCH 19, 1881.



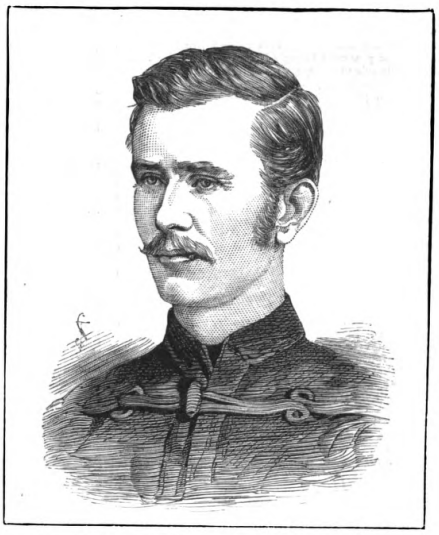
AN EVICTION IN TI



WEST OF IRELAND.



THE LATE MR. JAMES SPEDDING.



THE LATE SURGEON LANDON, KILLED AT MAJUBA HILL

THE LATE MR. JAMES SPEDDING.

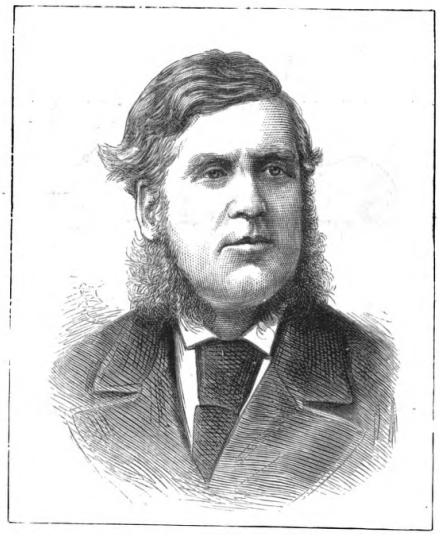
The death of this gentleman, from injuries he received a week before through being knocked down by a cab in the street, took place on Wednesday of last week. He was above seventy years of age. Mr. Spedding, who was a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and a scholar of high attainments, made some important contributions to English literary history, but more especially in his prolonged labours to produce a complete edition of Bacon's works, and to write the history of Bacon's life and times. In the earlier portion of his edition of Bacon's works Mr. Spedding had the assistance of the late Mr. R. L. Ellis; but Mr. Ellis died when the edition of the "Novum Organum" was incomplete. The remainder of the task was carried on by Mr. Spedding alone, with the occasional assistance of Mr. D. D. Heath. What the task was, and how it was accomplished, is well known to all students of Bacon. Mr. Spedding not only determined the text, but illustrated it from his profound knowledge of the literature and history of Bacon's time. He set himself to write the life of his favourite author in a manner never before attempted. The "Life and Letters" of Bacon is the only book on the subject which furnishes all the materials for a complete judgment on many points of controversy. Every extant letter, every scrap of information, manuscript or printed, is collected, and Mr. Spedding leaves the life of Bacon to tell its own tale, only supplying the thread of comment necessary to string the collected material together. It is to Mr. Spedding that every future biographer must go for his materials.



THE LATE SIR HENRY M. JACKSON, BART., Q.C., M.P.

OFFICERS KILLED IN THE TRANSVAAL.

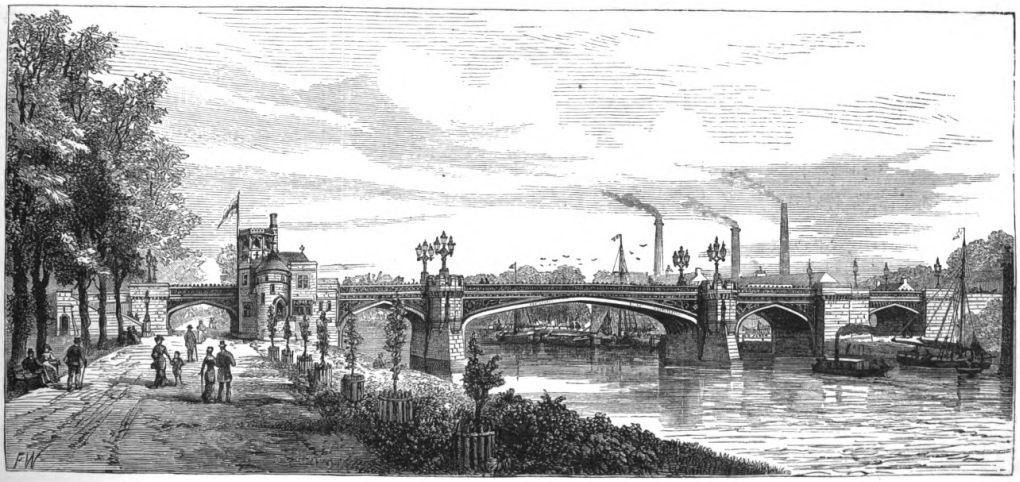
Among those whose deaths are most recently added to the lamentable list of the slain in Sir George Colley's operations against the Boers, was Surgeon Arthur Jermyn Landon, who received his mortal wound in the conflict of Sunday, the 27th ult., on Majuba Hill. He died shortly afterwards, in the camp at Mount Prospect. This gentleman was born on June 29, 1851. He entered the Medical Department of the Army and became a surgeon in August, 1878. He is the second medical officer who has died of wounds received in this action.

The late Captain Carlisle Greer, R.A., who was killed at the battle of the Ingogo on the 8th ult., and whose portrait appeared in our paper last week, was eldest surviving son of the late Mr. Edward Greer, of Ivy Lodge, Newry, County Down. He went out to South Africa in the autumn of last year, and then held the post of aide-de-camp and military secretary to Major-General Sir G. Strahan, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Cape Colony; but having volunteered for service in the Transvaal war, was placed in command of the artillery, consisting of six guns, in the force under Sir George Colley, for Natal and the Transvaal. His earlier services, in the New Zealand War of 1863 and 1864, were mentioned in our former notice.



SKELDERGATE BRIDGE, YORK.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE REPULSE AT LAING'S NECK.

We present an Illustration of the first conflict between Sir George Colley's force and the Boers at the pass of Laing's Neck on Jan. 28, the official account of which, in his despatch of Feb. 1 to the War Office, was published on Saturday last. The references to the positions marked in our Engraving, as those which were successively occupied by different portions of the British force, are taken from Sir George Colley's own sketch or plan of the action, which has been lithographed by the Intelligence Department of the War Office.

The scene of this engagement, as we have already described, is on the direct north road from Newcastle, in Natal, to Standerton, in the Transvaal. It is twenty-five miles from Newcastle. The pass over Laing's Neck lies about the centre of a rough semicircle of hills, six miles in length, culminating towards the west in a lofty square-topped mountain, named the Majuba, with precipitous sides and deep wooded ravines, and ended on the east by the Buffalo River running through a deep and rugged gorge. The road skirts the foot of the Majuba Mountain till it rises to the Laing's Neck Ridge in the re-entering bend of this semicircle. It is thus commanded along the greater part of its length by the mountain spurs on its left, and where it crosses the neck by the hills on both sides. The ground within the semicircle is an undulating grassy plateau, broken by a few deep ravines. From Laing's Neck the ground rises on the west in a series of ridges and shoulders, furrowed with deep wooded ravines, to the Majuba Mountain. To the east the ground rises steeply about 400 yards to a table hill, having a length of 1000 yards, and a command over the plains below of about 600 feet, and then falls in a number of spurs and ridges to the deep valley of the Buffalo River. This Table Hill is the key of the position, and against its outer (eastern) end Sir George Colley directed his attack.

We now quote Sir George Colley's narrative of the action:—

"Leaving the main road about half a mile to our left, and crossing a deep valley immediately under our camp, the column moved towards the enemy's position, along an open ridge out of shot of the hills, and formed up on a rise directly opposite, and from 2800 to 2500 yards distant from the Table Hill above mentioned, the guns in the centre, the 60th Rifles, Naval Brigade, and Natal Mounted Police on the left, the 58th Regiment and mounted squadron on the right. From near the eastern end of the Table Hill a spur runs forward in a southerly direction, falling steeply, almost to the level of the ground occupied by us, and then rising again with easy and open slopes, to an isolated conical hill 1500 yards distant from the Table Hill, and overlooking our right at about the same distance. This hill was occupied by a picket of the enemy, probably 100 to 200 strong. Had the force at my disposal been sufficient, I would have commenced by taking this hill with my infantry; but to have done so would have entailed a wide turning movement, and would have too much extended my small force. I determined therefore to attack the spur directly, covering the attack with artillery fire, and protecting the right or exposed flank of the infantry with the Mounted Corps. The face of the spur was very steep, but hidden from view or fire, except from the slopes of the isolated hill already mentioned.

"At half-past nine o'clock I commenced the action by shelling different parts of the enemy's position, and pushing forward a company of the 60th Rifles and the Naval Brigade, with their rockets, into some inclosed ground on the road, about 1200 yards from the Neck. From this point the Naval Brigade sent rockets with good effect on the Neck, and among the Boer reserves and forces held behind. A sharp fire was soon opened on this force from the wooden kloof beyond the road; but, as the men were well posted under cover of a stone wall, our casualties here were few. When this force had become engaged the 58th Regiment, under Major Hingeston, moved forward to attack the spur, covered on their right by the mounted squadron under Major Brownlow, King's Dragoon Guards, and by the fire of the artillery, which was now concentrated on this side of the enemy's position. Colonel Deane, commanding the Natal Field Force, personally led this attack. The mounted squadron, moving on the right of the infantry, gradually drew up the slope of the isolated hill on our right, and coming under fire of the Boers on the hill, faced the hill and charged. This charge was splendidly led by Major Brownlow, who, with Troop Sergeant-Major Lunny, King's Dragoon Guards, was first on the ridge. Major Brownlow's horse was shot under him, as was that of his subaltern, Lieutenant Lermitte, 21st Royal Scots Fusiliers, and Sergeant-Major Lunny was instantly killed, but Major Brownlow shot the Boer leader with his revolver, and continued to lead his men, who now crowned the ridge. Could he have been promptly supported, the hill was won, for the Boers had already begun to retire, and many had run to their horses. But the fire was still heavy, and the hill was steep, while many of the horses of the mounted troops were quite untrained to fire. The support troop was checked; the leading troop, fatigued and broken by the charge, with its leaders all down, could not push on, and the whole gave way down the hill.

"Meanwhile the 58th Regiment had begun to climb the steep ascent of the spur, when the Boers on the isolated hill, having repulsed the cavalry attack, moved down the ridge and opened fire on the right rear of the infantry now exposed, the enemy on the Table Hill at the same time collecting to resist them at the brow of the hill. The 58th now pushed on eagerly, forming a few men to the right flank to return the enemy's fire. But the climb was a very trying one, and when the men got near the top they were too fatigued and breathless for a charge, while the fire from the ridge behind continued to tell heavily, and the Boers on the brow shot down on the men as they struggled up. The officers led nobly, and Colonel Deane, with splendid gallantry, tried to carry the hill by a rush. His horse was shot, but he extricated himself, and dashing forward on foot, fell, riddled with bullets, ten yards in front of the foremost man. Major Poole, who joined him in the charge, with Lieutenant Inman, 60th Rifles, his orderly officer, and Lieutenant Elwes, Grenadier Guards, my aide-de-camp, were killed close by him, and Major Hingeston, commanding the 58th Regiment, and all the mounted officers of the regiment, were shot down or dismounted. The men continued to hold their ground unflinchingly for some time; but the ground was too unfavourable and the fire too severe, and ultimately the regiment was compelled to retire, covered for some time by the fire of two companies posted under direction of Major Essex, 75th Regiment, Column Staff Officer, behind a slight ledge. Part of the 60th pushed forward to cover the retirement, and the 58th, which had fallen back leisurely, without haste or confusion, re-formed at the foot of the hill, and marched back into position in as good order and with as erect and soldierly bearing as when it marched out. The main attack having failed, it became necessary to withdraw the advanced parties on the left. This was done without loss, though the Boers began to show in increasing numbers on that flank, and the force was re-formed on its ground. I remained on this ground for some time, partly to cover the removal of the wounded, and partly in the hopes that the enemy might attempt to follow up his success. But as the Boer Commander would not allow me to send succour to the wounded on the hill so long as I maintained my advanced position, I withdrew slowly to the camp in the afternoon. All the wounded, and the bodies of the dead officers, were brought into camp that evening; and the dead were buried under a flag of truce, some of them that evening and the remainder the next day.

"Of the numbers of the Boers and their losses it is difficult to form any reliable estimate. Judging, however, by the numbers who actually showed at the points attacked and by information obtained from various sources, I should put their number at about 2000. Considering the excellent cover under which they mostly fought, I cannot suppose that their losses were heavy. I must do my adversaries the justice to say that they fought with great courage and determination. A good deal of the fighting was at short ranges of twenty to one hundred yards, and the Boers showed no fear of our troops, but rather advanced to meet them. I have also to acknowledge the courtesy shown by some of their leaders in giving facilities for the care and removal of the wounded. I shall hold this camp until I receive reinforcements sufficient to enable me to renew the attack."

SKELDERGATE BRIDGE, YORK.

The new bridge, constructed by order of the Corporation of the city of York, was opened for passengers on foot at the beginning of the year, and has now been completed, and opened for carriage traffic. It consists of five arches, three of which cross the river Ouse, the two others being land arches for the waterside traffic. The centre arch has a span of 90ft.; the two side arches have spans of 30ft. each; and the two land arches have spans of 24ft. each. The 30ft. span next the Lodge is what is termed a bascule or opening bridge, and can be easily raised and lowered by hydraulic machinery. Beneath this opening bridge is an invert, 10ft. 6in. below the summer level, formed of brick in cement, 2ft. 6in. deep, supported on a deep bed of concrete on piles. The opening bridge is formed with eight wrought-iron girders, affixed to a shaft 10in. in diameter, on which they turn. These eight girders are each 53ft. 6in. long. The portion of the girders overhanging the opening span is about 35ft. The hydraulic machinery is supplied by Sir William Armstrong and Co., of Newcastle. It consists of two hydraulic cylinders, placed side by side, one for opening and one for closing the bridge. The hydraulic force-pump, adapted to work up to a pressure of 700lb. per square inch, is worked directly from the crank-shaft of an "Otto's Silent Gas Engine." The machinery is placed in the abutment behind the Lodge. The total length of the bridge, including the abutments of the land arches, is 308 ft. 8in., but, including the longest retaining walls of the approach, it is 861 ft. 8in. The width is 40 ft. The Corporation decided to divide the work, intrusting the ironwork to Messrs. Handyside and Co., of Derby, and doing the foundations and masonry by its own workmen, under the direction of Mr. Styan, the city surveyor. Mr. George Gordon Page, M.Inst.C.E., of London, was the engineer; and Mr. Robert Nunn, the resident engineer.

OBITUARY.

LORD HANMER.

The Right Hon. John, Baron Hanmer, of Hanmer, and of Flint, and a Baronet, died on the 8th inst. at Knotley Hall, Kent. His Lordship was born Dec. 22, 1809, the eldest son of Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Hanmer, by Arabella Charlotte, his wife, eldest daughter and co-heir of Mr. Thomas S. D. Bucknall, M.P., and was grandson of Sir Thomas Hanmer, whom he succeeded in the baronetcy in 1828. He was educated at Eton, and at Christ Church, Oxford, and sat in Parliament for Shrewsbury from 1832 to 1837, for Hull from 1841 to 1847, and for the Flint boroughs from the last-named year till his elevation to the Peerage, Oct. 1, 1872. His Lordship served as High Sheriff of Flintshire in 1832. He married, Sept. 3, 1833, Georgiana, youngest daughter of Sir George Chetwynd, of Grendon Hall, Warwickshire, which lady died March 21 last year. Lord Hanmer had no issue, and the peerage honour is consequently extinct; but the baronetcy and the representation of the very ancient family of Hanmer of Hanmer devolve on his Lordship's next brother, now Sir Wyndham Edward Hanmer, fourth Baronet. He was born in 1810, and has been twice married—first, in 1842, to Marie Louise Victoire, younger daughter of the late Sir John Conroy, Bart., by whom he has issue; and secondly, in 1877, to Harriet Frances, eldest daughter of the late Colonel the Hon. Henry Hely-Hutchinson.

SIR H. M. JACKSON, BART.

Sir Henry Mather Jackson, Bart., of Llantilio Court, Monmouthshire, J.P. and D.L., one of the Judges of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, died on the 8th inst., at 61, Portland-place, within but a few hours after the formal completion of his appointment as a Judge. He was born July 23, 1831, the eldest son of the late Sir William Jackson, Bart., M.P., of Manor House, Birkenhead (created a Baronet Nov. 4, 1869), by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Lieutenant Thomas Hughes. Sir Henry received his education at Harrow, and at Trinity College, Oxford, where he graduated B.A. in 1853 and M.A. in 1859. He was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1855, and, having attained to considerable practice, acquired his silk gown in January, 1873. He succeeded to the baronetcy at his father's death in 1876. In July, 1865, he unsuccessfully contested Birkenhead, but, in 1867, obtained a seat in the House of Commons, in the Liberal interest, for Coventry, which he represented until November, 1868, and again from 1874 till his recent elevation to the Bench. He married, Aug. 8, 1854, Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Thomas Buddicum Blackburne, of Birkenhead, and leaves issue, the eldest son of which is now Sir Henry Mather Jackson, third Baronet, born Oct. 19, 1855. We give the portrait of Sir Henry Jackson on another page.

SIR J. C. WILSON.

Sir John Cracroft Wilson, K.C.S.I., C.B., died on the 2nd inst., at Christchurch, New Zealand, in his seventy-third year. He was the only son of Mr. Alexander Wilson, F.R.S., of the Madras Civil Service, by Clementina, his wife, daughter of Mr. William Cracroft, and received his education at Brasenose College, Oxford, and at Haileybury. From 1828 to 1859 he served in the Bengal Civil Service, and subsequently settling in New Zealand became a member of the House of Representatives. He had the Indian medal for services as a special Commissioner during the Mutiny, and received the decoration of C.B. in 1860, and of K.C.S.I. in 1872. Sir John married, first, in 1828, Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. S. Wall; and secondly, in 1844, Jane Torrie, daughter of Mr. James Greig.

DUNDAS, OF DUNDAS.

James Dundas, of Dundas, in the county of Linlithgow, Vice-Lieutenant of that county, the chief of Dundas, died on the 9th inst., in Edinburgh, in his eighty-fourth year. He was the only son of Mr. George Dundas, of Dundas, by Christian, his wife, second daughter of Sir William Stirling, Bart., of Ardoch, and was male heir of the very ancient house of Dundas, remarkable not only for its high antiquity, but also for the series of distinguished men it has contributed to the public service. He married, July 20, 1813, the Hon. Mary Tufton Duncan, third daughter of the famous Admiral, Adam Duncan, created Viscount Duncan, of Camperdown, and by her, who died in 1867, had a large family. His eldest son, George Dundas, C.M.G., M.P. for the county of Linlithgow 1847 to 1860, and Lieutenant-Governor of St. Vincent, died March 18, 1880, and the second son, Adam Alexander Duncan Dundas, becomes heir male of the family.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Carolina Amelia, Queen Dowager of Denmark, at Copenhagen, on the 9th inst. Her Majesty was daughter of Frederick Christian, Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, was born June 28, 1796, and married, May 22, 1815, to Christian VIII., King of Denmark, to whom she was second consort, and by whom she had no issue.

Lady Lush, the wife of Lord Justice Lush, on the 16th inst. The deceased lady was the daughter of the Rev. Christopher Woollacott, and was married to Lord Justice, then Mr., Lush in 1839.

Vice-Admiral John Ormsby Johnson, at the Moorings, Ipswich, aged fifty-eight. He entered the Navy in 1835, served during the Chinese War in 1842, and attained the rank of Vice-Admiral in 1879.

Lady Hawley (Sara Diana), widow of Sir Joseph Hawley, Bart., of Leybourne Grange, Kent, on the 9th inst., at 34, Eaton-place. She was the third daughter of General John Crosbie, was married June 18, 1839, and was left a widow in 1875.

General Charles Gascoyne, Colonel 72nd Highlanders, on the 10th inst., in Chesterfield-street, in his seventy-seventh year. He was born in 1805, son of General Isaac Gascoyne, Colonel of the 54th Foot, and became Colonel of the 72nd Highlanders in 1870.

Lady Murray, of Ochtertyre (Ioné Campbell Penney), wife of Sir Patrick Keith Murray, Bart., and daughter of the late Hon. Lord Kinloch, at the family seat near Crieff, Perthshire, aged thirty-five. She was married March 30, 1876, and leaves one son and one daughter.

Mrs. Horatia Nelson Ward, adopted daughter of the great Lord Nelson, on the 6th inst., at Beaufort Villa, Woodrising, Pinner, Middlesex, in her eighty-first year. She married the Rev. Philip Ward, some time Vicar of Tenterden, and became a widow about twenty years since.

Mr. Roddam John Roddam, of Roddam, Northumberland, J.P. and High Sheriff, 1872, on the 9th inst., at Lynwald, Grove Park, Chiswick, in his eighty-first year. He was eldest son of Mr. Joseph Falder, of Alnwick, and assumed the surname of Roddam on succeeding to the Roddam estate.

Major-General Gother Frederick Mann, C.B., at Upper Norwood, in his sixty-fourth year. He entered the Army in 1836, served in the Chinese Wars, including the capture of Canton, the taking of the Taku Forts, and the surrender of Pekin, and became a Major-General in 1874. He married Margaret, daughter of Colonel Baynes.

Lieut.-Colonel William Henry Frederick Cavendish, J.P. and D.L., Groom-in-Waiting to the Queen, formerly of the 52nd Regiment. He was born in 1817, eldest son of General the Hon. Henry Cavendish, by Sarah, his first wife, daughter of Mr. William Fawkener, and was cousin to the Duke of Devonshire. He married, in 1843, Lady Emily Augusta Lambton, daughter of John George, first Earl of Durham.

The Hon. Mrs. Robert Meade (Caroline Georgiana), on the 5th inst., in Upper Brook-street, aged twenty-seven. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. Charles William Grenfell, M.P., of Taplow Court, Bucks, by Georgiana, his wife, daughter of the Right Hon. William S. Lascelles, and was married, April 13, 1880 (being second wife), to the Hon. Robert Henry Meade, next brother of the Earl of Clanwilliam.

Mr. Henry Trench, of Cangort Park, King's County, J.P., High Sheriff 1842, on the 7th inst., in his seventy-fourth year. He was second son of Mr. William Trench, of Cangort Park, by Sarah Elizabeth, his wife, only daughter of the Hon. Robert Moore, and was nephew of Frederic, first Lord Ashtown. He married, 1836, Georgiana Amelia Mary, younger daughter of Benjamin, first Lord Bloomfield, by whom he leaves issue.

Miss Mary Buckley-Williames, at her residence, Glan Hafreu, Montgomeryshire, aged seventy. She was the second daughter of the late Mr. John Williames Buckley-Williames, of Pennant, Montgomeryshire, lord of the manor of Pennant, J.P. and D.L. for the county, by Catherine, his wife, eldest daughter and coheiress of Mr. Rice Pryce. The deceased lady was celebrated throughout Montgomeryshire for her many works of charity and philanthropy.

Mr. Frederick Lewis Maitland-Heriot, of Ramornie, Fifeshire, J.P. and D.L., Advocate at the Scotch Bar, Sheriff of Forfarshire since 1862, on the 7th inst., in Paris, aged sixty-three. He was son of James Maitland, of Ramornie, who took the surname and arms of Heriot, and was grandson of Captain the Hon. Frederick Lewis Maitland, R.N., of Rankeilour, sixth son of the sixth Earl of Lauderdale. He married, 1848, Martha, daughter of Sir A. Agnew, Bart., and leaves issue.

Mr. Magniac, M.P., has made an allowance of rent to his tenants on the Colworth and Toft estates equal to 25 per cent on the total amount of rents for the year ending Michaelmas, 1880. This is the second year that Mr. Magniac has made this allowance in consequence of the bad weather, besides delaying for some months the collection of the rents.

The schedule of prizes to be offered for competition at the Birmingham Dairy Show, which will be held during Whitsun week, has been issued. In all, the value of the prizes, cups, and medals offered is said to be a little over £1000. The money prizes for dairy cattle amount to £397, for goats to £32, for cheese to £101, for butter to £61, for bees, beehives, &c., to £26, for dairy implements and utensils to £102, for farm produce to £21, for poultry to £281, and for incubators and other poultry appliances to £40. In addition, there will be six silver medals awarded for special merit in appliances for use in the dairy.

WHO ARE

THE REALLY GREAT and SUCCESSFUL

MEN in this WORLD?

HUXLEY wisely says:—"Those who take honours in nature's university, who learn the laws which govern men and things and obey them, are the really great and successful men in this world. . . . Those who won't learn at all are plucked; and then you can't come up again. Nature's pluck means extermination. The simple meaning is, when ailing, pay no attention to the regulation of your diet, exercise, or occupation; attempt no conformity to the laws of life, or when you have drawn an over-draft on the bank of life, &c., avoid the use of ENO'S FRUIT SALT and you will be surprised to learn of the body what

A FRAIL and FICKLE TENEMENT it is,

WHICH, LIKE the BRITTLE GLASS

THAT MEASURES TIME,

IS OFTEN BROKE, ere half

ITS SANDS are RUN.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT.—Errors of eating or drinking; or how to enjoy or cause good food to agree that would otherwise disorder the digestive organs, and cause biliousness, sick headache, skin eruptions, impure blood, pimples on the face, giddiness, fever, feverishness, mental depression, want of appetite, sourness of stomach, constipation, vomiting, thirst, and other disastrous diseases.

USE ENO'S FRUIT SALT.—Or as a health-giving, refreshing, cooling, invigorating beverage, or as a gentle laxative and tonic in the various forms of indigestion, use ENO'S FRUIT SALT.

ALSO GOUTY or RHEUMATIC POISONS from the blood, the neglect of which often results in apoplexy, heart disease, and sudden death.

USE ENO'S FRUIT SALT, prepared from sound, ripe fruit.—What every travelling trunk and household in the world ought to contain—a bottle of ENO'S FRUIT SALT. Without such a simple precaution, the journey of life is immensely increased. "All our customers for Eno's Salt would not be without it upon any consideration, they have received so much benefit from it."—Wood Brothers, Chemists, Jersey.

TO EMIGRANTS, or Anyone Leaving Home for a Change.—ENO'S FRUIT SALT is one of the greatest value to emigrants, not only in preventing sea-sickness &c., but as a means of keeping the blood healthy under the ever-varying conditions to which he may be exposed.

TO EUROPEANS who propose VISITING HOT CLIMATES, ENO'S FRUIT SALT is absolutely necessary to the preservation of health.

IMPORTANT TO ALL.

"Sir,—Having travelled a great deal in my life, and having suffered a great deal from 'Poisoned Blood' and 'Want of Appetite,' I was induced by a friend to use your world-famed FRUIT SALT. I was immediately relieved, and am once more hale and hearty. I shall never be without a bottle again on my travels. I am too pleased to repay you in some way for your wonderful invention by giving you full use of my testimony to the above. Sir, I am yours gratefully,

(Signed) "Dr. G. Hasevs, M.A.,
"Clifton Down Hotel, Gloucestershire.
"Near Bristol, February, 1881."

SUCCESS IN LIFE.—"A new invention is brought before the public and commands success. A score of abominable imitations are immediately introduced by the unscrupulous, who, in copying the original closely enough to deceive the public, and yet not so exactly to infringe upon legal rights, exercise an ingenuity that, employed in an original channel, could not fail to secure reputation and profit."—Adams.

CAUTION.—Examine each bottle and see the capsule is marked ENO'S FRUIT SALT. Without it, you have been imposed on by worthless imitations. Sold by all Chemists. Price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

PREPARED ONLY at ENO'S FRUIT SALT WORKS, Hatcham, London, S.E., by J. C. Eno's Patent.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA."
Combining every High Quality in an Unequalled Degree.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

"A PURE COCOA OF THE CONSISTENCY OF TEA."
TAYLOR BROTHERS'
"MARAVILLA" COCOA ESSENCE.

SOLD in TINS and TIN-LINED PACKETS ONLY, by ALL GROCERS.
83 EAM MILLS, BRICK-LANE, LONDON.

CURE FOR RHEUMATISM. £500 FORFEIT to any purchaser of a bottle of POWELL'S EMBROCATION if the Testimonials published in its favour and signed by
H.R.H. the DUKE D'AUMALE,
Right Hon. the late Earl of CLARENDON, K.G.,
Frances, Countess WALDEGRAVE,
Right Hon. the Countess of RADNOR,
Mrs. MARK WOOD,
Mrs. General LAWRENCE,
and many other eminent persons, are not genuine. The money refunded to any purchaser whose case this Embrocation will not reach. A Pamphlet with all particulars free to any address. POWELL'S RHEUMATIC EMBROCATION is sold by Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the World, in Bottles at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. JOHN M. RICHARDS, Sole Proprietor, Great Russell-street, London.

THE VOICE. — THE THROAT. — THE CHEST. — THE LUNGS. £500 FORFEIT.
TO PUBLIC SPEAKERS, CLERGYMEN, ACTORS, VOCALISTS, READERS.
£500 will be paid by the undersigned to any purchaser of a bottle of HANFORD'S BRONCHITINE if the TESTIMONIALS are not genuine which are published in its favour and signed by the most eminent CLERGYMEN ACTORS, VOCALISTS, READERS, and PUBLIC SPEAKERS. The cost of the Medicine will also be refunded to any purchaser not satisfied with its effect. Hanford's Bronchitine cures all affections of the Throat and Vocal Organs without internal medicine of any sort. Pamphlet, with Testimonials, free by address. "HANFORD'S BRONCHITINE" is sold by Principal Chemists. Price 2s. 9d. per Bottle (But one size.) If not obtainable at nearest Chemist's, send your order direct to me, inclosing P.O.O. JOHN M. RICHARDS, Great Russell-street-buildings, Great Russell-st-et, London.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will find immediate relief and Permanent Immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "Lozenges" are now sold by most respectable Chemists in this country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depot, 43, Farringdon-road, London.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless; will reduce from two to five pounds per week; acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Sold by Chemists. Send stamp for pamphlet.—BOTANIC MEDICINE COMPANY, 493, Oxford-street, London, W.C.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON, A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE, UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON. 2s. 9d. per box, stamp included. Sold by all Chemists and Druggists. Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 65, Queen-street, London, E.C.

COLDS CURED BY DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.

IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. a Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

FLORIMEL OF PALM.
A white and delicate hand is the first attribute of beauty and civilisation. "The hand," says Sir Charles Bell in the "Bridgewater Treatise," "distinguishes man from the brute; be careful of it, for in polite society it is an index not only of the body but of the mind."
The Florimel of Palm being rubbed over the skin is to be removed with a little water, then dried with a soft towel. Once using will convince the most sceptical that, if daily applied, too much cannot be said in favour of Florimel of Palm for rendering the skin or hands white, delicate, soft, and fair.
Sold in Jars, 2s. 6d. each.
PIESSE and LUBIN, 2, New Bond-street, London.
May be obtained of any Chemist or Perfumer in the world.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghilies at Stamboul. After smoking a long time my pastil is found used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen those breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being too pungeante. Piesse and Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Blossoms Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 21s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO is the purest and most fragrant dentifrice ever made. All dentists will allow that neither washes nor paste can possibly be a efficacious for polishing the teeth and keeping them pearly white as a pure and non-gritty tooth powder; such Rowlands' Odonto has always proved itself to be.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL has been known for the last eighty years as the best and safest preserver and beautifier of the hair; it contains no lead or mineral ingredients, and is especially adapted for the hair of children. Sold in usual four sizes. Ask any Chemist, Perfumer, or Hairdresser for Rowlands' Articles.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 5s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—R. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Prices 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. R. HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

JAY'S, Regent-street.

BLACK LENTEN COSTUMES, 2½ guineas each. Messrs. JAY having for years past received numerous applications from their patronesses for some kind of black dress suitable to the season of Lent, produce special Lenten Costumes, which, with sufficient material for bodice unmade, they are selling at 2½ guineas each.
JAY'S, REGENT-STREET.

PATTERNS FREE.
PEAU DE CHAMOIS BLACK SATIN. This name has been given by a Lyons manufacturer to a special kind of Black Satin. It is made from the purest silk, is as elastic as wash leather, warranted not to crease, and will wear better than any black silk of the present day.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS COSTUMES.—A varied series of COSTUMES, made from Peau de Chamois Satin, are produced weekly during the season. Price 6½ guineas each, including sufficient satin to make a bodice.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

EVENING DRESSES, Black Net, Tulle, and Spanish Lace.—Messrs. JAY prepare for the season a variety of black Evening Dresses, which they can confidently recommend both for correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and prices postage free.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
REGENT-STREET, W.

TEENS that young ladies are in no hurry to put on their—
"LOUIS" VELVET-TEENS.

THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
IS SIMPLY UNIQUE.
Do not be induced by persuasion to take any other.

LOUIS AN EXTRA PROFIT TO YOUR LOSS may be specionsly made if you accept, under whatever name offered, an inferior quality of Velveteen.
"THE LOUIS"
has established its reputation so widely that even a slight infringement would injure its repute, which constitutes
A TEST OF MERIT,
and guarantees of
UNSURPASSED QUALITY.
Be sure you find the words
THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
on every yard,
or you have not the
GENUINE "LOUIS,"
notwithstanding all assertions to the contrary.

LOUIS Wholesale London Agent, J. H. FULLER, 92, Wood-street, Cheapside, who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine LOUIS VELVETEEN can be obtained.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY are requested to write for Patterns of EARLY SPRING SILKS, including Surats, Merveilleux, Duchesse Satins, Brocades, Figured Velvets, Black Silks, Satin de Lyon, Gros Grains, Fancy Silks, &c. All to be had in Black, White, and the Eighty-seven New shades of Colour.
Cash Prices. Parcels free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY are requested to write for patterns of NEW EARLY SPRING DRESSES, including Angola and Camel Hair Beige Cashmir Foulé, Cachemire de Paris, Mixed Wool and Silk Damassé, Cashmere Merino Drap d'Italie, Fine Vigoureux, New shades of Black and Coloured Rich Velveteens, New Pompadour and Paon Satins, Persians, &c. All the New Colours and Designs.
Cash Prices. Parcel free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

BAKER and CRISP'S EARLY SPRING DRESSES, from 6d. per yard.
EARLY SPRING CAMBRICS.
EARLY SPRING BATISTE SUITINGS.
EARLY SPRING POMPADOURS.
EARLY SPRING BEIGES.
EARLY SPRING VICUNAS.
EARLY SPRING CASHMERES.
EARLY SPRING SILKS.
EARLY SPRING SATINS.
EARLY SPRING COSTUMES.
EARLY SPRING JACKETS.
EARLY SPRING JERSEYS.
EARLY SPRING CLOAKS
Patterns free.
Engravings free.
198, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SPRING SAMPLES.
Patterns post-free.
FRENCH CASHMERES, MERINOES,
SERGES, HERRING-BONE and MILAN STRIPES,
and all the Newest Materials in the most beautiful colours.

NICHOLSON'S NEW WASHING FABRICS.
Patterns post-free.
FRENCH SATTEENS, CAMBRICS,
OATMEAL CLOTHS, ZEPHYRANTS, &c.,
in every new and novel design.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS.
Patterns post-free.
PLUSHES, VELVETS, SATINS,
BROCHES, SATIN DE LYONS, and PLAIN LYONS GROS GRAIN, in every fancy and usual shape.

D. NICHOLSON and CO., 50 to 51, ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD, LONDON, SOLE LESSEES OF THE COSTUME COURT, CRYSTAL PALACE.

PATENT "SEAMLESS" GLOVE.
These perfect-fitting Gloves are made without the usual side seam, and are cut on the best principle from first choice French Kid skins. They are hand-sewn, and are sold in two qualities, as under:—

| | Two Buttons | Four Buttons | Six Buttons | Eight Buttons | Ten Buttons |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| "ADELE" | 2s. 11½d. | 4s. | 5s. | 6s. | 7s. |
| "VICTORIA" | 3s. 11d. | 5s. | 6s. | 7s. 6d. | 9s. |

(Sample Pair post-free.)
DEBENHAM and FREEBODY,
WIGMORE-STREET and WELBECK-STREET, LONDON, W.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Registered).
OETZMANN and CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.
CARPETS,
FLOOR-CLOTHS, LINOLEUMS,
DINING-ROOM FURNITURE,
DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE,
BED-ROOM FURNITURE,
BEDSTEADS, BEDDING,
DRAPERY, LINENS, &c.,
FURNISHING IRONMONGERY,
ELECTRO-PLATE and CUTLERY,
KITCHEN REQUISITES,
CHINA, GLASS,
PICTURES, BRONZES, &c.,
CLOCKS, LAMPS, &c.
PIANOS,
ARTISTIC PAPERHANGINGS,
PAINTING, DECORATING, &c.,
GAS-FITTINGS, &c.
HOUSES TO BE LET OR SOLD,
REMOVALS by ROAD, RAIL, or SEA.
POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT.
SHIPPING DEPARTMENT.
DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE,
THE BEST FURNISHING GUIDE EXTANT,
GRATIS and POST-FREE,
OETZMANN and CO.,
67, 69, 71, 73, 77 and 79,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, LONDON.

ELKINGTON and CO., MANUFACTURING SILVERSMITHS, PATENTEES OF THE ELECTRO-PLATE.

ELKINGTON and CO. CAUTION PURCHASERS AGAINST CHEAP AND INFERIOR IMITATIONS. Illustrated Catalogues, post-free.
ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-st.; or 42, Moorgate-st., City.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Free, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner Services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Crystal, for twelve persons, complete, 63s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogue post-free.
63 and 64, West Strand, Charing-cross.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Medieval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

JEWEL ROBBERIES PREVENTED. J. TANN'S RELIANCE SAFES have never failed to resist the attempts of the most determined burglars. Fire-resisting Safes, £5 5s. Lists free.—11, Newgate-street, E.C.

FARROW and JACKSON, the largest and best Makers of IRON WINE BINS, SODA-WATER RACKS, BAR FITTINGS, SEALING-WAX, and every Article for the Dealer in or Consumer of Wines. 18, GREAT TOWER-STREET; 9, HAYMARKET; 91, MANSELL-STREET, LONDON. Agent in Paris. N. EDARD, 26, RUE DU DRAGON.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS, DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS AND LATCHES, CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS POST-FREE.

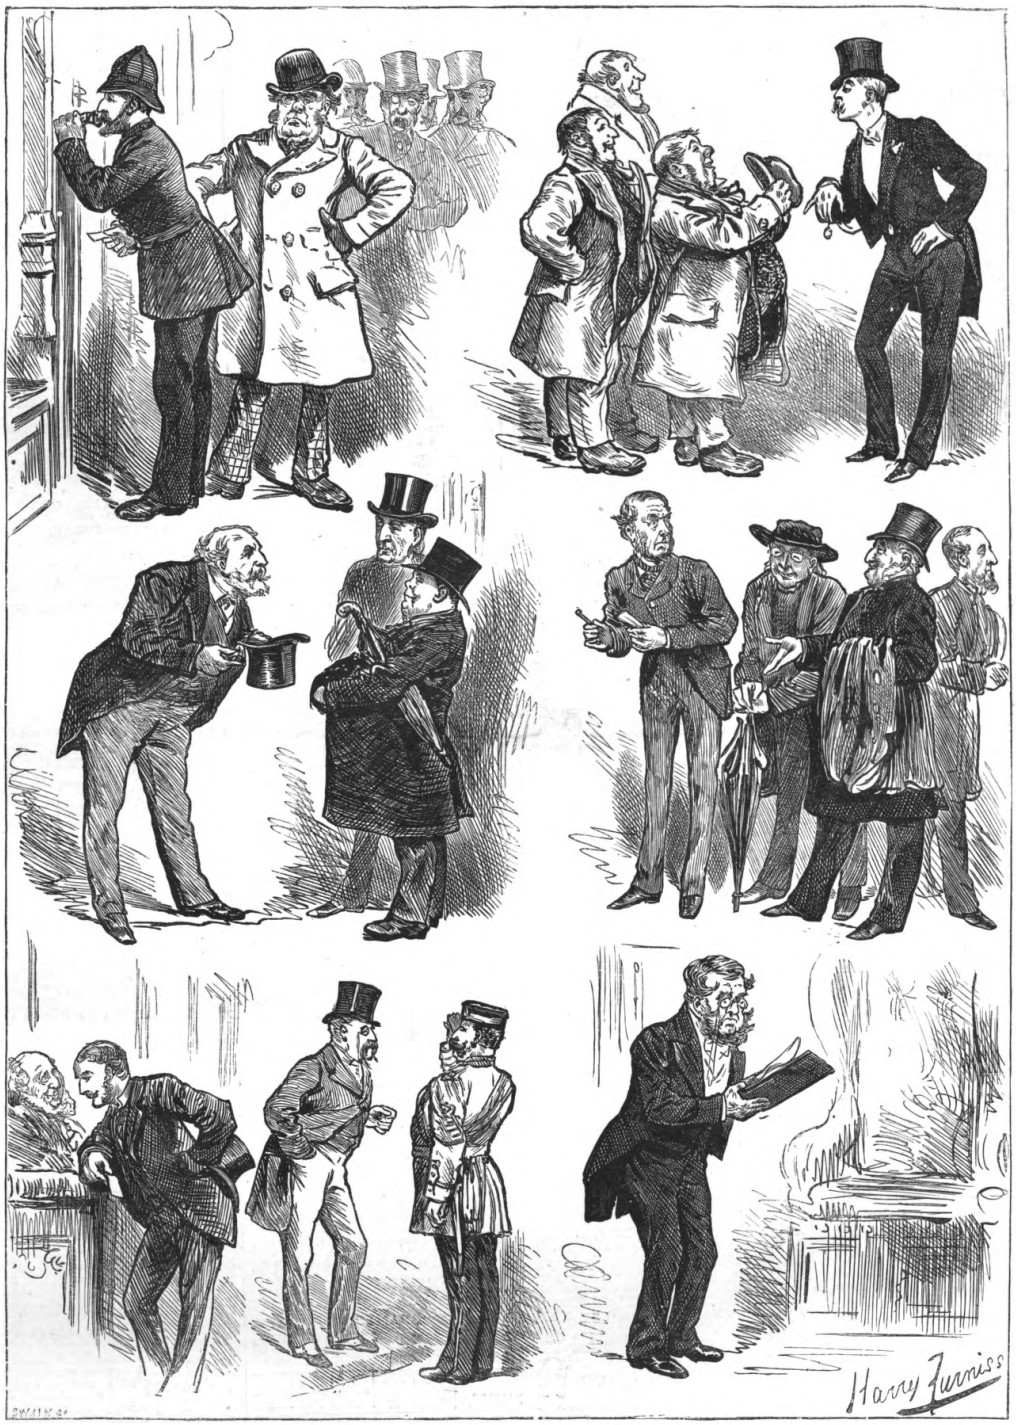
CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA. GRATEFUL and COMFORTING. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS, Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

FRY'S COCOA. Gold Medal, Paris, 1878. First Award, Paris, 1878. FRY'S CARACAS COCOA.—"A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.
PURE COCOA ONLY.

COCOA. FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT. "Strictly pure."—W. W. Stoddart, F.I.C., F.C.S., City Analyst. E. Bird, Thirteen Exhibition Medals.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS, THE GREAT REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM. Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.



SKETCHES IN THE LOBBY OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.—SEE PAGE 275.

FINE ARTS.

PAINTINGS BY SWISS ARTISTS.

Under the auspices of the Cercle des Beaux Arts of Geneva, about 130 pictures and drawings by Swiss artists are being exhibited at the rooms, 168, New Bond-street. The collection affords but a limited representation, either historical or contemporaneous, of Swiss art, although it aims at doing both. The single work by Vautier, "A Soldier's Yarn," is not important, although the assurance of the not too veracious narrator, the incredulity of the pompous and portly innkeeper, and the womanly trustfulness of an old dame by his side, give some indication of the painter's almost unrivalled tact in rendering the gestures and expressions of common life. The examples of the elder Calame are even less important. By his son, Arthur Calame, the living painter, there is a marine piece of considerable ability, "A Wreck at Sea"—seen from Boulogne Pier. A large illustration of Schiller's William Tell—the legendary hero putting off in the boat to save Baumgartner—by Leonard Lugardon, from the Council Hall of Berne, is melodramatic, and belongs to the effete school of conventional academic "historical" painting.

The scenery of Switzerland might be thought favourable to the development of a noble school of landscape painting; but experience seems to prove that it is not so. Alpine sublimities are beyond the reach of art; the scale is too vast, and the means of comparison elude the eye when reduced to the limits of an ordinary canvas. The artist is happier nearer home; where his details are more intime, where his masses may be more readily compassed. The effect of light, also, in the rarefied air is too vivid, the shadows near the foreground and from the dark monotonous pines too black and cutting for pictorial purposes. Anyone who has been in Switzerland will recognise the truth, though somewhat rough and rude, of the views in the Bernese Oberland by Albert Lugardon, yet the result is not pleasant. Several other Swiss subjects of a more limited kind are more acceptable. Strictly speaking, a Swiss school can hardly be said to exist. The best works here, those evincing higher artistic culture, reveal French influence. There is a lovely little idyll, recalling the French classical feeling in landscape—"The Lake of Annecy—Evening," by F. Poggi. Other agreeable works owe some of their inspiration to Corot. By the admirable painter E. Castres, who has made his reputation in Paris, there are two capital pictures, "Crossing the Frontier in Upper Savoy," with gendarmes demanding the papers of some itinerant mountebanks; and "Changing Horses at the Hospice du Simplon." "The Interrupted Breakfast"—the provisions for a pic-nic spread out and left deserted in a drenching rain, by J. Mittey, is a fine piece of colour and execution in the broad indicative manner of some French painters of still-life. F. Bocion has made a great advance in recent years; his "Drying the Nets on the Savoy shore of the Lake of Geneva" is particularly excellent in its effect of chequered sunlight. By Eugène Burnand there is a large and very spirited picture of a four-horsed village engine dashing along to a fire. The drawing and foreshortening of the horses, the animated actions and varied expressions of their riders, and of the firemen and volunteers on the engine deserve warm praise. A portrait of Byron's Countess Guiccioli, by Madame Munier-Romilly, is disappointing, and hardly bears out romantic associations. Lastly, there is a portrait, very remarkable in its way, of "M. S. C.," by C. Vuillermet. It is a half-length of an unaffectedly thoughtful old gentleman, seated with folded hands, in a black cap and fur-trimmed robe—resembling in costume some portraits of Holbein, and emulating that master in its careful minute manipulation. The countless wrinkles of the face and hands are delineated with map-like precision; the white stubbly hairs of a neglected beard, and the texture of the fur, are imitated so illusively as to excite wonder. Yet the work does not fulfil some higher requirements of art: the shadows are black, the atmospheric greys which give roundness to flesh are missed; the background is ugly in hue. It is, we understand (as, indeed, might be expected), by a very young artist, and as such, despite shortcomings, is full of promise in its closeness of observation and conscientious painstaking.

SOCIETY OF LADY ARTISTS.

From various causes, some easy to understand, and some, perhaps, due to former mistakes of management, the more distinguished lady artists still hold aloof from the gallery in Marlborough-street, and now more than ever. Our duty as regards the present exhibition will be sufficiently performed if we simply mention a few fairly good and promising works. Commencing, then, with the water-colours, "A Summer Afternoon" (81), by Jessie Frier, has considerable force, is true in effect, and rich in colour. "Foregate-street, Chester" (96), by Miss Louise Rayner—the picturesque old town-view, enlivened by numerous figures, both equally well painted; by far the best drawing here. "A Garden" (274), in oil, by Miss Hilda Montalba—with suffused effect of sunlight artistically rendered. "Eleanore" (280), by Mary Backhouse Miller—a very promising lifesize head in half-tint. A sunny view from "A Suburban Window" (320) of considerable merit, by Mrs. Thompson, mother of Mrs. Butler, the famous painter of military subjects. "A Quiet Hour" (426), a girl reading, by Ellen Welby—modest but promising. "The Sea Birds' Home" (461), by K. Macaulay, a vigorous piece of work, in which the artist has adopted the well-known Scotch mode of rendering a twinkling sea. "On the Grand Canal, Venice" (528), a slight sketch by Miss Clara Montalba. No. 529, a lush foreground of docks and flowering grasses, by Fanny W. Currey, delicate and skilful. Two Italian figure-studies (533 and 543) of decided ability by Miss Beresford. To these we must add with commendation, but have not space to particularise, several Italian views by Mrs. Marrable, decorative panels by Mrs. Louise Jopling, and contributions by Mrs. Backhouse and Misses Mary Foster, Charlotte J. Weeks, Eleanor Manby, Annie Grace Fenton, Linnie Watt, Grace H. Hastie, and Austin Carter.

---

The Spring Exhibitions at the French Gallery, Pall-mall, and at Messrs. McLean's and Mossrs. Tooth's galleries in the Haymarket will open on Monday next.

A marble bust of the late Lieutenant Shergold Smith, R.N., who died while in the service of the Church Missionary Society in Africa, was on Monday unveiled at the Church Missionary House, Salisbury-square.

The Industrial and Fine-Art Loan Exhibition, which is to be opened at Richmond on April 11, is likely to be very successful. The committee have thrown open the prizes to all classes in the kingdom, and as a consequence there are a very great number of entries. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, and other members of the Royal family have accorded both approval and substantial support.

F. J. Skill, a member of the Institute of Painters in Water Colours and an artist well known to publishers as a draughtsman on wood, died suddenly on the 8th inst. He began life as a wood-engraver; then, finding a field for his talent in the growing demand that had sprung up for illustrated periodicals, devoted many years of his life to this art. He was employed on this paper, and indeed on most of the pictorial periodicals of the day.

The council of the Royal Albert Hall announce that they are prepared to receive for exhibition in May next such works of art as have been submitted during the present year to the Council of the Royal Academy of Arts and conditionally retained by them, but which cannot be placed at Burlington House for want of space. The production of the letter received by the artist from the Royal Academy will be necessary to ensure the admission of such works at the Royal Albert Hall. The reception days for these works will be April 25 and 26.

On Monday the annual meeting of the Governors of the City and Guilds of London Institute for the Advancement of Technical Education was held at the Mercers' Hall—Sir S. H. Waterlow, M.P., in the chair. The report was adopted, and thanks were voted to the Corporation and the Vintners' and Bakers' Companies for their grants, and to the Drapers', Goldsmiths', and Clothworkers' Companies for the further handsome additions granted. The subscription of the Drapers' Company has been increased from £2000 a year to £4000 a year. This increased subscription, which is recommended to be devoted during the next two years to the special fund for building and fittings in connection with the institute's Technical College, Finsbury, is in addition to a donation of £10,000 already promised to the institute for the same purpose.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

PICTURE ORIGIN OF CUNEIFORM (ARROW-HEAD) CHARACTERS.

The Rev. William Houghton, M.A., gave the first of a course of two lectures on Thursday, the 3rd inst. He began by adducing evidence supporting the hypothesis that all written language defined as "the art of recording events and sending messages," originated in pictures representing objects or ideas. The lecture was amply illustrated by numerous singular diagrams, including examples derived from the ancient Chinese, Egyptians, and Mexicans, and the modern North American Indians. He explained how the Egyptian phonetic system gradually arose out of the hieroglyphs; and how the picture-writing merged into the cursive hieratic, in which all trace of its origin was lost. Similar changes were also remarked in Chinese. As modern examples, a love-song was read off from figures drawn by North American Indians; and reference was made to our own astronomical signs. Mention was also made of an illiterate old woman, a poulterer and pastry-cook, of Durham, who began with a pictorial system of accounts, but as her business increased was compelled to adopt a species of hieroglyphics, of which Mr. Houghton gave specimens. He next referred to the recent discovery of M. Terrien de Lacouperie, who has adduced strong reasons for believing that the Chinese and ancient Accadian characters had a common origin; and stated that Professor Douglas considers that there is an unmistakable affinity between the languages and traditions of ancient China and Babylonia. In relation to this, Mr. Houghton commented on the question, whether the cuneiform characters of the Assyrian Syllabary have a pictorial origin, his specimens being selected from the 522 characters in Professor Sayce's Grammar, in many of which he was able to trace out their primitive form and meaning.

The Rev. William Houghton, in his second lecture, given on Thursday, the 10th inst., commented on a series of diagrams, exhibiting a number of examples of ancient pictorial forms, representing natural objects and ideas and their transitions, from which the ordinary Babylonian and Assyrian cuneiform characters were derived. These included various animals, such as the bull and deer; parts of the body, such as the hand and foot; life, indicated by a flower; the mother, "the deity of the house;" typifying grace and dignity; Nineveh, "the fish city;" daybreak, night, fire, &c. Some of these interpretations, Mr. Houghton said, are very clear, and others doubtful; but they have generally been approved by Professor Sayce.

THE SERUM OF THE BLOOD.

Professor Schäfer's seventh lecture on the blood, given on Tuesday, the 8th instant, was devoted to the serum. He explained how it may be obtained from the clot by expression, as the fibrin shrinks, by subsidence of the corpuscles in whipped blood, and by the aid of a centrifugal machine. Serum is a clear, colourless fluid, which becomes white and almost solid by heat through the coagulation of the proteid constituents, of which serum-albumin and serum-globulin are the most important. Taking the white of egg as a type of albumin, the Professor exhibited various reactions of proteids—precipitation by strong nitric acid, by acetic acid, and by ferrocyanide of potassium; and also the red precipitate obtained by boiling with a solution of mercury in nitric acid. An orange yellow colour was produced by this treatment successively with nitric acid and ammonia. In solution, proteids rotate the plane of polarized light. Albumins and globulins were shown to be soluble proteids, convertible into insoluble by heat. Albumins are soluble in pure water, but globulins require a little of either some kind of salt, acid, or alkali. Neither diffuses through vegetable parchment (by dialysis), and they can thus be freed from the intermixed salts, which do diffuse into water. The globulin may be precipitated by diluting serum with water, and passing carbonic acid gas through it, and also by neutralising with acetic acid; but most completely by saturating the serum with sulphate of magnesia. From serum which has in this last way lost its globulin the albumin can be obtained by saturation with sulphate of soda. Serum-albumin when completely freed from salts by dialysis is said not to coagulate by heating. The lecture was well illustrated by interesting experiments.

SELENIUM AND THE PHOTOPHONE.

Mr. Shelford Bidwell, M.A., M.R.I., gave the discourse at the evening meeting on Friday, the 11th inst., instead of Professor Blackie, who was unable to fulfil his engagement through illness. After illustrating some of the properties of selenium, a rare element, somewhat resembling sulphur, the lecturer specially noticed its two states—1, vitreous, in which it is a very bad conductor of electricity; 2, crystalline, in which it is a very good conductor. He then exhibited the phenomena of electric resistance, and stated that when crystalline selenium is exposed to light this resistance is diminished, and a much greater quantity of electricity passes. This fact was first announced by Mr. Willoughby Smith in 1873; and selenium cells for applying this property were constructed by Dr. Werner Siemens and others. The lecturer produced one in a simple form, yet very sensitive to light. Details, illustrated by diagrams, were given of this, and of other delicate apparatus employed in the experiments made by Captain Sale, Professor W. G. Adams, and Mr. Bidwell to ascertain which rays of the spectrum of the sun and of the electric lamp produce the maximum effect upon selenium. The results obtained greatly varied. With regard to temperature, the lecturer stated that he had discovered that there was a certain degree of temperature at which the electric resistance of selenium is greatest. Any variation from this point, in the direction of either heat or cold, diminishes the resistance. This point, in a specimen exhibited, is about 24 deg. centigrade. Proceeding to the explanation of the photophone, the lecturer referred to Professor Graham Bell's asserting at the Royal Institution on May 17, 1878, that there was a possibility of "hearing a shadow, by interrupting the action of light upon selenium." Mr. Willoughby Smith carried out this idea, and soon after heard the sound produced by the action of a ray of light upon a bar of selenium in connection with a telephone. How this was effected was explained. A series of flashes of light is let fall on selenium, causing intervals of light and darkness. The strength of the current continually varies; and if the flashes succeed each other quickly enough, and with sufficient regularity, a musical note is heard by a person listening at the telephone. Moreover, by placing a small mirror whereby light may be reflected upon a distant selenium cell, aided by lenses suitably arranged, Professor Graham Bell was enabled to obtain articulate sounds at some distance (about 700 feet). The discourse was illustrated by many experiments; but Mr. Bidwell was not able to show Mr. Bell's last invention, as the sounds are audible to only one person at a time. He referred, however, to successful trials made at the Institution on Dec. 7 last. In conclusion, he described an application of selenium, devised by himself only a month ago—a method for transmitting pictures of natural objects by a telegraph wire—which he terms "Telephotography."

ANCIENT EGYPT—SCIENCE AND ART.

Mr. Reginald Stuart Poole, Keeper of Coins in the British Museum, began his fourth and concluding lecture, given on Saturday last, the 12th inst., by referring to our scanty knowledge of Egyptian science. The most important document we possess is an Egyptian mathematical handbook of extreme antiquity in the British Museum, giving examples of the simple rules of arithmetic and of practical geometry, as far as the measuring of the surfaces and contents of solid bodies. For astronomy we have no records of observations which can be turned to account for calculating dates. We know that the Egyptians held the doctrine of the movement of the earth as well as the sun, and they appear to have combined the theory of the earth's annual revolution with that of the combined movement of the sun and the whole solar system in space. The orientation of the great Pyramid and most of the others is correct; and the reckoning of time was complicated and minute. For mechanics our best information is derived from the Pyramids, the tombs of kings. The astronomical and other purposes for which Professor Piazzi Smyth imagined the great Pyramid was erected, the lecturer showed to be fanciful and unsound. The angle of the inclined passages was, as Sir Henry James, R.E., had proved, very nearly "the angle of rest," and obviously intended to make the moving of the king's sarcophagus as easy as possible. The skill shown in all the construction of the Pyramids was marvellous, far surpassing that observed in the works of any other ancient nation. After noticing Egyptian music, Mr. Poole referred to the documents relating to medicine, which display attainments apparently not far below our own, two centuries ago. He then contrasted the ancient solid style of architecture, which in Egypt comprehended painting and sculpture, with the florid style of the Ptolemaic renaissance, pointing out the effect of Greek influence in producing new arrangements and forms which, if the Egyptians had not lost the finer sense of curve and line, would have resulted in an art of extraordinary beauty. Egyptian architecture far surpassed that of Chaldæa and Assyria, and its unparalleled solidity and durability was fitly emblematic of the belief in immortality which it was intended to embody. These interesting lectures will be published in the Contemporary Review.

---

Mr. Alexander Buchan, M.A., Secretary of the Meteorological Society of Scotland, will give a discourse on the Weather and Health of London at the next Friday evening meeting, on the 25th inst.

THE LAKE REGION OF AFRICA.

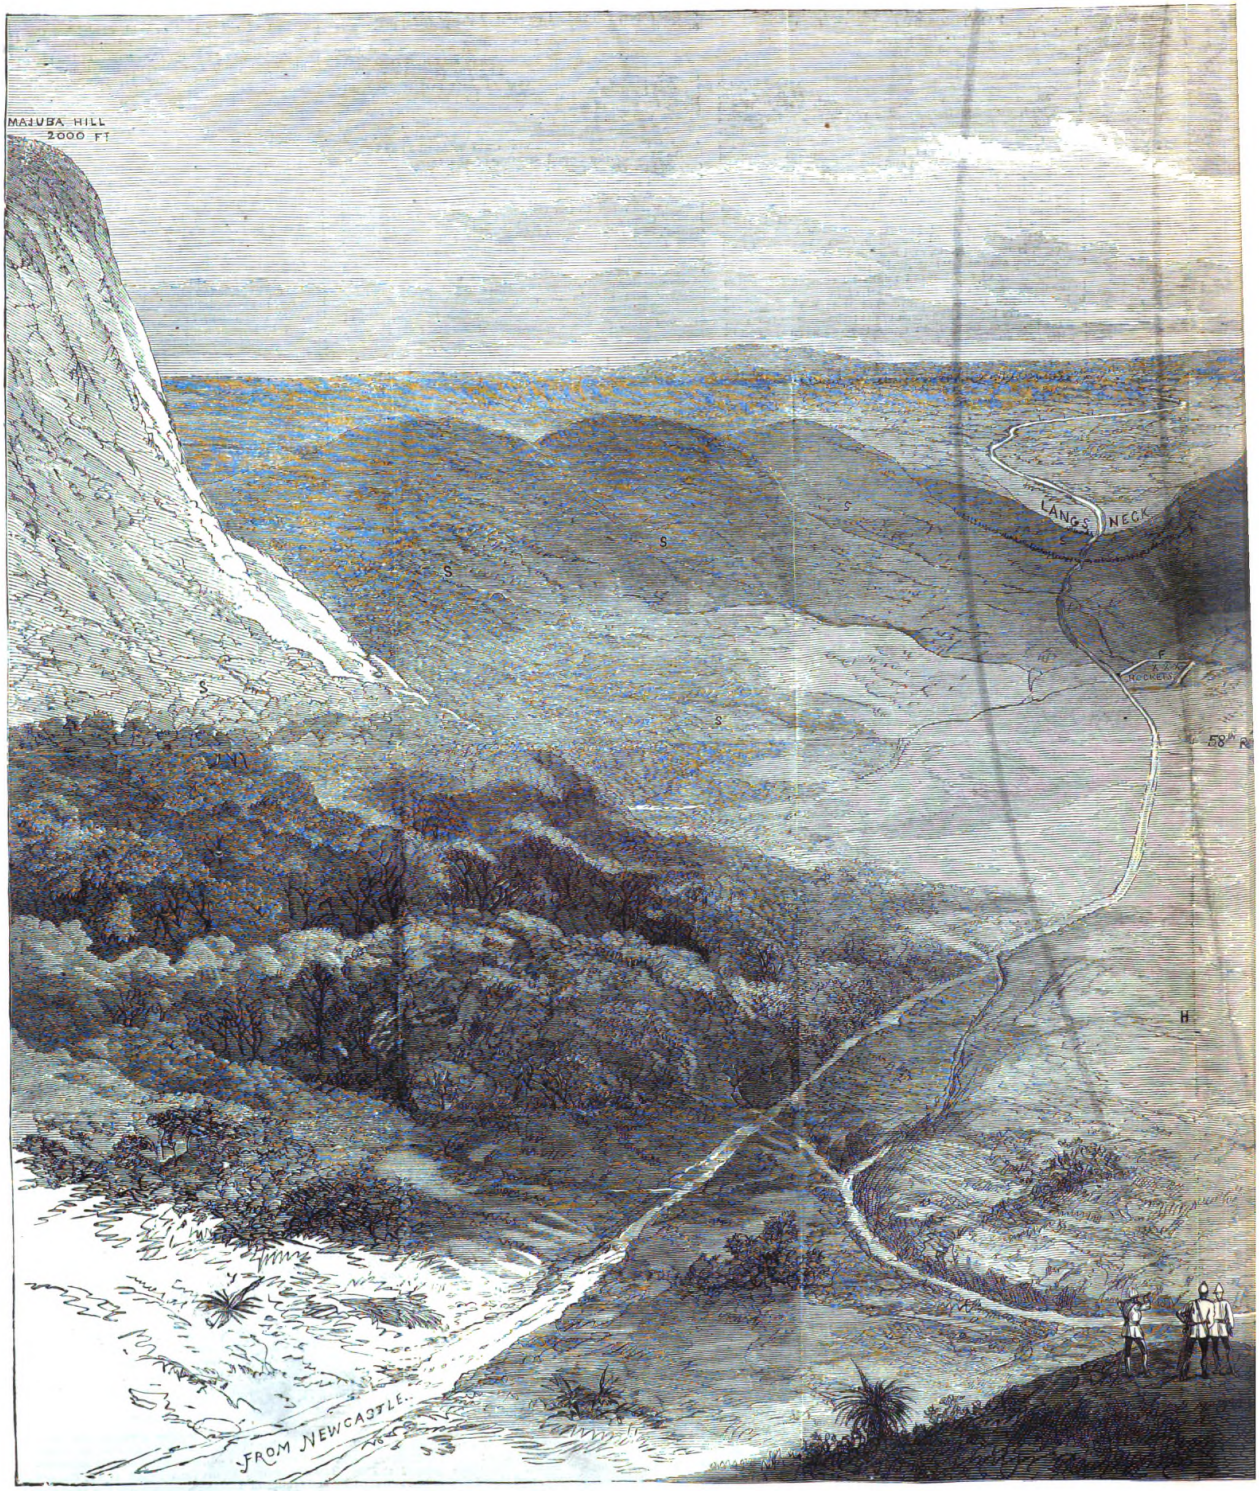
At a meeting of the members of the Royal Geographical Society on Monday evening, under the presidency of Sir Rutherford Alcock, Mr. J. Stewart, C.E., read a paper on "Lake Nyassa and the Water-Route to the Lake Region of Africa." In the course of his remarks the lecturer stated that the object of his expedition was to fix the position of the northern end of Lake Nyassa, and the southern end of Lake Tanganyika, and to discover a practical road between them. Within the past two or three months £11,000 had been promised him to carry on the work, which he proposed very shortly to undertake, with the aid of two English artisans. He had formed the opinion that only fifty miles of the proposed road would present any engineering difficulties. The problem of conveying a steamer to the northern end of Lake Nyassa would have to be solved; but, with that exception, he saw no reason why the scheme should not be an accomplished fact. He trusted that the London Missionary Society would adopt permanently the Nyassa route, and place a missionary station on the road between the two lakes. The lecturer gave some details respecting the physical aspects of the country through which he passed, remarking incidentally that his expenses up to Lake Tanganyika were only £36 per month. The natives were friendly, and he discovered that those at the southern end of Lake Nyassa could not understand the language spoken by the natives at its northern extremity. It would be found that the system of languages there presented a wide field of philological research. The natives had no musical instruments worthy of the name, but over their camp fires they sometimes joined in a chant describing the events of the day. On the outward journey, the total distance traversed between the two lakes was 248 miles.

---

For the convenience of persons corresponding with India, China, and other places, it has been decided to adopt postage stamps of the value of 5d., which will shortly be issued.

The first annual report (just issued) of the Council of the City and Guilds of London Institute for the advancement of technical education states that, owing to the necessity of making provision for the teaching of applied physics, applied chemistry, applied mechanics, and applied art, the estimated cost of building the Central Institution at Kensington will exceed the sum of £50,000, the minimum amount promised to be expended. The total cost is estimated at £76,000.

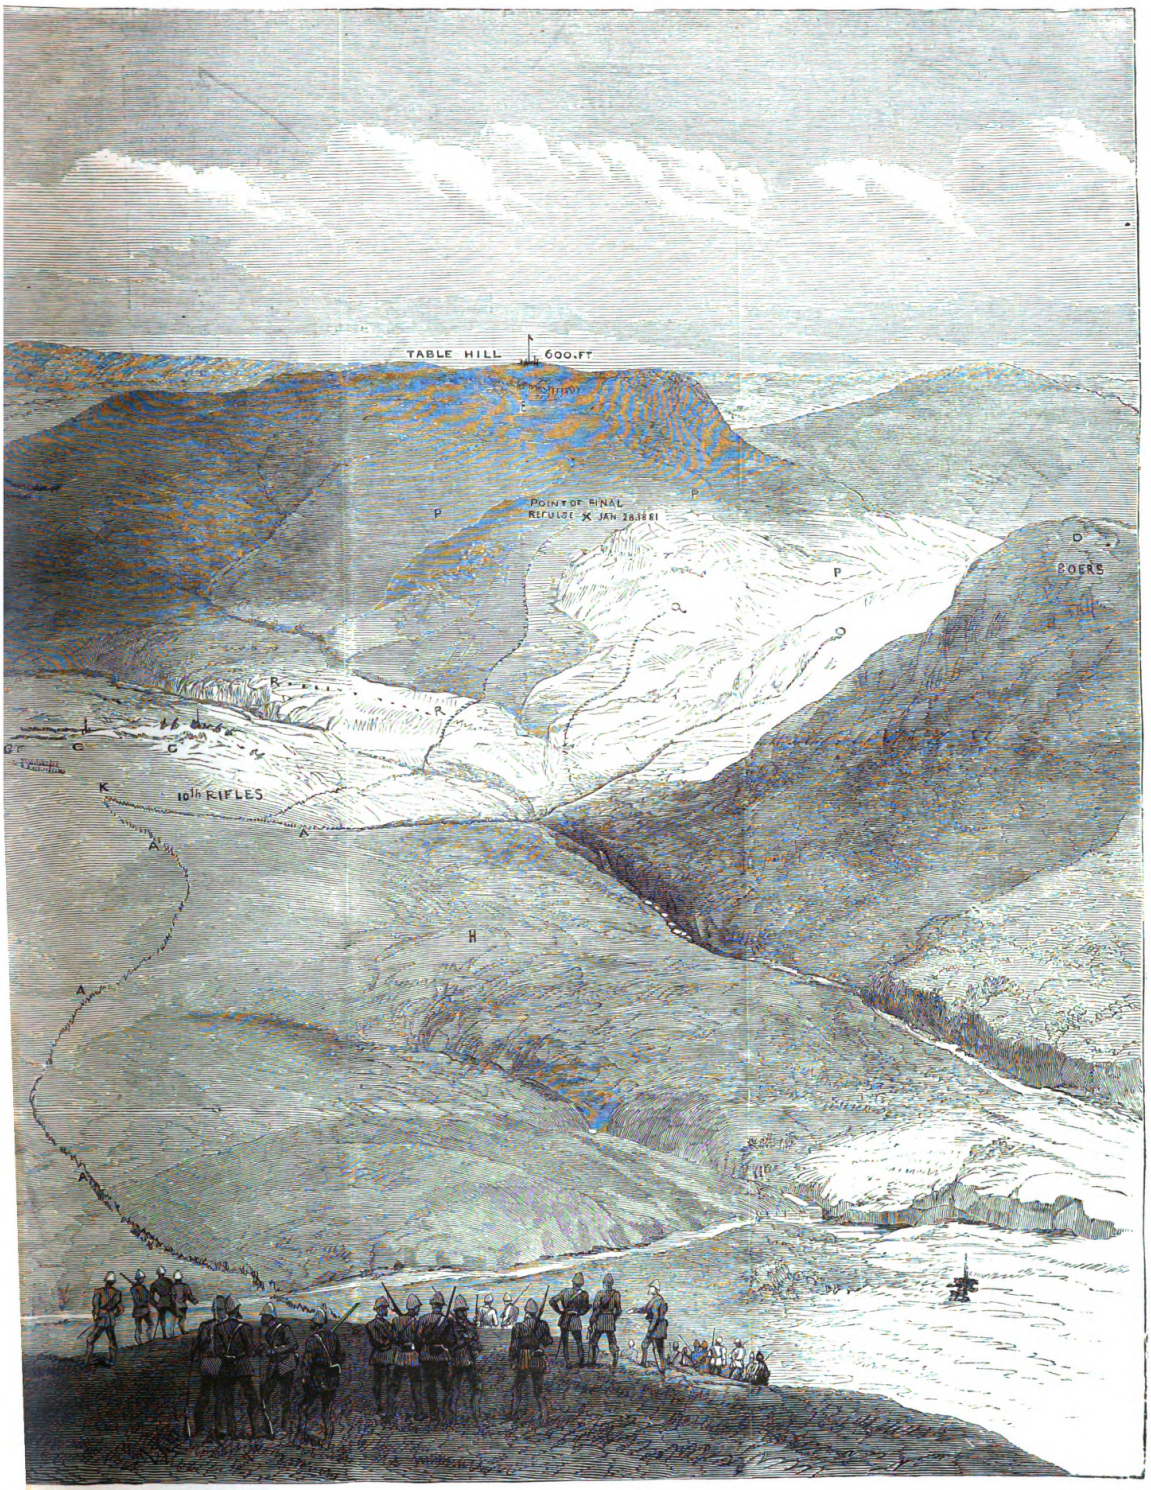
The custodianship of her Majesty's gold pantry at Windsor Castle, just rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Goring, is an office of great trust, as may be inferred from the fact that when the Queen entertained the Emperor of Russia, shortly after the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, gold plate to the value of some £2,000,000 is said to have been used. At a rough guess, the Royal gold and silver services at Windsor Palace are probably worth about £3,000,000, and include some very fine specimens of artistic workmanship.



A, A, A, A. Line of advance taken by 58th Regiment in the attack. C, C. Ground on which the troops actually formed. D. Round detached hill occupied by Boers. E. High Table Hill, the key of the position. F. Walle
K to O. Attempted advance of mounted troops, under Major Brownlow. P, P. Ground occupied by Boers after repulse of Brownlow. Q. Slope

THE TRANSVAAL WAR: REPULSE OF SIR G. COLLEY'S FI
FOUNDED UPON SIR G. COLLEY'S SKETCE

SEE PAGE 282.



nclosure, occupied by Naval Brigade with rockets.
ld by Major Essex, to cover the retreat.
G. Rifles and Natal Police, covering the left.
R, R. Part of 60th Rifles, covering the retreat.
H, H. Positions successively taken up by the Artillery, to protect the advance of the 58th Regiment.
S, S, S, S. Ground held by the Boers to the left.

ST ATTACK AT LAING'S NECK, JANUARY 28.
PLAN OF THE ACTION.

WEATHER-LORE OF THE MOON.

The common notion that the weather changes with the moon's quarters is still believed by most people, although, as the meteorologists have long ago pointed out, there is no ground for this fanciful lunar rule. It is curious, however, to find educated persons, to whom exact weather records are accessible, putting credence in this maxim of popular astrology. Hence, in many parts of the country great attention is paid to the day of the week on which the moon's change occurs. By general consent, Saturday is an unlucky day, and, according to a well-known proverb—

A Saturday's change and a Sunday's full moon
Once in seven years is once too soon.

A Norfolk version of this rhyme tells us—

Saturday new and Sunday full
Never was good and never will.

The same notion prevails in Scotland, where it is said—

Saturday's change, and Sunday's prime
Is enough in seven years' time.

A change on Sunday is not altogether propitious, as, we are told, it indicates that "there will be a flood before the month is out." A new moon on Monday, however, is in most places hailed as an omen of fair weather. Similar superstitions are found on the Continent; as, for instance, in some parts of France, where Friday is considered an unfavourable day for a change of the moon.

When the moon is in such a part of the ecliptic as to appear turned much over upon her back, wet weather may be expected; and we find various rhymes on the subject. Thus, one in Scotland gives the following admonition:—

The bonny moon is on her back;
Mend your shoes and sort your thack;

implying, as Mr. Chambers in his "Popular Rhymes of Scotland" tells us, mend your shoes, and see after the thatch of your cottages. In many places, when the moon is thus situated, it is said to be like a boat, and is thought to be a sign of fine weather—an idea which is thus mentioned by George Eliot in "Adam Bede:" "'It 'ud ha' been better if they ha' buried him i' the forenoon, when the rain was fallin': there's no likelihood of a drop now. An' the moon lies like a boat there. That's a sure sign of fair weather." Sailors, too, have a similar belief; for, to use their phrase, "You might hang your hat upon it." Southey notices this quaint piece of weather-lore, and assigns this curious reason for it:—"Poor Littledale has this day explained the cause of our late rains, which have prevailed for the last five weeks, by a theory which will probably be as new to you as it is to me. 'I have observed,' he says, 'that when the moon is turned upwards we have fine weather after it, but when it is turned downwards, then we have a wet season; and the reason, I think, is that, when it is turned down it holds no water, like a basin, you know, and then down it comes.'" In Liverpool the moon, when in this position, is regarded as a prognostic of foul weather, being thought to resemble a basin full of water about to fall. Occasionally, too, one may still hear the peasantry exclaim, when they seen the new moon's horns turned upwards, "the moon looks sharp, which betokens windy weather."

A pale moon is another sign of wet weather; a notion to which Shakspeare alludes in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (II. 1), where he makes Titania say:—

Therefore the moon, the governess of floods,
Pale in her anger, washes all the air,
That rheumatic diseases do abound;

a piece of weather-wisdom prevalent in France, where it is said that "A pale moon in evening or morning brings rain." When, however, it has a red appearance, it is believed to be indicative of wind—a notion to which Virgil alludes in his First "Georgic" (430-1). A clear bright moon, again, is always a welcome sight, being a good omen of fine dry weather. Thus, in summer-time, the farmer is admonished—

If the moon show a silver shield,
Be not afraid to reap your field;
But if she rises haloed round,
Soon we'll tread on deluged ground.

The prognostications drawn from these three aspects of the moon—its paleness, redness, and clearness—have been summed up in the following familiar adage, which is found in other countries besides our own:—

Pallida luna pluit; rubicunda flat; alba serenat.

When a halo is seen round the moon, it is supposed to foretell rain; or, as the peasantry express it, "The moon with a circle brings water in her beak." According to the Scotch rhyme,

About the moon there is a brugh;
The weather will be cauld and rough.

The term brugh, says Mr. Chambers, is the early Teutonic word for circle: the same phrase is applied to circular forts on hills. If this hazy circle be wide, and at some distance from the moon, it is a sign that the rain will be delayed for sometime; if, on the other hand, it be close, and, as it were, adhering to the disc of the moon, rain may be expected very soon. In Suffolk, however, the proverb runs,

Far burr, near rain;
Near burr, far rain.

Again, foggy weather in the last quarter of the moon is thought to betoken moisture, in allusion to which there is a rhyme in Scotland—

Auld moon mist
Ne'er died of thirst.

When the old moon appears in the arms of the new one, it is reckoned a sign of fine weather; or, in other words, when that part of the moon which is covered with the shadow of the earth is seen through it. This superstition is spoken of in the ballad of Sir Patrick Spence:—

Late, late yestre'en I saw the new moone,
Wi' the auld moone in her arme;
And I fear, I fear, my dear master,
That we will come to harme.

There is a popular belief among seafaring men that whenever a planet or large star is seen near the moon, or, to make use of their own phrase, "a big star is dogging the moon," wild and tempestuous weather will soon set in. A correspondent of "Notes and Queries" tells us that some years ago a fisherman of Torquay told him, after a violent gale, that he had foreseen the storm, as he had observed one star ahead of the Moon towing her, and another astern chasing her." There are numerous other items of weather-lore associated with the Moon, to which, however, space will only permit us briefly to allude. Thus, for instance, at Whitby, when the Moon is surrounded by a halo with watery clouds, the seamen say there will shortly be a change of weather, as the "Moon dogs" are about. In some localities the peasantry affirm that "two full moons in a calendar month bring on a flood;" and according to an old adage—

In the decay of the moon
A cloudy morning bodes a fair afternoon.

A Suffolk rhyme informs us that the new moon

When early seen
'Tis seldom seen,

on account of the rain clouds which are said to follow its early appearance.

CHESS.

F B (Paris).—We shall be glad to receive the problems you refer to.

Dr F St (Blandford-square).—We shall take an early opportunity of reporting on all your problems. Thanks.

J B R (Munich).—The last pair are good, and if found correct they shall appear.

W F C (Essex).—By the phrase "Mates accordingly" signifies that White's play varies according to Black's defence.

W B B (Honiton).—You are too positive by half. After your moves 1. B to B 6th, R to Q 4th; 2. Q to K 7th (ch), if Black play 2. K takes Kt, how do you propose to mate on the third move?

H M P (Plymouth).—If correct, it is very good, and shall have a diagram.

G H (Gateshead-street).—The manual you mention is the best for general purposes.

F J K (Vienna).—Your problems are always welcome, and we are obliged for the photograph portrait.

P S S (Ilford). The games are good, and very acceptable.

Hereward (Oxford).—The game shall have our best attention and early examination.

Correct Solutions of Problems Nos. 1925, 1926, and 1927 received from M Mackinnin Pillay (Secunderabad); of No. 1925, from W Pocock (Cape Town); of Nos. 1927 and 1928, from W R B (Toronto); of Nos. 1928 and 1929, from Va (U. S.); of No. 1929, from the Rev John Wills (Portland, U.S.A.); and of No. 1930 from James Atkinson.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1931 received from Pierce Jones, J Atkinson, Emile Frau, and P S Shencle.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1932 received from Z Ingold, Jane Nepven, E L G, D W (Guernsey), Pierce Jones, B C M S, Emile Frau, J Bumstead, M H Moorhouse, and P S Shencle.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1933 received from H B, Shadforth, S Farrant, F G Parslow, C S Cole, An Old Hand, R Gray, M O'Halloran, R T Kemp, A M Colborne, Aaron Harper, Nerina, C Darrach, C Oswald, E Elsbury, T Greenbank, Otto Fulder (Ghent), D W Keil, L Falcon (Antwerp), Ben Nevis, Semaj, F E Thomson, A R, R Ingersoll, L Sharwood, E Sharwood, Lavinia Grove, Gustav Michal (Rotterdam), J G Anstee, B R Wood, J Perez Ventoso, W Hillier, Portobello, R B Duff, J E Player, Sidmouth, Cant, Œdipus East Marden, S Lowndes, E P Villiamy, Z Ingold, Lulu, B G, J W Waugh, "Coleman-street Exchange," John Schooling, Thomas Young, Thomas Webb (age thirteen), T Chaloner, Hereward, W Biddle, G A (Beachurch), H F (Spartan Chess Club), Julia Short, J Alois Schmucke, James Dobson, F Bordas, Stuart Berkeley, P S Shencle, C Z Macaulay, J H Symington, R L Dyke, H Blacklock, E Casella, Elsie, C H C (Leeds), Pierce Jones, Eastbach, Norman Rumbelow, H J Grant, W H Latham, F W Humphries, W P Welch, B C M S, Henry B Todd, R H Brooks, Emile Frau, E Bohnstedt, William Scott, Fitzwarine, W F Wood, J W W, C C M (Dundee), Smatch, Pingopin, M H Moorhouse, J J Heaton, Hereward, Theodor Willink, Robert Sutcliff, Mrs Clough Taylor, Rev W F Clements, J R Rapp (Munich), Dr P St, E Louden, C Wood, John Wood, and Cholwell.

Correct Solutions of the Hermit's Problem received from F G Parslow, An Old Hand, Otto Fulder, L Falcon, J G Anstee, H Blacklock, E Casella (Paris), Joseph Ainsworth, S Lowndes, F E Thomson, East Marden, and E Bohnstedt.

Solution of Problem No. 1932.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. Kt to Q 5th | K to B 5th (best) |
| 2. Q to Kt 4th (ch) | K takes Kt |
| 3. B to B 3rd. Mate. | |

PROBLEM No. 1935.
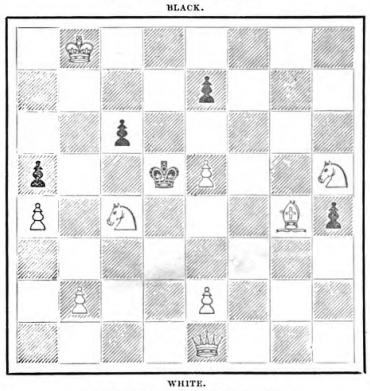
By Sergeant-Major MacArthur.

BLACK.



WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

A Game played recently at the Buda-Pesth Chess Club, in a Match between Dr. Jakoby and Dr. Vidor.
(Irregular Opening.)

| WHITE (Dr. V.) | BLACK (Dr. J.) |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th |
| 2. P to Q B 4th | |

A feeble continuation, the effect of which is to weaken the Queen's Pawn.

| | |
|---|---|
| 2 | B to B 4th |
| 3. Kt to K B 3rd | P to Q 3rd |
| 4. B to K 2nd | P to K B 4th |
| 5. P takes P | Kt to Q B 3rd |
| 6. P to Q 3rd | Q B takes P |
| 7. Castles | Kt to K B 3rd |

Assuming Black to be the first player, we have in this position a curious variation of the King's Gambit, in which White has indeed a poor game.

| | |
|---|---|
| 8. Kt to R 4th | B to K 3rd |
| 9. B to R 5th (ch) | P to K Kt 3rd |
| 10. B to R 2nd | Castles |
| 11. B to R 6th | |

These manœuvres of the Bishops appear to us to be sheer waste of time.

| | |
|---|---|
| 11. | Kt to K 5th |

Correctly played. If White now takes R with P, then follows:—

| WHITE (Dr. V.) | BLACK (Dr. J.) |
|---|---|
| 12. | Kt takes P |
| 13. R takes Kt | B takes R (ch) |
| 14. K takes B | Q takes Kt (ch) |
| 15. K to Kt sq | B takes R, &c., |

and if 12. P takes Kt, then 12. R takes P with a winning game.

| | |
|---|---|
| 12. B to K 3rd | Kt takes K B P |
| 13. B takes Kt | R takes B |
| 14. R takes R | Q takes Kt |
| 15. Q to K B sq | R to K B sq |
| 16. B to B 3rd | R takes B |

Well played. There is no time lost on this side.

| | |
|---|---|
| 17. P takes R | B to R 6th |
| 18. Q to K sq | Q to Kt 4th (ch) |
| 19. K to K sq | B takes R |
| 20. Q takes B | Q to B 8th (ch) |
| 21. Q to Kt sq | Q takes Kt P |
| 22. Kt to B 3rd | B to Kt 7th (ch) |
| 23. Q takes B | Q takes R (ch) |
| 24. Q to Kt sq | Q takes Kt. |

White resigned.

Played in the French National Tourney between MM. Chasseray and A. De Riviere. The notes are by M. Rosenthal, and, with the Game, are quoted from La Revue Illustrée.
(Sicilian Defence.)

| WHITE (M. C.) | BLACK (M. De R.) |
|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to Q B 4th |
| 2. P to Q B 4th | |

The usual continuation is 2. Kt to Q B 3rd; 3. P to K Kt 3rd, or 3. Kt to K B 3rd, &c.

| | |
|---|---|
| 2. | Kt to Q B 3rd |
| 3. Kt to Q B 3rd | P to K Kt 3rd |
| 4. P to K B 4th | P to Q 3rd |
| 5. Kt to K B 3rd | B to Kt 2nd |
| 6. P to Q 3rd | P to K 3rd |

6. B to K Kt 5th is stronger.

| | |
|---|---|
| 7. B to K 3rd | Q to Q R 4th |
| 8. Q to Q 2nd | P to Q R 3rd |
| 9. B to K 2nd | |

9. P to Q 4th is the coup juste.

| | |
|---|---|
| 9. | P to Q Kt 4th |

Very well played. Black now obtains a good attack.

| | |
|---|---|
| 10. P takes P | |

This move is forced, for if he does not take the Pawn, Black will do so, afterwards playing the Q to Kt square, with a winning advantage.

| | |
|---|---|
| 10. | P takes P |
| 11. Castles | P to Kt 5th |
| 12. Kt to Q sq | Q to Kt 3rd |

Anticipating and preventing 13. P to Q 4th.

| | |
|---|---|
| 13. Kt to K B 2nd | K Kt to K 2nd |
| 14. P to K R 3rd | |

Lost time. 14. Q R to Q sq, followed by 15. P to Q 4th, is the right line of play here.

| | |
|---|---|
| 14. | Castles |
| 15. K R to Q B sq | R to R 4th |
| 16. Q R to Kt sq | P to Q 4th |

If he had taken the Pawn, White would have improved his position by 17. P to K 5th.

| | |
|---|---|
| 17. Kt to Kt 4th | P to K B 4th |
| 18. P takes Q P | |

An unfortunate oversight, which loses a clear piece.

| | |
|---|---|
| 18. | P takes Kt |
| 19. P takes Kt | P takes Kt |
| 20. B takes P | Kt to Q 4th |
| 21. B takes Kt | P takes B |
| 22. P to R 3rd | P to Q 5th |
| 23. B to B 2nd | P to Kt 6th |
| 24. R to K sq | R to R 2nd |
| 25. R to K 2nd | Q takes P |
| 26. Q R to K sq | Q R to K B 2nd |
| 27. B to Kt 3rd | P to B 5th |
| 28. P to Kt 4th | Q takes B P |
| 29. R to Q B sq | Q to Q 4th |
| 30. Q to Kt 4th | B to Q R 3rd |
| 31. R to K B 2nd | R to Kt 2nd |
| 32. Q to Q 2nd | R to K 2nd |
| 33. K to R 2nd | K Kt to K sq |
| 34. Q to Kt 4th | R to K 7th |
| 35. R to B 5th | Q to Kt 2nd |
| 36. Q to R 4th | P to Q 6th |
| 37. P to B 5th | P takes P |
| 38. R to Q B 6th | Q to Kt 4th |

After this fine coup White resigned. If he had continued the game by 39. Q takes R, then would have followed 39. Q takes Q; 40. R takes Q, R takes R; 41. B takes R, P to Q 7th, and wins.

The telegraphic match between the Liverpool and Calcutta Chess Clubs has been brought to a conclusion by both sides agreeing to draw the second game. The first game, which we published soon after its termination, was won by Liverpool, whose representatives have therefore proved victorious in the match. The battle was waged for the honour of victory only, and its conduct throughout was marked by the most friendly feelings on both sides.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated March 15, 1879) with a codicil (dated Aug. 11, 1880) of Mr. John Handley, late of Newark-on-Trent, Notts, and of Clipsham Hall, Rutland, who died on Dec. 8 last, was proved at the Nottingham district registry on the 8th ult. by Philip Handley, the brother, and the Rev. Edward Handley, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £100,000. Among other legacies, the testator leaves £100 to the General Hospital, near Nottingham; the advowson of the parish church of Winthorpe, Notts, his real estate near Gainsborough, Lincolnshire, and all his furniture, plate, pictures, effects, cattle, horses and harness at his residence, Newark-on-Trent, to his said brother; and his furniture, plate, pictures, cattle, horses, harness, and effects at Clipsham Hall, to his nephew, John William Handley Davenport. All his manors, advowsons, messuages, land, hereditaments, and real estate (except what is otherwise given) he devises to the use of his said nephew for life, and then to his nephew's son, John Handley, in strict settlement. His freehold and copyhold property at Spitall is directed to be sold, and the proceeds, with the residue of the personalty, laid out in the purchase of freehold estate in the counties of Lincoln and Rutland, to be settled in a similar manner. Provision is made that any person succeeding to the said settled estates shall take the name of Handley in addition to his own, and also quarter the arms of the testator.

The will (dated June 12, 1876) of Mr. Samuel Barker Booth, late of No. 3, Gray's Inn, and of Effingham Lodge, Bickley Park, who died on the 3rd ult., was proved on the 25th ult. by Samuel Barker Booth, the son, Allan McLaren Brown, and Frederick Francis Burnay, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £50,000. The testator bequeaths to his wife £500 and his wines, household stores, books, articles of use and ornament, horses and carriages, with an annuity of £1500 while she remains his widow; to his daughters £5000 each, payable five years after his decease, and annuities in the meantime; and gifts to his sons, executors, clerks, and a servant. The residue of his real and personal property is to be divided between all his sons.

The will (dated Dec. 21, 1861) of Mr. Frederick Harrison, formerly of No. 15, Carlton-villas, Maida-vale, but late of Warrior-square, Hastings, who died on Jan. 10 last, was proved on the 4th inst. by Mrs. Caroline Harrison, the widow and sole executrix, to whom he gives, devises, and bequeaths all his real and personal estate absolutely. The personalty is sworn under £35,000.

The will (dated March 3, 1880) with a codicil (dated Aug. 19 following) of Sir Benjamin Collins Brodie, Bart., D.C.L., formerly Professor of Chemistry in the University of Oxford, late of Brockham Warren, Surrey, who died on Nov. 24 last at Torquay, was proved on the 4th inst. by Henry John Stephen Smith and Godfrey Lushington, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £30,000. The testator, after reciting that his wife is sufficiently provided for by settlement, bequeaths his plate to be divided between his daughters; the furniture, works of art, effects, and the "Proceedings and Transactions of the Royal Society" at Brockham Warren to his son, Benjamin Vincent Sellon Brodie, and there are other gifts to him. The remainder of his property is left to or upon trust for all his daughters.

The will (dated May 19, 1879) of Major-General Edward Tuite Dalton, C.S.I., late of Queen Anne's-mansions, who died on Dec. 30 last at Cannes, was proved on the 1st inst. by the Marquis of Headfort and Sir Francis Fortescue Turville, K.C.M.G., the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £20,000. The testator bequeaths £500 to the Anglican Mission, Ranchi Chota Nagpore, for the general purposes of the said mission or to build a chapel at any of the outlying stations; £12,000 for the children of his brother Gustavus, and legacies to his godchildren and servants. The residue of his property, real and personal, he gives to his nephew, Godfrey John Bective Tuite Dalton.

The will (dated Nov. 16, 1880) of Mr. William I'Anson, late of Hungerford House, Norton, in the East Riding of York, who died on Jan. 10 last, has been proved at the district registry, York, by Miles Samuel Inglis I'Anson, the son and sole executor, the personal estate being sworn under £16,000. The testator leaves to wife, Mrs. Mary I'Anson, his wines, consumable stores, linen, glass, and china, and for life the part of Hungerford House occupied by himself, with the furniture, effects, racing cups, plates, pictures, and books; the other part of Hungerford House is left to his daughters, Mary and Susan, while they remain spinsters. He also leaves to his said wife and daughters rent charges of £100 per annum, secured on his Highfield property; and, subject to these charges, he gives the said property to his son William; to his son George, £5000; and there are legacies to or upon trust for his married daughters, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Dawson, and Mrs. Winter. The residue of his real and personal estate he gives to his son Miles.

The will (dated Nov. 20, 1879) with two codicils (dated Dec. 8, 1879, and Dec. 22, 1880) of Sir Thomas Tobin, late of Ballincollig, county Cork, who died on Jan. 9 last, was proved in London on the 28th ult. by James Aspinall Tobin, the brother, and Alfred Aspinall Tobin, the nephew, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £12,000. The testator, among other legacies, leaves £186 to the Royal National Life-Boat Institution, which, with £114 already paid by him in penny subscriptions, he requests may be expended in or towards the purchase of a life-boat to be called Arthur Lionel, in memory of his son, late of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers; and the residue of his property upon trust for Mrs. Olivia Maria Tobin, the wife of his said brother, for life, then to his said brother, and on the death of the survivor of them, for their children, as they shall appoint.

The will (dated Feb. 22, 1864) of the Hon. Francis Stonor, late of No. 78, South Audley-street, Grosvenor-square, who died on Jan. 10 last, was proved on the 25th ult. by the Hon. Mrs. Eliza Stonor, the widow and acting executrix, the personal estate being sworn under £6000. The testator bequeaths to his wife £500 and his plate, jewellery, furniture, and effects; and the residue of the personalty upon trust for her for life, and then for all his children.

Volunteer regiments representing nearly 20,000 men have applied for permission to take part in the operations at Brighton on Easter Monday, and it is understood that this number will probably be increased by 7000 or 8000 more.

The Government have resolved to transform Chester Castle from a civil into a military prison. The county prisoners will be turned over to Knutsford Gaol, accommodation being provided at the castle only for prisoners awaiting trial.

A collision occurred off the Start, near Plymouth, last Saturday. The Benin, a barque-rigged steamer, belonging to the African Steam-Ship Company, laden with iron, ebony, palm oil, and coffee, was run into by the steam-ship Duke of Buccleuch, belonging to the Teuton line. The Benin sank, taking down a cargo estimated to be worth £150,000, but no life was lost.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2184.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1881. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR THE LATE EMPEROR OF RUSSIA IN THE GREEK CHURCH, MOSCOW-ROAD, BAYSWATER.—SEE PAGE 293.

BIRTHS.

On the 17th inst., at Dun's-Tew, Deddington, Oxon, the Lady Mary Dashwood, of a daughter

On the 18th inst., at Bedale, the Lady Adelaide Beresford-Pierse, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 21st inst., at Braywood Church, Windsor Forest, Colonel Harford, Scots Guards, of Down-place, Windsor, to Florence Helen Isabel, youngest daughter of the Hon. Lawrence Parsons.

On Jan. 6, at St. Paul's Church, Durban, Edward Arthur Robert, eldest son of Mr. Justice Innes, Judge, High Court, Madras, to Isabel Hope, eldest daughter of W. H. Acutt, Esq., of Durban, Cape of Good Hope.

DEATHS.

On the 17th inst., at 41, Upper Baker-street, Regent's Park, Elizabeth Sophia, the wife of George Weaver. Friends, kindly accept this intimation.

On the 16th inst., at 25, Bunhill-row, London, E.C., after a long illness, Mary, only daughter of George Shepperd, of Aberdeen, and widow of Robert Mailer, of Dundee, in her 84th year.

On the 19th inst., at Trereife, Penzance, D. P. Le Grice, Esq., aged 81.

On the 17th inst., at Colville-square, W., after a very short illness, Fanny, last surviving daughter of the late James Lloyd, of 23, St. Paul's-terrace, Islington, N., in her 49th year.

On the 17th inst., at The Parsonage, Rownhams, Southampton, the Lady Helena Trench, aged 90.

On the 16th inst., at 60, Avenue-road, Regent's Park, Lady Lush, wife of Lord Justice Lush, in her 63rd year.

On the 19th inst., at 13, Grosvenor-gardens, William, fourth Earl of St. Germans, in the 52nd year of his age.

On the 9th inst., at Lisbon, the Viscountess d'Airey.

On the 9th inst., at Florence, aged 47, George Albert Augustus Walker, late Captain Royal Artillery, youngest son of the late General Sir George Townshend Walker, Bart., G.C.B., K.C.T. and S., Colonel of the 50th Foot, and Lieutenant Governor of Chelsea Hospital.

On the 18th inst., at 33, Eaton-place, the Lady Emily C. Bathurst, aged 70.

On the 18th inst., at Nice, Lady Mildred Beresford-Hope, aged 58.

On the 19th inst., at 13, Grosvenor-gardens, William, fourth Earl of St. Germans, in the 52nd year of his age.

 *The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 2.

SUNDAY, MARCH 27.

Fourth Sunday in Lent.
Morning Lessons: Gen. xlii.; Luke ii. 21. Evening Lessons: Gen. xliii or xliv; 1 Cor. xvi.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Humphry, Rector of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Gregory; 7 p.m., Rev. Canon Norris.
Temple Church, 11 a.m.; 3 p.m., Rev. A. Ainger, the Reader.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. Canon Prothero; 3 p.m., Hon. and Rev. Francis E. C. Byng.
St. James's, noon, Rev. Telgnmouth Shore.
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Very Rev. Dr. Payne Smith, Dean of Canterbury; 3 p.m., Rev. Dr. E. A. Perowne, Vice-Chancellor, Cambridge.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m. and 7 p.m., the Bishop of Derry, Dr. W. Alexander.

MONDAY, MARCH 28.

British Architects' Institute, 8 p.m. (Mr. J. Stevenson on Historical Documents).
Geographical Society, 8.30 p.m. (Mr. J. H. Minchin on Eastern Bolivia and the Gran Chaco).
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Professor W. G. Adams on Electric Lighting).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Actuaries' Institute, 7 p.m.

TUESDAY, MARCH 29.

Full moon, 10.32 p.m.
Her Majesty's Drawingroom, Buckingham Palace, 3 p.m.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Exeter Hall reopened, Jubilee Day (Lord Shaftesbury in the chair).
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. (discussion on the Corosion of Iron and Steel).
Ladies' Home, Bournemouth, amateur concert, Willis's Rooms, 8.30 p.m.
Races: Croydon Spring Meeting.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30.

College of Physicians, Croonian Lecture, 5 p.m. (Dr. Moxon on the Influence of the Circulation on the Nervous System).
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. W. H. Preece on Recent Advances in Electric Lighting).
Botanic Society Exhibition, 2 p.m
Chemical Society, anniversary, 8 p.m.
Royal Normal College for the Blind, meeting at Exeter Hall.
Asaham Society, 8.30 p.m. (Miss G. Kellogg's Recitations).

THURSDAY, MARCH 31.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. H. H. Statham on Ornament).
Royal Albert Orphan Asylum, Bagshot, anniversary, noon.
Civil and Mechanical Engineers' Society, 7 p.m. (Mr. G. J. Child on Lifts for Warehouses, &c.).
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Antiquaries' Society, 8.30 p.m.
Home for Little Boys, Farringham, evening assembly, Exeter Hall, choir of 500 boys.
Races: Bromley, Croxton Park.

FRIDAY, APRIL 1.

College of Physicians, Lumleian Lecture, 5 p.m. (Dr. Southey on Bright's Disease).
Architectural Association, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. Riddett on Swimming-Baths).
Royal Institution, 9 p.m. (Sir Henry S. Maine on the King in his Relation to Early Civil Justice, 9.
Geologists' Association, 8 p.m.
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. Captain Walter H. James on the Best Means of Adapting the Existing Military Forces to the Requirements of the Empire).
Philological Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. Russell Martineau on the Rhæto-Romanic Dialect).
Library Association, 8 p.m.

SATURDAY, APRIL 2.

Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Rev. H. R. Haweis on American Humorists—James Russell Lowell.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| DAY. | DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected. | Temperature of the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 p.m. | Minimum, read at 10 a.m. | WIND. General Direction. | Movement in the day, in miles. | Rain in the day, fresh at 10 a.m. next morning. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inches. | ° | ° | Sat. | ° | ° | | | Miles. | In. |
| 13 | 29.577 | 43.1 | 39.6 | 88 | 10 | 51.0 | 38.8 | E. | 368 | 0.000 |
| 14 | 29.853 | 41.8 | 40.5 | 75 | 6 | 48.8 | 36.8 | E. ENE. | 194 | 0.005 |
| 15 | 30.214 | 42.3 | 36.2 | 81 | 7.7 | 52.6 | 34.5 | ENE. NE. | 132 | 0.063* |
| 16 | 30.058 | 49.2 | 37.0 | 87 | 7.7 | 56.5 | 31.2 | ENE. ENE. | 49 | 0.005* |
| 17 | 30.431 | 44.4 | 40.1 | 87 | 1 | 48.9 | 42.2 | ENE. WNW. | 81 | 0.05* |
| 18 | 30.069 | 46.5 | 38.8 | 80 | 7 | 50.7 | 38.5 | WSW. W. WSW. | 248 | 0.00 |
| 19 | 29.824 | 47.0 | 38.3 | 76 | 2 | 53.8 | 41.0 | WSW. W. | 310 | 0.000 |

* Dew.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected .. | 29.929 | 29.845 | 29.192 | 30.380 | 30.511 | 30.481 | 30.313 |
| Temperature of Air .. | 42.9 | 46.9 | 47.2 | 52.6 | 48.1 | 44.9 | 46.9 |
| Temperature of Evaporation .. | 42.5 | 46.6 | 44.1 | 47.6 | 47.1 | 44.9 | 44.9 |
| Direction of Wind .. .. | ESE. | E. | S.S. | ESE. | ENE. | W. | W. |

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 2.

| Sunday. | | Monday. | | Tuesday. | | Wednesday. | | Thursday. | | Friday. | | Saturday. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| M. | A. | M. | A. | M. | A. | M. | A. | M. | A. | M. | A. | M. | A. |
| h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. | h. m. |
| 1 26 | — | 0 25 | 1 0 | 0 51 | 1 37 | 1 18 | 2 2 | 1 48 | 2 31 | 2 21 | 3 5 | 2 54 | 3 40 |

BRIGHTON. — PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 10.0 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.45 p.m. On Sundays at 10.45 a.m., and from Brighton on Sundays at 8.30 p.m.
EVERY SUNDAY.—A Cheap First-Class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY SATURDAY. Cheap First-Class Trains from Victoria at 10.50 and 11.50 a.m., and London Bridge at 9.20 a.m. and 12 0 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon.
Day Return Fare—First Class, Half-a-Guinea (including admission to the Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion Picture Gallery, Palace, and Grounds), available to return by any Train the same day, except the 5.45 p.m. Pullman Car Train.
(By order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS

A NEW JOURNAL FOR THE YOUNG.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

The Proprietors of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS will issue the first Illustrated Weekly Newspaper for Boys, price One Penny, on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1881. It will be entitled the "BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS," and will be a journal full of entertainment and information for Youth, and at the same time a paper which parents can with confidence place in the hands of their children.

THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS will be edited by Captain MAYNE REID and Mr. JOHN LATEY, Junior, who will present week by week a combination of the best of Romance, Adventure, Natural History, and an interesting summary of the World's News, especially written for Youth, each department of the paper being illustrated by eminent Artists.

Captain MAYNE REID, a Veteran in the art of story-telling for boys, will prove by his fresh and original opening Romance, "THE LOST MOUNTAIN," that his right hand has lost none of its cunning. Indeed, for concentration of interest, for rousing and yet unexaggerated episodes, surpassed from life, "THE LOST MOUNTAIN" excels even "The Scalp Hunters," "Oceola," and the countless other tales by this famous Author, whose works have been read wherever the English language is spoken, and have been translated into every Continental tongue. The same master-hand will contribute short stories of Adventure and new Notes on Natural History to THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS.

OUTDOOR SPORTS and INDOOR PASTIMES will be chronicled every week by an Old Boy, who will deal with Rowing, Running, Football, Cricket, Swimming, Fishing, and all healthy Recreations in a chatty manner, particularly acceptable to boys. Deeds of Heroism will be depicted and recorded. Wit and Humour will unfailingly find a place in THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS—the first Numbers of which, however, will best speak for themselves.

With Number 1, on April 6, will be presented, GRATIS, a carefully prepared Supplement, entitled "THE ROYAL MIDDIES," being Portraits of the Prince of Wales's 2,500-ton sea-going ship, accompanying which will appear the first leaf of "A Middy's Experiences."

PRICE ONE PENNY; POST-FREE, 1½d. MONTHLY PARTS, 6d.

THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS will be published by Mr. THOMAS FOX, 10, Milford-lane, Strand, London.

Orders should at once be given for THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS to any Newsagent or Bookseller in the Kingdom, or to the Publisher.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION—
FOR THE UNITED KINGDOM:
Twelve Months, 6s. 6d.

ABROAD:

Post-free to any part of Europe, United States of America, Canada, and Egypt, for One Year, 6s. 6d.; to India, Ceylon, China, and Japan, for One Year, 8s. 8d. Elsewhere Abroad, One Year, 8s. 8d. Subscriptions to be paid in advance direct by Post-Office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to THOMAS FOX, 10, Milford-lane, Strand, London.

SOCIETY OF LADY ARTISTS. — EXHIBITION NOW OPEN. Gallery, 48, Great Marlborough-street. Admission, 1s. Catalogue, 6d. Ten till 5.30.

THE ANNUAL SPRING EXHIBITION OF HIGH-CLASS PICTURES by BRITISH AND FOREIGN ARTISTS, including Professor Leopold Carl Muller's picture, "An Encampment Outside Cairo," is now open at ARTHUR TOOTH and SONS' Gallery, 5, Haymarket. Admission, One Shilling.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM;" "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

WILLIS'S ROOMS, ST. JAMES'S.
Under the Immediate patronage of
Their Royal Highnesses the DUKE and DUCHESS of CONNAUGHT,
Their Royal Highnesses PRINCE and PRINCESS CHRISTIAN,
Their Serene Highnesses the DUKE and DUCHESS OF TECK, &c.
AN AMATEUR CONCERT, in AID of the BOURNEMOUTH HOME for INVALID LADIES, on TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 29, at 8.30 o'Clock. The Viscountess Folkestone, Miss Venetia Cavendish Bentinck, Miss Graham, Miss Wakefield; Mr. Donald Graham, Mr. Henry Graham, the Hon. Spencer Lyttelton, Mr. Marriott, Mr. Charles Wade, Herr Louis Mahr, and Mr. Barnby have kindly consented to take part in the concert.
Tickets, 12s. 6d. each, may be had of the Lady Patronesses; or of Messrs. Novello, Ewer, and Co., 1, Berners-street, W.; Messrs. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street, W.; Mr. Mitchell, 33, Old Bond-street, W.; and the usual Agents.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP, Act 4.—Mrs. Lilia Levey, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss. THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 8.30.—Mr. Irving. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats booked by letter or telegram.
CORSICAN BROTHERS.—LAST MORNING PERFORMANCES, TO-DAY, SATURDAY, MARCH 26, and SATURDAY, APRIL 2. Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, Mr. Irving. Doors open at Two.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. A New First Part, MANY HAPPY RETURNS, by Gilbert A'Beckett and Clement Scott; Music by Edward Lenoir. A New Musical Sketch, OUR LIBRETTE, by Mr. Corney Grain; and ALL AT SEA, by Arthur Law; Music by Corney Grain. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at Eight, Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s., Stalls, 3s., 5s. No fees. Will Close Monday, April 4; Reopen Easter Monday, at Three and Eight.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

| | |
|---|---|
| Twelve months (including Christmas Number), | £1 9s. 3d. |
| Six months, 14s. | Christmas Half-Year, 13s. 3d. |
| Three months, 7s. | Christmas Quarter, 8s. 3d. |

Copies will be supplied direct from the Office to any part of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands, for any period, at the rate of 6d. for each Number, paid in advance.

ABROAD.

The yearly subscription abroad is 30s. 4d. (on thin paper, 32s.), with the following exceptions:—

To Aden, Borneo, Ceylon, India, Java, Labuan, Mozambique Penang, Philippine Islands, Sarawak, Singapore, and Zanzibar, 41s. (thin paper, 34s.)

To the Hawaiian Islands, Madagascar (except St. Mary), and Paraguay, 45s. (on thin paper, 36s. 4d.)

Subscribers are specially advised to order the thick paper edition, the appearance of the engravings in the thin paper copies being greatly injured by the print at the back showing through.

Newspapers for foreign parts must be posted within eight days of the time of publication, irrespective of the day of issue of the parts.

Subscriptions must be paid in advance, direct to the Publishing Office, 198, Strand, in English money; by cheque crossed the Union Bank of London; or by Post-Office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to George C. Leighton, of 198, Strand, London.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1881.

It is delightful after a period of serious illness to become conscious of returning health, to feel anew the pulses of life and the promise of pristine vigour. It is so to nations as well as to individuals. It is so to England at the present moment. Why, we are actually anticipating the Easter Holidays with spirits relieved of the weight, or, at least, most part of it, which for some time past has pressed upon them. It is almost a new sensation, this being able to look forward to customary pursuits without an imminent apprehension of something dreadful about to happen. We carry about with us such remembrances of what the Prime Minister has likened to "an evil dream," that it is a positive gladness to us to contemplate the duties that are before us. The course of public business, lately so troubled, so full of danger, so seemingly likely to end in a catastrophe, has at last issued into a broad and placid expanse, not, indeed, to be navigated without vigilance and anxiety, but presenting no such obstacles as may require a constant deviation from ordinary methods. In fact, a tolerably free course is now before us. Men are able to breathe, once more, calmly and without gasping; and there is some reason to hope that during the remainder of the Session there will be no need to resort to spasms of energy bordering upon violence to force through Parliament the measures which a vast majority of Englishmen have resolved to place upon the Statute-book of the Realm.

For ourselves, we have not felt obliged to take the extremely despondent view of public business which has somewhat embittered the temper of many politicians whom we regard with sincere respect. It is not often that the people of this country go far wrong; and even when they do, whether in appearance or in reality, stimulated into passion by some sudden appeal to their prejudices, or lured into error by the glare of some visionary good, they are, on the whole, sober, reasonable, and just in their views. It is in the power of a minority, even of a comparatively small minority, by noisy and persistent acclamations, to make it doubtful, even to the judgment of thoughtful men, what is the precise object at which they are aiming, and how far that object commends itself to the approbation of the country at large. We have seen this more than once in the domestic annals of the United Kingdom during the last half century. We have witnessed outbursts of what may be called popular feeling, which, for the time being, seemed to express quite unequivocally the national will. And we have never failed to observe that, in the long run, true progress—progress, we mean, that, so far as human affairs will admit of it, may be accepted as lasting—is never promoted by wrenching the decision of the nation to aims which in its calmer moments it cannot but condemn. Confusion may, indeed, be created by extraordinary and unjustifiable means of agitation. Temporary triumphs may even be thereby obtained. But the policy of the country, deflected for an instant from its normal course, ever returns to it as to its natural centre of gravitation. There is, undoubtedly, at all times, much needing to be done to bring the laws of the country into harmony with the opinions of the people as to what they should be. There is always "a lion in the path" of real reform. No great good can be effected, politically speaking, without a severe struggle. But there are legitimate and recognised methods of warfare, and there are those which are illegitimate. The former demand more time, more patience, more persistence from those who adopt them, than do the latter. But then, the latter are more showy, and give promise to inexperienced politicians of speedier results. The judgment of our countrymen, when convinced by the former, is seldom—we may almost say never—reversed in after days; when surprised by the latter, is sure to be rescinded, albeit with considerable difficulty. It is not often that a community like our own is forced to the adoption of political projects of which it fails to see a reasonable justification. Mr. Parnell and his adherents have gone the wrong way to work, have availed themselves to the utmost of an instrumentality which cannot be successful, even if the object they have in view were both feasible and desirable. They have, probably, played out their game, and they have lost it. It is hardly possible for them to recur to the tactics which have now, at length, been not only discredited, but disarmed of whatever force they may have been supposed to possess. We will not say that we have seen an end of Parliamentary obstruction. But we may confidently predict that it will never again—at least, in our time—render itself so formidable as it has done during the last three months.

To the relief which the effectual disposal of this antagonism to Parliamentary Government has brought us may now be added at least a prospect of achieving in due time the extrication of the country from those external difficulties which the proximate past has bequeathed to us. We have done with Afghanistan, the invasion of which, however, has entailed upon the Indian and British Exchequers little less than twenty millions sterling. We have some immediate hope of a successful settlement of the Transvaal affair. We may dismiss all apprehension of the Ashantee War. We are to have a Gladstone Budget before Easter. We are also promised the introduction into the House of Commons of the Land Bill prepared by her Majesty's Government for the permanent adjustment of the relations of Landlord and Tenant in Ireland. A good deal of this is unquestionably subject to unforeseen changes. But the outlook, at any rate, is a more agreeable one than it has been our lot to enjoy for a long time past. It would seem as though the Vessel of State has doubled the Cape upon which it was far from impossible that stress of weather might have driven it. We may well be thankful for the change which has occurred within the last fortnight or so. It is a good in itself; it even augurs better things than itself. It resembles a vernal breeze after a severe winter. Chilly days may yet be in store for us; but, as the season advances, we may bid farewell for the year to the pinching extremities we have so painfully borne. The realisation of our hopes will, of course, fall short of our wishes; but we can now take courage, and, after what has been gone through, can bear without flinching the slighter disappointments to which we may be exposed.

In reference to the Grosvenor Gallery Library in New Bond-street, of which some illustrations are given in the present Number, it may be as well to state, in order to prevent confusion, that there is also the Grosvenor Library, situated in Chapel-street, Belgrave-square.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

Mr. Edwin Booth, who has excited the admiration of all who take an intelligent interest in the highest ambitions of an actor, and who study Shakspeare with the assistance of an experienced artist, is, as all the world knows, about to change his residence. He has had an uphill task of it hitherto. Oftentimes he has been seen at a considerable disadvantage, perplexed with uncongenial associates, tossed against his inclinations on an unsympathetic sea, the loyal victim of untoward circumstances, and the uncomplaining mainspring of an idea that, however well intentioned, was emphatically un-Shakspercan. It was impossible for Mr. Booth to do more than he has done, single-handed. His example and precept have no doubt worked wonders; but on a starring expedition of this kind it was impossible, in so short a time, to mould into presentable shape the rough material so helplessly presented to him. Starting with a very promising company of good names, the star-actor has been gradually left in the lurch, and forced to fight out the unsatisfactory battle alone. Mrs. Hermann Vezin, instead of receiving Hamlet's reproaches as the guilty Queen, is away in the wilds of panoramic melodrama, shouldering a property rifle, urging the Russian serfs to resist the Tartar hordes, tied up for death to a tree in a mountain pass leading to Irkoutsk, and panting among the flames of an oil-bearing river to aid the escape of Michael Strogoff. Mr. William Farren, instead of delivering the sententious saws and prolix platitudes of old Polonius, is rolling on the floor and squirming at the Vaudeville in the character of Mr. Seth Pecksniff, architect and land surveyor. Fate has taken away Miss Gerard from the Ophelia, in which character she startled the house into warm appreciation, and the Cordelia and Desdemona, to which fair women she might have done so much justice, and has turned her into a colourless, unmeaning, and unimpressionable young lady in the great drama of pop-guns and Sanger's horses. Mr. Thomas Swinbourne has bidden adieu to the promised Shakspearean scene, and is no doubt reciting "The Charge of the Light Brigade" to enthusiastic audiences; whilst, apart from Mr. Edwin Booth, who is a host in himself, the hopes of ears attuned to verse and minds appreciative of experienced acting are centred in Mr. John Ryder, the chief pilot of a Shakspearean ship; Mr. A. Rayner, who stands out conspicuously on a sea of nothingness; and Mr. F. Charles, who, at any rate, is always in tune.

But, for the present, I could have wished Mr. Booth had not touched Shylock. He was not in the vein, and, like all impressionable artists, he requires to have his mind free and his brow unclouded before he can do himself justice in so grand and difficult a creation as this. I forbear to touch upon the pressing and personal sorrow that weighs down one who already has made so many friends in England. These are matters in which criticism has no concern. The actor and the man must be forgotten in his art. We have no right to know what is going on outside the stage-door, or to inquire what nights of long watching and anguish break down the nervous actor and impair his power. To writers and actors, to business men of every profession, these things must occur. But we are judged by results; and no compensation is given for our trials. Of all men and women in the world, actors and actresses are the least complaining. Patiently they nobly bear their burdens; and, often racked with torture, mental as well as physical, they buckle on their armour, paint their faces, and doggedly march on to what they consider is their duty. For them there is no rest. In the afternoon they may be weeping over a comrade's grave in a London cemetery; in the evening, setting a great audience in a roar of laughter. Last night they were closing the eyes of mother, brother, husband, or child. To-day necessity bids them toil on and show to the exacting audience a smiling face. When, the other day, a kind lady sitting at her lonely fireside heard in the streets a piercing shriek of a woman, and they extricated from a fallen cab a poor lacerated creature, weak and almost fainting from loss of blood, they strove to find out who it was that was so grievously hurt, and could only hear the pitiful, moaning cry, "Oh! take me to the theatre!" It was Mrs. Kendal; and the ruling passion that was in her pointed towards her first duty to the public, which she strove to accomplish. The same brave, considerate feeling prompted Mr. Warner, when wounded the other evening, to endure torture sooner than give in, and has kept him struggling against medical advice ever since, and enduring the reopening of sewn-up wounds sooner than abandon the task that has been intrusted to him.

Whilst Mr. Booth was playing Shylock he gave the same impression that a reader or reciter does when accidentally his attention is distracted and he is outside his subject-matter. He was acting; but not feeling the character. He was mechanically correct; but artistically false. He astonished and amazed the ignorant when he was most untrue; but persuaded or influenced very few. In his rage there was no fierceness of invective; in his lament no ring of pathos. The disappointment with Tubal was petulance; and no tortured soul spoke with those immortal lines—"no satisfaction, no revenge; nor no ill-luck stirring but what lights on my shoulders; no sighs but of my breathing; no tears but of my shedding." All was unsatisfactory as an echo; all as hollow as the grave. And no change of material consequence came with the Trial Scene. Words there were on the topmost froth of thought, but no proper or safe guidance to show what manner of man this Shylock was. The actor assisted the scene: but he did not fill it. Suddenly, however, the sense of disappointment and dissatisfaction changed when Mr. Booth cast aside the Jewish gaberdine and orange Venetian cap for the fantastic frippery of the woman-taming Petruchio. At once the scene was lighted up, and it sparkled under the influence of the actor's bright, neat, and happy manner. His restless eye and clear-cut face, his grace of movement and facility of business, were admirably in tone and keeping. A better bit of light-comedy acting has not been seen for many a long day. Fatigue and effort disappeared, and all was joyousness and spontaneity. Petruchio braced himself for the attack on Katharine with a merry devil lurking in his eye. It was the quintessence of delightful mischief, full of sport and dare-devil recklessness, and one forgave the outrageous pantomime that a vulgar tradition has insisted on for the sake of the animal spirits of Mr. Booth, that kept his audience on the qui vive until the close of the second Shakspercan play in one evening.

For the sake of this variety, the sombre Shylock and the playful Petruchio, it must be confessed the design of Shakspeare suffered cruelly. Away went a good half of the "Merchant of Venice," the Prince of Morocco was not seen or heard of, the selection of the caskets had no meaning, and—perhaps happily for an audience that had some sense of the beautiful in language—the Lorenzo and Jessica of this most material and unimaginative cast were not permitted to rhapsodise in the moonlight on the terrace of Belmont. All the comedy of the play went by the board, for the curtain fell at Shylock's exit, and no opportunity was given to Portia to beg Bassanio's ring, or to Nerissa to chaff her Gratiano. Poetry had to be sacrificed to pantomime, and time saved to allow Petruchio's servant to scramble about the floor, the burned leg of mutton to be thrust into the cook's face, and the muntuamaker to tumble down and flatten a modern bonnet-box. Pantomime or not, the audience heartily enjoyed the fun from the moment that Kate's music-master lamented his cracked pate to the final crash, when the humbled and humiliated wife sinks on her knees on a floor literally whitened with smashed crockery.

I had never before heard of Miss Masson. I certainly do not think, to the best of my knowledge, I have ever seen her before in London; and yet this lady is evidently an actress of intelligence and experience. There was little poetical glow, no doubt, in her Portia, and it is difficult to disenchant oneself from a recent notable example of grace and subtle witchery; but when the pinch came in the Trial Scene, the actress held her own, and must be credited with considerable verve and dramatic impulse. Her Katharine was better still—natural, woman-like, the scorn of scorn, the hate of hate, nervous and irritable to a fault, suppression of rage being indicated by clenched hands and torn handkerchief, and yet never once lapsing into excess of gesture or manner. And when the reaction came for woman's tears, there was a very pretty touch of genuine feeling. In common with many in the theatre, I wondered who Miss Masson could be, or where she has learned all that she evidently knows.

Theatrical lulls do not last long in these modern days, even during the ever dull season of Lent. Already Miss Bateman has revived "Mary Warner," to the delight of the patrons of old Sadler's Wells; and at the moment of writing they are hard at work with the rehearsals of "Romeo and Juliet," to be produced next Saturday for Madame Modjeska at the Court, where I have it on the best authority that it was originally proposed to play the tragedy without any scenery whatever, and to be so true to tradition as to ask Mr. Anson to appear as the Nurse! That would indeed have been a novelty: an imagined balcony scene, an immaterial tomb, a dreary ball-room, a fancy-painted friar's cell, and a male nurse! I am not sorry that the projected curtains in substitution for scenery have been abandoned, or to hear that Miss Le Thiere has been engaged for the Nurse, vice Mr. Anson, sensibly resigned. Shades of Killigrew! we cannot go back to male women, any more than we can tolerate a placard on a bit of green baize, "This is a rose-covered balcony in the moonlight," or "This represents the Tomb of the Capulets." Madame Modjeska is a charming actress, and her art might have been suggestive and absorbing enough; but this is an age of rash irreverence, and it is quite conceivable that a good half of the audience might have burst out laughing, and spoiled the best intentions in the world. It is possible to go too far in the way of simplicity, as well as in the path of extravagance. The thing is to discover a golden mean that will assist the imagination without distracting it. A moonlight effect during the balcony scene would be very charming; but clouds perpetually sailing over the moon would, on the other hand, distract the attention, and so fail as an artistic effect. Following quickly after "Romeo and Juliet" at the Court will come Mr. Richard Lee's drama called "Branded" at the Princess's. The indefatigible stage-manager, Mr. Harry Jackson, has been in Paris buying old uniforms, for the scene of the play is the Franco-Prussian War; and they tell me that there are to be far more horses on the stage than in "Michael Strogoff." To tell the truth, I hate horses on the stage. They ought to be in the stable, where they look natural and comfortable.

Music is to be the herald of Easter, and already Mr. Arthur Sullivan is pouring forth his æsthetic music of the future, whilst Mr. Gilbert is training the lovers of the lily and the sunflower to astonish us all with their affectations in his next dramatised Bab Ballad. Will it kill or encourage the Colonel? That is the question. I believe in a healthy competition.

C. S.

MUSIC.

A new dramatic cantata, entitled "Columbus," was produced at last week's Saturday afternoon concert at the Crystal Palace. The music is the composition of Mr. H. Gadsby; the text having been supplied by Mr. W. Grist, who has skilfully availed himself of the story of the great navigator's voyage, the scene being laid on board the "Santa Maria." Mr. Gadsby's music is for tenor solo, chorus of male voices, and orchestra; and comprises some effective writing, especially the prayer "Star of the Sea," the choruses "Ere the Sun with Visage Red," and "Cheered by Thy Word;" and the declamatory solo for Columbus "Alone upon the Main" (one of the most important pieces in the cantata), which was finely rendered by Mr. E. Lloyd, and produced a marked impression. There is some skilful orchestral writing in the work, and the composition, altogether, is quite worthy of the reputation of Mr. Gadsby, who conducted its performance, and was much applauded. The remainder of the concert—directed by Mr. Manns, as usual—comprised Schubert's beautiful eighth symphony in B minor (the last but one of the series), supplemented by the entr'acte (in the same key) from his "Rosamunde" music; vocal pieces rendered by Miss Robertson; and orchestral extracts from "Lohengrin."

Mr. Arthur Sullivan's sacred musical drama, "The Martyr of Antioch," was very effectively performed yesterday (Friday) week, at St. James's Hall; conducted by himself, and with the same solo singers—Mesdames Albani and Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. F. King, and Mr. H. Blower—as at the production of the work at the Leeds Festival last October. Among several special effects were Madame Albani's delivery of Margaret's Hymn, "For thou didst die for me," and Madame Patey's of Julia's solo (with chorus), "Io, Pæan" (encored). The choral music was rendered by Mr. Faulkner Leigh's choir, an efficient orchestra having co-operated, with Mr. Carrodus as principal violin. Dr. Stainer presided at the organ. The concert opened with Spohr's fine cantata, "God, Thou art great," the first part of the programme having included Mr. Wingham's concert overture in F, conducted by himself.

Madame Schumann again appeared at the Saturday afternoon Popular Concert of last week, and at the Monday evening concert of this week. On the first-mentioned occasion the great pianist played Beethoven's "Waldstein" sonata, and in the latter, two preludes and a fugue by Bach, and the principal part in her late husband's fine pianoforte quintet in E flat. Mr. P. Hayes was the vocalist on Saturday, and Herr Von zur Mühlen on Monday; Herr Joachim having been the leading violinist in each instance. Monday's programme introduced, for the first time here, a string quartet by Herr Volkmann; a well-written work, but not possessing any distinctive character or individuality.

The second of M. Lamoureux's Concerts took place at St. James's Hall on Tuesday evening, when several novelties were brought forward, the programme having opened with a new orchestral "Suite" by M. Massenet, composed expressly for these concerts. It consists of four movements, entitled, respectively, "Cortège," "Ballet," "Apparition," and "Bacchanale" (the second having been omitted in performance). The music is highly characteristic, and contains much that is interesting, with many bright and effective orchestral contrasts. Another novelty was a Pianoforte concerto by M. Widor, which was finely played by Madame Montigny-Rémaury. The work is skilfully written, both for the solo instrument and the orchestra; the best portion being the intermediate "Andante Religioso," which has much melodious grace. An overture to an unpublished opera ("Sigurd"), by M. Reyer, was also heard for the first time in England. It is sombre and laboured, and produced but little effect. Of M. Saint-Saëns's eccentric "Danse Macabre" (for orchestra) we have before spoken. As on previous occasions, it was encored at Tuesday's concert, the programme of which closed agreeably with a selection of pieces from M. Léo Delibes' ballet, "Sylvia," the composer's most recent and most successful production. Madame Brunet-Lafleur was again the vocalist, and sang with fine dramatic expression, an air from Spontini's "Fernand Cortez," and one from Gluck's "Armide." The remaining items of the concert were three short unaccompanied pianoforte solos (by Massenet, Adler, and Godard), brilliantly executed by Madame Montigny-Rémaury. The orchestral playing, and the conducting of M. Lamoureux, were again of a very high order.

But one more performance remains to be given in completion of the fifteenth season of Mr. John Boosey's London Ballad Concerts. Last week's programme included several successful new songs: Mr. Cowen's "Listening Angels," sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling; Miss Wakefield's "A little Roundhead Maid," by herself; Mr. Cumming's "The love of long ago," rendered by Mr. E. Lloyd; Mr. Cowen's "All in All," by Mr. Maas; Mr. Molloy's "The Boatswain's Story," by Mr. Santley; and Mr. Marzials' "Rochester Bells," by the composer. Other effective performances were given by Misses M. Davies and C. Samuell, Miss Orridge (in lieu of Madame Patey, who was indisposed), and Mr. Maybrick. Part-songs were, as usual, contributed by the South London Choral Association. This week's programme was of a similar varied and attractive nature.

Herr Barth and Herr Hausmann—each eminent respectively as pianist and violoncellist—gave a Recital on Wednesday afternoon at St. James's Hall, the programme having included an interesting selection of chamber instrumental music, solo and concerted.

St. Patrick's Day was celebrated, last week, at the Royal Albert Hall, by a concert of National music, under the direction of Mr. W. Carter, whose well-trained choir contributed to the performances. The programme, although interesting, calls for no specific detail, beyond the names of the solo singers, who were:—Miss Anna Williams, Madame Trebelli, Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Mary Davies, Madame Enriquez, Madame Mary Cummings, Mr. V. Rigby, Mr. R. Hollins, Signor Fabrini, Mr. J. Maas, and Mr. F. King. Mr. Bending presided at the organ and Mr. W. Carter at the piano; and the band of her Majesty's Scots Guards, under the direction of Mr. J. P. Clarke, occasionally co-operated. The Dead March in "Saul" was played in memory of the late Emperor of Russia.

Of the third concert of the Philharmonic Society's new season we must speak next week, stating, meanwhile, that the programme included Beethoven's violin concerto, played by Herr Joachim, Spohr's great symphony, "Die Weihe der Töne" (known as "The Power of Sound"), and vocal pieces contributed by Mr. Sims Reeves and Mdlle. Orgeni.

The sixth of the Sacred Harmonic Society's concerts of the current season was announced for yesterday (Friday) night, when Handel's Coronation Anthem, "The King shall rejoice," Cherubini's "Requiem," and Mendelssohn's music to "Athalie" constituted an interesting programme. Misses C. Penna, J. Jones, and Orridge were the vocalists announced, Mr. C. Fry having been named as reader of the text of "Athalie." The concert was postponed from Jan. 21, on account of the severity of the weather.

This (Saturday) evening an interesting concert is to be given, at St. James's Hall, by the pupils of the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind; the programme comprising vocal and instrumental performances by students educated in the college.

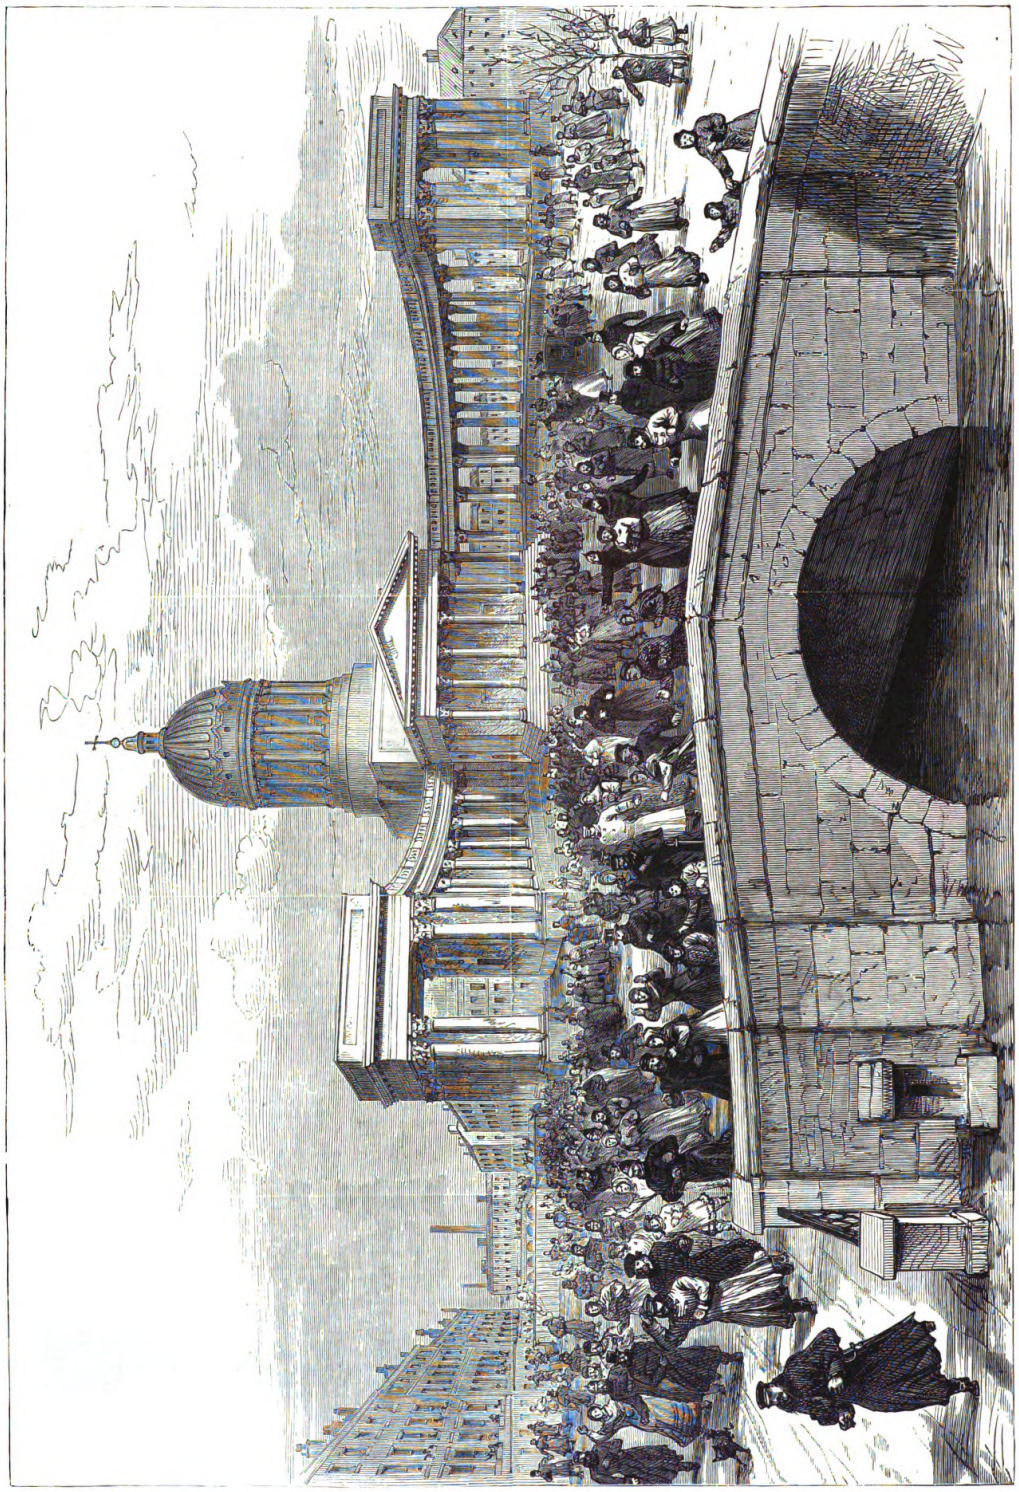
This week's "Ballad Concert for the People," at the Victoria Coffee Music-Hall, was announced as being under the direction of Sir J. Benedict; the programme having also included the names of Mesdames E. Wynne, Williams, Hutchinson, F. Winn, Parkins, and Mr. F. Boyle; with the first appearance of M. Herwegh as solo violinist.

Dr. Sloman's cantata, "Supplication and Praise," was very successfully performed on Tuesday by the Norwood Choral Society at the Royal Normal College, Upper Norwood.

An amateur concert in aid of the Bournemouth Home for Invalid Ladies is to be given at Willis's Rooms next Tuesday evening, the 29th inst. As many distinguished amateurs have promised their services, and as the concert is under the patronage of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Prince and Princess Christian, the Duke and Duchess of Teck, the Duchesses of Beaufort and Wellington, Ladies Waterford, Conyngham, Abergavenny, and many others, this deserving charity will doubtless receive substantial benefit.

A movement is on foot—promoted by some of our most eminent musicians—to raise funds for a testimonial to Mr. Manns, whose skill and energy as conductor of the famous Crystal Palace concerts for a quarter of a century render him fully deserving of such a tribute. Mr. Henry Leslie and Mr. Stanley Lucas have been appointed honorary treasurers.

At the invitation of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress a numerous company of ladies and gentlemen assembled at the Mansion House yesterday week in order to take part in a social gathering for the furtherance of the work of the London City Mission. The Lord Mayor welcomed the society, and said he believed the Chief Magistrate for the time being could be engaged in no better duty than assisting such institutions as that. He also bore testimony to the exemplary character of the missionaries. Among the company were the Earl of Shaftesbury, Sir Powell Buxton, Mr. A. McArthur, M.P., Sir Thomas Chambers, M.P., and the Duchess of Manchester. The Rev. R. C. Billing, Rector of Spitalfields, gave a vivid account of the common lodging-houses that abound in that parish. He stated that among the wretched frequenters of these places are members of the aristocracy, magistrates, members of the Army and Navy, and professional men formerly of good repute, who have been brought down step by step to their present condition through indulgence in drink. Lord Shaftesbury congratulated the Lord Mayor on the escape of himself and his family and household from the infamous plot which had been designed against the Mansion House.—The Lord Mayor has declined to convene a public meeting of the citizens of London at Guildhall in favour of the retention of Candahar, on the ground that the question has become a political one, and that it is his intention not to identify himself with any political party during his term of office.



IN FRONT OF THE KAZAN CATHEDRAL, ST. PETERSBURG: PEOPLE RUNNING TO THE SPOT WHERE THE EMPEROR WAS MURDERED.

ALEXANDER III., THE NEW EMPEROR OF RUSSIA.
FROM A PHOTOGRAPH BY MESSRS. MAULL AND FOX.

THE EMPEROR OF RUSSIA.

We continue to present a series of Illustrations, begun last week, of the circumstances attending the death of the late Emperor of Russia, by a detestable crime which has been fully related in this journal, as well as of the arrangements for his funeral, which will be attended by the Prince and Princess of Wales, and by the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh; and we also give a new portrait of the present Emperor, Alexander III., in addition to the one that has appeared, and that of his Consort, the Empress Marie Feodorovna, who was Princess Dagmar of Denmark, sister to our Princess of Wales. The particulars of biographical dates and other details, belonging to their Majesties the new Emperor and Empress, have already been stated with sufficient precision. The Emperor is thirty-six years of age, and the Empress thirty-three; they have been married fourteen years, and have four children. Their arrival at the Winter Palace, where they received, on Monday week, the homage of the Imperial Court, is the subject of a large Engraving that forms our Extra Supplement.

We shall obtain from our Special Artist, who has been sent to St. Petersburg for this purpose, abundant Illustrations of the funeral ceremonies.

The Church of St. Peter and St. Paul is within the Citadel of St. Petersburg, on a small island of the river Neva, opposite the grand line of quays that contains the Winter Palace, the Admiralty, the Hermitage, the Theatre, and the Marble Palace. As it is in this Church that the mortal remains of the late Emperor have been lying in state, previous to the concluding ceremony of his funeral, we present an Illustration of the building, which is distinguished by a very lofty and slender gilt spire. The interior, however, is not remarkable for beauty or grandeur; but it contains a large collection of worn-out military banners, the trophies of historic wars, keys of captured fortresses, and other tokens of imperial pride. In the vaults below the floor of this church lie the bodies of Peter the Great and his successors, Czars and Emperors of Russia, or Imperial Princes, each with a stone coffin-shaped tomb, covered with a red pall, on the floor of the church immediately above the resting-place of the deceased person thereby commemorated. It is here that the funeral service will be finally performed to-morrow (Sunday) for the late Emperor Alexander II.

The Cathedral or Metropolitan Church of St. Petersburg, dedicated to "Our Lady of Kazan," is conspicuous in our Illustration of the scene on the road beside the Catherine Canal, with the people hastening to look at the spot where Alexander II. received his mortal injuries from the bombshell of the assassins on Sunday, the 13th inst. The Kazan Cathedral, as it is often called, stands on the right-hand side of the Nevsky Prospect, but a little retired from the street, half a mile from the Admiralty Square. Its front is adorned with a semicircular colonnade of Corinthian pillars, intended for an imitation of that of St. Peter's at Rome. The dome rises immediately behind the centre of this colonnade; the plan of the building is that of a Greek cross, which should have four equal arms; but one transept is made shorter than the other, for want of space on the side next the canal. The eastern arm of the cross forms the chancel, which is set apart for the priests, and is shut off by a splendid screen, the "iconostast," framed of solid silver, with gorgeous pictured panels. The picture of the Virgin Mary, brought from Kazan to Moscow by the Czar Ivan Vassilievitch, and afterwards brought from Moscow to St. Petersburg by Peter the Great, is regarded with extreme veneration, and is adorned with many pearls and other jewels of price.

The removal of the late Emperor's body from the Winter Palace to the Church of St. Peter and St. Paul in the Citadel took place at noon on Saturday last, with an imposing funeral procession. The Princes of the Imperial House and their kindred followed the bier on foot; the Princesses rode in mourning carriages. The military escort and guard of the route included detachments of troops of many nationalities in gorgeous uniforms and curious armour. The banners of every province and city in the Empire were borne in the procession. The open coffin was deposited on a dais in the church, and about it were disposed the Imperial crown, the crowns of the subject kingdoms, all the material emblems of sovereignty, and the sixty Orders and decorations of the late Emperor upon silken cushions.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh arrived at St. Petersburg on Wednesday evening of last week. The Duchess of Edinburgh bears her great loss with characteristic fortitude. On her arrival, after visiting the chamber of death, she was greatly overcome, and sleep refused to assuage her grief. The next morning, however, she visited Princess Urieffat, and remained more than an hour with her; in the evening the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh paid a visit to the spot where the fatal bomb struck the Emperor. This is now inclosed and planted with cypress trees at each corner, and the intervening space is covered with memorial wreaths, with an Ikon or sacred picture placed at one end, and a silver lamp burning before it. Here the Duchess remained praying for some minutes, and the people standing near, seeing a lady in deep mourning kneeling on the snow, were much moved. This spot is, as might be expected, visited by crowds daily, it may be from a natural or a morbid curiosity on the part of some, and also from unaffected reverence and esteem on the part of others. The Municipality has decided to build a memorial church on the spot, in accordance with the wish of the Emperor Alexander III.

Religious services in all the churches and chapels of the Greek or Russian Orthodox communion, attached to the Russian Legations or maintained for the use of Russians who are resident in foreign countries, have been held in most of the chief cities of Europe, during the past ten days, to pray for the repose of the late Emperor's soul. Our Illustration shows the scene at a service of this kind on Sunday last at the Greek Church in Moscow-road, Bayswater, where a Requiem Mass was chanted, under the direction of the Rev. H. Myriantheus, the Archimandrite.

The trial of Rusakoff, the young student of the Institute of Mining Engineers, who threw the first bombshell at the Emperor's carriage, together with the trial of three supposed accomplices, one being the woman found in the house where those frightful instruments of murder were kept, will be commenced in a few days. It will be remembered that the second of the two young men actually employed to throw the shells, he whose hand launched the one that killed the Emperor, died a few hours later of the injuries which it had inflicted on himself.

The individual who was arrested at the house where the assassins obtained the metal fittings used in making the explosive bombs is a peasant named Michailoff, from the government of Smolensk. In the papers found in his possession mention was made of certain preparations on the Catherine Canal and in Little Garden-street, through which the late Emperor frequently passed on his way to parades of the troops. The street just named is a short one leading from the Nevsky Prospect, nearly opposite the Anitchkoff Palace, which has been the residence of the present Emperor. A party of sappers were set at work to examine the ground, and soon discovered a mine in a cheesemonger's or milkman's shop in the basement of a house at the corner of those thoroughfares. The mouth of the mine was in the shopkeeper's dwelling-room, and was concealed under an ottoman filled with rubbish. The shopkeeper and his wife had gone away, leaving the shop and dwelling unoccupied. A crowbar was found on the premises. The mine passed under Little Garden-street, which leads to the Riding School. The sappers had opened the ground to the depth of five feet, when the mine was reached. In it were laid two wires and a rope, which suggested that there were two modes of exploding the mine. The work was proceeded with very cautiously, the passage having to be enlarged. At a distance of about a fathom, a bottle was found, nine inches high, made of thick glass, with a ground-glass stopper. The throat was wrapped in cloth and badder. The bottle contained a dark thick substance, which Professor Feodoroff declared to be a mixture of nitroglycerine, sulphate of ammonia, and charcoal. Upon extending the examination, a tin case was discovered, in which the wires and rope ended. These were cut, and the tin canister brought to the surface. It was twenty inches high and nine inches in diameter, wrapped round with rope and the cover tarred. Inside was a dark grey explosive substance, and in the middle a detonator, consisting of a small cylinder filled with nitroglycerine and pyroxiline, with a copper cap charged with fulminating mercury. The tin contained about 60 lb. of explosives and the bottles 30 lb. The tools used in making the mine consisted of two borers, a very small spade, a rake, and a wooden shovel. A bottle of carbonic acid was found, used to purify the air in the tunnel. The experts, who conducted the researches, state that had the mine been fired, the houses in the vicinity would certainly have fallen. In the adjacent dwelling-house and shop, some milk-pails were found full of earth. One rouble was lying on the table with a slip of paper under it, upon which was written, "This is to pay the butcher with." Rusakoff has confessed that there were more people stationed along the Czar's road with Orsini shells. Another hatching-place of conspirators was discovered on Sunday, at a tobacconist's shop in the Vassily Ostroff. On account of the want of proper vigilance, the late Prefect of Police, Major-General Feodoroff, has resigned, and is succeeded by Colonel Paramoff, for some months past Governor of Kovno, and better known as the commander of the Vesta during the Russo-Turkish War. It is said that Count Loris Melikoff, Minister of the Interior, has likewise offered his resignation.

It is arranged that the coronation of Alexander III. shall take place in Moscow, at the end of six months, which have been fixed for close mourning for the late Emperor. It is considered probable that Alexander III.'s residence in Moscow will extend beyond the period occupied by the ceremonies in connection with the coronation, and that the present Czar will become a frequent resident in the ancient capital of Russia.

An Imperial decree is published granting to persons deported to Siberia with loss of civil rights permission to follow commercial or professional pursuits after three years' good behaviour. The same privilege is accorded to political exiles, subject to the approval of the Minister of the Interior. It is also intended to reduce in twenty-three of the governments of Russia the payments due from the peasants for the redemption of the land allotted to them on the abolition of serfdom.

The following circular despatch, dated the 16th inst., has been addressed by M. de Giers, Secretary of State and Administrator of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, to the Russian representatives abroad:—

His Majesty the Emperor on ascending the throne of his ancestors assumes as an inheritance the traditions consecrated by time, by the acts of his ancestors, and by the sacrifices and toil of generations, all of which have built up Russia in the past. In completely taking upon himself this inheritance, his Majesty makes it a sacred duty to deliver it inviolate to his successors. Like all other States, Russia, in constituting herself, had to sustain a struggle in which her strength and her national spirit became developed. Russia has now attained her full development, and feelings of jealousy or discontent are equally foreign to her. It only remains for Russia to secure her position to protect herself from without, and to develop her forces, her wealth, and the well-being of her people. This is the aim which our august Monarch has set before himself with the firm resolution of pursuing it without remission. The Emperor will first give his attention to the internal development of the State, a question closely connected with the progress of civilisation, and with the social and economic questions which form the subject of special study on the part of all Governments.

The foreign policy of the Emperor will be entirely pacific. Russia will remain faithful to her friends; she will unchangeably preserve the sentiments consecrated by tradition, and will at the same time reciprocate the friendliness of all States by a similar attitude, while maintaining the position to which she is entitled among the Powers and assuring the maintenance of the political equilibrium. In accordance with her interests, Russia will not deviate from her mission in common with other Governments to protect the general peace based upon respect for right and treaties. Above all, Russia has to care for herself, and only the duty of protecting her honour and security may divert her attention from the work of internal development. Our august Monarch will endeavour to strengthen the power and advance the welfare of Russia, and secure her prosperity without detriment to others. These are the principles by which the policy of the Emperor will invariably be guided. His Majesty charges you to bring these declarations to the knowledge of the Government to which you are accredited, and to communicate the present despatch to the Minister for Foreign Affairs.

PEACE WITH THE TRANSVAAL.

The negotiations carried on by General Sir Evelyn Wood, during the recent armistice, with Messrs. Krüger, Joubert, and Pretorius, chiefs of the Dutch Provisional Government of the Transvaal, assisted by the mediation of Mr. Brand, President of the Orange Free State, have most happily resulted in the mutual acceptance of terms of peace which are equally convenient and honourable to the British Imperial Government and to the Dutch community of the Transvaal. The following are the principal terms of the arrangement with the Boers, as stated in the House of Commons on Tuesday night by Mr. Gladstone:—1. The Suzerainty of the Queen over the Transvaal is acknowledged. 2. A complete self-government is promised to the Boers. 3. The control of foreign relations is reserved to the British Government. 4. There is to be a Resident at the future capital. 5. The Royal Commission will consist of Sir Hercules Robinson, Sir Evelyn Wood, and Chief Justice de Villiers, Chief Justice of the Cape. 6. The Commission will consider the provisions for the protection of native interests, and the arrangements as to frontier affairs. 7. The Commission will also consider the question whether any and what portions of the Transvaal territory eastward, within certain limits, should be severed from the Transvaal. 8. The Boers withdraw from the Neck, and disperse to their homes. 9. The British garrisons remain in the Transvaal till the final settlement. 10. The Boers having engaged as above, Sir Evelyn Wood promises them not to advance, nor to send warlike stores into the Transvaal. It is said that the chief duty of the Royal Commission to be appointed will be to devise measures for obtaining adequate guarantees for the just treatment of the Native population, while a very important part of their work will be the delimitation of the northern and eastern frontiers of the Transvaal, whereby tribes which the Boers had in vain attempted to subjugate will either recover their independence or enjoy the protection of England. The British Resident will be invested with the important function of protecting the Natives who live within the limits of the territory. The Commission, it is said, will meet in Natal or Heidelberg. There may probably be a further prolongation of the armistice for two months, to enable the Commission to meet. President Brand was present at the final negotiations, which lasted all day on Monday, till nine o'clock in the evening.

THE COURT.

Earl Sydney and Lord Kensington had audiences of her Majesty at the end of last week to present joint addresses from both Houses of Parliament expressing indignation at the assassination of the Emperor of Russia.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, with their daughters, arrived at Windsor last Saturday and lunched with the Queen. Prince Leopold, who is on a visit to her Majesty, returned from town, whither he had come the previous day. Earl and Countess Granville arrived at the castle and were included in the Royal dinner circle.

On Sunday Divine service was performed in the private chapel of the castle by the Rev. W. Boyd Carpenter, Vicar of Christ Church, Lancaster-gate, at which the Queen, Princess Beatrice, and Prince Leopold were present. Earl Granville had an audience of her Majesty; and the Hon. Lady Biddulph joined the Royal dinner party.

The Prince of Leiningen visited the Queen on Monday, and remained to luncheon.

Viscount Hawarden arrived at the castle on Tuesday and had an audience of her Majesty.

A private investiture of the Order of the Bath was held by the Queen on Thursday.

The Duke of Cambridge has lunched with her Majesty, and the Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley and the Duchess of Roxburghe have dined with the Queen.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stephen, of Montreal, who entertained Prince Leopold in Canada, have been presented to her Majesty.

Prince Alfred and Princesses Marie, Victoria, and Alexandra of Edinburgh remain at the castle.

Her Majesty has subscribed for a certain number of stalls for the series of Philharmonic Concerts for the season.

Colonel James Hornby Butler, late Military Train, is appointed one of her Majesty's Hon. Corps of Gentlemen at Arms, vice Lieutenant-Colonel Charles Dresing, who retires upon half pay.

Her Majesty has conferred a medal with clasps for service in Afghanistan. The medal will be given to all who have served, irrespective of rank; but only those who took part in the following actions will be entitled to the clasp:—Ali Musjid, Peiwar Kotal, Charasiab, Cabul, Ahmed Khel, and Candahar. For the march from Cabul to Candahar with General Roberts a special bronze decoration will be given.

Lady Southampton has succeeded Lady Abercromby as Lady in Waiting; and Viscount Torrington and Colonel the Hon. C. H. Lindsay have succeeded Lord Thurlow and Admiral Lord Frederic Kerr as Lord and Groom in Waiting.

We are authorised to state that her Majesty's Drawing-room, which was postponed from the 18th inst., will take place next Tuesday. The Court will be in mourning, and all persons who attend on the occasion will be expected to observe the published orders, but brides and young unmarried ladies on their presentation may appear in white.

The Prince of Wales will hold a Levée at St. James's Palace on April 5.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales having resolved to pay the last token of respect to the late Czar, his Royal Highness, accompanied by the Princess, left town on Monday evening for St. Petersburg as representative of the Queen at the funeral of the late Emperor of Russia. In consequence of the landslip between Folkestone and Dover, on the South-Eastern Railway, their Royal Highnesses travelled from Victoria by the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway. The Prince and Princess were met at the station by the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Duchess of Teck, and various friends. The suite consisted of Miss Knollys, Lord Suffield, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Dighton Probyn, Colonel Teesdale, and Lieutenant-Colonel Clarke, with also Major-General Sir John Cowell, by special command of the Queen. After taking leave of their relatives, their Royal Highnesses left by special train for Dover, whence they embarked from the Admiralty Pier at 10.20 p.m. on board the special boat Maid of Kent for Calais; the journey thenceforward being performed by special trains to Berlin, where they arrived at half-past ten on Tuesday evening, being met at the station by the Crown Princess of Germany, Prince and Princess Christian, and Prince William of Prussia. The Prince and Princess drove with the Crown Princess to the Palace, and, after a short stay, continued their journey to St. Petersburg, accompanied by the Crown Prince of Germany.

Their Royal Highnesses congratulated the Emperor William on his birthday by forwarding a telegram from a station on the line from Brussels to Cologne.

The Prince and Princess will return immediately after the funeral, being expected to arrive on April 4. Before their departure their Royal Highnesses were visited by their various relatives, and also went to Windsor to take leave of her Majesty, and to St. James's Palace to take leave of the Duchess of Cambridge.

The Prince attended the funeral of the late Count Jaraczewski in Kensal-green Cemetery; and also presided at the latest meeting of the governors of Wellington College, held at Marlborough House.

His Royal Highness has fixed May 9 for the festival dinner of the Royal Hospital for Children and Women, at which his Royal Highness will preside.

Samples of woollen goods in the Bradford trade have, by the Princess's command, been submitted to her Royal Highness, in order that an attempt may be made to bring those articles into vogue for the amelioration of the distress in the Yorkshire district.

Mr. Sydney Hodges has submitted to the Prince and Princess his portrait of Admiral the Hon. Sir Henry Keppel.

As the Duchess of Connaught was returning to Bagshot Park on Saturday afternoon in a carriage drawn by a pair of Russian ponies, the Duchess herself driving, one of the ponies took fright, and the carriage came in contact with a baker's cart standing on the roadside. The cart was smashed, and the Duchess and the lady who accompanied her were thrown out on the road. Fortunately, her Royal Highness escaped unhurt, and was able to walk to Bagshot Park immediately afterwards.

Prince Leopold has sent a donation to the expenses fund of the Richmond Industrial and Fine-Art Loan Exhibition, which is to be opened on a large scale on April 20.

The Duke of Teck left Kensington Palace last Saturday for Rumpenheim to attend the funeral of the late Princess Louise of Hesse-Cassel, eldest sister of the Duchess of Cambridge, who died on the 16th inst., within a few weeks of completing her eighty-seventh year. The Princess's sister, the Dowager Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, died on Dec. 24 last, and her last surviving brother, Prince George of Hesse, died on the 4th inst.

The Empress of Austria has hunted during the week with Mr. Paik Yates's pack, Sir Watkin Wynn's hounds, the North Shropshire, the Staffordshire, the South Cheshire, and the North Cheshire hounds. Earl Spencer has been on a visit to the Empress at Combermere Abbey for a few weeks, and has joined in her amusement. Her Majesty leaves to-day for London, preparatory to her return to Vienna.

In consequence of the serious illness of King Oscar, the Queen of Sweden and Norway left Bournemouth suddenly last week, on her return home. His Excellency Count Piper accompanied her Majesty as far as Dover.

Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, who has been appointed to the command of the volunteer army which is to assemble on Easter Monday, went to Brighton on Tuesday and inspected the ground to be manœuvred over.

The marriage of Lord Brooke, M.P., and Miss Maynard is fixed to take place on the 30th of the ensuing month, at Westminster Abbey.

For three days last week an important question was debated before the Court of General Assessment Sessions, held at the Guildhall, Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, as to whether the Duke of Bedford, as owner of Covent-garden Market, was liable to be assessed to the poor rate in respect of the income he derived as lord of the market from tolls on produce taken there, as well as regarded the occupation of the premises. Mr. P. H. Edlin, Q.C., gave judgment yesterday week; the result of his decision being that instead of the Duke of Bedford being rated, as the rateable value of his property in Covent-garden Market, at £4200, he is assessed by the parish of St. Paul, Covent-garden, at £40,000. This was the judgment of the majority of the Court, Mr. Hardman dissenting.

On Sunday the Land League held meetings in various parts of Ireland. At Woodford, County Galway, Mr. Dillon, M.P., said if he thought the tenants of Lord Clanricarde had the power to resist, he would advise them to pay no more rent. He also made some strong aspersions upon Irish Judges. In Galway borough Mr. T. P. O'Connor said he had come to Ireland to see what the monster Coercion was like, and he found it was a huge joke; for the few men in Kilmainham were enjoying themselves, because they had thirty-seven determined men in Parliament to look after their interests. Referring to the approaching debate as to whether Candahar should be given up, he predicted that the day was not far distant when the debate would be as to the giving up of Ireland. Meanwhile more arrests have been made.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, March 22.

There has been much merriment made of late over a proposition presented to the Chamber of Deputies by M. Laroche-Joubert, with the object of rendering titles of honour a source of revenue to the State. M. Laroche-Joubert has drawn up a proportional scale, in accordance with which any French citizen may assume the title of marquis provided he pay an annual tax of 5000f. Dukes, in virtue of the same scale, must pay 10,000f. a year, counts 4000f., barons 3000f., and the particle de 2000f. M. Laroche-Joubert anticipates that this source of revenue would bring a hundred million francs per annum into the coffers of the State. The Royalists shrug their shoulders at this proposition, forgetting that the sale of titles which they find so ridiculous was practised on a large scale by Louis XIV., and that it was the vanity of individuals that paid for the building of a large part of the palace of Versailles.

Parliamentary proceedings have been uninteresting during the past week, and are likely to continue so. Impartial observers are beginning to perceive that the present Chamber is incapable of doing any good work, and that the sooner the elections take place the better for the country. The great question of the day is the battle of the scrutins, or, in other words, the question of electoral reform. M. Gambetta is still in favour of the scrutin de liste, and in an eloquent speech at the Trocadéro on Sunday he once more protested against the calumnies attributing to him interested motives. The question of the scrutin de liste has been the cause of a Ministerial crisis, which has lasted since Friday last. M. Jules Ferry was of opinion that the Cabinet ought to give an opinion before Parliament on this important question of the manner of voting. After repeated deliberations, M. Jules Ferry has at length been obliged to yield to the majority of his colleagues; and it was decided this morning that the Cabinet should not intervene in the question, and that each of its members should retain his liberty of action and opinion. The crisis is thus at an end, but M. Jules Ferry's position will, in all probability, be henceforward very difficult.

To-day the Senate again rejected the ultra-Protectionist views of M. Pouyer-Quertier and the Tariff Committee, its proposals as to woollen fabrics being negatived by 143 to 131. In the Chamber the report on the General de Cissey investigation entirely acquitting him of the accusations of the Irreconcilables was presented. The Ten Hours Bill was further debated, M. Richard Waddington appealing to the experience of England and other countries in favour of the measure, and other deputies opposing it as interfering with a workman's freedom of action.

By way of record, it may be stated that the loan of one milliard in Three per Cent Redeemable Bonds was covered fifteen times over on Thursday last. Such a result is a striking proof of the credit of France. The Ministry was interpellated on the subject of this loan yesterday by a Bonapartist Deputy, the tendency of whose arguments was to show that the State might have issued the loan on better conditions and taken greater advantage than it did of the credit of the Republic. Such testimony is, indeed, flattering.

The Government has prosecuted four of the newspapers to which I referred last week as having expressed their satisfaction at the assassination of the Czar. This afternoon the gérants of four journals, the Intransigeant, the Citoyen, the Révolution Sociale, and the Journal, together with MM. Henri Rochefort and Secondigné, who signed incriminated articles, were cited before the Court on the charge of apology for acts qualified as crimes by the law.

General Clinchant, Military Governor of Paris, died on Sunday last, of inflammation of the lungs. He was sixty years of age. His military career had been very brilliant. It is said that General Lecomte, a stanch Republican, who is now in command at Lyons, is to succeed the late General as commander of the Paris Garrison.

The Wilson sale, of which I gave some of the results in my letter last week, produced a total of more than two millions and a quarter of francs. Amongst the important prices obtained, besides those which I have already mentioned, were:—Rembrandt, "Portrait of a Man," 200,000f.; Holbein, "Portrait of Stephen Gardiner," 66,700f.; D. Teniers, "Interior of a Kitchen," 23,000f.; Sir Joshua Reynolds, "Widow and Child," 15,500f.; Lawrence, study of the head of Lady Ellenborough, 10,000f.; Morland, "The Halt," 8520f.; Constable, "Glebe Farm," 3650f.

The book of the week is a new novel by M. Jules Claretie, "Les Amours d'un Interne," in which, in the course of an interesting and almost sensational narrative, the author has introduced a quantity of curious details about hysteria in its various forms of catalepsy, hypnotism, animal magnetism, and other diseases of the nervous system. In his observations and studies for this part of his novel M. Claretie has been guided by the illustrious specialist, Dr. Charcot, of the Salpetrière Asylum. This, however, is only one side of the book, not the least curious, it is true; but, nevertheless, "Les Amours d'un Interne" is, above everything, a work of fiction, and not a scientific monograph. T. C.

---

Mr. Crewe, British Consul-General at Havannah, was attacked by three highwaymen on Friday night, the 18th inst., in one of the public parks of that place, but succeeded in beating off his assailants, after being slightly wounded in the back of the neck.

A Bluebook on South Africa, containing correspondence respecting the affairs of Basutoland, has been issued. It commences with a despatch from Sir Bartle Frere, dated May 10, 1880, with regard to the disarmament of the natives, and follows the course of events in connection with the outbreak up to the beginning of the present year.

The special correspondent of the Daily News in Central Asia, telegraphing from Merv on the 12th inst., states that he had been a prisoner there for ten days, but had been set at liberty. The plain between Tijend and Merv is, he says, entirely destitute of water, and is impracticable for an army. The Russians are close to Tjend, and will, it is believed, make no attempt against Merv this year, if at all.

The preparations for beginning the survey of Eastern Palestine are complete. The War Office have granted to the committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund the services of Lieutenant Conder, who executed most of the survey of Western Palestine, and Lieutenant Mantell, both of the Royal Engineers. The party will include the two non-commissioned officers (now both pensioners), Black and Armstrong, who first went out in the year 1871. Lieutenants Conder and Mantell started for Beyrout on Tuesday evening, March 15, and the surveyors will follow with the instruments. The work will be commenced in the north—the Land of Bashan. It is to be hoped that the committee will meet with large and ample support in this great undertaking, the cost of which will be £3000 a year.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

Yesterday week the Chamber voted by a great majority a bill for granting a subsidy to the municipality of Rome. The Chamber afterwards began the discussion of a bill for the regulation of the finances of the city of Naples. It provides that all previous debts shall be converted into one large debt of 55,000,000 lire, the interest on which will be guaranteed by the State. The report of Signor Zanardelli on the Electoral Reform Bill was distributed to members. The debate on the measure was to begin on Thursday.

General Milon, Minister of War, is dead. On Tuesday morning his body was taken from the Ministry of War, where he died, to the Church of the Santi Apostoli, where a short service was held, and thence to the cemetery of San Lorenzo.

PORTUGAL.

There is a Ministerial crisis. In the Upper House on Monday night a vote of want of confidence in the Ministry, proposed by Senhor Fontes, was rejected by 50 against 49 votes, the majority including two of the Ministers. In consequence of this vote the Ministry resigned, and the King invited Senhor Fontes to form a new Cabinet, but he declined to do so. The Duke Avila was with the King on Tuesday night consulting respecting the formation of a Cabinet.

BELGIUM.

The Chamber of Representatives on Tuesday elected M. Descamps as its President by 60 votes to 33. MM. Hardy de Beaulieu and Couvreur were chosen first and second Vice-Presidents respectively.

GERMANY.

The Emperor kept his eighty-fourth birthday on Tuesday. The Imperial reception was less brilliant than it would have been but for the Court being in mourning for the late Czar. The members of the Emperor's family, and the civil and military officers of the household, together with Prince and Princess Christian, offered their congratulations to his Majesty. Bouquets and many other presents had been sent by a number of private persons, and the Emperor, on showing himself at a window, was heartily cheered by an assembled crowd. Throughout Germany the anniversary is said to have been celebrated with more than the usual enthusiasm.

The Prince and Princess of Wales arrived at Berlin on Tuesday night, and were received at the Lehrter Station by the Crown Princess, Prince and Princess Christian, and Prince William. The Royal party drove through the city to the Eastern Station, where they were joined by the Crown Prince and his suite, and shortly after eleven the Royal travellers left for St. Petersburg.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

The Lower House of the Reichsrath on Tuesday adopted the bill authorising the continued levying of taxes, with an amendment of Herr Czartoryski, making the law equally operative for the month of May.

In the Hungarian Parliament on Tuesday the Government introduced a bill making legal civil marriages between Jews and Christians. Hitherto such unions, even when solemnised abroad, were illegal, provided one or both the parties were Hungarian subjects.

At the sitting of the Hungarian Diet on the 17th, M. Tisza made an important statement in answer to M. Helfy's interpellation on the Greek frontier question. The Minister President said that the Government would do their utmost, in conjunction with the other Powers, to avert war. If, however, that proved to be impossible, they would endeavour to maintain the peace existing between the European Powers.

The official figures, representing the results of the recent Census, have been published, and show that the population of Hungary, with Croatia, is now 15,610,729, of whom 7,695,732 are males and 7,914,997 females. Ten years ago the inhabitants numbered 15,417,327, so that the increase in the decennial period is 193,402. In Hungary proper—that is, without Croatia—the increase is only 138,760, or less than 1 per cent on the ten years.

GREECE.

The Navy Bill was read the third time in the Chamber of Deputies on the 16th inst. During the debate on the third reading of the Army Bill, the Premier, M. Coumoundouros, stated that the National Guard and exempted men were not included in the 82,824, at which figure the strength of the army is fixed for 1881.

The bill for the abolition of exemptions from military service was read the third time in Tuesday's sitting. It includes all Greek citizens between the ages of twenty and thirty not yet registered for service in the army, and also those registered under a false age.

EGYPT.

At a meeting of the Council of Ministers it has been decided to appoint a Supreme Council for Public Instruction.

AMERICA.

President Garfield reviewed the St. Patrick's Brigade on the 17th inst.

Senators Edgerton and Frye having qualified, there was a full attendance of the Senate on the 18th, with the exception of one Democrat and one Republican, who had paired. A resolution to reorganise the Senate Committees on a Republican basis was carried by 38 votes to 37, Vice-President Arthur casting the deciding vote. Mr. Mahone voted with the Republicans, and Mr. Davis, of Illinois, with the Democrats. The Senate has confirmed the appointment of Mr. Levi Morton as American Minister to France.

The President has renominated Mr. Stewart Woodford as United States Attorney and Mr. Lewis Payn as United States Marshal of New York City, with other New York officials. These names have been sent to the Senate for approval.

The Census analysis shows that the whites in the States number 43,404,876, and the coloured people 6,577,151; and that, while the coloured race has increased numerically, the ratio of their increase falls largely behind that of the whites.

From the annual report of Dr. Eliot, President of Harvard University, it appears that scattered over the United States there are 360 colleges or institutions called universities—only twenty-eight of which were in existence sixty years ago; and of these all but two were at that period distributed over twelve of the thirteen original States. More than one third of these 360 institutions charge no tuition fee, or only a nominal one—under 30 dols. a year. Among the latter are forty-three agricultural and mechanical colleges, endowed by the Government. While the population has increased in sixty years about fivefold, the number of colleges and universities has been multiplied by fourteen.

Thirty men are reported to have been killed by the Indians of New Mexico.

St. Patrick's Day was unusually quiet throughout the States. Parades were largely dispensed with and indoor observance substituted for them. There were no political manifestations or disturbances. According to the Irish World, the number of Land League branches in America is 1085, of which New York has the highest number, 210. Massachusetts comes next with 163, and Pennsylvania with 154. In the State of Iowa a branch of the Irish Land League has been organised at Desmoines, and has sent letters of encouragement and promises of pecuniary aid to Mr. Parnell. The Rhode Island Assembly has rejected the resolution passed by the Senate of that State expressing sympathy with Ireland. The joint resolutions expressing sympathy with Ireland and requesting the people of Pennsylvania to extend pecuniary aid to the Irish, which passed the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, and on being sent to the Senate for concurrence were referred to the Committee of Federal Relations, have been reported negatively by that committee. A mass meeting was held at St. Louis on the 17th, at which resolutions were adopted denouncing England's attitude towards Ireland, the Coercion Bill, and the land laws, and expressing sympathy with the Irish. The Missouri Legislature has adopted a resolution of sympathy with the Irish people, and directed the State Adjutant-General to fire a salute in honour of St. Patrick's Day.

At the regular Sunday meeting of the Socialists in Chicago last Sunday resolutions were adopted approving the assassination of the Emperor Alexander II., censuring Mr. Blaine's despatch of condolence, denouncing his expressions of friendship for Russia, and demanding the destruction of monarchs and other oppressors, and of the social system which breeds them.

CANADA.

In the sitting of the Dominion House of Commons on the 18th inst. Sir S. L. Tilley, the Minister of Finance, introduced the bill authorising the Government to borrow 18,000,000 dols. in addition to the sums remaining unborrowed of the loans already sanctioned. He explained that it was intended to be applied to expenditure on capital account and for redemption of debt during the year. The bill was read three times. The bill providing for the extension of the boundaries of Manitoba passed the second and third readings. The bill allowing a drawback upon certain articles manufactured in Canada and used by the Canada Pacific Railway was passed by the House.

The Dominion Parliament was prorogued on Monday last. The Marquis of Lorne, in his speech on the occasion, said he was assured that the passage of the Canadian Pacific Railroad Bill would be followed by most favourable results, and would secure the rapid completion of the railway. He added that while the system of making free grants to actual settlers in the North-West of the Dominion would be maintained, the lands reserved for sale by the Crown would, it was believed, be sold at prices sufficient to eventually repay the whole expenditure of money by the Dominion Government.

The Marquis of Lorne and suite attended the St. Patrick Society's concert on the 17th inst. at Ottawa.

The Hon. W. Wedderburn, Provincial Secretary, has introduced a bill in the New Brunswick Legislative Assembly abolishing the Legislative Council and continuing the House of Assembly under the name of the Legislative Assembly.

In Prince Edward Island the Government bill abolishing the Legislative Council, fixing the number of the members of the next Legislative Chamber at twenty-two, and reducing the number of Ministers of the Executive from nine to five, has passed the Provincial House of Assembly.

On a test vote, the British Columbian Legislature has supported the present Ministry by 15 votes to 7.

INDIA.

In a telegram of Sunday's date, the Candahar correspondent of the Times says that all is now ready for the march of the entire force at the shortest notice, but there is no symptom of an immediate move or of the establishment of any local government. "The country generally is tranquilly awaiting the course of events, and rejoicing in the prospect of a superb harvest." The Calcutta telegrams in the same paper state that the Viceroy left Calcutta on Tuesday week, made a short halt at Cawnpore, and was to arrive at Simla on Monday. The long-threatened abolition of the Press Commissionership has at last come to pass, it having been definitely announced that Mr. Lethbridge will retire from the Government service, and that for the future the news will be given out to the Press through a department of the Government Secretariat. The Budget will probably be published before the end of the month, and "it is generally expected that it will show a handsome surplus."

The Calcutta Daily News of Monday states that the Garrows have submitted, and have been disarmed. Their ringleaders have been arrested, and the police are now returning.

AUSTRALIA.

Sir Arthur Blyth, Agent-General for South Australia, has received the following telegram from Adelaide, dated the 19th inst.:—"The Ministry has resigned, and a new Ministry has been formed, consisting of the Hon. William Morgan, Chief Secretary; the Hon. Josiah Henry Symon, Attorney-General; the Hon. George Swan Fowler, Treasurer; the Hon. Thomas Playford, Commissioner of Crown Lands and Immigration; the Hon. George Charles Hawker, Commissioner of Public Works; the Hon. Martin Peter F. Basedow, Minister of Education.

The Agent-General of New South Wales has received a telegram fom his Government saying that the Parliament of that colony has voted £40,000 for the purposes of emigration, the emigrants to consist of young married couples (with or without children) and single women. One moiety of the passage money to be paid by the emigrants, who are to be selected in proportion to the respective populations of the three kingdoms. To take effect on June 1 next.

---

Five steamers landed 1570 emigrants at New York on Monday.

A direct line of steamers is to be established between Hamburg and South Africa.

The steamer Leopard, of Greenock, has arrived at St. John's, Newfoundland, with a cargo of 15,000 seals.

The ship Clyde, 1140 tons, Captain Hoyle, chartered by the Agent-General for New South Wales, sailed from Plymouth for Sydney last Saturday, with 331 emigrants.

When Chili enters the Postal Union, on April 1 next, the British Post Office agencies in that country will be closed, and money orders on Valparaiso and Coquimbo will no longer be issued in this country.

A report from St. Petersburg to the Foreign Office, on the last Russian Budget, mentions, as "a curious item" an increase of 564,263 roubles on the sale of passports, "in consequence of the more rigorous resolutions recently enforced to check the movements of Nihilists."

An International Agricultural Exhibition will be held at Zala, in Hungary, under the auspices of the Chamber of Agriculture of Zala, on May 1, 2, and 3 next, a ploughing-match being included in the programme. The promoters propose to purchase machinery to the extent of 1500 florins. Steam machinery, by which is probably meant machinery in motion, is excluded from the exhibition. Information can be obtained at the Austro-Hungarian Consulate in London.

AN IRISH LAND LEAGUE OUTRAGE.

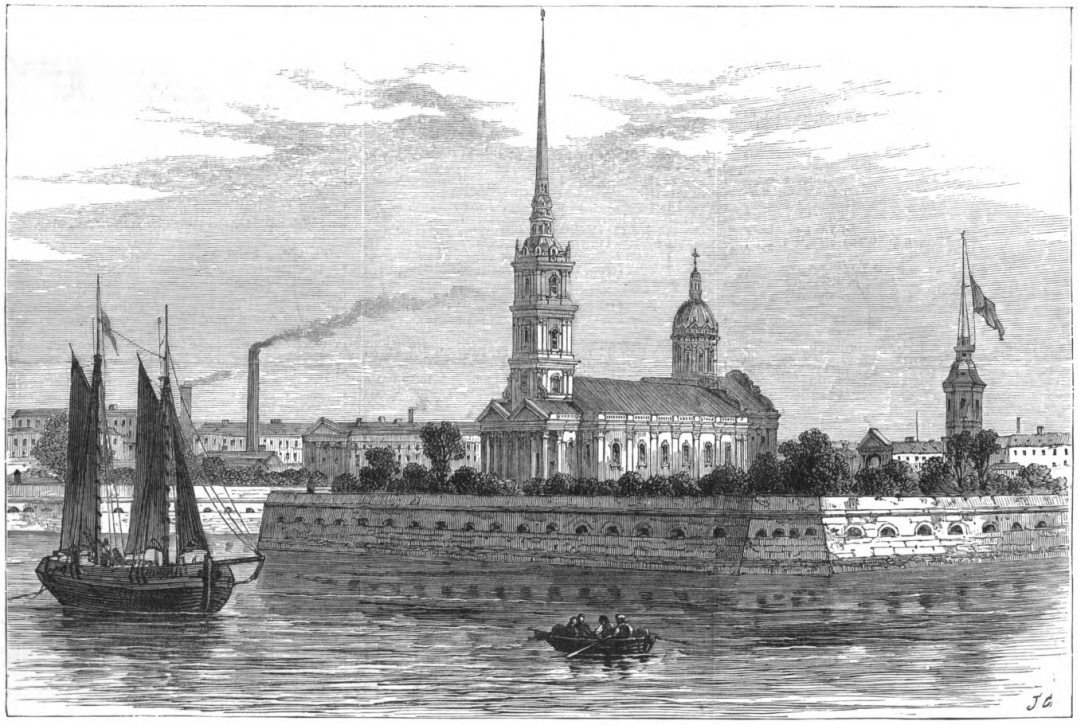
The scene in the bed-room of Mr. John Hearn, at Ballinrobe, County Mayo, when he lay wounded by the shots of two assassins, and those who had been arrested on suspicion were brought before him to be identified, is the subject of our Artist's Sketch. Mr. Hearn, a gentleman above sixty-five years of age, is Petty Sessions Clerk for the Ballinrobe district, and is agent for the estates of the Hon. Mr. De Montmorency in that neighbourhood; but this property is very small. In May last three of the tenants were evicted for non-payment of rent. Two of them paid up the arrears and continued in occupation, and the third was reinstated as caretaker; so that in reality there has been no change in the tenantry. Mr. Hearn received a threatening letter a few months ago; but he took no notice of it. He has been in the habit of proceeding home since that time at all hours, and alone. He was going home from the weekly Petty Sessions, on the 28th ult., at three o'clock in the afternoon; and when near his own house, a mile from the town, he stopped to look over a wall into a field. He was conscious of two persons passing behind him, but he did not notice who they were. Several shots were immediately fired, and he found he was wounded in the back. He turned round, grasping his stick, and faced his assailants, who were two young men. They were quite close to him, almost at arm's length. He struck at them several times with his stick, until another shot from a revolver disabled his right hand, the bullet passing through the flesh between his thumb and his forefinger, while at the same moment he received a wound in the right side. Then his assailants fled, leaving Mr. Hearn with four wounds, two of which were serious, one bullet having lodged in the right kidney, and one having injured the liver. The revolver was put so close to him as to singe the cloth of his coat. He was able to walk to his own house, and to knock at the door. For some days his condition seemed very precarious, but he is now recovering. He gave some description of the assassins, who wore rough blue jackets, with fur caps drawn over their heads. Two young men, John and Richard Nally, relatives of the wife of Hessein, the tenant who had been evicted for non-payment of rent and afterwards received as caretaker, were arrested on the second day after the attempt to murder. A few days later they were brought, with some other young men, into Mr. Hearn's bedroom, when he singled them out as being very like the men who fired at him. A Mrs. James, who lives with her father in a cottage near the spot, has deposed that she saw John Nally, one of the prisoners, loitering about the roads, and also saw him jump into a field, before the outrage, quite close to where Mr. Hearn was shot. They have been committed for trial.

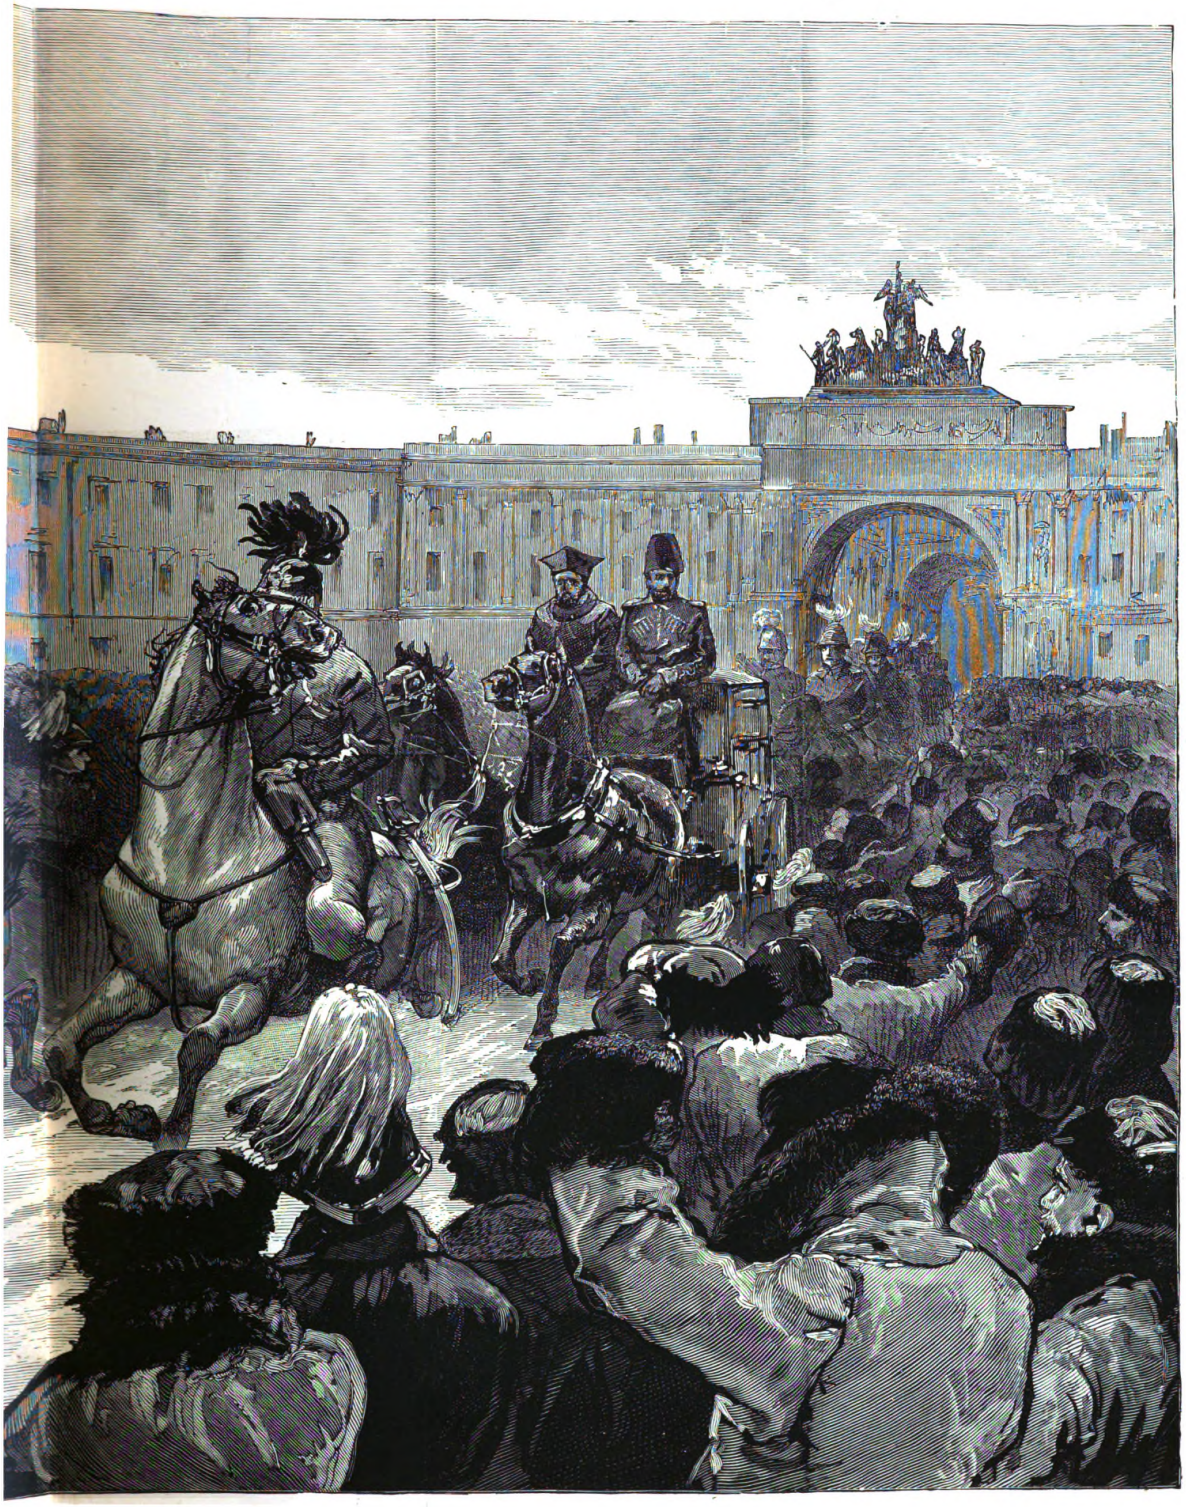
THE NEW EMPRESS OF RUSSIA.
FROM A PHOTOGRAPH BY MESSRS. MAULL AND FOX.

A piece of plate, subscribed for by the nobility, magistrates, and general public of the districts of Woburn and Leighton Buzzard, has been presented to Sir Richard T. Gilpin, Bart., late M.P. for the county of Bedford, as a mark of appreciation of the active, useful, and genial life the hon. Baronet has led in the county, and as a birthday offering on the attainment of his eightieth year on Jan. 12 last. The presentation took place in the temple situated in the grounds attached to The Cedars, Leighton Buzzard, the residence of Mr. T. Harris, J.P., in the presence of a great number of the subscribers, Lord Charles Russell acting as spokesman.



THE CITADEL CHURCH, ST. PETERSBURG, WHERE THE LATE EMPEROR'S BODY LAY IN STATE.

ARRIVAL OF THE NEW EMPEROR AND EMPRESS O



OF RUSSIA AT THE WINTER PALACE, ST. PETERSBURG.

PRISONERS CHARGED WITH SHOOTING MR. HEARN AT BALLINROBE, MAYO, BROUGHT BEFORE HIM FOR IDENTIFICATION.

THE SILENT MEMBER.

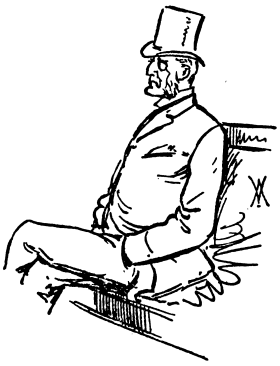
The mournful event which has drawn the Princes of Europe to St. Petersburg was, on the 18th inst., again referred to in both Houses of Parliament. Earl Sidney in the Upper and Lord Kensington in the Lower House, read the gracious and sympathetic replies of her Majesty to the Addresses of the Lords and Commons; and Earl Granville seized the opportunity to communicate the new Emperor's telegram to the effect that he had "been deeply touched by the manifestation of sympathy." Not very opportunely, it happened that a little earlier the same afternoon, Lord Beaconsfield rose from his seat in his best "high policy" manner, gravely approached the table with sphinx-like deliberation, and, comforting himself as he is here delineated, harped once again upon the Candahar string (possibly, as a preliminary to Mr. E. Stanhope's strumming on the same instrument in the Lower House this week). The late Premier wished to know whether it was accurate, as stated in the Times, that our troops would evacuate Candahar on April 15. Not quite accurate, according to the Foreign Secretary. But not far wrong, to judge from the statement on Monday of Lord Enfield, who explained that the Ameer Abdurrahman's troops had already left, or were about to leave Cabul for Candahar, which the British troops were preparing to evacuate upon the Ameer's taking possession of the stronghold. The friends of Lord Beaconsfield have since learnt with regret that the noble Earl has been suffering from a cold. Business progresses, however, in the Lords. Royal Assent to the Peace Preservation in Ireland Bill was given on Monday. The next day, their Lordships had the satisfaction of hearing that the negotiations between Sir Evelyn Wood and Commandant Joubert at Laing's Neck had ended in the acceptance by the Boers of the terms of peace offered by her Majesty's Government.

The Commons are quite in a practical mood now. The legislative machine, as a consequence, moves without friction. Mr. Childers, to wit, on the 17th inst., secured the votes of 134,000 men for the Army, and £4,136,000 for pay and allowances, promised a scheme for embodying the militia to meet such emergencies as the Zulu and Afghan Wars; and, on the 21st inst., the Secretary for War obtained by large majorities the further votes of £446,000 and £210,000 for the Transvaal War. Mr. Trevelyan, deservedly complimented by Mr. W. H. Smith for the rare ability and clearness of his speech, was equally successful on the 18th inst., and had the pleasure of getting the Naval Estimates for 58,100 men and £2,704,226 for the wages of seamen and marines sanctioned without a division, after some little useful criticism.

The way is thus being cleared for the Ministerial task the Prime Minister is nerving himself to perform. The nature of this task may be gathered from the announcement Mr. Gladstone made on Monday. The First Lord of the Treasury will naturally have a word to say on Mr. Stanhope's Candahar motion, the division on which he hoped would be taken on the Friday night of the current week. Furthermore, Mr. Gladstone will, on April 4, make his financial statement for the year, and on April 7 introduce the Irish Land Bill. Then will follow a due reward to the attentive Commons in the acceptable shape of an Easter vacation, lasting from April 8 (the Oxford and Cambridge Boat-Race day) till April 25, when, however, the debate on the second reading of the principal Ministerial measure of the year will be forthwith begun.

The inglorious Transvaal War is at an end. General cheering greeted Mr. Gladstone's declaration on Tuesday, in reply to Sir Stafford Northcote's question, that "the Boers have substantially accepted the proposals of her Majesty's Government." The main points of the arrangement concluded between Sir Evelyn Wood and the Boer leaders are these—The suzerainty of the Queen over the Transvaal is acknowledged; complete self-government promised to the Boers; a Royal Commission formed by Sir Hercules Robinson, Sir Evelyn Wood, and Chief Justice De Villiers, to settle the frontier question and the provisions for the protection of natives; a British Resident to reside at the Transvaal capital; and the British garrisons to remain in the Transvaal towns until the final settlement. Pity the officials out there did not keep the Home Government better posted as to the real feeling of the Boers, so as to have prevented this useless war!

The hon. member for Mid-Lincolnshire might fairly be supposed to feel more at home in the discussion of the Foot and Mouth disease than in dilating, with a deportment worthy of Mr. Turveydrop, upon those Eastern topics which he used to delight in endeavouring—not very successfully—to enlighten Mr. Gladstone upon. Mr. Chaplin (whose aristocratic features will be recognised in the sketch) on Tuesday found a night to introduce his motion to the effect that the outbreak of the Foot and Mouth disease rendered it advisable to slaughter foreign cattle at the port of landing. But the hon. member could not persuade the Ministry or the majority to countenance this proposed insertion of the thin end of the wedge of Protection. Some vivacity was noticeable, however, in the answers of Mr. Mundella and Mr. Chamberlain on behalf of the Government. Albeit defeated, Mr. Chaplain was by no means disgraced. In fact, there were lively opposition cheers when it was found the resolution was only negatived by a majority of 58—205 to 147.



Agriculture had another innings on Wednesday, when the Agricultural Tenants' Compensation Bill came on for second reading. Mr. Chaplin again took the stage, and explained, with his usual clearness of articulation, that it was the purport of his measure to render operative the 1875 Agricultural Act of the late Ministry. Mr. Howard made his speech, but withdrew his amendment; and, after some discussion, Mr. Chaplin's bill was read the second time, without division. Sir T. Acland's No. 2 measure of the same nature was also read the second time, as was the Leases Bill; but the Sligo Re-Enfranchisement Bill was rejected by 180 to 30 votes.

A personal matter was on Monday obtruded on the House, and explained away to the satisfaction of all concerned. To be "suspended" is not pleasant to any member—no matter what arrogant self-sufficiency may provoke the suspension. But when, as in the cases of Mr. Biggar and Mr. F. H. O'Donnell, members have been "suspended" twice from the service of the House, the greater punishment looming in the future may well put them on their good behaviour. Mr. O'Donnell's second "suspension" took place in Committee on the 8th inst., when (as indicated in the appended sketch) the member for Dungarvan had, by order of the House, to retire to cool his heels in the Lobby, where the urbane Serjeant-at-Arms, Captain Gossett, probably treated him with the courtesy it is his custom to show to Parliamentary exiles. Now, Mr. O'Donnell brought upon himself this punishment by taking up the cudgels on behalf of another Irish member, who had applied the O'Connell epithet "beastly bellowing" to the ejaculations of members opposite him. The hon. member for Dungarvan on Monday made amends for many exhibitions of bad taste, and substantially apologised for the heat of his language. His motion declaring Dr. Lyon Playfair "under an erroneous impression" at the time could not be carried. But the moderation of his statement, couched in a manner which he might well adopt for the future, was recognised by the Prime Minister, Sir Stafford Northcote, and Dr. Playfair himself; and there this personal incident ended.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Alison, Henry Sylvester, Chaplain of Salop County Asylum, to be Chaplain of Kent County Asylum, Maid-stone.
Child, Alfred; Vicar of Ratley-on-Edgehill, Warwickshire.
Dixon, Thomas Featherston; Rector of St. George the Martyr and St. Mary Magdalen, Canterbury.
Harvey, F. B., Rector of Cheddington; Rural Dean of Ivinghoe.
Jackson, W. H.; Curate-in-Charge of St. Paul's, Deptford; Vicar of Frindsbury, near Rochester.
Johnson, W. Cowper, Vicar of Pulloxhill; Rector of Yaxham.
Lee, G. E., Rector of St. Andrew's, Jersey; Rector of St. Peter-Port.
Moore, D. K.; Missions to Seamen Chaplain, the River Humber.
Nisbet, M. A.; Rural Dean of the Deanery of Gloucester.
Payne-Smith, Robert; Vicar of Mitt-n-next-Sittingbourne, Kent.
Whitefoord, Philip, Rector of Aylton, Ledbury; Chaplain to the Union Workhouse, Ledbury.—Guardian.

The festival of the Sons of the Clergy will take place in St. Paul's Cathedral on May 18.

The resignation of the Rev. Sir Gilbert Frankland Lewis, Bart., Canon of Worcester Cathedral, is announced.

The City Press states that Serjeant's Inn hall and chapel has been purchased by the Church of England Sunday-School Institute, who will make it the centre of their operations.

An anonymous donor has offered £1000, or one third of the amount required, to abolish the pew-rents and to rescat Christ Church, Warminster.

Last Saturday afternoon the Rev. S. F. Green, of Miles Platting, near Manchester, was sent to prison for persisting in illegal Ritualistic practices for which he had been condemned.

A handsome three-light Munich stained-glass window, by Messrs. Mayer and Co., representing the Crucifixion, has been placed in St. Thomas Church, Haverfordwest, to the memory of the Rev. Thomas Horn, Vicar of the parish.

Earl Nelson has formally handed over to the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury cathedral a sepulchral monument, which has been erected in the south aisle to the memory of the late Bishop Hamilton. The monument bears an effigy of the late Bishop executed in white statuary marble, and the style adopted is that of the thirteenth century.

In the Church of St. Peter, Cornhill, on Sunday, a special sermon was preached on behalf of the Colonial and Continental Church Society by the Rev. H. Pahtahquahong Chase, hereditary chief of the Ojibway tribe, president of the Grand Council of Indians, and the society's missionary at Muncey-town, Canada.

Miss L. Phillimore writes to say that the full sum of £165 has now been received for the Bishop Wilberforce confirmation memorial window in St. Mary's, Southampton, that the debt is paid, and the subscription-list is closed. Miss Phillimore thanks sincerely all those who have shared in this tribute to the memory of Bishop Wilberforce.

The Rev. J. C. Clutterbuck, Vicar of Long Wittenham, near Abingdon, and Mrs. Clutterbuck celebrated their golden wedding recently. The whole of the parishioners were entertained at dinner, after which the venerable pair were presented with an antique silver salver and an illuminated address. Mr. Clutterbuck, who is also Rural Dean of Abingdon, has held his present vicariate upwards of half a century.

A meeting was held on the 17th inst. at Berwick-on-Tweed in furtherance of the scheme for the division of the diocese of Durham. The Archdeacon of Lindisfarne stated that by the Act of Parliament £50,000 was required as an endowment to guarantee an income of £3500 a year to the new Bishop of Newcastle. The Bishop of Durham has promised £1000 per annum, and has also contributed £3000 to the fund. The Ridley bequest amounted to £16,000, and the Duke of Northumberland has given £10,000. Altogether, £32,500 had been raised, so that £17,500 was still required. It was suggested that the name of the new see should be Lindisfarne, there having been a Bishop with that title from A.D. 635 to A.D. 990. Another meeting was held at which £200 was subscribed.

A Parliamentary paper has been issued given some particulars with regard to the curates of the Church of England for the year 1879:—In the thirty dioceses of England and Wales there are 11,186 incumbents resident, 1509 incumbents were non-resident, 387 curates in sole charge, and 4888 assistant curates. Of the curates in sole charge one received a stipend of £20, one of £30, three stipends of £40, thirty-two of £80, seventy-eight of £100, twenty-two of £200, and one curate in each case received sums of £250, £270, £290, and £300. The latter was the highest sum paid. The salaries and emoluments of the assistant curates are also given. Two get board and lodging for the services; two the pew rents; six, £1 per week; four, £10 a year; twenty-three, £20; fifteen, £30; twenty-nine, £40; ninety, £50; 439, £100; 1014 get £120; 1109 receive £150; 162 have £200; thirteen receive £250; and two get £300.

The governors of the Queen Anne's Bounty Corporation distributed on the 16th inst. their surplus income for the year 1880 amongst poor benefices. The number of benefices approved for augmentation was 103, of which 74 received one grant, 15 two grants, and 14 three grants; each grant consisting of a capital sum of £200. The contributions offered by those personally interested in the welfare of the benefices and the incumbents, or by diocesan and other societies, amounted in money and property to £33,324, making, with the bounty grants of £29,200, the total capital sum of £62,524. Four newly created benefices were without any secured income whatever; and the benefice highest in annual value was only £200. Legacies recently received have been found most valuable by the governors; their corporate funds would have been otherwise insufficient to meet the demands made upon them, and their usefulness consequently diminished. The board can accept gifts of real and personal estate, either for specified poor benefices or for the charitable purposes of the corporation.

The Incorporated Society for Promoting the Enlargement, Building, and Repairing of Churches and Chapels held its annual monthly meeting at the society's house on the 17th inst. Grants of money were made in aid of the following objects—viz:—Building new churches at Dormans Land, near East Grinstead, £150, and Fulmodeston-cum-Croxton, Norfolk, £80; rebuilding the church at Crowle, St. John, near Worcester, £100; enlarging accommodation in the churches at Cockett, near Swansea, £65; Croydon, £80; Eglwyswrw, Cardigan, £30; Llanpenboe, near Yarmouth, £40; Llanpumpsaint, near Carmarthen, £25; Llansadwrn, near Pentraeth, Anglesey, £25; Priddy, near Wells, £50; Sedgeford, near King's Lynn, £40; St. Brooke, near Wadebridge, Cornwall, £40; Tickhill, near Rotherham, £20; and Great Treffgarn, near Haverfordwest, £15. Under urgent circumstances, the grant formerly made towards rescating and restoring the church at Timbercombe, near Dunster, Somerset, was increased from £20 to £30. Grants were also made from the special Mission Buildings Fund towards building mission churches at Glais, Glamorgan, £40; Swainton, St. Albans, Notts, £20; and Pantyrheal, Briton Ferry, £20. The grant formerly made towards building a mission church at Laidlow was increased from £20 to £30. The society likewise accepted the trust of a sum of money as a repair fund for St. Leonard's Church, Chesham Bois, Bucks.

THE UNIVERSITIES AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

OXFORD.

Mr. G. C. Harrison Adam, De Bromes' Exhibitioner, Oriel College, has been awarded the Ireland Exhibition, open to members of that society.

The University Mathematical Scholarships have been awarded as follows:—The Senior Scholarship to A. Buchheim, B.A., Scholar of New College; the Junior Scholarship to L. J. Rogers, Scholar of Balliol; proxime accessit, J. Bewsher, Scholar of Balliol; honourably mentioned, T. J. Richards, Scholar of Merton. Lady Herschel's prize for Astronomy (awarded on the examination for the Senior Scholarship) to E. Buck, Scholar of Hertford College.

Henry M'Intosh Cross, of Royse's School, Abingdon, has been elected to an Abingdon Scholarship at Pembroke.

Mr. J. W. Mackail, Honorary Scholar and Warner Exhibitioner of the Balliol College, has been elected to the Prosser Exhibition in the same society. Proxime accesserunt, Mr. S. Alexander and Mr. P. S. Matheson, Scholars of the College.

CAMBRIDGE.

The gold medals given annually by his Grace the Chancellor of the University to the two students candidates for the Classical Tripos who prove themselves most proficient in classical learning have been adjudged as follows:—1. Harry Chester Goodhart, Trinity College; 2. Joseph Armitage Robinson, Christ's College. Highly distinguished in the examination:—William R. Roberts, King's College; Frederick Brooke Westcott, Trinity College.

The choral scholarship at King's has been adjudged to P. A. Thomas, formerly of Gloucester Cathedral School.

The yearly scholarships at Stationers' School have been assigned to the following pupils:—Edmund Hodgson Scholarship (£20) to J. Hasham: Charles Knight Scholarship (£20) to P. A. Catchpole; Thomas Brown Scholarship (£20) to C. R. Hall. Prizes presented by the Master of the Company, Alderman Figgins: First to C. A. Glenister (£10), second to W. E. Newton (£10).

If the condition of public affairs permit, Mr. Gladstone will probably take a sea voyage during the Easter recess.

Lord Beaconsfield has been confined to his house from a slight asthmatical cough, brought on by exposure to the recent east winds. He got much better on Tuesday.

Vice-Chancellor Sir Richard Malins has, on the advice of his physicians, resigned his office in the High Court of Justice, and all causes assigned to his Lordship, together with the staff of clerks in chambers, have been transferred to Mr. Justice Fry.

Colonel Richard Wadeson, V.C., has been selected to succeed the late Colonel R. H. Gall, C.B., as Major and Lieutenant Governor of Chelsea Hospital.

Mr. Horace Smith, B.A., of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and Barrister-at-Law of the Inner Temple, has been appointed Recorder of Lincoln, in the place of Mr. Justice Cave.

The Judicial Committee has decided in an appeal from Canada that the assessor of taxes was wrong in assessing the British North American Bank for income tax for 1875, when the bank sustained heavy losses, and made no profits.

HOME NEWS.

We understand that the London Financial Association has accepted the tender of Messrs. Jones and Barber for a lease for a long term of years of the Alexandra Palace and Park.

The Queen has approved of the staff appointment of Major William Kennis, R.A., to be professor of artillery at the Royal Military Academy, vice Major Joseph Sladen, R.A.

The wife of Joseph Wright, a Chester cabman, has received notice that a brother, who died abroad, had left her £11,000.

Madame Antoinette Sterling has written an article on "How to Sing in Public," and Sir Julius Benedict has contributed a song, to the April number of the Girl's Own Paper.

The Exhibition of Labour-Saving Appliances at the Agricultural Hall has remained open another week, owing to the great interest taken by the public in the various charitable institutions there represented.

It is said that 500,000 copies of the revised version of the New Testament have been already manufactured in England, and 100,000 in New York, none of which can at present be sold.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat at Liverpool last week, from the United States and Canada, were in excess of the preceding week, the total being 1008 cattle, 20 sheep, 11,295 quarters of beef, 2566 carcases of mutton, 1525 pigs.

The members of the joint Midland and North-Eastern Circuits have invited Mr. Justice Cave to a dinner to celebrate his recent elevation to the Bench, which will take place on Tuesday next, the 29th inst., in the Inner Temple Hall.

The Earl of Dunraven presided at a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute on Tuesday night, when Mr. W. M. Torrens, M.P., gave an address on "Imperial and Colonial Partnership in Emigration." The discussion was adjourned.

On Thursday evening a paper on "The Future Development of Electrical Appliances" was read by Professor John Perry to the Society of Arts. This paper was illustrated by experiments.

At Tuesday's meeting of the City Commission of Sewers, it was announced that of the three different systems of electric lighting which are to be tried in the streets and on the bridges, two will begin work on the 31st inst., the other a month later.

Mr. Prior, the representative of the working classes who was some time ago nominated by the Home Secretary to an Inspectorship of Factories, on Tuesday received his official appointment.

The following gentlemen were on Monday sworn in before the Lord Chancellor as Queen's Counsel—Mr. E. C. Clarkson, Dr. T. H. Tristram, Mr. H. C. Saunders, Hon. E. Chandos Leigh, and Mr. John Forbes.

The Captain's Good-Service Pension of £150 a year, vacated by the retirement of Captain A. M. Buckle, has been awarded to Captain W. S. Brown, now Commodore at Jamaica. Vacant Naval Pensions of £50 a year for Lieutenants have been awarded to Retired Commanders W. M. Sanctuary and W. Vicary.

An open competition is announced by the Civil Service Commissioners, to be held in London on April 5 and following days, for one second-class clerkship in the office of the Examiner of Criminal Law Accounts. The salary is £150 per annum, rising annually by £15 to £300.

The Select Committee on Herring Brand (Scotland) met on Monday to choose their chairman and consider the course of proceedings. Mr. R. W. Duff (Banffshire) was appointed to preside, and the committee arranged to commence their inquiry on Monday next at two o'clock.

A general meeting of the members of the Royal Asiatic Society was held on Tuesday, the chair being taken by Major-General Sir Henry C. Rawlinson, president and director of the society. The Rev. Professor Samuel Beal read a paper on "Chinese Intercourse with India during the Seventh Century."

In the Queen's Bench the trial of the indictment in which Mr. Labouchere, M.P., is charged with having published a libel upon Mr. Edward Levy Lawson, was proceeding before Lord Coleridge and a special jury when our early edition was put to press.

Exeter Hall, in great part reconstructed and entirely redecorated, is to be formally reopened on the 29th inst., fifty years from the day when this famous home of "May Meetings," Sacred Harmonic Concerts, and political gatherings first opened its doors. The chair is to be taken by Lord Shaftesbury.

The London School Board on the 17th inst. received a report from one of its committees recommending various changes in the draught scheme which has been drawn up for the government of Dulwich College. A grant of £76 was made for the purchase of musical instruments for the boys' band on board the Shaftesbury training-ship.

Mrs. Gladstone on Tuesday presented the prizes at the Bow and Bromley Institute, Bow, to the successful members of the East London Horticultural Society. There was a crowded attendance, and the show of flowers and also of ferns and tropical plants, all grown in the district, was a remarkably beautiful one. The Rev. G. Howe presided.

Compensation to the amount of £200 was awarded on Tuesday, at Waterford, to a cattle-dealer named Blake for the malicious stabbing of his cattle. The grand jury also awarded two of its members, Mr. Congreve Rogers, J.P., and Captain Palliser, £70 and £40 respectively as compensation for malicious destruction of cattle and farm-buildings.

At a meeting in London last Saturday of representatives of Radical clubs it was resolved to form a new political association, under the title of the Democratic Confederation, with a programme embracing triennial Parliaments, payment of members, abolition of the House of Lords, the nationalisation of land, and the legislative independence of Ireland.

Railway companies have sometimes to pay heavy damages. Mrs. M'Culloch, widow of Captain Alexander M'Culloch, Kilcreggan, having raised an action against the Caledonian Railway Company for damages, her husband having been killed in a collision, between Glasgow and Paisley, on Sept. 8, has, without going to trial, accepted £6000, to be divided between herself and her seven children.

Mr. Robarts's action against the Corporation for his dismissal from the office of City Remembrancer came before the Master of the Rolls yesterday week in the form of an application for an injunction to restrain the Corporation from filling up the office. It was arranged that the motion should stand over for a fortnight, and it was intimated on behalf of the Corporation that the appointment to the office would be postponed.

A meeting of the citizens of London, convened by the Patriotic Association, was held on Tuesday at the Cannon-street Hotel, "to uphold the honour and interests of the British Empire," by expressing its views against the withdrawal from Candahar. Alderman Sir R. W. Carden, M.P., presided; and amongst the speakers were Mr. Alderman Fowler, M.P., the Earl of Dunraven, Sir Henry Hoare, Lord Elcho, M.P., and Colonel Malleson.

John William Jackson, describing himself as an engineer, living in Cavendish-road, St John's-wood, was taken before the magistrate at Marylebone Police Court last Saturday. He had endeavoured to get into Buckingham Palace, avowedly to see her Majesty, as he claimed to be "the Emperor of France." As he continued to assert his claim to that Imperial distinction, the magistrate, after hearing the evidence of a surgeon who had seen him, to the effect that he was suffering from delusions, remanded him to the workhouse.

A meeting of the Victoria (Philosophical) Institute was held last Monday at its house, 7, Adelphi-terrace, when Mr. J. F. Bateman, F.R.S., read a paper on Meteorology, in which he analysed the causes of a variation of rainfall in the United Kingdom. In the discussion special remarks were made as to the causes and effects of the almost tropical rainfall that once obtained in these islands. Professor Hafour, F.R.S., will read a paper on the Visible Universe at the next meeting.

The first meeting of the Ladies' Committee of the Domestic Economy Congress was held on Tuesday at the Society of Arts, Adelphi, to discuss with the Executive Committee the detailed arrangements for holding a congress in the month of June. It was resolved to adopt the divisions of the Education Code for the sections of the congress, and several ladies were proposed for the various sections. Weekly meetings are to be held until the time of the congress. Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne, has joined the vice-presidents.

The annual poor-rate return for the year ended Lady Day, 1880, has been issued as a Parliamentary paper. The sum raised by poor rates throughout the whole of England during the year was £13,033,655; the receipts in aid, inclusive of £55,569, the Treasury subventions and payments for Government property, amounted to £967,857—forming a total receipt of £14,001,512. It is stated that £5,415,973, or more than one third of the whole poor rate now levied, is expended for "other purposes" than the relief of the poor.

A correspondent of the Standard points out the difference between the poisonous Sium angustifolium, or narrow-leaved water-parsnip, and the watercress, with which it is sometimes confounded. He says that, at a first glance, it is not unlike watercress, and he has often observed that children are inclined to gather it as such. Botanically the two plants are quite distinct; and it may be as well to add, for the guidance of those who are not able to appreciate the scientific distinction, that in the watercress the leaflets of each leaf are large at the top and become smaller as they descend; whereas in the poisonous plant, which so fatally resembles it, the leaflets are large below and become smaller as they ascend.

After the death of Miss Helen Gladstone last year, the administration of her estate was granted to the Premier and Sir Thomas Gladstone, her brother, in the belief that she had died intestate. Since then a will, dated in 1832, has been found, and some correspondence with Cardinal Wiseman, inclosing the draught of a will dated 1855. There was no evidence of the latter will having been executed, and the executors under the will of 1832 are dead. Accordingly, on Tuesday, in the Probate Court, the former letters of administration were revoked, and fresh letters were granted to the two gentlemen already named for the administration of the estate under the will.

Earl Delawarr has failed in his claim to prevent the commoners of Ashdown Forest, in Sussex, from cutting ferns in the forest and carting them to their farms. The forest was granted to the Earl's ancestor in 1661, and when litigation arose between the grantee and the commoners, thirty years later, a decree was made by which seven thousand five hundred acres were allotted to the owner of the soil, free from common rights, and six thousand four hundred acres were to remain unenclosed for the commoners. Lord Delawarr has lately claimed that the right of the commoners is only to the pasturage; but they satisfied the Court of Appeal on Monday of their user of the ferns for their farms for the last sixty years, and the decision of the Court was in their favour.

Mr. H. Broadhurst, M.P., was one of the speakers at a festival of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, held at Woolwich last Saturday night. Replying to the toast of "The Institutions of England," Mr. Broadhurst said he entered the House of Commons without wealth, influence, or friends other than of his own class, and no one could have been more courteously received and generously treated. In the House it mattered not what had been a man's position, nor what was the sphere of life in which he moved; if he had anything to say worth listening to he was sure of an attentive hearing, and in all rights and privileges he was the equal of the noblest and richest in the assembly. Therefore working men, if they chose to send to Parliament a representative from themselves, might know that he would be received with as much respect as if he were the son of a Duke or a millionaire.

A large number of ladies and gentlemen—including Sir J. M'Garel Hogg, the Chairman of the Metropolitan Board of Works, and several members of the Board, with their architect, G. Vulliamy, Esq.—assembled last Saturday at Messrs. Young and Co.'s Foundry, Eccleston-street, Pimlico, to witness the casting of the first of the two bronze Sphinxes which are to be placed one on each side of "Cleopatra's Needle" on the Victoria Embankment. About one o'clock Sir J. M'Garel Hogg moved the lever whereby the molten metal was released and allowed to run into the mould, about eight tons of metal being melted for the work. Each Sphinx will be 19 ft. long, 6 ft. wide, and 9 ft. high; and its weight, about seven tons. The Sphinx is the work of Mr. C. H. Mabey, sculptor, of Westminster, who also modelled the four wings and pieces between, which are to be placed on the angles of "Cleopatra's Needle."

St. Patrick's Day was kept throughout the kingdom in the customary manner. There was a plentiful display of shamrock and green ribbon; and banquets, concerts, and balls were given by the various Irish societies. There was a grand high mass at St. Patrick's, Soho, and Cardinal Manning preached in the evening. Mr. W. E. Forster, M.P., speaking at the ninety-eighth anniversary of the Benevolent Society of St. Patrick in the evening, said that although he considered the defective education of Ireland was due to its religious and political differences, he did not believe this to be wholly the fault of the people. There was, no doubt, such a desire for knowledge among them that, if every facility to that end were given, there would be less necessity for the application of compulsion than in England and Scotland. He hoped that when they met to celebrate the centenary of the society, the prosperity of Ireland would not be a matter to look forward to in the future, but its present and certain possession. The Earl of Donoughmore presided, in the absence of the Duke of Edinburgh, and Lord Dunraven also took part in the proceedings. During the evening subscriptions to the amount of about £830 were received in aid of the charity. A large number of soldiers belonging to the 18th Royal Irish and Irishmen belonging to other corps celebrated the day by creating a disturbance in Short-street, Aldershott. There were large meetings in celebration of the day at Sheffield, Newcastle, and elsewhere, and in most of the large towns in Scotland. In Ireland the day was kept as a general holiday, and passed off quietly. In consequence of the assassination of the Czar, St. Patrick's ball will not take place at the Castle, Dublin, until the 30th inst.

BENEVOLENT OBJECTS.

The Cordwainers' Company have contributed twenty-five guineas to the Exeter Hall Adaptation Fund.

Sir Stafford Northcote will preside at the next dinner of the Newspaper Press Fund, on June 18.

The Hon. Evelyn Ashley, M.P., opened a coffee tavern at Newport, Isle of Wight, last week. He said the question of temperance was one of overwhelming national importance.

Lord Lathom presided at the annual dinner of the Railway Officers and Servants' Association, last week, at the City Terminus Hotel; the subscriptions amounting to £1376.

The committee of the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, Old Kent-road and Margate, announce that deaf and dumb children are now received into the Asylum at the age of seven instead of eight years and a half, as formerly.

The board of management of the Asylum for Idiots gave their thirty-fourth dinner on Tuesday at the Albion, Aldersgate-street. Mr. J. J. Colman, M.P., presided. The subscriptions and donations amounted to nearly £2000.

Lord Aberdare presided (in the absence of the Duke of Connaught) at the twenty-ninth anniversary dinner of the Hospital for Sick Children held at Willis's Rooms on the 16th inst. The result of an appeal for support was an aggregate contribution of upwards of £2000.

His Excellency, Mr. Russell Lowell, the American Minister, opened a free public library at Worcester on the 16th inst., the occasion being celebrated with much popular rejoicing. At the luncheon which followed a congratulatory telegram from Worcester, Massachusetts, was read.

Sir Stafford Northcote presided last Saturday evening at the annual festival in aid of the Home for Little Boys at Farningham, and warmly commended the work of the institution to public support. Subscriptions and donations were announced amounting to about £1550.

The annual balance-sheet of the Hartley Colliery Relief Fund has been issued. During the year ending with February £1661 was distributed: £1479 as allowance of relief to widows and others dependent on the fund, and £23 for medical attendance.

The Lord Mayor presided at the annual meeting of the Middle-class Schools Corporation held last week at the Mansion House. The Council reported that the average number of scholars in attendance during the past year had been eleven hundred and fifty, which was slightly below that of the previous year. The committee have entered into arrangements to establish laboratories and lecture-rooms for the teaching of technical science. Testimony was borne by several speakers to the high discipline of the school and to the excellence of its education.

Under the presidency of the Postmaster-General, the tenth annual meeting of the Post Office Orphan Institution was held on the 16th inst. in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, Aldersgate-street. Mr. Fawcett expressed his belief that no institution could do good to the people which was not based on the principle of self help. He condemned those who were in receipt of good incomes and yet made no provision for their families; and as regards the Orphan Home, he enlarged on its usefulness, to which he pointed as a reason for extending it increased support.

Mr. Cameron of Lochiel, M.P., presided on Monday evening at the one hundred and third anniversary festival of the Highland Society of London. There were nearly one hundred and fifty gentlemen present. In giving the toast of the evening, the chairman remarked upon the objects of the society, and pointed out that the scope of the good works it accomplished was confined only by a want of means. The objects of the society are to preserve the martial spirit, language, dress, music, and antiquities of the ancient Caledonians; to preserve from oblivion the valuable remains of Celtic literature; to establish and support schools in the Highlands of Scotland; to relieve distressed Highlanders at a distance from their native homes; and to promote the improvement and general welfare of the northern parts of the kingdom.

THE PANAMA SHIP CANAL.

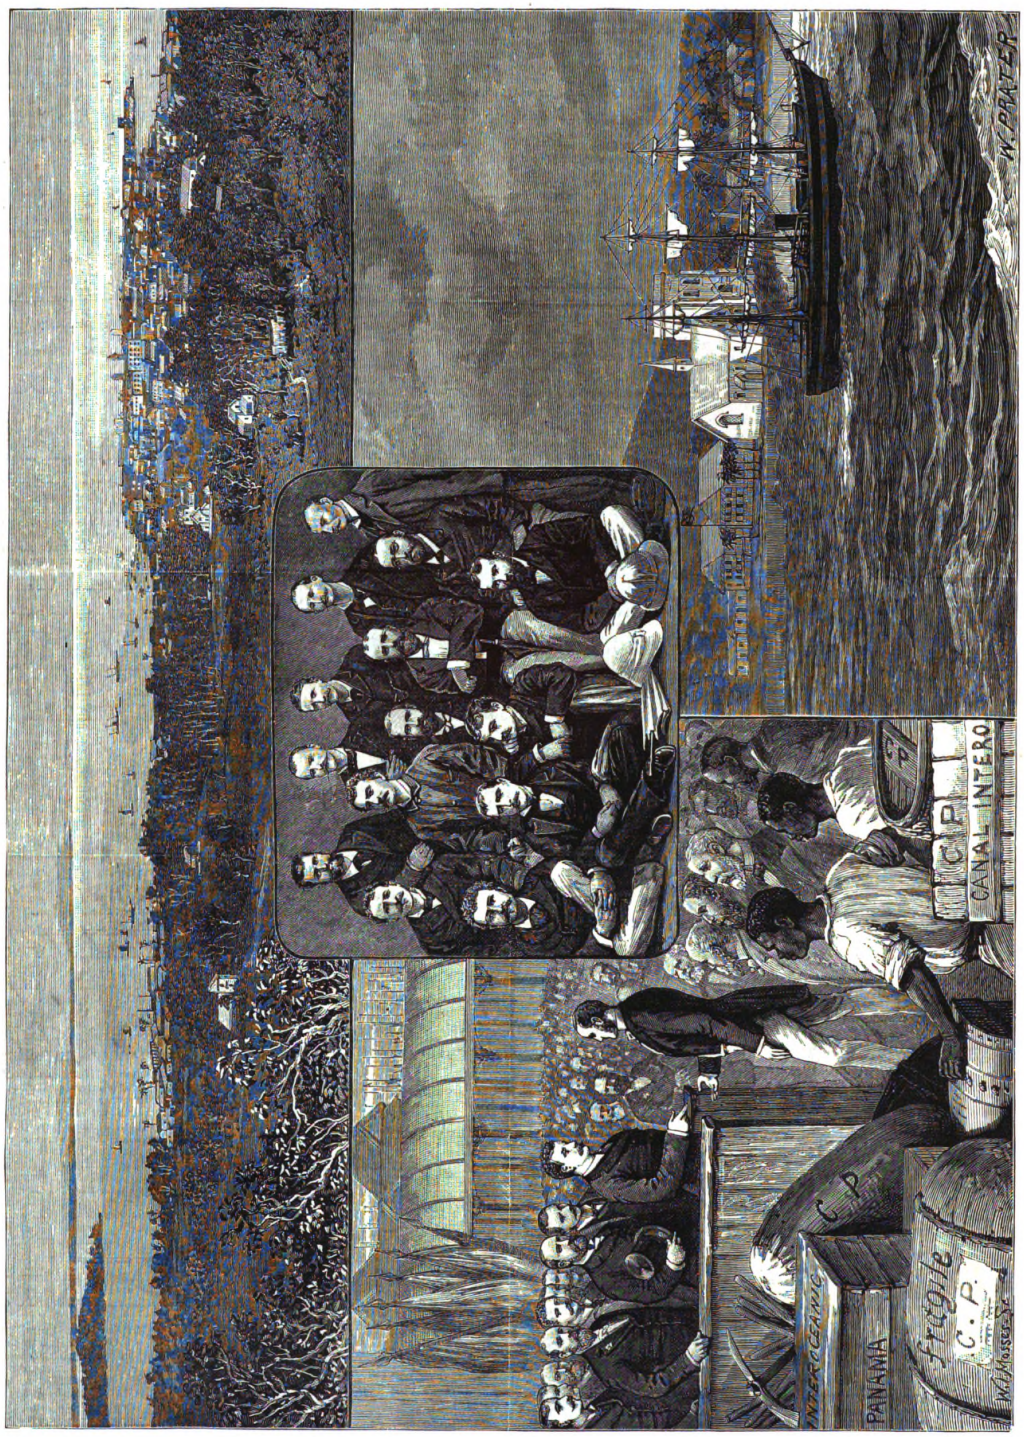
Our Illustrations, from sketches by Captain Chamberlaine-Bey, Secretary to the Directors of this great undertaking, shows the scenes at Colon (Aspinwall), the Atlantic seaport of the Isthmus passage, on Jan. 30, when the steamer Lafayette, of the French Transatlantic Company, brought the staff of civil engineers commissioned to perform the works preliminary to cutting the ship canal designed by M. de Lesseps from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. They were met at landing by the Mayor of Colon and other municipal and official persons, with some representatives of the Government of the Columbian Federal Republic, who presented addresses of welcome and congratulation. The members of the engineering staff are Messrs. Armand Reclus, Chamberlaine-Bey, G. Blanchet, A. Harel, G. Morel, J. Weber, G. Roux, G. Chavenau, L. Verbrugghe, L. Fontan, F. Pidona, L. de Cazenave, S. Guignard, and P. Sosa, names which have quite an international aspect. The Sketches represent the harbour of Colon, with part of the town, the church and the British Consulate; the vessel lying in the harbour; the landing of the engineers from Europe, and their reception by the local authorities. We have already given some account of the arrangements that have been made for proceeding with this important work.

The meeting of the Royal Agricultural Commission in Scotland has been fixed to take place in the last week of April, at Edinburgh, under the presidency of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon.

It is proposed by the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education to hold a Special Loan Exhibition of Spanish and Portuguese Ornamental Art in the South Kensington Museum during the coming summer months. A committee of advice has been formed; and the first meeting, at which Prince Leopold presided, took place last Saturday in the museum.

The Chester Election Commissioners have issued their report. They say that the constituency, as a whole, is not corrupt, but about two thousand voters out of five thousand nine hundred are open to be influenced by corrupt practices. The Mayor and two magistrates are scheduled as bribers, besides twelve members of the Corporation. The expenditure of the Liberals was £1448, and that of the Conservatives £3900.—Mr. Justice Grove and Mr. Justice Bowen, the Judges appointed to hear the petition against Mr. Powell's return, reached Wigan on Tuesday afternoon, and were received by the Mayor, Town Clerk, and officials. The inquiry was opened on Wednesday morning.



THE PANAMA CANAL: ARRIVAL OF THE ENGINEERS AT COLON.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

SKETCHES AT THE PRINCE OF WALES' THEATRE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

SKETCHES AT THE PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.

It is very seldom that English dramatists in the selection of their subjects embody the very spirit and essence of the times, and use their position to satirize the follies or the vices of society. The French are very fond of doing it; and of recent years Alexandre Dumas and Victorien Sardou have given the world no work that is not flavoured with the subject-matter of everyday controversy. Dangerous, no doubt, and extremely delicate is the task that the stage satirist sets himself when he uses the theatre as his platform; and it is possible that the examiner of stage plays might object to pass the kind of ridicule that was ready and easy of application. On one occasion he did forbid a translated French work destined to prove that female luxury led to immorality. "The Happy Land," no doubt, was a successful satire, though in that case costume and caricature of living statesmen were necessary to give it point; and "Diplomacy" directly touched upon the complications arising out of the Eastern Question. The success of Mr. F. C. Burnand's "Colonel" will probably give rise to many more bright and amusing social satires; though in such cases a light hand is essential, and good nature imperative.

The affectation of æstheticism as practised in certain art-circles is the keynote of the humorous idea. Mr. Du Maurier, in Punch, was the first to tilt good-naturedly at this society conceit; Mr. Maudle and Mr. Postlethwaite became as well known to Punch readers of to-day as our old friends Mr. Briggs, Mrs. Caudle, or Mr. and Mrs. Naggleton, and the worship of the lily and the sunflower was instantly a subject for persistent banter. It is a question whether the satire was not a little premature. The world is large, and the more brainless of the æsthetic school are in a miserable minority; the art-jargon considered so exquisitely funny to some is Greek to all but the artistically initiated, and there was always the danger that, in ridiculing the brainless and affected, it was possible to throw cold water on an intellectual movement that has brought beauty and good taste to our homes in thousands of decorative designs and an improved style of what may be fairly called Victorian architecture. But Mr. Du Maurier could not resist laughing at the effeminate men who could "lunch on a lily," or the vain and wasted women who dreamed of "living up to a china tea-pot;" and Mr. Burnand, with an equally strong sense of humour, though in a different direction, thought he would follow it up in action on the stage.

He remembered an old French play, the "Mari à la Campagne," which had done good service on the stage as "A Serious Family." It was a witty satire on hypocrisy. A Chadband or Stiggins had got influence over the female portion of a family, and the puritanical element was so distasteful to the husband that he was driven to evil courses thereby, from which he was only rescued by repentance and promises of amendment all round. Mr. Burnand conceives that Dick Forrester, a young fellow who sincerely loves his pretty wife, can be driven away from home disgusted at sad-coloured walls, lilies in blue jars, sunflowers in Dunmore pottery, and a rampant form of aggressive æstheticism. The house is taken possession of by the apostle of the school, one Lambert Streyke, who is a ready talker but an arch-impostor; and matters go so far that an old American friend of Dick Forrester's, one Colonel Wood, is turned out of the æsthetic house because he is an unbeliever and a Philistine. He may have some excuse, but his conduct is not without suspicion. When he pretends to go on fishing excursions he is flirting with pretty widows as an unmarried man; but the Colonel, who has loved the pretty widow long ago, is the deus ex machinâ who reconciles the silly young husband and wife, banishes the impostors, and, wonder of wonders, converts a home in which a certain phase of art had some footing, into a nest of determined and arrogant Philistinism—in other words, unredeemed vulgarity. The types selected by our Artist are easily recognised. One of the prettiest attitudes in the play is when Dick Forrester takes his wife to his arms, both promising mutual amendment and good faith, though the poor lady is condemned to voyant unbecoming dresses, instead of the old gold robe and emerald green hat that so suits the Veronese tresses of Miss Myra Holme. Naturally, we have Basil Giorgione (Mr. Rowland Buckstone), the nephew of the art-impostor, adoring a lily in a glass, and Lambert Streyke (Mr. Flockton), the poeta-ter, shaking his fist, tearing his hair, and bewailing the fate of his undelivered lecture. The she-dragon of all witty comedies is the mother-in-law, and she is embodied by Lady Toupkins, who, seated at a table in a naïf attitude, goes on a sunflower. The gay and gushing Nellie, tomboy in manner and Philistine at heart, who looks charmingly as represented by Miss C. Grahame, but insists that "she looks like one of Marcus Ward's Christmas cards," and is chaffed by the street boys, completes the æsthetic circle. Philistinism on our artist's pictures boasts the famous American Colonel, played to perfection by Mr. Coghlan, with a reserve, a quiet, and a polished decision quite new to the English stage; and Mrs Blythe, the merry widow, who is enchantingly represented by Miss Amy Roselle. "Have you seen his 'Pan by the River?'" means, to Mrs. Forrester to her unæsthetic friend the widow, meaning a poet and his masterpiece. The way in which Miss Roselle caps the question with "What!" is one of the funniest moments of this witty play. Opinions differ as to its necessity and motive; but that it makes crowded audiences roar with laughter there can be no question.

The little cleverly-written play by Sydney Grundy called "In Honour Bound" is borrowed from one solitary idea in Scribe's comedy "Une Chaine," and shows how necessary it is for young ladies to burn their love-letters, whether married or single. They do not always find such trusting and honourable men as Sir George Carlyon (Edgar Bruce), who, like a good fellow, burns the record of his wife's weakness, and earns her love.

C. S.

It has been definitely arranged that the next annual congress of the Royal Archæological Institute, under the presidentship of Lord Talbot de Malahide, F.S.A., shall be held at Bedford. It will occupy the last few days of July, commencing with Tuesday, the 26th, and will last about a week. Last year the institute held their congress at Lincoln, and in 1879 at Taunton.

A report has been issued by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies respecting the industrial and provident societies in England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland. The tables show that in England at the end of 1879 there were 898 societies, having 497,805 members; that the sales of goods amounted to £17,618,033; the stock in trade at the end of the year was £2,458,087; the balance of profit amounted to £1,675,927; and the share capital was £5,325,119. In Wales there were forty-nine societies, with 5001 members; sale transactions, £161,861; stock in trade, £22,932; the profit was £14,293; and the share capital, £39,864. In Scotland there were 232 societies, having 68,967 members; the sales amounted to £2,519,565; stock in trade, £370,510; balance of profit, £258,152; and share capital, £373,728. In Ireland there were six societies, with 547 members; sales in 1879, £17,179; profits, £1182; and share capital, £7615.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

The opening of Four Oaks Park—the "Sandown of the North," as it has been called—took place in magnificent weather, and though the arrangements were scarcely as complete as they will be hereafter, everything passed off most successfully. The stands, saddling paddock, weighing-room, &c., are simply perfect, and the course is very picturesque; but a little more of the grand old timber must be sacrificed before the approaches to the stands are as wide as could be wished, and when the old house which stands in the centre of the ground has been pulled down, a view of every part of each race will be obtainable. The racing on both days was very good, and there was an immense attendance of spectators on the first day, and a very good one on Saturday. The Grand National Hunt Steeplechase excited a great deal of interest, and Pride of Prussia, who won after a punishing race with Llanfrechfa and Baker Pasha, stayed wonderfully well for a young horse. Highland Mary (11 st. 3 lb.) was once more backed very heavily for the Grand Annual Steeplechase, but she has had quite enough of it during the past few weeks, and, nearly falling over the last flight of hurdles, left old Quibble (11 st. 5 lb.) to plod on alone. A capital field of fourteen turned out for the big hurdle-race on Saturday last, and George Albert (11 st. 5 lb.) was backed for an immense amount of money. He ran prominently for a mile and a half, but dropped out of it directly they began to race in earnest. Then Harbinger (12 st. 6 lb.) looked very dangerous, and held the lead until they were well over the last hurdle, when he was challenged by Beauchamp II. (11 st. 12 lb.), and, running rather unkindly, was beaten cleverly at the finish. The Paget Hunters' Flat Race was a very easy affair for Sirdar, whose gallop at Croydon in the previous week had evidently done him a great deal of good, and the other events may be passed over without comment.

Promoters of race-meetings evidently determined to take full advantage of the first week of the season, and six days' sport must really satisfy the most insatiable of turfites. The majority of them, indeed, steadily set their faces against beginning on a Monday, and the attendance at Lincoln on that day was a very small one. Those who were absent missed very little. Archer and Fordham each won the first race in which they had a mount, and the former squeezed Tower and Sword home a short head in front of Grace in the most marvellous fashion; indeed, fifty yards from the judge's box, she appeared to be drawing away from him at each stride, and it did not seem possible that he could ever catch her again. On Tuesday, Kaleidoscope only ran moderately in the Blankney Plate, and did not give much encouragement to the backers of the Russley stable for the great event. Only eleven two-year-olds ran for the Brocklesby Stakes, which is scarcely the average number of former years. Isabel, the favourite, cut up badly, but Belle Lurette won in such style that, unless the others are very bad indeed, she will do Sir George Chetwynd good service this season. It is doubtful if 10 lb. more on her back would have stopped her, as Archer never really asked her to gallop. She is a very pretty filly by Pero Gomez—La Belle Hélène, and is, therefore, half sister to Œnone, who was so invincible last spring.

The Lincolnshire Handicap, run on Wednesday, turned out a big success, the field numbering no less than thirty-six starters, the largest on record since the race was instituted, and resulted in a very easy victory for Mr. W. S. Crawford's Buchanan, by Strathconan—Flurry (4 years, 6 st. 10 lb.), the American representative, Mistake (7 st. 2 lb.), being second, and Post Obit (7 st. 3 lb.) third. The winner was steered with great judgment by the light weight of the stable, little Gallon, who did not attempt to go to the front until half the journey had been traversed, when he shot out full of running, and, drawing right away, finally won in the commonest of canters by fully ten lengths, the rest pulling up seeing pursuit of the grey was hopeless.

Mr. Chandos Pole has been elected master of the Meynell Hunt, in succession to Lord Waterpark, resigned. The subscribers guarantee a fund of £2000 per annum, and the new master undertakes to hunt the country four days weekly.

The final heat of the Championship of England Cup for pigeon-shooting was left to Dr. Carver and Mr. Scott, and once more the former proved successful. Both men shot much better than in their match, the winner killing seventy-nine out of one hundred, while Mr. Scott brought down five less in the same number. Their exhibition of glass-ball shooting, which has attracted large crowds to the Aquarium each evening, terminated on Saturday. The Doctor broke 9737 out of 9950, and Mr. Scott was only two behind him, each man doing far more than was expected of him.

England met Scotland in the annual football-match under Rugby Union rules, on Saturday last. The play on both sides was extremely brilliant, and, after a desperate game, the contest ended in a draw, each team scoring one goal and one try.

The annual competition of the St. Andrew's University Golf Club for the club medals was decided last Saturday. After a keen contest, the silver medal was gained by Mr. R. Forgan, with a score of 94, while Lord Carnegie and Mr. F. Boothby tied for the second at 96. On playing off the tie Lord Carnegie secured it with the low score of 86.

Joseph Bennett and Frederick Shorter will play for the billiard championship held by the former, at St. James's Hall, on Tuesday evening next. Shorter has been doing very well in practice, but we do not fancy that the cup will change hands at present.

F. Levett, the jockey, died on Wednesday morning at St. Thomas's Hospital. It will be remembered that Boreas fell with Levett in the Cardinal Hurdle Handicap at Sandown on Feb. 22 last and broke his leg; amputation being thought necessary.

An exhibition of great interest to lovers of art has begun in Holland. This is a loan collection of Low Country masters, which will be open at the Hague till the end of next month.

Last Saturday Messrs. Christie sold a number of water-colour drawings and pictures, the property of the late Mr. Ward, of Nottingham, the day's sale realising upwards of £8000. To-day the same firm sell Mr. Daniel Roberts's collection of modern pictures and water-colour drawings.

Mr. Charles Dickens announces the intended publication of a new journal under the once familiar title, "Household Words." A large portion of its contents will be devoted to fiction, and the remainder to subjects suggested by its title. The price of the new "Household Words" will be one penny, and the first number is to appear on April 30.

Notes on Samuel Prout and William Hunt, by Mr. Ruskin (The Fine-Art Society). This is a republication in a quarto form, with twenty autotype illustrations, of the pamphlet by Mr. Ruskin that appeared on the exhibition of the drawings of William Hunt and Samuel Prout at the publishers' gallery in Bond-street, and which—both pamphlet and exhibition—we have already noticed. The autotype process is obviously better adapted to the reproduction of the drawings of Prout than those of Hunt; hence a large majority of the illustrations are from the former.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

About 5000 of the metropolitan Volunteers were engaged last Saturday in battalion and skirmishing drill in the parks, at Wimbledon, and other open spaces round London.

Application has been made to the War-Office authorities by most of the metropolitan corps to take part in the Easter Monday Review. It is estimated that 17,941 men will be present, of whom 1456 are artillery, 1352 engineers, and 15,133 infantry.

The fifth annual assault of arms of the Artists' Rifles took place last Saturday evening at St. George's Hall. Amongst the special features may be mentioned the cavalry sword exercise by a squad of the regiment, and the bayonet and cutlass exercise by a detachment of the Naval Volunteers. Corporal-Major Macpherson (Royal Horse Guards) performed some clever sword feats, and distinguished himself with the foil and the rapier. There was a capital bout with foils between Sergeant Forbes-Robertson and Private Norman-Forbes.

The South London Rifle Club held two competitions during the past week. In the first Sergeant Manzie, West Kent Rifles, and Captain Knight, 23rd Middlesex, were successful with 80 and 74 points respectively with the Snider at Queen's ranges, whilst in the second Corporal Butcher was to the fore with 87 points under similar conditions.

The prizes won by the Inns of Court Rifle Volunteers at the recent competition were distributed on Tuesday afternoon, in Lincoln's Inn Hall, by Lieutenant-General Sir Samuel Browne, in the presence of a numerous and distinguished company. The prizes included the Battalion Challenge Cup, the Benchers' Challenge Cup, the St. Leonard's Cup, the Efficiency Challenge Cup, a field glass, and a salver, the whole of which were won by Private King, of E company; the Brewster Challenge Cup, which went to Corporal Gayer; Mr. James's Cup, awarded to Lieutenant Clerke, of E company; the Cotton Cup, won by Sergeant R. Glen, of C company; the Wimbledon Challenge Cup, won by Lieutenant Sankey, of C company; Captain Deane's Challenge Badge, by Lieutenant A. Glen, of C company; Colonel Sargent's Challenge Cup for Recruits, by Private Gethin, of B company; the Captain's Challenge Cup for A company, by Corporal Blackburn; the Cotton Cup for B company, by Private Gethin; the Dixon Cup for C company, by Sergeant Spencer; the Ford Salver for C company, by Corporal Bradford; the Company Brewster Challenge Cup for D company, by Private Palmer; and the Officers' Prizes for D company, by Sergeant-Major Simonds and Acting Corporal Parnell. The gallant General complimented the corps on its efficiency, and congratulated Lieutenant-Colonel Bulwer on commanding so fine a body of men.

The annual return of volunteer corps just issued affords an interesting comparison, the principal features of which are a diminution of the mounted volunteers and a great increase in the effective strength of all the other branches of the force. In 1863 the total establishment had reached 226,156, of whom just 50 per cent were returned as efficients, the mounted men reaching a total of 1982 men. In 1870 the total establishment had risen to 214,966, and the percentage of efficiency to 88·02, but the light horse and mounted rifles had dwindled to 1355 men, the latter of whom but 800 were returned as effective. Last year the establishment strength stood at 243,516, with a total of 206,537 enrolled, and an effective strength of 196,938, or 95·35 per cent of those enrolled. The light horse had become reduced to 486 men enrolled, and the mounted rifles to 51, the effectives being respectively 198 and 42. The maximum establishment, as well as the highest percentage of effective men, was reached in 1879, the former amounting to 245,185, and the latter to 95·75.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

ACKERMANN.
The Native Flowers and Ferns of the United States in their Botanical, Horticultural, and Popular Aspects. By Thomas Meehan. 2 vols. Illustrated by Chromolithographs.

ALLEN AND CO.
History of China. By Demetrius Charles Boulger. Vol. I.
Visual Art, or Nature through the Healthy Eye: with some Remarks on Originality and Free Trade, Artistic Copyright, and Durability. By William Soy Wilkins.

BATSFORD.
Horticultural Buildings. With 123 Illustrations. By F. A. Fawkes.

BENNETT BROTHERS.
Gambetta: Orator, Leader, Statesman. By John Hanlon.

BLACKWOOD AND SONS.
Philosophical Classics for English Readers: Berkeley. By Dr. A. Campbell Fraser.

BOGUE.
Uncle Remus and his Legends of the Old Plantation. By Joel Chandler Harris.

CASSELL, PETTER, AND GALPIN.
The Animals' Year-Book for 1881.
A Ride to Khiva: Travel and Adventure in Central Asia. By Capt. Burnaby. With an Appendix. Fifteenth Edition.
History of the Free Trade Movement in England. By Augustus Mongredien. Eleventh Thousand.

CHATTO AND WINDUS.
The Comic Almanack for the United Kingdom of Royal Manual of the Tittle and Tattle of Society. Illustrated with 100 Armorial Bearings. Edited by H. R. H. Mar. Royal Edition. 1881.

GRIFFITH AND FARRAN.
A Short Account of Afghanistan, and our Relations with it. By C. E. Bassett.
Popular Lessons on Cookery. By a Former Staff Teacher of the National Training School of Cookery.

HARRISON.
The Foreign Office List, 1881. Forming a Complete British Diplomatic and Consular Handbook. With Maps. Compiled by Sir Edward Hertslet, C.B. Fifty-fourth Publication.

HODDER AND STOUGHTON.
Thrift Lessons. Familiar Letters. By the Rev. John Todd, D.D.

HURST AND BLACKETT.
Beside the River. A Tale. By Katharine Macquoid. 3 vols.
Plays, Players, and Playhouses at Home and Abroad, with Anecdotes of the Drama and the Stage. By Lord William Pitt Lennox. 2 vols.

JUPP AND CO.
Vivisection, Scientifically and Ethically Considered, in Five Essays. By James Macaulay, the Rev. Brewin Grant, and Abraham Wall.
The Parlez Reader. For the Use of Schools. Adapted to the Requirements of the Revised Code, 1880. Parts I. and II.

LOCKWOOD AND CO.
The Civil Service Geography. By the late Lancelot M. Dalrymple Spence. Completed and Edited by Thomas Gray. Corrected to the present Date.

OFFICE OF "LONDON SOCIETY."
Every Man his Own Gardener. By Mrs. Loudon. With other Treatises on Boys and Girls. Illustrated.

LOW AND CO.
Nice and Her Neighbours. By S. R. Hole.
The History of a Mountain. By Elisée Reclus. Translated from the French by Bertha Newcomb and Adrian Lillie.
Ben-Hur. By Lew. Wallace.
Under the Punkah. By Phil Robinson.
Eighteenth-Century Studies. Essays. By Frances Hitchman.
The Great Artists: Sir David Wilkie. By John W. Mollett.
Mr. Carroll. An Autobiography. Edited by L. G. Seguin. 3 vols.

MACMILLAN AND CO.
The Stat sman's Year-Book. Statistical and Historical Annual of the States of the Civilised World. For 1881. By Frederick Martin.
Through the Ranks to a Commission. English Men of Letters: Dryden. By G. Saintsbury.
The Makers of Florence—Dante, Giotto, Savonarola, and their City. By Mrs. Oliphant. Cheaper Edition.

MURRAY.
A Pilgrimage to Nepál, the Cradle of the Aryan Race. A Visit to the Court of the Ashe Rajá, and Rambles in Indian Camp-lands. By Lieut.-Colonel Ambert Bunbt. 2 vols. With Map, Photo-tints, and Illustrations from the Author's Drawings.

NEWMAN AND CO.
Lilian Adelaide Neilson. By M. A. De Leur.
The Vale of Hermanil and Other Poems. By Eros.
Prison Life and Prison Poetry. By Bill Sykes. Vol. II.

PAUL AND CO.
Sanskrit and its Kindred Literatures. Studies in Comparative Mythology. By Laura Elizabeth Poor.
About the Jews Since Bible Times. From the Babylonian Exile till the English Emancipation. By Mrs. Magnus.
A Little Child's Monument. By the Hon. Roden Noel.

REMINGTON AND CO.
Grand Tours in Many Lands. A Poem in Ten Cantos. By Dr. John McCosh.

SAUNDERS AND CO.
On the Art of Good Living. A Plea for English Gardens of the Future, with Practical Hints for Planting Them. By Mrs. J. Francis Foster.

SEELEY AND CO.
The Family Herald Supplements. Vol. VI.

SHAW AND SONS.
The Nurse's Handbook. By Mrs. H. Selfe Leonard.

THACKER AND CO.
Riding: On the Flat and Across Country. By Alice Hayes. Illustrated.

TRÜBNER AND CO.
James A. Garfield, Twentieth President of the United States. By Captain F. H. Mason, with a Preface by Bret Harte.
The Stage, or Recollections of Actors and Acting from an experience of fifty years. A Series of Dramatic Sketches. By James E. Murdoch.

VIRTUE AND CO.
In Peril of Her Life. By Emile Gaboriau.

WARD AND CO.
An Unlicensed Cure. By Mrs. Herbert Martin. 2 vols.

WARNE AND CO.
A Fair Barbarian. By Miss Frances Hodgson Burnett.

WHITTINGHAM AND CO.
Sachs' German Conversational Grammar. By H. Sachs.
Woman's Fortitude: A Tale of the Cawnpore Tragedy. By Edward Money.

WILLIAMS AND NORGATE.
Poemata. Sketches of the Last 3 Days of New Zealand.

WILSON AND WHITWORTH.
History and Topography of Upminster. A New Edition, Enlarged and Improved. By A. L. Wilson. Numerous Engravings.

ROYAL NATIONAL LIFE-BOAT INSTITUTION.

The annual general meeting of this institution was held on the 17th inst. at Willis's Rooms, under the presidency of Earl Percy, M.P. The chairman referred to the unavoidable absence of the Duke of Northumberland, president of the institution, which, he said, was caused by the illness abroad of the Duchess of Northumberland. He expressed his deep sympathy with the Duke of Edinburgh, one of the committee of management, in the sad calamity that had befallen him in the murder of his father-in-law, the Emperor of Russia. Referring to the report, he congratulated the meeting on the fact that their institution had been the means of saving last year between 700 and 800 lives. It was much to be regretted that these services had cost the lives of eighteen of the life-boat crews; but this fact had not appeared in any way to deter volunteers from manning their life-boats.

Mr. Richard Lewis, secretary, read the report, which stated that since the last meeting nineteen new life-boats had been placed on the coasts of the British Isles, there now being 270 life-boats under the management of the society. During the year 1880 the life-boats of the institution had saved 577 persons from wrecked vessels, nearly the whole of them under perilous circumstances. In addition, the life-boats had helped last year to rescue twenty-seven vessels from destruction. For those services, and for saving 120 lives by fishing-boats and other means, gold and silver medals, the thanks of the institution inscribed on vellum, and £4287 had been granted. The number of lives saved since the establishment of the institution, either by its life-boats or by special exertions for which it had granted rewards, was 27,603. The total amount of the donations, subscriptions, and dividends received during the past year had been £38,507, of which sum £7550 were special gifts to defray the cost of eight life-boats. The expenditure had amounted to £37,577.

The adoption of the report was moved by Lord Sclkirk, seconded by Sir W. Charley, M.P., supported by Mr. Birkbeck, M.P., and carried unanimously. Several resolutions in furtherance of the objects of the institution were carried.

Among the speakers were Lord Shaftesbury, Mr. W. H. Smith, M.P., Lord Courtown, Lord Suffield, Admiral Sir Richard Collinson, Admiral Phillimore, Colonel Fitzroy Clayton, and Sir Edward Perrott.

There were 2709 births and 1459 deaths registered in London last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 11 and the deaths 275 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The fatal cases of smallpox declined to 43. The Metropolitan Asylums Board has resolved, by a majority of 20 to 18, to apply to the House of Lords for a new trial on Appeal No. 1, as to the Hampstead Hospital case. It was stated that the decision already given by the ultimate Court was upon Appeal No. 2, which did not involve the rehearing of the evidence.

PROVERBS IN SONGS. By WEATHERLY and ROECKEL.
No. 1. "Two's Company" .. .. .. 2s. net.
No. 2. "A Bird in the Hand" .. .. 2s. net.
No. 3. "When Poverty Knocks at the Door" .. 2s. net.
No. 4. "The Long and Way Round" .. 2s. net.
ENOCH and SONS, 19, Hollles-street, W.

FIFTEENTH THOUSAND.
SOME DAY. By MILTON WELLINGS.
This charming new Song is being sung every evening with immense success by Madame Enriquez and all popular singers, and will surely become the most popular song of the day. In C, E flat, and F. 2s. net.—ENOCH and SONS, 19, Hollles-street, W.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—Messrs. ERARD, of 18, Great Marlborough-street, London, and 13, Rue de Mail, Paris, Makers to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales, CAUTION the Public that Pianofortes are being sold bearing the name of "Erard" which are not of their manufacture. For information as to authenticity apply at 18, Great Marlborough-st., where new Pianos can be obtained from 50 guineas.

ERARDS' PIANOS.—COTTAGES, from 50 guineas.
OBLIQUES, from 85 guineas.
GRANDS, from 125 guineas.

"Steinway is to the Pianist what Stradivarius is to the Violinist."—Herr Joachim.
THE STEINWAY PIANOFORTES, GRAND AND UPRIGHT.
THE GREATEST PIANOFORTES IN THE WORLD.
The STEINWAY PIANOFORTES are the chosen instruments of the educated and wealthy classes in every nation throughout civilisation, and have by far the largest annual sale of any pianofortes in the world.
STEINWAY and SONS,
STEINWAY HALL,
LOWER SEYMOUR-STREET, PORTMAN-SQUARE, W.
(And at Steinway Hall, New York.)

PLEYEL WOLFF and CO. Established 1807. Gold Medal, 1867, 1878, 1839, 1844, 1849, 1855. Prize Medal, 1862. Médaille d'Honneur, 1855. Hors de Concours, 1869, 1867, 1874. The Sole Agents have every description of these admired PIANOS for SALE or HIRE. Special models in black wood.—150, New Bond-street, W.

MUSICAL BOX DEPÔTS, 22, Ludgate-hill, & 56, Cheapside, London.—Nicole's celebrated Musical Boxes, playing best secular and sacred music. Prices £4 to £250; small boxes from 18s. to 40s. Large stock in London. Catalogue gratis and post-free. Apply to WALES & M'CULLOCH, as above.

THE NEW PENS.
"TRUTH! THE WHOLE TRUTH!! AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH!!"
"Macniven and Cameron's Pens are the best."—Argus.
BIG J. PEN ... 1 gross, 1s. per Box.
BIG WAVERLEY PEN } Sold by all Stationers.
175 Newspapers recommend MACNIVEN and CAMERON'S PENS.
Sample Box, with all the kinds, 1s. 1d. by post.
Patentees of Pens and Penholders—MACNIVEN and CAMERON, 23 to 33, Blair-street, Edinburgh (Est. 1770).
Pen-makers to Her Majesty's Government Offices.
Beware of the party offering imitations of these Pens.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS.
GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.

NEW BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS.

THE NEW AND POPULAR NOVELS.
Now ready, at all the Libraries, in 3 vols.,
LOVE-KNOTS. By the Author of "Proud Maisie," &c.
BESIDE THE RIVER. By Mrs. MACQUOID.
HIS LITTLE MOTHER. By the Author of "John Herring." 1 vol., 10s. 6d.
MISSING. By MARY CECIL HAY.
HER DESERTS. By Mrs. ALEXANDER FRASER.
IDONEA. By ANNE BEALE.
HURST and BLACKETT, Publishers, 13, Great Marlborough-street.

TWO NEW WORKS.
PRINCE METTERNICH'S MEMOIRS. Edited by his SON. 2 vols. 36s.
LORD ELLENBOROUGH'S DIARY. Edited by Lord COLCHESTER. 2 vols. 30s.
TWO NEW NOVELS.
POLICY AND PASSION. By Mrs. CAMPBELL PRAED. 2 vols.
A CHILD OF NATURE. By ROBERT BUCHANAN. 3 vols.
RICHARD BENTLEY and SON, New Burlington-street.

MAJOR E. ROGER'S NEW NOVEL.
A MODERN SPHINX. A New Novel.
London: J. and R. MAXWELL, Shoe-lane, E.C.

On March 29 (One Shilling), No. 250,
THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for APRIL. With Illustrations by George Du Maurier and W. Small.
CONTENTS.
Love the Debt. (With an Illustration.) Chap. X.—"In the Net." XI.—Reparation. XII.—Drifting.
Rambles among Books. No. II.—Autobiography.
Nightingale and Chicken. By Alfred Austin.
The Youth of Henry the Fifth. By Alex. Charles Ewald.
Tyneside Idyls. By Edmund W. Gosse.
Winter Nights at Dawn. (Leaves from the Diary of an Invalid.)
A Poaching Adventure.
The Cousin of Ind.
A Grape from a Thorn. By James Payn. (With an Illustration.) Chap. XIV.—A Visit. XV.—The Call. XVI.—Ellis is given her "Chance." XVII.—Mr. Josceline becomes confidential. XVIII.—A Double Game.
London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

Now ready, Part I., price 2s. 6d.,
PICTURESQUE AMERICA.—Uniform with "Picturesque Europe." With Forty-eight exquisitely engraved Steel Plates, and several hundred Engravings on Wood, from Original Drawings specially made for the work.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN, and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

PRIZES for ILLUMINATING to LITTLE FOLKS.—A NEW COMPETITION for Little Folks, in which Prizes in Money, Books, and Silver and Bronze Medals are offered for the best Illuminated Texts, is announced in the APRIL PART of LITTLE FOLKS, now ready, price 6d.

Now ready, price 6d.,
LITTLE FOLKS for APRIL "Little Folks" is one of the best, if not the best, of the magazines for children now published."—Athenæum.
CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN and Co., Ludgate-hill, London.

THE WONDERS OF THE TULIP.
The GARDENER'S MAGAZINE, MARCH 26, contains a Full Report of Mr. Shirley Hibberd's LECTURE on the History and Peculiarities of this popularly Flower; also New Notes on Daffodils for London (in three) Anemone-flowered Chrysanthemums; the Work of the Season for garden, Home Farm, and Country House. The "Gardener's Magazine," every Saturday, Twopence; specimen, post-free, 2½d.
Office: 11, Ave Maria-lane, London; and sold by all Newsagents.

DR. G. OVEREND DREWRY'S POPULAR WORKS on the MAINTENANCE of HEALTH.
COMMON-SENSE MANAGEMENT of the STOMACH. 2s. 6d.
CUP and PLATTER, or NOTES on FOOD and its EFFECTS. 1s. 6d.
NOTES on CONSUMPTION. Pamphlet, 1s.
THE URINARY and GENERATIVE ORGANS. 5s.
HEALTH. A Family Magazine. Monthly. Price 1½d.
MURRAY and Co., 25, Warwick-street, Regent street, will forward any of the above on receipt of price, which includes postage.

POTTERY PAINTING: A Handbook to the Practice. By JOHN C. L. SPARKES, Director of the Lambeth School of Art, Head Master of Art-School, South Kensington. Second Edition; post-free, 1s. 6d.
London: LECHERTIER, BARBE, and Co., 60, Regent-street, W.

MYRA'S JOURNAL is the cheapest Fashion Journal in the World. Price 4d.; by post, 5d.

MYRA'S JOURNAL gives advice upon Dress Alterations, and teaches how to make and alter Costumes, Dresses, Mantles, and Underclothing.

MYRA'S JOURNAL of Dress and Fashion.
The Novelties for APRIL are:—
1. Dress and Fashion in Paris.
2. Models of Mantles from Lea Grands Magasins du Louvre.
3. Where to Stay in Paris.
4. Spinsters in Town, by the Silkworm.
5. The Latest from Paris.
6. Descriptions of Engravings.
7. Myra's Answers on Dress, Health, and Personal Attention. Fashion in Furniture. Furniture and Furniture Lace. Books, Music, Etiquette, the Cuisine, Books and Authors, Miscellaneous.
8. A Beautifully Coloured Fashion Plate.
9. A Diagram sheet containing full-size patterns for cutting out: The Festa Confection, the Louise Cap, the Louis XV. Corsage, and an Opera Cloak.
10. Cut-out Paper Pattern of the Grenier Mantle.
11. The New Ball Dresses. Walking Costumes, Morning Dresses, Bonnets, &c.
12. Needlework: Design for Gold Lace and Embroidery, Lamp Shade, Cigar Case, Bodices, and Edgings in Crochet, &c.

MYRA'S JOURNAL is a Complete Guide to Ladies upon the care of Children's Wardrobes.

Subscriptions: Yearly, 8s.; Half-yearly, 4s.
GOUBAUD and SON, 20 and 40, Bedford-street, Covent-garden.

1d., Weekly; Monthly Part, 5d.,
GARDENING ILLUSTRATED. Villa, Suburban, Cottage, and Town Gardening; Window Plants, Bees, Poultry. All Newsagents.
Copy, by post, 1½d. Vol. I., 7s. 6d.
37, Southampton-street, Strand, London.

HOUSEHOLD WORDS.
THE NEW FAMILY JOURNAL.
Edited by CHARLES DICKENS.
PRICE ONE PENNY.
No 1 will be published on April 20.

Second Edition, price 4s. 6d., to be had of all Booksellers,
RESPIRATORY DISEASES, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, &c., and their specific cure, by Dr. JOHN FRANCIS CHURCHILL'S Discoveries of the Hypophosphites and Iodoglycerine.
J. W. KOCH'S SON, No. 2, Langham-place, London.

Eighth Edition, cloth, post-free, 33 stamps,
DR. BARR MEADOWS on Skin Disease. Remarks on the Abuse of Arsenic, and specifics.
London: G. HILL, 154, Westminster-road.

JUST PUBLISHED, post-free, 2 stamps,
DYSPEPSIA and the SEVERER FORMS OF INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on these distressing complaints and their complete cure. Published by the Author,
RICHARD KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon R.N., 23, Warwick-st., Rugby.

CHROMOPHOTOGRAPHY.
(KRAUS' PROCESS.)
The New Art (enabling any person without previous knowledge of either Painting or Drawing) to Colour Photographs on convex glasses, in imitation of China and Enamel Painting. Book containing every requisite, 20s. and 25s. Particulars post-free. Specimens shown on application at the Sole Agents, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

VITREMANIE, superseding Diaphanie. An easy and inexpensive method of decorating windows in churches, public buildings, and private houses, by which may be produced the rich colouring and beautiful designs equal in appearance to real stained glass. Handbook of Designs and full instructions, 1s. 1d. Boxes, comprising designs, &c., at 21s., 31s. 6d., 42s. Particulars post-free. Sole inventors, J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, London, W.

WHAT IS YOUR CREST and WHAT IS YOUR MOTTO? Send name and county to CULLETON'S Heraldic Office. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; colours, 7s. The arms of man and wife blended. Crest engraved on seals, rings, book- and steel dies, 8s. 6d. Gold seal, with crest, 20s. Solid Gold Ring, in cameo, Hall-marked, with crest, 42s. Manual of Heraldry, 400 engravings, 3s. 9d.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

CULLETON'S GUINEA BOX of STATIONERY contains a Ream of the very best Paper and 500 Envelopes, all stamped in the most elegant way with Crest and Motto, Monogram, or Address, and the engraving of steel Die included. Sent to any part for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane).

VISITING CARDS, by CULLETON. Fifty best quality, 2s. 3d., post-free, including the Engraving of Copper-plate. Wedding Cards, 50 each, 50 Embossed Envelopes, with Maiden Name, 12s. 6d.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

FOR FAMILY ARMS (Lincoln's-inn Heraldic office) send Name and County. Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in colours, 7s. 6d. Arms painted and Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. PUGH BROTHERS, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn, W.C.; and 76, Queen Victoria-street, E.C. Prize Medal, Paris 1878.

FOR ARMS and CREST send Name and County to T. MORING, late of Court Heraldic Office, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; Coloured, 7s. 6d. Seals, Dies, and Diplomas. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!—250 richly coloured embossed SCRAPS, for Screens, Albums, &c., for only 1s. 2d.; same number, much larger, 2s. 3d.; post-free. Selections on approval. Recommended by "Sylvia's Home Journal."—Address, G. L. Spalding and Co., Art Importers, Ipswich.

SCRAPS for SCREENS and SCRAP-BOOKS (Coloured).—Immense variety of Flowers, Figures Birds, and Landscapes; 250 for 1s. 2d., or 500 for 2s., assorted; 10s. 6d. London: W.M. BARNARD, 119, Edgware-road.

SCRAPS! SCRAPS!! 250 richly coloured embossed Scraps for Screens, Albums, &c. Price only 2s. 2d., or 2s. 3d. post-free. Selections on approval. Recommended by "Mother's Home Journal."—Address G. L. SPALDING and CO., Art Importers, Ipswich.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS at RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly, London.
SETS FOR THE WRITING-TABLE AND BOUDOIR, IN POLISHED BRASS, ORMOLU, SEVRES CHINA, BRONZE, and OXIDIZED SILVER, from .. .. .. 21s. to £10
TRAVELLING DRESSING BAGS .. .. .. 63s. to £20
DRESSING CASES .. .. .. .. .. 21s. to £20
DESPATCH BOXES .. .. .. .. .. 21s. to £10
TOURISTS' WRITING CASES .. .. .. 4s. 6d. to £5
ENVELOPE CASES and BLOTTING BOOKS .. 10s. 6d. to £5
INKSTANDS .. .. .. .. .. .. 5s. to £5
CANDLESTICKS (per pair) .. .. .. 7s. 6d. to £5
WORK BOXES and BASKETS .. .. .. 15s. to £5
THE NEW "TANTALUS" LIQUEUR STAND .. 10s. to £10
THE NEW STYLOGRAPHIC PEN, 12s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 10s. 6d.
And a large and choice assortment of ENGLISH, VIENNESE, and PARISIAN NOVELTIES, from 5s. to £5.

PORTRAIT ALBUMS at RODRIGUES', with Patent Leather Guards, 4s. 6d. to £5. Floral Albums, Scrap Albums, Presentation Albums, and Regimental Albums. Albums of every description made to order.—42, Piccadilly.

EASTER CARDS at CHAPMAN'S.—All the new Designs by Marcus Ward, Hildesheimer, Ollendorff, &c. Descriptive Lists post-free.
THOMAS CHAPMAN, 24, Leicester-square, W.C.

HORNIMAN'S TEA for Forty Years has commanded a large sale, because it can always be relied on for strength, flavour, and cheapness. It is the best tea imported. Sold only in Packets.

ROBERT ROBERTS AND CO.'S CELEBRATED TEAS.
TWELVE POUNDS AND UPWARDS CARRIAGE PAID.
Samples and Price-lists free by post.
Queen Insurance-buildings Liverpool. ESTABLISHED 1840.
No agents.
All communications and orders direct.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Awarded the GRAND DIPLOMA OF HONOUR.

CHOCOLAT MENIER, in ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Packets. For BREAKFAST and SUPPER.

CHOCOLAT MENIER.—Awarded Twenty Eight PRIZE MEDALS. Consumption annually exceeds 18,000,000 lbs.

CHOCOLAT MENIER. Paris, London, New York. Sold Everywhere.

FRY'S | Gold Medal, Paris, 1878. — First Award, Sydney, 1879. | FRY'S CARACAS COCOA. "A most delicious and valuable article."—Standard.

COCOA. PURE COCOA ONLY. FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT. "strictly pure."—W. W. STODDART, F.I.C., F.C.S., Gold Analyst, Bristol. Thirteen Exhibition Medals.

SCHWEITZER'S COCOATINA. Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder. Guaranteed Pure Soluble Cocoa, with excess of Fat extracted. Four times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrow-root, Starch, &c. The faculty pronounce it the most nutritious, perfectly digestive Beverage for "BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, or SUPPER." Keeps in all Climates. Requires no Cooking. A teaspoonful to Breakfast Cup, costing less than a halfpenny. Samples gratis. In Air-Tight Tins, ½ lb., 1 lb., 2 lbs., &c., by Chemists and Grocers. H. SCHWEITZER and CO., 10, Adam-street, London, W.C.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR IS A WORLD-WIDE NECESSARY.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR FOR THE NURSERY.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR FOR THE FAMILY TABLE.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR FOR THE SICK-ROOM.

BROWN & POLSON'S CORN FLOUR HAS A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

THE ESSEX FLOUR and GRAIN COMPANY, Liverpool-road, London, N., supply the best possible only. Flour: Whites for Pastry, per 3½ lbs., 8s. 6d.; Households, for Bread making, 8s. 3d.; Whole Wheaten Meal (granulated) for Brown Bread, 8s.; Best pearled Oatmeal for Porridge, per 14 lb., 3s.; Hominy, 2s.; Barley, Black Wheat Maize, and Mixed Corn for Poultry, per bushel, 5s.; Indian Corn, 3s.; Middlings, 2s.; Bran, 1s.; Pearl Split Peas, per peck, 5s.; Split Egyptian Lentils, 3s.; Meat Biscuits, per 14 lbs., 2s. 6d.; Barley Meal, per 7 lbs., 5s.; Lentil Flour, per 14 lbs., 5s.; per 14 lbs., 9s. All other kinds of Grain and Seeds. Price-List on application. Special quotations for large orders. P.O. Orders and Cheques to be made in favour of George Young.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
Please direct all Letters and Orders for
PETER ROBINSON,
SILKMERCER AND LINENDRAPER,
TO THE ONLY ADDRESS,
103 to 108, OXFORD-STREET,
LONDON, W.
(where the Business was established in 1833).
CASH PRICES. PARCELS FREE.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY are requested to write for Patterns of EARLY SPRING SILKS, including Surahs, Merveilleux, Duchesse Satins, Brocades, Figured Velvets, Black Silks, Satin de Lyon, Gros Grains, Fancy Silks, &c. All to be had in Black, White, and the Eighty-seven New shades of Colour.
Cash Prices. Parcels free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY are requested to write for patterns of NEW EARLY SPRING DRESSES, including Angola and Camel Hair Beige Cashmir Foulé, Cachemire de Paris, Mixed Wool and Silk Damassé, Cashmere Merino Drap d'Italie, Fine Vigoureux, New shades of Black and Coloured Rich Velveteens, New Pompadour and Plain Satins, Percales, &c. All the New Colours and Designs.
Cash Prices. Parcel free.
PETER ROBINSON, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SPRING SAMPLES.
Patterns post-free.
FRENCH CASHMERES, BEIGES, SERGES, HERRING-BONE and MILAN STRIPES, and all the Newest Materials in the most beautiful colours.

NICHOLSON'S NEW WASHING FABRICS.
Patterns post-free.
FRENCH SATTEENS, CAMBRICS, OATMEAL CLOTH, BRILLIANTS, &c., in every new and novel design.

NICHOLSON'S NEW SILKS.
Patterns post-free.
PLUSHES, VELVETS, SATINS, BROCHES, VELVET DE LYONS, and PLAIN LYONS GROS GRAIN, in every imaginable shape.

D. NICHOLSON and CO., 50 to 54, ST. PAUL'S-CHURCHYARD, LONDON, SOLE LESSEES OF THE COSTUME COURT, CRYSTAL PALACE.

BAKER and CRISP'S EARLY SPRING DRESSES, from 6d. per yard.
EARLY SPRING CAMBRICS.
EARLY SPRING SATTEENS.
EARLY SPRING POMPADOURS.
EARLY SPRING BEIGES.
EARLY SPRING VIGUNAS.
EARLY SPRING CASHMERES.
EARLY SPRING SILKS.
EARLY SPRING SATINS.
EARLY SPRING COSTUMES.
EARLY SPRING JACKETS.
EARLY SPRING JERSEYS.
EARLY SPRING CLOAKS.
Patterns free.
Engravings Free.
198, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

ROYAL and IMPERIAL PATRONAGE. EGERTON BURNETT'S SERGES
For LADIES and GENTLEMEN include the Best Makes.
Patterns free.
Address 4, Wellington, Somerset.

NOVELTIES for LADIES' MORNING DRESSES.—French Patterns, 4½.; Pompadours, 7½d.; Prints, 5½d.; Linen Lawns, 9½d. Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

EARLY SPRING DRESSES.—A very cheap parcel of New HEATHER TWEEDS. Price 6½d. per yard (regular price 9½d.). Patterns free.
JOHN HOOPER, 32, Oxford-street, W.

MADAME ELLIOT makes up DRESSES stylishly and fits eleganily.
8, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street.

MADAME ELLIOT'S CORSETS.
Splendid Shape. French and English make, 3s. 6d.; 4s. 6d., 5s. 6d., 7s., 9s., 12s. To avoid delay, send size of waist and P.O.O. for the amount. Corsets cramped if not approved. Corsets made to order.—8, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street.

PATENT "SEAMLESS" GLOVE.
These perfect-fitting Gloves are made without the usual side seam, and are cut on the best principle from first choice French Kid Skins. They are hand-sewn, and are sold in two qualities, as under:—

| | Two Buttons | Four Buttons | Six Buttons | Eight Buttons | Ten Buttons |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| "ADELE" | 2s. 11d. | 4s. | 6s. | 8s. | 7s. |
| "VICTORIA" | 3s. 11d. | 5s. | 6s. | 7s. 6d. | 9s. |

(Sample Pair post-free.)

DEBENHAM and FREEBODY, WIGMORE-STREET and WELBECK-STREET, LONDON, W.

ALL PURE FLAX.

| | Per Doz. | | Per Doz. |
|---|---|---|---|
| CHEAP | Children's .. 2s. 6d. | Hemstitched. | |
| | Ladies' .. 2s. 11d. | Ladies' .. 3s. 11d. | |
| | Gentlemen's .. 4s. 11d. | Gentlemen's .. 5s. 3d. | |
| Samples and Price-List post-free. | POCKET | "The Irish Cambrics of Messrs. Robinson and Cleaver have a world-wide fame."—The Queen. | |

HANDKERCHIEFS.
ROBINSON and CLEAVER, THE ROYAL IRISH LINEN WAREHOUSE, BELFAST.

GEORGE KENNING, MANUFACTURER, MASONIC JEWELS, APRONS, Every Requisite for the Lodge, 1, 2, 3, 4, Little Britain; and 197, Aldersgate-street, London.
Price-List Free. Send for Illustrated Price-List free.

GARDNER'S DINNER and TABLE GLASS SERVICES. Fine, graceful, and original designs, of unequalled value. Dinner services, from 21s. Table Glass Services, of the best Cut Glass, for twelve persons, complete, 65s. Cash discount, 15 per cent. Coloured Photographic Sheets and Illustrated Glass Catalogues post-free.
453 and 454, West Strand, Charing-cross.

D. HULETT.—GASELIERS in CRYSTAL GLASS and ORMOLU or BRONZE. Medieval Fittings. A large Stock always on View. Every article marked with plain figures.—Manufactory, 55 and 56, High Holborn.

GENUINE DUBLIN WHISKY.
THE MOST WHOLESOME OF ALL SPIRITS.
DUBLIN WHISKY, Distilled by Messrs. JOHN JAMESON and SON, GEORGE ROE and CO., WILLIAM JAMESON and CO., and JOHN POWER and SON, can be obtained in Wood by wholesale merchants and dealers, direct from their respective distilleries.

NEW MUSIC.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE. Comic Opera. By W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. 5s.
Pianoforte Solo, arranged by Berthold Tours .. .. 2s.
Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. net | Polka. D'Albert .. 2s. net
Lancers. D'Albert .. 2s. „ | Galop. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Quadrille. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Fantasia by Boyton Smith (2) and Kuhe .. each 2s. 6d. net
Smallwood's three easy Fantasias .. .. each 1s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

OLIVETTE. New Comic Opera. Enormous success at the Strand Theatre. Adapted by H. B. Farnie; Music by AUDRAN.
Vocal Score .. .. .. .. .. 8s. net.
Abridged Edition of the Vocal Score, containing the Overture, Songs, &c. .. .. .. .. 4s. „
Pianoforte solo .. .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. „
Lancers. D'Albert .. 2s. net | Galop. D'Albert .. 2s. net.
Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „ | Newest and Easiest Waltz. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Quadrille. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Polka. D'Albert .. 2s. „
Boyton Smith's Fantasia .. .. .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW AND POPULAR SONGS.
WELCOME. Lady ARTHUR HILL. 2s. net.
COEUR DE LION. H. J. STARK. Sung by Mr. Oswald. 2s. net.
AT THE PORTAL. N. FERRI. Sung by Madame Mary Cummings. 2s. net.
WHAT THE FIRELIGHT TOLD. J. L. ROECKEL. 2s. net.
ANGUS MACDONALD. J. L. ROECKEL. Sung by Madame Enriquez. 2s. net.
WHERE THE PURPLE VIOLET GROWS. From "Th Turquoise Ring." L. BENSON. 2s. net.
WEARINESS, MURATORI. Sung by Mr. Santley. 2s. net.
DONNA LEONORE. A. M. WAKEFIELD, Composer of "No, Sir!" 2s. net.
THOUGHTS AT SUNRISE. Mrs. L. MONCRIEFF. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

NEW SONGS by Mrs. RONALDS.
IN SHADOW .. .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
WHY? .. .. .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
EVER NEAR .. .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
DIS MOI POURQUOI .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHARLES D'ALBERT'S NOVELTIES.
ADELINA WALTZ. Illustrated with a beautiful Portrait of Madame Patti .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
PORTIA WALTZ .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
DRINK, PUPPY, DRINK! POLKA .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
CANTERBURY GALOP .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
CONGRESS LANCERS .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
DISTANT SHORE WALTZ .. .. .. .. 2s. 6d. net
THE PANPAIPE POLKA .. .. .. .. 1s. 6d. net
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

Now ready, Volume II. of
CHAPPELL'S OLD ENGLISH DITTIES.
Handsomely bound in cloth and gold.
Price 10s. 6d. net.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL'S IMPERIAL EDITION of 25 POPULAR ENGLISH DUETS, by Bishop, Smart, G. A. Macfarren, Hon. Mrs. Norton, &c. Edited by NATALIA MACFARREN. Price 2s. 6d.; or, handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL'S IMPERIAL EDITION of 25 POPULAR GERMAN DUETS, by Rubinstein, Mendelssohn, Lachner, Kücken, &c. Edited by NATALIA MACFARREN. Price 2s. 6d.; or, handsomely bound in cloth and gold, 4s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of HIRE of PIANOFORTES, HARMONIUMS, and AMERICAN ORGANS, by which the Instrument becomes the property of the Hirer at the end of the third year, provided each quarter's hire shall have been regularly paid in advance. Pianofortes from 2 gs., Harmoniums, from £1 5s.; and American Organs, from £2 5s., a Quarter.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; and 15, Poultry, E.C.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S PIANINOS, from 20 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S COTTAGES, from 27 guineas.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S GRANDS, from 75 guineas.

CHICKERING PIANOFORTES, from 120 guineas, with American discount.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S ALEXANDRE HARMONIUMS, for Church, Schools, or Drawing-Rooms, from 6 to 150 guineas; or, on the Three-Years' System, from £1 5s. per quarter.

CHAPPELL and CO.'S IMPROVED AMERICAN ORGANS, combining Pipes with Reeds, Manufactured by Clough and Warren, Detroit, U.S.A. The immense advantages these instruments possess over the Organs hitherto imported have induced Messrs. Chappell and Co. to undertake the sole Agency of this eminent Manufactory. A large variety on view, from 16 to 250 guineas. Price-Lists on application to CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

CLOUGH and WARREN'S Favourite ORGAN. Compass, five octaves, ten stops, four sets of reeds, two of two and two thirds octaves and two of two and one third octaves, knee swell, elegant carved Canadian walnut case, price 25 guineas. With twelve stops, sub-bass octave coupler, and two knee pedals, 35 guineas. Illustrated Price-List free by post.
Sole Agents, CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

INSTRUMENTS by ALL MAKERS may be HIRED or PURCHASED on the Three-Years' system.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

A LARGE DISCOUNT TO PURCHASERS FOR CASH.
CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.
City Branch, 15, Poultry, E.C.

METZLER'S AMERICAN ORGUINETTE, The American Orguinette is a reed Musical Instrument, constructed somewhat on the principle of the American organ, and adapted to be automatically operated by simple sheets or strips of perforated paper, each sheet representing one or more tunes. There is no limit to either kind or quantity of music. It will play Hymn Tunes, Popular Airs, sets of Quadrilles, Polkas, Waltzes, Reels, and Hornpipes with a clearness, accuracy, and degree of execution which but few performers can equal. A mere child can play it.
Style A, with six tunes, £1 10s.
Style E, with attachment and six tunes, £3 10s.
Cabinet styles, with selection of Music, 12, 14, and 16 guineas.
Any description of Music 9d. a tune.
To be obtained of all Musicsellers, and
METZLER and CO.,
35, 36, 37, and 38, Great Marlborough-street, London, W.

CHALLEN and SON'S IRON-FRAME PIANOS, require but little tuning, pure and powerful in tone, and more damp-proving than those upon the old system of bracing. Their Gold Medal Pianettes, from 25 guineas, have taken the highest award at any Exhibition. Illustrated List free.—20, Oxford-street.

MELBOURNE EXHIBITION, 1881. HIGHEST AWARD.—CHALLEN and SON have been awarded the First Prize for their Iron-Frame Upright Pianos, a distinction not conferred upon any other English Firm. May be purchased on the Three-Years' Hire system.—20, Oxford-st.

CHALLEN and SON'S THREE-YEARS' SYSTEM of Purchase affords facilities for obtaining a first-class instrument by a series of twelve quarterly payments, after which the piano becomes the property of the hirer, without further payment. List and Terms free.—20, Oxford-street. Established 1904.

NEW MUSIC.

MADAME PATEY'S NEW SONGS.
THE CHILDREN OF THE CITY. By S. ADAMS.
THE MERCHANT OF CHEAPSIDE. By LOUIS DIEHL.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

EDWARD LLOYD'S NEW SONGS.
A MIGNONETTE. By SUTCHER CHILTON.
THE LOVE OF LONG AGO. By W. H. CUMMINGS.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MARZIAL'S NEW SONGS.
A SUMMER SHOWER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
ROCHESTER'S REPLY. Sung by the Composer.
THAT SWEET STORY OF OLD. Sacred Song.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

MOLLOY'S NEW SONGS.
THE BOATSWAIN'S STORY. Sung by Mr. Santley.
THE FIRST LETTER. Sung by Miss Mary Davies.
TWENTY-ONE. Sung by Antoinette Sterling.
2s. each.—BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

THE LITTLE ROUNDHEAD MAID. By the Composer of "No, Sir!" Sung by Miss Wakefield at the Ballad Concert.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

Price 10s. 6d., bound in cloth.
SPOHR'S VIOLIN SCHOOL. Edited by HENRY HOLMES. With numerous Notes and an Appendix by the Editor.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

NEW CANTATA FOR AMATEUR SOCIETIES.
THE SONG OF THE MONTHS. Cantata by FRANCIS HOWELL. Composer of "The Land of Promise." Containing twelve numbers, illustrating the months of the year. Price 2s. 6d. complete. Separate parts for the chorus, price 6d. each voice. The band parts may also be had.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY'S SHILLING PIANOFORTE ALBUMS in the MUSICAL CABINET.
212. BOOSEY'S MARCH ALBUM. (36 Marches.)
203, 204, 205. ROBINSTEIN'S THREE ALBUMS. (26 pieces.)
206. ROBINSTEIN'S SIX STUDIES.
207. ROBINSTEIN'S SIX PRELUDES.
194. ROBERT SCHUMANN'S ALBUM BLATTER. (20 pieces.)
209. RACH'S PIANOFORTE ALBUM. (13 pieces.)
184. BRAHMS' PIANOFORTE ALBUM. (4 pieces.)
190. FIELD'S NOCTURNES. (10 Nocturnes.)
114. BEETHOVEN'S WALTZ ALBUM. (45 Waltzes.)
217. CHOPIN'S WALTZES, complete.
143. CHOPIN'S MAZURKAS, complete.
171. CHOPIN'S NOCTURNES, complete.
80. HELLER'S TWELVE SHORT PIECES.
85. HELLER'S TWELVE DUNE SOLITAIRE.
181. HELLER'S PETITE ALBUM. (10 pieces.)
100. SCHUMANN'S KINDERSCENEN, &c.
23. OVERTURES (1st book), including Pirano, Fra Diavolo, Crown Diamonds, William Tell, Freischütz, Zampa.
211. OVERTURES (2nd book), including Mesaniello, Oberon, Gazza Ladra, Euryanthe.
BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent-street.

BOOSEY'S SHILLING ORATORIOS, MASSES, and CANTATAS, large quarto size.
HYMN OF JADDY. Six Popular Airs (Easy). Price 1s. each net.
CH. TOURVILLE. Twelve Favourite Subjects (Moderate). Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. FARMER. Popular Violin Solos (Brilliant), with Piano Accompaniment. Nine Numbers. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.; and 123, Cheapside.

THE HOLY FAMILY. Pianoforte DUET Set 66, just issued, for greater convenience, in 2s. 6d. numbers; post-free for 15 stamps each.
1. He was despised. Handel.
2. Blessed is He. Hummel (from Service in B flat).
3. Theme from J. Salmi Marcello.
4. Now Abideth Faith. Rossini.
5. Of Stars the Fairest. Haydn.
6. Like as the hart. Mendelssohn.
7. Glory to God (2nd Service).
8. The Hymn of Peace. Calcott.
9. Ere Infancy's Bud. Mehul.
10. Watt her Angels. Handel.
11. Be merciful unto me. Hesperider (from 91st Psalm).
12. Grace, mercy, and peace (from 13th Service). Gavin.
London: Sole Publishers, ROBERT COCKS and Co.

HOPKINS and RIMBAULT ON THE ORGAN.—HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION. With numerous Diagrams. Bound in cloth gilt. Price 26s. 3d. "An exhaustive work, and the only authority extant upon the subject published in this country."
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

QUIS EST HOMO (ROSSINI).—An interesting Arrangement of this beautiful Theme by GEO. F. WEST. Post-free for 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MOZART'S FAVOURITE WALTZES. Edited and Fingered for the Pianoforte by G. F. WEST. 3s. each. Also Herbert's Favourite Waltzes, edited and fingered for the Pianoforte by Mr. West. Three Books, 4s. each; all post-free at half price.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street.

I DREAMT THAT I DWELT IN MARBLE HALLS (beautiful Melody by Balfe). Arranged for the Pianoforte by E. WOODWARD. 3s.; post-free, 18 stamps.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MATROSEN-LIED. Morceau Maritime, for the Piano. By EDOUARD DORN. Post-free for 18 stamps. Also Dorn's Popular Pieces: "Soldaten-Lied," Morceau Militaire; post-free for 18 stamps. "Two excellent companion pieces."—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

ALL SHEET MUSIC promptly collected and sent post-free to any part of the Kingdom. Messrs. ROBERT COCKS and Co. possess great facilities in this branch, and are in daily communication with all the leading publishers.
London: 6, New Burlington-street.

Owing to the great success of F. H. COWEN'S New Song,
THE CHILDREN'S HOME,
Messrs. MORLEY, Jun., and Co. have much pleasure in announcing the purchase of Mr. Cowen's last Song.
THE WATCHMAN AND THE CHILD, which must still further enhance his reputation as one of the finest song-writers of the present day. Keys for all Voices.
IN THE CLOISTERS. By O. BARRI. "A new song of uncommon beauty and merit, which will soon be equally popular with 'The Lost Chord.' Of moderate compass, yet wonderfully vocal, its charming phrases must ensure success alike to the professional vocalist or amateur."—Review. Post-free, 24 stamps each.
W. MORLEY, Jun., and Co., 70, Upper-street, London, N.

BROADWOOD'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire, and on CRAMER'S Three-Years' System, from £2 12s. 6d. per Quarter.

COLLARD'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire and on CRAMER'S Three-Years' System; in Black and Gold Cases at £4 4s. 6d. to £5 5s., 6s. 6s., £7 7s., and in Special Early English Ebonised Case, £8 8s., per Quarter.

ERARD'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire, and on CRAMER'S Three-Years' System, from £5 5s. per Quarter.

CRAMER'S PIANOFORTES for Sale, Hire, and on their Three-Years' System, from £1 1s. 6d. per Quarter. Latest List post-free on application to Regent-street, W.; Bond-street, W.; Moorgate-street, E.C.; and 145, High-street, Notting-hill.

£20 SCHOOL-ROOM PIANO (Co-operative price for cash). Seven octaves—strong, sound, and substantial. Adapted for practice. Carefully packed free, and sent to any part. Drawings gratis.
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street.

£35.—There is nothing in London—nor, in fact, in all England—to be compared to the elegantly carved DRAWING-ROOM TRICHORD COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, with Cabriole Treble Legs, which is sold for £35 by
THOMAS OETZMANN and CO., 27, Baker-street, Portman-sq.

PIANOFORTES for HIRE or for SALE, from 25 guineas upwards.—JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS, 33, Great Pulteney-street, Golden-square, W. Manufactory, 45, Horseferry-road, Westminster, W.

NEW MUSIC.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS'S LIST.
THE LATEST SUCCESS.
BILLEE TAYLOR. Comic Opera. By H. P. STEPHENS and H. SOLOMON.
VOCAL SCORE .. .. .. .. 6s. net.
.. SONGS .. .. .. .. 2s. net.
ALL ON ACCOUNT OF ELIZA (Third Edition). 2s. net.
SELF-MADE KNIGHT (Second Edition). 2s. net.
THE BRITTUS'S GARDENER. 2s. net.
FANTASIA FOR PIANO. CH. TOURVILLE. 1s. 6d. net.

PIANO SCORE (Complete). 2s. 6d. net. Now ready.
*QUADRILLES. By CHARLES COOTE. 2s. net.
*LANCERS. By ARTHUR GREVILLE. 2s. net.
*WALTZES. By CHARLES GODFREY. 2s. net.
DANCE MUSIC, BILLEE TAYLOR, ready Orchestra, 2s.; septet, 1s. 6d.
* Beautifully Illustrated.

HENRY FARMER'S PIANOFORTE TUTOR, considerably Enlarged and Fingered by the Author. Tenth Edition. 4s.
"Decidedly the best and most useful instruction book we have seen."—Musical Review.
Post-free, 2s. net.

A LIFE'S LOVE. In C and D. Song. Composed by J. B. WALDECK. Will be sung by Mr. Robert Hilton at Dunburton, Helensburgh, and Glasgow on the 24th, 25th, and 26th inst.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street; and 123, Cheapside.

THE LOVE OF OLD. ROECKEL'S charming New Song will be sung by Miss Damian at her forthcoming engagements. Post-free, 24 stamps.

PIANO DUETS.
C. REINECKE. Three Sonatas, Op. 139. Price 2s. each, net.

PIANO SOLOS.
W. KUHE. NEW SACRED TRANSCRIPTIONS.
Eli (Costa), Nasman (Costa). Price 2s. each net.
TH. LACK. NEW PIECES.
Menuet La Meunette. Redowa. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
H. ROUBIER. NEW PIECES.
Joyeuse Rentrée. Pas de Trianon, Parfait Bonheur. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
FRANZ HITZ. NEW PIECES.
Cavatine (Caprice) Latin Rose, Le Regiment qui passe. Price 1s. 6d. each net.
JOYFUL MOMENTS. Ten Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. each net.
OUR FAVOURITES. Ten Moderately Easy Pieces on Popular Subjects. Arranged by CH. TOURVILLE. Price 1s. 3d. each net.

THE PROGRESSIVE MUSIC SCHOOL.
Carefully Edited, Fingered, and Corrected from the Original Manuscripts by J. LEYBACH. First Series (very easy), 15 Numbers. Numbers 1 to 14, price 1s. 3d. each net. Number 15, price 1s. 6d. net.

VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.

IMPORTANT TO ALL.
"Sir,—Having travelled a great deal in my life, and having suffered a great deal from 'Poisoned Blood' and Want of Appetite, I was induced by a friend to use your world-famed FRUIT SALT. I was immediately relieved, and am once more hale and hearty. I shall never be without a bottle again on my travels. I am too pleased to repay you in some way for your wonderful invention by giving you full use of my testimony to the above.
Sir, I am yours gratefully,
"DR. G. HANNA, M.A.,
"Clifton Down Hotel, Gloucestershire,
"Near Bristol, February, 1881."

SUCCESS IN LIFE.—"A new invention is brought before the public and commands success. A score of abominable imitations are immediately introduced by the unscrupulous, who, in copying the original closely enough to deceive the public, and yet not so exactly to infringe upon legal rights, exercise an ingenuity that, employed in an original channel, could not fail to secure reputation and profit."—Adams.

CAUTION.—Examine each bottle and see the capsule is marked ENO'S FRUIT SALT. Without it you have been imposed on by worthless imitations. Sold by all Chemists. Price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

PREPARED ONLY at ENO'S FRUIT SALT WORKS, Hatcham, London, S.E., by J. C. Eno's Patent.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.
The best remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion, and safest aperient for delicate constitutions, Ladies and Children. Of all Chemists.

TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
For CONSTIPATION, BILE, HEADACHE.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON,
A LAXATIVE AND REFRESHING FRUIT LOZENGE,
UNIVERSALLY PRESCRIBED BY THE FACULTY.
TAMAR INDIEN GRILLON.
2s. 6d. per Box, stamp included.
Sold by all Chemists and Druggists.
Wholesale—E. GRILLON, 69, Queen-street, London, E.C.

COLDS CURED BY
DR. DUNBAR'S ALKARAM, or Anti-Catarrh Smelling-Bottle.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
ALKARAM. COLDS.
IF inhaled on the first symptoms, ALKARAM will at once arrest them, and cure severe cases in half an hour. Sold by all Chemists, 2s. 9d. & Bottle. Address, Dr. Dunbar, care of Messrs. F. Newbery and Sons, 1, King Edward-st., E.C.

ALLEN AND HANBURY'S
"PERFECTED" COD-LIVER OIL is free from disagreeable taste and smell, and causes no nausea or after-taste. Of all Chemists, in capsuled bottles only.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE is warranted to cleanse the Blood from all impurities, from whatever cause arising. For Scrofula, Scurvy, Skin and Blood Diseases, its effects are marvellous. In Bottles, 2s. 9d. each, and in cases, containing six times the quantity, 11s. each, of all Chemists. Sent to any address for 30 or 132 stamps, of the Proprietor, F. J. CLARKE, Chemist, Lincoln.

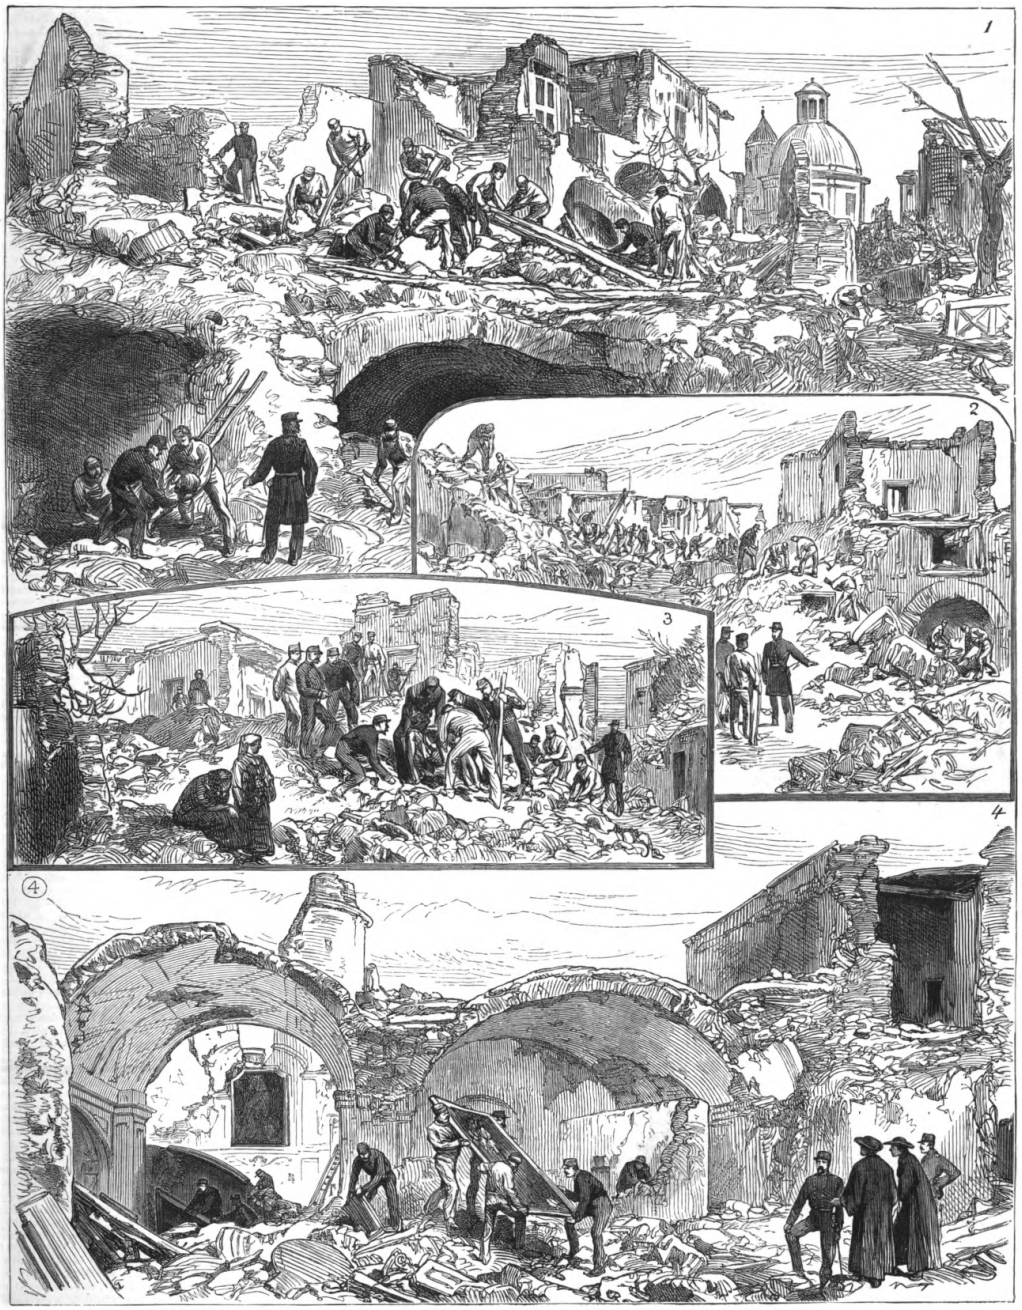
"I CAN highly recommend DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS for all Throat Irritation and Chest Diseases."—(Signed) J. SWAIN, M.P.S., 249, Mill-street, Liverpool. They taste pleasantly. Price 1s. 1½d. per Box.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT. The Pills purify the blood, correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bowels. The Ointment is unrivalled in the cure of bad legs, old wounds, gout, and rheumatism.

HOOPING COUGH.
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION.
THIS celebrated effectual Cure without internal medicine. Sole Wholesale Agents, W. EDWARDS and SON, 157, Queen Victoria-street (formerly of 67, St. Paul's churchyard), London, whose names are engraved on the Government stamp.
Sold by most Chemists. Price 4s. per Bottle.

TOOTHACHE.
INSTANT CURE.
FORMS A STOPPING.
SAVES THE TOOTH.
J. Hounsell, Esq., Surgeon, Bridport, writes:—"I consider HUNTER'S NERVINE a specific for Toothache. Very severe cases under my care have found instantaneous and permanent relief."
Of Chemists, 1s. 1½d. per Packet.

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198 Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1881.



1. Searching for the bodies of the dead. 2. Spezieria and Santa Barbara-street. 3. Carrying away the dead. 4. In the ruins of the Church of the Purgatorio.

THE EARTHQUAKE AT CASAMICCIOLA, ISLAND OF ISCHIA.

Some Illustrations of this calamitous visitation of nature, which took place on Friday, the 4th inst., and which caused the loss of 120 lives, were given in our last week's publication. We now add to them a few supplied by photographs showing the ruins of the Church of the Purgatorio, in the little town of Casamicciola, and those of the Spezieria and the street of Santa Barbara, with parties employed in searching for the dead bodies, which were carried away by gangs of Neapolitan convicts or criminals under sentence of penal servitude, who are still called "galley-slaves," though now under a different kind of prison discipline. Three hundred houses were destroyed; and for the shelter of the houseless people a number of little wooden huts have been put up. The inhabitants were unwilling to be removed from the site of their former homes, as they mostly possess little orchards of olives and fruit, or vineyards, over which it is necessary to have a vigilant eye. The wooden huts, therefore, will be dispersed in places where they are most wanted. One of the inhabitants of a street which suffered severely relates the following anecdotes:—A young girl was holding a little brother in her arms, when all at once she saw the house falling about her. She had just time to throw the baby out of a window, when she was buried under the masonry and killed, while the baby was picked up alive outside. The body of a shoemaker was found still seated, with his awl and thread in his hand, in the act of sewing up a boot. He had died of suffocation. In another instance, three old women were sitting spinning when the house crumbled. A strong beam just above their heads sustained a large portion of the falling roof, and the three women were afterwards saved. In another house a baker's boy, seeing the walls giving way, got into an empty oven, the back of which was split open, and through the aperture thus made the boy put out his head and made signs, which were soon perceived, and he was speedily dug out. Most of the scholars of the Municipal School had left it at one o'clock. At five minutes past the building fell, killing a chemist and his son who were standing near the door. The Church of the Purgatorio was entirely destroyed; the decorations and organ lay in the middle of the ruins, broken into a thousand pieces, but a statue representing a soul in purgatory, which was in a niche above the door, was found uninjured, and turned completely round on its pedestal. Of course the people cried "A miracle!" A young man belonging to a family of Casamicciola was a student in Naples, had been sent for to come home, arrived at twelve o'clock on the day of the earthquake, and an hour after perished, together with the whole of his family.

THE ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP THE MANSION HOUSE.

The alarming and perplexing discovery, on the night of Wednesday in last week, reported in part of our last impression, has continued to occupy the attention of the London police authorities. A box containing nearly 40 lb. of gunpowder, with a fuse by which it was to have been exploded, wrapped in brown paper already ignited and smouldering, which would presently have set fire to the fuse, was found in a recess of the east wall of the Mansion House, about half an hour before midnight. The police-constable on night duty, Samuel Cowell, instantly extinguished the smouldering paper, and took the box to the police station in Bow-lane. It was a flat wooden box, like a common deal packing-case, strongly bound with iron hoops, but with a round hole in the middle, from which the fuse protruded; this box was made into a brown paper parcel, 24 in. square, and 5 in. deep, and was set up on end against the wall of the recess. Our Illustration shows the exact place in which it was found, which is in Church-passage, a narrow alley that leads from George-street, out of St. Swithin's-lane, to Walbrook, passing the garden wall at the back of Messrs. Rothschild's premises, and St. Stephen's Church, Walbrook. George-street makes an angle with Mansion-house-place, which separates the east end of the Mansion House from the banking-house of Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smiths. The only entrance to the Mansion House on that side is a gateway leading to the cells in which prisoners are confined during the daily sitting in the Justice-room, and from which door convicted or remanded prisoners are removed when the Court rises. The Mansion House was built in 1737, from the designs of George Dance, upon the site of the old Stocks or Dried-fish Market in Walbrook. The first stone was laid by Lord Mayor Perry in 1739, and the building was completed in 1752, the first Lord Mayor who resided there being Sir Crispe Gascoigne, an ancestor of Lord Salisbury. The windows of the State drawing-rooms extend along the greater part of the Mansion House on its eastern front, and below them to the south is the Egyptian Hall, the scene of many historical and important gatherings during more than a hundred years past. The Egyptian Hall was designed by the Earl of Burlington, and is so called from its accordance with the "Egyptian Hall" described by Vitruvius. The stained-glass windows of this hall are rendered conspicuous from the outside by the bulky apparatus fixed there to illuminate them on the occasions of the Lord Mayor's banquets, one of which would have been given on the night of the attempted outrage but for the Czar's death. These gas-fitting contrivances on the exterior would enable the conspirators to see the hall's exact position in the building. Beneath the east window, which depicts the incident of William Walworth quelling a mob of insurgents by stabbing their leader, Wat Tyler, is the recess shown in our Illustration, fenced in by an iron railing. It was formerly the opening of an old window that has been built up; and the ledge upon which the box was put had been the window-sill. The place is very lonely and deserted at night, but the police-constable goes by it every quarter of an hour. The box, when opened at the police station, was found to contain, besides the gunpowder, a quantity of stuffing, which consisted of part of an old carpet bag, some brown paper, two American newspapers, one Glasgow and one Irish newspaper of recent date, and a linen bag, in which the powder had evidently been first kept. On one of the journals was an address in London to which it had been posted. But for the policeman's opportune discovery, a very serious explosion would have occurred. The result would probably have been more disastrous to the surrounding dwelling-houses than to the Mansion House, where the walls are in some places as much as 10 ft. thick. The City police, of whom Colonel Fraser, C.B., and Major Bowman are the chiefs, are in communication on the subject with the Home Office authorities and the Criminal Investigation Department, and a reward of £100 has been offered by the Corporation of London.

RECESS IN WHICH THE POWDER WAS PLACED.

Mr. Shirley Hibberd gave a lecture on the history and peculiarities of the tulip in the conservatory of the Royal Horticultural Society on Tuesday. At the same time there was an exhibition of hyacinths, tulips, amaryllis, cyclamens, and other spring flowers. The band of the Royal Horse Guards played a selection of music.

FINE ARTS.

THE FRENCH GALLERY.

The level, at least of the workmanship, is almost, if not quite, as high in the exhibition just opened at this gallery as in former years. But it must be confessed that Continental art generally is less serious, reserved, and noble in its aims than formerly. We are reminded of this by the contrast presented by many of the newly painted pictures here, and a few select, though generally small examples of Jules Breton, Corot, Jules Dupré, Théodore Rousseau, Diaz, and Daubigny, which also form part of the collection. The well-regulated mastery and sober charms of these painters never pall; we return to them with new zest; they fill the mind, yet allow it repose. It is such painting that lives, because instinct with thought and individuality, and it is such that makes the history of art. The characteristics, however, of these masters are so well known that we need not refer to the particular examples; yet we cannot refrain from mentioning the "Brittany Peasant Girl" (49) and "The Haymaker" (185), by Jules Breton, so strongly confirmatory of our remarks are they. Here are two simple peasant girls, true to nature and the local type as can be, and represented by means so devoid of all affectation or pretension to skill, that we never even think of the quality of the painting, and yet so penetrative is the sympathy of the artist with these lowly toilers that their pensive faces acquire a most touching pathos, and they assume a dignity that seems to affiliate them with all that is grand and noble in humanity—ay, even with the sybils of Michael Angelo. Millet was a cognate genius; and his peasants, while analogously true to nature, had much of a similar poetical and often grandiose style.

Abroad, as well as at home, there is too much of fashion in art. So soon as an original or daring artist appears—such as Fortuny, Israels, and Munkacsy—his peculiarities are copied ad nauseam. The whilom sober, homely German painter is now producing the furniture or boudoir picture in imitation of the more artificial and frivolous of the French painters, but with a more clumsy demonstrativeness that oversteps the finesse usually controlling the chic of the Frenchman. There are instances by Kuhl, Kiesel, and others in this exhibition, which, small as it is, reflects the foreign schools with even more than usual completeness.

Nevertheless, after all drawbacks, there are many works here (that have already appeared at the last Paris Salon or are fresh from the easel) distinguished by a well-trained skill and a conscientious careful completeness that it would be difficult to match in our own school. Among these we are disposed to assign to the first place of the front rank "The Courtyard of the Doge's Palace," by the Munich Professor L. C. Müller. The scene is enlivened by numerous figures in costumes of the sixteenth century, the foremost group consisting of a bronzed Oriental Prince, with a suite of attendants, and two Venetian youths pointing out the wonders of the famous cortile. Summer sunlight throws its splendour over the sumptuous costumes and glorious architecture; and seldom have we seen an effect so powerfully rendered and at the same time so right in impression. The colouring, too, is magnificently fine; and the execution has a degree of breadth very rarely attained concurrently with the same attention to minute physiognomical traits and other details. If Professor Müller does not impress as an original spontaneous inventor or exponent of his art, his technical skill is so mature, manly, and consummate that one can ask for nothing more before his works. Another very remarkable picture is by the young Spanish painter Luis Jimenez. It represents in an admirably arranged composition the stately antechamber of a Minister, crowded with courtiers and others waiting audience of the great man. Here are fashionable foplings in white and many coloured satins, taking snuff and dispensing scandal to a group of other hangers-on and idlers; there sturdy, honest-looking country applicants yawning or dozing, weary with long waiting; here a widow, sitting sadly by her son; and there, scattered about the room, many others. A blind old veteran walks hitherward with a face of rueful disappointment from the audience chamber, leaning on his pale, pretty daughter; while yonder, towards it trips with confident step a smug and portly Jesuit. The subject reminds one of the late Mr. E. M. Ward's picture of Dr. Johnson in the antechamber of Lord Chesterfield. The figures are as well drawn as conceived; the colouring is likewise very good, except that it is a trifle too transparent and thin. By the gifted brother (we believe) of this artist, known as Jimenez-y-Aranda, there are two or three small single-figure pictures, of which No. 13, an old fellow in a huge nightcap "culling simples" in a wood, is specially noteworthy for its exquisite draughtsmanship, though the greens and blues have an undesirable coldness, referable to the influence of Fortuny. To the same school belongs a little gem of graceful fancy and dainty execution by V. Capobianchi, "Dolce far Niente" (102); another small picture of a lady on a sofa, called "Abandon" (203), by Boldini—marvellous for spirit of handling, and colouring at at once deep and splendid; and a sketch of a girl at the piano (52), by R. de Madrazo.

Among the more prominent pictures are two landscapes by Heffner of the flats and shallows at a mouth of the Rhine or the Elbe, which fully support the reputation the artist has won at this gallery. But perhaps even more artistic in its delicate truthfulness is his view "Near Munich" (59), with a lovely effect of dawn. "Les Batteurs d'œillettes en Picardie," a large picture by the French painter Salmson, though able enough in some respects, seems somewhat out of place in this gallery. The overpowering mottled grey sky, "coming forward," as it does, towards the horizon, is too strongly contrasted with the even more than usual blackness of the shadows. "L'Offrande à Dieu" (191), by E. Buland, another picture from the last salon, showing a tattered old peasant dropping his mite into the hands of a white-robed nun seated beside her rose-decked shrine, has rare merit, despite the coldness of the colouring and the insufficiency of shadow. The pious old man is a most pathetic figure, and beautifully designed. Of much more robust fibre is A. Maignan's extremely broad, solid, and masculine, though imperfectly modelled, picture of Fredegonde and Chilperic beside their dying son Chlodobert, whom they have placed before St. Medard's tomb in St. Denis—which might serve as a sequel to Mr. Alma Tadema's Academy picture of last year. J. Bertrand's "Wandering Minstrels" (57) is disappointing: the colouring is rich, no doubt, but the figures are ill drawn and disjointed. A cattle-piece by Van Marke, rich in colour and effect, as usual: a small "Interior of a Mosque" (34), intense in tone, by Pasini; a clever, highly finished little picture by Vibert of a Spanish girl receiving "A Reprimand" (46) from a hag-like duenna and an over-fed padre; V. Chevillard's equally highly wrought but slightly photographic church interior (199), with a conceited old priest painting the effigy of a saint, with no stint of rouge in the cheeks, and rebutting the depreciatory criticism of another ecclesiastic; a tiny landscape, perfectly expressive of an extensive view, though of microscopic minuteness (165), by De Nittis; and two schoolboy subjects, of fully average merit, by Duverger, complete the works of the French school (including artists who have made their reputation in Paris if not of French extraction) that we have space to notice.

Returning to the German schools, it must suffice to say that there is by Munkacsy a smaller repetition of, or study for, his "Two Families" (94) in the last Academy exhibition, which, though more sketchy, has the jewel-like sparkle and depth of the larger picture—carried, indeed, as before, to excess. We have here also a picture (104) by M. Schmid, well-known by photographs from it, of an itinerant vender of religious objects offering a crucifix to an old priest, who turns on the poor man a sidelong look of lofty contempt from the game at cards in which the priest is engaged. C. Seiler lacks something of spirit and suggestiveness in his handling, but he rivals the finish of Dow or Mieris in three small works, of which the most important (167) represents a Puritan presenting at the point of his sword a cartel for a duel "à outrance" to one of a party of cavaliers. Similarly qualified praise applies to A. Spring's "In the Scriptorium" (37). Art of higher quality will be found in small works by Von Bockman, particularly "The Arrival of a Fishing-Boat, Schevening" (63), which is strikingly faithful to open-air effect, and free from the too prevailing brownness of former works. A snow-piece by Munthe of the customary merit and pattern; "A Horse-Fair" (4), by Velton; a landscape by Poschinger; a Marine, by the Scandinavian, Wahlberg; and two doubtless highly characteristic portraits (though not very happy in the flesh tints) of Moltke and Bismarck, by F. Lenbach, also claim notice.

There is a prevailing sameness in the few Dutch pictures. Israels' "Fisherman's Family" (144) quite lacks the sentiment which formerly redeemed, and sometimes now redeems, a slovenly smudginess of execution that is fast becoming devoid of all meaning. P. Sadée is unwontedly monotonous and uninteresting in "A Poor Haul" (152). But two or three landscape "bits" by J. Maris are thoroughly artistic in their balance and relation of tones, under a grey sky.

---

The exhibitions at Mr. M'Lean's and Messrs. Tooth's, in the Haymarket, also opened on Monday last, but our notices of them are unavoidably postponed till next week.

Messrs. Cassell, Petter, Galpin and Co. announce the publication, in forty-eight monthly parts, of "Picturesque America," a pictorial delineation of the mountains, rivers, lakes, forests, waterfalls, shores, cañons, valleys, cities, and other picturesque features of the North American Continent. Picturesque America has gained for itself in America a position similar to that occupied in England by Picturesque Europe. Messrs. Cassell and Co., having bought the copyright of this work for Great Britain, are about to issue it in a style suited to the high character of the work; and, judging from the first part, now before us, the work bids fair to justify the warmest encomiums that can be bestowed upon it.

Lord Derby on the 17th inst. opened the Science and Art Schools at Oldham, which have been erected, at a cost of £10,000, by Messrs. Platt; and in an address delivered later in the day, when distributing the prizes at the Theatre Royal, urged the importance of scientific and art education in this country. He maintained that the relation of science and art to everyday life was an almost boundless question. What had built the unequalled fabric of our national prosperity was not alone the possession of coal, nor our climate, nor the security of our insular position, but it was the people who were the true power of our wealth, and the singular mechanical aptitude which they exhibited. He also referred to art in its relation to human culture, and said a people in whom no high development of art was possible failed to realise a part of its destiny.

A Parliamentary paper was issued on Saturday giving the annual report of the directors of the National Gallery for 1880. The pictures purchased during the year were—St. Sebastian, by Bernardino Cotignola; and the Virgin and Child with the infant St. John and an angel, by Leonardo da Vinci. There had been many bequests: By Mrs. Joseph Henry Green—the Deposition from the Cross, the Adoration of the Kings, the Head of St. John the Baptist, with mourning angels, portrait of a man in an attitude of prayer, the Visitation of the Virgin to St. Elizabeth, Christ crowned with thorns, the Flight into Egypt, the Virgin and Child, with other figures, Christ appearing to the Virgin Mary, the Mocking of Christ, the Crucifixion, the Virgin and Child with St. Elizabeth. The late Mr. P. F. Poole, R.A., bequeathed "The Vision of Ezekiel," by himself. The presents were: By Mrs. Robert Holland, Pan and Syrinx, by Francois Boucher; by the Trustees of the British Museum, portrait of a man, attributed to Sir A. More; portrait of Anna Maria Schurmann, by Jan Lievans; a hunting scene, by Jan Wecninx; and a landscape attributed to R. Wilson, R.A. The loans were: By the Duke of Norfolk, portrait of Christina of Denmark, Duchess of Milan, the work of Hans Holbein; and the Colonna Raphael, belonging to the Duke of Ripalda. The total number of pictures now contained in the public rooms of the gallery, exclusive of water-colour drawings, is about 1020. The alteration of ceiling and skylight in the Turner Gallery is earnestly commended to the attention of her Majesty's Treasury. There are now 639 pictures protected by glass. The gallery was visited during the year by 1,036,125 persons, and the total number of students attending the gallery was 22,622.

THE GROSVENOR GALLERY LIBRARY.

The Grosvenor Gallery Library has already taken a recognised place among the institutions of the metropolis. It is now scarcely more than fifteen months ago since the idea was first mooted of establishing a circulating library in the handsome block of buildings adjoining the Grosvenor Gallery, and within that short space of time the reception of a body of subscribers, now numbered by thousands, has given practical proof of the soundness of the experiment. In the inception of the new enterprise there were not wanting those who doubted the possibility of any successful competition with the large institutions of the same kind already in existence; and perhaps, if the directors of the Grosvenor Gallery Library had merely sought to add one more to the list of lending libraries, its development would not have been so rapid or complete. But their more comprehensive scheme embraced several elements of novelty, which have been cordially approved by the public. They have sought to combine with the ordinary conveniences of a circulating library advantages that have hitherto been almost exclusively associated with the idea of a club. In this class must be reckoned the reading and writing rooms, the ladies' drawing-room, and smoking-rooms, reserved for the members of the institution, while in the reference library, subscribers enjoy access to sources of information such as the ordinary club library rarely professes to supply.

But, notwithstanding all the advantages and conveniences connected with the scheme, its realisation was manifestly dependent upon the completeness and care with which it might be carried out; and the directors, in common with those more nearly concerned with the practical conduct of the library business, are entitled to the credit of having given to their undertaking the fullest opportunities of success. Needless to say, this would not have been achieved unless indefatigable energy and untiring industry had been brought to bear upon it. In both these particulars, as in unfailing courtesy, the management of the Grosvenor Gallery Library has been conspicuous, and hence the gratifying result. In fact, the scope of the operations of the undertaking has been so widely enlarged that the directors are compelled to make a further issue of shares. Their first idea was to call up as little capital as possible, in order to allow their shareholders to derive the largest practical profit from their investments; and on this idea they are still acting, the increase of the business alone necessitating, and, as may be seen from the record of the past year's doings, justifying the enlargement of that capital. A glance at the provision made for the comfort and convenience of the subscribers will here be afforded.

To begin with, the premises are situated in, perhaps, the most advantageous position in the West-End, and, as they are in the very centre of Bond-street, may be said to occupy the most eligible site in that position. With a spacious entrance-hall, and an utter absence of cramped and confined passages in any part of the building, the approach is everything that could be desired—no small advantage when one considers the importance of first impressions. On the basement floor are the gentlemen's lavatories, supplied with hot and cold water, to which have recently been added dressing-rooms and a hair-cutting, shampooing, and shaving establishment—a miniature Shipwright's or Truefitt's. On the same floor, too, is the principal smoking-room, comfortable as a smoking-room ought to be, furnished with an evident eye to artistic effect as well as to ease, and adequately supplied with periodicals. There is also a smaller smoking-room up stairs, so that the lovers of the weed have no cause to complain. On the ground floor, besides ladies' dressing-rooms, there are the luncheon and dining rooms, two in number; one, an oblong, handsome, and well-lighted room (fig. 3), on the same level as the entrance-hall, and looking on to Bond-street, and the other, equally commodious, on a lower level. The capacity of these rooms, and of the restaurant portion of the establishment, which is under the immediate supervision of the company, has been amply tested; the Royal Colonial Institute, among other societies, holding therein their fortnightly dinners, on a large scale. Not only in this branch, but in all the others, the personal superintendence of the directors in matters of detail has contributed largely to the general success. Passing on to the extremity of the building, there is the circulating library (fig. 1), under the efficient care of Mr. Charles Allen. This room runs transversely across the whole breadth of the premises, and, though unusually spacious, is already fully stocked with a comprehensive collection of modern and other selected works in every department of literature. To this must be added a Foreign Library, comprising French and German works, added as they are published, and a further much-needed boon, a library of vocal and instrumental music. In this room will also be the booking office for the various theatres. In comprehensiveness, therefore, the Grosvenor need not fear, but rather may court, comparison. Passing by the board-room, the secretary's office, and the room set apart for small private dinner parties, which, with the addition of some smaller rooms for domestic purposes, occupy the entresol, we come, by means of a roomy staircase, to the two reading-rooms looking on to the street—one, the larger (fig. 2), devoted to both sexes in common; and the other, cosier, but ample for the requirements, reserved for ladies alone. Both these rooms, besides being stocked with the daily and weekly papers, magazines, and other periodicals, contain writing materials, after the manner of a club, and are furnished with the same elegance that is to be observed throughout the establishment. The numbers who frequent these rooms show how highly they are appreciated, and a perusal of the list of subscribers will prove that the occupants spring from the class for whom the library was designed and intended. Finally, on the topmost floor there is the reference library and reading-room combined (fig. 4), occupying a space equal to that covered by the two reading-rooms below. The capacious shelves already hold a goodly array of valuable works, and the vacant spaces are day by day more and more rapidly disappearing, so that in a short time this important feature in the concern will be able to lay claim to as thorough comprehensiveness and completeness as is already possessed by the other branches. On this floor, also, are gentlemen's dressing-rooms and a comfortable smoking-room.

Considering the manifold advantages offered by the Grosvenor, its terms of subscription are on the most moderate scale—three guineas per annum, entitling a subscriber to six volumes and free delivery once a week in London and the suburbs, as well as to what are called all the club privileges; in other words, the use of the entire building and its conveniences. Twelve months may fairly be taken as sufficient for the testing of any such undertaking as this; and, accepting the progress made since March 25, 1880, as a safe and reliable basis on which to form an opinion, it may assuredly be concluded that the Grosvenor Gallery Library, under the continuance of such efficient management as has fortunately fallen to its lot, has passed its period of probation, has become one of the recognised institutions of the time, and has before it not only a successful but a useful future.

The Grosvenor Gallery Library must not be confounded with another establishment, the Grosvenor Library, in Chapel-street, Belgrave-square.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

COAGULATION OF THE BLOOD.

Professor E. A. Schafer, F.R.S., began his eighth lecture, given on Tuesday, the 15th instant, by stating that the coagulation of the blood depends on the apparently spontaneous formation of the fine interlacing filaments termed "fibrin," which collects when the blood is stirred as it flows from the blood-vessels. This fibrin is insoluble in blood serum and in water, but dissolves in solutions of salts of a certain strength. The older physiologists believed that the cause of coagulation was either the cooling of the blood on its withdrawal, the stoppage of the motion, or its exposure to air. These notions were disproved by Hewson in the middle of the last century, and his conclusions Professor Schafer verified by experiments. After noticing Mr. Gulliver's researches, he described Dr. A. Buchanan's discovery, that certain serous fluids, which do not congulate spontaneously, set when a little blood clot is added, just as milk is curdled by rennet. A. Schmidt, by treating some of these fluids with carbonic acid, obtained "fibrinogen," a substance which goes to form "fibrin;" but he thought that the globulin or serum (which he termed "fibrinoplastin") was required to partake in the process. Hammarsten regarded fibrinogen as the soluble precursor of fibrin, the formation of which is due to the change produced in it by a substance termed "fibrin-ferment." As to the reasons for the non-coagulation of the blood in the vessels, two theories were duly considered—one, by Professor Brücke, seems to assert that all the conditions for the formation of fibrin are present, but the living vessels prevent them from acting; the other theory, by Professor Lister, assumes that one factor, the fibrin-ferment, is absent in the living vessels; therefore fibrin does not tend to become formed, unless the blood come in contact with foreign substances, when the ferment is at once produced. The Professor referred to Dr. A. Gamgee's "Physiological Chemistry" for a full account of the subject.

PRINCIPLES OF ORNAMENT.

Mr. H. H. Statham gave the first of a course of four lectures on ornament, historically and critically considered, on Thursday, the 17th inst. He defined ornament as including all artistic design which is not of sufficient interest or expressive power to have independent value, but which is added to an object to give it additional interest or beauty. It is, therefore, a relative art, and essentially metaphysical in its relation to nature, on whose forms its elements are based. Colour was described as not ornament itself, but merely employed to emphasise the parts of a design. The qualities of rhythm, repetition, symmetry, and alternation of parts in ornament were fully illustrated by bold diagrams; followed by examples of geometrical symmetry and equal distribution of spaces. The law of curvatures was stated, and the superiority of scientific curves over unscientific was shown in fine examples drawn by the compass. They all had a direct and obvious relation to each other. The sum of all these qualities, termed "abstract ornament," was illustrated in Greek mouldings and other forms, including some arising out of constructive details. Ornament derived from nature cannot be wholly subjected to the same laws as abstract ornament. Nature cannot be exactly imitated, but must be dealt with subject to the conditions of special design, material, and space. Natural forms were beautifully conventionalised by the Greeks. In regard to the use of the human figure, Mr. Statham doubted its propriety, and said that, if it were well done, it rose above mere ornament; and, in proof, referred to examples at the Louvre. The copying of artificial objects for ornament was severely censured, as betraying want of thought and invention, and, by employing it, the Romans exhibited their great inferiority to the Greeks in purity of taste. This was illustrated by drawings of Roman and Renaissance examples. Of the expression of special ideas in ornament, which is very difficult, an example was referred to in the new Opera-House at Paris; but the real value of ornament was stated to be in direct proportion to the thought shown in it.

MUSICAL PITCH, AND ITS DETERMINATION.

Dr. W. H. Stone, Mus. B., at the Friday evening meeting on the 18th inst., in his opening remarks, defined the three fundamental elements of a musical note as pitch, intensity, and quality. Of these, pitch is the most susceptible of accurate measurement. Absolute pitch does not exist in nature; and the exceptional power of recognising a note by hearing it is really an acquirement, possessed by tuners and a few other persons. Dr. Stone, having described pitch as "rapidity of vibration," considered, 1, the chief causes and amount of variation in pitch in different sound-producers; 2, the scientific modes of measuring pitch; 3, the musical application of such methods carried a stage further in an artistic direction than is usual in treatises on acoustics. These points were illustrated by numerous experiments. 1. With metallic strings, organ-pipes, harmonium reeds, and tuning-forks. 2. The mechanical, optical, photographic, electric, and computative methods of determining pitch were exhibited and explained. They included an exact copy of Colonel Perronet Thompson's monochord, the siren, and "Lissajous' figures," with McLeod's ingenious modification of them in the "cyclo-scope," which is most satisfactory. Dr. Stone laid much stress on the computative method on account of its extreme simplicity and accuracy. By it "absolute" pitch was first obtained from "relative." Scheibler's "Tonmesser" and Appunn's "Reed-tonometer" were exhibited, as well as a photograph of Koenig's tuning-fork clock, with due explanations. 3. The problem of absolute pitch having been satisfactorily determined, Dr. Stone said that its application required only time and patience, and the present state of the matter is discreditable to England. Since Handel's time orchestral pitch had risen about a semitone. This he attributed to the excess of true fifths as tuned to by violins over corresponding octaves; to the rise by heat of the increased number of wind instruments; to the difficulty of appreciating slow beats, and to the predominant effect on the ear of a sharper over a flatter note, causing a steady rise of the instruments susceptible of tuning. The voice, God's instrument, Dr. Stone said, should be consulted in preference to man's less perfect contrivances. At the same time, the difference between the present high orchestral pitch to the detriment of the singer's voice, and the French normal diapason, has been proved to be less than was supposed. This was illustrated by Dr. Stone's playing alternately on clarinets tuned to different pitches; and the ear, unassisted by beats, was unable to detect the difference.

AMERICAN HUMOUR—WASHINGTON IRVING.

The Rev. H. R. Haweis, M.A., gave the first of a course of four lectures on some American Humourists on Saturday last, the 19th inst. He described wit and humour as merely two aspects of the same thing—the one is the flash, the other the atmosphere. They should possess dignity, and be at once sensible, moral, and recreative: of all which striking examples were given. American humour was characterised in its unconscious association of diverse incongruous ideas, such as the mixture of severe piety and extreme shrewdness in business, and the perpetual remembrance of the bigness of the country and the vastness of nature. A rapid yet graphic sketch was given of the varied life of Washington Irving, the son of a Scotch father and English mother, who was born April 3, 1783; and who, after residing some time in Britain, visiting the Continent, and being Ambassador at Madrid, died at his little cottage on the Hudson, Nov. 28, 1859. Short characteristic pieces from his letters were read relating to Samuel Rogers, Thomas Moore, Mrs. Siddons, and other eminent persons, with whom Irving was on intimate terms. He was a great writer and a solid man, yet in his humorous works he exhibits the merits of Sterne, Lamb, Dickens, and similar authors, without their peculiar defects. The "Sketch Book" and "Bracebridge Hall" show his intense love of England and English life in town and country, and are full of genial appreciation of the best points in our national character. His books are also well written; he took plenty of time to express his thoughts fitly, and his humour never degenerates into buffoonery. His flashes of wit are frequently mingled with pathos, and there is in his sketches occasionally vigorous energy combined with accurate photographic delineations. "Rip van Winkle," and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," were noticed, and in conclusion Mr. Haweis read two extracts, exhibiting what he termed the moral and the ordinary atmospheres of Irving's humour. The first extract was taken from Knickerbocker's "History of New York," where the writer justifies the seizure of the country by the European settlers, and assesses their rights, as based on discovery of the country, cultivation of the soil, and the civilisation of the Red men (by the introduction of ardent spirits, new diseases, and new wants), and, finally, of might. The second extract was the celebrated account of "The Stout Gentleman" at the inn, so much admired by Dickens.

Sir Henry S. Maine will give a discourse on "The King in his Relation to Early Civil Justice," at the next evening meeting, on Friday, April 1.

THE REPULSE AT LAING'S NECK.

We present, in addition to the general view of the engagement at Laing's Neck, on January 28, which appeared in last week's publication, two Sketches that have come to hand, one drawn by an officer belonging to the King's Dragoon Guards, illustrating different periods of the same action. In the larger Engraving, which extends across the lower part of two pages, Sir George Colley and his staff are shown on the ground in front of Laing's Neck, preparing to commence the attack in the manner described by the lamented General in his official despatch, given in the last Number of our Journal. It was half-past nine o'clock in the morning, when the Naval Brigade and a company of the 60th Rifles were pushed forward to the inclosure at the foot of the hill; where they took up their position, as explained by Sir George Colley, in order to cover the advance of the 58th Regiment to capture the isolated conical hill, or spur, intervening between the British right and the main position of the Boers on Table Hill. The advance of the 58th, led by Colonel Deane, was protected also by the artillery, and by the mounted troops, composed of some of the King's Dragoon Guards, some mounted infantry, and some Natal Mounted Police, under Major Brownlow, of the King's Dragoon Guards. The despatch of Sir George Colley already cited relates how the infantry advance was repulsed by the Boers moving down, simultaneously, from the isolated hill, and opening a deadly fire as well from that side as from the brow of the Table Hill, by which Colonel Deane, Major Ruscombe Poole, and several other officers were killed in a few minutes. It then became necessary for the 58th Regiment to retire down the slope, which was effected under cover of the 60th Rifles, aided by the Naval Brigade, under Commander Romilly, the artillery, under Captain Greer, and the Natal Mounted Police; and the last-mentioned part of the force is conspicuous in our second Illustration.

We also give the Portraits of two distinguished officers, Major-General Newdigate and Colonel Redvers Buller, who have recently arrived in South Africa to join Sir Evelyn Wood in the military operations that were to have been continued subsequent to the death of Sir George Colley. Both General Newdigate and Colonel Buller will be remembered as having borne an active part in the Zulu War of 1879 under Lord Chelmsford; and no fresh account of their past services is now required.

THE CENSUS OF 1881.

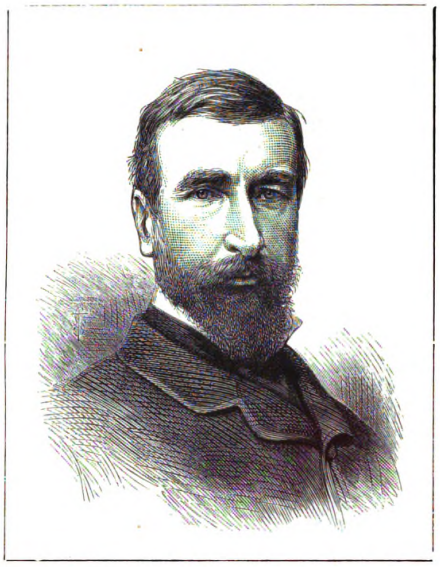
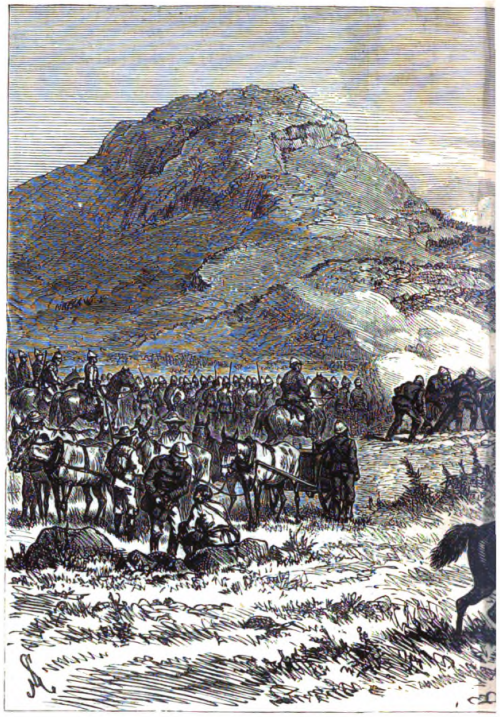
We have received from the Registrar-General a memorandum giving some account of the object and uses of the forthcoming Census of England, together with copies of documents which are being sent out to the local officers all over the country. The householders' schedules will be delivered next week, and collected on Monday, April 4. The names to be entered in the schedules are those of all who slept or abode in the house on the night of Sunday, April 3. Any householder who does not receive schedules before that Sunday should apply for them to the district registrar of births and deaths. The schedules contain columns for name and surname, relation to head of family, condition as to marriage, sex, age last birthday, rank, profession, or occupation, place of birth, and infirmities (deaf and dumb, blind, imbecile or idiot, lunatic). One of the documents being sent out to local officers is a letter to the chairmen of urban sanitary authorities urging them to see to the naming and numbering of streets, with a view to facilitating the coming enumeration. Another of these documents is a little book of instructions to the various officers, enumerators, and registrars as to their duties in taking the Census.

Mr. William Henry Nicholls, of Lincoln's Inn-fields, solicitor, has been appointed a commissioner for taking receiving affidavits in and for the courts in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, Canada; and Mr. W. R. A. Kime, of Bedford-row and South Lincolnshire, solicitor, has been appointed a commissioner for taking proofs and evidence and acknowledgments of deeds and for affidavits to be used in the States of New York, California, Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Tennessee.

The programme for the annual meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute, on May 4, 5, and 6, has been issued. Mr. Josiah T. Smith's experience as one of the largest steel manufacturers in this country will give his presidential address an exceptional interest. Mr. Alex. Wilson, of Sheffield, will read a paper on the manufacture of armour plates; the subject of the manufacture of steel and steel plates will be dealt with by Mr. Sergius Kern, of Russia, who will bring before English manufacturers and users of steel improvements recently practised in Russia; while the experience lately gained in the practical use of steel for ship-building purposes will be dealt with in a paper by Mr. Denny, of Dumbarton. The question of the relative corrosion of iron and steel will be discussed by Mr. W. Parker, of Lloyd's. A paper is promised by Captain Jones, manager of the Thomson Steel Works, Pittsburg, on the manufacture of Bessemer steel and steel rails in America.

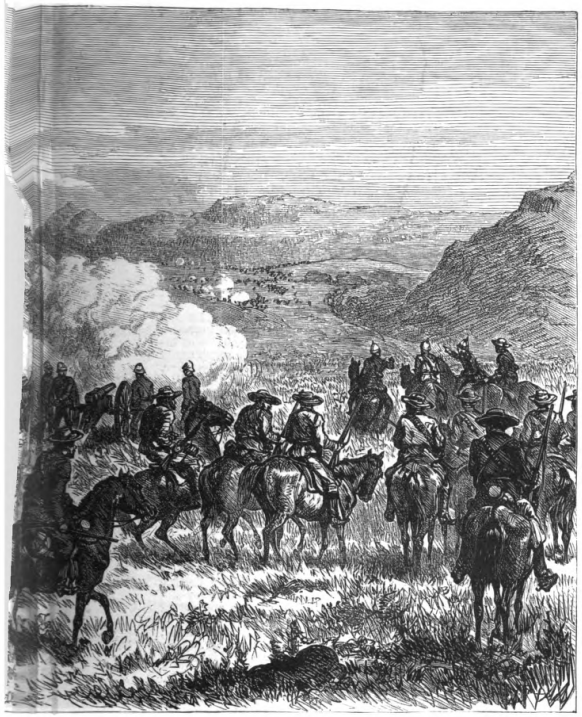


COLONEL REDVERS BULLER, V.C., C.B.

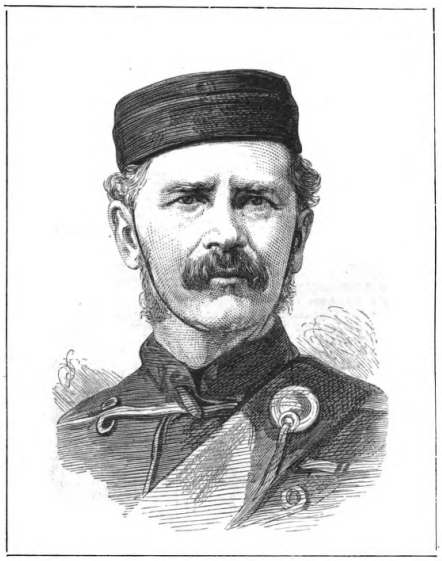


COVERING THE RETREAT OF THE 58TH

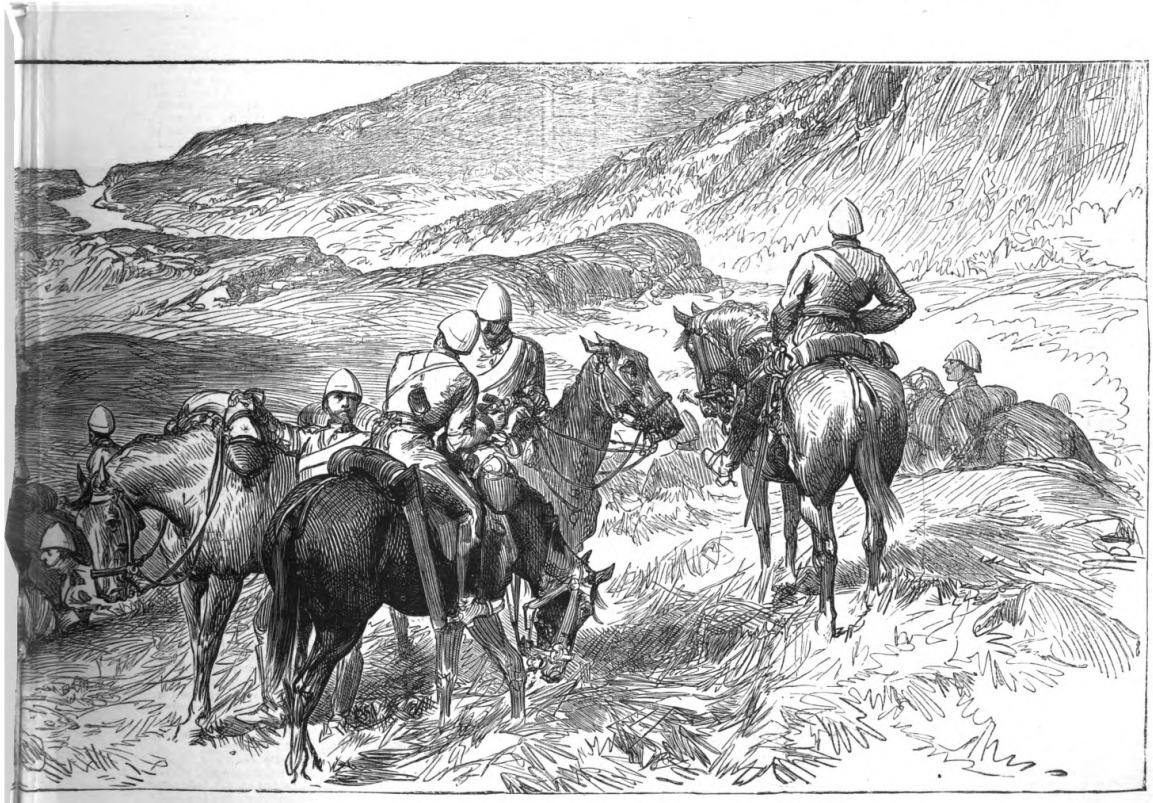
THE TRANSVAAL WAR: SIR GEORGE COL



GIMENT AFTER THE REPULSE AT LAING'S NECK.



MAJOR-GENERAL E. NEWDIGATE, C.B.



T'S STAFF BEFORE LAING'S NECK, JANUARY 28.

PAGE 307.

OBITUARY.

THE EARL OF ST. GERMANS.

The Right Hon. William Gordon Cornwallis Eliot, fourth Earl of St. Germans and fifth Baron Eliot, died on the 19th inst. He was born Dec. 14, 1829, the third son of Edward Granville, third Earl of St. Germans, G.C.B., Lord Lieutenant of Ireland 1852 to 1855, by the Lady Jemima Cornwallis, his wife, third daughter and coheiress of Charles, last Marquis Cornwallis, by the Lady Louisa Gordon, his wife, daughter and coheiress of Alexander, Duke of Gordon.

For some time he served in the diplomacy at various Courts, and became Secretary of Legation at Rio de Janeiro Aug. 8, 1859, and at Athens Oct. 21, 1859. He was reappointed Secretary of Legation at Rio Oct. 21, 1861, and made Secretary of Legation at Lisbon June 10, 1864. He retired in 1865, in which year he unsuccessfully contested Cricklade. In 1866 he was returned for Devonport, and continued to represent that constituency until November, 1868. On Sept. 14, 1870, he was summoned to the House of Lords in his father's barony of Eliot, and on Oct. 7, 1877, succeeded to the earldom of St. Germans. His Lordship was the direct descendant of the great statesman and patriot Sir John Eliot, of Port Eliot, so memorable in the Parliamentary contests of the reign of Charles I., and became representative of his ancient family in consequence of the deaths of his two elder brothers, Edward, Lord Eliot, and Captain Granville Eliot, killed in action at Inkerman. Never having been married, the Earl is succeeded by his next brother, Henry Cornwallis, now fifth Earl of St. Germans, who was born Feb. 11, 1835.

LADY MILDRED BERESFORD-HOPE.

Lady Mildred Arabella Charlotte Henrietta Beresford-Hope died on the 18th inst., at Nice, in her fifty-ninth year. Her Ladyship was the eldest daughter of James Brownlow William, second Marquis of Salisbury, K.G., by Frances Mary, his wife, daughter and heir of Mr. Bamber Gascoyne, and was thus sister to the present Marquis of Salisbury, K.G. Lady Mildred was married, July 7, 1842, to the Right Hon. Alexander James Beresford Beresford-Hope, P.C., M.P. for Cambridge University, and leaves issue.

GENERAL BAINBRIGGE.

General John Hankey Bainbrigge died on the 15th inst., at his residence, Rohais Manor, Guernsey, in his ninetieth year. He was second son of Lieut.-Colonel Philip Bainbrigge, who was killed commanding the 20th Regiment at the battle of Egmont-op-Zee, in Holland, and was grandson of Thomas Bainbrigge, of Woodseat and Rocester, County Stafford, who, as High Sheriff of Derbyshire in 1760, proclaimed King George III. on his accession to the throne. General Bainbrigge entered the 20th Foot in 1808, and was transferred to the 41st as Captain in 1814. With the former regiment he served in the Peninsula, being present at Vimiera, Corunna, Vittoria, and the Pyrenees, where he lost an arm. He was also with the Walcheren Expedition, and attained the rank of full General in 1877. He married his cousin Sophia, daughter of Mr. Bonamy Dobrée.

We have also to record the deaths of—

Princess Louise of Hesse, sister of the Duchess of Cambridge, on the 16th inst., in her eighty-seventh year.

Lord Dunboyne, at his residence, Knoppogue Castle, county Clare, in his seventy-fifth year. His memoir will be given in our next Number.

Admiral George Williams, at Penzance, on the 18th inst., in his seventy-seventh year. He entered the Royal Navy in 1819, and attained the honorary rank of Admiral last year.

Mr. John Paul Cobbett, of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law, third and last surviving son of the late William Cobbett, the famous political writer.

Mr. Granville Somerset, Q.C., the well-known Parliamentary counsel, on the 23rd inst., at his residence in Queen Anne's-gate. He was called to the Bar in 1852, and has enjoyed a lucrative practice at the Parliamentary bar for nearly thirty years.

Mr. Edmund Ashworth, of Egerton Hall, near Bolton, in his eightieth year. He took a prominent part in public affairs in Manchester for nearly half a century, and occupied the chair of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce from 1874 to 1877. He was on the board of directors eleven years.

Mr. Samuel Courtauld, at his residence, Gosfield Hall, Halstead, at the age of eighty-six. The deceased gentleman was for half a century prominently connected with Liberal politics in Essex, and his name will be especially remembered in connection with the success of the agitation for the abolition of compulsory church rates.

Lieutenant-General John Maitland, R.A., of Freugh, at Perrymead House, Bath, on the 16th inst. The youngest son of John Maitland, of Freugh, in the county of Wigton, by Jane, his wife, daughter of Sir William Maxwell, Bart., of Monreith, he entered the Madras Artillery in 1824, and attained the rank of Lieutenant-General in 1877.

Lady Helena Trench, widow of the Rev. Frederick Stewart Trench, nephew of the first Lord Ashtown, on the 17th inst., aged ninety. Her Ladyship was second daughter of Charles George, Lord Arden, sister of George James, sixth Earl of Egmont, and niece of the Right Hon. Spencer Perceval, the Prime Minister.

Lieut.-General Jasper Byng Creagh, on the 9th inst., in his sixty-eighth year. He was son of Colonel Andrew Creagh, C.B., entered the Army in 1825, served in the Anglo-Spanish Legion, was in the Eastern Campaign of 1854-5 with the Osmanli Cavalry, and was afterwards employed on the Staff with the army in the Crimea, being present at Balaklava and Inkerman.

Colonel Henry Clinton, of Earlsbury Park, Herts, eldest son of the late General Sir William Henry Clinton, G.C.B., by the Lady Louisa, his wife, daughter of the first Earl of Sheffield, on the 13th inst., in his eightieth year. Colonel Clinton's grandfather, Sir Henry Clinton, K.B., the celebrated Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's forces in the American War, was nephew of Henry, seventh Earl of Lincoln, K.G.

Lady Emily Bathurst, at her residence in Eaton-place, on the 18th inst. Her Ladyship was the younger daughter of Montagu, fifth Earl of Abingdon, D.C.L., by his first wife, Emily, daughter of General the Hon. Thomas Gage. She was married, July 31, 1830, to the Hon. and Rev. Charles Bathurst, LL.D., youngest son of Henry, third Earl Bathurst, and was left a widow without issue in 1842.

Mr. Thomas C. Scott, of Knaphill, Surrey, and Moorgate, in the City, on the 11th inst., in his sixty-second year. He was well known among the agriculturists of his time, and took great interest in questions relating to Ireland. He published, in 1854, a pamphlet entitled "Ireland, a Field for Investment." The volunteer movement engaged his attention, and the Royal Agricultural Benevolent Institution had him on its list of directors.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications relating to this department of the Paper should be addressed to the Editor, and have the word "Chess" written on the envelope.

W J E (Dewsbury).—There is no mate in Problem No. 1930 by the way you propose. The answer to 1. Kt to Kt 6th is 1. Kt takes R, &c.

G A (Bonchurch).—Your suggestion, if adopted, would occupy too much space and absorb too much time.

P J (Broadmoor).—We shall adopt your suggestion referring to the publication of the solutions of supplementary problems.

R P G (Herts).—Your two-move problem requires further correction. The White King is placed at K Kt 2nd, checked by the adverse queen at K R 8th.

J H (Symington).—The solution of the problem you describe is as follows:—1. Q to Kt 6th (ch), P to K B 4th; 2. Q to Q 6th, Q takes Q; 3. Kt to K B 6th (ch), Q takes Kt; 4. Kt to B 2th, mate. If, in the 1st variation, Black play 1. R (at Q 2nd) takes Q, then 2. Kt to B 6th (ch), and 3. Kt to Q 2nd, mate; and if 1. R (at Kt 3rd) takes Q, then 2. Kt to Q 2nd (ch), R takes Kt; 3. Kt to B 6th, mate.

P J C (Broadmoor).—Your four-move problem can be solved by 1. B to Q 8th; 2. Q to Kt 7th, &c. We shall adopt your suggestion as to the publication of the solutions of supplementary problems.

H F (Durham).—The position as amended shall be examined.

J P V.—Your letter has been forwarded to Mr. Morgan, who will furnish you with the information required.

L L (New Brighton).—We do not agree with the judgment you pronounce upon No. 1934. Your own is not up to our standard. A two-move problem the solution of which begins with a check is poor stuff indeed.

N M (Carrig).—Marked for insertion a few weeks hence.

Problems received from T R R (Munich), W B (Stratford), D A (Dublin), Sidmouth, W M (Kingston-on-Thames), Frank Littleboy, and S A Harrison.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1932 received from W F R, W J Eggleston, Fred Littleboy, and Frank E Purchas.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1933 received from W P R, W J Eggleston, James Hyland, Pierce Jones, J Hunstead, D W (Guernsey), Trist, James A Brown, R M (Carrig), H Stebbing, Frederick Carroll, R Bohm Junior (Vienna), Fire Plug, Harry Trelleme, A C (Staines), J Berry, and J Tucker.

Correct Solutions of Problem No. 1934 received from H B, Henry B Todd, Mrs Clough Taylor, William Scott, E Louden, S H (Llanelly), G A (Bonchurch), Dr F St. E Basilla, J Oswald, L Sharwood, Ernest Sharswood, Hen Nevis, Otto Fulder (Ghent), L Falcon (Antwerp), S Lowndes, W Hillier, J G Anstee, B Ingersoll, D W Kell, E Elsbury, A M Colborne, S Ferrant, Julia Short, J B H, T Chaloner, Alpha, James Dobson, John Wood, Smutch, Frank Littleboy, Pierce Jones, H F (Spartan Chess Club), J W W, W F Wood, D W Guernsey, W T R, Lawand Medicine, A Harper, James A Brown, An Old Hand, Alfred W Hale, Z Inexil, W Biddle, Leslie Lachlan, Pinopolis, Rev. W F Clements, H Stebbing, Frank E Purchas, J J Heaton, Frederick Carroll, Norman Rumbelow, J Aloïs Schmucke, Stuart Berkeley, H J Kulip, T R Rapp, W P R, John Balfour, R H Brooks, Theodor Willink, J H Remington, G Michal (Rotterdam), Chelwell, J Berry, H H Nayes, L L Greenaway, E T Kemp, Joseph Ainsworth, R Jessop, B L, Dyke, Elsie, Jupiter Junior, G Fosbrooke, A Karberg (Hamburg), C Oswald, T Greenbank, F Ferris, H K Awdry, C S Cox, W H Latham, Joseph Howe (Workington), E Ridgway, East Marden, Portobello, Shadforth, Jane Nepveu, L Mahille (Corfu), Lulu, A Chapman, Eastbach, E L G, E F Villiamy, Sidmouth, Ellipse, R B Duff, Hereward, N M (Carrig), Semaj, Cant, A C (Staines), and C Darragh.

Solution of Problem No. 1933.

| WHITE. | BLACK. |
|---|---|
| 1. P to Kt 5th | Any move |
| 2. Mates accordingly. | |

PROBLEM No. 1936.

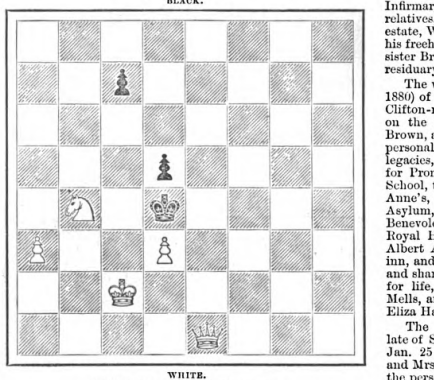
By H. E. Kidson.

BLACK.



WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

Played in the Handicap Tournament of the Clifton Chess Club between Messrs. Fedden and Harsant.

(Evans' Gambit.)

| WHITE (Mr. F.) | BLACK (Mr. H.) | WHITE (Mr. F.) | BLACK (Mr. H.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. P to K 4th | P to K 4th | 13. Q to B 2nd | P to Q B 4th |
| 2. Kt to Q B 3rd | Kt to Q B 3rd | 14. P takes P (en pas.) | Kt P takes P |
| 3. B to B 4th | B to B 4th | 15. Q R to Q sq | P to Q 4th |
| 4. P to Q Kt 4th | B takes Kt P | 16. P takes Q P | P takes P |
| 5. P to Q B 3rd | B to R 4th | 17. K R to K sq | Q to B 2nd |
| 6. P to Q 4th | P takes P | 18. B to R 3rd | Q Kt to B 3rd |
| 7. Castles | B to Kt 3rd | 19. B to Kt 5th | R to Q sq |
| 8. P takes P | P to Q 3rd | 20. K B takes Kt | Kt takes B |
| 9. P to Q 5th | Kt to R 4th | 21. Kt takes P | Q to Kt 2nd |
| 10. B to Kt 2nd | Kt to K 2nd | 22. Q takes Kt, and Black resigned. | |
| 11. Kt to B 3rd | Castles | | |
| 12. B to Q 3rd | P to K B 4th | | |

Mr. Moffatt, the London correspondent of the Glasgow Weekly Herald, has been elected an honorary member of the City of London Chess Club.

The annual banquet of the City Club was held on Tuesday, the 15th inst., the president in the chair, Mr. H. F. Gastineau acting as croupier. There was a large attendance of members and visitors, and an excellent dinner was provided by the host of Mouflet's Hotel. The toast of the chess press was responded to by Mr. Macdonnell.

We are obliged to a correspondent for a copy of the Free Press of Ottawa, containing an account of a five days' tournament played there last month. There were ten combatants in the lists, including the strongest amateurs in the Dominion—Messrs. F. Lambert, S. Jarvis, G. H. Taylor, J. Barry, J. Henderson, J. W. Shaw, D. R. McLeod, Mr. Carey, M.P. for West Elgin, Mr. L. Schull, and the Rev. T. D. Phillips. The prize of victory was a silver cup, and it was won by Mr. J. W. Shaw, of Montreal.

Brentano (New York) announces the advent of a new American Chess Monthly of forty-eight pages at a subscription price of two dollars and a half per annum. It will be edited by Mr. H. C. Allen, assisted by Mr. George Carpenter and Mr. S. P. Barnes. A novel feature of the new magazine will be a series of original sketches and articles, illustrated with woodcuts by the best artists. Intending subscribers should address, Brentano's Literary Emporium, 39, Union-square, New York, U.S.A.

The book of the fifth American Chess Congress, compiled and edited by Mr. Charles A. Gilberg, of Brooklyn, has been published in New York. It contains memoirs of the four congresses preceding, and biographical sketches of Paul Morphy, L. Paulsen, Professor Agnel, Professor Allen, D. W. Fiske, Julien, Lichtenhein, Marache, Judge Meek, and many other distinguished American players. The report of the fifth congress comprises the preliminary proceedings, the games played in the several tournaments, and 136 of the best problems contributed to the competition in that branch of the game. The book is handsomely bound in cloth gilt, and is issued at the price of 10s. Brentanos are the publishers.

A return-match between the Isleworth Reading-Room Chess and Draughts Club and the Kingston Institute was played on Saturday last. Kingston won the match at draughts by 6½ to 4½, and Isleworth won the chess-match with a score of six games to four.

A match was played on the 17th inst. between the Camden Town Athenæum and the Greenwich Chess Club, which was won by the latter by three games to one and two draws. Greenwich has thus won every match in which its club has been engaged during the past season.

A match between Mr. J. H. Blackburne and Mr. Gunsberg was commenced last week, for a stake of £10, the former yielding the odds of two games out of seven. Mr. Blackburne won the first game played.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

The will (dated Nov. 1, 1880) of Sir Henry Watson Parker, K.C.M.G., J.P., formerly of New South Wales, and late of Stawell House, East Sheen, Surrey, who died on the 2nd ult., was proved on the 7th inst. by Dame Emmeline Emily Parker, the widow, and Robert Alexander Smith, the acting executors, the personal estate being sworn under £140,000. The testator gives to his executor, Mr. Smith, £300; to his wife £1000, his wines, consumable stores, dead and live stock, and the residue of his real and personal estate upon trust for her for life. At her decease he bequeaths £1000 each to the Richmond Hospital and the National Orphan Home, Ham, Surrey; £500 each to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Old Kent-road, the Idiot Asylum, Earlswood, the Royal Asylum of St. Ann's Society, the Cancer Hospital, Brompton, the Consumption Hospital, Brompton, Richmond Dispensary, and the Royal Kent Dispensary, Greenwich-road; £20,000 to his niece, Mrs. Annie Mary Haycock; £30,000 to his niece, Mrs. Emma Jane Vaughan Arbuckle, together with his household furniture, plate, and effects; £20,000 between the two sons of his late nephew George Frederick Trevor Parker; £24,000 between the four daughters of his late nephew Thomas Watson Parker; and legacies to servants and others. The ultimate residue of his property, real and personal, is to be held upon trust for his niece, Mrs. Arbuckle, for life, conditionally on her making Stawell House her permanent residence, and then for her son.

The will of Mr. William Moore Bell, formerly a member of the firm of Messrs. Banks, Bell, and Co., of Melbourne, and late of No. 25, Sackville-street, Piccadilly, was proved in London on the 12th inst. by Edwin H. Banks, J.P., and John Paterson, the executors, the personal estate in England (exclusive of his property in New South Wales and Victoria) being sworn under £100,000. The testator bequeaths £25,000 each to his brother, Joseph Bell, and to his sisters, Miss Bridget Bell, Miss Elizabeth Bell, and Mrs. Ann Turner; £5000 to Mrs. Jane Bell, the widow of his brother John; £2500 each to his nephews and niece, Richard Moore Bell, Joseph Bell, William Moore Bell, Ann Bell, and Moor Bell;—£250 each to the Alfred Hospital, Melbourne; the Melbourne Benevolent Asylum; the Blind Asylum and School, St. Kilda-road, Melbourne; the Melbourne Hospital; the Melbourne Deaf and Dumb Institution, St. Kilda-road; the Protestant Orphan Asylum, Emerald-hill, Melbourne; the Lying-In Hospital, at Carlton, Melbourne; the Ladies' Benevolent Society, at Brighton, Melbourne; the Melbourne Ladies' Benevolent Society; the Hornbrook Ragged Schools, in Melbourne and the Suburbs; the Melbourne and Suburban City Mission; the Cumberland Benevolent Institution, London; the Cumberland Infirmary, Carlisle; the Cumberland and Westmorland Convalescent Institution, Silloth; the Carlisle Dispensary; the Carlisle Fever Hospital; and the Whitehaven and West Cumberland Infirmary;—and numerous legacies to cousins and other relatives, godchildren, friends, and servants. His freehold estate, Waterside, Cumberland, he gives to his brother Joseph; his freehold estate at Wellrash, in the same county, to his sister Bridget; and he appoints his sisters and brother his residuary legatees.

The will (dated July 23, 1879) with a codicil (dated Dec. 4, 1880) of the Rev. Josiah Gardiner Webster, late of No. 61, Clifton-road, Brighton, who died on Dec. 16 last, was proved on the 28th ult. by Henry Jephson Mells, Philip Berney Brown, and William John Crickett Mells, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. Among other legacies the testator bequeaths 19 guineas each to the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, St. John's Foundation School, the Clergy Orphan Society, the Royal Society of St. Anne's, Wanstead Orphan Asylum, the London Orphan Asylum, Watford, Earlswood Idiot Asylum, the National Benevolent Society, Haverstock-hill Working School, the Royal Hospital for Incurables, Putney, the Royal Orphan Albert Asylum, the Boys' Refuge, Queen's-street, Lincoln's-inn, and the Sailors' Home, Great Yarmouth; certain stocks and shares upon trust for his friend, Eliza Harriet Widgeon, for life, and then equally between Mrs. Mary Henchman Mells, and Mrs. Maria Emma Hall; and he appoints the said Eliza Harriet Widgeon residuary legatee.

The will (dated March 15, 1877) of Mr. Robert Gibbon, late of Southsea, in the county of Southampton, who died on Jan. 25 last, was proved on the 22nd ult. by William King and Mrs. Elizabeth Mary King, the daughter, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £25,000. The testator, after giving legacies to members of his family for mourning, leaves the residue of his real and personal property, as to one fourth for his said daughter; and as to the other three fourths, subject to considerable annuities thereout to his son George and his daughter Mary Ann Forbes, for his five grandchildren, the children of his deceased son William.

The will (dated April 30, 1864) of Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell, K.C.M.G., C.B., late of No. 11, York-terrace, Regent's Park, who died on the 5th ult., at Hyères, France, was proved on the 10th inst. by Dame Blanche Anne MacDonnell, the widow and sole executrix, to whom he gives and bequeaths all his property, real and personal. The personal estate is sworn under £18,000.

The will (dated Oct. 27, 1874) with a codicil (dated April 8, 1878) of Major Fairfax William Cartwright, J.P., D.L., late of No. 7, New Burlington-street, who died on the 2nd ult., was proved on the 9th inst. by John Locke Stratton and George William Gunning, the executors, the personal estate being sworn under £20,000. The testator devises all his freehold manors, advowsons, messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, in the counties of Middlesex, Kent, and Surrey, charged with the payment of £3000 per annum to Robert Barclay Cartwright, £500 per annum each to Fairfax Leighton Cartwright, Thomas Robert Brook Leslie Melville Cartwright, and the Rev. Frederick William Cartwright, £300 per annum to Marie Alexandrine Houteland, and £100 per annum to his cousin, Sophia Louisa Wiles, for their respective lives, to the use of William Cornwallis Cartwright, for life, with remainder to the said Robert Barclay Cartwright, for life; with remainder to his first and other sons, according to seniority in tail male; and he gives £1000 to each of his executors; £200 to his servant, Robert Houchin; £100 to the Northampton Infirmary, £50 to John Shippen Willes; the furniture and effects at his residence to the Rev. Frederick William Cartwright; his plate, horses and carriages, wherever they may be, and his house at Brackley, with the furniture, to the said Robert Barclay Cartwright; and the residue of his real and personal estate to the said William Cornwallis Cartwright. The deceased sat as member of Parliament for the southern division of Northamptonshire since 1868.

The will (dated Nov. 10, 1866) of the Right Hon. Dame Harriet, Dowager Lady Suffield, formerly of No. 3, Argyle Park-gate South, but late of No. 13, Victoria-terrace, Weymouth, who died on Jan. 3 last, was proved on the 2nd inst. by Horatio Henry Shirley, the sole executor, the personal estate being sworn under £4000. The testatrix leaves legacies to Charles, Lord Suffield, the Hon. John Harbord, the Hon. Emily Burroughes, and to her maid; and the residue of the personalty to the Hon. Harbord Harbord.

Second Issue of 5000 Shares, of which 1100 have been privately subscribed, the balance of 3900 shares being now offered to the public at par.

THE GROSVENOR GALLERY LIBRARY (Limited), New Bond-street, W. Incorporated under the Companies Acts, 1862, 1867, and 1877. Capital, £100,000, in 20,000 shares of £5 each, payable, £1 on application, £1 10s. on allotment. The first issue of 5000 shares was made during the year 1880. A second issue of 5000 is now being made, but of this number 1100 shares have already been privately subscribed. It is not proposed to call up more than one half of the nominal value of each share. Applicants to whom shares are not allotted will have their deposits returned in full.

Each allottee of ten shares and upwards shall be thereby entitled, for the period of three years, from March 25, 1880, to one annual subscription of the value of £3 3s. per annum, giving the right to six volumes at a time from the circulating library, together with the free use of the reading and writing rooms, the reference library, and all other advantages offered to a subscriber to the institution, and equivalent to a bonus of 12½ per cent per annum on the amount proposed to be called up.

DIRECTORS.

Sir Coutts Lindsay, Bart. (Chairman of the Board), 4, Cromwell-place, South Kensington, S.W.
Alexander Rivington, Esq., Arts Club, Hanover-square, W.
J. Comyns Carr, Esq., 19, Blandford-square, N.W.
George Augustus Sala, Esq., Reform Club.
Edmond S. Power, Esq., Devonshire Club, S.W.
George Chandler, Esq., 15, Colema-street, E.C.
SECRETARY.—J. Stanilish Haly, Esq.

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

This Company was registered on Dec. 20, 1879, and since that date 5000 shares have been applied for and allotted, representing a capital of £25,000, of which one half, equalling £12,500, has been called up.

In consequence of the necessary additions, decorations, &c., the premises were not opened for the transaction of the library business until March 25, 1880, and at the same time the subscribing members were admitted to the rooms which had been reserved for their use.

It was the original intention of the Directors to limit, as far as possible consistent with the proper carrying on of the business, the working capital of the company, in order that the shareholders should reap the full benefit of their investment; but the very rapid development of the Company's business within the short time that has elapsed since the date of its formation, and the growing demands of the large body of subscribers, necessitate an increase of capital, and justify them in now offering for subscription a further 5000 shares, which will be issued at par.

The progress of the undertaking during the year 1880 more than satisfies the expectations of the Directors as set forth in their original prospectus, and the distinguished and representative names that will be found in the published list of members prove that the Grosvenor Gallery Library has been already widely appreciated by the classes for whose convenience it was specially designed.

The library department, placed under the care of Mr. Charles Allen, has been so efficiently organised that it is now in a position to compete with the largest institutions of the kind in existence. In comprehensiveness it certainly surpasses any other circulating library in England; for it represents the first serious attempt that has been made to combine under a single subscription the distinct advantages of an English library supplied with every class of contemporary literature, a foreign library, to which the newly-published French and German works are added as they appear, and a library of instrumental and vocal music; while to these distinguishing features of the circulating library must be added the special advantages offered to the subscribers in the use of the Club premises reserved for the members. It is mainly to the favour shown to this branch of the undertaking that the Directors attribute the high average value of the subscriptions received during the year.

That these highly gratifying results, the fruit of only nine months' trading, are of an enduring character, is witnessed by the fact that the progression in the rates of daily subscriptions received has been steadily advancing.

During the last three months of the year 1880 the average amount of new subscriptions taken each day was nearly three times as large as the receipts of the previous three months, and since the commencement of the present year there has been a further advance of 60 per cent above the point that had been reached in 1880. Taking these results as affording a basis of calculation for the future, and at the same time making the allowance for a diminished rate of income during the summer season, the Directors anticipate an increase in the receipts for new subscriptions of £7,000 per annum; and the estimate is, indeed, fully supported by the experience of the business done since the formation of the Company, and during a time when the advantages of the Institution were not so widely known as they are at present. But to the fund estimated to be produced by the accretion of new subscribers must be added the large percentage of renewed subscriptions, which all experience of library business enables the Directors to count upon with confidence.

The Directors are advised that the contract mentioned in the original Prospectus (being an agreement dated Dec. 17, 1879, between Sir Coutts Lindsay of the one part, and Alexander Rivington, for himself and on behalf of the Company therein stated to be about to be formed, under the name of the Grosvenor Gallery Library, Limited, of the other part) is the only contract, the date and parties to which are required, by section 38 of the Companies' Act, 1867, to be specified; but, in order to prevent any question, applicants for shares shall be deemed to waive any further compliance with that enactment.

Prospectuses and Forms of Application for Shares may be obtained at the London and County Bank, 21, Hanover-square, or any of its branches; at the Office of the Company, in New Bond-street; also at the office of Messrs. Paget and Edwards, Stockbrokers, St. Stephen's Chambers, Telegraph-street, E.C.

MALVERN COLLEGE.
The NEXT TERM will BEGIN on TUESDAY, MAY 10.

NAUTICAL TRAINING COLLEGE.—THE THAMES NAUTICAL TRAINING COLLEGE, H.M.S. WORCESTER, moored off Greenhithe, Kent, is managed by a Committee of London shipowners, Merchants, and Captains. Chairman, Sir G. H. Chambers, 4, Mincing-lane, E.C.; Vice-chairman, W. Strang, Esq., 63, Fenchurch-street, E.C.; Treasurer, Thomas Daniel Hill, Esq., 4, Mincing-lane, E.C. YOUTHS from 11 to 15½ years of age, intended for the sea, are RECEIVED on board, and specially educated for a SEAFARING LIFE. The annual terms in the Upper School for Cadets from 14 to 15½ are 50 guineas, and in the Lower School for Cadets from 11 to 13, 45 guineas, with a charge to each of 10 guineas per annum for medical attendance, washing, &c. Forms and Prospectuses may be obtained on application to W. M. BULLIVANT, Hon. Sec., 72, Mark-lane, London.

ROYAL ASYLUM OF ST. ANNE'S SOCIETY'S SCHOOLS for ORPHANS and other necessitous Children of parents who have once moved in a superior station of life.

New Candidates for the JUNE ELECTION must be nominated on or before April 14.

Forms of Nomination and Lists of Subscribers can be obtained at the Office.

400 Children are under the Society's care.

Subscriptions and donations are earnestly solicited to meet the current expenses, as the Society is not endowed.

R. H. EVANS, Secretary.

Office, 58, Gracechurch-street, E.C.

ART UNION OF LONDON.—Subscription One Guinea. Every subscriber receives an impression of an important plate by A. Willmore, after Oswald W. Brierly, "The Loss of the Serapis," besides a chance of one of the numerous valuable prizes. The list will close March 31.

The print is now ready.

LEWIS POCOCK, EDMUND E. ANTROBUS, } Hon. Secs.

112, Strand, February, 1881.

WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS on LOAN for the use of Amateurs and Students. The Subscription Portfolio contains a choice collection by leading Artists. Catalogue and Terms on application.
ARTHUR ACKERMANN, 191, Regent-street, London.

DIAMONDS. SAPPHIRES. CATS'-EYES. OPALS. EMERALDS.
Mr. STREETER, 18, New Bond-street, W.
INTRODUCER of 18-CARAT GOLD JEWELLERY and ENGLISH LEVER WATCHES, (MACHINE-MADE.)
BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT, COLOMBO, CEYLON.

WALKER'S CRYSTAL CASE WATCHES are supersoding all others. Prize Medals—London, 1867; Paris, 1867. Silver Watches, from £4 4s.; Gold, from £6 6s. Price-Lists sent free.—77, Cornhill; 220, Regent-street; and 76, Strand.

THE FINEST WATCHES MADE. SEWILL'S KEYLESS WATCHES, Prize Medals, London, Paris, and Philadelphia, Damp and Dust-proof, 18-carat cases, adjusted and compensated for all climates, £20 10s., £14 18s., and £25; Ladies', £7 7s., £10 10s., and £18 18s.; in silver cases, for Ladies or Gentlemen, £5 5s., £6 6s., and £8 8s. Forwarded on receipt of remittance.—J. Sewill, 30, Cornhill, London; and 61, South Castle-street, Liverpool.

NOVELTIES IN JEWELLERY. New Styles for 1881. Gold, Silver, and Gem Jewellery of all kinds. New "Pig," "Mouse," &c.; Artificial Diamond Jewellery; Norwegian, Italian, and Mauresque filigree Jewellery; Ladies' Watches, &c. Price-List, 300 Illustrations post-free.—Jewellery Depôt, 37, Cambridge-street, Birmingham.

NOTICE. — For PETER ROBINSON'S Court and General Mourning Warehouse, "REGENT-STREET" is the only one address.

COURT MOURNING.
NEW AND INEXPENSIVE COSTUMES and the most suitable materials are to be obtained
AT PETER ROBINSON'S,
COURT AND GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, W.
Patterns free, and goods sent on approbation immediately on receipt of letter or telegram.

AT PETER ROBINSON'S, of REGENT-STREET.
The Buyers from the Several Departments have Returned from Paris
With a Beautiful and Novel Collection of
MANTLES, COSTUMES, BONNETS, MILLINERY and FLOWERS, EVENING AND DINNER DRESSES, SUNSHADES, DRESS MATERIALS, &c.
Inspection respectfully invited.
256 to 262, REGENT-STREET, LONDON.

FAMILY BEREAVEMENTS.
Upon Receipt of Letter or Telegram
PETER ROBINSON'S EXPERIENCED DRESSMAKERS and MILLINERS TRAVEL to ALL PARTS of the COUNTRY (no matter the distance) FREE OF EXPENSE TO PURCHASERS, with Dresses, Mantles, Millinery, and a full assortment of MADE-UP ARTICLES of the best and most suitable description. Also Materials by the Yard, and supplied at the same VERY REASONABLE PRICES as if Purchased at the Warehouse in "REGENT-STREET."
Mourning for Servants at unexceptionally low rates, at a great saving to large or small families.
Funerals Conducted in Town or Country at Stated Charges.
Address only to 256 to 262, Regent-street, London.
PETER ROBINSON'S.

THE BEST CRAPES,
THAT WILL NOT SPOT WITH RAIN.
Special qualities finished by the manufacturer in this desirable manner solely to the order of PETER ROBINSON.
Usual qualities from 2s. 6d. to 12s. 9d. per yard. Others, not finished by this process, from 1s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.

A SPECIAL PURCHASE.
100 PIECES OF
RICH BLACK BROCADED SILKS, very fashionable now for Costumes and Mantles, 3s. 9d., 3s. 11d., 4s. 3d., 4s. 9d., 5s. 11d., 6s. 6d.

100 PIECES OF
BLACK SATIN IMPERIAL, a New make of Satin, Rich in appearance, and wears better than any other silk. 5s. 6d., and up to 10s. 3d.

BLACK SATIN MERVEILLEUX, new this Season, 3s. 6d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 9d., 6s. 6d.

BLACK SATIN DE LYON, a good useful Silk, for Hard Wear, 3s. 6d., 4s. 11d., 5s. 11d., 6s. 6d.

BLACK DUCHESS SATIN, at 5s. 6d., 6s. 6d.; Magnificent qualities at 7s. 6d. and 10s. 6d.

BLACK SATINS (Cotton Backs), 1s. 11d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 11d., 3s. 11d.

BLACK BROCADED VELVETS, 5s. 9d., 6s. 11d., 8s. 9d., 10s. 9d.

BLACK TWILLED SILKS, for Summer Wear, at 3s. 6d., and above.

BLACK SURAT SILKS, with White Floral Designs, 2s. 11d., 3s. 6d., 3s. 11d.

COSTUMES in SILK, SATIN, and BROCADE.
Facsimiles of Exclusive Paris Models at 13 guineas and up to 20 guineas.
Materials for Bodice included.
For Patterns of the above, Please write to—
PETER ROBINSON'S, REGENT-STREET,
Nos. 256 to 262.

TEENS that young ladies are in no hurry to get out of—
"LOUIS" VELVET-TEENS.

THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN
IS SIMPLY UNIQUE.
Do not be induced by persuasion to take any other.

LOUIS
AN EXTRA PROFIT TO YOUR LOSS may be speciously made if you accept, under whatever name offered, an inferior quality of Velveteen.
"THE LOUIS"
has established its reputation so widely that even a slight inferiority would injure its repute, when constitutes A TEST OF MERIT, and guarantee of
UNSURPASSED QUALITY.
Be sure you find the words
THE "LOUIS" VELVETEEN on every yard, or you have not the
GENUINE "LOUIS,"
notwithstanding all assertions to the contrary.

LOUIS
Wholesale London Agent, J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling-street, who will send on inquiry, post-free, the names of the nearest Drapers from whom the genuine LOUIS VELVETEEN can be obtained.

JAY'S, Regent-street.
PATTERNS FREE.
PEAU DE CHAMOIS BLACK SATIN. This name has been given by a Lyons manufacturer to a special kind of Black Satin. It is made from the purest silk, is as elastic as wash leather, warranted not to crease, and will wear better than any black silk of the present day.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

PEAU DE CHAMOIS COSTUMES.—A varied series of COSTUMES, made from Peau de Chamois Satin, are produced weekly during the season. Price 6½ guineas each, including sufficient satin to make a bonnet.
JAY'S, Regent-street.

EVENING DRESSES, Black Net, Tulle, and Spanish Lace.—Messrs. JAY prepare for the season a variety of black Evening Dresses, which they can confidently recommend both for correctness of fashion and economy in price. Designs and prices postage free.
JAY'S,
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, REGENT-STREET, W.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S
WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER
THE ADMIRATION OF THE WORLD. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is perfection for its wonderful life-giving properties to faded or falling hair, and quickly changing grey or white hair to its natural youthful colour and beauty. It is not a dye. It requires only a few applications to restore gray hair to its youthful colour and lustrous beauty, and induce luxuriant growth, and its occasional use is all that is needed to preserve it in the highest perfection and beauty. Dandruff is quickly and permanently removed. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY for the HAIR. If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White Hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of the hair on bald patches where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORILINE. For the Teeth and Breath. Is the best Liquid Dentifrice in the world; it thoroughly cleanses partially-decayed teeth from all parasites or living "animalculæ," leaving them pearly white, imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath. The Fragrant Florilline removes instantly all odours arising from a foul stomach or tobacco smoke, being partly composed of honey, soda, and extracts of sweet herbs and plants. It perfectly harmless, and delicious as sherry. Sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per Bottle.

FLORIMEL OF PALM.
A white and delicate hand is the first attribute of beauty and civilisation. "The hand is the measure by which the Antiquarian Water Treatise," distinguishes man from the brute; be careful of it, for in polite society it is an index not only of the body but of the mind."
The Florimel of Palm being rubbed over the skin is to be removed with a little water, then dried with a soft towel. Once using will convince the most sceptical that, if daily used, not a too much cannot be said in favour of Florimel of Palm for rendering the skin or hands white, delicate, soft, and fair.
Sold in Jars, 2s. 6d., 5s., and 10s. each.
PIESSE and LUBIN, 2, New Bond-street, London.
May be obtained of any Chemist or Perfumer in the world.

TURKISH PASTILS.
"Through all my travels few things astonished me more than seeing the beauties of the harem smoking Narghiles at Stamboul. After smoking a sweet aromatic lozenge or pastil is used by them, which is said to impart an odour of flowers to the breath. I have never seen these breath lozenges but once in Europe, and that was at PIESSE and LUBIN'S shop in Bond-street."—Lady W. Montagu.
In Boxes, 2s.; by post, 2s. 2d.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

SWEET SACHETS.
PIESSE and LUBIN compose every variety of Sachet Powder the same odours as their many perfumes for the handkerchief. Placed in a drawer, etui, or travelling-bag, they impart a grateful and pleasing perfume without being too pungent. All Chemists in Lubin also have, on demand, Dried Odorous Flowers, Spices, and Odoriferous Gums. Per ounce, 1s. 6d.; per lb., 12s.
2, NEW BOND-STREET, LONDON.

NUDA VERITAS.—GREY HAIR restored by this valuable specific to its original shade, after which it grows the natural colour, not grey. Used as a dressing, it causes growth and arrests falling. The most harmless and effectual restorer extant. One trial will convince it has no equal. Price 10s. 6d., of all Chemists and Hairdressers. Testimonials post-free.—H. HOVENDEN and SONS, London.

GOLDEN HAIR.—ROBARE'S AUREOLINE produces the beautiful Golden Colour so much admired. Warranted perfectly harmless. Price 5s. 6d. and 10s. 6d., of all Perfumers. Wholesale, HOVENDEN and SONS, 5, Great Marlborough-street, W.; and 93 and 95, City-road, E.C.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO is the purest and most fragrant dentifrice ever made. All dentists will allow that neither washes nor pastes can possibly be a efficacious for polishing the teeth and keeping them sound and white as a pure and non-gritty tooth powder; such Rowlands' Odonto has always proved itself to be.

"AND TEETH LIKE ROWS OF PEARLS."
JEWSBURY and BROWN'S Exquisite Compound,
THE ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE.
The celebrated original and only genuine Oriental Tooth-Paste is signed "JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester. Established 30 years." PEARLY WHITE and SOUND TEETH, a healthy action of the gums, producing that firmness and rosy brightness of colour so essential to beauty, and fragrant breath, are all insured by the use of this most perfect Dentifrice. Pots, 1s. 6d.; double, 2s. 6d. All Perfumers and Chemists. Only the ORIGINAL ORIENTAL TOOTH-PASTE is signed JEWSBURY and BROWN, Manchester.

THE SKIN.—The glory of woman, the pride of man. It contains the delicate lines of beauty and constitutes that we term "loveliness"; yet how many thousands have their skins blemished by the use of the irritant soaps, Carbolic, Coal Tar, Glycerine, and the coarse coloured soaps, caustic with alkali and made of putrid fats. The more delicate the skin the quicker its ruin. The ALBION MILK AND SULPHUR SOAP is the purest, the whitest, and most purifying of all soaps, by its purifying action taking away and preventing all pimples, blotches, and roughness. It is recommended by the entire Medical Profession as the most elegant preparation for the skin that is known. 1s., 2s. 6d., and 5s. Tablets, 6d. and 1s. THE ALBION SANATORY SOAP COMPANY, 332, Oxford-street, London.

THROAT AFFECTIONS and HOARSENESS.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "lozenges" are now sold in most respectable Chemists in this country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depôt, 55, Farringdon-road, London.

"THEY HAVE NO EQUAL."
This is the universal opinion of everybody who has tried DR. SCOTT'S BILIOUS and LIVER PILLS, for bilious and liver complaints, indigestion, wind, spasms, foul breath, nervous depression, irritability, lassitude, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, heartburn, giddiness, dizziness of the eyes, &c. Being as mild and gentle in their action as they are certain in their curative effects.—Prepared by W. Lambert, 173, Seymour-place, London, W., in Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d., and sold by all Chemists. The genuine are in square green packages. Take no other.

FOR CONSUMPTION and WASTING DISEASES.—The Medicinal Food, PANCREATIC EMULSION, has been effectually surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. These famous "lozenges" are now sold in most respectable Chemists in this country, at 1s. 1½d. per Box. People troubled with a "hacking cough," a "slight cold," or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box.—Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN and SONS, Boston, U.S. European Depôt, 55, Farringdon-road, London.

BLAIR'S GOUT PILLS, THE GREAT REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM. Sold by all Chemists, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. per Box.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE.
PULVERMACHER'S "GALVANISM, NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY."
In this Pamphlet the most reliable proofs are given of the vast and wonderful curative powers of Pulvermacher's Patent Galvanic Chain-Bands, Belts, &c., in Rheumatic, Nervous, and Functional Disorders. Sent post-free for three stamps on application to
J. L. PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC ESTABLISHMENT, 194, Regent-street, London, W.

PRATT'S WATER PAD TRUSSES are the MOST EFFECTUAL CURE FOR RUPTURES. PRATT'S ELASTIC STOCKINGS, for VARICOSE VEINS, &c.
J. F. PRATT,
Surgical Mechanician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 420, OXFORD-STREET, LONDON.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.
SUBSTANTIAL ARTISTIC FURNITURE (Regd.)
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD,
NEAR TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD.

FURNISH THROUGHOUT.—OETZMANN and CO., 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, and 78, HAMPSTEAD-ROAD, near Tottenham-court-road. CARPETS, Furniture, Bedding, Drapery, Furnishing Ironmongery, China, Glass, Paper Hangings, Pictures, Bronzes, Clocks, Pianos, &c., and every other requisite for completely furnishing a house throughout. Lowest prices consistent with guaranteed quality.—OETZMANN & CO.

DINING-ROOM SUITES.—OETZMANN and CO.—Handsome Mahogany Dining-Room Suite, consisting of a Couch, Six Chairs, and two Easy-Chairs, well upholstered in best leather, price 20 guineas; superior ditto, in Oak or Spanish Mahogany, with handsome Lounge, Six Stuffed-Backed Chairs, and Two Easy-Chairs, upholstered in best leather and finished in a superior manner, price 28 guineas; handsome Early English and Mediæval Dining-Room Suites in Oak, consisting of a large Divan Lounge, Six Chairs, and two noble Easy-Chairs, upholstered in best leather and finished in the best possible manner, price 36 guineas.—OETZMANN and CO.

BEFORE PURCHASING your BEDDING, see OETZMANN and CO.'S PATENT COMPENDIUM MATTRESS, requires no other mattress, palliasse, or bed to be used with it, and is at once the healthiest, softest, most economical, and complete bed extant. Descriptive Price-List post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

LINOLEUM. — OETZMANN and CO. LINOLEUM.—Warm, soft, carpet-like in appearance, and very durable. Only the best makes sold. All the NEW DESIGNS are now in Stock. A visit of inspection solicited. Prices will be found below those usually charged for this favourite floor covering. Patterns sent into the country on application. The Trade supplied.—OETZMANN and CO.

ELEGANT TAPESTRY CRETONNE CURTAINS, in various choice designs, adapted for Drawing-Rooms, Dining-Rooms, Parlours, Bed-Rooms, &c., lined throughout with the new Cretonne Lining, and bound all round with best Silk Paris Lace, or Cretonne Binding, 3 yards long by 30 inches wide, 10s. 6d. per pair, ditto, 45 inches wide, 15s.; ditto, 3½ yards long by 45 inches wide, 15s. 6d. per pair. Also every description of materials used for Curtains. One of the largest and best Assortments in London to select from. Patterns sent post-free to the country by describing kind required.

"NEO-CLEOPATRA" TOILET-SERVICE (Registered). Messrs. OETZMANN and CO. 8 New Registered Shape and Designs, manufactured exclusively for them, and is of the most artistic design and decorations. Ewer, Basin, &c., complete from 8s. 6d. per set. Illustrated Price-Lists post-free.—OETZMANN and CO.

POSTAL ORDER DEPARTMENT. OETZMANN and CO.—Orders sent per post, whether large or small, receive prompt and careful attention. Those residing at a distance, or any be whom a personal visit would be inconvenient, desirous of leaving the selection to the firm, may rely upon a faithful attention to their wishes and interests in the selection. This department is personally supervised by a member of the firm, and O. and Co. continually receive numerous letters expressing the greatest satisfaction with the execution of orders so entrusted. Persons residing in Foreign Countries and the Colonies will find great advantage by entrusting their orders to O. and CO. For further particulars please see page 379 in Catalogue, sent free on application.—OETZMANN and CO.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, post-free.
OETZMANN & CO.,
HAMPSTEAD-ROAD.

HEAL and SON.
BED-ROOM FURNITURE.
DINING-ROOM FURNITURE.
DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE.
HEAL and SON,
195 to 198, TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD. W.

ELKINGTON and CO., MANUFACTURING SILVERSMITHS, PATENTEES OF THE ELECTRO-PLATE.

ELKINGTON and CO.
CAUTION PURCHASERS AGAINST CHEAP AND INFERIOR IMITATIONS.
Illustrated Catalogues, post-free.
ELKINGTON and CO., 22, Regent-st.; or 42, Moorgate-st., City.

CHUBB'S PATENT SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF RESISTING.

CHUBB'S SAFES FOR JEWELS, DEEDS, PLATE, BULLION, &c.

CHUBB'S LOCKS and LATCHES, CHESTS, BOXES, &c.

CHUBB'S ILLUSTRATED PRICE-LISTS POST-FREE.

CHUBB and SON, 128, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.; and 68, St. James's-street, London.

EPPS'S COCOA. GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the, natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
JAMES EPPS and CO., HOMŒOPATHIC CHEMISTS. Also, EPPS'S CHOCOLATE ESSENCE, for Afternoon Use.

FARROW and JACKSON, the largest and best Makers of IRON WINE BINS, SODA-WATER RACKS, BAR FITTINGS, SEALING-WAX, and every Article for the Dealer in or Consumer of Wines, 18, GREAT TOWER-STREET; 8, HAYMARKET; 91, MANSELL-STREET, LONDON.
Agent in Paris,
N. EDARD, 58, RUE DU DRAGON.

CARSON'S ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, Patronised by her Majesty, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, and 15,000 of the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, for every description of outdoor work, has been established upwards of eighty years, and has the reputation over every part of the habitable globe of being the best Preserver of Iron, Wood, Stone, Brick, or Compo.
It stands any extreme of climate, and seems only to harden with exposure. It is sold in all Colours.—Prices, patterns, and full particulars of free delivery, cash discount, with flattering testimonials; also list of Oils, Varnishes, Brushes, &c., can be had upon application to
WALTER CARSON and SONS,
La Belle Sauvage-yard, Ludgate-hill, London; 21, Bachelor's-walk, Dublin.
FOR EXTREMES OF CLIMATE.

CARSON'S ANTI-CORROSION PAINT is used by all the leading horticulturists for their conservatories and hot-houses, and has stood a practical test of upwards of eighty years.

1. Circulating Library. 2. Large Reading-Room. 3. Large Dining and Luncheon Room. 4. Reference Library and Reading-Room.

THE GROSVENOR GALLERY LIBRARY, NEW BOND-STREET.—SEE PAGE 307.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

REGISTERED AT THE GENERAL POST-OFFICE FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

No. 2185.—VOL. LXXVIII. SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1881. WITH TWO SUPPLEMENTS SIXPENCE. By Post, 6½d.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR: MAJUBA HILL.—SEE PAGE 318

BIRTHS.

On Feb. 21, at Eden Grove, Grahamstown, South Africa, the wife of Colonel Minto, 3rd Yeomanry Regiment, of a daughter.

On March 26, at 22, Charles-street, Berkeley-square, the wife of the Hon. Alfred Erskine Gathorne Hardy, of a son.

MARRIAGE.

On the 24th ult., at St. George's, Hanover-square, by the Rev. Octavius Hammond, Rector of Hertingfordbury, Hertfordshire, Jennings Holgate, of Staines, in the county of Middlesex, to Marion C. Stewart, stepdaughter of John Tucker, Esq., of 25, Gordon-square, and Woodrising Hall, Norfolk.

DEATHS.

On the 25th ult., at her son-in-law's residence, 2, Burwood-place, Hyde Park, Martha, widow of Michael Steel, Esq., of Begbroke House, Oxon.

On March 24, at 13, Grosvenor-crescent, Augusta, Countess of Carysfort.

On March 27, at 15, Arlington-street, Piccadilly, Sir Brooke Robertson, C.B., K.C.M.G., late H.M.'s Consul-General, Shanghai, China, aged seventy-one.

On the 16th ult., at 25, Bunhill-row, London, E.C., after a long illness, Mary, only daughter of George Shepherd, of Aberdeen, and widow of Robert Miller, of Dundee, in her 84th year.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each announcement.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 9.

SUNDAY, APRIL 3.

Fifth Sunday in Lent.
Morning Lessons: Exodus iii.; Luke vi. 20. Evening Lessons: Exodus v. or vi. 1—14; 2 Cor. vii. 2.
St. Paul's Cathedral, 10.30 a.m., Rev. Prebendary Plumptree; 3.15 p.m., Rev. Canon Liddon; 7 p.m., the Dean of Durham.
Temple Church, 11 a.m.; 3 p.m., Rev. A. Ainger, the Reader.
Westminster Abbey, 10 a.m., Rev. T. Rowsell; 3 p.m., Very Rev. the Dean, Dr. Stanley.
St. James's, noon, Bishop of Liverpool
Whitehall, 11 a.m., Very Rev. Dr. Boyle, Dean of Salisbury; 3 p.m., the Bishop of Derry and Raphoe.
Savoy, 11.30 a.m. Rev. Henry White, the Chaplain; 7 p.m., the Dean of Salisbury, Dr. G. D. Boyle.

MONDAY, APRIL 4.

Royal Institution, general monthly meeting, 5 p.m.
Musical Association, 5 p.m. (Dr. W. H. Stone on Musical Pitch).
Victoria Institute, 8 (Prof. Balfour Stewart on the Visible Universe).
Society of Engineers, 7.30 p.m. (Mr. Perry on Illumination by Compressed Gas).
Medical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Surveyors' Institution, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, Cantor Lecture, 8 p.m. (Mr. Alan S. Cole on Lacemaking).
Field-lane Refuge, &c., banquet at Freemasons' Tavern
Society for Advancement of Chemical Industry, inaugural meeting, 4 p.m.
Durham Races.

TUESDAY, APRIL 5.

Levée by the Prince of Wales at St. James's, 2 p.m.
Christian Knowledge Society, 2 p.m.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Professor Schäfer on the Blood).
Biblical Archæology Society, 8 30.
Civil Engineers' Institution, 8 p.m. (Mr. B. Baker on the Actual Lateral Pressure of Earthwork).
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Mr. E. H. Hall on Canada).
Pathological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Zoological Society, 8.30 p.m.
Chemical Society (at Royal Institution), Faraday Lecture, 8.30 p.m. (Prof Helmholtz on the Modern Development of Faraday's Conception of Electricity—in English).

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6.

Old Lady Day.
Moon's first quarter, 3.54 p.m.
College of Physicians, Lumleian Lecture, 5 p.m. (Dr. Southey on "Bright's Disease;" and on Friday).
Entomological Society, 7 p.m.
Pharmaceutical Society, 8 p.m.
Society of Arts, 8 p.m. (Professor A. H. Church on Precious Stones).
Bach Choir, St. James's Hall, 8 p.m. (Handel's "Alexander's Feast").
Hunterian Society, 8 p.m.
Naval Architects' Institution (at the Society of Arts), the Earl of Ravensworth in the chair (three days).
British Archæological Association, 8.
Asiatic Society, 8.30 p.m. (Mr. J. Fenton on Spelling Reform).
Geological Society, 8 p.m.
Amateur Mechanical Society, 8 p.m.
Obstetrical Society, 8 p.m.
South Kensington Museum, 4 p.m. (Professor Stokes, Introductory lecture on Solar Physics).

THURSDAY, APRIL 7.

Prince Leopold born, 1853.
House of Lords adjourns to May 4.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Mr. H. H. Statham on Ornament).
Archæological Institute, 4 p.m.
Civil and Mechanical Engineers' Society, 7 p.m. (Mr. B. Haughton on Rainfall).
Linnean Society, 8 p.m. (1. The Parasites of Elephants, by Professor T. S. Cobbold; 2. On the Indian Species of Primula, by Dr. Watt; 3. On the Green Colouring of the Hair of Sloths; 4. On Individual Variation in the Branchial Sac of Ascidians, by Dr. W. A. Herdman).
Royal Society, 4.30 p.m.
Chemical Society, 8 p.m.
Inventors' Institute, 8.15 p.m.
Antiquaries' Society, 8.30 p.m.
Dialectical Society, 8 p.m. (Mr. W. G. Ward on Anglo-Vaccinationism).
Philharmonic Society, Concert, 8 p.m.
Albert Hall Choral Society, 8 p.m. (Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch," &c.).
Orphan Working School, Haverstock-hill, annual festival, Willis's Rooms, 7 p.m.
University Boat Race commemorative dinner, Freemasons' Tavern.
Races: Pontefract, Warwick, Macclesfield Dog Show (three days).

FRIDAY, APRIL 8.

Christian IX., King of Denmark, born, 1818.
Cambridge Lent Term ends.
Oxford and Cambridge University Boat-Race.
United Service Institution, 3 p.m. (Captain J. C. R. Colomb on the Necessity for a Naval Intelligence Department).
Clinical Society, 8.30 p.m.
Astronomical Society, 8 p.m.
Quekett Microscopical Club, 8 p.m.
New Shakspeare Society, 8 p.m.
Royal Institution, 8 p.m. (Professor Tyndall on the Conversion of Radiant Heat into Sound, 9 p.m.).
Sacred Harmonic Society, 7.30 p.m. (Handel's "Sampson").
South Kensington Museum, 4 p.m. (Lieutenant-General Strachey on the Influence of the Sun on Terrestrial Phenomena).
House of Commons adjourns to the 25th inst.
Alexandra Park Races.

SATURDAY, APRIL 9.

Leopold II., King of the Belgians, born, 1835.
Oxford Trinity Term ends.
Physical Society, 3 p.m.
Royal Institution, 3 p.m. (Rev. H. R. Haweis on American Humorists —Artemus Ward).
Botanic Society, 3.45 p.m.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W. Height above Sea, 34 feet.

| DAY. | DAILY MEANS OF Barometer Corrected. | Temperature of the Air. | Dew Point. | Relative Humidity. | Amount of Cloud. | THERMOM. Maximum, read at 10 p.m. | Minimum, read at 10 P.M. | WIND. General Direction. | Movement in miles as read by Robinson's Anemometer at 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. | Rain. Fall at 10 a.m. next Morning. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Inches | ° | ° | % | 0–10 | ° | ° | | Miles. | In. |
| March (23) | 29·756 | 45·8 | 39·6 | 80 | 9 | 51·8 | 38·3 | W. WNW. NW. | 210 | 0·025 |
| 24 | 29·457 | 38·5 | 30·5 | 76 | 6 | 45·8 | 34·2 | NW. N. | 231 | 0·026* |
| 25 | 29·951 | 34·5 | 31·0 | 88 | 6 | 45·6 | 30·8 | SW. WSW. WNW. | 268 | 0·050* |
| 26 | 29·865 | 40·5 | 33·1 | 77 | 10 | 48·1 | 29·7 | SW. S. | 351 | 0·235* |
| 27 | 29·938 | 44·0 | 32·7 | 67 | 3 | 49·2 | 38·8 | SSW. WSW. W. | 332 | 0·055 |
| 28 | 29·495 | 37·1 | 29·7 | 78 | 9 | 44·9 | 34·1 | W. WSW. | 437 | 0·040 |
| 29 | 29·777 | 35·9 | 25·4 | 69 | 4 | 44·3 | 30·5 | WSW. S. | 140 | 0·005* |

* Snow.

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at ten o'clock a.m.:—

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Barometer (in inches) corrected .. | 29·83 | 29·70 | 29·93 | 29·85 | 29·83 | 29·49 | 29·72 | | |
| Temperature of Air .. | 45·0 | 42·3 | 34·3 | 42·6 | 47·1 | 40·1 | 37·5 | | |
| Temperature of Evaporation .. | 44·2 | 39·8 | 33·8 | 40·2 | 41·7 | 34·4 | 33·2 | | |
| Direction of Wind .. .. | W. | SW. | WSW. | S. | WSW. | W. | NW. | | |

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON BRIDGE

FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 9.

| Sunday. | Monday. | Tuesday. | Wednesday. | Thursday. | Friday. | Saturday. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. | M. h. m. / A. h. m. |
| 1 45 / 2 5 | 2 13 / 2 33 | 2 42 / 3 1 | 3 14 / 3 33 | 3 47 / 4 7 | 4 23 / 4 43 | 5 2 / 5 22 |

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED'S ENTERTAINMENT. CLOSED. Will REOPEN EASTER MONDAY, at Three and Eight with a New First Part, MANY HAPPY RETURNS, by Gilbert Arkwright and Clement Scott; Music by Lionel Benson. A New Musical Sketch, OUR INNOCENTS, by Mr. Corney Grain; and ALL AT SEA, by Arthur Law; Music by Corney Grain. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at Eight, Thursday and Saturday at Three.—ST. GEORGE'S HALL, Langham-place. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s., 5s. No Fees.

THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS.

A NEW JOURNAL FOR THE YOUNG.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

The Proprietors of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS will issue the first Illustrated Weekly Newspaper for Boys, price One Penny, on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1881. It will be entitled the 'BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS, and will be a journal full of entertainment and information for Youth, and at the same time a paper which parents can with confidence place in the hands of their children.

THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS will be edited by Captain MAYNE REID and Mr. JOHN LATEY, Junior, who will present week by week an attractive budget of Romance, Adventure, Natural History, and an interesting Summary of the World's News, especially written for Youth, each department of the paper being illustrated by eminent Artists.

Captain MAYNE REID, a Veteran in the art of story-telling for boys, will prove by his fresh and original opening Romance, "THE LOST MOUNTAIN," that his right hand has lost none of its cunning. Indeed, for concentration of interest, for rousing and yet unexaggerated episodes narrated from life, "THE LOST MOUNTAIN" exceeds even "The Scalp Hunters," "Oceola," and the countless other tales by this famous Author, whose works have been read wherever the English language is spoken, and have been translated into every Continental tongue. The same master-hand will contribute short stories of Adventure and new Notes on Natural History to THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS.

OUTDOOR SPORTS and INDOOR PASTIMES will be chronicled every week by an Old Boy, who will deal with Rowing, Running, Football, Cricket, Swimming, Fishing, and all healthy Recreations in a chatty manner, particularly acceptable to boys. Deeds of Heroism will be depicted and recorded. Wit and Humour will unfailingly find a place in THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS—the first Numbers of which, however, will best speak for themselves.

With Number 1, on April 6, will be presented, GRATIS, a carefully prepared Supplement, entitled "THE ROYAL MIDDIES," being Portraits of the Prince of Wales's Sons on board ship, accompanying which will appear the first leaf of "A Middy's Experiences."

PRICE ONE PENNY; POST-FREE, 1½d. MONTHLY PARTS, 6d.

THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS will be published by Mr. THOMAS FOX, 10, Milford-lane, Strand, London.

Orders should at once be given for THE BOYS' ILLUSTRATED NEWS to any Newsagent or Bookseller in the Kingdom, or to the Publisher.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION—
FOR THE UNITED KINGDOM:
Twelve Months, 6s. 6d.
ABROAD:
Post-free to any part of Europe, United States of America, Canada, and Egypt, for One Year, 6s. 8d.; to India, Ceylon, China, and Japan, for One Year, 10s. 10d. Elsewhere Abroad, One Year, 8s. 8d. Subscriptions to be paid in advance direct by Post-office Order, payable at the East Strand Post Office, to THOMAS FOX, 10, Milford-lane, Strand, London.

CORPORATION OF LIVERPOOL.—AUTUMN EXHIBITION of MODERN PICTURES in OIL and WATER COLOUR, 1881.
NOTICE TO EXHIBITORS.
The above Exhibition will OPEN in the WALKER ART-GALLERY, on MONDAY, SEPT. 5. The days for receiving Pictures are from Aug. 1 to 13, both inclusive.
Forms, Cards of Particulars, and all Information may be obtained on application to Mr. Charles Orrell, Curator, Walker Art-Gallery, Liverpool, to whom all Works of Art intended for exhibition should be addressed.
London Agent, Mr. James Bourret, 17, Newman-street, Middlesex Hospital.
JOSEPH RAYNER, Town Clerk, Honorary Secretary.

THE ANNUAL SPRING EXHIBITION OF HIGH-CLASS PICTURES by BRITISH AND FOREIGN ARTISTS, including Professor Leopold Carl Muller's picture, "An Encampment Outside Cairo," is now open at ARTHUR TOOTH and SONS' Gallery, 5, Haymarket. Admission, One Shilling.

DORÉ'S GREAT WORKS.—"ECCE HOMO" ("Full of divine dignity."—The Times) and "THE ASCENSION;" "CHRIST LEAVING THE PRETORIUM," "CHRIST ENTERING JERUSALEM," with all his other Great Pictures.—DORÉ GALLERY, 35, New Bond-street. Daily, 10 to 6. 1s.

THE SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of CABINET PICTURES by ARTISTS of the BRITISH and FOREIGN SCHOOLS is NOW OPEN at THOMAS McLEAN'S GALLERY, 7, Haymarket (next the Theatre). Admission, including Catalogue, One Shilling.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—Sixty-ninth Season. Patroness, her Majesty the QUEEN. Conductor, Mr. W. G. Cusins. FOURTH CONCERT, THURSDAY NEXT, APRIL 7. Repetition of "Romeo et Juliette" Symphony (Berlioz), with Orchestra and Choir of 250 Performers.—Mdlle. Hope Glenn, Mr. Frank Boyle, Signor Ghilberti; Pianoforte, Herr Hans Von Bülow.—Overture "Meistersinger-Nürnberg" (Wagner); and Vocal Selections from Schubert, Mendelssohn, and Beethoven. Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Tickets, 21s., 5s., 3s., 2s., 4s., and 2s. 6d., of Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co., 84, New Bond-street; and at St. James's Hall; and of the usual Agents. Admission 1s.

THE BACH CHOIR.—Patron, her Majesty the QUEEN. Conductor, Mr. Otto Goldschmidt. SECOND CONCERT, WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 6, at Eight o'Clock. Handel's Alexander's Feast, and Bach's Christmas Oratorio, Parts I., II., and III. Solo Vocalists—Mrs. Osgood, Miss Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Santley. Stalls, 12s. 6d.; reserved, 7s. 6d.; unreserved Area, 3s.; Gallery, 2s. Stanley Lucas, Weber, and Co., 84, New Bond-street; usual Agents'; and Austin's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall.

SOUTH LONDON CHORAL ASSOCIATION.—ST. JAMES'S HALL (Third Season).—The FIRST of THREE SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS will take place at ST. JAMES'S HALL on TUESDAY EVENING NEXT, APRIL 5, at Eight o'Clock. Tickets, 7s. 6d., 5s., 3s., and 1s., at the usual Agents, and at Austin's office, St. James's Hall.

SOUTH LONDON CHORAL ASSOCIATION.—The FIRST CONCERT this SEASON will take place at ST. JAMES'S HALL, TUESDAY EVENING NEXT, at Eight o'Clock. Vocalists—Mrs. Osgood, Madame Bolingbroke, and Mr. Joseph Maas. Violin, M. Sainton. Conductor, Mr. Leonard C. Venables. Accompanist, Mr. W. H. Harper.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Irving.—THE CUP.—THE CORSICAN BROTHERS.—Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy, THE CUP, at 7.45.—Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Irving, Mr. Terriss. THE CORSICAN BROTHERS, at 9.30.—Mr. Irving. Box Office (Mr. Hurst), open 10 to 5. Seats can be booked by letter or telegram.
THE BELLE'S STRATAGEM, APRIL 16.—This Theatre will be CLOSED in PASSION WEEK until SATURDAY, APRIL 16, when will be presented Mrs. Cowley's Comedy, THE BELLE'S STRATAGEM.—Doricourt, Mr. Irving; Letitia Hardy, Miss Ellen Terry; Mrs. Racket, Miss Fanny Young, Mr. Howe, Mr. Terriss, Mr. Fineo, Mr. Elwood, &c. Preceded by Alfred Tennyson's Tragedy THE CUP. Seats can now be booked.—LYCEUM.

BRIGHTON.—PULLMAN DRAWING-ROOM CAR TRAINS leave Victoria for Brighton every WEEKDAY at 10.0 a.m. and 4.30 p.m., and Brighton for Victoria at 9.45 a.m. and 5.55 p.m.; also from Victoria on Sundays and Good Friday at 10.45, and from Brighton at 4.30 p.m.
EVERY SUNDAY and GOOD FRIDAY.—A Cheap First-Class Train from Victoria at 10.45 a.m., calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Tickets, 10s.

THE GRAND AQUARIUM AT BRIGHTON.—EVERY SATURDAY, Cheap First-Class Trains from Victoria at 10.55 and 11.20 a.m., and London Bridge at 9.30 a.m. and 12 noon, calling at Clapham Junction and Croydon. Day Return Fare—First Class, Half-a-guinea (including admission to the Aquarium and the Royal Pavilion Picture Gallery, Palace, and Grounds), available to return by any Train the same day, except the 5.55 p.m. Pullman Car Train.
(By order) J. P. KNIGHT, General Manager.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON: SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1881.

The termination of the War in the Transvaal has given to the people of the United Kingdom an appreciable sense of relief. The war was unpopular, as well as inglorious, from the beginning. It was costly, moreover, in every way, and, so far as one could forecast the effect of it, nothing but mischief could have come of it, whether to Europeans or to Natives. It is not, however, unnatural that the manner in which the issue has been brought about should have incurred decisive condemnation on the part of Colonists at Natal. They were never very friendly with the Boers. They had no sort of sympathy with the narrow and, we may add, the selfish views of that portion of the South African community. A war brought them comparatively few sacrifices, and large gains; for the Transvaal War was carried on chiefly at the expense of the Mother Country. Doubtless, also, they were sensitive as to anything which seemed to touch the dignity of the Queen's authority and the reputation of the Queen's Army. Their pride called for an extorted submission from those who had insisted upon a return to National independence, and who had done so, hitherto, with unexpected gallantry and success. British troops were pouring into the Colony of Natal in numbers out of all proportion to those whom they were sent over to subjugate, and no doubt they would be able to accomplish the mission upon which they had been dispatched. Might was on their side, whatever the case with right; and now, suddenly, all this turmoil ceases, and, in the place of conquest, there is compromise, the main object of the Boers having been ceded to them, and the main purpose of the Government at home having been achieved. Pride has been pocketed and peace established.

All this, or, at any rate, a great part of it, is diametrically opposed to the sentiment that has commonly prevailed among the South African Colonists. May we not go a step further, and say that it is out of harmony with current ideas of Imperialism, in most parts of the world, at most times? The subordination of the power to do a thing to the claims of justice in reference to the doing of it, is rare in the policy of Nations. It requires immense moral courage on the part of the Statesman who deliberately chooses to be guided by the code of right and wrong, rather than by the dictates of power and pride. Perhaps, we shall hereafter hear as much about the Transvaal Peace, as we have already heard, or expected to hear, of the Transvaal War. Apart altogether from the special interests involved, which will, doubtless, be discussed on their own merits, one cannot but observe that the negotiations in South-Eastern Africa during the last fortnight indicate a change in the drift of British Colonial Policy, which is of far more importance than the immediate results that may grow out of it. We believe that the people of England are ready for that change; that during the late General Election they declared, and meant to declare, their desire for that change; and we hold the vote recently given in the House of Commons in respect to our retirement from Kandahar, coupled with the events which in South-Eastern Africa have culminated in Peace with the Boers, has proved no more than the concurrence of Her Majesty's Administration with the dispassionate verdict of the British people. It is a great advance upon the previous state of things. To a certain extent—to a wide extent, we may say—it shows a real improvement in the political ethics of the Empire. It marks out a channel for the flow of ambition, of patriotism, and of international morality, within the limits of which all truly noble aspirations of the mind may find full scope for exercise. It gives us a leading position in the management of human affairs. It constitutes an example which the world may one day be proud to follow. We have done what we thought just, simply because we thought it just; our glory is not to have conquered the Boers by force of arm, but to have conquered ourselves by force of conscience. Whatever the form which our action has taken, or may take, the motive is derived from a high source, and none but common-place minds are likely permanently to depreciate it.

But, in truth, Mr. Gladstone's Government have taken extraordinary pains to adapt their action to the circumstances of the case. They have surrounded the principle to which they were determined to do homage with conditions and precautions which, at the same time, display their sagacity. They have retained for the British Crown the Suzerainty of the Transvaal, while the Boers are promised complete self-government in relation to their domestic concerns. Their relations to the tribes living beyond their own frontier will be under the strictest supervision of the English Government. A British Resident in the Colony will watch over, guide, and, as far as may be necessary, restrain the action of the Transvaal Government, in so far as it may affect the interests of the inhabitant natives. There will be Free Trade. There will be no indisposition on the part of the Boers to confederation with other South African provinces for mutual defence. In short, all that we professed to have in view in the annexation of the Transvaal we shall now gain by the Treaty the details and terms of which will be settled by the three Commissioners appointed thereto by the Crown—namely, Sir Hercules Robinson, Sir Evelyn Wood, and the Chief Justice of the Cape Colony. In the negotiations which have led to peace we have retained everything we could desire except—what?—our national honour, say some; our Imperial pride, say others. We will not undertake to assimilate these phrases, nor to ascertain how far an identity between them may be established. It suffices that we have put an end to the conflict, and thus spared the further effusion of blood, on grounds of what we deem to be justice, and with a simple view to acknowledge the claims of justice.

So much for South Africa. We have but one other external point remaining in reference to which there is any cause of anxiety. The Turco-Greek Question still troubles the Cabinets of the Great Powers. The Conference of Ambassadors at Constantinople have agreed, we believe, upon a plan of Frontiers, which they are about to submit, with all the moral authority which they possess, for the acceptance of the Turkish and the Greek Government. Should they fail, as they most likely will do, in bringing about an agreement between the two Governments upon the basis of their plan, no alternative will be left, it is said, but that of war. It may be so; but this is not by any means the first time, it may be remarked, that a similar crisis has been confidently predicted upon diplomatic authority. Our hope is that the problem will be ultimately solved without any resort to arms. The Great Powers are too deeply interested in maintaining a state of peace in Europe to allow of the outbreak of a local war. It may be we are wrong, but we cannot help thinking that such an attitude will be assumed by the Allied Powers as will eventually coerce both Greece and Turkey to keep the peace.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

Let me clear the way for a consideration of the Juliet of Madame Modjeska by a brief allusion to the difficulties in the path of artists and critics alike. The critic who brings to the contemplation of his subject an unprejudiced mind and a warm sympathy, who honestly desires to be instructed and enlightened, and who is not so obstinate as to pin his faith to a preconceived conception in anything but essential points, records his impressions, which are received with more or less courtesy. His opinion is formed on what he sees; he knows nothing of what is passing behind the scenes. The actress may have been compelled to rehearse until six o'clock that morning. She may be ill, put out, nervous, harassed, and out of the vein. She may have played the part infinitely better on other occasions; but, behold! the curtain goes up, and the critic has to sit in judgment, not on what might have been, but that which is. So much the worse for the critic if he has missed the pleasure that is denied him, or has failed to recognise the impression that was intended. The artist who truly bears that name resents, on the other hand, the haste and decision of instant judgment, longs for another opportunity and a fresh chance, feels disappointed and vexed at the poor result of years of study, and is ready to make any excuse for failing to convey to the audience that which was paramount and supreme in the mind. Up to a certain point, I cannot conceive a more ideal, graceful, tender, and poetical rendering of Juliet than that of Madame Modjeska. She was a woman in all her natural purity and unsullied innocence. She cast to the winds all the obstinate heresies about Southern origin, impulsive nature, Italian blood, premature womanhood, and all the specious arguments and theories that, however clever in themselves, tend to degrade and debase the most beautiful and natural woman that even Shakspeare ever drew. The Juliet of Madame Modjeska is not a woman of one clime; but the embodiment of all that is beautiful and pure in womanhood. I have seen Juliet played many times with more or less skill, but seldom has such a fragrant sense of poetry been instilled into the opening scenes. The contemplation of the dawning of this love of Juliet's was as pleasant as watching the opening of a flower. Inclosed as I am in this dark prison of London, and denied the awakening notes of nature, I have some hyacinths close to my desk whose growth and beauty I watch from time to time. The study of Juliet's love-birth was just as soothing to the imagination.

All sense of the theatre and its tendencies vanished. The very atmosphere was purified. I saw the meeting of those young pure hearts, the doubt on the one side, the anguish on the other. I seemed to see the mutual impression of the first kiss of love, the combat of modesty, bashfulness, and daring, the tournament and tilting of inclination and repression; and it seemed to me that when Juliet, with all maiden modesty, shuddered at the contact of Romeo, or shaded her eyes at the mention of matrimony, or with womanly abandonment covered her blushing face with the strayed tresses of her hair, that art had done exactly what Shakspeare intended her to do. I am conscious that I am in a minority here. Those for whose opinions I have the highest respect cannot feel these scenes as I do. They consider the coming up against the lattice for the first embrace, and the shading of the face with the hair, as abominable and indefensible. They consider them tricks of the most meretricious kind. How strangely men's minds differ! To me they are charged with poetry and by means of art as untheatrical as anything that can be conceived. But when Madame Modjeska has arrived at the balcony scene and suggested so much, I want to know why she cannot continue? My mind is as open to impression as ever—artist and audience are in tune—the love story is not near its completion—indeed, it has scarcely commenced.

An eminent foreign critic crosses swords with me at this instant moment of doubt. He says that the English do not understand the creation of Shakspeare; that they are not persuaded how love, absolute, supreme, and complete, is the mainspring of the play, and that, having obtained ideality up to the balcony scene, they obstinately look for the great dramatic effect in the potion scene and the death. And why not? It seems to me that the scene with the nurse at Romeo's banishment; the scene in the Friar's cell, when Juliet steels herself for the dread encounter; and the potion scene, with all its doubts, anxiety, and horror, lead, step by step, gradually, artistically, and completely, to the triumphant death. What is the climax of this sublime tragedy of love? Am I to believe, with Coleridge, that this terror-stricken Italian girl, a child of fifteen, "swallowed the draught in a fit of fright?" Am I to follow Mrs. Jameson in her notion of the "infantine simplicity of Juliet?" Honestly, I cannot do so. I find in her the most signal example of love-inspired heroism in woman that the master Shakspeare has ever given. When the Friar gives her the potion, what is she but a heroine? When she conjures up the terrors of the grave, sees in her imagination her murdered cousin's ghost, and risks all sooner than lose Romeo, what is she but a heroine? When, her husband having died upon her bosom, she expires upon his lips, still warm, she is a heroine. And I maintain that an actress who does not see in these steps towards the climax the finest elements in the love story does not give the character its highest meaning.

To demand love heroism in the potion scene and love triumph in the death, is merely to carry on the story of love to its legitimate issue. Juliet does not die out after the balcony scene, but increases in power; and it is because, to my mind, there is no reason why the Juliet should yield in force, in persuasion, in eloquence, and in influence, that I disagree with some important portions of this conception. No doubt Madame Modjeska has an idea, for she is an artist; but she failed to convey that idea to my mind, as she had conveyed it up to a certain point of the play. She certainly failed to convey it to the audience, for the depression was obvious. The poetical flavour of which I was so conscious in the opening scene certainly was increased by the Romeo of Mr. Forbes Robertson, who, habited as a picturesque Florentine of the fifteenth century, bore himself with manliness and grace, and thoroughly rendered himself to the passion of the scene. "No fellow ever made love like that before," said a dull, positive, essentially modern, cigarette-smoking, and unimaginative young man sitting behind me in the stalls, whose mind was as impervious to poetry and passion as a flint. I can present Mr. Robertson with no better compliment. The tone and attitude of young men to young women of the present day is not that of the fifteenth century. Some of them, unfortunately, have as much horror of delicacy and refinement as poor people have of cold water. The love that is in them is wholly bestowed upon themselves; their abject refrain is "don't you know:" but they are amongst our judges of art. A welcome and original rendering of Mercutio by Mr. Wilson Barrett, culminating in a highly studied and effective death scene, was a prominent feature of this revival; and I only hope that the "tableau curtain" has been abolished in order that the scenes properly restored to Shakspeare may be enjoyed.

The Alhambra is just the last Theatre in London where anyone ought to be permitted to yawn. Sleep should be impossible in the magnificent and imposing temple where, once upon, a time I heard organs play, saw prismatic fountains rushing up from basement to roof, and listened to the late Mr. Leicester Buckingham lecturing on fairyland in bygone days of the Panopticon; and where again in aftertimes I saw the graceful Leotard skimming like a bird over the supper tables, and Olmar walking on his feet round the ceiling, before a wild set of Parisian dancers turned the place from a magistrate's music-hall into a Lord Chamberlain's theatre. No! I cannot imagine why anyone should be permitted to take forty winks at the Alhambra; but many people will continue to do so unless the new opera, "Jeanne, Jeannette, and Jeanneton," is ruthlessly deprived of one half of the spoken dialogue, which, I am sure, is extremely clever, but am convinced that nobody can hear. The music by Lacome is soothing and satisfactory, and given to perfection by the noble band of M. Jacobi. The pretty graceful songs tell, every one of them, when rendered by Miss Alice May, by Miss Constance Loseby, as true of voice and as earnest in her art as in the old days of the Princess de Trebizonde at the Gaiety; and by Miss St. Quentin, the latest recipient of public favour; but the effect of all is considerably hampered by the explanatory dialogue, which reads well, of course, for it is written by Mr. Robert Reece, an expert in such matters; but on the stage it acts very badly. The eye, as it turns over the countless pages of wasted libretto, longs for the relief of a musical number; the judgment is astonished that Mr. Penley, who was so funny at the Strand, is engulphed in the vastness of the scene; and when the ballets come on with the welcome faces of Gillert and Palladino and Pertoldi, with their brightness and richness and vivacity, and with a myriad dancers in their Louis Quinze costumes and pleasant patches of turquoise blue, I wonder that any interval is permitted between song and dance. Pertoldi seemed to be put on her mettal by the first appearance of Palladino, and she danced as she has seldom danced before, winning by acclamation a most exhausting encore. What with one thing and another, the richness of the banquet or the excess of the hospitality, we were not out of the Alhambra on Monday until close upon midnight—a good hour too long. Of course, all this will be altered, as it was with "Michael Strogoff," by dint of excision or closer playing; but it seems a pity that rehearsals cannot discover what is so sufficiently obvious. I hear that the keen-sighted and intelligent Mr. Howard Paul, who has travelled all over the world, and knows America, Paris, and London by heart, has been appointed manager of this important "show" of London. No man by experience understands the public better. The Crystal Palace and the Alhambra are institutions of a peculiar and original kind. Both require showmen who have some taste and refinement to back up their comprehensive knowledge of the spirit and tendency of the age. The Alhambra has certainly obtained such a director in Mr. Howard Paul, and if he does not increase the reputation of the Alhambra he will sustain it.

On the other side of the square, where, adjoining Leicester House, stood the large mansion formerly the residence of the patriotic Sir George Saville, who introduced the Catholic Relief Bill which led to the Gordon Riots in 1780, will now be found another important show. Saville House, though a ruin ever since 1865, when I saw it burnt to the ground in a couple of hours, has been a show-place for eighty odd years. Miss Linwood exhibited her needlework for forty-five years, and in later times the exhibitions were not so artistic and respectable. But a change has come: a French company has taken a lease of a property in the heart of their own colony, and French artists, MM. Poilpot and Stephen Jacob, have painted a panorama of the Crimea at the moment of the charge of the Light Brigade. I daresay thousands of my readers have seen the panorama of the Siege of Paris in the Champs Elysées, and wondered at its power of deception. The Balaclava panorama in Leicester-square is designed on the same plan. A rich foreground of turf, broken ground, rough scrub, and wasted broom, covered with dead men, dead horses, ambulance waggons, scattered swords, and spent shells, fades imperceptibly into painted canvas. The illusion is very surprising, and the arrangement highly artistic, and only those who have seen the panorama in Paris will be in any way disappointed. The effect of distance is not so imposing as in Paris, purely from want of space; the spectators' platform is not so wide; and the velarium wants heightening; but many of these difficulties can be easily remedied. Crimean officers come and make their pleasant critical remarks, and find little faults in technical detail, inaccuracies in uniform, and blemishes in a scene that has now passed into history; but, on the whole, this imposing work may be accepted as a faithful transcript of a glorious moment in the history of England's prowess and undaunted bravery. The picture is at once sad and stirring. It is gloomy enough, with its blood-stained ground, dead heroes, and embowelled horses; it is brilliant with its record of magnificence, though war it may not have been, according to the authority of a famous French epigram.

I hear wonderful accounts of the success of some Ballad Concerts for the People that have been started by a committee of practical philanthropists at the Royal Victoria Coffee Music-Hall, in the Waterloo-road. The scene is none other than the old Coburg, the home of blood-and-thunder melodrama, the transformed, swept and garnished Queen Victoria's Own Theayter, as immortalised by Mrs. Brown; and I am particularly delighted to convey the welcome intelligence because I am quite certain that music-halls have in them grand opportunities, were they only worked upon principles of free trade and fair play. All the theories of the experts in music-halls have been upset thoroughly and completely by this triumphant success. They declared that nobody would go near the place without doggrel songs by lions comiques, and all the trashy vulgarity of the modern music-hall. But this is evidently just what the people do not want. The hard-working, enthusiastic dwellers in the New-cut crowd the place to suffocation to hear Sir Julius Benedict play, and Miss de Fonblanque sing. The better the music the more it is appreciated; and the rough working-men are as courteous, as enthusiastic, and appreciative as the fashionable folk at St. James's Hall. William Congreve was right.

> Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast,
> To soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak.

And I wish the fact could be brought home to those who, by perpetuating our absurd licensing system, deprive music-hall managers of the power of giving the people the very entertainment that might be productive of more good than a thousand sermons. Just think of the contrast, and ponder on it, ye excellent philanthropists. Threepenny galleries filled to overflowing, and a pit crammed with men fresh from their work to hear and to applaud rapturously a cavatina by Raff and a rêverie by Vieuxtemps, on the very spot where, a few nights before the old "Vic" closed, "I saw," writes Mr. Ernest Hart, "a wretched drunken woman dividing a glass of gin at the gallery bar between herself, a little boy of seven years' old, and a baby at her breast." What a pity it is that we have no Hogarth to startle society with these truths of contrast!

C. S.

MR. AND MRS. GERMAN READ'S ENTERTAINMENT.

Mr. Gilbert A'Beckett and Mr. Clement Scott having put their heads together, have embodied several appropriate philosophical reflections and lyrical effusions in a new "first-part" or play recently produced at the well-known entertainment at St. George's Hall. The notion contained in "Many Happy Returns" is the case with which a disagreeable cantankerous person with views can set a happy household by the ears, introduce unworthy suspicion, and turn sunshine into rain. Never was there a happier family than that of Dr. Dundas Daisy before the arrival of the pompous and priggish Professor Septimus Styx. He has views that out Lavater-Lavater: in every simple action he detects an unworthy motive. He misinterprets signs and concealment of birthday presents, and he is on the point of making a cheerful birthday end miserably, when a chance explanation explains the mystery and untangles the skein. The little piece is capitally acted by Mr. Corney Grain, an enthusiastic French Marquis; Mr. Alfred Bishop, the pedantic pessimist; Mr. Alfred Reed, the cheery old doctor; Miss Edith Brandon, a charming granddaughter; and Miss Leonora Braham, the merry little housekeeper. The music is by Mr. Lionel Benson, and is of a light, pleasing, and satisfactory character. After a short rest, dating from Monday next, the entertainment will be closed until Easter-time, when the prominent feature will be "Many Happy Returns."

STATE OF IRELAND.

At the meeting of the Irish Land League in Dublin on Tuesday Mr. Dillon, M.P., and Mr. Healy, M.P., stated, as the result of their visits to various parts of Ireland during the past fortnight, that "the people" were more determined than ever in their spirit of resistance. The League last week received altogether £3500, being the largest sum obtained in any one week since the League was established.

One of the speakers, a parish priest, at a land meeting in the county of Tipperary on Monday, boasted that the Coercion Act had left Boycotting untouched, and he added that without Boycotting the Land League would fall to pieces. Mr. Dillon, M.P., vindicated his recent attack upon Judge Fitzgerald. He counselled Irish tenants not to pay any unjust rent except at the bayonet's point.

Baron Dowse, in opening the Wexford Assizes, said he had received another threatening letter since his arrival in Wexford.

Some cases exemplifying the dangers of process serving in the south came before Judge Warren, sitting on Monday as Chamber Judge for the Common Law Divisions.

At Midleton, county Cork, last week, a mob wrecked the house of the chairman of the local branch of the Land League because he had, contrary to his avowed intention, paid his rent in full.

Kelliher and Murphy, who were on Thursday week convicted at the Cork Assizes of "Boycotting" Jeremiah Hegarty, merchant, Mill-street, were on Monday morning sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment each.

Michael Daly was fired at and dangerously wounded at Ballinahown, county Westmeath, on Monday. His life is despaired of. The crime is believed to be connected with recent disputes about land.

Mr. Edward E. Kay, Q.C., has accepted the judgeship vacant by the resignation of Vice-Chancellor Malins.

Mr. Gladstone was on Tuesday unanimously elected president of the Edinburgh Philosophical Institution, in the place of the late Mr. Carlyle.

The Earl of Aberdeen has been appointed Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

Lord Beaconsfield has been suffering severely from gout and bronchial asthma; but, at the time of our going to press, the medical reports indicated some improvement. His Lordship was regaining strength.

Mr. Charles Cooper, the editor of the Scotsman, has been elected a member of the Reform Club by the Political Committee, under a rule empowering that body to elect two members in each year who have rendered "marked and obvious services to the Liberal cause."

Her Majesty has approved of the appointment of Major-General J. F. Wilson, C.B., as Member of the Council of the Viceroy of India, in succession to General Sir Donald M. Stewart, G.C.B., who has recently been appointed Commander-in-Chief in India.

The Queen has been pleased to ordain that Agnes Mary Manners Tollemache and Agatha Manners Tollemache, the sisters of William John Manners, now Earl of Dysart, shall henceforth have, hold, and enjoy the same title, place, pre-eminence, and precedence as if their late father had succeeded to the title and dignity of Earl of Dysart.

On Tuesday night the members of the joint Midland and North-Eastern Circuits entertained Mr. Justice Cave at dinner in the Inner Temple Hall, the use of which was specially granted for the purpose, in order to celebrate the learned Judge's recent elevation to the Bench. The chair was occupied by Mr. Alfred Wills, Q.C.

The following candidates for her Majesty's Indian Medical Service were successful at the competitive examination recently held at Burlington House:—H. J. Griffiths, F. D. C. Hawkins, A. Milne, J. A. Cunningham, A. G. E. Newland, H. C. Hudson, P. Mullane, A. Silcock, R. J. Baker, J. W. Rodgers, R. G. Cooper, M. B. Braganza, H. W. Stephenson, W. A. Corkery, A. J. L. Patch, R. Ross, S. T. Avetoom, C. A. Adams, J. F. Maclaren, J. K. Kanga, E. R. Da Costa, and A. J. O'Hara.

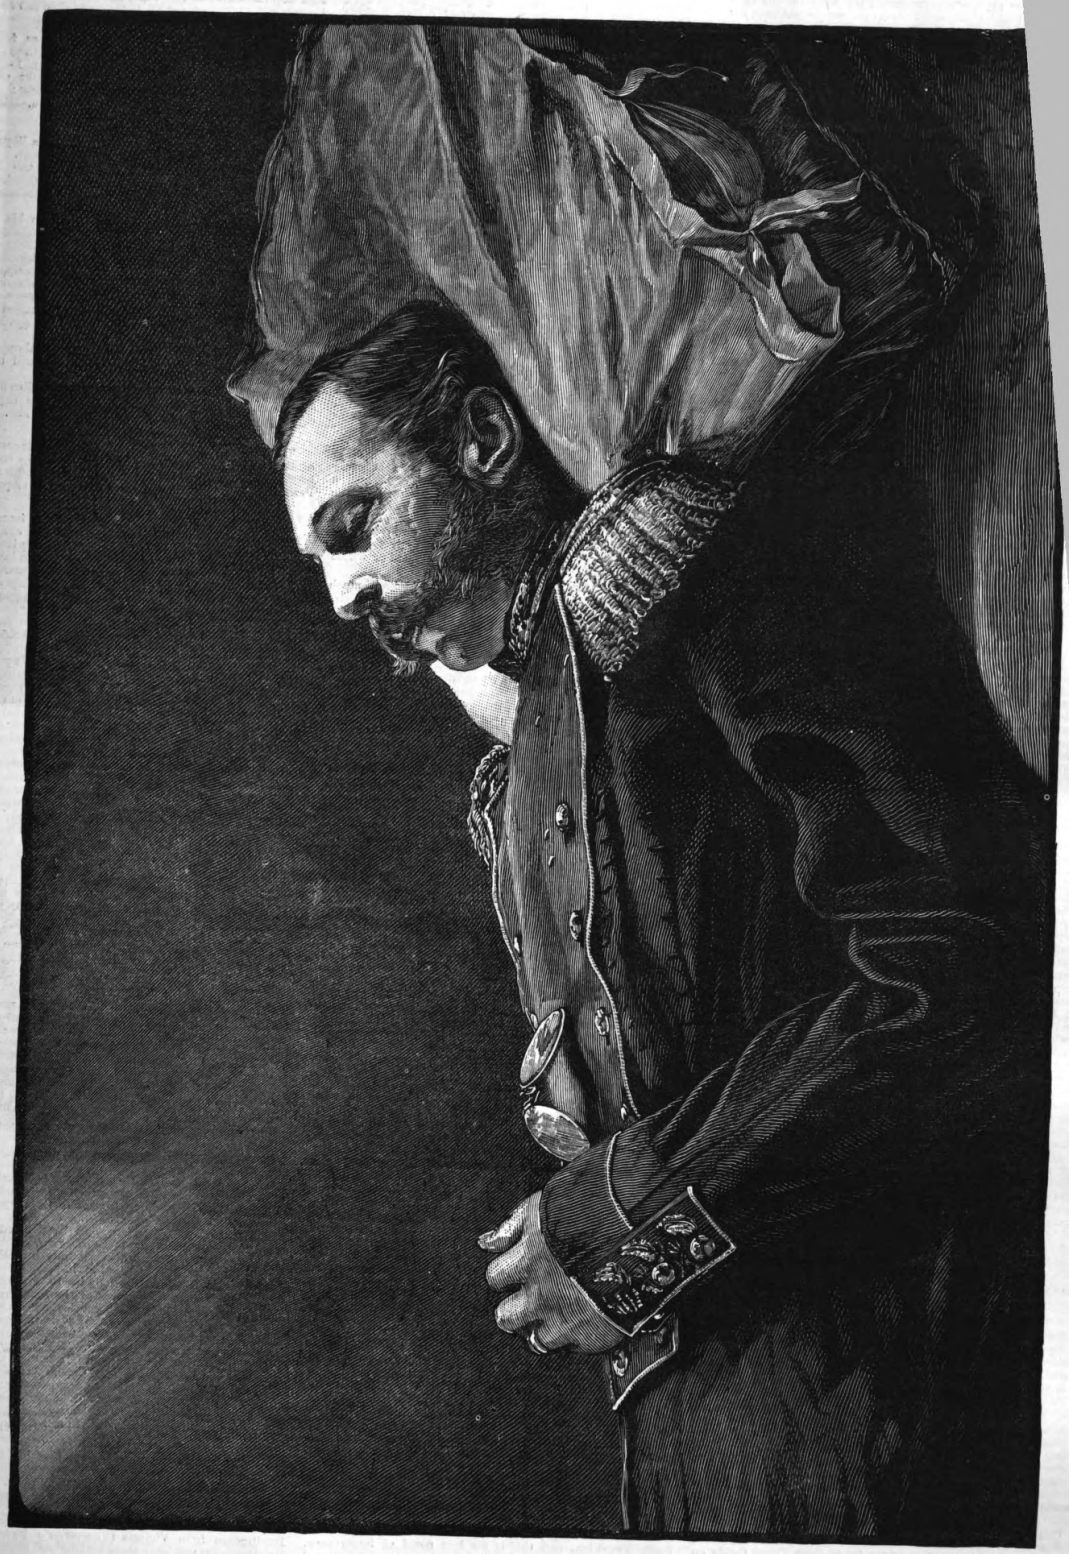
A meeting was held yesterday week in the Egyptian Hall of the Mansion House for the purpose of promoting the proposal to erect a statue on the Thames Embankment as a memorial of William Tyndale, who first translated the New Testament from Greek into English, and who afterwards suffered martyrdom. The chair was taken by the Lord Mayor, who was supported on the platform by the Earl of Shaftesbury, Dr. Moffat, the Bishop of Cork, the Rev. Canon Fleming, and others. The statue is estimated to cost £4000. An appeal is to be made to the whole English-speaking people.

1. Laing's Neck. 2. Hill attacked by 58th Regiment, Jan. 28. 3. Road from Newcastle to Transvaal. 4. Road from Prospect Hill Camp to Laing's Neck.

THE TRANSVAAL WAR: THE BOERS' POSITION AT LAING'S NECK.

WITH THE NATAL FIELD FORCE: AN OUTLYING PICKET AT DAWN.

OUR SPECIAL ARTIST ON HIS WAY TO THE FRONT.



THE LATE EMPEROR ALEXANDER II. OF RUSSIA

THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

The welcome news of the cessation of this wretched and mistaken conflict has already been made known. It involves the frank concession of self-government to the Boers, reserving to the British Crown a title of supremacy, or "suzerainty," with the control of all foreign relations; the appointment of a British Resident, to ensure the observance of stipulations for the fair treatment of the native tribes; and the retention of some eastern border districts under British government. These terms are such as we have, from the first, considered to be just and reasonable; they were recommended, more especially with regard to the territorial delimitation, in our comments upon the subject on Jan. 22 and Jan. 29, as well as since the armistice began, on March 8, for the opening of peace negotiations. An absolute and unconditional restoration of the former "South African Republic," as it was styled, with its pretensions to own the eastern districts, adjacent to Zululand, and to the Swazi and other native tribes, whom the Boers had never actually subdued, did not seem to be admissible, since the wars of the British Government against Cetewayo and Secocoeni have introduced quite a new state of affairs. This view has apparently been adopted in the recent negotiations, with the consent of the Boer leaders, Messrs. Joubert, Krüger, and Pretorius, whose conferences with Sir Evelyn Wood, aided by the mediation of Mr. Brand, President of the Orange Free State, have achieved a most satisfactory result. The task of marking out the proposed territorial cession, which will include the district of Utrecht, New Scotland, Londina and Luneburg, on the Zulu frontier, and Lydenburg, with the Gold-fields, northward to Olifant's River, is intrusted to the Royal Commissioners, as well as that of prescribing the powers to be exercised by the British Resident in the Transvaal, for the protection of the native tribes. The Commissioners to be appointed are Sir Hercules Robinson, Governor of the Cape Colony, Major-General Sir Evelyn Wood, Governor of Natal, and Sir Henry de Villiers, a Dutchman, Chief Justice of the Cape Colony, who has, from the date of the annexation of the Transvaal four years ago, been a consistent and highly influential advocate of the rights of the Transvaal, and of its claim to domestic independence. There is every reason to hope that the labours of these gentlemen, with the willing co-operation of Mr. Brand, Mr. Joubert, and other Dutchmen of political experience, will make full and secure provision for all legitimate interests, leaving to the people of the Transvaal an ample measure of freedom to manage their own affairs.

In the prospect of such a happy settlement for the future, we are little disposed to dwell much longer upon the abortive military operations lately attempted by Sir George Colley against the Boers' position at Laing's Neck; but our Special Artist, Mr. Melton Prior, has reached the scene of action, and we have also received, from one or two occasional correspondents, Sketches that will serve to illustrate the hard-fought actions of Jan. 28, Feb. 8, and Feb. 27. Our view of the entire position, with the roads from Newcastle and from the British Camp at Prospect Hill, by which Sir George Colley advanced on Jan. 28, and with the Pass at Laing's Neck and the hill up which the 58th Regiment made the attack, fills an Engraving that extends the length of one page. It is from a Sketch by Captain Ernest Thurlow, of the 60th Rifles, who also contributes that of a picket of the Natal Field Force, roused at break of day—and wrapping their shivering bodies in their great-coats—upon the occasion of a dubious alarm, which their officer tries to make out by the use of his field-glass, beyond the ken of the vigilant sentries at their post. Our Special Artist, meanwhile, as a lonely traveller on horseback, "remote, unfriended, solitary, slow," is seen making his way to the front, over those rough and hilly roads of Natal, which he traversed in his way to the Zulu campaign two years ago. He is twenty miles from the nearest posting-house or shelter, overtaken by a violent rainstorm; and we trust that the readers of this Journal, for whose entertainment he is put to such hardships, will not be unmindful of their obligations to Mr. Prior. A View of Majuba Hill, the scene of the last disastrous conflict on Feb. 27, when Sir George Colley was killed, appears on our front page. The Engraving presented for our Extra Supplement shows the scene of Jan. 28, on the slope below Laing's Neck, when so many British soldiers lay there wounded, and when, as Sir George Colley testified, the Boers treated them with much humanity, offering what comforts and refreshments they had, though no medical or surgical assistance could be obtained, except from the British camp, nearly four miles distant.

We trust that Englishmen and Dutchmen, who ought to be friends, will never again be compelled to meet each other with hostile intent. The very latest incident of that kind has been announced in the present week. The news has arrived that the fort at Potchefstroom surrendered on the same day that the peace conditions were signed. It was compelled to do so by want of provisions; but during the previous siege there was some hard fighting, in which eighteen men of the British garrison were killed and ninety wounded. The Boers also captured 3000 rounds of ammunition and two guns, which will be restored to the British Government.

The Basuto war has recommenced; and a telegram received at the Colonial Office from Sir Hercules Robinson, dated March 26, states that hostilities were resumed in Basutoland. Major Lawrence had been killed at Leribe, and Colonel Carrington was wounded at Boleka, where a large force of natives is intrenched.

General Sir F. Roberts and General Newdigate, with their staff, arrived at Capetown on Monday, but were immediately to return to England. Of the troops lately sent out, one regiment is to stay at Capetown, and one at Natal, but the rest are to come back, or go on to India.

---

Sir Horace Rumbold, now her Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Buenos Ayres, will be appointed to Stockholm in the same capacity, on the retirement of the present Minister, the Hon. E. M. Erskine, C.B.; and Mr. George Glynn Petre, now her Majesty's Chargé-d'Affaires at Stuttgart, will succeed Sir Horace Rumbold at Buenos Ayres.

Roumania is henceforth to be called the Kingdom of Roumania. The Senate and Chamber of Deputies at Bucharest unanimously passed, last Saturday afternoon, a vote proclaiming Prince Charles as King of Roumania. The members went on Sunday in a body to the Palace, where "His Majesty" signed the Act authorising the change, and at night the town was illuminated. Great festivities and illuminations have taken place in all the towns of Roumania.

A conference was being held between the Governor of Cape Coast Castle and the Ashantee Envoys on March 20, at which time all was quiet there. Sir Samuel Rowe, the new Governor of the Gold Coast, was sworn in at Cape Coast Castle on March 12. The Kings of Adansi and Becquali met his Excellency at Elmina, on which occasion they acknowledged their allegiance to British supremacy and offered their assistance in the event of war with Ashantee. The Ashantees are not, however, expected to fight.

PARISIAN SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Paris, Tuesday, March 29.

M. Gambetta is decidedly trying to imitate the ways of English statesmen in putting himself into after-dinner communication with various commercial corporations. During the past week he presided over three trade banquets and delivered three speeches. The last and most important speech was that given on Friday night at the banquet of the Union Nationale du Commerce et de l'Industrie, at the Grand Hôtel. M. Gambetta uttered many words and many resonant phrases on this occasion. He pronounced a panegyric of trade and labour; developed the importance of practical studies of commercial questions such as he was then pursuing in dining with the members of the Commercial and Industrial Union; and once more explained that opportunist policy of which he is the champion, and which consists in taking into account circumstances and conditions, and in passing successively through all the necessary stages in order to attain the desired end. M. Gambetta even pronounced the words "experimental politics." What little clear and precise statement and promise M. Gambetta's speech contains has given much satisfaction in commercial circles, and whatever may be thought of the speech from a literary point of view, it is highly opportune from the point of view of politics.

The phrase "experimental politics" has furnished M. Emile Zola, the celebrated novelist, with the theme of a curious article on M. Gambetta. M. Zola, referring to the persistent attempts of the advanced Radicals and of the Reactionaries to make out that M. Gambetta is aiming at the dictatorship, remarks that since 1789 the French nation has sown Republics to reap only Monarchies. Now the French are busy making M. Gambetta from a citizen into a king. "In spite of himself, in spite of us," writes M. Zola, "he is taking a more and more considerable place, and one fine morning he may be called upon to play the part of a saviour. What does this mean? It is a simple scientific phenomenon, a remote habit of our soil, an effect of heredity in our race. M. Gambetta, who occupies a secondary place in the state, cannot appear without being proclaimed the beloved prince, at whose hands the nation expects happiness. Journals have been sold to him, other journals have been founded to destroy him, so that every morning his name re-echoes in all the trumpets of renown, a deafening music that makes him the unique man of the moment. He is more than the future King, he is the god of the present hour. We remain," concludes M. Zola, "a people of faithful subjects who, the day when they have killed their king, begin to make another king, by instinct and unwittingly, out of the first man whose strong hand or whose grand phrases move our feelings."

The time of the Senate and Chamber has been much taken up during the past week with useless interpellations, one only of which, that of M. Madier de Montjau, needs to be recorded. M. de Montjau interpellated the Government on the prosecution of five newspapers on the charge of glorifying the assassination of the Czar. M. Cazot, Minister of Justice, justified the action of the Government, principally on the ground that France was not an isolated nation, and that she could not afford to allow foreign potentates to be insulted as long as a law existed punishing that offence. This point will doubtless again be brought forward in the final discussion of the new Press Bill.

The report of the Parliamentary Committee of Inquiry into the Cissey scandal has been issued. It pronounces General de Cissey to be innocent of the charges brought against him.

The Champs-Elysées since Saturday have assumed a more animated appearance than ever. The square in front of the Palais de l'Industrie is black with closely packed carriages of all descriptions, and here and there you see a crook-legged and yellow-booted jockey exercising a horse carefully swathed in bright-coloured cloths. These phenomena are explained by the fact that the annual horse show opened on Saturday and will remain open until April 12. In the afternoon, when the races and trials take place for the various prizes, the Palais de l'Industrie is now the resort of the celebrities of the sporting and fashionable world—terms that are in Paris almost synonymous, le sport being for the moment considered eminently chic.

The terrible catastrophe at the Nice Opera-House has naturally caused great excitement here; for, with the single exception of the Grand Opera, not one of the Paris theatres is at all secure in case of fire. The Opéra-Comique, the Odéon, and the Théâtre-Français have wide and numerous issues into the street; but these theatres, like all the smaller theatres, are arranged in such a manner that half the spectators are practically the prisoners of the other half. In no theatre in Paris is there a central aisle in the orchestra stalls, and in all parts of the house the side aisles are encumbered with stools and strapontins, while communication between the lobbies and the different parts of the houses exists only by ridiculously narrow and dark passages, generally rendered more dangerous by two or three steps. A panic in almost any Parisian theatre would mean death to hundreds. Meanwhile the Parisians, with their usual generosity, are opening their purses for the benefit of the sufferers of the catastrophe at Nice. Subscription-lists have been opened, and a grand benefit performance is to be given shortly at the Trocadero.

Deaths of the week:—On Wednesday last, at the Grand Hôtel, died Nicolas Rubinstein, brother of the composer, Anton Rubinstein, a pianist of talent and director of the Conservatoire of Moscow; Oscar de Lafayette, senator, grandson of the famous General Lafayette, died on Saturday last, at the age of sixty-six; and Auguste de Châtillon, painter, sculptor, and poet, died last week, at the age of seventy-three. He was one of the early and ardent Romanticists, and must have been one of the famous Hierro band which Théophile Gautier commanded in the pit of the Théâtre Français on the ever-memorable night of the first performance of "Hernani."

The theatres at the present moment offer little interest. The season is drawing to a close, and, as it has not been a very brilliant one, at many theatres unsuccessful pieces are giving place to revivals. Gounod's new opera, "Le Tribut de Zamora," will be produced at the Opera on Friday, unless, as seems not improbable, circumstances cause it to be delayed until that day week. At the Gymnase, a piece in three acts by two young authors, called Miss Fanfare, was played last Friday. It is well written, but of no dramatic merit, and not destined to success.

Unfortunately, one can rarely recommend modern French novels to the perusal of our innocent and pure English girls. An exception must be made in favour of "Césette" (Paris, Lemerre), a tale of rustic love, the scene of which is laid in the south of France, near Montauban. The author is M. Emile Pouvillon, and this is his first novel of importance. The style is admirable, and its merits have been recognised unreservedly by some of the most scrupulous critics. I may mention also the publication of the third and concluding volume of Colonel Jung's important work on "Bonaparte et Son Temps" (1 vol. Paris, Charpentier). T. C.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

ITALY.

The Government obtained a majority of 191 votes against 103 on Signor Nicotera's proposal to postpone the vote on the navy when the marine budget is discussed.

Marquis Pepoli, formerly one of the leaders of the revolutionary movement in Italy, and afterwards Commissioner of Umbria and Ambassador at St. Petersburg, died last Saturday.

PORTUGAL.

The Cabinet has been finally constituted as follows:—Senhor Sampayo, Premier and Minister of the Interior; Senhor Barros, Minister of Justice; Senhor Lopo Vaz, Minister of Finance; Colonel Castro, Minister of War; Senhor Dantes, Minister for Foreign Affairs; Senhor Velhersa, Minister of Marine; Senhor Riveiro, Minister of Public Works.

GERMANY.

In both Houses of the Cortes on Tuesday a Royal decree was read adjourning the Session until May 30 next.

Prince Bismarck has been directed by the Emperor William to convey his Majesty's heartfelt thanks to all those who forwarded to him their congratulations on the occasion of his birthday.

On receiving a congratulatory telegram on his birthday from Alexander III., the Emperor William exclaimed, "To hear the old accustomed accent of cordial friendship and trust from the lips of the son and successor does my heart good."

On the question of the right of the German Reichstag to be heard before funds are appropriated by the Government for the carrying out of the incorporation of the town of Altona into the Zollverein, on which a conflict has arisen between Prince Bismarck and the Liberals, a vote of 176 against 58 has declared in favour of the right of Parliament.

The German Government has become so alarmed at the extent of emigration that a series of measures will be devised to control this efflux of the population.

Orders were issued on Saturday last by the police authorities of Berlin, according to the Tagblatt, for the expulsion of eighteen persons in virtue of the Anti-Socialist law.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY.

The marriage of the Crown Prince with Princess Victoria of Baden will, it is stated, take place about the end of September, at Stockholm. His Royal father having now recovered, Prince Oscar will probably return to Carlsruhe in April or May.

AUSTRIA.

The following order of the day has been issued by the Emperor to the army:—"In order that the close personal friendship which existed between myself and the late Emperor Alexander II. and the special favour which the latter always manifested to my army may be kept in imperishable and honourable memory, I command that the 11th Uhlan Regiment shall always retain the name of its former honorary Colonel, Alexander II. of Russia. I also appoint Alexander III. as honorary commander of the regiment." The Emperor has further directed that the 61st Infantry Regiment shall in future bear the name of Alexander III.

At the opening of Tuesday's sitting of the Upper House of the Austrian Reichsrath, the first since the assassination of the late Emperor of Russia, the President gave expression to the feelings of abhorrence of the Upper House at the crime of the 13th inst. He said the event was the more painful on account of the indication it gave of the existence of a dark but widespread conspiracy threatening to undermine the principles of society, which the Upper House was bound to stand in the front rank to defend. The President, in conclusion, called upon the members present to rise from their seats in order to testify to the sorrow they experienced at this event, as well as to the sympathy they felt with the grief which filled the heart of the Austrian Monarch, who in the Emperor Alexander II. had lost a true friend. The President's remarks were warmly applauded. The House then adopted the bill for the provisional exercise of the Budget in April and May.

In Tuesday's sitting of the Lower House of the Reichsrath the Minister of Finance presented a bill asking for power to issue 50,000,000 fl. of 5 per Cent Paper Rente to cover the deficit for 1881.

DENMARK.

The funeral of the Queen Dowager took place on Tuesday in the Cathedral at Roskilde, her remains being laid beside those of King Christian VIII.

TURKEY.

It is stated that the Ottoman delegates have presented their final proposals to the Ambassadors of the Great Powers, and have declared that the Porte cannot cede Crete or any part of Albania. The line of frontier which they have proposed is understood to go considerably beyond that described by the Turkish Note of Oct. 3, 1880. The territory now offered in Thessaly comprises Larissa, Trikala, Turnovo, and the whole valley of the Salambria, but excludes Prevesa and Metzovo. No part of Epirus is comprised in the proposed line. Turkish troops continue to be dispatched to the Greek frontier.

AMERICA.

President Garfield has decided that there shall not be any extra Session of Congress.

General Grant was on Thursday week elected president of the Mexican Southern Railway, and has accepted the position. He has left for Mexico to further this enterprise, and will return to the United States in May.

The wheat and cotton crops in the United States both promise to be exceptionally large this year.

An elaborate report, signed by Surgeon Glazier, of the Marine Hospital Service, on the history of trichinæ and trichinosis, has been published by the Government.

The New York correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs that the quarrel of the Land League factions in America grows in bitterness. Each declares that it is the only authorised medium for the transmission of contributions to Ireland, and charges the others with dishonesty. The Irish World says that the total amount of money sent to Ireland is about £16,000. The number of Land League branches in America is 1135.

Mr. Kalloch, the Mayor of San Francisco's son, whose shooting of Mr. de Young, the editor of a newspaper, caused so much excitement last year, has been acquitted by the jury, on the ground that the deed was done in self-defence.

CANADA.

A telegram from Ottawa states that his Excellency the Marquis of Lorne will probably visit Manitoba in July.

It is understood that the Dominion Government and the Syndicate of the Canada Pacific Railway have exchanged communications with reference to the construction of the proposed Vancouver's Island Railway as a part of the Pacific line Intelligence from Victoria (Vancouver's Island) states that Mr. Decosmos will leave there for England about the 15th inst in order to present to the Home Government the British Columbian memorial respecting the Vancouver's Island Rail way question. The resolution proposed by the Premier, Mr Albert Richards, for the appointment of a delegate to proceed to England to present a petition to the Queen relative to the construction of the Pacific Railway, was adopted by the British Columbian Legislative Assembly by 20 votes against 4. In the course of the debate Mr. Williams, a member of the Government, said that if a tribe of Indians received from the Dominion Government the same treatment as the Columbians, war would be the result. He therefore called upon the Government to put a musket in every man's hand in order to fight Canada.

The Legislature of the Province of Quebec is summoned to meet for the dispatch of business on April 28.

In the Nova Scotian House of Assembly yesterday week a resolution was brought forward in favour of an address to the Queen and a petition to the Imperial Government praying them to exert their influence with the Dominion Government to secure the payment to Nova Scotia of its share in the Newfoundland Fishery Award. The House decided against the resolution, but adopted by 43 votes to 5 an amendment declaring that the Government of Nova Scotia should continue to press its claims.

The Legislative Council of New Brunswick has postponed for three months the discussion on the bill recently passed by the Legislative Assembly for the abolition of the Council, thus virtually defeating the measure. The Legislature was prorogued yesterday week.

The British Columbian Legislative Assembly was prorogued last Saturday.

INDIA.

An abstract of the Indian Budget, which was published yesterday week in the Gazette of India, has been telegraphed from Calcutta. Including the frontier and the Punjaub railways, there was a deficit for 1879-80 of £1,183,000; but for 1880-1, owing to the war expenditure, there is a deficit of £6,269,000. It is intended to raise an Indian loan of three millions sterling in the ensuing financial year.

Lieutenant-General Hardinge has arrived at Bombay, and taken over the chief command of the forces in the Bombay Presidency.

Yesterday week the formal transfer of Mysore was made to the Government of the Maharajah, when the Governor of Madras installed the young Prince, with great ceremony, as ruler of the State.

Colonel Malcolmson, who commanded a cavalry regiment at the battle of Maiwand, is to be tried by court-martial on the 7th inst.

AUSTRALIA.

A disagreement between the two Houses of the Victoria Legislature is reported in a telegram from Melbourne. The bill for the reform of the Constitution, having been passed by the Legislative Assembly, was yesterday week presented to the Legislative Council, but the latter body refused to receive it, on the grounds that the measure ought to originate with the Council, and not the Assembly, and that a Reform Bill has already been passed by the Council this Session.

A telegram from Sydney reports the final collapse of the attempt of the Marquis de Ray to establish a settlement at New Ireland. The colonists have, it is stated, reached Noumea in a deplorable condition, having been for several days without food and without water.

---

The Pope's eldest brother, Count Giovanni Battista Pecci, died on Wednesday at Carpineto, at the age of seventy-nine.

Locusts in immense numbers have appeared in several districts of Cyprus, and serious damage is threatened.

There was another shock of earthquake, a slight one, at Casamicciola last Sunday morning.

A Reuter's telegram from Constantinople states that news from Zanzibar announces the death of Mr. W. E. Foster, legal Vice-Consul at that place.

Several hundred natives have been massacred at Abomey, on the African coast, in accordance with the annual celebrations which take place there.

The Pope, having discovered that a sacrilegious trade is being carried on in spurious relics, has directed a searching inquiry to be made into the matter.

In consequence of an altercation in the French Chamber, M. Janvier de la Motte, a Bonapartist, on Monday sent seconds to M. Jules Ferry, the Premier. Explanations, however, were given, and the matter was arranged.

Instead of exposing the bodies of the dead in the Paris Morgue in a nude state, as heretofore, it is now decided to exhibit them in their clothing, even to caps and bonnets, the idea being to give, as far as possible, the exact appearance which the deceased presented when living. In the case of corpses without clothing, the inspection will no longer be public.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

Three London Corps—the London Rifle Brigades, the 18th (late 36th) Middlesex, and the London Scottish Rifles—held their annual assaults of arms during the past week. In the two first named a special feature was the excellence of the bayonet exercise, which in these regiments has always been carried to great perfection. At all the assaults the attendance was good, and the programmes were of an entertaining character.

The operations representing an attack on and the defence of the metropolis which were carried out by the 2nd London last January, when the snow lay two and three feet on the ground manœuvred over in the north of London, were repeated last Saturday night with signal success. The idea was that the rearguard of an army retreating through London to the southward was closely pressed by the enemy, and determined to hold the northern hills at Highgate and Hampstead, and that while the outposts were being placed the advanced guard of the enemy, approaching from the direction of Barnet and Watford, attacked the outpost line. Captain Greene and Cantlon commanded respectively the attacking and defending forces.

The eighth annual dinner of the South London Club was held at the Club-House, Nunhead, yesterday week, under the presidency of Lieutenant-Colonel Farrell, 4th Kent. In responding to the toast of "Success to the Club," the gallant chairman congratulated the members on the success they had attained during the past year, and the good promise there was for the present, as there had been an accession of thirty new members. Various matches were in process of arrangement, and everything pointed to a prosperous season. During the evening Colonel Farrell, on behalf of the club, presented Sergeant Take, of the Queen's Westminster, the hon. secretary, with a handsome clock, in recognition of his services during the past year.—At the competitions held at Nunhead last week Private Lowe, Queen's Westminster; Lieutenant Angel, 8th Middlesex; and Corporal Butcher, 6th Surrey, were the winners.

The annual meeting of the Berkshire Volunteers was held last Saturday at the head-quarters, Abbey-gateway, Reading. The regiment numbered 1124 men last year, only three of whom were non-efficient, and 1011 were present at the annual inspection. Colonel Lindsay, in moving the adoption of the report, said the regiment was more efficient than at any time during the twenty-one years of its existence. Out of the 1124 men who formed the regiment 914 have adopted the scarlet uniform. It is not intended that the battalion shall be represented at Brighton, but it will be present at the forthcoming Royal review. The camp was held last year, on the invitation of Mr. Walter, M.P., at Bearwood, and was very successful. This year it is proposed to visit Aldershott for the annual encampment.

Mr. Brassey, M.P., Civil Lord of the Admiralty, on Tuesday distributed prizes to members of the Liverpool Brigade of Royal Naval Artillery Volunteers on board her Majesty's ship Eagle.

The whole of the applications from regiments for permission to attend the Volunteer Review at Brighton on Easter Monday show a total of 21,600 of all arms. The dispositions of the force, under the command of Lieutenant-General Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar, show that the attacking army will be commanded by Major-General G. W. A. Higginson, C.B., of the Home District, and the defending force by Major-General Earle. Two brigades only will be commanded by Volunteer officers (Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Ranelagh, South Middlesex, and Lieutenant-Colonel Viscount Bury, Civil Service), all the others being led, as last year, by officers of the Army.——A Snider rifle prize meeting will be held, by permission of Lieutenant-Colonel Verrall, 1st Sussex, at the ranges in Sheepcote Valley, Brighton, on the Saturday before the review, the matches being confined to rifle and engineer volunteers belonging to the corps officially announced to take part in the operations.

The general meeting of the National Rifle Association will be held at the Royal United Service Institution, Whitehall-yard, on Wednesday afternoon, May 4—the Duke of Cambridge in the chair.

MUSIC.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

Mr. Gye's prospectus, just issued, announces the opening of the new season for Tuesday, April 19. The novelties promised are: Herr Anton Rubinstein's new opera, in an Italian version, as "Il Demonio," and the revival of Rossini's "Otello," with Madame Adelina Patti as Desdemona, and of Mozart's "Il Seraglio," with Madame Sembrich as Costanza. Herr Rubinstein's opera—not his first composition of the kind—has had much success abroad, and its performance here will make him known for the first time in England as a composer for the lyric stage. It is said that he will superintend its production at the Covent-Garden establishment; and during his stay here will give some more of those recitals in which he has hitherto earned renown as a pianist of the highest order. His opera will have the advantage, in its London performance, of including, in the cast Madame Albani and M. Lassalle in the principal characters.

Madame Patti's representation of the Shak-spearean-Rossinian heroine will combine the attractions of her splendid vocalisation in the florid music of the part, and that tragic power which the great prima donna has so successfully manifested during several past seasons. Madame Sembrich's possession of a soprano voice of exceptionally high compass eminently fits her for the execution of music which was specially written for a singer of rare gifts in that respect. Mr. Gye's programme also names a contingent possibility of the performance of Signor Boito's "Mefistofele" (brought out at Her Majesty's Theatre last July).

Besides the artists already named, other well-known vocalists are to reappear, among the familiar names being those of Mdlles. Valleria, Pasqua, Mantilla, Morini, Somino, Ghiotti, Madame Scalchi, Signori Nicolini, Gayarré, Marini, Manfredi, I. Corsi, Fille, Cotogni, De Reszké, Silvestri, Campi, Scolara, Ugetti, Ragner, and M. Gailhard.

First appearances are to be made by Mdlles. De Reszké, Warnots, and Guercia, Madame Fürsch-Madier, Signori Mierzwinski, Peragini, Sante Athos, MM. Verguet, Dauphin, and Gresse, Herren Labatt and Bulss, and Mr. Gridin.

As during past seasons, the office of conductor is to be divided, Signor Bevignani retaining his position in that capacity and Signor Vianesi being replaced by M. Joseph Dupont, favourably known as conductor at the Théâtre de la Monnaie and the Conservatoire, Brussels.

The orchestra and the chorus will be much the same as last season, the band being still headed by Mr. Carrodus as principal and solo violin. The ballet arrangements will again include the three Mdlles. Reuters as principal dancers, with the addition of Mdlle. Vide (her first appearance in England).

The stage management continues under the efficient superintendence of Signor Tagliafico; the scenic department will be, as for many years past, in the skilled hands of Messrs. Dayes and Caney, and other offices will be efficiently filled as before; among them being those of organist (Mr. J. Pittman), leader of the ballet (Mr. Betjemann), ballet-master (M. Hansen), and chorus-master (Signor C. Corsi).

---

Last week's Philharmonic Concert—the third of the present season—included fine orchestral performances of Spontini's overture to "La Vestale" that by Sterndale Bennett illustrative of passages from "Paradise and the Peri," Spohr's great symphony, "Die Weihe der Töne," and Herr Johann Svendsen's overture to "Sigurd Slembe;" the last an effective piece of "programme-music," somewhat in the Wagner school, skilfully instrumented, and containing some highly dramatic passages. Herr Joachim played, with his usual success, Beethoven's violin concerto, and an expressive "Notturno" of the player's own composition. The vocalists were Mdlle. Orgeni and Mr. Boyle, the gentleman having very suddenly replaced Mr. Sims Reeves on account of the indisposition of the latter.

The concert of the Sacred Harmonic Society, yesterday (Friday) week, was of great and varied interest, having opened with Handel's fine Coronation Anthem, "The King shall rejoice," which was followed by the Dead March in "Saul;" after which Cherubini's sublime "Requiem" in C minor was very finely rendered; the programme having closed with Mendelssohn's noble music to "Athalie;" the vocal solos in which were well sung by Misses C. Penna, J. Jones, and Orridge—the incidental text having been judiciously declaimed by Mr. C. Fry. Sir M. Costa conducted, and Mr. Willing presided at the organ, as usual. Handel's "Samson" is to be given by the society next Friday evening.

Last Saturday's Crystal Palace concert completed the weekly performance of Schubert's symphonies in chronological order, the last and grandest—that in C major—having been given with fine effect. Mr. A. C. Mackenzie's characteristic Scottish rhapsody (for orchestra) entitled "Burns" was produced for the first time here, with much success; and Madame Montigny-Rémaury played Mendelssohn's pianoforte concerto in G minor, and an "Introduction and Allegro" by M. Godard, with brilliant execution. Vocal pieces were effectively rendered by Miss M. Davies and Herr von zur Mühlen.

An interesting concert was given at St. James's Hall on Saturday evening by the pupils of the Royal Normal College and Academy for the Blind (Upper Norwood). A well selected orchestra—conducted by Mr. Manns—was an important feature in the programme, which included a performance of Sterndale Bennett's sacred cantata "The Woman of Samaria" (the vocal solos by Misses A. Campbell and M. Reece, and Messrs. Hughes and West); Beethoven's Choral Fantasia, the pianoforte well sustained by Mr. W. F. Schwier; Mendelssohn's Capriccio for pianoforte (with orchestra), cleverly played by Master A. Hollins; and Mozart's duet for two pianos, the three movements distributed between Messrs. Allen and Askham, Misses Gilbert and Carson, and Misses Cully and Inskip. Madrigals were also sung by the students, and vocal solos by Miss H. Carson and Mr. Pryde. During the evening the worthy principal, Mr. F. J. Campbell, gave an exemplification of the method of notation by which the pupils are taught, its efficiency having been proved by their readily singing a piece previously unknown to them. It is to be hoped that the college will receive that aid of which it stands in need to enable it to extend its valuable operations in cultivating not only the musical but also the general education of the blind, many students being thus enabled to earn an honourable and independent livelihood.

At last week's London Ballad Concert, "I Lingered in the Cloisters," a new song by W. H. Jude, was successfully sung by Madame Antoinette Sterling; that lady, Madame Patey, Misses M. Davies and C. Samuell, Mr. Maas, Mr. R. Hollins, Mr. Santley, and Mr. Maybrick having given effect to a more or less familiar programme, which included part-songs, well rendered by the South London Choral Association. An attractive selection was prepared for this week's concert, which was the last of the series, this having been, as usual, for the benefit of the director, Mr. John Boosey.

At this week's Monday Popular Concert Madame Schumann was again the pianist, and Herr Joachim the leading violinist. The lady played, with special effect, Chopin's "Nocturne" in B major and "Scherzo" in B minor; and another piece in reply to an encore. Herr Joachim gave his "Romances" in B flat, and (in association with Mr. Eugene D'Albert), three of Brahms's Hungarian Dances, two of which had to be repeated. The gentlemen just named and Signor Piatti were associated in Mozart's Pianoforte Trio in E major, which concluded the concert, the programme having opened with Beethoven's string quartet in F minor, finely played by MM. Joachim, L. Ries, Zerbini, and Piatti. Madame Lowrovska (the celebrated Russian soprano) appeared for the first time this season, and sung with great effect Gluck's air "Divinités du Styx," and Schubert's declamatory song, "The Erl King," Mr. Zerbini having been, as usual, an efficient accompanist.

For yesterday (Friday) evening, a performance of "Highland songs and Songs of Scotland" was announced to take place at St. James's Hall, with the co-operation of several eminent solo vocalists and the members of the Scottish Choral Society.

Dr. Ferdinand Hiller's oratorio, "The Destruction of Jerusalem," was announced for performance by Miss Holland's choir at the Dilettante Club on Thursday evening, in aid of St. John's Foundation School, Leatherhead.

A concert is to be given at the Mansion House this (Saturday) afternoon by the Guildhall Orchestral Society.

This week's Ballad Concert for the People (on Thursday) was under the superintendence of Madame Sainton-Dolby; and the programme included the names of Miss Damian, Mrs. Tuer, Miss Adela Vernon, Miss Blackwell, Mr. Blower, Mr. Piercey; M. Sainton (solo violin), and Mr. Leipold (pianoforte); with a recitation by Miss Cowen of "The Miner's Story," &c.

The second of this year's concerts of the Bach Society takes place at St. James's Hall, next Wednesday evening, when Bach's "Sanctus" in D, Brahms' "Requiem," and Handel's "Alexander's Feast," are to be given.

The first of three concerts by students (past and present, amateur and professional) of Madame Sainton-Dolby's Vocal Academy is to be given at Steinway Hall next Thursday afternoon. Instrumental pieces, by violin pupils of M. Sainton, are to be introduced during the series, this gentleman being the conductor of the concerts, the second and third of which are to take place on July 14 and Dec. 15.

The long-talked of scheme of producing some of Wagner's operas in London, with their original text, by a German company, seems likely to be realised next year by the agency of Herr Franke, who is said to have secured Drury Lane Theatre for performances to be given in May and June, 1882. "Tristan und Isolde," and "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg" are the operas of Wagner already spoken of; and it is in contemplation also to give Beethoven's "Fidelio." Herr Hans Richter, of Vienna, is to conduct the performances.

The leading vocalists engaged for the approaching musical festival at Norwich are Madame Albani, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Mary Davies, Madame Patey, Madame Mudie Bolingbroke, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Barton M'Guckin, Mr. Santley, and Mr. F. King. The chief soprano part in Sir Julius Benedict's new cantata will be undertaken by Mrs. Osgood, and that in Mr. F. Cowen's new work by Madame Albani.

BENEVOLENT OBJECTS.

The Duke of Cambridge, who presided at the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Society of Friends of Foreigners in Distress held last week, feelingly alluded to the assassination of the Czar of Russia, whose name had formerly been associated with the institution as one of its patrons. His Royal Highness, in proposing the toast of the evening, spoke of the benefits conferred by the society, and the need of supporting it. Subscriptions were announced to the amount of nearly two thousand four hundred pounds. The Secretary announced that the subscriptions included £100 from the Queen, £100 from the Emperor of Austria, £100 from the Emperor of Germany, and £20 from the Duke of Cambridge; the total being £2381.

A dinner in aid of the funds of the Princess Mary Village Homes took place on Thursday at Willis's Rooms, when the chair was taken by the Duke of Connaught, supported by many persons of distinction, who undertook the office of steward.

Lord Francis Hervey opened the Homerton and Hackney Working Men's Club and Institute Coffee Palace and Public Reading-room on Wednesday evening; after which a public meeting was held in the Evangelical Hall, adjoining—Mr. John James Jones (member of London School Board) in the chair.

The Lord Chancellor presided at the annual meeting of the Barristers' Benevolent Association, held in the Middle Temple Hall on Wednesday.

---

Forty candidates, including five ladies, have been nominated for the eighteen seats on the St. Pancras Board of Guardians. The Dowager Marchioness of Lothian is one of the lady candidates nominated.

ASSASSINATION OF THE EMPEROR OF RUSSIA: PLACE WHERE THE EMPEROR WAS KILLED.—SEE PAGE 330.
FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

FUNERAL OF THE EMPEROR OF RUSSIA: REMOVAL OF THE BODY TO THE CHURCH OF ST. PETER AND ST. PAUL.

FROM A SKETCH BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST.

THE COURT.

At the private investiture of the Bath, held by her Majesty on Thursday week at Windsor Castle, the following officers were knighted by the Queen, and were invested with the insignia of the military division of the second class of the order—viz., Major-General John Ross, Major-General James Hills, and Colonel Charles John Stanley Gough. Seventeen Companions of the order also received their decorations in the military and civil divisions of the said order. Major Montague Protheroe, Madras Staff Corps, and Captain Henry Wylie, Bengal Infantry, received from her Majesty the insignia of a Companion of the Star of India; and Mr. Richard Isaac Bruce, First Assistant to the Agent Governor-General in Beloochistan, likewise received the badge of a Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Strathearn and Princess Beatrice were present with her Majesty during the ceremony, and the gentlemen of the household were in attendance, being in Levée dress. Luncheon was served in the dining-room.

The same day Viscount Torrington, on behalf of the Earl of Seafield, delivered up to the Queen the insignia of the Order of the Thistle worn by the late Earl of Seafield; and the Earl of Fife was knighted and invested with the insignia of a Knight of the Order of the Thistle, Prince Leopold being present with her Majesty. Princesses Victoria and Louise of Schleswig-Holstein lunched with the Queen. Sir Theodore Martin, Colonel Sir Charles J. S. Gough, Colonel Francis H. Jenkins, Bengal Staff Corps, and Lieutenant-Colonel E. F. Chapman, Royal Artillery, joined the Royal dinner circle in the evening.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught left the castle at nine o'clock the next morning for Bagshot Park.

Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold were present at a special Lenten service at the chapel, Eton College, on Saturday afternoon, when portions of Bach's Passion Music were performed. The Marquis of Hartington and the Bishop of Peterborough and Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir H. Ponsonby dined with her Majesty. Prince Leopold came to London after dinner in order to be present the next morning at a solemn funeral service for the late Emperor Alexander II. celebrated at the Russian Chapel in Welbeck-street. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Duchess of Teck being likewise present.

A special service was also performed in the private chapel of the castle on Sunday, the funeral of the late Czar having taken place the same morning at St. Petersburg. A portion of the choir of St. George's Chapel was in attendance, and the Bishop of Peterborough officiated. The Queen and Princess Beatrice and Prince Alfred and Princess Marie of Edinburgh were present. The Bishop of Peterborough and the Dean of Windsor and the Hon. Mrs. Wellesley joined her Majesty and Princess Beatrice at dinner. The Queen heard with much sorrow of the death of the infant daughter of Princess Frederica of Hanover and of Baron von Pawel-Rammingen, who died the same evening at Hampton Court Palace. The child had been privately baptised the previous Friday evening by the Rev. Mr. Wodehouse, Chaplain to the Palace, and received the names Victoria Georgina Beatrice Maude Anne. Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice had visited Princess Frederica a few days previously.

While the Queen was at Hampton Court Lady Roberts (mother of Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Roberts) and Lady Cavagnari were presented to her Majesty.

On Monday the Queen and the Princess came to London, being escorted from Paddington to Buckingham Palace by a detachment of the 2nd Life Guards. The Empress of Austria visited her Majesty in the afternoon at the palace, and was received by the Queen, Princess Beatrice, the Duchess of Connaught, and Prince Leopold in the Grand Hall, the ladies and gentlemen in waiting being in attendance. Countesses Victoria and Helena Gleichen (children of Count and Countess Gleichen) visited her Majesty. The Royal dinner party included the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Strathearn, Prince Leopold, the Turkish Ambassador and Mdlle. Musurus, the Italian Ambassador and Madame Menabrea, the Austrian Ambassador, the French Ambassador, the Lord Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and Countess Granville, Viscount Barrington, Lady Southampton, the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Egerton, the Hon. Horatia Stopford, and Viscount Torrington. Princess Beatrice went to the St. James's Theatre.

Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud of Wales visited the Queen on Tuesday. Princess Beatrice paid a visit to Princess Frederica of Hanover at Hampton Court Palace in the morning. Her Majesty held a Drawingroom, and afterwards, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, visited the Duchess of Cambridge at St. James's Palace.

Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice returned to Windsor on Wednesday.

Earl Sydney, the Earl of Northbrook, and Lady Emma Baring have dined with the Queen.

The Hon. Harriet Phipps and the Hon. Evelyn Moore have succeeded the Hon. Frances Drummond and the Hon. Ethel Cadogan as Maids of Honour in Waiting.

The charge of the gold pantry at Windsor Castle, in succession to the late Mr. Goring, is intrusted to Mr. Gower, who has been for many years in charge of the silver pantry.

The Queen, with all the members of the Royal family, has been constant in inquiries as to the state of the Earl of Beaconsfield.

THE QUEEN'S DRAWINGROOM.

Her Majesty held a Drawingroom on Tuesday at Buckingham Palace. Princess Beatrice, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Prince Leopold, and the Duke of Cambridge were present. The usual state etiquette was observed. There was not a large attendance, and strict Court mourning was adhered to.

The Queen wore a dress and train of black silk trimmed with crape and feathers, and a long black tulle veil surmounted by a diadem of jet. Her Majesty also wore jet ornaments, the ribbon and star of the Order of the Garter, the orders of Victoria and Albert, the Crown of India, Louis of Prussia, St. Catherine of Russia, the Spanish and Portuguese orders, and the Saxe-Coburg and Gotha family order.

Princess Beatrice wore a dress and train of black satin trimmed with jet embroidery and lace. Head-dress, black feathers, veil, and coronet of jet. Her Royal Highness also wore a necklace, brooch, and earrings of jet, with the orders of Victoria and Albert, the Crown of India, and the Saxe-Coburg and Gotha family order.

The Duchess of Connaught wore a black satin petticoat trimmed with jet, and a train of brocaded velvet with trimmings to match. Head-dress, a tiara of jet, black plumes, and black veil. Ornaments, jet. Orders, Victoria and Albert, the Imperial Order of India, the order of Louise of Prussia, the Saxe-Coburg and Gotha family order, and the medal commemorative of the Emperor and Empress of Germany's Golden Wedding.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Prince and Princess of Wales upon arriving at St. Petersburg were met at the railway station by the Empress of Russia and all the Grand Dukes. Their Royal Highnesses during their stay in the capital occupied the Anitchkin Palace; their suite being located at the Hôtel de l'Europe. The evening after their arrival the Prince and Princess, with the other foreign Princes, dined with the Grand Duke Vladimir. The late Czar's funeral took place on Sunday, and on Monday the Prince, on behalf of the Queen, invested the Emperor Alexander with the Order of the Garter. The ceremony of investiture took place in the Throne Room of the Anitchkin Palace, in the presence of all the members of the Imperial family, the Princess of Wales, the Crown Prince of Germany (who wore the ribbon of the order), the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, and the Grand Duke of Hesse. The insignia of the order were borne by the officers of the suite of the Prince, headed by Lord Dufferin and the staff of the Embassy. On Tuesday the Prince lunched at the British Embassy, covers being laid for forty guests, including Prince Orloff and Prince Lobanoff. His Royal Highness left St. Petersburg on Thursday on his return home. The Princess remains with the Empress of Russia.

Lord Colville of Culross represented the Princess at the funeral of the late Queen Dowager of Denmark at Copenhagen.

Princes Albert Victor and George of Wales were entertained at a garden party by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Van der Byl, at Fernwood, Cape Town, on March 1. Lady Robinson, the officers of the detached squadron, and a large party of colonists were present. The detached squadron, under the command of Rear-Admiral the Earl of Clanwilliam, including the Bacchante, Captain Lord Charles Scott, with the Princes on board, has left the Cape of Good Hope for Singapore, to which place letters should be addressed until further notice.

Prince and Princess Christian have left Berlin, on their return to Windsor.

The Duke of Connaught presided at the dinner in aid of the funds of the Princess Mary Village Homes for Little Girls, Addlestone, Surrey, held at Willis's Rooms, on Thursday.

The Duke of Cambridge attained his sixty-second year last Saturday. His Royal Highness presided at the annual general meeting of the supporters of the Royal School for Daughters of Officers of the Army, held on Monday at the Royal United Service Institution. The Duke will hold a Levée next Wednesday at the Horse Guards, Whitehall; and will preside at the general meeting of the National Rifle Association to be held, at the Royal United Service Institution, on May 4.

The Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz arrived at St. James's Palace on Sunday night from the Continent.

The Empress of Austria went to Eaton Hall last Saturday and lunched with Earl Grosvenor, the Duke of Westminster being from home. On Sunday her Majesty paid a visit to Sir Watkin Wynn, at Wynnstay, and on Monday the Empress left Combermere Abbey for London. Her Majesty, after visiting the Queen, left town by the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway for Dover, and embarked thence on board the special steamer Maid of Kent, for Calais, en route for Brussels, on a short visit to the King and Queen of the Belgians, before returning to Vienna.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGES.

The marriage of Colonel Harford, Scots Guards, of Downplace, Windsor, with Miss Florence Parsons, youngest daughter of the Hon. Lawrence and Mrs. Parsons, was celebrated last week at All Souls' Church, Bray-wood, by the Hon. and Rev. Randal Parsons, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. T. Turner, the Incumbent. The bride wore a dress of white satin brocade, trimmed with Brussels point, and a Brussels lace veil, fastened by a diamond spray, and stars in her hair, her other jewels being a diamond necklace and bracelets. The bridesmaids—Lady Hermione Duncombe, Miss Kathleen Fitzroy, Misses Violet and Maud Denison, Miss Rachel Duncombe, and Lady Isabel Stewart—were attired in dresses of pale blue satin merveilleux, with plush bodices of the same colour, and bonnets to match. Each lady wore a brooch designed as a small cross, with the initials of the bride and bridegroom in pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. Chandos Pole was best man. The wedding party breakfasted at Winkfield-place, the residence of the Hon. Lawrence and Mrs. Parsons; after which the bride and bridegroom left for Dale Park, near Arundel, for the honeymoon.

A marriage is arranged between the Earl of Desart and Miss Bischoffsheim; also between Mr. Edward Hope, son of the late Mr. Hope, of Lufness, and the Hon. Mrs. George Hope, and Miss Constance Christina Leslie, second daughter of Sir John and Lady Leslie; and between Mr. Louis Ames, late 2nd Life Guards, of Linden, Morpeth, and Miss Meta Hamilton, youngest daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Hamilton.

THE CHURCH.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Davies, A. M., to be Rector of Condicote.
Drake, John Bernard; Rector of Clyst Hydon, Devon.
Eames, J. G.; Rector of Ashchurch.
Greaves, Henry Ley, Incumbent of St. Andrew's, Aberdeen; Chaplain to the Forces at Aberdeen.
Griffiths, Talbot Monckton Milnes, late Curate of Owlerton, Sheffield; Chaplain of Kurseong, Calcutta, East Indies.
Jones, Benjamin; Rector of St. Martin's, Manchester.
Phelps, Philip Edmund; Rector of St. Peter, Thetford, Norfolk.
Robinson, R., Clerical Superintendent of the Liverpool Scripture-Reader Society; Perpetual Curate of Laddenden.
Smith, George, Chaplain to the Forces, Aldershott; Chaplain to the Forces, Cork.
Squire, Graham H., Rector of Sunningwell, Berks; Chaplain to the High Sheriff of the County of Glamorgan.
Warrington, Thomas; Rector of St. Philip's, Bradford-road, Manchester.—Guardian.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has recently, in Lambeth Palace, admitted five ladies as deaconesses (raised at the Deaconess Home, Maidstone) for work in his diocese.

We are requested to state that the Archbishop of Canterbury has left home, and will remain for some weeks upon the Continent. Any urgent letters for his Grace may be sent during his absence to his legal secretary, Mr. J. B. Lee, 2, The Sanctuary, Westminster.

On Wednesday week the Bishop of Manchester consecrated the new Church of St. Clement, Higher Openshaw, near that city. It is in the Geometrical style, from plans of Messrs. Enticknap and Hoodless. It has cost £5350, and it will seat 648 persons. His Lordship mentioned a munificent gift of £1000 from Mr. and Mrs. Bowers.

At a meeting, yesterday week, of the Council of the East London Church Fund, which has been established by the Bishop of Bedford for the relief of the spiritual wants of the East-End, grants were made of £50 each to seven poor parishes in aid of curates' stipends; of £150 each to the parishes of Stepney and Whitechapel for the provision of additional curates; and £50 each to three students, candidates for holy orders, who have undertaken to work in East-End parishes. Also steps were taken to enlarge the Deaconesses' Home at Hackney, the accommodation of which is at present insufficient for the number of ladies engaged in parochial work.

The memorial to the late Bishop of Salisbury in Salisbury Cathedral, which stands on the south side of the choir, near the altar, corresponding with that of Bishop Poore, the founder, on the north side, is executed in white statuary marble, and represents the prelate as lying extended, clothed with cope and stole, and holding at his left side his pastoral staff, in the curve of which are placed the arms of the See, and the Virgin holding the Child in her arms. Bishop Hamilton wears the mitre. His hands are folded over his chest. Over the figure is a fine English canopy. The Bishop, the Dean and Chapter, Earl Nelson, and Mr. E. W. Hamilton were present when the unveiling took place last week.

The Bishop of Durham, in an appeal for the new diocese of Newcastle-on-Tyne, says that since the Diocesan Conference he has devoted all his spare time to furthering the work, and he must now hand over the work of collecting the remainder of the money to the clergy and laity—more especially the latter—of his diocese. "The people of Liverpool and the neighbourhood raised about £100,000 in a comparatively short time for a similar purpose. This result was achieved mainly by the direct personal canvass of a few zealous laymen whose heart was in the work. I have a confident hope that their zeal will provoke an honourable rivalry in this diocese, and more especially in Newcastle."

THE UNIVERSITIES.

OXFORD.

In a Convocation held last Saturday the degree of M.A. honoris causa was conferred upon Mr. Alex. Macmillan, of London, Cambridge, and Oxford, late publisher to the latter University.

Mr. D. S. Margoliouth, B.A., Scholar of New College has been elected to a Fellowship at that Society without examination. Mr. Margoliouth has highly distinguished himself during his Oxford career.

The examiners for Dean Ireland's Scholarship have awarded that for the present year to Mr. C. A. James, scholar and Brosser Exhibitioner of Balliol College; and have highly commended Mr. W. M. Lindsay, exhibitioner of Balliol College, and Mr. F. W. Pember, scholar of the same society.

The examiners for the Denyer and Johnson Scholarships have notified to the Vice-Chancellor that they have elected Mr. F. J. Powell, B.A., unattached student, and Mr. H. B. Southwell, B.A., Pembroke College. They have also highly commended the work of Mr. R. F. Horton, B.A., of New College, and have recommended him for a prize.

CAMBRIDGE.

Mr. R. D. Roberts, of Clare College, has been appointed an assistant secretary, to take the special superintendence of the local lecture scheme.

Mr. R. C. Seaton (twelfth classic, 1876), Mr. H. H. Turner, (eighth classic, 1880), and Mr. J. C. Watt (ninth wrangler 1880), have been elected fellows of Jesus College.

THE CLASSICAL TRIPOS.

| FIRST CLASS. | | SECOND CLASS. | | THIRD CLASS. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Westcott, Trinity | Temperley, Christ's | Gurney, Emmanuel | Ford, King's | Calvert, John's | Wilson, C. P., Trin. |
| Goodhart, Trinity | Hore, H., Emmanuel | Hall, King's | Wall, King's | Hildott, Trinity | Le Fanu, Trinity |
| Roberts, King's | Hill, John's | Bland, Catherine | Trevelyan, Trinity | Wilson, C. P., Trin. | Metcalfe, Sidney |
| Robinson, J. A., Christ's | Linton, Trinity | New, Peterhouse | Palmer, Sidney | Le Fanu, Trinity | Mason, Magdalene |
| Harmer, King's | Stokes, King's | Woodcott, Catherine | Grant, Trinity | Metcalfe, Sidney | Johnson, Caius |
| Henn, Trinity Hall | Walker, Pembroke | Brown, Corpus | Greenland, Corpus | Mason, Magdalene | Norris, Christ's |
| Benton, Jesus | Vaughan, Magdalen | Gurney, Emmanuel | Macolmson, Corpus | Johnson, Caius | Fisher, F. W., Trinity |
| Garland, John's | Wright, Pembroke | Hall, King's | Prior, Queen's | Norris, Christ's | Jones, L. R., Jesus |
| Pegden, J. D., King's | Lawson, King's | Bland, Catherine | Stewart, Catherine | Fisher, F. W., Trinity | Williams, Sidney |
| Lawence, Pembroke | Edwards, Sidney | New, Peterhouse | Surridge, Trinity | Jones, L. R., Jesus | Young, John's |
| Smith, G.C.M., John's | Walker, Jesus | Woodcott, Catherine | Robertson, Caius | Williams, Sidney | Smith, H., John's |
| Cust, Trinity | Hervey, Trinity | Brown, Corpus | Vidal, Catherine | Young, John's | Norman, Clare |
| Schalhof, Trinity | Raffles, King's | Gurney, Emmanuel | | Smith, H., John's | Baig, Pembroke |
| | Townson, Trinity | Hall, King's | | Norman, Clare | Wood, Trinity |
| | Elliott, Catherine's | Bland, Catherine | | Baig, Pembroke | Innes, John's |
| | Ford, King's | New, Peterhouse | | Wood, Trinity | Phillips, non-coll. |
| | Wall, King's | Woodcott, Catherine | | Innes, John's | Sutton, Trinity |
| | Trevelyan, Trinity | Brown, Corpus | | Phillips, non-coll. | Duff, Trinity |
| | | Gurney, Emmanuel | | Sutton, Trinity | Street, Jesus |
| | | Hall, King's | | Duff, Trinity | Isaac, Trinity |
| | | Bland, Catherine | | Street, Jesus | Leahy, Pembroke |
| | | New, Peterhouse | | Isaac, Trinity | Treisan, W. S., Sid. |
| | | Woodcott, Catherine | | Leahy, Pembroke | Sidney |
| | | Brown, Corpus | | Treisan, W. S., Sid. | Stibbard, Trinity |
| | | Greenland, Corpus | | Sidney | Wells, Trinity |
| | | Macolmson, Corpus | | Stibbard, Trinity | Sheen, Trinity |
| | | Prior, Queen's | | Wells, Trinity | Harris, Caius |
| | | Stewart, Catherine | | Sheen, Trinity | |
| | | Surridge, Trinity | | Harris, Caius | |
| | | Robertson, Caius | | | |
| | | Vidal, Catherine | | | |

AEGROTANT.—Coulton, Catherine; Marshall, Clare.

It has been resolved by the Senatus Academicus of Edinburgh to offer honorary degrees to the following gentlemen:—The degree of Doctor of Divinity to the Rev. Frederick L. Robertson, minister of St. Andrew's parish, Glasgow; the Rev. W. Fleming Stevenson, B.A., Rathgar, Dublin, minister Irish Presbyterian Church; and the Rev. Alexander Whyte, minister Free St. George's Church, Edinburgh. The degree of Doctor of Laws to Arthur Balfour, M.P.; James Burgess, M.R.A.S., F.R.G.S.; William Guthrie, advocate, one of the sheriff substitutes of Lanarkshire; Samuel N. Gardiner, Professor of History, King's College, London; Sir Daniel Macnee, president of the Royal Scottish Academy; Bonamy Price, Professor of of Political Economy, Oxford; and A. W. Williamson, Professor of Chemistry, University College, London.

At a meeting of about 200 students and members of the Council of Edinburgh University yesterday week a committee was appointed to take steps for raising a memorial to the late Thomas Carlyle, who was for some time rector of the University. It was agreed that the memorial should take the form of a lectureship, the subject to be afterwards considered.

The Corporation of London having failed to induce the President of the Local Government Board to allow an authorised day Census to be taken in the City in connection with the general Census, have determined to take a day Census of their own, at an expense not exceeding £1200. The Imperial Census affords, from the Corporation point of view, no indication whatever of the actual population of the City, for, being gathered while the population is sleeping, it necessarily omits from enumeration the very class of persons whose trade, wealth, and enterprise make the City the most crowded commercial centre in the world. It is not to the figures or mode of procedure of the Registrar-General that the Corporation object, but to the unfair use of those figures by persons unacquainted with their significance.

In London 2640 births and 1516 deaths were registered last week. Allowing for increase of population, the births were 14 and the deaths 256 below the average numbers in the corresponding week of the last ten years. The deaths included 49 from smallpox, 48 from measles, 28 from scarlet fever, 7 from diphtheria, 33 from whooping-cough, 2 from typhus fever, 11 from enteric fever, 2 from ill-defined forms of continued fever, 9 from diarrhœa, 2 from dysentery, and 1 from simple cholera. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which had been 419, 384, and 345 in the three preceding weeks, were 348 last week, and 122 below the corrected average weekly number; 210 were attributed to bronchitis, and 85 to pneumonia. Different forms of violence caused 52 deaths.

NEW BOOKS.

The islands of the East Asiatic Archipelago, basking in "the heat and glory of eternal summer," are really, as Mr. F. W. Burbidge says, "enormous conservatories of beautiful vegetation." He may well call them, in the pleasant title of his interesting volume (published by Mr. Murray), The Gardens of the Sun. It is Borneo, the largest of those islands, one crossed by the Equator, and diversified with mountains and forests, and the Sulu Islands, which lie between Borneo and the Philippines, that are described in this agreeable book of travel. The author is a professional naturalist, in the service of Trinity College Botanical Gardens at Dublin, and formerly of the Royal Gardens at Kew. He went out so far, as other collecting botanists, and zoologists likewise, have often done, in order to procure specimens that would be of scientific value; and he was joined there by Mr. P. Veitch, on the same errand. The result of his active search may partly be seen in the collection of Messrs. Veitch, at Chelsea; one of its most important items was bringing here, alive, the Giant Pitcher Plant of Kina Balu. This plant, which was discovered in 1851 by Mr. Hugh Low, British Resident at Perak, has been described in the "Transactions" of the Linnæan Society. Several other curious species of Nepenthes, some new palms, and about fifty new ferns of Borneo, and many from Sulu, which Mr. Burbidge has introduced to England, are enumerated in the Appendix to this volume. He also shot and preserved some rare or quite novel species of birds, which are reported upon by Mr. R. Bowdler Sharpe, of the British Museum. The general reader, however, will be more interested in Mr. Burbidge's account of the scenery of those tropical regions, the habits and manners of their native people, the Malays, and the Dyaks, Kadyans, Muruts, Dusuns, and Badjows, who live in Borneo, and those of Sulu, which has recently been annexed to the Spanish dominion of Manilla. The British settlement of Labuan, a small island off the coast of Borneo, was the head-quarters of his excursions, and he was much assisted by Mr. W. H. Treacher, the Acting Governor, and by Dr. Lys, Colonial Surgeon. The Malay town of Brunei, the capital of the Sultan of Borneo, containing 20,000 inhabitants, is mostly built on piles in a broad river; some of the houses are connected by bridges or rafts formed of floating palm-tree trunks lashed together; but many have no communication with each other but by boats. The principal traders are Chinese; the town has some manufactures, especially of metal, cutlery, brass guns, and other weapons. The Malays, according to Mr. Burbidge, have a bad character for immorality; but he speaks very favourably of the indigenous tribes of Borneo, who seem to be a gentle, kindly, and obliging sort of people. The young men and girls are often exceedingly handsome. He met with ready hospitality and willing service amongst them, in his long rambles up the country, relying more upon what he calls "the strength of right and gentleness," than upon threats and the display of force. Indeed, we are greatly pleased with his anecdotes of these simple people, the Dusun tribe more especially, and the tone of kindly sympathy in which he refers to their domestic and social affairs. The agricultural products, the fisheries, the minerals, the commercial and other statistics of Borneo, as well as of Labuan, are set forth with much precision. The plants, fruits, wild animals, birds, and insects, are particularly noticed. Besides all these matters of useful information, the volume presents a great deal of entertaining personal narrative. Mr. Burbidge twice visited Kina Balu, the noble mountain, above 13,500 ft. high, not far from Labuan, and ascended it to an elevation of 9000 ft.; on the second occasion, he took the route by the Tampassuk river, so that he saw it on both sides; and it seems to be a grand example of mountain beauty. The travelling was usually done on foot, but sometimes riding on the back of a bullock, which was good for fording the rivers. These, when swollen by the heavy rains, became very dangerous; but Mr. Burbidge escaped without any worse mishap than extreme fatigues, and some passing illnesses from exposure to wet, or from the sultry weather. The climate of Borneo seems to be, for a tropical latitude, tolerably healthy; far more salubrious than that of New Guinea. It is only some of the northern parts of the island that are here described; but this book is a welcome addition to our means of gaining acquaintance with a very interesting part of the world.

The students of Biblical topography and the antiquities of Jerusalem may be advised to peruse a volume entitled The Temple or The Tomb (Richard Bentley and Son), by Colonel C. Warren, R.E. But this book is of such a purely controversial character that it is difficult to deal with by way of criticism. Colonel Warren, who is so well known for his explorations in Jerusalem, was lately at the Cape, and took a most active part in the events there, and was for a short time appointed Administrator of West Griqualand. While he was there Mr. Fergusson published a large work on "The Temples of the Jews." Colonel Warren, on his return, found that he was severely criticised in that work, and he felt it necessary to make a reply. "The Temple or The Tomb" is the result. Mr. Fergusson's theory is that the Kubbet-es-Sukhra, or Dome of the Rock, is the building erected by Constantine over the Holy Sepulchre. This is rejected by Colonel Warren, who places the site of the Temple close to it, instead of in the south-west corner of the Haram Area, where Mr. Fergusson places it. The present Holy Sepulchre Mr. Fergusson rejects, and affirms that it was transferred from the Dome of the Rock about the eleventh century. Colonel Warren accepts the present traditional site; and this will explain the title adopted for his book. The question involves nearly the whole of the topography of Ancient Jerusalem, as well as numerous points connected with architecture, art, archæology, and history. Students who have given much attention to the subject are very widely divided, and the differences between Mr. Fergusson and Colonel Warren are not the only questions at stake. Both these gentlemen stand high as authorities in this matter, and deservedly so. Mr. Fergusson has done more to instruct the world in relation to Eastern and Indian architecture than any man who has yet appeared. Colonel Warren has explored underground Jerusalem, and revealed to us what has been so long hidden, and given us more knowledge by these means of the Holy City in the past than any other explorer. Instead of attempting to criticise in our limited space it will be better to say—go and read the works of both these eminent authorities; their differences in theories will not prevent the reader from benefiting by their knowledge and experience.

Cradle Lands of Arts and Creeds; or, Nothing New Under the Sun. By Charles J. Stone (Sampson Low and Co.). This is a curiously interesting work, full of Indian and other lore more or less digested; some, apparently, in general conception, and generally logical in form; but full of theories, sound or purely fanciful, ingenious or of child-like simplicity. Mr. Stone was formerly an advocate in the High Courts, Bombay; and his book is full of references to Hindu and Brahminical literature, and the History of the Aryan races. His aim is to note and reconcile the many coincidences and affinities between the Hindu and other ancient mythologies and orthodox Christianity. He seems to believe in the identity of the name of the Indian god Krishna with that of Christ, the word in both cases meaning, he contends, good or beneficent. He regards Adam as a literal personage, and Eden as probably situated among the South Indian islands. He argues for the immortality of the soul from the phenomena real or imaginary of mesmerism, and of dreams; and from many intangible analogies much as an ancient metempsychosist might have done.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

After the splendid weather of the previous week, a sudden return to winter was specially trying, and the misery of the Carholme was quite outdone by the wretchedness of Aintree. Sleet and snow fell at very brief intervals during the whole of the Thursday and Friday, and there was a fierce and biting wind that almost threatened to blow one from the top of the stand. We remarked last week that the Lincoln authorities might well have dispensed with the first day, and certainly their brethren at Liverpool would have earned the thanks of all race-goers if they had given up the Saturday, when the sport was of a class that afforded little compensation for the inconvenience of getting home so late. Eos made a sad example of Angelina in the Union Jack Stakes on the Thursday, and, shortly afterwards, Beauchamp II. (12 st. 2 lb.) carried home his 14 lb. penalty in gallant style for the Liverpool Hurdle Handicap. This success, following so closely on his victory at Four Oaks Park, proves him to be one of the best horses of the day "over sticks," and he will have plenty of supporters on the first occasion that he meets Charles I. on even terms. Odds were freely laid on Belle Lurette for the Molyneux Stakes, in spite of the penalty she had incurred by her Lincoln success. She ran well, but seemed to tire a little at the finish, and succumbed to Bullbul, who is also a representative of Pero Gomez. Another son of the same sire, who has begun the season in very brilliant fashion, carried Lord Stamford's colours successfully on the following day, when the programme contained little of interest except the Grand National. As the time approached for the decision of the great event, The Liberator (12 st. 7 lb.) could not keep his position of first favourite, as it became generally known that he was not so fit as on previous occasions, and the terribly heavy state of the ground was all against the heavy weights. Woodbrook (11 st. 3 lb.) and Thornfield (10 st. 9 lb.) were both backed for large sums, and started in equal demand at 11 to 2. The race was run in such a driving storm of sleet that it was impossible to see anything of the field when they were in the country. We learnt, however, that The Liberator fell at the fence beyond Valentine's brook, and lost a considerable distance, though Mr. Moore was up and in pursuit again in a wonderfully short space of time. As they passed the stand for the first time, Woodbrook was showing the way, jumping in the most finished style, and going well within himself, while old Regal (11 st. 12 lb.) brought up the rear, and did not seem at all likely to complete the distance. The leader was never caught again by anything, and won in very easy fashion by four lengths, and it was a great surprise to see Regal work his way through all the rest of the field, and make a very gallant bid for victory. Mr. Thomas Beasley has thus ridden the winner of the Grand National two years in succession, a feat that has also been performed by Tom Olliver, George Stevens (twice), and Mr. Richardson. Thornfield was a poor third, and Abbot of St. Mary's (10 st. 7 lb.), who appeared all abroad in crossing the plough, cut a still more moderate figure. Saturday's racing may be briefly dismissed with the remark that Philammon (8 st. 2 lb.) proved himself a really smart horse by the style in which he beat the highly-tried Invader (6 st. 7 lb.) in the Liverpool Spring Cup, the pair running right away from their field; and that Mr. Henry Beasley escaped very easily with a caution from the stewards for his more than suspicious riding of Fair Wind in the Walton Hurdle Handicap.

The first attempt at a coursing meeting in High Gosforth Park has proved a marked success, the sport being as good as it is possible to obtain in an inclosed ground. Some of the best-known owners of greyhounds patronised the venture, including the Earl of Haddington, who would probably have taken the Gold Cup had not Honeywood gone amiss almost at the last moment. Mr. Morrison, too, was singularly unfortunate, as, after Free Flag had won five courses in the most brilliant fashion, he wrenched himself in making a kill, and could not raise a gallop in the final spin, which was, therefore, a virtual walk over for Marshal Macmahon, by Master Sam—Death. To add to Mr. Morrison's ill-luck, his Merchantman broke one of his toes in the deciding course for the Killingworth Stakes, which left Wrestler, by Cræsus—Wee Pet, to win easily.

At the annual meeting of the Royal Thames Yacht Club held on Tuesday evening at the Club-House, Albemarle-street, the Prince of Wales was re-elected commodore by acclamation, as were Lord Alfred Paget, Mr. Brassey, M.P., and Colonel Wilkinson in the position of vice and rear commodores and cupbearer. The accounts show that the club is in a most flourishing condition, so that £850 has been offered for the races of the ensuing season.

The international regatta was held at Genoa on Tuesday. The result of the yacht-race from Nice to Genoa resulted as follows:—Cetonia, 1; Gertrude, 2; Janira, 3. The above yachts are the property of English gentlemen.

Both University crews have now done a fair amount of work over the actual course, and the opinion of the metropolitan watchers is somewhat divided. At any rate, there appears no chance of extravagant odds being laid upon Oxford. The "Dark Blues" did not create a favourable impression on the occasion of their first appearance upon tidal waters, but have improved rapidly since Monday, and we fancy that they will win. The names and weights of the crews are as follow:—

| OXFORD. | st. | lb. |
|---|---|---|
| R. H. J. Poole, Brasenose (bow) | 10 | 9 |
| 2. R. A. Pinckney, Exeter | 11 | 1 |
| 3. A. J. Paterson, Trinity | 12 | 1 |
| 4. E. Buck, Hertford | 11 | 8 |
| 5. R. S. Kindersley, Exeter | 13 | 0 |
| 6. D. E. Brown, Hertford | 12 | 4½ |
| 7. J. H. T. Wharton, Magdalen | 11 | 8 |
| R. L. West, New Inn Hall (stroke) | 11 | 0 |
| E. Lyon, Hertford (cox.) | 7 | 4 |

| CAMBRIDGE. | st. | lb. |
|---|---|---|
| R. C. Oridley, Third Trinity (bow) | 10 | 12 |
| 2. H. Sandford, L.M.B.C. | 11 | 11½ |
| 3. J. A. Watson-Taylor, Magdalen | 12 | 4½ |
| 4. F. W. Atkins, Jesus | 12 | 0½ |
| 5. E. Lambert, Pembroke | 12 | 7 |
| 6. M. Hutchinson, Jesus | 12 | 0½ |
| 7. C. W. Moore, Christ's | 11 | 0½ |
| E. C. Brookshank, Trinity Hall (stroke) | 11 | 9½ |
| H. Woodhouse, Trinity Hall (cox.) | 7 | 4 |

The race will take place on Friday next, and the present intention is to make a start at about eight o'clock.

The match for the billiard championship, which ought to have been played on Tuesday last, has again been postponed.

HOME NEWS.

The Duchess of Bedford has become a life member of the Bedford centre of the St. John Ambulance Association.

Mr. G. Hilditch was on Tuesday duly elected a Common Councilman for the Ward of Farringdon Within.

The Spring Term of the Quebec Institute for evening classes in connection with the Science and Art Department at 18, Baker-street, Portman-square, will begin next Monday.

Mr. J. B. Minchin read a paper upon Eastern Bolivia, a region in which he had resided for some years, at the Monday's meeting of the Royal Geographical Society. This region occupies an area of some 350,000 square miles in the heart of the South American continent.

The suit "Evelyn v. Evelyn," involving the title to the Evelyn estates, was dismissed in the Chancery Division on Monday, without costs, the plaintiff, Lady Evelyn, withdrawing all imputations and charges contained in her statement of claim.

A Parliamentary paper gives the number of emigrants who left Irish ports in 1880 as 95,857, an increase of 48,493 as compared with 1879. The total number who left the Irish ports from May, 1851, to Dec. 31, 1880, is 2,637,187. Last year the United States absorbed 78 per cent of the emigrants.

The arrivals of live stock and fresh meat at Liverpool last week, from the United States and Canada, show a large decrease when contrasted with the preceding week; the total being 902 cattle, 504 sheep, 6193 quarters of beef, 1202 carcases of mutton, and 952 hogs.

The House of Lords has thrown out the bill promoted by the South-Eastern Railway Company and the directors of the Crystal Palace Company for a new line to the palace. This course was taken on the ground that the bill had not complied with the standing orders.

The official notification of a reward of £400—of which £300 will be paid by the Government and £100 by the Corporation—for the apprehension of the perpetrators of the recent outrage at the Mansion House, states that three men, Thomas Mooney, O'Donnell, and John, alias Pat, Coleman, are suspected of having been concerned in it.

It appears from reports issued on Saturday by the West of England Bank liquidators that up to date all the debts owed by the bank when it failed for over three millions in 1878 have been settled, save £54,000; and to cover this and the remaining liquidation charges there are assets valued at £76,000, independent of Booker's and the Aberdare Works.

The London School Board has authorised the Educational Endowments Committee to draw up a petition to the House of Commons in reference to the Charities under the City Guilds; and a deputation has been appointed to present a letter to the Charity Commissioners respecting the draught scheme as to the future administration of the Endowments of Dulwich College.

The circuits chosen by the Judges for the ensuing spring assizes are as follows:—Midland Circuit, Mr. Justice Lopes; Western Circuit, Mr. Justice Manisty; South-Eastern Circuit, Mr. Justice Hawkins; North-Eastern Circuit, Mr. Justice Stephen; Northern Circuit, Mr. Justice Watkin Williams and Mr. Justice Mathew; and North and South Wales Circuits, Mr. Justice Cave.

At a meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Works a deputation from Westminster, headed by Dean Stanley, called attention to the unsightly condition of St. Margaret's churchyard, and suggested that, as it was the main approach to Westminster Abbey, it should be improved and planted with shrubs and flowers. The subject was referred to the Works Committee.

On Monday the hearing of the case in which Mr. Labouchere, M.P., was charged with having published a libel upon Mr. Edward Levy Lawson was concluded. Lord Coleridge summed up in an address which lasted nearly four hours. The jury retired to deliberate at about a quarter to six o'clock; and at a few minutes past seven the learned Judge received an intimation from them that they were equally divided, and that there was no chance of their agreeing. They were accordingly discharged.

The first public distribution of prizes at the Dulwich High School for Girls took place yesterday week. Mr. W. H. Stone, chairman of the council of the Girls' Public Day School Company, presided, and the Dowager Lady Stanley of Alderley distributed the prizes. The Dean of Westminster gave an address, in which he spoke of the importance of a liberal education for girls, and of the manner in which cultivated women might use their influence to widen the sphere of social interests.

The annual meeting of the executive council of the North Wales English Congregational Union now meeting at Newtown, Monmouthshire, was held last week at the English Congregational Church, Newtown—Mr. T. Minshall, Mayor of Oswestry, senior treasurer of the Union, presiding. There were present about thirty members, every county in North Wales, with the exception of Anglesea, being represented. About one hundred delegates to the Conference reported themselves to be in attendance. The assembly opened under the presidency of Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P.

The reopening of Exeter Hall, which now belongs to the Young Men's Christian Association, was celebrated on Tuesday by a prayer meeting in the afternoon and a public meeting in the evening. The public meeting was held in the Great Hall, which was crowded. The Earl of Shaftesbury presided, and the speakers included the Archbishop of Canterbury, Earl Cairns, the Lord Mayor, Mr. S. Morley, M.P., and the Rev. Canon Fleming. Resolutions were passed recording with thankfulness the fact that the Young Men's Christian Association had become the possessors of Exeter Hall, and thanking the gentlemen through whose munificence the building had been preserved for the purpose originally contemplated by the founders. Of the £23,000 required to pay for the alterations, all except £5000 was subscribed prior to the meeting, and a collection towards the deficiency was made.

A young lady, of Forest-gate, met in Belgium, in 1877, a dramatic author, named Léon de Garden, and their acquaintance resulted in an engagement to marry. The correspondence that followed her return to England was full of protestations of affection, and declarations of a poverty which could only be relieved by her making him remittances. He had sold his last shirt, and that a dirty one. He had then sold all his shirts, and had been living on bread and water for a fortnight, except on those days when he had had nothing at all. He again asked for money, saying he was afraid it would soon end, and he would only have his skin to sell, which he would do, like poor Chatterton, but unfortunately there were no physicians in the present day who would buy it. In other letters he promised the plaintiff he would be able to raise her to a high position when he became a viscount and entered on his family estates. Altogether, she sent him thirty-five pounds, and in 1879 she learned that he had married another lady. A jury, before Mr. Justice Stephen, on Tuesday awarded her three hundred pounds as damages, besides the return of the money borrowed.

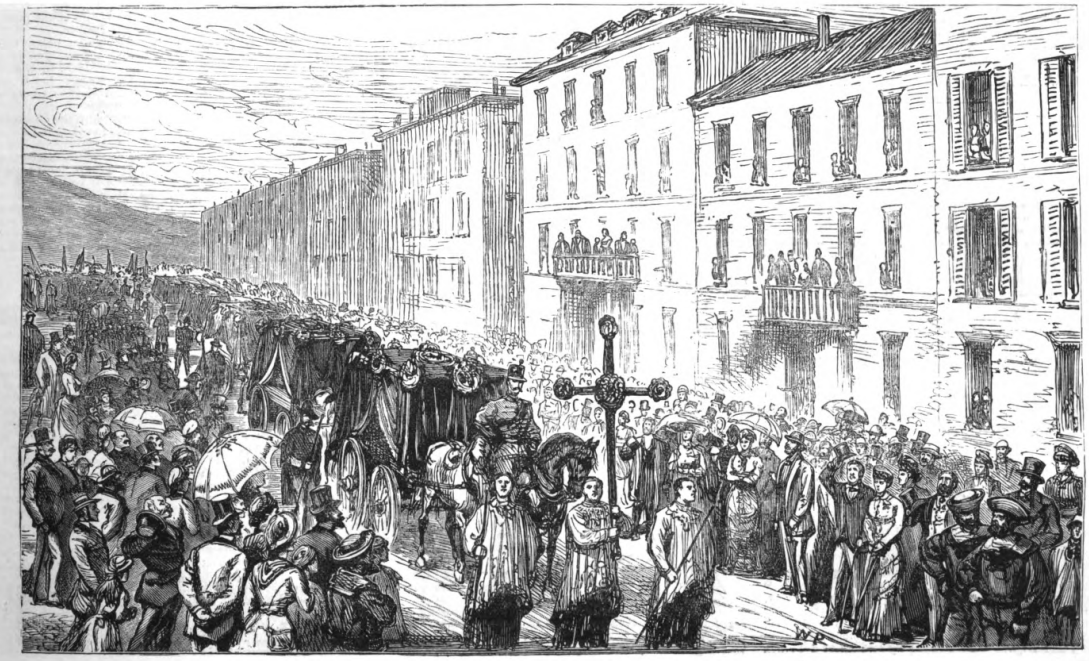
BURNING OF THE MUNICIPAL THEATRE AT NICE.

SEE PAGE 326.

THE THEATRE BEFORE THE FIRE.

THE FIRE VIEWED FROM THE RUE ST. FRANCIS DE PAUL.

MR. J. H. BRAND, PRESIDENT OF THE ORANGE FREE STATE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.



THE DISASTER AT NICE: FUNERAL PASSING THROUGH THE RUE CASSINI.

PRESIDENT BRAND.

It has been the rare good fortune of this worthy public man, having a twofold personal connection with the British and Dutch communities in South Africa, to render the greatest service equally to both of these, to the Government of Queen Victoria as well as to the Boers of the Transvaal, and not less to those of the Orange Free State. To the opportune mediation of Mr. Brand, conducted with admirable tact and discretion, and with sincere goodwill to all parties concerned, we may ascribe the success of the recent negotiations between Sir Evelyn Wood and Messrs. Krüger and Joubert, for a peaceable settlement of the unhappy conflict, impending these four years past, which broke out last December in open warfare. Mr. Brand is probably the one man in South Africa who deserves to be reputed a statesman; and his conduct, upon this and former occasions, has been inspired by no petty sectional interests, no animosities or jealousies of race and place, but what Shakspeare calls "a general honest thought, and common good of all." He has ever looked to the substantial and permanent welfare of the whole European population in those wide territories, one part of which has been intrusted, since 1863, by the free suffrages of its Republican citizens, to his official administration. And he has shown as much candour as sagacity in admitting the identity of interest, broadly viewed, that underlies the true policy of each and all of the South African colonies, provinces, and separate commonwealths, whether Dutch or English in character. It is earnestly to be hoped that this wise conviction may henceforth prevail; and that Mr. Brand will see the fruits of his conciliatory and judicious counsels in the secured tranquillity and prosperity of the whole vast region where he holds an important post of the highest rank and dignity.

